

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2008 with funding from Microsoft Corporation

T 316 H5.2

P. TERENTI AFRI COMOEDIAE

THE COMEDIES OF TERENCE

EDITED WITH INTRODUCTION AND NOTES

BY

SIDNEY G. ASHMORE, L.H.D.

Professor of Latin in Union College Schenectady, N. Y.

SECOND EDITION

456891
27.1.47

NEW YORK
OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

Copyright, 1908, by OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS
American Branch

PH

6755

112

1903a

PRINTED IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

TO THE MEMORY OF MORTIMER LAMSON EARLE

NOTE TO THE SECOND EDITION

I HAVE taken advantage of this second edition to correct some misprints, and to make a few slight changes. In all its essential features, however, the book remains the same as in the first edition.

S. G. A.

UNION COLLEGE,
June, 1908.

PREFACE

IN this edition of the six extant comedies of Terence I have adopted, substantially without change, the text of Professor Robert Yelverton Tyrrell, published by the Clarendon Press in the Scriptorum Classicorum Bibliotheca Oxoniensis. With Professor Tyrrell's permission I have corrected a few very obvious slips and misprints, and here and there have altered the punctuation where a change in this respect seemed important. Only occasionally have I accepted a reading different from that of Professor Tyrrell. I have followed Fleckeisen and most of the good manuscripts in reading the more usual quot and aliquot wherever Tyrrell (and Dziatzko), in deference to the Bembinus Codex, accept in their place the forms quod and aliquod.

To those scholars who imagine that no good (critical) text of an ancient classic can come out of England, the fact that I have preferred Professor Tyrrell's edition to that of Karl Dziatzko will not commend itself. My preference is due in part to the desire of the publishers to have their own text annotated, but is owing chiefly to the conviction that Dziatzko's text is, on the whole, inferior to the later one of Professor Tyrrell, who had not only his own well-known critical acumen to guide him, but also that of his predecessors, among whom was Dziatzko himself.

A critical apparatus, of very brief and unpretentious character, is given in Professor Tyrrell's Latin notes, which appear at the foot of each page of the text. These footnotes have enabled me considerably to abbreviate my own critical appendices, which are to be taken as supplementary to the Latin footnotes.

In the preparation of the Notes I have tried to make Terence, so far as possible, his own commentator. Consequently I have indulged in cross-references to an extent that may seem excessive. Yet this method has been justified, I think, by the fact that in no other way could so many plays be annotated in a single volume, without much burdensome repetition.

The references to Latin grammars are intended merely to confirm or emphasize the explanations offered in the Notes, and have been given, in each instance, to the grammar or grammars which seemed to throw the clearest light on the difficulty in question. American Latin grammars are now so numerous that parallel references to all of them would have greatly encumbered the book. Moreover the college student should be encouraged to use his grammar, and to find what he needs there, without the aid of references.

Although experience points directly to the fact that American students are seldom called upon to read either the Eunuchus or the Hecyra, yet I have not, on that account, greatly shortened the commentaries on these plays. It has been my wish to do such justice to each comedy as the space at my command would allow, and to be guided rather by the nature of the difficulties in the text than by any prevailing prejudice either for or against the subject-matter of the play itself.

Though it would not be pertinent here to discuss at length the merits of the plays, yet it may be said that if judged from the standpoint of the Greeks and Romans, whose life and habits they portray, the comedies of Terence will be found to lean always to the side of true morality. As to the reputed difference in moral tone between the Eunuchus and the Hecyra on the one hand, and the rest of the Terentian comedies on the other, I cannot but think that the marked distinction usually made to the discredit of the former is hardly based on sound judgment, and that, if followed to its logical conclusion, it should lead to the suppression of all the plays. To exclude the Eunuchus from our reading because of the subject-matter of a single scene—a scene that has nevertheless been handled by the poet with true delicacy—is to discriminate unwisely against the most lively and dramatic of the six comedies—against the play which was a greater “success” in its time, so far as we know, than any of the others. The ban resting on the Hecyra may be due in part to its relative lack of vivacity and dramatic interest; but it is owing also to the prominence given in the play itself to an objectionable feature of the plot. Yet the Hecyra contains much of the best sentiment to be discovered in Terence’s writings, and is at many points remarkable for a delicacy and refinement of touch hardly equalled even in the Andria. Nor are its so-called defects without parallel in the other dramas.

The Introduction in this edition is intended to furnish the student with an outline of the history of Roman comedy, and of that phase of the Greek comedy from which the Roman is mainly derived. It includes also some treatment of Terentian prosody and metres, and adds a word or two about the manuscripts and editions. But no attempt has been made to summarize the peculiarities of early Latin usage. Space enough for anything resembling an adequate treatment of this topic has been wanting; so far as might be, it has been touched upon in the Notes. But the student of this subject will do well to consult the admirable ‘Einleitung’ prefixed to the Dziatzko-Hauley edition of the Phormio, pp. 57–67.

My indebtedness to the various editions of the Plautine and Terentian comedies has been very generally acknowledged in the Notes. I have made use of most of the current literature on Terence and of much of that dealing with Plautus. The authorities mentioned in §§ 118 and 119 of the Introduction are among those that have been consulted. So also is Elmer’s edition of the Captivi. But the plates of the Introduction had been cast before Dr. Robert Kauer's revision of Dziatzko's annotated edition of the Adelphoe had come to my notice. The same is true of the Adelphoe as edited by E. Stampini (Turin, 1891), and of the editions of Jacquinet (1891), of Pessonneaux (1894), of Psichari (1895), and of Boué (1898). Consequently these editions are not mentioned in the Introduction. But I have been able to take into account especially the work of Dr. Kauer, while I have been revising the Notes on the Adelphoe.

I wish to express my gratitude to friends who have aided me. To Professor Harold W. Johnston of the Indiana University I owe the suggestion in which the book originated, as well as other suggestions which were helpful while the manuscript was in course of preparation. To Professors Gonzalez Lodge and Charles Knapp of Columbia University I am under deep obligation for encouragement and assistance ungrudgingly bestowed while the book was passing through the press. Professor Lodge has read the larger part of the proofs and has made many important corrections and suggestions. Professor Knapp has read the proofs throughout, and in doing so has given both the Introduction and the Notes a careful revision. His extensive familiarity with Plautine and Terentian usage, his constructive scholarship, and his discriminating criticism have been continually at my service from the time when the first proof sheets were received from the press, more than two and a half years ago. To his corrections and additions the book owes much of any value it may be found to possess.

Lastly I must express my appreciation of the efforts of the proprietors of the Riverside Press to have the book both becomingly and accurately printed.

SIDNEY G. ASHMORE.

UNION COLLEGE, SCHENECTADY, N. Y.

February, 1908.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	PAGE
PREFACE.	v
INTRODUCTION	1-68
GREEK COMEDY	1
ROMAN COMEDY	7
LIVIVS ANDRONICVS	13
FABVLÆ PALLIATÆ, ETC.	14
GNAEVS NÆVIVS	16
TITVS MACCIVS PLAIVS	18
QVINTVS ENNIVS	22
STATIVS CAECILIVS	23
PVBLIVS TERENTIVS AFER	25
THE SIX COMEDIES	29
THE INFLUENCE OF TERENCE VPON LITERATURE	36
CHARACTERS.	37
DIVISION INTO FIVE ACTS.	37
DIVISION INTO SCENES	40
ACTORS AT ROME	41
COSTVMS	43
MASKS	43
THE THEATRE	44
DRAMATIC REPRESENTATIONS AT THE PVBLIC GAMES	49
METRES	49
MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRVMENTS	54
PROSODY	56
CODICES AND TEXT	60
SCHOLIA	64
GRAMMARIANS AND EARLY COMMENTATORS	64
SOME MODERN EDITORS	65
LANGUAGE	67

	PAGE
C. SVETONI TRANQVILLI VITA P. TERENTI AFRI . . .	1-4
ORDER OF THE PLAYS	1
SIGLA	2
TEXT	3-289
LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS	1-4
NOTES AND APPENDIX TO THE ANDRIA	1
" " " " " HEAVTON TIMORVME-
NOS	82
" " " " " EVNVCHVS	124
" " " " " PHORMIO	156
" " " " " HECYRA	214
" " " " " ADELPHOE	252
INDEX TO THE INTRODUCTION AND NOTES	321

INTRODUCTION

HISTORY OF ANCIENT COMEDY

GREEK COMEDY

1. Greek comedy (κωμωδία, derived from κωμῶδός, which is itself derived from κῶμος and ᾄδειν) had its origin in the songs and dances of the village festival held each year at the time of the vintage. This festival was associated with the worship of the nature-god, Dionysus, whose experiences and adventures were celebrated by the country-folk in a species of rude performance of a more or less dramatic character. Out of this there were gradually developed, through the influence exerted by the higher civilization of the cities, two principal species of comic drama, the Doric or Sicilian comedy, and the comedy known as Attic or Ionic. The tragic drama also is traceable to the same source, that is, to the songs and dances which were characteristic of the country festivals held in honour of the god Dionysus. The story of this deity had its dark and tragic as well as its bright and gay aspects, and in giving to the sad side of the story a dramatic form, albeit in crude and rustic fashion, the country folk of ancient Greece served the ends of a drama destined to blossom forth a little later into the perfected tragedy of Athens.

2. That tragedy was earlier than comedy in reaching maturity should not be forgotten; for it was partly on the lines laid down by tragedy that comedy itself was developed, especially in the matter of its outward form and technique, as these appeared in the Attic comedy of the time of Pericles. Comedy, however, did not grow out of tragedy, although, since both eventually became state functions, the one was somewhat assimilated in form to the other. Comedy, in a technical sense, was the result of the union of the Attic eōmus (κῶμος, i. e., the Dionysiac choral lyric, sung to the music of the flute and to the rhythm of the dance, by a merry procession of mummers or minics) with the Doric farce (the latter a non-choral performance in which the actor or actors mimicked the gambols of nature-spirits); and it was this union of the Doric element with the Attic that gave rise to the tradition that Susarion, an inhabitant of the Doric city of Megara, was the inventor of Attic comedy. According to this tradition, Susarion, about 580 B. C., transplanted the Doric farce to the Attic deme of Icaria, which was known as the chief seat of the worship of Dionysus in Attica. There the union referred to took place. The Doric farce made its way also from Megara into the other Dorian communities, appearing both in the Peloponnesus and in Sicily and the Italian colonies. In Sicily it received literary form and character at the hands of Epicharmus of Cos (540–450 B. C.), who flourished at Syracuse in the reign of Hiero, but its development there fell short of the artistic perfection attained by the comedy of Athens. The comedy of Epicharmus was largely given to caricature, especially the caricature of mythological subjects, and it seldom lost sight of the primitive Dionysiac entertainments, wherein the performers imitated the grotesque, and assumed the part of fauns, satyrs, and other sylvan divinities whom mythology represented as attendant on the god of the vine. It gave rise to a number of different types of farce. Among these were the Mimus and the Rhinthonica. The former attained its perfection at Syracuse, under the influence of Sophron, about a century later than Epicharmus; the latter was developed by Rhinthon, who flourished about 300 B. C. at Tarentum. To both of them Roman comedy was to some extent indebted; it has even been suggested that Plautus took two of his characters, the parasite and the drunkard, directly from the comedy of Sicily, and that his Amphitruo (§ 34) exhibits traces of the influence of Rhinthon.

3. However this may be, it was not at Syracuse, but at Athens, that comedy, in the time of Pericles, acquired that perfection of literary form which we see in the extant plays of Aristophanes. This was the so-called Old Attic Comedy, whose first important exponents were Eupolis, Cratinus and Phrynichus. Of the works of these writers only fragments remain. But Aristophanes, who was but a little younger than they, has left us eleven plays, and has surpassed all his rivals in genius and comic power. Aristophanes became the chief representative of the Attic Comedy of his day and generation, the comedy of political caricature, with its absolute freedom of speech and its unsparing criticism of public men.¹

4. Greek comedy passed through three recognized stages of development at Athens, and had reached the last of these nearly a century before it was transferred to Rome. The first was the Old Comedy already mentioned. The second and third were the Middle and the New Comedy respectively. The divisions are of course arbitrary, and it is difficult to determine accurately when the first or the second species gave place to its successor. After Athens had lost her political independence, comedy was shorn of its state authority and was compelled to abandon its tone of censorship and its personal and political satire. Its caricature was more and more confined to mythology and to literary, philosophic and social life; its outward form also underwent a change. Both the size and the functions of the chorus were reduced, the parabasis, or address to the spectators, disappeared, and the scenic accessories became less numerous and important. Of such a nature was the Middle Comedy, which was in itself merely a transition from the Old to the New. The period of this transition may be roughly marked as beginning with the close of the Peloponnesian war in 404 B. C. and ending about the time of the accession of Alexander the Great in 336 B. C., when the liberties of Greece had been already crushed by Philip of Macedon. During this time the Athenians gradually abandoned their interest in public questions, and comedy, following the popular bent, passed by degrees from personalities to generalities, and lost its former character and vigour. The most distinguished poets of this period were Alexis and Antiphanes, if we except Aristophanes himself, two of whose plays, the Plutus and the Ecclesiazusae, are more properly classed under the Middle Comedy.

5. The New Comedy was the natural outcome of all that had gone before it. It may be said to have endured for nearly a century, covering the years from 336 to 250 B. C., during which period more than sixty poets of this school are said to have flourished. Among them the most distinguished is Menander (§ 10), who has been called the Star of the New Comedy. Next in importance are Diphilus and Philemon. Of less note are Philippides (or Phidippides), Apollodorus and Posidippus. These six names are also the most important in connection with the comedy of the Romans. Unfortunately only fragments of their works have survived: but these are sufficient in number and character to throw a fair light on the general characteristics of this particular phase of the Greek drama.

¹ Cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 4. 1 ff.

6. The New Comedy drew its materials almost entirely from private life. It was essentially a comedy of manners, into which personal and political satire, so characteristic of the comedy of Aristophanes (§ 3), entered but slightly. Even the literary satire of the Middle Comedy could scarcely be traced in it. Such satire as it expressed amounted merely to a mild caricature of folly in the abstract, — sufficient to add humour and piquancy to the portrayal of character, but in no sense calculated to offend. It was to the Old Comedy what the satire of Horace was to that of Lucilius. Its nearest modern analogue is the comedy of Molière. The characters of the New Comedy were in general fictitious, and could seldom be identified with any well-known person of importance. They represented familiar types or classes rather than individuals, and in this particular resembled the caricatures of Epicharmus (§ 2).

7. Among these types were the stern father and the indulgent uncle, the steady and the wayward son, the rapacious and also the disinterested courtesan, the good slave and the slave who was tricky and deceitful, the upstart, the aristocrat, and the boastful captain of mercenaries, — types already extensively foreshadowed in the drama of Sicily, and common to the every-day life of the Greek people. Each character had its appropriate mask and make-up, and was recognized at once by the audience at the moment of its appearance on the stage. The old man might be known by his white or gray hair. Black hair denoted the young gentleman, long and shaggy hair the soldier, red hair the slave. The complexion of the soldier was dark, as if sunburned, that of the lover pale. The rogue was endowed with cheeks of a brilliant red. Hook noses were given to old men and parasites, flat noses to country youths; if the ears showed signs of bruises the person must have frequented the boxing-school.¹

¹ See Pollux, 4. 143-154; cf. Quint. Inst. 11. 3. 74. See also Haigh, The Attic Theatre, pp. 295-297 (2d ed.).

8. The plots, as well as the characters, of the New Comedy differed greatly from those of the Old. In the Old Comedy there was a series of scenes not closely connected through the sequence of cause and effect, but only loosely held together by a central idea, such as "the attractions of peace" in the Acharnians of Aristophanes. The New Comedy, on the contrary, exhibited a number of scenes following one another in logical order, as in a modern drama. These scenes portrayed a sustained story, or at least an intrigue, and resulted in a dénouement, or climax. The central theme was usually the course of true love, and the action depicted the efforts of a youth to obtain possession of his mistress, often in the face of the determined opposition of a parent or guardian, and with the assistance of a tricky slave. The heroine, who at the start was supposed to belong to the class of courtesans or hetaerae (regarded as aliens), was eventually discovered to be a well-born maiden and an Athenian citizen, and her marriage to the hero of the play was the necessary and suitable conclusion.

9. The importance attached to the plot in the New Comedy was due, in part, to the influence of Euripides, some of whose tragedies bordered closely upon the domain of comedy: his skill in the weaving and unravelling of plots was conspicuous in comparison with that of the other famous tragedians. Euripides, moreover, brought down tragedy from the pedestal of religious elevation upon which it had been placed by his predecessors, and rendered possible a closer alliance between it and the relatively coarse and ribald productions of the comic stage. Thus there was infused into the latter some of the dignity and refinement which had always been characteristic of the tragic muse, and the comedy of Aristophanes became regenerated in the comedy of Menander.

10. Of Menander (§ 5) it may be remarked at this point that he is of special interest to students of Terence, since the latter took him for a model, largely to the exclusion of other writers: at least five of the Greek comedian's plays having furnished material for four of the six extant dramas of the Latin poet. Plautus also imitated Menander, although Philemon was more often preferred by the earlier and less refined of the two great Roman comic writers. Menander was a pupil of the philosopher Theophrastus, and a friend of the philosopher Epicurus, as well as a nephew of Alexis, the poet of the Middle Comedy. His environment and associations were accordingly favourable to the development of his literary tastes, and like Terence he began to produce plays at an early age. Like Terence also, he is said to have written a goodly number of comedies, no less than one hundred and eight being attributed to him. Unfortunately but few extensive fragments of these have come down to modern times; and yet these fragments are important, for they testify abundantly to the truth of what others have said about him. That his style was graceful and polished is attested by Propertius and Quintilian,¹ while both these and modern writers have passed favourable judgment on his wit and refinement of temper and diction.² Menander was born in 342 and died in 291.

11. It is not to be inferred from all this that the moral life depicted in the New Comedy was on a high plane. Most refined circles have often proved to be the most corrupt, and culture is not seldom a cloak for that which is void of true morality. Such writers as Menander and his Roman imitators are to be judged, not by modern standards, but by those of the times in which they lived. In the light of those standards it should be said that the playwrights of the New Comedy were very far from giving offence to good taste, and from contravening the rules of the best ethics of their day. On the contrary, they were conspicuous in their writings for the care with which they kept within the bounds of what was then considered to be correct in principle and conduct, and it is this fact that renders them "possible" to modern readers. To be sure, there are plays of Plautus extant which remind us that the limits of true decency were occasionally transgressed; but even these plays, though often coarse in tone, fall short of any radical departure from the moral tenets of the age which gave them birth. On the other hand, the types of character selected for representation on the stage were those best fitted to afford amusement to the large and mixed audiences for whose delectation the drama of the day was especially created, though there can be little doubt that these types were greatly exaggerated. At the same time, in matters appertaining to literary form and taste the plays of the

¹ Propert. (Mueller), 4. 21. 28, 5. 5. 43; Quint. 10. 1. 69.

² Cf. Mahaffy, Hist. of Class. Greek Lit. vol. 1, Part II, pp. 263 ff.

New Comedy fell little short of perfection. The Greek in which they were written was capable of expressing the finest shades of thought and of polished wit, and the general mastery of detail and of technique, to which their extant fragments bear witness — the result of two centuries of dramatic activity — rendered them particularly useful and attractive as models to the inexperienced playwrights of Rome.

12. It remains to be observed that the New Comedy, in its external dress, exhibited certain departures from earlier usage. Both the parabasis and the prologue ceased to form an organic part of the play. The former, indeed, disappeared altogether, while the latter was relegated to a place outside of the dramatic action. The chorus, too, which at one time had filled an important place in Attic comedy, now became little more than a name. Its disappearance is easily accounted for, and was in fact owing to the very nature of comedy itself. The chorus belonged originally to the religious side of the drama, — a side that tragedy had been compelled to stand by. But comedy had little respect for religion, and was not tied down by considerations such as those which limited the functions of its more serious sister. The chorus, in fact, was a distinct hindrance to the development of comedy in the direction of a literal imitation of human passions and of private and domestic experiences. Even Euripides found himself clogged by it in his efforts to humanize tragedy and reduce it to the level of ordinary life. Consequently, when the comedy of Aristophanes began to change its character and to draw on the affairs of private life for its materials and plots, the chorus ceased to be essential; and although there is evidence of its occasional use in Menander's time, yet it is quite certain that Menander sought opportunity to discard it altogether. Thus the chorus, in which both tragedy and comedy had originated, proved eventually to be a stumbling block to the broadest development of the drama, and was ultimately either reduced to a mere troupe of supernumerary dancers, or dispensed with as altogether useless.¹

ROMAN COMEDY

13. As the Greek drama originated in the songs and dances of country festivals held in honour of Dionysus, so the first beginnings of the drama in Italy are found in the ceremonies which attended the worship of various rustic deities, — more particularly (in Latium) that of Victory, whose festival developed finally into the celebrated Ludi Romani. The Greek drama, as we have seen, developed on Greek soil, until it reached perfection at Athens in the form and manner already indicated. The Roman drama, so far as its native Italian element was concerned, attained only a limited development; and although it might have arrived in time at a stage corresponding to that of the Attic tragedy and comedy, it was arrested in its progress in consequence of the importation into Italy of the perfected and refined drama of the Greeks. This was more especially true of comedy, which owed its existence at Rome (in the form in which it has been handed down to us) to a union of two elements, viz., the early Italian drama (if it may be so called) and the comedy of the Athenians. The latter, however, was the more important element, — so much so, indeed, that it practically supplanted the former altogether, or at least determined forever the form and character which Roman comedy was to assume, and thus prevented the growth of a purely Italian comic literature.

¹ Cf. Dörpfeld-Reisch, Das Griechische Theater, 263 ff.

14. Comedy at Rome therefore took the form of an adaptation of the New Comedy of Athens to Roman requirements and tastes, and the result was a reproduction in the Latin language of the refinements of Philemon and Menander, united with much of the coarseness of the more or less impromptu dialogues of the Satura and the Versus Fescennini. These last were of purely Latin origin. The Mimus and the Fabula Atellana were not. All four, however, were independent of the regular Athenian drama, and were exceedingly popular as forms of public entertainment.

15. The Fescennine verses were generally extemporaneous and abounded in jokes, gross personalities and abuse. They reached, indeed, such an extreme of license that at last they were restrained by a law of the twelve tables.¹ They were generally amœbæan or responsive in character, and in later times were often sung at marriage festivities and in triumphal processions; but they never attained more than a limited literary development. There were clearly to be seen in them, however, the germs of a genuine drama, just as in the rude songs of the Dionysiac festivals were apparent the seeds from which sprang the artistic comedy of Athens. The name has been derived from Fescennium, a village in Etruria. Such a local origin of the term acquires support from the unquestioned connection of the Atellan plays with Atella in Campania; but it is more probable that the name is connected with fascinum, a word denoting primarily the evil eye, and subsequently the symbol which was supposed to avert it, and which was often carried in procession in Italy, just as the phallic emblem was carried by the Greeks.¹

¹ See Hor. Epist. 2. 1. 145-155. Cf. Cic. De Rep. 4. 10. 12.

16. A demand, however, came to be felt for something less rude than the Versus Fescennini, which were in consequence somewhat altered and improved, and united with music and mimic dancing. This, according to Livy (7. 2), was accomplished by certain of the Roman youth, who undertook to imitate the performances of Etruscan actors called ludiones. The ludiones performed in pantomime to the sound of the flute, but, as Livy says, sine cormine ullo. While going through the mimic steps and gestures, after the manner of the Etrurians, the young men would repeat aloud a series of verses of a responsive and jocular nature. These, though no longer wholly improvised, were yet of the general character of the Fescennine verses, and out of the combination grew the saturae, which, according to Livy, were inpletæ modis, descripto iam ad tibicinem cantu, that is, regularly set to music. The Etruscan dancers were brought to Rome in the year 364 B. C., and a stage — the first ever set up in Rome — was erected for their accommodation in the Circus Maximus. The occasion of their introduction was a desire on the part of the people to add to the regular programme of the Ludi Romani something in the nature of scenic performances, with a general view to the enrichment of the greatest of the Roman festivals, and the pacification thereby of the gods who had visited the city with a pestilence. The result was the Satura (se. fabula) already mentioned, which, though devoid of any connected plot, yet, as representing scenes from daily life, was more nearly of the nature of drama than the Fescennine verses had been. The saturae were in fact merry medleys performed by the country lads of Latium on a stage set up for the purpose. The name undoubtedly alluded to the miscellaneous character of the performance, and has been connected in its derivation with the phrase, lanx satura, which denoted a dish filled with fruits of all varieties, and offered to the gods. This is the common view of the meaning and origin of satura; another view being that which regards the word as designating an early Roman parallel to the Old Comedy of Athens.¹

¹ Cf. A. S. Wilkins on Hor. Epist. 2. 1. 145; Sellar, Roman Poets of the Republic, 3d ed. p. 35.

Whichever view be correct, a certain amount of care in the matter of preparation, and of skill in the performance of their parts was demanded of the actors, and we may note in this the evidence of that growth and development which, but for the interruption due to the sudden appearance on the scene of the fully developed Greek play, would undoubtedly have resulted in the evolution of a native Italian comedy. But the introduction of a genuine play adapted from the Greek, by Livius Andronicus, in 240 B. C., caused the dramatic saturnae to be at first neglected, and finally driven from the stage; though they continued for some time to serve as farces or after-plays, exodia, which were added to the regular and more serious performances, — a function subsequently usurped by the fabulae Atellanae and the mimi.

17. When, in the time of Ennius (239–169 B. C.), the saturnae came to be cultivated exclusively as a branch of literature, it still retained its miscellaneous character. “The saturnae of Ennius was, in form, a mixture or medley of metrical pieces.” So was that of Terentius Varro, imitated from Menippus; and the satires of Horace, Persius and Juvenal “bear features of strong resemblance” to the early dramatic saturnae described by Livy.² But the censorious or satirical spirit in the later Roman satura is to be referred, in its origin, not to the dramatic saturae, but to the genius of Lucilius (about 180–103 B. C.), who accordingly has been styled the father of Roman satire. Lucilius has been credited with the first attempt to add to the personal and serious elements in the medleys of Ennius that character of invective which, in a more or less modified form, is repeated in the satires of his Roman successors, and appears to have been ever since regarded as the distinguishing feature of this particular branch of literary composition.

¹ This is thought by Professor Hendrickson to be the meaning of saturnae in Livy, 7. 2. See his paper entitled “The Dramatic Saturna and the Old Comedy at Rome,” in the Amer. Jour. of Phil. vol. xv; cf. J. Elmore in Proceed. Amer. Phil. Assoc. July, 1902, p. lxvii. 3. Cf. also Hendrickson, l. c. vol. xix. 3. The previous literature on the subject is given in his papers. But H.’s views have failed to win general acceptance. See Gildersleeve in Johnson’s Universal Cyclopaedia and Atlas, s. v. Satire; Schanz, Röm. Literaturgeschichte, § 9 and § 55 (Müller’s Handbuch); E. M. Pease in Proceed. Amer. Phil. Assoc. vol. xxvii (also Hopkins, l. c. vol. xxxi), and in Harper’s Dict. of Class. Lit., s. v. Saturnae; Introd. to Wilson’s Juvenal (New York, 1904).

² See an essay on The Roman Saturna, by H. Nettleship, Oxford, 1878.

18. It remains to say a word about the mime and the Atellan farce, which, as has been observed (§ 14), though not Latin in origin, were nevertheless, like the saturae and the Fescennine verses, wholly independent, in their beginnings, of the drama of the Athenians. The Mimus, a name given to the actor as well as to the piece, was at first a pantomimic farce, representing low life; but at the end of the Republican period it had secured a place in literature. It was introduced into Rome from the Greek colonies in southern Italy, where in its purely Greek form it consisted of a single humorous scene or personality. Among the Romans it gradually enlarged its subject-matter until, under the Empire, it had absorbed materials drawn from nearly all the earlier kinds of comedy. During the flourishing period of Roman comedy the mime was frequently employed as an exodium, or after-play, and was remarkable for its obscene character and general scurrility (Mart. iii. 86, non sunt haec mimis improbiora; Ov. Trist. 2. 497, mimos obscena iocantes). Among the various writers of mimes the most distinguished were Decius Laberius (105–43 B. C.), who is mentioned by Horace (Sat. 1. 10. 6), and Publilius Syrus, whose poëmata were listened to by Cicero on the occasion of a dramatic contest at the games of Cæsar (Cic. ad Fam. 12. 18. 2).

19. The Atellanae (sc. fabulae) were an improved kind of saturae. They took their name from Atella, a town of the Oscans in Campania, where they are said to have originated,¹ and whence they found their way to Rome about 200 B. C., Campania having been previously brought under Roman sway and influence. At Rome they were rendered by amateurs, usually young men of patrician families, who spoke in Latin, and who, unlike the performers of mimes, were required to wear masks.

¹ On this point cf. Mommsen, Hist. of Rome, Eng. trans. vol. iii, p. 544, note.

At Rome also the Atellanæ were raised, through literary treatment, to a comparatively high level. This took place as early as the time of Sulla, when Novius and Pomponius of Bononia gave to these farces a definite literary form. Before this the dialogue had been largely improvised, or if written was at least not published. The characters became conventional at an early date. Such were Pappus the pantaloon, vain but deluded, the buffoon Maccus, Bucco the braggart, and the cunning rogue Dossennus, — personages in many respects analogous to the clown and harlequin of a modern pantomime, and calculated to portray, in burlesque and caricature, the life of the country towns and villages. The plots were simple though generally prearranged, the incidents numerous and always grotesque, the jokes vulgar but telling. The Atellanæ also were used as exodia, especially after tragedies, like the satyr-dramas of the Greeks; but they never resorted to Greek life for their subjects, except when tragedy was travestied, and were always far more national in their character than the regular Roman comedy.

20. The metre employed in the Atellan farces and other early dramatic forms was naturally of Italian origin. It is known as the Saturnian, but its exact character is doubtful. Probably it was not quantitative like the Greek metres, but purely accentual, like the metres of English verse. Yet the remains are not sufficient to admit of any dogmatism on this point. According to the accentual theory, the Saturnian line falls into two halves, the first of which has three theses, the second usually three (sometimes two), as in the following: —

Dábunt málum Metélli | Naéviô poëtae.¹

This metre was preferred by Nævius in his poem on the first Punic war (§ 28); but it was gradually displaced by the metres of the Greeks, which were adopted by Ennius and by succeeding poets, and were used even in the Atellan farces after these had reached a certain stage of literary development.

21. It would seem natural, as has been said already (§ 13), that a native drama, comparable with that of Athens, should have grown out of the elements which have been described as existing in Rome before the introduction there, on an extensive scale, of the literature of Greece. But during this early period there was little leisure or inclination at Rome for the cultivation of poetry and letters. Roman activity was occupied with affairs of state, — with the passage of laws, the maintenance of armies, the extension of Roman power and influence over Latium and the rest of Italy, the building up of the state on its practical and material side. Moreover a moral stigma rested at Rome on the profession of the actor, which discouraged the composition and performance of plays by native citizens. It was to be expected, therefore, that the Latin drama, whether tragic or comic, should have been, on its more refined and cultivated side at least, an importation; and such it actually was. Greek literature and civilization began to make their way toward Rome after the defeat of Pyrrhus and the fall of Tarentum in 272 B. C. Before the war with Pyrrhus there had been little intercourse between Rome and the Greek colonies of southern Italy. Now all was changed, and the study of Greek and the imitation of Greek masterpieces became the vogue. Finally in 240 B. C. LIVIUS ANDRONICUS, a Greek of Tarentum, brought out two plays, a tragedy and a comedy, which he had translated or adapted from the Greek, and thus opened the way for a union between the grotesque and largely extemporized performances of the native Roman stage and the highly finished drama of Athens. Nor should it be forgotten by those who see in Roman comedy only a reflection or a transplanting of Greek models, that the native Italian element constituted a distinct factor in the actual elaboration of the new drama. This is apparent in the plays of Plautus, which exhibit a singular mixture of Roman coarseness with Greek refinement, of homespun mother wit with foreign thought and philosophy, not to mention the most absurd anachronisms, and direct allusions to Roman habits and customs, for which the Greek originals could in no degree be held responsible.

¹ See the Latin Grammar of Gildersleeve-Lodge, § 756; Harkness (Complete), 748. 2; A. & G. 628. d, and Lindsay's papers on the Saturnian Metre, in Amer. Jour. of Phil. vol. xiv (1893).

22. With Livius Andronicus a new era begins. Through him the Roman stage became elevated at once to a dignity almost comparable to that of the Greek. The plays of Livius were regular dramas, however much they may have suffered through translation. Now for the first time both tragedy and comedy in their completeness, having a well rounded plot and a dialogue carefully arranged, were enacted in the Latin tongue, and in the presence and for the special benefit of a Roman audience. The particular occasion was the celebration of the Ludi Romani in the year after the close of the first Punic war, whose final struggle took place at sea near the Aegatian Islands in the year 241 B. C. The production of the two plays referred to added greatly to the interest of the games, and from that time onward the performance of Latin plays, modelled on Greek originals, became a distinct and regular feature of the Roman festivals.

23. Both tragedy and comedy, then, at Rome were confessedly derived from Greek sources. Roman tragedy has wholly perished, — except a few fragments and the plays of Seneca, who wrote in the time of the Empire. But even Seneca's plays are occupied with Greek subjects, while the extant fragments and titles of other and earlier tragedies indicate that the pieces they represent were either founded on Greek originals or elaborated from legends of Greek poetry and mythology. It is true that certain dramas of the nature of tragedy dealt with Roman subjects and bore the general impress of a national character; but even these fabulae praetextae, as they were called, borrowed their form and outline from Greek models, and the fact that they have not been preserved would suggest that their popularity was limited. Though tragedy suited well the Roman predilection for oratory and rhetoric, and was listened to at Rome for nearly two centuries, yet it never took root in Italy as comedy did, and was in general of less consequence than the latter in popular esteem.

24. The comedies which Livius Andronicus and other Roman writers adapted from the Greek were known as fabulae palliatae, from the pallium (ἱμάτιον), a Greek cloak worn by the actor. They were called also comoediae, as though no other form of comedy were conceivable. Nevertheless there grew up at Rome, in the century after Livius Andronicus, a species of comedy termed the fabula togata, a designation intended to contrast with the name palliata, since the subjects treated were Roman instead of Greek, and the actors were attired in the Roman toga. The more vulgar tone of these native comedies, however, caused them to be known as tabernariae, "shop-plays." Not one of them has survived to modern times.

25. Of the plays of Livius only a few lines have reached us, but these suffice to make clear their Greek origin, and to show that, in his dramas at least, if not in his translation of the Odyssey, Greek metres alone were employed. His dramas are slightly criticized by Cicero, who says they are non satis dignae quae iterum legantur.¹ But Cicero was not always fair in his judgments, and probably was not wholly capable of appreciating how much had really been accomplished by Livius as a pioneer. Had it not been for Livius Andronicus, even the great Ennius would have been less famous, for the latter was compelled to base his literary endeavours upon the acquired taste of the Romans for Greek standards, — standards that might never have existed had not the way for them been paved by the older dramatist. That Livius was held in high esteem by both his contemporaries and successors is sufficiently established by the fact that he was chosen to produce the plays enacted at the Ludi Romani in 240 B. C., by the use of his Odyssey as a school-book, not only in his own time but for a period of two centuries after his death,² and by the appropriation of the temple of Minerva on the Aventine hill to the use of poets, in his especial honour. Livius died in 204 B. C. His time marks the union of the Italian element of the drama, as portrayed in the Fescennine verses, the Saturae, the mimes and the Atellan farces, with the plots, the characters, the witty and philosophical dialogues of the New Comedy of Athens; and the date of the production of his first play may be set down as the birth-year of the Comoedia Palliata, and indeed of Latin literature in general.

26. The principal writers of palliatae, of whom we have any knowledge, succeeded Livius Andronicus within the period of a century. They are ordinarily referred to as Naevius, Plautus, Ennius, Caecilius, and Terence. These and five other poets about whom very little is known are mentioned by Voleatius Sedigitus, a critic who flourished about the beginning of the first century B. C. and is quoted by Aulus Gellius (15. 24). The five others are named in the thirteen verses of Sedigitus, which Gellius has preserved, and are the following: Licinius, Atilius, Turpilius, Trabea, Luscius. The last is Luscius Lanuvinus, who has been made notorious through Terence's prologues, while Turpilius is known as the author of thirteen plays, of which the titles only have descended to modern times. But the purpose of Sedigitus was to rank according to their merits the ten comic poets above mentioned, and if modern critics are inclined to disagree with him, they are none the less forced to admit that their judgments, compared with his, must rest on slender material, since the works of only two out of the ten have survived. These two are Plautus and Terence. It is noteworthy that Sedigitus gives the palm to Cæcilius and ranks Plautus second, while to Terence he accords only the sixth place of honour, putting Naevius, Licinius and Atilius before him. But whatever may have been the standard of comparison by which Sedigitus gauged the relative merits of the poets mentioned in his list, it is difficult at least, if not impossible, to appreciate from a modern standpoint how Terence could have ranked so low in the critic's estimation. Either the judgment of Sedigitus was essentially at fault, or he was in possession of information transcending all the possibilities of modern conjecture.¹ A few words about the first five names to which reference was made above will now be in order. Let us consider them as nearly as possible in chronological sequence.

¹ Brutus, 18. 71.

² Hor. Epist. 2. 1. 69.

27. Livius Andronicus was followed by a younger contemporary, GNAEUS NAEVIUS by name, who wrote both tragedies and comedies, and according to Gellius (17. 21. 44) was exhibiting plays before the people in 235 B. C. He seems to have been especially active in the field of comedy, and like Aristophanes to have held up to ridicule persons having political prominence and power. Among these were the Metelli, through whose influence he was thrown into prison. His imprisonment took place about the year 207 B. C., and is alluded to by Plautus in the line:—

Quoi bini custôdes semper tótis horis ôccubant. (Miles, 212.)

A retraction—partial or complete—of his attack upon the Roman nobles enabled the tribunes of the people to interfere in his behalf, and he was liberated. He repeated his offence, however, and was sent into exile. He died at Utica in 204 B. C., or possibly a little later. His fate served as a warning to his successors that the stage could not be used at Rome as an arena of political warfare, however much it may have been thus employed at Athens by the writers of the Old Comedy.

¹ But see Sihler on The Collegium Poetarum, in Amer. Jour. Phil. vol. xxvi.

28. The spirit by which Naevius was largely animated is discernible in the extant fragments, which suggest the personal and political tone and independence of Aristophanes. Nevertheless his comedies were all palliatae. His excessive patriotism, however, led him to become the inventor of a new kind of drama, known as the fabula praetexta (§ 23), in which themes of national interest were treated, such as the events of the reign of Romulus, or the victory of Marcellus over the Gauls at Clastidium in 222 B. C.; in fact, Roman history in general was drawn upon to furnish material for the praetextae. But even this essentially Roman species of drama was Greek in outward form and arrangement. Only fragments of the praetextae have survived. But the fame of Naevius seems to rest far less upon his success in dramatic composition than upon the national epic which his experience as a soldier in the first Punic war, combined with his naturally fiery and vigorous temperament, rendered him peculiarly well fitted to undertake. The *Bellum Poenicum*¹ of Naevius was composed in Saturnian verse.

29. But perhaps no fragment of his writings is more characteristically illustrative of his manner and his general qualities than his epitaph, which Gellius (1. 24. 2) has transmitted to us with the information that it was written by Naevius himself. Here we see his independent spirit, and genuine appreciation of his own merits. If his words are to be taken literally he must fully deserve the high place accorded him in the canon of Sedigitus:—

Immortales mortales || si forét fas flére.
Flérent dñae Caménæ || Naevium poetam:
Itaque postquam est Orcho || traditus thesauro
Lóngier lingua Latina || oblití sunt Rómae.²

This epitaph is characterized by Aulus Gellius as plenum superbiae Campanae, “full of Campanian arrogance,” from which the inference has been drawn that Naevius was a native of Campania; but the active interference of the tribunes on his behalf, and the fact of the existence in Rome of a plebeian Gens Naevia render it more probable that he was by birth a Roman citizen.¹ Weight is added to this assumption also by the strong political partisanship and bias, leaning always to the side of the Plebs, which his plays exhibited. However this may be, the fragments of Naevius which have reached us indicate that he was a true Roman in spirit at least, and that he possessed uncommon originality and power in his use of the Latin tongue.

¹ For this spelling see M. Warren in Proceedings Amer. Phil. Assoc. July, 1903, p. xliii.

² On the scansion of these Saturnians see Lindsay, Amer. Jour. of Phil. vol. xiv, p. 321, and Introduction to Fairclough's Andria, p. xxv, n. 2.

30. The popularity of Naevius was thrown somewhat into the shade by his younger contemporary, TITUS MACCIUS PLAUTUS,² concerning whose life very little is known. The year of Plautus' birth is uncertain, but it was about 254 B. C., and Sarsina, a town in Umbria, was his birthplace. His parents were poor but free, and must have brought him to Rome when a boy. There, according to Gellius, from whom the principal facts of his life are derived, he found employment quite early in life in operis artificum scaenicorum (Gell. 3. 3. 14), that is, in work connected with the stage. The money he saved while thus engaged he lost subsequently in foreign trade. Returning to Rome he was reduced to the necessity of working for hire in a treadmill. But his former associations with the theatre led him to attempt to turn his experience to account, and he set to work to write plays. In this occupation he discovered his true calling in life, when he may have been about thirty years of age, and until his death in 184 B. C. he devoted himself to the business of making Latin versions of Greek comedies. Of these he is reported to have written one hundred and thirty (see Gell. 3. 3. 12).

31. The plays that have come down to us are twenty-one in number, if we may include the Vidularia, of which only a few fragments have been preserved. The names of the remaining twenty are:—

Amphitruo	Casina	Menaechmi	Persa
Asinaria	Cistellaria	Mercator	Rudens
Aulularia	Curculio	Miles Gloriosus	Stichus
Bacchides	Epidicus	Poenulus	Trinummus
Captivi	Mostellaria	Pseudolus	Truculentus

¹ See Sellar. Roman Poets of the Republic, 3d ed. p. 53.

² The still unsettled question of his full name is discussed by Friedrich Leo, Plautinische Forschungen, pp. 72 ff.

These, with the Vidularia, are perhaps¹ the same as the twenty-one selected by Varro out of the one hundred and thirty already alluded to, and set down by that learned man — if Gellius (3.3.1) has reported him correctly — as universally acknowledged to be from the pen of Plautus himself (consensu omnium Plauti esse censebantur). The term fabulae Varronianae applied to this list of dramas is somewhat inexact, since it seems to make Varro himself responsible for the genuineness of the plays in question, whereas Varro merely reports the judgment passed upon them by others.² The great popularity of Plautus was often the occasion of the unfair use of his name in connection with the authorship of new plays, the names of whose real authors were not disclosed. To so great an extent was this true that out of the large number of plays ascribed to Plautus not more than nineteen, over and above the so-called Varronianae, were regarded in the time of Gellius as having any claim whatever to authenticity: the rest, amounting to ninety, were deemed to be spurious.

32. That Plautus was not a slavish imitator of his Greek originals is made apparent by reference to his plays, in which other influences are traceable beside the inspiration afforded by the Greek model itself (§ 21). Much of the coarse wit and roguery with which his plays abound may have been suggested by the Atellan farce, which was introduced into Rome about the time when Plautus began to write for the stage: and the effect upon his mind of the Roman festivals, whose merriment and spirit of revelry he was fain to imitate in his dramas, would account for that absence of moral tone, and extreme looseness of conduct, for which some of his plays are noted. But Plautus did not lack an example to justify him in introducing this element into his writings, since Aristophanes had done the same before him, only using instead the language of the Dionysiac revels, than which nothing could be more glaringly opposed to the proprieties of modern life. Another influence too may have been at work to lead Plautus away from strict adherence to his Attic models of the New Comedy, — an influence suggested by Horace (Epist. 2. 1. 58), who accuses him of imitating the Sicilian Epicharmus (§ 2). Now Epicharmus was essentially refined: yet his comedy was of the nature of burlesque, like the Doric farce (§ 2) from which it was developed, and that this should have affected the Plautine comedy, which was so open to neighbouring influences, would not have been strange. In general, there is good reason to believe that Plautus, like Shakespeare, availed himself of all the resources within his reach, and that this fact gave to his writings a character which they could not have possessed had he, like Terence, confined himself chiefly to the materials afforded him by the New Comedy of Athens. Accordingly the plays of Plautus, while manifestly Greek in their outward conditions, their form, and much of their manner and spirit, are yet in no slight degree Roman or Italian in substance and sentiment. The dialogues abound in Roman formulæ, proverbs, and plays on words; in alliteration, assonance, and instances of asyndeton, — all of which are peculiarly characteristic of early Roman poetry. There are references to places in Rome and Italy, to Roman magistrates and officials, to public business at home and in the colonies, to public games, Roman religion, Roman laws, customs and institutions, and to recent events in Roman history.¹ These, and many other allusions to modes of life and human occupations, which, if not always exclusively Roman, were at least not wholly Greek, bear witness to his versatility, resourcefulness and originality, as well as to a free, not to say inartistic, treatment of his acknowledged models. His strength lay not so much in his constructive skill, for which he depended on the Greeks, as in the wit and humour and freshness of his details, — characteristics more nearly calculated to appeal to a boorish and uncultivated audience such as Plautus endeavoured to please, than a careful handling of the incidents of the plot or a close adherence to the refinements of the Greek stage.

¹ See Leo, Plaut. Forsch. p. 27.

² Cf. Elmer, Captivi, p. xv, note.

33. Yet Plautus makes no secret of the fact that his plays are fundamentally Greek, and that in exhibiting them he is introducing his audience to a representation of Greek habits, morals and customs. He does not hesitate to use the word barbarus as the Greeks used it, that is, in reference to Italian or Roman manners. He fills his plays with Latinized Greek words, and compounds put together in the Greek fashion, and uses extraordinary and ridiculous patronymics as only a Greek could do, — in all of which he is not merely Greek, but even Aristophanic, since such extravagance of expression belonged rather to the Old Comedy of Athens than to that of Diphilus and Menander. Plautus makes frequent reference also to Greek scenes, cities and money, to the sea, the harbour, and the arrival and departure of ships; and while the names of his plays are mostly Latin, those of his personages, their dress, manners and general behaviour, are evidently intended to convey the impression that Greek, not Roman life is being portrayed.

¹ Cf. Sellar, R. P. R. 3d ed. p. 173.

34. Half of his plays at least may fairly be called good comedies. These are: Amphitruo, Aulularia, Bacchides, Captivi, Menaechmi, Miles, Mostellaria, Pseudolus, Rudens, Trinummus. It is a question whether we should not omit the Amphitruo from this list on account of its apparent blasphemy, and substitute in its place the Epidicus. But putting aside the part played by Jupiter in the Amphitruo, and the comments of Mercury upon that part, the play is a comedy pure and simple, and has been fairly described as one of the best of the plays of Plautus.¹ The ten (or eleven) plays above mentioned, without reference to the rest, are sufficient to show how wide was the range of experience and observation for which Plautus is justly famous, and how vastly in this respect is he superior to Terence; but there are five of these for which a preference may be distinctly felt, on the ground of their superiority to the remainder of the Plautine comedies, in variety of interest, style, character-painting and the development of the plot. These five are: Aulularia, Captivi, Menaechmi, Pseudolus, Rudens, — unless for the Rudens we substitute the Bacchides.

35. All of the plays are based on Greek originals; the Casina and Rudens are known to have been taken from plays of Diphilus, the Mercator and Trinummus from plays of Philemon, the Asinaria from a play of Demophilus, the Bacchides most probably from one by Menander. Many of them have been imitated² in modern times, e.g., the Amphitruo by Molière and Dryden in plays of the same name, the Aulularia by Molière in L'Avare, and the Menaechmi by Shakespeare in the Comedy of Errors.

36. Though Plautus did little to elevate the morals of his hearers, his influence, on the whole, was good. The Romans in his day were a nation of soldiers, without polish, and almost wholly lacking in literary sense; hence Plautus was compelled to bring down, as it were, the fine productions of Menander and Philemon to the level of their clownish and more or less brutal tastes. But he was capable of higher things, and his efforts were in general directed toward the improvement of the public taste and character. Had he lived in a more refined generation he certainly would not have provoked the unfavourable criticism of Horace (Epist. 2. 1. 170 ff.). Cicero and Varro and Aelius Stilo¹ speak in his praise, and in modern times his influence upon literature has been extensive. Especially did he do much to improve the Latin language, which underwent, at his hands, a process of cultivation and enrichment that carried it far on its way towards its subsequent classical perfection. His epitaph, mentioned by Varro,² testifies to the hold he had on his contemporaries, and if written, as Gellius supposed, by Plautus himself, exhibits the poet as fully conscious of his own powers, and of the appreciation accorded him by the people:—

¹ By A. Palmer, in his edition of the Amphitruo, p. xvi.

² On this subject consult C. v. Reinhardtstöttner, Spätere Bearbeitungen plautinischer Lustspiele, Leipzig, 1886.

Postquam est mortem aptus Plautus, Comoedia luget, Scaena est deserta ac dein Risus, Ludus Jocusque Et Numeri innumeri simul omnes conlacrumarunt:—

“When death took Plautus in his grasp, a suit of sables Comedy puts on; abandoned is the stage, and then it was that Laughter, Sport and Merriment, and Rhythms numberless all wept in concert.”³

37. At this point it is proper to mention the poet QUINTUS ENNIUS, who, as a writer of comedies, comes next after Plautus in time, though not in order of merit. There is no evidence to show that his comedies met with much success or appreciation. Not one of them has descended to modern times, and even the fragments⁴ are hardly of sufficient importance to deserve notice. In the canon of Sedigitus he is placed last. He is mentioned, however, in complimentary phrase by Terence in the prologue to the Andria, though the reference there is not to the quality of his comedies. But as a writer of tragedies and of

¹ Quintilian, 10. 1. 99.

² Gell. 1. 24. 3.

³ On numeri innumeri = “rhythms unrhythmical,” see Gudeman in Proceed. Amer. Phil. Assoc. July, 1903, p. xlviii. Professor Lodge has suggested “verses rhythmical and unrhythmical,” i. e. all sorts.

⁴ See Ribbeck, Com. Lat. Frag. p. 4.

saturae Ennius won distinction, and the fragments which survive under the title of *Ambracia*¹ have been thought to belong to a Praetexta.² Especially is Ennius noted for his epic poem entitled Annales, the extant fragments of which are very considerable. This poem deals with the history of Rome, beginning with the wanderings of Æneas and continuing until the poet's own times are reached. The extent of the subject rendered necessary a division of the poem into eighteen books, in which respect it contrasted with the epic of Naevius, whose story of the Punic war could be told in a single narrative. Ennius was born at Rudiae (now Rugge) in 239 B. C., and was in speech and education a Greek; but as the Oscan dialect was much spoken in southern Italy he was familiar with that also. He afterwards learned Latin, and thus became expert in three different languages, — a fact that caused him to speak of himself as having tria corda, or three souls.³ Ennius went to Rome in 204 B. C., where he gave instruction utrāque linguā (Suet. De Gram. 1), and rose through his writings to intimacy with the great. His arrival in Rome was an event of the utmost importance to the future character and development of Roman literature, for there he did more than any other writer to establish Greek standards as opposed to Italian, and thus to determine the course which the stream of literary production at Rome should eventually follow. He lived in humble circumstances on the Aventine hill, and had for his friend and fellow-lodger the poet Statius Caecilius. He died in 169 B. C.

38. STATIUS CAECILIUS survived Ennius by only one year. In the history of Roman comedy, he, and not Ennius, is conspicuous as the successor of Plautus, for his reputation as a writer of palliatae was far greater among the ancients than that of the author of the Annales. Caecilius was an Insubrian Gaul, who came to Rome, probably as a prisoner of war, about 194 B. C. There he was liberated by his master, a member of the Caecilian gens, and took his name.⁴ When he began to write, Plautus was at the height of his reputation and influence, — an elevation to which Caecilius was not destined to attain.

¹ See Baehrens, Frag. Poet. Rom., vol. 6, p. 123, and Vahlen's Ennius, 2d ed. (1903), p. 188-9.

² See Ribbeck, Die röm. Trag. Leipz. 1875, p. 207.

³ Cf. Gellius, 17. 17. 1.

⁴ Gellius, 4. 20. 13.

His success, great as it became, was neither so rapid nor so pronounced as that of Plautus, and the popularity which he acquired after Plautus' death was at least in some measure due to the skill of the actor, Ambivius Turpio. Caecilius wrote comedies only, — most of them modelled on plays of Menander. The Greek original was a thing of far greater importance to him than it had been to Plautus, though at the start he was much inclined to freedom in his treatment of his Attic models. At a later period this independence was modified in the interest of the increasing predilection of the Romans for things Greek, and Caecilius began to adhere with greater fidelity to his literary sources. Thus the way was paved for the still more refined methods of Terence. Of the many plays of Caecilius a few fragments have been preserved and forty titles, most of which are Greek. The fragments under a given title are seldom sufficient to afford a clear idea of the action of the drama they represent, those belonging to the comedy named Plocium, or "The Necklace," being perhaps the least obscure in this respect.¹ By comparing several passages taken from this comedy with their Greek originals, Gellius (2. 23) undertakes to show how far Caecilius was a literal translator, and to what extent he altered or departed from his model. From this comparison it appears that Caecilius introduced a certain coarseness into his plays, for which Menander at least is hardly to be held responsible.

39. But whatever may have been his success in the beginning (we may infer from the reference to him in Terence, Hec. 2. 14, that it was not very great), it is evident from the large number of the titles of his plays that he ultimately gained the sympathy and appreciation which he sought. Volcatius Sedigitus, as has been noticed, gives him first place in his list, and the verdict of Horace (Epist. 2. 1. 59) regarding him, is certainly not unfavourable, while Varro commends him for skill in the management of his plots. Varro's words, however, in argumentis Caecilius poscit palmam,¹ may mean nothing more than that he selected the best plays for translation. Cicero appears to have criticized his style, while admitting his ability as a comic poet. Caecilius died in 168 B.C. Among his immediate successors was the poet Luscius Lanuvinus, an older contemporary of Terence, whose writings have wholly perished.

Vincere Caecilius grauitate, Terentius arte (dicitur),

¹ On the question how far Caecilius departed from his models see Gellius, 2. 23. Cf. Leo, Plaut. Forsch. p. 90; Schanz, in Müller's Handbuch, viii, p. 75. On the estimation in which he was held in antiquity cf. Hor. Epist. 2. 1. 59; Leo, Plaut. Forsch. p. 89. See also Cic. ad Att. 7. 3. 10; Brut. 74. 258, and de Opt. Gen. Or. 1, licet dicere et Ennium summum epicum poetam et Pacuuium tragicum et Caecilium fortasse comicum.

40. Latin literature takes an important step in its development with the arrival on the scene of PUBLIUS TERENTIUS AFER. Much as Plautus had done to improve the language and refine the stage, yet, as we have seen, he was hindered in his efforts by the lack of culture in his audiences. It was otherwise with Terence. In the interval of time which separated the two poets, a society of literary men had grown up at Rome, whose tastes were dominated by admiration of Greek literature and culture. It was in this circle that Terence moved and formed his literary aspirations and ideals. It was natural therefore that his main purpose should have differed from that of Plautus, and that, instead of aiming to secure the applause of the people, he should have directed his efforts especially toward the attainment of elegance and correctness of expression, and toward symmetry in the elaboration of his plots. The best way to bring about these results, and the surest method by which to build up a national literature, lay, as he believed, in a faithful reproduction of the works of Greek genius. Accordingly he set himself to the task of Hellenizing Roman comedy more completely, and by a close imitation of his Greek models he succeeded in combining with the better and purer Latin of the cultivated class much of the flexibility, delicacy and smoothness of Attic idiom.

41. Our knowledge of the life of P. Terentius Afer, commonly known as Terence, is derived chiefly from Donatus (a commentator and grammarian of the fourth century A. D.), who in the introduction to his commentary on Terence's plays has preserved an extract taken from Suetonius' work, De Poetis. This work is a part of Suetonius' comprehensive treatise, now lost, entitled, De Viris Illustribus.² Some of the statements contained in the Life are confirmed by later writers, and light is thrown on the literary and personal relations of the poet by the prologues to the several plays. The date of his birth is uncertain, though the year generally accepted is 185 B. C., and this accords with the statement of Suetonius, that Terence was in his twenty-fifth year when he set out for Greece in 160 B. C. But this assertion is based on the assumption that Terence was of the same age as Scipio Africanus the younger, whereas the evidence that the two men were born in the same year is very slight. On the other hand, if the Suetonian biography be correct, Terence must have been only nineteen years old when he brought out the Andria, his first play, in 166 B. C. But the Andria is too finished a production to have been the work of so young a man. It bears evidence of having been the result of much study, and of considerable experience in the calling of a playwright. It is possible therefore that Terence was older at this time than many of his critics have supposed. It is indeed likely that he was born about 190 B. C.¹ At any rate, the fact that he is mentioned as the aequalis of Scipio and Laelius by Nepos, whom Suetonius quotes, need not be taken to mean more than that he was their companion, and somewhat near their age, especially as Fenestella (an antiquarian of the Augustan period also quoted by Suetonius) distinctly represents the poet as older than either of them.

¹ Varro ap. Non. p. 374.

² See Ritschl's edition of the life of Terence, in Reifferscheid's Suetonius (Leipzig,

42. Terence is said to have been a native of Carthage, and to have been brought to Rome as a slave, in his childhood, where he was educated like a freeman, by M. Terentius Lucanus, the senator, by whom he was afterwards set free. Although originally a slave, he cannot have been a prisoner of war, as there was no war between Rome and Carthage during his lifetime. He may, however, have fallen into the hands of a slave-dealer at Carthage, since many of the native African tribes were subject to the Carthaginians, and there must have been in Carthage enslaved Afri whose children were in like bondage with their parents. The children of such parents were often sold into foreign lands, and it is easy to conceive how Terence, if born at Carthage under these or similar circumstances, may have been sold by a slave-dealer to Lucanus at Rome. Some such explanation of his origin and deportation to Rome is justified in part by his cognomen Afer, which points to his having been of other than Phoenician blood. Had he been of Phoenician origin, the last of his three names would more naturally have been Poenulus, since the Carthaginians were commonly distinguished from the Africans, and it was customary in giving names to slaves to indicate the nation to which they belonged.¹ On receiving his freedom Terence would naturally have added to his praenomen Publius (the origin of which is unknown), the gentile name of his master, which would then become his nomen, while as a surname he might retain the title of "the African" as a mark of peculiar distinction.

1860), p. 26 ff., or Ritschl. Opusc. 3 (Leipzig, 1877), p. 204 ff.; Suetonius ed. by Roth (in the Teubner Series), p. 291, or the Vita at beginning of this volume.

¹ This year has been thought probable by Dziatzko and Hauler (see Hauler's edition of Dziatzko's Phormio, p. 12, note 2), and by Elmer (Phormio, Introd. p. xvii). The question as to the year 185 has been fully discussed by H. Sauppe (Nachr. d. Gött. Ges. 1870, p. 111 ff.) with the effect of making that year seem very improbable.

43. Terence is said to have been "of medium stature, graceful in person, and of dark complexion," — physical characteristics not uncommon among the Libyphoenicians. Undoubtedly his personal attractions and intellectual gifts, which had been the occasion of his obtaining his freedom, were the cause also of his permanent reception within the aristocratic circle of younger literary men at Rome, to whom he had become partly known while he was still a member of his master's household. This circle included many of the nobility, to whom chiefly at that time was owing the introduction into Roman life of Greek culture and refinement; for it was the patrician, rather than the plebeian, who assumed the task of Hellenizing society, and making Greek literature a joy forever to the Roman consciousness.

44. Among the youths of noble birth who were friends of Terence and members of the literary coterie of which we have been speaking was Scipio Africanus the younger. He it was who gave his name to what has since been known as the Scipionic circle of litterati, — a relatively small community of persons who made Greek literature their special study, and Greek refinement and education their standard. To this little group belonged also Gaius Laelius and L. Furius Philus, as well as other youths of the noblest families; while older men, of literary attainments and official rank, such as Sulpicius Gallus, Q. Fabius Labeo, and M. Popilius, were not excluded.¹ It was men of this class and character that Terence especially endeavoured to please with his comedies. To the general public he seems to have been indifferent. He even held himself aloof from the guild of poets.² Otherwise it is hardly possible that he should have been entirely unknown to Caecilius at the time when, at the bidding of the Aediles, to whom he had taken his play entitled the Andria for acceptance, he visited the aged poet for the purpose of submitting to him the first result of his literary and artistic endeavours. He found Caecilius at dinner, and being a stranger and somewhat meanly clad he was invited to read from a stool placed at the foot of the couch on which the literary veteran was reclining. After reciting a few verses, however, he was summoned by Caecilius to a place on the festal couch, and invited to share the delicacies of the table. The recitation was then concluded amid much applause. The story, though a pretty one, is thought by Sellar to be apocryphal.³ Chronological considerations also throw doubt on it; for if, as Jerome tells us, Caecilius died in 168 B. C., we must assume that the meeting with Terence took place two years before the Andria appeared on the stage. Yet the Eusebian Chronicle gives the substance of the tale, and Jerome's statement regarding the death of Caecilius may be incorrect.⁴ Moreover it is not impossible that the event described in the narrative may have taken place two years before Terence's play was actually "brought out."

¹ Cf. Livy, 30. 33. 5, Carthaginienses Afrosque; 28. 14. 4 and 19. For the meaning of Afer, see Em. Baehrens in N. Jahrb. f. Phil. 1881, p. 401 f.

45. Having gained the support of Caecilius and Scipio and other members of the literary and aristocratic party at Rome, he was able to repel the attacks of his enemies, who were moved by jealousy to bring against him a charge of plagiarism, or, to speak more exactly, of hypocrisy, in representing as of his own composition the dramas which

¹ Cf. Hauler's ed. of Dziatzko's Phormio, p. 13, note 2.

² See E. G. Sihler, The Collegium Poetarum at Rome, in Amer. Jour. Phil. xxvi, 1, p. 13.

³ Roman Poets of the Rep., 3d ed. p. 209.

⁴ The statement is: mortuus est (Caecilius) anno post mortem Ennii. This would be 168 B. C. To solve the difficulty Ritschl assumes that "III," and Dziatzko that "IIII" had dropped out of the text.

were written, in part at least, by his noble friends. The report thus spread abroad was widely credited in antiquity, and suspicion was strengthened by the fact that Terence declined either to confirm or to refute it. Probably the charge, though exaggerated and vicious, was not without foundation; but to make an explanation would have been to incur the risk of giving offence to men whose friendship he could not afford to lose. The truth appears to be that Terence read his compositions aloud in the circle of his literary friends, and availed himself, independently and according to his choice, of their criticisms and suggestions. Such assistance would partly account for the elegance and purity of his style and language, — qualities which, even considering his great advantages and constant intercourse with the highest and most refined society of his time, appear to be most miraculous in view of his immature years and foreign extraction.

46. Terence's literary activity displayed itself wholly in the production of palliatae (§ 24), to which the tendency of the times, as well as his own leanings, prompted him. After bringing out six comedies, between 166 and 160 B. C., he went to Greece, probably for the purpose of studying Greek life and institutions, which it was his habit to portray in his comedies. In 159 B. C. he died, just as he was about to return to Rome with translations, which he had made in Greece, of a number of Menander's plays. Accounts vary as to the place and manner of his death. One story relates that he was lost at sea off the island of Lencas while on his way to Italy, and that his translations perished with him. Another account declares that he died at Stymphalus in Arcadia, after having lost his baggage and manuscripts through shipwreck.

47. The six comedies written and exhibited at Rome by Terence have been transmitted to us. The following enumeration gives them in the supposed order of their public presentation (§ 74) during the lifetime of the poet, according to the evidence afforded by the didascalie and by Donatus: —

In 166 B. C.: The Andria; at the ludi Megalenses.

In 165 B. C.: The Heeyra; at the ludi Megalenses (an attempted presentation which proved a failure).

In 163 B. C.: The Heauton timorumenos; at the ludi Megalenses.

In 161 B. C. : The Eunuchus ; at the ludi Megalenses.

In 161 B. C. : The Phormio ; at the ludi Romani.

In 160 B. C. : The Hecyra ; at the ludi funerales of Aemilius Paulus (second, but unsuccessful, presentation).

In 160 B. C. : The Adelphoe ; at the ludi funerales of Aemilius Paulus.

In 160 B. C. : The Hecyra ; at the ludi Romani (third and successful presentation).

It appears from this that the Hecyra was attempted three times during the lifetime of the poet. The question arises whether the Hecyra was the only play brought out more than once during that period, — a question depending for its answer upon an examination of the prologues. These certainly point to a second performance at least of the Andria, and probably of the Heauton timorumenos, Eunuchus, and Phormio. That the extant prologue to the Andria was not written by Terence for the first performance is highly probable. The Hecyra also was first attempted without a prologue.¹

48. In reference to the Greek originals from which these comedies were taken it may be noted that in the case of the Andria, Eunuchus and Adelphoe, and possibly the Hecyra, Terence employed what has been called contaminatio, a noun connected with the verb contaminare as the latter is used by Terence in his prologues to the Heauton timorumenos and the Andria. Thus applied by Terence, the verb has reference to the process of combining parts of two or more Greek comedies so as to form a single Latin play.² Thus the Andria is based on two plays of Menander, the Ἀνδρία and Περὶνθία ; the Eunuchus also on two plays of Menander, the Εὐνοῦχος and Κόλαξ ; the Adelphoe on Menander's Ἀδελφοί and a play of Diphilus entitled Συναποθνήσκοντες, from which one scene was taken ; the Hecyra on the 'Εκυρά of Apollodorus of Carystus, to which was added (possibly) a portion of Menander's 'Επιτρέποντες.¹ Of the Phormio and the Heauton timorumenos the Greek source is in each case² a single play, the second of these being derived from the 'Εαυτὸν τιμωρούμενος of Menander, the first from a play of Apollodorus, whose title was 'Επιδικαζόμενος. As the title, however, of Apollodorus' play was not likely to be readily comprehended by an audience ignorant of Athenian law, Terence, contrary to all precedent, adopted in its place, as the title of his Latin reproduction, the name of one of the characters in the Greek original ; making at the same time a slight concession to custom by selecting for this purpose the name of the personage whose part in the play was most suggestive of the discarded Greek title. But commonly, when two Greek plays have contributed to make one Latin play, the title adopted by Terence is that of the Greek comedy from which the Latin adaptation is chiefly drawn.

¹ Karsten concludes that the Heauton timorumenos was performed, for the second time, at the ludi Apollinares in 161 B. C., and the Phormio at the ludi Romani, or plebei, in 160 B. C.; see Sylloge Lugdunensis (1893), p. 47; Mnemosyne, vol. 22 (1894), p. 178. For a possible presentation of the Eunuchus in 166 (or 165) B. C., see Hauler's ed. of Dziatzko's Phormio, p. 16, note 3. The second performance of the Andria is placed by Karsten in 162 B. C.; see Mnemosyne, vol. 22 (1894), p. 175. That the Adelphoe was performed at an earlier date, as well as on the occasion named, is very doubtful; see Hauler, p. 17, note 1, and Karsten, Mnemos. l. c. p. 207.

² The noun contaminatio is not found in Terence.

49. Although the noun contaminatio is post-classical in its application to the process described above, yet the process itself was without doubt maliciously condemned by the enemies of Terence, who were ready to seize upon anything that might be criticized in the young poet as contrary to the artistic usage of the time. This usage enjoined the closest possible adherence to a single original. Since the time of Plautus, who, as has been said, paid slight reverence to his Greek models, a growing sentiment in favour of a close imitation of these models had dominated the school of poets from which Terence had conspicuously held aloof, and when he suddenly appeared on the scene and independently followed a method to which others were opposed, he was denounced as an upstart and an innovator. Nor did it signify that others had done the same before him. The criticism on this point was severe, and Terence was fain to justify himself in his prologues.³ That such criticism was forced, however, and inspired by jealousy and envy, is suggested not only by other considerations, but also by the fact that Terence, except in respect to contaminatio, was in reality as strict an imitator of his Greek models as the best of his contemporaries. A certain freedom in verbal rendering and plot-construction was necessary to the success of his art. Lucidity of thought and such variety in the action as a Roman audience would be sure to demand were indispensable. Accordingly, Terence refrained from anything that would resemble mere translation. He did not wish, by following the example of Lanuvius, whose poetical canon was a literal dependence on his models in respect of the language and the plots alike, to make poor Latin plays out of good Greek ones (cf. Eun. Prol. vss. 7-8). He desired to present to the Roman public, in the purest Latin at his command, a true picture of Greek life and manners as given in the writings of the later Greek comedians; avoiding the licence and the Romanizing tendencies of Plautus, on the one hand, and the feebleness and obscurity resulting from extreme literalness, on the other. Such literalness he conceived to be exemplified in the compositions of playwrights like Luscius Lanuvius, as a counter-stroke to whose attacks upon himself he employs the phrase obscura diligentia in his prologue to the Andria. In the same prologue he praises the negligentia of his predecessors, and it is a fair inference that in doing so he had in view not only their greater freedom in the use of the Latin language, but also their practice of contaminatio.¹

¹ Cf. Rh. Mus. xxi. 80 ff.

² As regards the Heaut. see the Dz.-Hauler ed. of Phorm. p. 19.

³ See the prologues to the And., Heaut., Eun., and Ad.

50. Terence was accused also of furtum,—a word that may be roughly rendered “plagiarism.” The Latin word however was not so broad a term as the English, which has already been applied to the poet’s possible use of the opinions and abilities of his friends in the Scipionic circle (§§ 43, 44), not to speak of the fact that all of his plays were taken with more or less exactness from Greek comedies. Judged from a modern standpoint all writers of palliatae were plagiarists. But in the time of Plautus and Terence a Roman playwright was not accounted guilty of literary theft if he appropriated the work of a Greek poet, provided the Greek play thus purloined had not previously been translated into Latin, or in any way adapted to the Roman stage. — provided, in short, the play was wholly “new” to Roman audiences. It was a matter of professional etiquette that a Greek play once Latinized, in whole or in part, became through that process the property of the person who Latinized it, — or if not entirely so, at least to the extent to which it had been made to furnish material for a Latin play. In defending himself in the prologue to the Adelphoe against this charge Terence explains that he incorporated in this play only that part of the Synapothnescontes of Diphilus which Plautus, who had Latinized that comedy, had left untouched. In the prologue to the Eunuchus also Terence defends himself against accusations of a similar character.

¹ Fairclough (Andria, p. xxxvi, note 3) calls attention, however, to the lack of evidence to show “that Naevius and Plautus employed contaminatio in the specific sense in which the word has been used of Terence,” and cites Götz, Acta Soc. Lips. 6. 310, 315. But see Lorenz’s Pseudolus, p. 24; Leo, Plautinische Forschungen, 153-169. Contaminatio in the Pseud. has been elaborately discussed by J. W. Bierma, Quaestiones de Plautina Pseudolo. Gröningen, 1897, pp. 34-104, and by Leo, Kais. Gesell. der Wissenschaften zu Göttingen, for March 7, 1903, pp. 1-8. Karsten, Mnemosyne, xxxi, pp. 130-156, opposes Bierma’s views.

51. Of the six extant Terentian comedies the Andria is the most pathetic, the Adelphoe in general more true to human nature than the rest, the Eunuchus the most varied and lively, with the largest number of interesting characters, and the Hecyra the one of least merit. All six are remarkable for the art with which the plot is unfolded, through the natural sequence of incidents and play of motives. Striking effects, sharp contrasts and incongruities, which meet us in many of the plays of Plautus, are almost wholly absent. All is smooth, consistent and moderate, without any of the extravagance or exuberant humour, or even creative fancy, which characterize the writings of the older poet. But Terence was essentially an imitative artist, and his distinguishing feature was his artistic finish, — a fact fully recognized by Horace (Epist. 2. 1. 59), whose appreciation of Terence contrasts curiously with his estimate of Plautus.

52. All the plays of Terence may be said to have met with success before the death of their author, the Eunuchus perhaps having aroused the keenest enthusiasm in the spectators, who called for its immediate repetition, if we may trust the statement of Suetonius: Eunuchus quidem bis die acta est. The Hecyra, on the other hand, was attempted for the third time before it was permitted to proceed to a close (cf. Phorm. Prol. 31 ff., Hec. Proll. I. and II.). But in general the plays were less popular during Terence's lifetime than they afterwards proved to be, when the cultivation of letters, and in particular the study of Terence, became fashionable in the time of Cicero. Then it was that Terence's purity of style was best appreciated; indeed so greatly was it admired that the poet was placed by critics of the Augustan age on a level with the polished writers of the day. Terence had done much to promote the growth and refinement of the colloquial Latin speech. The language which he received from Plautus he improved and rendered more artistic by shaping it carefully to the graceful rhythm and diction of the Greek dramatists, notably Menander. This is his great gift to Roman literature, and it is the more noteworthy as coming from a man who flourished half a century before Cicero was born, and who accomplished his purpose, not through the medium of a great epic like that of Vergil or Dante, nor by means of some other serious form of literature such as might be suggested by the name of Cicero or of Thucydides, but in connection with a species of popular amusement which was associated in the public mind with everything light and frivolous, and was in fact a mere accessory to an established form of entertainment in itself of far greater magnitude and importance.

53. Cicero's admiration for Terence is evinced through the many references to the poet and quotations from his plays which appear in the great orator's speeches, essays and letters.¹ But Cicero's most famous, as well as most complimentary, comment appears in the following epigram handed down by Suetonius: —

“Tu quoque, qui solus lecto sermone, Terenti,
Conuersum expressumque Latina uoce Menandrum
In medium nobis sedatis motibus effers, Quiddam come loquens atque omnia dulcia dicens,” — and Cæsar is quoted by Suetonius as expressing his appreciation of Terence's purity of diction: —

“Tu quoque, tu in summis, o dimidiate Menander, Poneris, et merito, puri sermonis amator.”

Even Quintilian (10. 1. 99) makes use of the word elegantissima in speaking of Terence's plays, though that critic's general estimate of Roman comedy was anything but favourable. But the elegantia, or refinement and grace of idiom, which characterized Terence's writings was undoubtedly secured at the expense of vigour, spontaneity, and the power to express passion and depth of feeling. The absence of these qualities was noticed by Cæsar, who, in spite of his admiration for Terence's style, regrets the lack in him of a certain uis comica, the presence of which would have rendered his productions "equal to those of the Greeks"; and Terence's enemies, ever keen to seize such an opportunity, cast the same in his teeth (cf. Phorm. Prol. 5). Moreover Volcatius Sedigitus would hardly have placed Terence so low as sixth in his list of the ten most noted writers of palliatae but for this recognized defect, — unless indeed the fact were due to the tradition of the Collegium Poetarum, "which remained permanently hostile to the favourite of Scipio Aemilianus."¹

¹ Cf. Phil. 2. 6. 15; de Orat. 2. 80. 327; ad Fam. 1. 9. 19, etc.

54. After the death of Terence the only noteworthy writer of palliatae was SEXTUS TURPILIUS, who lived till 103 B. C., but probably ceased to write before that time. Thirteen titles in Greek and a few fragments of the plays are all we have of his writings. The close of the sixth century U. C., says Teuffel, coincides with the end of the palliatae. The plays of Plautus and Terence continued to be represented on the stage, but new dramas of this kind were seldom forthcoming. It was at this period that the COMOEDIA TOGATA first acquired popular favour. L. Afranius and T. Quintus Atta were its chief representatives, and to Afranius especially was accorded in ancient times no small measure of appreciation and applause. But this form of comedy never attained the success which fell to the lot of the comoedia palliata, and its place was soon shared by other forms of the comic art, through a resuscitation in literary dress of the fabulae Atellanae and the mimi. The rise of the minimus in particular did much to degrade the Roman stage in the later days of the Republic and under the Empire. In Imperial times the plays of Plautus and Terence, though often admired and expounded by commentators and critics, were seldom presented in the theatres, where the "gross buffooneries of the Atellan farce" and the indecent gestures and hilarity of the mimes² held almost undisputed sway. Thus with the decline in popular favour of the comoedia palliata we trace a gradual degeneracy of the drama at Rome, — a change, however, that seems natural enough when we contemplate the very general disappearance of high standards of conduct in the days of the Cæsars, and compare the public morals of this period in Rome's history with the genuine and characteristic virtues of the early Republic.

¹ See Sihler, Amer. Jour. of Phil. xxvi. i, p. 13.

² For a good account of the mimi see Farrar, Darkness and Dawn, chap. xvi.

55. The INFLUENCE OF TERENCE upon literature and life was not confined to his day and generation. Terence was read and studied not only in the days of Cicero and Horace and Quintilian, but also in the Middle Ages; and indeed in more modern times as well his writings have been pointed to and admired as poetic models. His influence upon Horace is very marked, especially in the more familiar style of the Satires and Epistles. The lines in Sat. 2. 3. 260 f., touching the weakness of human passion, are manifestly founded on the first scene of the Eunuchus, and the precepts of Horace's father regarding the correction of the son's failings have a distinct parallel, though a comic one, in the famous colloquy between Syrus and Demea in the Adelphoe.¹ Petrarch speaks of the two Roman comedians in terms of unlimited eulogy. Erasmus and Melancthon and other Latin writers of the Renaissance committed his works to memory. The French especially have been his ardent admirers and frequent imitators. Sainte-Beuve praises him without stint, and Fénelon is said to have preferred him to Molière.² Another French writer, M. Joubert,³ says of him: "Le miel Attique est sur ses lèvres; on croirait aisément qu'il naquit sur le mont Hymette." We find his Andria reflected in the Andrienne of Michel Baron; the Eunuchus in Bruey's Le Muet and Fontaine's L'Eunuque; the Phormio in Molière's Les Fourberies de Scapin and parts of the same writer's Le Mariage Forcé. Baron's L'École des Pères and Fagan's La Pupille are direct adaptations of the Adelphoe, and to the same play Molière is largely indebted for his École des Maris. Terence's plays have been imitated and adapted in England also. e. g. the Adelphoe in Garrick's Guardian, the Andria in Steele's Conscious Lovers and the Foundling of Edward Moore, the Eunu- chus in Sir Charles Sedley's Bellamira; the two old men of the Adelphoe, Micio and Demea, have suggested the leading characters in Cumberland's Choleric Man and Shadwell's Squire of Alsatia. In fact, the influence of Terence upon dramatic literature and literary style has been profound.

¹ See vv. 414 ff., with notes.

² See Sellar, Roman Poets of the Republic, 3d edition, p. 220.

³ Quoted by Sellar, l. c.

56. The CHARACTERS in the plays of both Plautus and Terence are in general representative or typical, like those of the later Athenian comedy. At least they lack something of that definite personality which we look for in a play of Shakespeare. The repetition of the same name in different plays tends to emphasize this lack of definiteness. But the characters of Terence are more faintly drawn than those of Plautus; the latter have greater individuality, and are more often suggestive of the personages of Shakespeare and other modern dramatists. The principal figures in Terence's dramas are the following: two old men, one severe, the other mild and indulgent; two young men, one openly dissipated, the other exemplary, — at least until his true character is disclosed; an hetaera; a leno; a parasite; a simple-minded and faithful slave, and one that is intriguing and crafty. There are also the ancilla or maid-servant, the matrona or anxious mother, and the long-lost daughter who appears first in the person of an hetaera, but is ultimately discovered to be an Athenian citizen. The motive of each piece is love, which at first takes the form of irregular passion, but ends always in a marriage satisfactory to all concerned. The scene is invariably at Athens, or (as may possibly be the case in the Heautontimorumenos) in its near neighbourhood. The time of the action is seldom more than a single day.

57. Each play is DIVIDED INTO FIVE ACTS. This division was made by scholars of the sixteenth century, who perhaps were influenced by Donatus. The latter (Praef. in Adelph.) speaks of a division into five acts, but adds: quos (actus) etsi retinendi causa iam inconditi spectatoris minime distinguunt Latini comici, metuentes scilicet ne quis fastidiosus finito actu, uelut admonitus abeundi, reliquae comoediae fiat contemptor, et surgat. With this compare what the same commentator says elsewhere (Praef. in Eun.): teneudi spectatoris causa uult poeta noster omnes quinque actus uelut unum fieri. Hence, although the division into acts may have been known to the writers of the fabulae palliatae, it was not recognized by them as a practical expedient. Terence, for example, even if he divided his plays into acts in writing them, would not have ventured to keep his audience waiting after the play had begun. The attention of the people at the public games, where the plays were exhibited, was too easily diverted by other attractions, such as gladiators, pugilists, or tight-rope dancers. But it is probable that neither Plautus nor Terence thought of any system of division into acts, such as we have mentioned. In their time the action of the play was continuous; or if pauses were needed here and there for technical reasons, their place and number were determined, not by the poet, but by the stage manager, the audience being entertained in the interval by a flute-player, as in the Pseudolus of Plautus (cf. 571-573 b). The intermission in the Pseudolus was evidently regarded by Plautus himself as exceptional, and as a special concession to the exigencies of the performance. Moreover the manuscripts of Plautus and Terence contain only slight traces of a division into acts, and the Greek originals undoubtedly were performed without any regular break or pause in the action of the play. Even the words of Horace (A. P. 189-90), —

Neue minor neu sit quinto productior actu Fabula, quae posci uult et spectata reponi, —

were intended to refer to tragedy rather than comedy, and are based upon what was regarded as conventional by Alexandrian critics. And again the expression, primo actu placeo, in the prologue to the Hecyra (39), although it contains an apparent allusion to a division into acts, is certainly nothing more than an equivalent for in prima fabula.

58. But if a division into acts was foreign to the plays of the New Attic Comedy, this cannot be said with the same truth of the plays of Aristophanes, whose choral divisions correspond so closely to the five acts already mentioned, that the law laid down for tragedy by the critics of Alexandria would seem to hold good also for the Old Attic Comedy. That the parallel does not maintain itself where the comedy of Menander is concerned is owing to the absence in general of the chorus, whose place, if filled at all in the later comedy of Athens, must have been taken by the performances of the αὐλητής. Cf. Plaut. Pseud. 571.

59. When therefore we speak of a division into acts, wherever either Greek tragedy or the Old Comedy is referred to, we allude to nothing more than the separation from one another of parts of the dialogue, by means of choric songs. The several parts of a tragedy are disussed by Aristotle (see Poet. xii), though nothing is said by him about acts : and yet it is possible to see, in what he affirms, exactly where the principle of the five-fold division is to be found. The acted parts of a tragedy, says Aristotle, were three : the πρόλογος (or introduction), the ἐπεισόδιον (or plot), and the ἐξοδος (or dénouement). These were separated from one another by choric songs. But the ἐπεισόδιον was subsequently broken into parts, also separated by choric songs, and this division of the ἐπεισόδιον, which was generally (though not always) a triple one, combined with the πρόλογος and ἐξοδος, constituted the normal structure of a Greek tragedy. This arrangement of parts seems to have given rise to a tradition which the Alexandrians made the basis of their canon that five was the proper number of acts for a drama. Thus, not only divisions of a Greek tragedy, but also the parts of a Latin comedy, which might be distinguished by pauses in the action, came to be loosely regarded as acts, the rule of five being the norm for all. The principle is more or less exemplified in the five so-called acts of a Terentian comedy. The first contains the statement of the opening situation. This is analogous to the πρόλογος of the Greek drama, the real prologue of the Latin play being without bearing upon the action or the plot. The second, third and fourth acts present the intrigue or plot proper as it is elaborated through three different states or phases ; these are parallel to the triple division of the ἐπεισόδιον (three episodes). The fifth act is devoted to the dénouement, corresponding to the ἐξοδος of Aristotle.¹

60. It is very evident, however, that these five acts of a Terentian comedy were not marked off by the commentators of a later time with special reference to predetermined pauses in the action, as they would be in a modern drama, but rather out of deference to tradition, and in accordance with the literary qualities of the play. In modern times the division into acts affords opportunity for the presentation of widely separated scenes and activities, — separated, that is, both in time and space, however closely they may be related as cause and effect. But in an ancient play, of whatever sort, there was little opportunity to represent actions not closely confined within a limited area and a comparatively brief period of time. There was no dropping or raising of a curtain except at the beginning and end of the performance. Variations or changes in the scenery were not extensive; in the plays of Plautus and Terence they were not even contemplated. If the separation of the dialogue portions of a Greek tragedy by choric songs affords a parallel to what ultimately became known to the Romans as a division into acts, it was in reality quite a different thing from that which is now meant by the phrase, for the representation of the action in the Greek tragedy was invariably continuous throughout. No pauses were required by the structure of the drama, and none was made. The same was true of the Old Attic Comedy, and to all intents and purposes of the New. Nor did Roman tragedy or comedy differ in this respect from the Greek. When, then, Cicero and Horace use the word actus, they employ it in a restricted sense, and in conformity, probably, with some rule of Alexandrian origin, growing out of the Greek divisions of tragedy just mentioned. That Cicero recognized the five-act division of a drama is probable, for he makes use of the figurative expression, in quarto actu improbitatis (Verr. 2. 2. 6. 18), and the division into three acts, which Donatus at a later date represents as the rule for tragedy (see Don. on Ad. iii. 1), was certainly familiar to him (cf. ad Q. Fr. 1. 1. 16. 46). It is doubtful, however, whether, in his reference to a triple division, it is tragedy or comedy of which Cicero is thinking; but if it be the latter, then we may suppose that in Cicero's time it was customary to mark three pauses in a Latin comedy by means of musical interludes, and these pauses might easily have been made to indicate the opening statement, the plot or intrigue, and the dénouement already mentioned.

¹ Chapter xii of the Poetics of Aristotle is bracketed by Butcher in his edition of 1895. Cf. Professor West's Terence (the Andria and Heauton), pp. xxv, xxvi.

61. The division into acts of a Plautine or Terentian drama, whenever it first took place, was somewhat assisted by the division of each play into DIVERBIA (DEVERBIA) and CANTICA, the latter being a reflection of the choric songs of the earlier comedy of Athens. (See § 84.)

62. Although Plautus and Terence did not recognize a division into acts, they did regard the DIVISION INTO SCENES as a necessary characteristic of comedy, and this division is regularly found in all the manuscripts of the two Roman comic poets, the headings prefixed to each scene giving the names of the interlocutors for that scene. There was no necessary interruption of the action at these points, however, the distinguishing mark¹ of a new scene being merely the exit or entrance of one or more characters. But even the exit of one or more personages of the drama was not sufficient to create a new scene, technically speaking, if the subsequent dialogue or soliloquy consisted of but a very few verses. In that event the entrance of another character was required before the new scene was regarded as having begun.

63. In the Old Attic Comedy the NUMBER OF ACTORS employed in a single drama was limited to three, the regular number for tragedy.² But in the New Comedy, after the chorus was abolished, this number was often exceeded. At Rome the pulliatae were still less restricted in the number of their personages. Supernumeraries, or mute characters, were freely employed at all times, whether on the Greek or Roman stage. The number of speaking characters in Roman comedy could seldom have been less than four, for of the extant plays of Plautus two only, the Cistellaria and Stichus, are capable of being represented by three actors. The Captivi, Epidicus, Mercator and Pseudolus require four performers. Ten other plays of Plautus used at least five, the Poenulus and Rudens not less than six; Ritschl conjectures that seven were needed in the Trinummus. In Terence, five actors are required in the Heauton timorumenos and the Hecyra, six in the Adelphoe and Phormio, and for the Andria and the Eunuchus even this number is not sufficient.³

64. The fact that ACTORS AT ROME WERE USUALLY SLAVES seems strange to modern ideas, but the actor (histrion) and his art were looked down on by the Romans, and the histrionic profession was seldom taken up by a person of free birth, — though freedmen were often engaged in theatrical enterprises and appeared before the public

¹ On the scene-headings in Terence see Watson, Harvard Studies, xiv, pp. 55-172.

² See Albert Müller, Lehrbuch der gr. Bühnenaltertümer, p. 176, and Haigh, The Attic Theatre, 2d edition, p. 253.

³ See Teuffel, Rom. Lit. (Warr's transl.), § 16. 4.

both as actors and as managers of theatrical troupes. In the latter capacity the freedman was called dominus gregis; if he was an actor also, it was usually in the leading rôle. The poet or playwright was generally distinct from the manager and from the actor. For example, the plays of Terence were "managed" for him by Lucius Ambivius Turpio, who also acted in them; but Livius Andronicus appears to have been his own manager, and, like Shakespeare, to have even acted in his own plays (see Livy, vii. 2 ad fin.).

65. As the plays were usually performed at the public games, the givers of the games, ludorum datores, were greatly concerned about the success of the pieces presented on these occasions, and rewarded the manager accordingly. The latter, too, was especially interested in the same question, not only on account of the reward just mentioned, but because he was obliged to assume the financial risk attending the representation. The choice of a play rested with the dominus. He made his bargain with the poet, purchasing from the latter such plays as seemed likely to prove popular, and rejecting the rest. Thus the dominus became the intermediary between the poet and the givers of the games, who, on deciding to include dramatic entertainments among the performances at the ludi, made their application to the theatrical manager, rather than to the poet himself. That the ludorum datores, however, had an occasional word to say in the selection of the plays to be presented is probable. It is evident, therefore, that great pains were taken to insure the favourable reception of a play by the people. The poet was encouraged by the manager; the latter received his compensation at the hands of the person who gave the public exhibition, and the actors themselves, or so many of them as had pleased the audience, were accustomed to be entertained by the dominus at a banquet especially provided for their benefit. Cf. Plaut. Rud. 1418 ff. It is evident, moreover, from the closing words of the Cistellaria, that the poorer actors (being slaves) were often severely punished. The question, too, whether the dominus was also a contractor or purveyor (conductor, chorēgus) whose business was to provide the theatrical company with its costumes and general stage outfit, has been decided in the affirmative by Mommsen.¹

¹ Röm. Gesch. 1, p. 886.

66. The COSTUMES worn by the actors in the palliatæ were Greek, and were copied from the dress of ordinary life. They consisted of a tunic and a mantle, the former being an under-garment called by the Greeks chiton (χιτών), the latter an outer-garment, called by the Romans pallium, a term corresponding to the Greek ἱμάτιον. As the pallium was a long garment and enveloped the entire figure, the short chlamys (χλαμύς) was often substituted for it, especially by soldiers and young men. An account of the dresses used in the New Comedy is given by Pollux (iv. 119–120). From this it appears that the typical or conventional character of the personages appearing on the stage was emphasized through the dress. For example, the tunic of the slave was short, but for the free-born it was long and had sleeves. White raiment usually distinguished old men. Young men wore crimson. Parasites were in black or grey. The leno had a bright-coloured tunic, while his mantle was variegated. The cloak of the courtesan was generally of a saffron hue. Young women commonly were dressed in white, old women in light blue or green. A distinguishing mark of the old man was his staff with a crooked handle. The rustic had a wallet and staff, as well as a tunic of leather. The heiress wore a fringe to her dress. In general the dress of the New Comedy resembled in many respects that of tragedy, but differed from the latter in being comparatively plain and unadorned. The dress of the Old Comedy was probably quite different from either.¹ The New Comedy employed also a light sort of shoe or slipper, which was not tied to the foot, and was the same for all characters. It was called ἐμβάς, in Latin soccus, and was a distinguishing feature of comic attire, just as the cothurnus, or buskin, was characteristic of the ‘make-up’ of the tragedian.

67. As to the use of MASKS, it is quite certain that they were not regularly adopted for the palliatæ until after the time of Terence. Yet in the Greek New Comedy all the actors wore masks, and wore them invariably, as in the Old Comedy and in tragedy. The custom was one from which the natural conservatism of the Greeks was unable to depart, however much the mask may have seemed unnecessary or even hurtful to the cause of high art. In the New Comedy the mask was really out of place, for it concealed the visage, and shut off all possibility of conveying ideas or shades of thought and sentiment through the play of the features. In the comedy of manners this was all-important, and there can be little doubt that in this instance the Greeks allowed custom and a conservative spirit to interfere with the best results. It has been said that the reason lay in the size of the Greek theatres, which rendered desirable if not necessary that exaggeration of the features which was easily afforded by a mask.¹ However this may be, there could have been no need of masks at Rome certainly before the erection of Pompey's theatre, and this will account perhaps for their absence in the earlier period. Yet masks are reported to have been worn on the Roman stage by Roscius in Cicero's day, or perhaps to have been brought into use even before that time by two theatrical managers named Cincius Faliscus and Minucius Prothymus, whose dates, however, have not been clearly ascertained. During the life-time of Plautus and Terence an abundant supply of wigs, false hair and paint was quite sufficient to produce that exaggerated effect which was regarded as important, since the temporary wooden theatres erected in the Circus Maximus at that period were probably of only limited proportions.

¹ See Haigh's Attic Theatre, 2d edition, pp. 288 ff.

THE THEATRE

68. The Romans, in the earliest times, witnessed their plays under difficulties. The state looked upon theatrical exhibitions with an unfriendly eye, and placed restrictions upon them. Only the scantiest kind of a wooden platform was at first allowed, and this was taken down after each performance. The platform was backed by a wall or partition of wood, and the slope of a hill served as a place for the spectators. The partition wall behind the platform was called the scaena; the platform itself the proscænium, pulpitum, or "stage," and the place where the spectators sat or stood was known as the cavea, or "pit," and was without seats.

This state of things existed when Plautus flourished, in whose time the level space (orchestra) between the stage and the main body of spectators was first reserved for senators and other persons of distinction (Liv. 34. 44). A small theatre on the Greek plan (theatrum et proscaenium, Liv. 40. 51), with stage of stone, was erected in 179 B. C. near the temple of Apollo, but was soon afterward pulled down. Again, in 174 B. C., an effort was made to secure the erection of a permanent stage. This was authorized by the censors (Liv. 41. 27); but the spectators were compelled as before to stand, and there is reason to believe that the structure was demolished soon after the conclusion of the performance for which it was built. In 155 B. C., not long after the death of Terence, a stone theatre, with seats for the spectators, was begun by C. Cassius Longinus, but the next year P. Scipio Nasica induced the senate to prohibit the building of a permanent stage, and the structure commenced by Longinus was demolished. In fact, repeated hindrances and restrictions were placed in the way of theatrical exhibitions, on the ground that they encouraged a taste for Greek luxury and hastened the corruption of the Roman youth. The prejudice, however, was eventually, though slowly, overcome. In 145 B. C., a theatre was built on a larger scale than usual, consisting not only of a stage-platform and scena, but of side-walls and cauea with seats, as in the theatre of the Greeks. But this too was made of wood and was destroyed after it had served its immediate purpose.

¹ See Haigh's Attic Theatre, 2d edition, p. 294. The writer may be pardoned for dissenting from this view, since the remains of the theatres at Athens, Argos and Epidauros are (in his judgment) not in accord with their reputed size.

69. It was not until the year 55 B. C. that a permanent theatre was erected in Rome, when Pompey the Great constructed one of stone in the Campus Martius, and rendered it complete in all particulars. This building, according to Pliny (N. H. 36. 115), was capable of seating 40,000 spectators, — probably an exaggeration.¹ No vestige of Pompey's theatre remains to be seen, except a line of curvature in the street that now covers a part of the ground where the cauea once stood. Two similar theatres were constructed and opened in 13 B. C., one by Augustus, the other by Cornelius Balbus. The latter has perished utterly. The former, which was named by its builder after his nephew Marcellus, has survived in part and constitutes to-day one of the most interesting of the ruins of ancient Rome.

70. The Roman theatre, in its main features, was like the Greek.

¹ Lanciani (The Ruins and Excavations of Ancient Rome, p. 459) reckons the number of seats (loca) at 17,580.

There were, however, two important differences. The orchestra (ὀρχήστρα) of the Greek theatre of ordinary type — that is, of the earlier theatre which was wholly free from the effect of Roman influence — was practically a complete circle. Such for example was the orchestra in the original Dionysiac theatre at Athens, and in the theatre as it appears even now at Epidaurus. The Roman orchestra, on the other hand, was but little larger than a semicircle. The Greek orchestra was occupied by the chorus, if not also by the actors; the Roman was filled with seats for senators, distinguished guests and other dignitaries. There was no chorus, as a rule, in a Roman play; or in the event of an exception to the usual practice, the chorus, such as it was, appeared on the stage, as in a modern drama. The other important difference was the greater size of the Roman stage, which was both deeper and longer (wider) than the Greek. On the other hand the Greek stage was higher than the Roman, perhaps doubly so, — assuming that such a thing as a Greek stage ever existed independently of Roman influence. That the Greek theatre, however, of the time of Aeschylus had no stage whatever, but an orchestra merely, and that the latter was the place of action for both actors and chorus alike, have been very certainly shown by Dr. Dörpfeld.¹ The Romans also introduced the custom of constructing theatres on a level site, — a useful innovation in theatrical architecture, since it did away with the necessity under which the Hellenes had been held by tradition, of scooping out the cauea from a lofty rock or hill-side.

71. The Romans continued to build theatres in the provincial towns of Italy. These were always designed with the semicircular orchestra, except that occasionally two theatres were constructed close together, one of them having the larger orchestra intended for the exhibition of Greek plays only. On the other hand, the theatres built under Roman rule in Hellenic cities, such as Tauromenium, Aspendus and Myra, were more or less on the old Greek model. An exception to this rule was the beautiful theatre of Herodes Atticus, a wealthy Greek of the time of Hadrian, which was erected on the western side of the southern slope of the Acropolis at Athens, and had a semicircular orchestra. Extensive remains of this theatre still exist and exhibit a mixture of Greek with Roman architecture.¹ The almost total disappearance of the chorus in the New Comedy accounts not only for its absence in general from the comedy of the Romans, but also for the diminished size of the Roman orchestra, and in part for the greater magnitude of the Roman stage, for which the larger number of actors in the Roman drama is also in a measure responsible. Moreover an occasional chorus² appeared in the comedy of the Romans, like that of the fishermen in the Rudens of Plautus. For this, although it was undoubtedly a reflection of the chorus in some Greek original, a place was made upon the stage, while the orchestra continued to serve merely as a portion of the auditorium. There is no suggestion of a chorus in Terence.

¹ For the structural details of a Roman theatre, see Opitz, Das Theaterwesen der Griechen und Römer, p. 120 ff.; Barnett, The Greek Drama, p. 103, and Smith's Dict. of Antiquities, 3d edition, s. v. theatrum. See also Gustav Oehmichen, in Müller's Handbuch d. kl. Alt. v, p. 228 ff.; Albert Müller, Lehrbuch der griechischen Bühnenaltertümer, p. 82 ff.; and an article on the Greek theatre by John Pickard in The Amer. Jour. Phil. vol. xiv. 1, 2, and 3. See also Haigh's Attic Theatre, 2d edition, and compare Dörpfeld-Reisch, Das Griechische Theater, passim.

72. The stage represented a street (uia), the background (scaena) the fronts of ordinary houses. There were usually three doors in the scaena, two of which might belong to one house, as in the Adelphoe; or each door might represent a separate house, as in the Andria. The doors opened outwards upon the stage (proscenium, pulpitum), but not so as to disclose an interior; for this no provision was made in Roman comedy. Hence all conversations must take place in the street, or at the threshold of the house-door. Nothing corresponding to a change of scene, such as is common enough in a modern theatre, was brought into operation before the first century B. C. But among the appurtenances of the stage scenery was the lane or narrow alley (angiportum, angiportus), which opened into the street, not at the side, but at the rear of the stage. This occasionally served the actor as a place of partial concealment, as in Phormio, 891 f. At either end of the stage was an exit (or entrance). That on the right (of the spectators) was supposed to lead to the forum (ἀγορά) and the centre of the city; that on the left, to the harbour and the country.¹ In the middle of the stage was an altar, usually dedicated to Apollo.² The scene, in a Terentian or Plautine comedy, remained the same throughout the play.

¹ See Guhl and Koner, Das Leben der Griechen und Römer, 4th edition, pp. 534-5.

² On the chorus, see Moulton, Ancient Classical Drama, 2d edition, p. 397 f.

73. The theatres were open for dramatic performances in the day-time only, and the plays came to an end before the hour of the cena, or principal meal of the day. This was about three o'clock in the afternoon, though the hour varied. Before the play began, its title was announced to the people by the dominus gregis, who informed them at the same time of its authorship, and of the Greek original from which it had been adapted. A Roman audience was not unlike an English audience of the time of Elizabeth. If the play did not please, the spectators signified as much without scruple. Nor did they hesitate to leave the theatre in a body if something more attractive happened to be taking place elsewhere. The fate which befell the Hecyra is an example of what the Roman playwright was obliged sometimes to endure. Hearing, on the occasion of the first performance, that some boxing and rope-dancing were in progress at no very distant point, the spectators deserted the theatre and the play came to a stop. At another time, the report that a gladiatorial exhibition was going on produced the same result. It may be noted, however, that, apart from the peculiar temperament and habits of the people, the consideration that the privilege of viewing the performance had been bought and paid for was not operative, as with a modern audience; for admission to the theatre in ancient Rome was free, or if a price was demanded it was so small as to be merely nominal. The latter was the case at Athens in the days of the Greek tragedians.

¹ See Hanler's ed. of Dziatzko's Phormio, p. 36. According to another opinion, the harbour as well as the forum lay to the right, the country to the left of the spectators. This view is in accord with the best authenticated arrangement of the Greek stage, as also with the actual topography as seen from the remains of the theatre of Dionysus at Athens; see my edition of the Adelphoe, App. II (Macmillan & Co.). From the following passages, which cannot be discussed here for lack of space, the careful student may get valuable hints on this subject: Plant. Amph. 333. Men. 551 ff. (compared with 433 ff.), Ter. And. 722-743. The situation in the Rudens of Plautus, however, is widely different from that in any other Latin play.

² Cf., however, the Dziatzko-Hanler ed. of the Phormio, p. 36, and note 3.

DRAMATIC REPRESENTATIONS AT THE PUBLIC GAMES

74. While Greek plays were exhibited in honour of Dionysus, in a theatre dedicated to the god, and the representation, or series of representations, was the principal feature in the public worship of that particular divinity, Roman plays, on the contrary, bore no such important religious significance. They formed only a part, and usually a very small part, of the performances at the public games. The play was in fact a mere side-show at these great festivals, and there was nothing in it suggestive of religion except (possibly) the altar. There were four great festivals at Rome, — the ludi Romani, given by the Curule Ædiles in September in honour of Jupiter: the ludi Apollinæ, celebrated by the Praetor Urbanus in July; the ludi Plebeii, given by the Plebeian Ædiles in November, and the Megalensia (μεγάλη), or ludi Megalenses, held by the Curule Ædiles in the month of April. The last were instituted in commemoration of the introduction into Rome, from Phrygia, in 204 B. C., of the worship of Cybele, who was honoured by the Romans as the Great Mother, or Magna Mater Idæa.¹ Other games also were given on certain extraordinary occasions, such as the celebration of a triumph, or of the ludi Saeculares, the dedication of a public building, or the funeral of a distinguished man (ludi funebres or funerales). Of them all, the ludi Romani, also called Magni or Maximi, were the oldest and the most important, and it was at their celebration that the first regular theatrical exhibitions took place. Indeed it was not until some time had elapsed after the death of Livius Andronicus that any of the other public games were embellished with the added attraction of dramatic performances. Among the latter were plays of Terence. See § 47.

METRES

75. The earliest form of Italian measure of which we have any remains is the Saturnian (§ 20). This rests on an accentual rather than on a quantitative basis, and, though showing an advance upon earlier accentual forms, was felt to be too rude and too lacking in variety of movement to serve the purposes of the dramatic poets. It was not ill suited to narrative poetry, and was used by Naevius in his poem on the first Punic war, as well as by Livius Andronicus in his translation of the Odyssey. But Plautus, Cæcilius, Terence and the rest turned to the quantitative measures of the Greeks to supply their needs, and found what they required in the New Comedy which had furnished them with their originals. Notwithstanding this, Latin prosody in the time of Plautus and Terence was not yet fixed, and what would have been violation of metrical law in the Augustan age was often plainly permissible in the earlier period. Metrical variety is far more conspicuous in Plautus than in Terence. In the latter it is reduced, as one might say, to a minimum, so far at least as may be consistent with the avoidance of monotony, the metres being practically resolvable into two classes, the Iambic and Trochaic. The more elaborate metres, such as the Dactylic, Cretic, Bacchiac and (perhaps) Choriambic, appear very seldom in Terence. Indeed those instances that do occur are confined to a single play, the Andria, unless verses 611-613 of the Adelphoe are correctly regarded as choriambic.¹

¹ Cf. n. on the didascalía to the Andria, 2.

76. The commonest measure in Latin comedy is the IAMBIC SENARIUS (patterned after the Greek Iambic Trimeter Acatalectic). It is the ordinary metre of the dialogue, and at least one half of the verses in each of Terence's plays belongs to this measure. It is the opening metre in all the plays. The scheme is :

♩♩-|♩♩-|♩♩

It consists of six iambic feet ; but the tribrach ♩♩, spondee -♩, anapaest ♩♩, dactyl -♩♩, and proceleusmatic ♩♩♩ are admitted as substitutes for the iambus in any place except the last. The final foot must be a pure iambus, but as the last syllable of the verse is indifferent (syllaba anceps) the foot may be actually a pyrrhic (♩♩). The proceleusmatic (♩♩♩) is found most commonly in the first place, and seldom, perhaps never, in the fifth.² A common substitute in all

¹ Fleckeisen thinks these lines were originally iambic and trochaic, not choriambic, as generally supposed. He is probably right.

² Elmer affirms that the proceleusmatic never appears in the fifth foot (see his ed. of the Phormio, crit. note on 598). Dziatzko-Hauler (Phormio, p. 38), and Hayley metres is the spondee. But to introduce into the verse a foot containing a number of morae, or units of time (∪), greater than the number properly belonging to the fundamental foot of the measure, would seem to violate the theory of equivalents. The violation, however, is more apparent than real, for the spondee, or other substituted foot, was approximately reduced to the time of the iambus or trochee by rapid utterance or slurring of the syllables, and so became the practical equivalent of the principal foot of the measure. It was not, therefore, the full spondee or daetyl of Vergil. The spondee when substituted for an iambus may be indicated by >∪, the daetyl by >∪∪, the anapaest by ∪∪∪, the proceleusmatic by ∪∪∪∪. The regular cæsure of the iambic senarius is after the arsis or first syllable of the third foot (penthemimeral). But the verse admits cæsure in the fourth foot (hepthemimeral). When this happens a secondary cæsure occurs sometimes in the second foot, or else a diæresis after that foot. Cæsure well defined, however, is by no means invariable in Terence and Plautus.

77. The IAMBIC SEPTENARIUS (corresponding to the Greek Iambic Tetrameter Catalectic) is more rarely used than the senarius. The scheme is as follows:—

∪∪∪—|∪∪∪—|∪∪∪—|∪∪∪∧

It consists of seven complete feet (hence its name), and a half foot. The regular division of the verse is after the fourth foot (diæresis): hence hiatus and syllaba anceps are permitted here: a cæsure in the fifth foot is usual in case of the failure of the diæresis. The fourth foot is preferably a pure iambus. Otherwise the substitutions are the same as in the senarius.

78. The IAMBIC OCTONARIUS (Greek Iambic Tetrameter Acatalectic) occurs very frequently in the cantica. The scheme is:—

∪∪∪—|∪∪∪—|∪∪∪—|∪∪∪

It consists of eight full iambic feet. The break takes the form of diæresis at the end of the fourth foot, which in that case is treated as the final foot of the verse is treated, that is, it must be a pure iambus.

(p. 10) make no such claim. See An Introduction to the Verse of Terence, by H. W. Hayley (Boston, Ginn & Co.).

Sometimes, however, cæsura takes the place of diæresis, and falls in the fifth foot, i. e. after the fifth arsis. The verse admits, in general, the substitutions of the senarius.

79. The IAMBIC QUATERNARIUS (Greek Iambic Dimeter Acatalectic) is rare in Terence. The scheme is : —

υ λ υ — | υ λ υ υ

It may also be catalectic. Such short verses generally follow longer verses having the same rhythm, and are called clausulae. They may belong either to iambic or trochaic metre, but (in Terence) they do not admit the proceleusmatic.

80. There are two principal trochaic metres. The TROCHAIC SEPTEENARIUS (Greek Trochaic Tetrameter Catalectic) runs as follows : —

λ υ — υ | λ υ — υ | λ υ — υ | λ υ υ λ

It is made up of seven and a half trochaic feet ; but in Terence any of the substitutes allowed for the iambus in iambic verse, excepting the proceleusmatic, may take the place of the trochee ; in Plautus not even the proceleusmatic is excepted. The seven complete feet give the name to the verse. The customary division is after the fourth foot (diæresis), which cannot then be a dactyl, and hiatus and syllaba anceps are also admitted there. Sometimes diæresis occurs after the fifth foot. In this case another diæresis is found at the end of the third foot, or else a cæsura within that foot. A pure trochee is usual in the seventh place, though a tribrach occasionally appears there. This metre seems to have been used in dialogue almost as frequently as the iambic senarius. It was the chosen metre for the recitative passages, and occurs regularly at the close of Terence's comedies.

81. The TROCHAIC OCTONARIUS (Greek Trochaic Tetrameter Acatalectic) : —

λ υ — υ | λ υ — υ | λ υ — υ | λ υ — υ

is rare in Terence, and is used by him only in alternation with other verses. Substitutions are freely admitted. Diæresis occurs, as in the septenarius, after the fourth foot ; but occasionally a cæsura in the fourth or the fifth foot takes the place of the diæresis.

82. The TROCHAIC QUATERNARIUS CATALECTIC (Greek Trochaic Dimeter Catalectic) : —

— — — — — | — — — — —

occurs here and there in Terence, generally as a clausula. It consists of three complete feet followed by an incomplete foot, and may properly be called ternarius, on the analogy of the trochaic septenarius. The other metres, as already remarked, are unusual in Terence. They are : —

1. CHORIAMBIC TETRAMETER : —

— — — — — | — — — — — | — — — — — | — — — — —

2. CRETIC TETRAMETER : —

— — — — — | — — — — — | — — — — — | — — — — —

3. BACCHIAC TETRAMETER : —

— — — — — | — — — — — | — — — — — | — — — — —

4. DACTYLIC TETRAMETER : —

— — — — — | — — — — — | — — — — — | — — — — —

Number 1 occurs twice (611, 612) or, including 613, three times in the Adelphoe.¹ In the Andria, vss. 626–634, number 2 appears nine times. In 481–484 of the same play number 3 is found four times. Of number 4 there is but a single example in Terence, viz., Andria, 625.

83. These various metres were adapted to different moods. That which may be called the plain, prosaic mood — the mood of persons engaged in calm and familiar conversation, or in the simple narration of facts, — was usually expressed by means of iambic senarii. Hence this metre, beside its use elsewhere, is generally found at the beginning of a play, invariably so in Terence. If the mood of the speaker be impassioned or excited he may give utterance to iambic octonarii, or to trochaic septenarii. The latter however are not quite so well suited as the former to greatly animated speech. Serio-comic strains are frequently given in iambic septenarii, and if part of a scene is intended to be sung the trochaic octonarius may be introduced.

¹ But see p. 50, note 1.

84. The scenes of a comedy of Plautus or Terence may be ranged roughly in two classes, — those which were said, and those which were sung. The former were simply recited in a conversational tone and were not accompanied by music. They were known as diuerbia (deuerbia), dialogues, and were invariably written in iambic senarii. The latter were known as cantica (§ 61). Strictly speaking, the canticum was a lyrical monologue (μωρῳδία) which was sung to the tune of the tibia, and accompanied by appropriate gestures or dancing. The metres were mixed or irregular, to correspond to the varying emotions expressed. Among them were such measures as the cretic, bacchiac, trochaic octonarius and others of a distinctly lyric character. An instance of this species of canticum occurs at verse 610 of the Adelphoe, where Aeschinus is the victim of considerable mental excitement. A notable example occurs also at the opening of the fourth act of the Andria. But the term canticum was used also in a wider sense, and was made to include the scenes which were merely declaimed or chanted (with musical accompaniment), like the recitative of a modern opera. The metres employed in the composition of these scenes were the trochaic septenarius, the iambic septenarius, and the iambic octonarius. The strictly lyrical cantica were not always sung by the actor himself, if we may believe Livy (7. 2. 8. ff.), but by a young slave who stood near the tibicen, while the actor confined himself to such action or gesticulation as suited the sentiment of the verses thus delivered. The person who sang these lyrical portions of the play was probably the same as the Cantor who came forward at the close of the drama and challenged the applause of the audience in the word plaudite.¹

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

85. We see in what has been said a decided difference between the ancient and the modern practice. But we see also a resemblance to a modern comic opera, the music being of course far less elaborate.²

¹ Cf. Hor. Ars Poet. 154–155, with Wilkins' note.

² A brief bibliography of Greek music is given by Fairclough in his ed. of the Andria, p. lxi, note. There he cites Naumann's History of Music, ed. by Sir F. Gore Ouseley (Cassell & Co.), and his own article on Tyrtæus, etc., in A Library of the World's Best Literature, ed. by Charles Dudley Warner.

The music of all of Terence's plays was composed by a slave named Flaccus, who, with his master, Claudius, is mentioned in the didascaliae. It appears that musicians of that time were generally slaves, and that the plays of Plautus also were probably furnished with music, not by the poet, but by these artists of low degree. The extreme simplicity of the music is apparent when we consider that it was rendered by one, or at most two musicians (tibicines) who played upon the tibia or "flute." This word would perhaps be translated more accurately by "clarinet" or "oboe," since this instrument resembles the tibia more nearly than the modern flute does. There were generally two tibiae, that is, two pipes which were played upon at the same time by means of a sort of double mouth-piece. This the musician held between his lips with the aid of a bandage (capistrum) having holes in it. By means of these holes the two mouth-pieces were kept in place, the bandage having been passed over the performer's mouth. The didascaliae prefixed to the several plays mention *tibiae pares*¹ (which included the serranae as well as the duae dextrae, the former being merely shorter than the latter), and tibiae inpares. The pares were two straight pipes of equal length. The inpares were two pipes unequal in length, the left (sinistra) being the longer, and curved at the end. The right (dextra) was perhaps the same as in the duae dextrae. Two left-hand pipes (duae sinistrae) are nowhere mentioned in the didascaliae. See Howard, l. c. p. 43 ff.

86. According to Servius (ad Aen. ix. 615), the tibiae inpares were called Phrygian, while Donatus (Praef. to the Ad.) indicates that the duae dextrae tibiae (which were pares) were the same as the Lydian. That a change of instruments was possible in the course of a play is evident from the words, primum tibiis inparibus deinde duabus dextris, which appear in the didascalia to the Heauton timorumenos. As in the case of a modern play or opera, a musical prelude preceded the performance, and musical interludes were sometimes inserted between the scenes (or acts).² See § 57.

¹ It is probable that the varieties were three in number; see A. A. Howard on the Ἀβλός or Tibia, in Harvard Studies in Class. Phil., vol. iv (1893), p. 42.

² Cf. Plautus, Pseudolus, vs. 573^b, Tibicen uos interea hic delectauerit.

PROSODY

87. In reference to the prosody of Terence, it should be remarked that the rules for classical Latin apply far more strictly in his case than in that of Plautus. This is owing, not so much to a difference in point of time between the two writers, as to the education and associations of the younger poet. But in both Plautus and Terence the influence of the old Saturnian metre is clearly perceptible; see § 20. This metre, probably, was accentual (as has been said) rather than quantitative, and its effect upon the verse of the Roman playwrights is seen in the frequency with which the ictus (beat) of the measure and the word-accent coincide in their writings. To appreciate this point it is only necessary to compare their lines with those of Vergil, in whom the ictus is wont to clash frequently with the ordinary accent of the words as pronounced in every-day speech. A line taken from Shakespeare, Ham. 1. 2, will illustrate this: —

In égal scále, weighing delight and dóle.

Here the natural word-accent of “weighing” clashes with the accent of the verse, and is overpowered by it, if the verse be read with full regard to the metrical beat.¹

88. The accents printed in the Latin text of these plays indicate the principal ictus in each dipody. Another and lighter verse-accent, not so marked, falls upon the corresponding long syllable in the other foot of the dipody.

89. The coincidence of the ictus with the accent received by any given word in ordinary speech will be found to occur oftener in Plautus and Terence than at first sight seems probable. The language of these writers is so largely taken from that of every-day conversation that it becomes necessary to consider the question of stress as it occurred in certain word-groups peculiar to the sermo cottidianus. In these word-groups the accent of the individual word was exchanged for another accent belonging to the group taken as a whole. For example, if we apply the rules of accentuation to two or more words regarded as one we shall have such phenomena as the following: potiús quum, apúd me, noscúnt sua, intér se, uae miseró mihi, wherein the verse-accent and the accent of the group, as the latter was heard in prose or common speech, are identical. Such word-groups arose from a natural tendency to attach the subordinate words in a sentence to those which were important or prominent.¹

¹ On the value and meaning of the ictus, see Prof. C. E. Bennett in Amer. Journ. of Phil. vol. xix. 4, and xx. 4, and a paper by the latter, entitled The Quantitative Reading of Latin Poetry. Boston, 1899. See also Hendrickson's replies, A. J. P. vol. xx. 2, and xx. 4. Cf. especially R. S. Radford, A. J. P. xxv. 4, pp. 420-427, for the relation of word-accent and ictus; also T. A. P. A. xxxv, pp. 49 ff., and C. W. L. Johnson, l. c. pp. 65 ff.

90. The tendency in the earliest Latin was to throw the accent back upon the first syllable, whatever the length of the word. Consequently, when we find in Plautus the verse-accent falling upon the first syllable of a word of four syllables, having the first three short (e. g. fácilius), we are entitled to assume that in this word the two accents were still coincident. In the time of Terence, however, this is less certain. In his day this tendency was giving way to the custom, which afterwards became regular, of placing the accent on the antepenult, not only in words like fácilius, but also in those quadrisyllabic forms in which the first syllable was long: e. g. dissímili, quándóquidem. However, Terence has fácilius, máliuoli, rélicuom, míliaem, cóndicio, quándóquidem, etc., as well as dissímili, quándóquidem, and other instances of the later rule regarding the stressed syllable.

91. It is natural that accent should cause the syllable on which it falls to receive strength or weight at the expense of the syllable that precedes or follows it. Accordingly, long syllables adjacent to the accented syllable often become short, in dramatic poetry. In the most remote period of the language nearly all suffixes had long vowels. But the law restricting the word-accent to the penult and antepenult did much to increase the natural tendency toward a neglect of final syllables in pronunciation. Thus, many final syllables once long became short, short syllables were correspondingly obscured, and final consonants were often dropped altogether. Especially was this true in the case of iambic words, or dissyllables with short penult, as in the imperatives rógā, iúbē, cáuē, rédī. etc., and in declension, as nóuō, léuī, hérī, uírōs, and likewise in such words as ápud, quídem, érat, párum, sénex, etc., whose final consonant thus fails to make position with an initial consonant in the following word. This tendency was partly checked by Ennius for the literary Latin, so that in authors subsequent to Plautus and Terence we find many final syllables of iambic words restored to their original long quantity. If the verse-accent fell on the final syllable, the effect was to cause the natural long quantity of that syllable to be retained. This principle held good also for words of three or more syllables, as ómniá (Heaut. 575), Aéschinús (Ad. 260), uíriginé (Ad. 346), áccipít (Eun. 1082), uígeāt (Ad. 25). In fact the effect of the verse-accent extended to all iambic combinations, and may be expressed in general as follows: When the first syllable of an iambic sequence (◡ –), or the syllable following an iambic sequence, receives the ictus, the second syllable of the sequence may be shortened. Thus ◡ – is measured as ◡ ◡, and ◡ – ◡ may become ◡ ◡ ◡. “The short that precedes the long which is to be shortened must be a monosyllable or begin a word.”¹ A few examples are: séd ěstne (Ad. 569), ábī domum (And. 255), enīm sé (Phorm. 113), erāt míssa (Ad. 618). The principle stated is the so-called Iambic Law; and though it has been given here as referring chiefly to the effect of the verse-accent, there is no doubt that the word-accent would have similar force were it not that the two most frequently unite to produce the results described.

¹ On the subject of word-groups, see Radford in A. J. P. xxv. 2, 3, and 4.

92. The tendency to shorten long unaccented syllables was assisted by a general inclination to slur over or obscure final consonants, especially d, l, m, n, r, s, t, as illustrated in some of the examples given above. Hence the seeming violation of the law of position, which is so strictly observed in Augustan poetry, for since one of two consonants might be obscured or wholly dropped the syllable itself was not made long, — a peculiarity not confined to the last syllables of words.

93. In Terence, final s invariably fails to make position with a following consonant, and even as late as the time of Cicero it was only faintly pronounced. Cicero however (Orator, 48. 161) speaks of this habit of slurring the letter s as countrified (subrusticum), though he admits that the custom was once regarded as refined, and indeed that he practised it himself in his early poetry.

¹ See Hayley, p. 3. Cf. Radford, T. A. P. A. vol. xxxiv, pp. 61 ff.

94. A mute followed by l or r invariably fails to make the syllable long, in Terence.

95. Indifference to doubled consonants tended to a like result in early Latin. In fact doubled consonants were not regularly written in Latin before the time of Ennius, and the pronunciation of words like ille, quippe, immo, eccum, etc., seems to have fluctuated. Thus, in Plautus the pronoun ille often shows the apparent scansion illē, and in Terence also this is not infrequently the case. Compare, e. g., illē quē (Ad. 72), illē qui illam (Phorm. 109), and immo, ēccum, ōpportune ōppressionem in Ad. 483, 720, 81, and 238 respectively.¹

96. SYNIZESIS,² or the fusion of two or more adjacent vowel sounds into one, is found often in Plautus and Terence. Thus, of course, in dēus the two short vowel sounds are pronounced with a slur, and similarly in other forms of this word, and in the possessive pronouns. It is the same with the various forms of is and idem, e. g. eos = yōs. So fuisse is pronounced f'uisse, and in like manner the other perfect forms of esse. Other examples of this treatment are, dīēs, dīēi, sciō, aiebam = aibam, aisne = ain, aīt = ait, hūius (pronounced hweese), quōius (quoise), mulier; two vowels sounded as one when brought together by composition, as in proīn, dēhinc, dēinde, dēin, antēhac, dēorsum, sēorsum, caue = cau, and many more.

97. HIATUS is properly the absence of synaloepha, and is of rare occurrence in Terence.³ It is admitted (1) after an interjection, (2) at a change of speakers, (3) in the cæsura or diæresis of the verse, (4) where there is a decided pause in the sense. Most frequently, however, both in Plautus and Terence, hiatus is found in cases where a monosyllable, ending in a long vowel, or in m preceded by a vowel, forms the first syllable of a resolved thesis, the long vowel then becoming short, e. g. mē ūd, quī hūdīe, dūm ērit (see Ad. 111, 215, 118). Cf. Munro's note on Lucretius, ii. 404.

¹ A plausible explanation of illē is that the final ē was treated as a silent letter; cf. the omission of e in hic (= hice) and in the particle -ne, as in niden, etc., and see Skutsch, Studien zur plautinischen Prosodie, Leipzig, 1892, pp. 30 ff. This view is disputed by Radford in a paper read before the Amer. Phil. Assoc. in December, 1905.

² When this happens between two words, it is more correctly termed synaloepha (συναλοιπά, Quint. 9. 4. 36).

³ See Spengel's Introductio to the Andria, p. xxxii.

CODICES AND TEXT OF TERENCE

98. The sources from which the text of Terence is derived are the manuscripts, the quotations of ancient writers, the commentaries of grammarians, and the conjectures of modern scholars.

The principal manuscripts of Terence, together with their letters of reference, by which they are commonly designated, are given below :

(A) CODEX BEMBINUS, so called from its former owner. Bernardo Bembo, who lived from 1433 to 1519 of the Christian era. This MS. came into the possession of Fulvius Ursini, who bequeathed it to the Vatican library, where it now lies, its number being 3226. It is of the fourth or fifth century and is written in rustic capitals. No other MS. of Terence is its equal in point of age or importance. Yet it is not in a good state of preservation. The Andria is wholly wanting as far as verse 786, and of lines 787-887 only a few letters survive. Of Adelphoe 914-997 only a very small portion can be accurately deciphered, and of the Phormio verses 172, 240-2, and 635 are lost. But notwithstanding its mutilated condition, the Bembine is our most trustworthy authority in determining the Terentian text, for it is the only MS. certainly free from the arbitrary alterations of Calliopius. All other codices are now believed to be descended from a common ancestor whose text underwent revision at the hands of this unknown grammarian or critic. When Calliopius lived is uncertain. He is assigned by some authorities to the fifth century ; by others he is thought to have lived as early as the third. It is probable, at least, that he flourished before the time of Aelius Donatus, whose commentary on Terence has come down to us, and who lived in the middle of the fourth century A. D. In the Codex Bembinus the plays appear in the following order : Andria, Eunuchus, Heauton timorumenos, Phormio, Hecyra, Adelphoe.

99. The manuscripts of Terence (except A) are written in minuscule characters, and may be separated into three groups according to their kinship and supposed merit. These groups are herein designated as I, II, III. Under I and II fall those MSS. which are capable of classification in accordance with their kinship to one another. Under

III are placed others whose exact relation to the rest is not easily discernible.

GROUP I; known also as the γ family.

100. (P) CODEX PARISINUS: of the ninth or tenth century; now in the Bibliothèque Nationale in Paris, and, on account of its well preserved condition and fine illustrations, often on exhibition in the Salle d'Exposition des Imprimés et des Manuscrits. It presents the plays in the following order: Andr., Eun., Heaut., Ad., Hec., Phorm. The catalogue number is 7899. See § 112.

101. (C) CODEX VATICANUS: of the ninth or tenth century; copied from the same original as P, and now in the Vatican library. It is remarkable for the beauty of its illustrations, which are highly coloured, and are reputed to be, above all others, in accord with old tradition. The figures appear for the most part in the body of the page, rather than in the margin, and are grouped in each instance with a view to the illustration of the following scene. Above each figure, and in red ink, are written the name and character of the personage represented. The prevailing colour in the dress is a bluish gray, which appears most frequently in the tunic; while the upper garment, or pallium, is often of some shade of yellow, brown or purple. The most varied hues adorn the dress of the young men. The variety and richness of colouring which distinguish its miniatures render this codex in a sense unique. No other MS. can be compared with it in this respect, and its superior size seems to be peculiarly suited to such additions. Its number is 3868.¹

102. (B) CODEX BASILICANUS: of the end of the tenth century, and now in the Vatican. It is nothing else than a copy of C, excepting a small portion of it, which seems to have been taken from D. Spaces intended for miniatures appear in it, but have been left blank. It is catalogued as S. Petri H, 79.

103. (O) CODEX DUNELMENSIS: probably of the twelfth century, and at present in the Bodleian library at Oxford. It is by far the most important in a set of nine or perhaps of ten codices used by Bentley in preparing his famous edition of Terence,¹ and is referred to by Umpfenbach (Praef. p. iii) as "lying hid" in England, and as likely when found to add valuable evidence to that already existing, in regard to the character of the original Calliopian recension. This MS. had been lost to view for about 150 years after Bentley's time, but was "rediscovered," subsequently to 1872, by an Oxford scholar, among the treasures of the Bodleian library, where it is frequently placed on exhibition, on account of the beauty of its minuscule writing and the very quaint and interesting miniatures that adorn its pages. These miniatures may once have received a golden tint from the artist's brush. An exhaustive account of the Dunelmensis is given by Charles Hoeing in the Amer. Jour. of Archaeology, vol. iv (1900), pp. 310 ff. It is catalogued as Anct. F 213.

¹ On the four principal MSS. of Terence in which miniatures appear, viz., C P F O, see Weston in Harvard Studies, xiv, p. 37, and Watson, l. c. p. 55; Basore in Gildersleeve Studies, p. 273, and Morgan's translation of the Phormio (Cambridge, Mass. 1894), fin.

GROUP II; known also as the δ family.

104. (D) CODEX VICTORIANUS: of the ninth or the tenth century, and kept in the Laurentian library in Florence; wherefore it is known also as Codex Laurentianus. Certain of its folia belong to a century later than the tenth, and are inferior to the rest.² A peculiarity of the Victorianus is a drawing on one of its fly-leaves, now hardly distinguishable. This drawing is not unlike the celebrated graffito, which has been supposed to be a caricature of the Crucifixion and may now be seen in the Kircherian Museum at Rome. According to Dr. Emil Gutjahr, who has made the drawing the basis of an argument on the history of the Codex, the Victorianus is certainly as old as the ninth century.³ It presents the plays in the following order: Andr., Ad., Eun., Phorm., Heaut., Hec. The catalogue number is xxxviii. 24.

105. (G) CODEX DECURTATUS: of the eleventh century, and now in the Vatican library. It lacks very considerable portions of four plays.

¹ Bentley's English MSS. of Terence have been discussed by Professor Minton Warren in the Amer. Jour. of Phil., vol. iii, p. 59. See also Umpfenbach, Phil. xxxii. 442.

² This subject is discussed by Fairclough in a paper on The Text of the Andria of Terence, in Transactions of the Amer. Phil. Assoc. vol. xxx (1899).

³ See the Reports of the Königlich-sächsische Gesellschaft der Wissenschaften zu Leipzig, for 1891.

The order in which the plays are arranged is the same as in D. The catalogue number is 1640.

106. (V) FRAGMENTUM VINDOBONENSE: possibly of the tenth century; now in Vienna. It contains portions of two plays, the Andria and Adelphoe, and bears the library designation, Vind. Phil. 263.

GROUP III; known also as the μ family.

107. (F) CODEX AMBROSIANUS: of the tenth century, and now in the Ambrosian library at Milan. Its illustrations, though not coloured in any real sense, yet appear to have been once touched with light blue or gray. The plays are given in the same order as in the Parisinus. The Andria, however, is lost. The catalogue number is II, 75 inf.

108. (E) CODEX RICCARDIANUS: of the eleventh century, and in Florence (Bib. Riccard.). It is a poorer MS. than F, which it resembles in the order in which it presents the plays. Its number is $\frac{MIV}{XXX}$ (=528).

109. (L) CODEX LIPSIENSIS: of the tenth century. The designation, Stadtbl. Rep. I, 37, indicates its place in the library at Leipzig.

110. (R) CODEX REGIUS: the chief of the Regii codices of Bentley, and known as Regius 15 A xii.

111. (Ch.) CHARTACEUS: another of Bentley's MSS., and bearing the designation, Regius 15 A xi. For R and Ch. see Warren, On Bentley's English MSS. of Terence, in Amer. Jour. of Phil. vol. iii, p. 59 ff.

112. It has been supposed that group I was inferior to group II. This traditional view, however, is not accepted by Spengel, and has been shown to be of very doubtful character by Professor Pease, who, in an article on the Relative Value of the MSS. of Terence (Transactions of the American Philological Association for 1887, vol. xviii) makes it very evident that, after A, the most trustworthy sources for the text of Terence are the MSS. of group I, of which P is the chief; that A more often agrees with P and its allied MSS. than with D G, and that group I has suffered less than group II from errors creeping into the archetype.

113. Additional evidence of the superiority of group I is given by Fairclough in his paper on The Text of the Andria of Terence, already cited, wherein both Dziatzko and Fleckeisen are shown to have accepted the readings of P more frequently than those of D: again in his

Appendix to his edition of the Andria (Boston, 1901) the same editor notes "that in the eighty-five lines of that play, wherein we can compare A's readings with conflicting ones in D and P, A agrees with P nearly twice as often as with D."

114. For some account of the CODEx MONACENSIS (M), the oldest of the MSS. containing lemmata, and assigned by Halm to the eleventh century, the reader is referred to Schlee's Scholia Terentiana (Leipzig, 1893), and to a review (by the writer) of the same, in Class. Rev. vol. viii. 8. Many MSS. of Terence, other than those herein described, exist in European libraries; one of them is mentioned by Wessner in the preface to his edition of Donatus, vol. i; but those alluded to above constitute nearly, if not quite, all of the codices which have thus far impressed themselves upon scholars, as worthy of serious study. Cf. however the Dziatzko-Hauler "Phormio," p. 189, note 3.

115. The SCHOLIA of Terence have been edited by Umpfenbach (Hermes ii) for A, while the work of Frid. Schlee above mentioned is an attempt to bring within convenient reach all that is valuable of the scholia contained in the other MSS., and to establish the value of these scholia as equal, or nearly so, to that of the scholia of the Bembine codex. See Class. Rev. vol. viii, pp. 353-4.

116. Of the grammarians (beside Calliopius: see § 98) whose commentaries supplement the evidence of the MSS., the most important is Aelius Donatus, who taught at Rome about the middle of the fourth century A. D., and was the reputed master of St. Jerome. That part of his Terentian commentary which related to the Heauton timorumenos is lost, but its place is indifferently supplied by J. Calphurnius, who wrote in the fifteenth century. The commentary of Eugraphius, who is believed to have lived in the sixth century, survives, and has some value for us. The grammarian Servius (who wrote at Rome in the fourth century, and is best known to us through his commentary on Vergil) and the more famous grammarian Priscianus (who wrote in Latin at Constantinople in the latter part of the fifth or the beginning of the sixth century) furnish occasional information; and Marcus Valerius Probus of Berytus is known to have revised and annotated Terence as well as other Latin authors, in the first century of the Christian era. Other early commentators were Aemilius Asper, Arruntius Celsus, Helenius Acro, and Euanthius. The metrical summaries or periochae written for the several plays by Sulpicius Apollinaris of Carthage, who flourished in the first half of the second century after Christ, together with the didascalie or prefatory notices, which had been prefixed to the plays of Terence within a century after the poet's death, are not without their value in the determination of the text.

117. Among scholars and editors of Terence who are worthy of mention as having contributed to our knowledge of the text since the publication of the editio princeps (Strassb. 1470), Gabriel Faërnus (Florence, 1565) is well known for his careful examination of the Codex Bembinus, and for the discovery of its superior importance in determining the text; Guyet (1657) is noted for his scholarship, and his readiness to condemn as spurious those passages which he found difficult of interpretation. More famous, however, than either of these is Richard Bentley, whose edition of Terence (Cambridge, 1726; Amsterdam, 1727) is noted for the excellence of its critical commentary, which marked a distinct advance in Terentian scholarship. This commentary is still valuable, and is perhaps the best extant witness to Bentley's critical acumen.

118. For more than a century after Bentley no edition of Terence appeared which could be mentioned as presenting a decided improvement of the text. But an advance was made by A. Fleckeisen, whose Terence was first published at Leipzig, in the Teubner series, in 1857, and again in the same series, with many alterations, in 1898. The edition by E. St. John Parry (Lond. 1857), though valuable for its explanatory notes, is otherwise of slight importance. The critical value of Wagner's edition (Lond. 1869) is impaired by carelessness. Umpfenbach's edition (Berlin, 1870) was greatly in advance of all that had gone before it, and still furnishes the apparatus criticus needed as a basis for work on the text.¹ Defects in this apparatus have been pointed out by later scholars, among whom are Minton Warren, Hauler and Schlee. Yet its value as a starting point can hardly be overestimated. But Dziatzko's text of the six plays (Leipzig, 1884), with its adnotatio critica, is more trustworthy than any previous collective edition. In it full recognition is made of the labours of Umpfenbach, and due importance is attached to the readings of the Codex Bembinus. Other collective editions are those by Muretus (Venet. 1555), Lindenbrog (Paris, 1602; Francof. 1623), Pareus (Neap. 1619), Boecler (Strassb. 1657), Westerhovius (Haag, 1732; reprint by Stallbaum, Leipzig, 1830), Lemaire (Paris, 1827), Giles (Lond. 1837), and Klotz (Leipzig, 1838-1839). The edition of Westerhovius contains the commentary of Donatus; but both this and the commentary of Eugraphius are given in the editions of Lindenbrog and Klotz. The commentary of Donatus on the Andria and Eunuchus was edited by Paul Wessner in the Teubner series, in 1902, and in 1905 it was followed by that on the other three (§ 116) plays. The excellent collective edition by R. Y. Tyrrell (Lond. 1902) is based extensively on that of Dziatzko above mentioned.

¹ Another is in preparation. See Kauer, Wiener Studien, 1898, p. 267, and Fairclough's Andria, App. p. 157.

119. Various annotated editions of separate plays have been published from time to time both in Europe and America. Among these are :

Andria, Meissner, Bernburg, 1876 ;

“ Spengel, Berlin, 1888 ;

“ Freeman and Sloman, Oxford, 1897 ;

“ Klotz, Leipzig, 1865 ;

“ Fairclough, Boston, 1901 ;

Andria and Heauton timorumenos, A. F. West, New York, 1888 ;

Heauton timorumenos, Shuckburgh, London, 1894 ;

“ “ Wagner, Berlin, 1872 ;

“ “ Gray, Cambridge, Eng., 1895 ;

Eunuchus, Papillon, London, 1877 ;

“ Fabia, Paris, 1895 ;

Phormio, Dziatzko, Leipzig, 1874, revised 1884 ;

“ Dziatzko and Hauler, Leipzig, 1898 ;

“ Bond and Walpole, London, 1879, revised 1889 ;

“ Sloman, Oxford, 1887, revised 1894 ;

“ Elmer, Boston, 1896 ;

“ Laming, London, 1902 ;

Hecyra, Thomas, Paris, 1887 ;

Adelphoe, Dziatzko, Leipzig, 1881 ;

“ Spengel, Berlin, 1879 ;

“ Plessis, Paris, 1884 ;

“ Sloman, Oxford, 1886, revised 1892 ;

“ Fabia, Paris, 1892 ;

“ Ashmore, London, 1893, revised 1896.

Some of them contain valuable criticisms of the text ; notably so, the editions of Meissner, Spengel, Klotz, and Faurelough of the text of the Andria ; the editions of Dziatzko, Dziatzko-Hauser, and Elmer of the text of the Phormio ; the editions of Dziatzko, Spengel, and Plessis of the text of the Adelphoe. Of the translations of single plays, the most noteworthy is that by Professor M. H. Morgan, whose English rendering of the Phormio was used as a libretto when that play was “brought out” by the Faculty and students of Harvard University, in 1894. The Andria and Adelphoe have been well translated into German by C. Bardt (Berlin, 1903). Worthy of mention also is Stock’s translation into English of the Andria, Heauton, Phormio, and Adelphoe (Oxford, 1891).

120. While the LANGUAGE of Terence reveals the presence of an abundance of the speech of every-day life, the colloquial element in his plays is less that of the common people than that of refined society. What has been termed the sermo plebeius or rusticus, the vulgar speech, is at least not characteristic of his diction. For this we must turn to Plautus, in whose plays it may truly be said to abound. The term sermo cottidianus has been used to designate the more cultivated colloquial Latin in contradistinction to the sermo plebeius already mentioned, but the two are not always distinguishable, especially for the earlier period. In fact, it is not until the time of Cicero and Horace that it becomes especially useful to restrict the adjective cottidianus within the limits named. In the Letters of Cicero and the Satires and Epistles of Horace the daily speech of the best social circles is extensively represented, and these writings are of service in distinguishing the two elements referred to. Indeed, the later the date, the more marked is the difference, and the more possible, too, it becomes to separate these two colloquial elements not only from each other, but also from the formal language of literature, — the highly developed and cultivated sermo urbanus, which is preserved in the prose and poetry of the later Republic, and of the first century of the Empire.¹

¹ For full information on this subject see Cooper, Word Formation in the Roman Sermo Plebeius, New York, 1895, pp. xv-xx.

C. SVETONI TRANQVILLI VITA P. TERENTI AFRI¹

P. TERENTIVS AFER, Karthagine natus, seruiit Romae Terentio Lucano senatori, a quo ob ingenium et formam non institutus modo liberaliter, sed et mature manu missus est. quidam captum esse existimant: quod fieri nullo modo potuisse Fenestella docet, cum inter finem secundi Punici belli et initium tertii et natus sit et mortuus; nec si a Numidis aut Gaetulis captus sit ad dominum Romanum peruenire potuisse, nullo commercio inter Italicos et Afros nisi post deletam Karthaginem coepto. hic cum multis nobilibus familiariter uixit, sed maxime cum Scipione Africano et C. Laelio, quibus etiam corporis gratia conciliatus existimatur: quod et ipsum Fenestella arguit, contendens utroque maiorem natu fuisse; quamuis et Nepos aequales omnes fuisse tradat et Poreius suspicionem de consuetudine per haec faciat:

Dum lasciuia nobilium et landes fucosas petit, dum Africani uocem diuinam inhiat audis auribus, dum ad Philum se cenitare et Laelium pulchrum putat, dum in Albanum crebro rapitur ob florem aetatis suae:
suis postlatis rebus ad summam inopiam redaetus est.
itaque ex conspectu omnium abit in Graeciam terram ultimum.
mortuos Stymphalist Arcadiae oppido. nil Publius Scipio profuit, nil illi Laelius, nil Furius, tres per id tempus qui agitabant nobiles facillime.
eorum ille opera ne domum quidem habuit conducticiam, saltem ut esset, quo referret obitum domini seruulus.

scripsit comoedias sex; ex quibus primam Andriam cum aedilibus daret, iussus ante Caeilio recitare ad cenantem cum uenisset, dicitur

¹ Cum huius editionis sit Terentium non Suetonium aut Donatum recognoscere, dedi ex recensione Frid. Ritschli (Op. Phil. iii. pp. 204-14. Lipsiae 1877) Suetoni Vitam Terenti quam Aelius Donatus commento suo in poetae fabulas cum suo auctario praemisit. Duobus tantum in locis, quibus notulus apposui, ab eximia Ritschli editione dissentire ausus sum.

initium quidem fabulae, quod erat contemptiore uestitu, subsellio iuxta lectulum residens legisse, post paucos uero uersus inuitatus ut accumberet cenasse una, dein cetera percurrerisse non sine magna Caecilii admiratione. et hanc autem et quinque reliquas aequaliter populo probauit; quamuis Voleatius in dimmeratione omnium ita scribat:

Simitur Hecura sexta exclusast fabula.

Ennuchus quidem bis dei <neps> acta est meruitque pretium quantum nulla antea cuiusquam comoedia, octo milia nummum. propterea summa quoque titulo ascribitur. * * * * *

* * * * *
nam Adelphorum principium Varro etiam praefert principio Menandri. non obscura fama est adiutum Terentium in scriptis a Laelio et Scipione: eamque ipse auxit, numquam nisi leuiter se tutari conatus, ut in prologo Adelphorum:

Nam quod isti dicunt maleuoli, homines nobiles hunc adiutare assidueque una scribere:
quod illi maledictum uehemens esse existumant, eam laudem hic ducit maxumam, quom illis placet qui uobis uniuorsis et populo placent, quorum opera in bello, in otio, in negotio suo quisque tempore usust sine superbia.

uidetur autem leuius se defendisse, quia sciebat Laelio et Scipioni non ingratam esse hanc opinionem: quae tum magis et usque ad posteriora tempora ualuit. C. Memmius in oratione pro se 'P. Africanus' inquit 'a Terentio personam mutuatus, quae domi luserat ipse, nomine illius in scaenam detulit.' Nepos auctore certo comperisse se ait C. Laelium quondam in Puteolano kalendis martiis admonitum ab uxore temperius ut discumberet petisse ab ea ne se interpellaret, seroque tandem ingressum triclinium dixisse non saepe in scribendo magis sibi successisse; deinde rogatum ut scripta illa proferret, pronuntiasse uersus qui sunt in Heauton timorumenio:

Satis pol proterue me Syri promissa huc induxerunt.

Santra Terentium existimat. si modo in scribendo adiutoribus indiguerit, non tam Scipione et Laelio uti potuisse, qui tunc adulescentuli fuerint, quam C. Sulpicio Gallo, homine docto, quo consule

C. SVETONI TRANQVILLI VITA P. TERENTI AFRI

<Megalens>ibus ludis initium fabularum dandarum fecerit, uel Q. Fabio Labeone et M. Popillio, consulari utroque ac poeta; ideo ipsum non iuuenes designare qui se adiunare dicantur, sed uiros quorum operam et in bello et in otio et in negotio populus sit expertus. post editas comoedias, nondum quintum atque uicesimum ingressus annum, causa uitandae opinionis qua uidebatur aliena pro suis edere, sen percipiendi Graecorum instituta moresque quos non perinde exprimeret in scriptis, egressus urbe est neque amplius rediit. de morte eius Volcatius sic tradit:

Sed ut Afer populo sex dedit comoedias, iter hinc in Asiam fecit. ut nauem semel conscendit, uisus numquam est: sic uita uacat.

Q. Coseonius redeuntem e Graecia perisse in mari dicit eum fabulis conuersis a Menandro: ceteri mortuum esse in Arcadia siue Leucadiae tradunt, Cn. Cornelio Dolabella M. Fulvio Nobiliore consulibus, morbo impieitum ex dolore ac taedio amissarum sarcinarum quas in naue praemiserat, ac simul fabularum quas nouas fecerat. fuisse dicitur medioeri statura, graeili corpore, colore fuseo. reliquit filiam, quae post equiti Romano nupsit, item hortulos xx iugerum uia Appia ad Martis. quo magis miror Porcium scribere: 'Scipio nihil ei profuit, nihil Laelius, nihil Furius: eorum ille opera ne domum quidem habuit conductionem.' hunc Afranius quidem omnibus comicis praefert, scribens in Compitalibus:

Terenti non consimilem dicas quempiam.

Volcatius autem non solum Naenio et Plauto et Caecilio, sed Licinio quoque et Atilio postponit. Cicero in Limone haetenus laudat:

Tu quoque, qui solus lecto sermone, Terenti,
conuersum expressumque latina uoce Menandrum
in medium nobis sedatis motibus effers, quiddam come loquens atque omnia dulcia miscens —

item C. Caesar:

Tu quoque, tu in summis, o dimidiate Menander,
poneris, et merito, puri sermonis amator.

C. SVETONI TRANQVILLI VITA P. TERENCE AFRI

lenibus atque utinam scriptis adiuncta foret uis comica, ut aequato nirtus polleret honore cum Graecis neue hac despectus parte iaceres.
unum hoc maceror ac doleo tibi desse, Terenti.

AVCTARIVM AELII DONATI

Haec Suetonius Tranquillus. nam duos Terentios poetas fuisse scribit Maecius, quorum alter Fregellanus fuerit Terentius Libo, alter libertinus Terentius Afer patria, de quo nunc loquimur. Scipionis fabulas edidisse Terentium Vagellius in actione ait :

Tuae, Terenti, quae uocantur fabulae cuius sunt? non has, iura qui populis dabat, summo ille honore affectus, fecit fabulas?

duae ab Apollodoro translatae esse dicuntur comico, Phormio et Heecyra : quatuor reliquae a Menandro. ex quibus magno successu et pretio stetit Eunuchus fabula : Heecyra saepe exclusa, uix acta est.

2 Post comica non post uis cum plerisque edd. distinxi.
aureolo Ritschl.

4 ac doleo codd. :

ORDER OF THE PLAYS

ANDRIA

HEAVTON TIMORVMENOS

EVNVCHVS

PHORMIO

HECYRA

ADELPHOE

SIGLA

codd. = consensus omnium codicum

Σ = consensus codicum praeter Bembinum

Litterae ABC, etc. = codices qui in prooemii paginis 60-64 nominati sunt.

ANDRIA

INCIPIT · ANDRIA · TERENTI · ACTA · LVDIS · MEGALENSIB
M · FVLVIO · M · GLABRIONE · AEDIL · CVRVL · EGIT · L · AMBL-VIVS · TVRPIO · [L · IATILIVS · PRAENESTINVS] · MODOS · FECIT
FLACCVS · CLAVDI · TIBIS · PARIBVS · TOTA · GRAECA
5 MENANDRV · FACTA · I · M · MARCELLO · C · SVLPICIO · COS

Didascalia ex Donati praefatione restituta est

C. SVLPICI APOLLINARIS PERIOCHA

Sorórem falso créditosam meretrículae genere Ándriae, Glycérium, uitiat Pámphilus grauidáque facta dát fidem uxorém sibi fore hánc ; namque aliam páter eĩ despónderat, gnatám Chremetis, átque ut amorem cómperit, 5 simulát futuras núptias, cupiéns suos quid habéret animi fílius cognóscere.
 Dauí persuasu nón repugnat Pámphilus.
 sed éx Glycerio nátum ut nídít púerulum Chremés, recusat núptias, generum ábdicat. 10 mox fíliam Glycérium insperato ádgñitam hanc Pámphilo, aliam dát Charino cóniugem.

PERSONAE

[PROLOGVS]	BYRRIA SERVOS
SIMO SENEX	LESBIA OBSTETRIX
SOSIA LIBERTVS	CHIREMES SENEX
DAVOS SERVOS	CRITO SENEX
MYSIS ANCILLA	DROMO LORARIVS
PAMPHILVS ADVLESCENS	CANTOR
CHARINVS ADVLESCENS

MVTA PERSONA

GLYCERIVM VIRGO

8 persuasu Opitz : suasu Σ Personarum indices non habent codices ; sed aediculam argumentis singulis praefixam habent BCP, quae figuras personarum pictas continet. Desiderantur in A uersus 1-888

PROLOGVS

- Poëta quom primum ánimum ad scribendum ádpulit, id síbi negoti crédidit solúm dari, populo út placerent quas fecisset fábulas.
 uerum áliter eueníre multo intéllegit ;
- 5 nam in prólogis scribúndis operam abútitur, 5 non qui árgumentum nárret, sed qui máliuoli ueterís poëtae máledictis respóndeat.
 nunc quám rem uitio dént quaeso animum adténdite.
 Menánder fecit Ándriam et Perínthiam.
- 10 qui utrámuis recte nórit ambas nóuerit : 10
 ita nón sunt dissímili árgumento séd tamen dissímili oratióne sunt factae ác stilo.
 quae cónuenere in Ándriam ex Perínthia fatétur transtulísse atque usum pró suis.
- 15 id istí uituperant fáctum atque in eo dísputant 15 contáminari nón decere fábulas.
 faciúntne intellegéndo ut nil intéllegant ?
 qui quom húnc accusant, Naéuium Plautum Énnium accúsant, quos hic nóster auctorés habet,
- 20 quorum aémulari exóptat neclegéntiam 20
 potiús quam istorum obscúram diligéntiam.
 dehinc út quiescant pórró moneo et désinant male dícere, malefácta ne noseánt sua.
 fauéte, adeste aequo ánimo et rem cognóscite,
- 25 ut pérnoscatis éequid spei sit rélicuom, 25
 posthác quas faciet de íntegro comoédias, spectándae an exigéndae sint uobís prius.

8 adtendite Donatus et Nonius : aduortite uel aduertite Σ 11 ita non Guyet : non ita Σ dissímili sunt Σ : tr. Guyet sed uel set Σ : et Bentley

ACTVS I

SIMO SOSIA

SI. Vos istaec intro auferte : abite. — Sósia, adés dum : paucis té nolo. SO. dictúm puta :
nempe út curentur récte haec? SI. immo aliúd. SO. 30
quid est

quod tibi mea ars effícere hoc possit ámplius?

5 SI. nil ístac opus est árte ad hanc rem quám paro, sed eís quas semper ín te intellexí sitas, fide ét taciturnitáte. SO. exspecto quíd uelis.

SI. ego póstquam te emi, a páruolo ut sempér tibi 35
apúd me iusta et clémens fuerit séruitus

10 scis. féci ex seruo ut ésses libertús mihi, proptérea quod seruíbas liberáliter :

quod hábui summum prétium persoluí tibi.

SO. in mémoria habeo. SI. haud múdo factum. SO. 40
gaúdeo,

si tibi quid feci aut fácio quod placeát, Simo,

15 et id grátum fuisse aduórsum te habeo grátiam.

sed hoc míhi molestumst ; nam ístaec commemorátio quasi éxprobratióst inmemori bénéfici.

quin tu úno nerbo díe, quid est quod mé uelis? 45

SI. ita fáciam. hoc primum in hác re praedicó tibi :

20 quas erédis esse has nón sunt uerae núptiae.

SO. quor símulas igitur? SI. rem ónnem a principio aúdiés :

eo pácto et gnati nítam et consiliúm meum cognósces et quid fácere in hac re té uelim. 50 nam is póstquam excessit éx ephebis [Sosia, et 30 post haec interrogandi signum posuit Spengel 40 haud muto. factum gaudeo Paumier 44 inmemori Guyet : inmemoris S 45 interrogandi signum posuit Dziatzko 51 Sosia . . . potestas secluset C. F. Hermann.

- liberius uiuendi fuit potestas], (nam ántea qui scíre posses aút ingenium nóscere, dum actás metus magíster prohibebánt? SO. itast.) 55 SI. quod plérique omnes fáciunt adulescéntuli, ut ánimum ad aliquod stúdiu adiuuant, aút equos alere aút canes ad uénandum aut ad philósophos, horum ille nil egrégie praeter cétera studébat et tamen ómnia haec mediócritér.
 60 gaudébam. SO. non iniúria; nam id árbitror adpríme in uita esse útile, ut ne quíd nimis.
SI. sic uíta erat: faeile ómnis perferre ac pati;
 cum quíbus erat quomque úna eis sese dédere;
 eórum studiis óbsequi [aduersus nemini, 65 numquam praeponens se illis]: ita ut facíllume sine inuídia laudem inuénias et amicós pares.
SO. sapiénter uitam instituit; namque hoc témpore obséquium amicos, uéritas odiúm parit.
SI. intérea mulier quaédam abhine triénnum 70 ex Ándro commigráuit huc uicíniam, inópia et cognatórum nelegéntia coácta, egregia fórma atque aetate íntegra.
SO. ei, uéreor ne quíd Ándria adportét mali!
SI. primo haéc pudice uítam parée ac dúriter 75 agébat, lana ac téla nictum quaéritans; sed póstquam amans accéssit pretium póllicens unús et item alter, ita ut ingeniumst ómnium hominum áb labore próeline ad lubídinem, accépit condiciónem, dein quaestum óccipit.
 80 qui tum íllam amabant fórte, ita ut fit, fílium perdúxere illuc, sécum ut una essét, meum.
 egomét continuo mécum ‘certe cáptus est:’

64 obsequi studiis Σ : tr. Bentley aduersus . . . illis seclisit Bentley 70 huc uiciniam cum C¹ Spengel: huc uiciniae Donatus et uolg.: huic uiciniae Σ

- habet.' óbservabam máne illorum sérnos ueniéntis aut abeúntis : rogítabam ' heús puer, die sódes, quis heri Chrýsidem habuit? ' nam Ándriae 85 illi íderat nomen. SO. téneo. SI. Phaedrum aut Clíniam 60 dicébant aut Nicératum ; [nam] hi tres túm simul amábant. ' eho, quid Pámphilus? ' " quid? sýbolam dedít, cenauit." gaúdebam. item alió die quaerébam : comperíbam nil ad Pámphilum 90 quiequam áttinere. enim uéro spectatúm satis 65 putábam et magnum exémplum continéntiae ; nam quí cum ingeniis cónflíctatur eíus modi neque cómmouetur ánimus in ea ré tamen, scías pósse habere iam ípsam suae nitaé modum. 95
 quom id míhi placebat tum úno ore omnes ómnia 70 bona dicere et laudáre fortunás meas, qui gnátum haberem táli ingenio praéditum.
 quid uérbis opus est? hác fama impulsús Chremes ultro ád me uenit, únicam gnatám suam 100 eum dóte summa filio uxorem út daret.
 75 placuít : respondi. hic núptiis dictúst dies.
SO. quid ígitur obstat quór non fiant? SI. aúdiēs.
 fere ín diebus paúcis quibus haec ácta sunt Chrýsis uicina haec móritur. SO. o factúm bene! 105
 beásti : ei metui a Chrýside. SI. ibi tum fílius 80 eum illís qui amarant Chrýsidem una aderát frequens ; eurébat una fúnus ; tristis ínterim, non mínquam conlaerumábat. placuit tum íd mihi.
 sic cógitabam ' hic páruae consuetúdinis 110
 causa huius mortem tám fert familiáriter :
 85 quid si ípse amasset? quíd hic mihi faciét patri? '

87 Niceratun cum Σ Fleckeisen qui nam secl.: Nicaretum uolg.: Niceratun Ritschl tum secluso 88 symbolam B: symbolum cum codd. plerisque Donatus 103 uerae ante fiant exhibent DEG
 104 fere Σ : ferme Charisius: ita Fleckeisen 106 ei om. BCP et Donatus: habent cett. 107 amarant Muretus: amabant Σ haec ego putabam esse omnia humani ingenii mansuetique animi officia. quid multis moror?

- 115 egomet quoque eius causa in funus prodeoque, nil etiam suspiciens mali. SO. hem, quid id est? SI. scies.
effertur; imus. interea inter mulieres 90

quae ibi aderant forte unam aspicio adulescentulam, forma SO. bona fortasse. SI. et vultu, Sosis,

- 120 adeo modesto, adeo uenusto, ut nil supra.
quae cum mihi lamentari praeter ceteras uisast et quia erat forma praeter ceteras 95 honesta ac liberali, accedo ad pedisequas, quae sit rogo: sororem esse aiunt Chrysidis.

- 125 percussit ilico animum. attat hoc illud est,
hinc illae lacrimae, haec illast misericordia.
SO. quam timeo quorsum euadas! SI. funus interim 100 procedit; sequimur; ad sepulcrum uenimus;
in ignem inpositast; fletur. interea haec soror

- 130 quam dixi ad flammam accessit imprudenter, satis cum periculo. ibi tum exanimatus Pamphilus bene dissimulatum amorem et celatum indicat: 105 adcurrit; mediam mulierem complentur:

‘mea Glycerium’ inquit ‘quid agis? quor te is perditum?’

- 135 tum illa, ut consuetum facile amorem cerneret, reiecit se in eum flens quam familiariter!
SO. quid ais? SI. redeo inde iratus atque aegre ferens: 110 nec satis ad obiurgandum causae. diceret ‘quid feci? quid communi aut peccavi, pater?’

- 140 quae sese in ignem incere uoluit, prohibui, seruari. honesta oratio. SO. recte putas;
nam si illum obiurges uitae qui auxilium tulit, 115

116 Fleckeisen: suspiciens etiam Σ : etiam om. D quid id est cum DE Dziatzko: quid est cett. 117 imus Σ , quam lect. agnoscunt Cicero de Or. ii. 80. 327 et Servius ad Aen. xi. 183: intus Bachrens quem sequitur Fleckeisen 121 Bentley: quia tum BC: quae tum P (e et t in ras.)

- quid fácias illi, déderit qui damnum aút malum?
SI. uenít Chremes postrídie ad me clámitans:
indígnum facinus; cómperisse Pámphilum 145 pro uxóre habere hanc péregrinam. ego illud sédulo 120 negáre factum. ille ínstat factum. dénique ita tún discedo ab íllo, ut qui se fíliam negét daturum. SO. nón tu ibi gnatum . . ? SI. ne haéc quidem
satis uémens causa ad óbiurgandum. SO. qui? cedo. 150
SI. tute ípse his rebus fínem praescripstí, pater:
125 prope adést quom alieno móre uiuendúmst mihi:
sine núnc meo me uínere intereá modo.
SO. qui igitúr relictus ést obiurgandí locus?
SI. si própter amorem uxórem nolet dúcere: 155 ea prímum ab illo animum áduortenda iniúriast; 130 et núnc id operam do, út per falsas núptias uera óbiurgandi caúsa sit, si déneget; simúl sceleratus Dáuos si quid cónsili habet, út consumat núnc quom nil obsínt doli; 160
quem ego crédo manibus pédibusque obnixé ómnia 135 factúrum, magis id ádeo mihi ut incómmodet, quam ut óbsequatur gnáto. SO. quaproptér? SI. rogas?
mala méns, malus animus. quém quidem ego si sénsero . . .
sed quíd opust uerbis? sín eueniat quód uolo, 165
in Pámphilo ut nil sít morae, restát Chremes 140 qui mi éxorandus ést: et spero cónfore.
nunc tuómst officium has béne ut adsimules núptias, pertérrefacias Dáuom. obserues fílium, quid agát, quid eum illo cónsili captét. SO. sat est: 170 curábo. SI. eamus núnciam intro: i praé, sequor.

143 Bentley: qui dederit Σ : quid facias ei qui damnum dederit aut malum Fleckeisen: illi qui dedit Dziatzko 153 meo me Don. in lemm.: me meo Σ 155 nolet B: nolit cett. 165 sín Eugraph.
in lemm.: sine Σ 171 eamus . . . sequor Dziatzko Simoni tribuit:
eamus . . . intro Sosiae tribuont Σ

ACTVS II

SIMO DAVOS

ii

SI. Non dúbiumst quin uxórem nolit fílius ;
ita Dáuom modo timére sensi, ubi núptias futúras esse audíuit. sed ipse exít foras.

- 175 DA. mirábar hoe si sic abiret, ét eri semper lénitas uerébar quorsum euáderet : 5 qui póstquam audierat nón datum iri filio uxorém suo, núnquam quoiquam nóstrum uerbum fécit neque id aegré tulit.

- SI.* at faciét nunc neque id, ut opinor, síne tuo magnó malo.
180 DA. id uóluit nos sic nécopinantis dúci falso gaúdio, sperántis iam amotó metu, interóscitantis ópprimi, 10 ne ésset spatium cógitandi ad dísturbandas núptias :
astúte. SI. earnuféx quae loquitur? DA. érus est neque prouíderam.

SI. Daue. DA. hém quid est? SI. eho dum ád me.
DA. quid hic uolt? SI. quíd ais? DA. qua de ré? SI. rogas?

- 185 meum gnátum rumor ést amare. DA. id pópulus eurat scílicet.

SI. hocíne agis an non? DA. égo uero istuc. SI. séd 15
nunc ea me exquíreré

iníqui patris est ; nám quod antehae fécit nil ad me áttinet.
dum témpus ad eam rém tulit, siui, ánimum ut explerét suom ;
nunc híc díes aliam uítam defert, álios mores póstulat :

- 190 dehinc póstulo siue aéquomst te oro, Dáué, ut redeat iam ín uíam.

179 at nunc faciet Σ : tr. Fleckeisen qui id addidit 181 interoscitantis C¹EG ex corr. D ex ras. : interea oscitantis cell. 182 ne Σ : ut ne Bentley uoly. 189 defert Bentley cum Cic. Fam. xii. 25. 5 : adfert Σ

20 hoc quid sit? omnes qui amant grauiter sibi dari uxorem ferunt.

DA. ita aiunt. SI. tum si quis magistrum cepit ad eam rem improbum, ipsum animum aegrotum ad deteriore partem plerum-que adplicat.

DA. non hercle intellego. SI. non? hem. DA. non :
Dauos sum, non Oedipus.

SI. nempe ergo aperte uis quae restant me loqui? DA. 195 sane quidem.

25 SI. si sensero hodie quicquam in his te nuptiis fallaciae conari quo fiant minus, aut nolle in ea re ostendi quam sis callidus, uerberibus caesum te in pistrinum, Dauae, dedam usque ad necem, ea lege atque omine ut, si te inde eximerim, ego pro te 200 molam.

30 quid, hoc intellexisti? an non dum etiam ne hoc quidem?

DA. immo callide :

ita aperte ipsam rem modo locutus, nil circum itione usus es.

SI. ubinam facilius passus sim quam in hac re me deludier.

DA. bona uerba, quaeso. SI. inrides? nil me fallis.
sed dico tibi :

ne temere facias; neque tu haud dicas tibi non praedic- 205 tum : caue.

iii

DAVOS

DA. Enim uero, Dauae, nil locist segnitiae neque socordiae, quantum intellexi modo senis sententiam de nuptiis :
quae si non astu prouidentur, me aut erum pessum dabunt.

200 homine pro omine C 202 locutus Wagner : locutus uolg. : hunc errorem et huius similes, ut iniustus pro iniustus est, quippe qui sescenties in codd. occurrant, iam dehinc referre supersedebo circum itione Bentley : circuitione S 205 haud dicas Donatus : hoc dicas D¹G : hoc dices cett.

nec quid agam certumst, Pámphilumme adiútem an auscultém seni.

210 si illúm relinquo, eius uítæ timeo; sín opitulor, huíus minas, 5 quoi uérba dare diffícilest: primum iám de amore hoc cómperit; me infénsus seruat, né quam faciam in núptiis falláciam.

si sénserit, perii: [aut] si lubitum fúerit, causam céperit, quo iúre quaque iniúria praecípitem [me] in pistrinúm dabit.

215 ad haec mala hoc mi accédit etiam: haec Ándria, 10 si ista úxor sine amícast, granida e Pámphilost.
andíreque eorumst óperae pretium audáciam (nam incéptiost améntium, haud amántium):
quidquid peperisset décreuerunt tóllere,

220 et fíngunt quandam intér se nunc falláciam 15 ciuem Átticam esse hanc: ' fúit olim hinc quidám senex mereátor; nauem is frégit apud Andrum ínsulam; is óbiit mortem.' ibi tum hanc eiectam Chrýsidis patrém recepisse órban, parnam. fábulae!

225 mi equidem hérele non fit uéri simile; atque ípsis com- 20 mentúm placet.

sed Mýsis ab ea egréditur. at ego hinc me ad forum: [ut] conuéniam Pamphilúm, ne de hac re páter inprudenter ópprimat.

M Y S I S

v

MY. Aúdiui, Archylís, iam dudum: Lésbiam adducí iubes.
sáne pol illa témulentast múlter et temerária

230 nec satis digna quoi committas prímo partu múlterem.
támen eam adducam? ínportunítatem spectate ániénlae:
quía compotrix éius est. di, dáte facilitatem óbsecro 5 huic pariundi atque illi in aliis pótius peccandí locum.

213 aut seclusit Conradt 216 si Guilelmus: sine Σ 221 hinc
add. Bentley 225 mi equidem scripsi: miquidem Fleckeisen: mihi quidem Σ 226 ut secl. Conradt 228 Archylis Bentley: archilis aut archillis Σ 232 facilitatem G: facultatem cett.

sed quid nam Pamphilum exanimatum uideo? uereor quid siet.

oppriar, ut sciam num quid nam haec turba tristitiae 235 adferat.

v

PAMPHILVS MYSIS

PA. Hocinest humanum factu aut inceptu? hocinest officium patris?

MY. quid illud est? PA. pro deum fidem quid est, si haec non contumelias?

uxorem decrerat dare sese mi hodie: nonne oportuit praescisse me ante? nonne prius communicatum oportuit?

5 MY. miseram me, quod uerbum audio! 240

PA. quid? Chremes, qui denegarat se commissurum mihi gnatam suam uxorem, id mutauit, quom me inmutatum uidet?

itan obstinate dat operam, ut me a Glycerio miserum abstrahat?

quod si fit, pereo funditus.

10 adeo hominem esse inuenustum aut infelicem quem- 245 quam ut ego sum!

pro deum atque hominum fidem!

nullo ego Chremetis pacto adfinitatem effugere potero?

quot modis contemptus, spretus! facta, transacta omnia. em, repudiatus repetor. quam ob rem? nisi si id est quod suspicio:

15 aliquid monstri alunt: ea quoniam nemini obtrudi potest, 250

itur ad me. MY. oratio haec me miseram exanimauit metu.

PA. nam quid ego dicam de patre? ah,

236 factu . . . inceptu cum Donato Bentley: factum . . . inceptum Σ 237 pro deum fidem C^1P : pro deum atque hominum fidem cett.

242 quom cum CE Fleckeisen: quoniam cum G Donatus: quia uolg.

243 Bentley: operam dat Σ

248 quot Σ : quod Dziatzko codicis

Bembini usum constantem secutus em Spengel: hem Σ tantámne rem tam néelegenter ágere ! praeteriéns modo mi ápuđ forum ‘ uxor tíbi ducendast, Pámphile, hodie ’ inquit : ‘ para,

255 ábi domum.’ id mihi úsust dicere ‘ ábi cito ac suspénde te.’ 20 óbstipui. censén me uerbum pótnisse ullum próloqui ? aut úllam causam, inéptam saltem fálsam iniquam ? obmútui.

quód si ego rescissem íd prius, quid facerém, si quis nunc mé roget,

áliquíd facerem, ut hóc ne facerem. séd nunc quid primum éxsequar ?

260 tót me impediunt eúrae, quae meum ánimum diuorsaé 25 trahunt :

amor, mísericordia húius, nuptiárum sollicitátio, tum pátris pudor, qui mé tam leni pássus est animo
úsque adhuc

quae meó quomque animo lúbitumst facere. ein égo ut aduorser ? eí mihi !

incértumst quid agam. MY. mísera timeo ‘ incértumst ’ hoc quorsum áccidat.

265 sed péropust nunc aut húne cum ipsa aut de illa áli- 30 quid me aduorsum húnc loquí :

dum in dúbiost animus, paúlo momento húc nel illuc inpéllitur.

PA. quis hic lóquitur ? Mysis, sálue. MY. o salue, Pámphile. PA. quid agít ? MY. rogas ?

labórat e dolóre atque ex hoc mísera sollicitást, diem quia ólim in hunc sunt eónstitutae núptiae. tum autem hóc timet,

270 ne déseras se. PA. hem egon ístuc conarí queam ? 35 egon própter me illam décepi miserám sinam, quae míhi suom ánimum atque ómnem uitam crédidit,

264 ‘ incertumst ’ hoc Klette : ‘ incertum ’ hoc Σ : ‘ incertum ’ hoc quorsus accidat Bentley 265 Fleckeisen : nunc peropus est . . . aliquid de illa Σ 270 se om. EG hem om. G

- quam ego ánimo egregie cáram pro uxore hábuerim?
 bene ét pudice eius dóctum atque eductúm sinam 40 coáctum egestate íngenium inmutárier? 275 non fáciam. MI. hand uerear, si ín te sit soló situm; sed ut ním queas ferre. PA. ádeon me ignauóm putas, adeón porro ingratum aút inhumanum aút ferum, ut néque me consuetúdo neque amor néque pudor 45 commóneat neque commóneat ut seruém fidem? 280
MI. unum hóc scio, hanc meritam ésse ut memor essés sui.
PA. memor éssém? o Mysis Mýsis, etiam núnce mihi scripta illa dicta súnť in animo Chrýsidis de Glýcerio. iam férme moriens mé nocat:
 50 accéssi; uos semótac; nos soli: íncipit 285 ‘mi Pámphile, huius fórmam atque aetatém uides nec clám te est quam illi utraéque res nunc útiles et ad pudicitiam ét ad rem tutandám sient.
 quod pér ego te hanc nunc dextram oro et geniúm tuom, 55 per tuám fidem perque húius solitúdinem 290 te obtéstor ne abs te hanc ségrege neu déseras.
 si te ín germani frátris dilexí loco sine haéc te solum sémper fecit máxumi seu tibi morigera fúit in rebus ómnibus, 60 te istí uirum do, amícum tutorém patrem; 295 bona nóstra haec tibi permítto et tuae mandó fide.’
 hanc mi ín manum dat; mórs continuo ipsam ócupat.

276 sit solo G: solo sit cett. 277 ut uim Bentley: nim ut Σ 281 hanc om. BCP: habent cett. et Donatus 287 utraeque res nunc utiles (hoc est, parum utiles) Rivium secutus Bentley: nunc utraeque res inutiles DEG: utiles agnoscit Donatus ut alteram lectionem: illi nunc utraeque inutiles BCP 288 alio modo editores uersus rhyth- um indicant, scilicet hoc. et ad pudicitiam ét ad rem tutandám sient.
sed longe rotundius fluunt numeri si metri notas ut ego in textu ponas [et ad rem]. caue putes pudicitiam uocabuli syllabam secundam cor-* ripere: immo quadrisyllabe usurpatur uocabulum, ut apud Plaut. Epid. iii.
3. 23. et ut saepissime amicitia apud Plautum et Terentium 289 nunc Eugraphius in lemm.: quod ego te per hanc dexteram Σ: recte uerba ordinauit Spengel genium cum Donato Bentley: ingenium Σ

* See n. on 288.

accépi: acceptam séruabo. MY. ita speró quidem.

PA. sed quór tu abis ab illa? MY. óbstetricem accérso. PA. propera. atque aúdin?

300 uerbum únun cane de núpitiis, ne ad mórbum hoc etiam 65
. . . MY. téneo.

ACTVS III

CHARINVS BYRRIA PAMPHILVS

CH. Quíd aïs, Byrriá? daturne illa Pámphilo hodie núpturn? BY. Sic est.

CH. quí seís? BY. apud forúm modo e Dauo audíui.

CH. uae miseró mihi!

ut ánimus in spe atque ín timore usque ántehac attentús fuit, ita, póstquam adempta spés est, lassus eúra confectús stupet.

305 BY. quaéso edepol, Charíne, quoniam nón potest id 5 fíeri quod uis, íd uelis quod póssit. CH. nil uolo áliud nisi Philúmenam. BY. ah, quanto íd te satiust dáre operam istam qui áb animo amoueás tuo, quam id éloqui quo mágis lubido frústra incendatúr tua!

CH. facile ómnes quom ualémus recta cónsilia aegrotís damus.

310 tu si híc sis, aliter séntias. BY. age age, út lubet. 10

CH. sed Pámphilum

nideo. ómnia experíri certumst priús quam pereó.

BY. quíd hic agit?

307 quanto . . . tuo Fleckeisen: satius te id . . . qui istum amorem

Σ Donatus: amoneas tuo BCDEGP: tuo cm. uolg. 308 eloqui

Fleckeisen: loqui Σ

CH. hunc ípsum orabo, huic súpplicabo, amórem huic narrabó meum :

credo ímpetrabo ut áliquot saltem núptiis prodát dies :
intérea fiet áliquid, spero. BY. id 'áliquid' nil est.

CH. Býrria,

15 quid tibi uidetur ? ádeon ad eum ? BY. quid ni ? si nil 315 ímpetres,

ut te árbítratur sibi paratum moéchum, si illum dúxerit.

CH. ábin hinc in malám rem eum suspícione istác, seclus ?

PA. Charínium uideo. sálue. CH. o salue, Pámphile :
ád te aduenio spém salutem auxílium consílium éxpetens.

20 PA. néque pol consilí locum habeo néque ad auxilium 320 cópiam.

séd istuc quid namst ? CH. hódie uxorem dúcis ? PA.
aiunt. CH. Pámphile, si íd facis, hodié postremum mé uides. PA. quid ita ?

CH. eí mihi,

ucreor dicere : huic die quaeso, Býrria. BY. ego dicám.

PA. quid est ?

BY. spónsam hic tuam amat. PA. né iste haud mecum séntit. eho dum dic mihi :

25 núm quid nam ampliús tibi cum illa fuít, Charine ? 325

CH. aha, Pámphile,

níl. PA. quam uellem ! CH. núne te per amicítiam et per amorem óbsecro, príncipeio ut ne dúcas. PA. dabo equidem óperam. CH.

sed si id nón potest

auté tibi nuptiae haéc sunt cordi, PA. córdi ? CH. saltem áliquót dies

prófer, dum proficíscor aliquo, né uideam. PA. audi
núnciam :

312 hunc ipsum Rein: ipsum huic Σ 320 ad auxilium Eugra- phius: ad auxiliandum D: auxilii BCEP: auxiliis G 328 haec Bentley: hae Σ

- 330 égo, Charine, ne útiquam officium líberi esse hominís puto, 30 quom ís nil mereat, póstulare id grátiae adponí sibi.
 núptias effúgere ego istas málo quam tu apíscier.
CH. réddidisti animúm. PA. nunc si quid pótes aut tu aut hic Býrria, fácite fingite ínuenite effícite qui detúr tibi ;
 335 égo id agam, mihi quí ne detur. CH. sát habeo. PA. 35 Dauom óptume uídeo, quoius consílio fretus sum. CH. át tu hercle haud quiequám mihi, nísi ea quae nil ópus sunt sciri. fúgin hinc? BY. ego uero áe lubens.

DAVOS CHARINVS PAMPHILVS ii

- DA.* Dí boni, boní quid porto? séd ubi ínueniam Pámphilum, út metum in quo núne est adimam atque éxpleam animum gaúdio?
 340 CH. laétus est nesció quid. PA. nil est: nón dum haec rescíuít mala.
DA. quem égo nunc credo, sí iam audierit síbi paratas
 núptias,
CH. aúdin tu illum? DA. tóto me oppido éxanimatum 5
 quaérere.
 séd ubi quaeram? quó nunc primum inténdam — CH.
 cessas ádloqui? —
DA. hábeo. PA. Daue, adés, resiste. DA. quís homost, qui me . . ? o Pámphile, 345 te ípsum quaero. eugé, Charine! ambo ópportune: uós
 nolo.

331 mereat ex Donato Bentley: promereat Σ : lect. mereat agnoscit Seruius ad Aen. vi. 664 332 apiscier Fleckeisen: a . . piscier in ras. G: adipiscier cett. 337 sciri Fabricius: scire Σ 343 quo] aut quo DE: aut om. cett. 344 habeo Donatus: abeo Σ

PA. Dáue, perii. DA. quín tu hoc audi. PA. intérii.
DA. quid timeás scio.

10 CH. méa quidem herele cértó in dubio uítast. DA. et quid tú, scio.

PA. núptiae mi. DA. etsí scio? PA. hodie . . . DA.
 obtúndis, tam etsi intéllego?

íd paues, ne dícas tu illam; tu aútem, ut ducas. CH.
 rém tenes.

PA. ístue ipsum. DA. atque ístue ipsum níl periclist: 350 mé uide.

PA. óbsecro te, quám primum hoc me líbera miserúm metu. DA. em,

15 líbero: uxorém tibi non dat iám Chremes. PA. qui scís? DA. scio.

túos pater modo méprehendit: aít tibi uxorém dare hódie, item alia múlta quae nunc nón est narrandí locus.
 cóntinuo ad te próperans pereurro ád forum, ut dicam 355 haéc tibi.

úbí te non inuénio, ibi ascendo ín quendam excelsúm locum.
 20 circumspectio: núsquam. forte ibi húius uideo Býrriam;
 rógo: negat uidísse. mihi moléstum; quid agam cógito.
 rédeunti interea éx ipsa re mi incidit suspício ‘hem, paúlulum obsoni: ípsus tristis; de ínprouiso núptiae: 360 nón cohaerent.’ PA. quórsum nam istue? DA. égo me continuo ád Chremem.

25 quom íllo aduenio, sólítudo ante óstium: iam id gaúdeo.
CH. récte dicis. PA. pérge. DA. maneo. intérea intro ire néminem

uideo, exire néminem; matrónam nullam in aédibus, níl ornati, níl tumulti: accéssi; intro aspexí. PA. scio: 365

347 certo Spengel: certe Σ 351 em Ribbeck: hem Σ 353 prehendit Donatus cum C: apprehendit cett. 354 dare sese hodie BDE: fort. se hodie uel hodie sese. item alia multa quae non narrandi est locus 358 uidisse sese codd. plerique 361 Chremem D: chremen BCEP: chremetem G

mágnun signum. DA. núm uidentur cónuenire haec núpitiis?

PA. nóu opinor, Dáue. DA. 'opinor' nárras! non 30 recte áceipis:

eérta res est. étiám puerum inde ábiens conuení Chremi: hólera et pisciculós minutos férre obolo in cenám seni.

370 CII. líberatus sum hódie, Daue, túa opera. DA. ac nullús quidem.

CII. quíd ita? nempe huic prórsus illam nóu dat. DA. ridiculúm caput, quási necessus sít, si huic non dat, té illam uxorem dúcere, 35 nísi uides, nísi sénis amicos óras, ambis. CII. béne mones: íbo, etsi hercle saépe iam me spés haec frustratást. uale.

P A M P H I L V S D A V O S

iii

375 PA. Quíd igitur sibi uólt pater? quor símulat? DA. ego dicám tibi.

si íd suscenseát nunc, quia non dét tibi uxorem Chremes, príns quam tuom animum út sese habet ad núprias per-spéxerit, ípsus sibi esse iniúrius uideátur, neque íd iniúria.

séd si tu negáris ducere, íbi culpam in te tránsferet: 5

380 túm illae turbae fíent. PA. quiduis pátiar. DA. pater est, Pámphile:

díficilest. tum haec sólast mulier. díctum [ac] factum inuénit áliquam causam, quam ób rem eíciat óppido. PA. eíciát? DA. cito.

PA. cédo igitur quid fáciam, Daue? DA. díe te ducturum. PA. héu. DA. quid est?

368 Chremi Bentley ex Donato: chremis Σ 369 ferre Σ: fere Dziatzko

372 necessus Luchmann: necesse Σ 377, 378, transponunt Σ: rectum ordinem instituit Bothe 377 habet Fleckeisen: habeat Σ 381 ao secl. Wagner.

- 10 PA. egon dicam? DA. quor non? PA. núnquam faciam. DA. né nega. 385
- PA.* snadére noli. DA. ex cá re quid fiát uide. 385
- PA.* ut ab illa excludar, hóc concludar. DA. nón itast.
nempe hóc sie esse opínor: dicturúm patrem
'ducás nolo hodie uxórem'; tu 'ducam' ínquies:
- 15 cedo quíd iurgabit técum hic? reddes ómnia, quae núne sunt certa ei cónsilia, incerta út sient, 390 sine omní periclo. nam hóc haud dubiumst, quín Chremes tibi nón det gnatam; née tu ea causa mínneris haec quae facis, ne is mútet suam senténtiam.
- 20 patrí die uelle, ut, quóm uelit, tibi iúre irasci nón queat.
nam quód tu speres 'própulsabo fáciie uxorem his móribus; 395 dabit némo': inueniet ínopem potius quám te corrumpí sinat.
- sed sí te aequo animo férre accipiet, néelegentem féceris;
aliám ótiosus quaéret: interea áliquid acciderít boni.
- 25 PA. itan crédis? DA. haud dubium íd quidemst. PA.
uide quó me inducas. DA. quín taces?
- PA.* dicám. puerum autem né reseiseat mi ésse ex illa 400 caútiost:
- nam póllicitus sum súscepturum. DA. o fácinus audax!
- PA.* háne fidem
- sibi me óbsecrauit, quí se seiret nón desertum iri, út darem.
- DA.* eurábitur. sed páter adest. caue te ésse tristem séntiat.

- SI.* Reuísó quid agant aút quid captent cónsili. 405
- DA.* hic núne non dubitat quín te ducturúm neges. 405
- uenít meditatús álicunde ex soló loco:
- orátióem spérat inuenísse se

386 hoc (=huc) P: huc B: hac cett. et *Donatusseíunxit Spengel*398 aliám Donatus: alia ΣGuyet cum códice Mureti: desertum D: deserturum *cett.*389 hic a reddes

402 desertum iri qui differat te : proin tu fac apud te út sies. 5

PA. modo ut póssim, Daue. DA. créde inquam hoc mihí, Pámphile,

410 numquam hódie tecum cómmutaturúm patrem unum ésse uerbum, sí te dices dúcere.

BYRRIA SIMO DAVOS PAMPHILVS V

BY. Erus mé relictis rébus iussit Pámphilum hodie óbseruare, ut quíd ageret de núptiis scirem : íd propterea núnc hunc uenientém sequor.

415 ipsum ádeo praesto uídeo cum Dano : hóc agam.

SI. utrúmque adesse uídeo. DA. em, serua. SI. Pámphile. 5

DA. quasi de ínprouiso réspice ad eum. PA. ehém, pater.

DA. probe. SI. hódie uxorem dúcas, ut dixí, uolo.

BY. nunc nóstrae timeo párti quíd hic respóndeat.

420 PA. neque istíe neque alibi tíbi erit usquam in mé mora. BY. hem?

DA. obmútuit. BY. quíd díxit? SI. facis ut té decet, 10 quom istúe quod postulo ímpetro cum grátia.

DA. sum uérus? BY. erus, quantum aúdio, uxore éxcidit.

SI. i núncliam intro, ne ín mora, quom opus sít, sies.

425 PA. eó. BY. nullane in re ésse quoiquam hominí fidem !
uerum illud uerbumst, uólgo quod dicí solet, 15
omnís sibi malle mélius esse quam álteri.

ego íllam uidi : uírginem formá bona meminí uideri : quo aéquior sum Pámphilo,

430 si sé illam in somnis quam íllum amplecti máluit.
renúntiabo, ut pro hóc malo mihí dét malum. 20

DAVOS SIMO vi

DA. Hic núnc me credit áliquam sibi falláciam portáre et ea me hic réstitisse grátia.

414 proscripsit sine causa Bentley, qui etiam huc legit pro hunc in hoc uersu et obseruarem quid in u. priori 429 uideri Bothe : nidere z

SI. quid Dáuos narrat? aéque quicquam núne quidem?
nilne? hém? DA. nil prorsus. SI. átqui exspectabám 435
quidem.

5 DA. praetér spem enenit, séntio: hoc male habét uirum.

SI. potin és mihi uerum dicere? DA. nil fácilius.

SI. num illí molestae quídpian haec sunt núptiae eius própter consuetúdinem huiusce hósptiae?

DA. nil hércle: aut, si adeo, bíduist aut trídui 440

10 haec sóllicitudo: nósti? deinde désinet.

etenim ípsus secum id récta reputauit uia.

SI. laudó. DA. dum licitumst éi dumque aetás tulit, amáuit; tum id elam: cáuit ne unquam infámiae ea rés sibi esset, út uirum fortém deet. 445

15 nunc úxore opus est: ánimum ad uxorem ádpulit.

SI. subtrístis uisust ésse aliquantillúm mihi.

DA. nil própter hanc rem, séd est quod suscensét tibi.

SI. quid námst? DA. puerilest. SI. quíd id est?

DA. nil. SI. quín díe, quíd est?

DA. ait nínium parée fácere sumptum. SI. méne? DA. te. 450

20 'uix' ínquit 'drachumis ést obsonatúm decem:

non fílio uidétur uxórém dare.

quem' ínquit 'uocabo ad cénam meorum aequálium potíssimum núne?' ét, quod dicendum híc siet, tu quóque perparce nínium: non laudó. SI. tace. 455

25 DA. commóui. SI. ego istaec récte ut fiant uídero.

quíd nam hóc est rei? quíd híc nolt ueteratór sibi?

nam si híc malist quicquam, ém illic est huic rei caput.

434 aequae . . . quidem Dauro tribuunt Σ : corr. Spengel: nequeo pro aeque legens codd. sequitur Fleckeisen 439 eius add. Dziatzko: prop-ter huiusce hospitae consuetudinem Σ : huiusce propter consuetudinem hospitae Erasmus et uolg.: consuetionem propter huius hospitae Spengel

442 Fleckeisen: etenim ipse (ipsus D) secum eam rem recta reputauit uia Σ : etenim ipse secum eam rem reputauit uia Donatus et uolg.:

etenim ipse eam rem recta r. u. Bentley 447 aliquantillum Bentley:
aliquantulum aut aliquantum codd. 449 id add. Erasmus 451 drachumis Ritschl: draemis drachmis dragmis Σ obsonatum C: obso-natus uel opsonatus cett.

ACTVS III

MYSIS SIMO DAVOS LESBIA (GLYCERIVM) i

MY. Ita pól quidem rest, út tu dixti, Lésbia :

460 fidélem haud ferme múlieri inueniás uirum.

SI. ab Ándriast ancílla haec? DA. quid narrás? SI. itast.

MY. sed hic Pámphilus SI. quid dícit? MY. firmauít fidem. SI. hem.

DA. utinam aút hic surdus aút haec muta fácta sit ! 5

MY. nam quód peperisset iússit tolli. SI. o Iúppiter, 465 quid ego aúdio? actumst, síquidem haec uera praédict.

LE. bonum ingénium narras ádulescentis. MY. óptimum.

sed séquere me intro, ne ín mora illi sís. LE. sequor.—

DA. quod rémedium nunc huíce malo inueniám? SI. 10 quid hoc?

adeóne est demens? éx peregrina? iám seio : ah,

470 uix tándem sensi stólidus. DA. quid hic sensísse aít?

SI. haec prímum adfertur iám mi ab hoc fallácia :

hanc símulant parere, quó Chremetem abstérreant.

(GL.) Innó Lucina, fér opem, serua me, óbseero. 15

SI. hui, tám cito? ridículum : postquam ante óstium

475 me audíuit stare, adpróperat. non sat cómmode diuísá sunt tempóribus tibi, Daue, haéc. DA. mihin?

SI. num inmémores discipuli? DA. égo quid narres néscio.

SI. hicíne me si inparátum in ueris núptiis 20 adórtus esset, quós me ludos rélderet!

480 nunc huíus perielo fít, ego in portu náuigo.

LESBIA SIMO DAVOS ii

LE. Adhúc, Archylís, quae adsolént quaeque opórtent signa ésse ad salútem, omnia huíce esse uídeo.

459 dixti Σ : dixisti Donatus et uolg. tu add. Fleckeisen 470 sensisse se BCDGP : se sensisse E : fort. se sensse uel sense agit pro aít G 479 Bentley : mihi pro me Σ 481 oportent cum E Spengel :
oportet cett.

- nunc primum fac ista ut lauet; post deinde,
 quod iussi ei dari bibere et quantum imperavi, 5 date; nunc ego huc reuertor. 485 per eorum scitus puer est natus Pamphilo.
 deos quaeso ut sit superstes, quandoquidem ipsest in-genio bono, quomque huic est ueritus optumae adulescenti facere iniuriam.—
SI. uel hoc quis non credat, qui te norit, abs te esse ortum? DA. quid nam id est?
 10 SI. non imperabat eorum, quid facto esset opus puerperae, 490 sed postquam egressast, illis quae sunt intus clamat de uia.
 o Dae, itane contemnitor abs te? aut itane tandem idoneus tibi uideor esse, quem tam aperte fallere incipias dolis?
 saltem accurate, ut metui uidear certe, si rescierim.
 15 DA. certe hercle nunc hic se ipse fallit, haud ego. 495
SI. edixi tibi, interminatus sum, ne faceres: num ueritus? quid re tulit?
 credon tibi hoc nunc, peperisse hanc e Pamphilo?
DA. teneo quid erret, et quid agam habeo. SI. quid taces?
DA. quid credas? quasi non tibi renuntiata sint haec sic fore.
 20 SI. mihi quisquam? DA. eho, an tute intellexti hoc 500 adsimulari? SI. inrideor.
DA. renuntiatumst; nam qui tibi istaec incidit suspicio?
SI. qui? quia te noram. DA. quasi tu dicas factum id consilio meo.
SI. certe enim scio. DA. non satis me pernosti etiam qualis sim, Simo.

483 ista ut PC: istaec ut BEG: istaec (ut om.) Bentley: istam ut cum Donato Fleckeisen 484 dari cum B² Eugraphius: dare cett. 488 est ueritus D: ueritus est cett. 490 Fleckeisen: opus facto esset Σ 495 edixi cum codd. plerisque Bentley: edixin cum D uolg. 500 adsimularier BCDEGP

SI. egon té? DA. sed si quid tibi narrare occépi, continuó dari

505 tibi uérba censes. SI. fálso! DA. itaque hercle níl iam muttire aúdeo.

SI. hoc égo scio unum, néminem peperísse hic. DA. intelléxti: itast.

sed níllo setiús mox puerum huc déferent ante óstium.

id égo iam nunc tibi, ére, renuntió futurum, ut sís sciens, ne tu hóc [mihi] posterius dícas Dauí fáctum consilio aút dolis.

510 prórsus a me opínionem hanc tuam ésse ego amotáum uolo. 30

SI. únde id scis? DA. audíui et credo: múlta concurrínt simul quí coniecturam hánc nunc faciam. iám prius haec se e Pámphilo

gráuidam dixit ésse: inuentumst fálsum. nunc, postquám uidet núptias domi álparari, míssast ancilla fíleo

515 óbstetricem accérsitum ad eam et púerum ut adferrét simul. 35 hóc nisi fit, puerum út tu uideas, níl mouentur núptiae.

SI. quíd ais? quom intelléxeras íd consilium cápere, quor non díxti extemplo Pámphilo?

DA. quís igitur eum ab illa abstraxit nísi ego? nam omnes nós quidem

520 scímus quam misere hánc amarit: núnc sibi uxorem éxpetit. 40 póstremo id mihi dá negoti: tú tamen idem has núptias pérge facere ita út facis, et id spéro adiuturós deos.

SI. ímmo abi intro: ibi me ópperire et quód parato opus ést para. — non ímpulit me, haec núnc omnino ut créderem;

525 atqui haúd scio an quae díxit sint uera ómnia, 45

506 itast add. Conradt 507 mox om. BCD²EGP 509 mihi secl. Bentley 512 faciam Fleckeisen: facio Σ 525 atqui Fleckeisen: atque Σ

sed páruí pendo : illúd mihi multo máximumst quod míhi pollicitust ípsus gnátus. núnc Chremem conuéniam, orabo gnáto uxorem : [id] si ímpetro, quid álias malim quam hódie has fieri núptias ?

50 nam gnátus quod pollicéitust, haud dubiúmst mihi, 530 si nólit, quin eum mérito possim cógere.
atque ádeo in ipso témpore ecceum ipsum óbuíam [Chremem].

iii

SIMO CHREMES

SI. Iubeó Chremetem . . . CH. o te ípsum quærebam. SI. ét ego te : optato áduenis.

CH. aliquót me adierunt, éx te auditum qui ásbant hodie núbere

meam filiam tuo gnáto ; id uiso túne an illi insániant. 535

SI. auscúlta paucis : [et] quíd ego te uelim ét tu quod quaerís scies.

5 CH. auscúlto : loquere quíd uelis.

SI. per té deos oro et nóstram amieitiám, Chremes, quae incépta a paruís cum aétate adereuít simul, perque únicam gnatám tuam et gnatúm meum, 540
quóiús tibi potestas súmma seruandí datur,

10 ut me ádiuues in hác re atque ita uti núptiae fueránt futurae, fiant. CH. ah, ne me óbseera :

quasi hóc te orando a me ímpetrare opórteat.
aliuú esse censes núnc me atque olím quóm dabam ? 545
si in rémst utrique ut fíant, accersí iube ;

15 sed si éx ea re plús malist quam cómmodi utríque, id oro te ín commune ut cónsulas, quasi si illa tua sit Pámphilique ego sím pater.

532 Chremem Fleckeisen seclisit : alii obuiam 533 optato aduenis Simoni continuat Dziatzko : Chremeti tribuunt Σ 534 nubere et filiam metri concinnioris gratia transposuit Fleckeisen 536 et seclisit Spengel 548 oro te Fabricius : te oro Σ : te obsecro Fleckeisen 549 quasi si D et Donatus in lemm. : quasi cett. si D :
om. cett.

- 550 SI. immo ita uolo itaque postulo ut fiat, Chremes, neque postulem abs te, ni ipsa res moneat. CH. quid est?
SI. irae sunt inter Glycerium et gnatum. CH. audio. 20
SI. ita magnae ut sperem posse auelli. CH. fabulae!
SI. profecto sic est. CH. sic hercle ut dicam tibi:
- 555 amantium irae amoris integratio est.
SI. em, id te oro ut ante eamus, dum tempus datur dumque eius libido oclusast contumeliis; 25 prius quam harum scelera et lacerumae confictae dolis redducunt animum aegrotum ad misericordiam,
- 560 uxorem demus. spero consuetudine et coniugio liberali deuinetum, Chremes, dein facile ex illis sese emersurum malis. 30
CH. tibi ita hoc uidetur; at ego non posse arbitror neque illum hanc perpetuo habere neque me perpeti.
- 565 SI. qui scis ergo istuc, nisi periculum feceris?
CH. at istuc periculum in filia fieri graue est.
SI. nempe incommoditas denique huc omnis redit, 35
si eueniat, quod di prohibeant, discessio.
at si corrigitur, quot commoditates uide:
- 570 principio amico filium restitueris,
tibi generum firmum et filiae inuenies uirum.
CH. quid istuc? si ita istuc animum inducti esse utile, 40 nolo tibi ullum commodum in me claudier.
SI. merito te semper maxime feci, Chremes.
- 575 CH. sed quid ais? SI. quid? CH. qui scis eos nunc discordare inter se?
SI. ipsius mihi Dauos, qui intumuit eorum consiliis, dixit:
et is mihi suadet nuptias quantum queam ut matrem. 45 num censes faceret, filium nisi sciret eadem haec uelle?

550 Chreme cum codd. Priscianus: sed hic et aliis in locis Chremes in uocatio praeui 561 Chreme DEG et Eugraphius: chremes BCP

tute ádeo iam eius uerba aúdiēs. heus, éuocate huc Dáuom.
atque éceum uideo ipsúm foras exíre. 580

iv

DAVOS SIMO CHREMES

DA. Ad te ibam. SI. quíd namst?

DA. quor úxor non accérsitur? iam aduéspérascit. SI.
aúdin [tu illum]?

ego dúdum non nil uéritus sum, Daue, ábs te, ne facerés idem quod uólguš seruorúm solet, dolís ut me delúderes

5 proptérea quod amat filius. DA. egon ístue facerem?

SI. erédidi,

idque ádeo metuens uós celauí quód nunc dicam. DA. 585

quíd? SI. seies;

nam própemodum habeo [tibi] íám fidem. DA. tandém cognosti quí siem?

SI. non fúerant nuptiaé futuræ. DA. quíd? non? SI.
sed ea grátia

simuláuí, uos ut pértemptarem. DA. quíd aís? SI. sic res ést. DA. uide:

10 numquam ístue quíui ego íntellegere. uáh consiliuŕ calliduŕ!

SI. hoc aúdi: ut hinc te intro íre iussi, oppórtune hic 590 fit mi óbuiam. DA. hem, num uám perimus? SI. nárro huic quæ tu dúdum narrastí mihi.

DA. quid nam aúdio? SI. gnatam út det oro, uíxque id exoro. DA. óccidi. SI. hem, quid díxisti? DA. optume ínquam factum. SI. núne per hunc nullást mora:

15 CH. domúm modo ibo. ut ádparetur dícam, atque huc renúntio.

579 Faŕnus: audies uerba Σ 581 tu illum additamentum quod ex notula in tertum irrepsit secluserit Bentley 586 tibi secluserit Bentley 593 dixisti editores antiqui plurimi: dixi Σ 594 adparetur Guyet: adparentur Σ

- 595 SI. nunc te oro, Daue, quoniam solus mi effecisti has nuptias, DA. ego uero solus. SI. corrigi mihi gnatum porro enitere.
DA. faciam hercle sedulo. SI. potes nunc, dum animus inritatus est.
DA. quiescas. SI. age igitur, ubi nunc est ipse?
DA. mirum ni domist.
SI. ibo ad eum atque eadem haec tibi quae dixi dicam 20
 itidem illi.—DA. nullus sum.
- 600 quid causa est quin hinc in pistrinum recta proficiscar uia?
 nil est precii loci relictum: iam perturbaui omnia;
 erum fefelli; in nuptias coniici erilem filium;
 feci hodie ut fierent, insperante hoc atque innito Pamphilo.
 em astutias! quod si quiessem, nil euenisset mali. 25
- 605 sed ecceum uideo ipsum: occidi.
 utinam mi esset aliquid hic quo nunc me praecipitem darem!

PAMPHILVS DAVOS

v

- PA.* Vbi ille est scelus qui perdidit me? DA. perii.
PA. atque hoc confiteor iure mi obtigisse, quandoquidem tam iners, tam nulli consili sum.
 seruum fortunae meas me commisisse futtili!
- 610 ego pretium ob stultitiam fero: sed inultum numquam id auferet.
DA. posthac me incolumem sat scio fore, nunc si deuoto 5 hoc malum.
PA. nam quid ego nunc dicam patri? negabon uelle me, modo
 qui sum pollicitus ducere? qua audacia id facere audeam?

596 corrigi mihi Fleckeisen: corrigere mihi Σ : mihi corrigere uolg.
 599 Bentley: quae tibi Σ 606 hic quo Σ : hinc quo conl. Dziatzko
 607 Vbi . . . me Dziatzko: ubi illic est scelus qui me perdidit Σ 608 nulli Donatus Charisius Priscianus: nullius BCEP 610 ego Seruius cum E: ergo Σ id numquam Σ : transp. Erasmus 611 fore me Σ : transp. me ut post posthac stare Fleckeisen 613 Fleck- eisen: qui pollicitus sum ducere qua fiducia facere id audeam Σ Donatus.

nec quíd me nunc faciám scio. DA. nec me équidem atque id ago sédulo.

dicam áliquid me inuentúrum, ut huic malo áliquam 615
productém moram. PA. oh!

10 DA. sum uísus. PA. eho dum, bóne uir, quid aís?
uíden me consiliís tuis miserum ímpeditum esse? DA. át iam expediam. PA.

expédies? DA. certe, Pámphile.

PA. nempe út modo. DA. immo mélius spero. PA.
oh, tíbi ego ut credam, fúrcifer?

tu rem ímpeditam et pérditam restítuas? em quo frétus sim,

qui me hódie ex tranquillíssima re cóniecisti in núptias. 620 15 án non dixi esse hóc futurum? DA. díxti. PA. quid meritú's? DA. crucem.

séd sine paululum ád me redeam: iam áliquid dispiciam.
PA. eí mihi, quóm non habeo spátium, ut de te súmam supplicium, út uolo!

námque hoc tempus praécauere míhi me, haud te ulcisci sinit.

ACTVS IV

CHARINVS PAMPHILVS DAVOS

CH. Hócine [est] crédibile aút memorábile, 625
tánta uecórdia innáta quoiquam út siet út malis gaúdeant átque ex incómmodis áalteriús sua ut cómparent cómoda? ah,

614 equidem Dziatzko: quidem Σ 615 productem Donatus:
producam Σ oh Fleckeisen: ohe Σ 616 sum uisus et consiliis tuis Fleckeisen: uisus sum et tuis consiliis Σ 619 sim schol.: siem Σ et Donatus in lemm. 625 est secl. Bentley

- ídnest uerum? immo id est péssimum hominúm genus, 5 630 dénegandí modo quis pudor paúlum adest;
 póst ubi témpust promíssa iam pérfici, túm coactí necessarió se áperiunt.
 [ét timent dénegare ét tamen rés premit.]
 íbi tum eorum ínpudentíssuma orátíost ‘quis tú’s? quis mi’s? quor meám tibi? 10 635 heus, próxumus sum egomét mihi.’
 at támen ‘ubi fides?’ sí roges, níl pudent hic, úbi opust; illi ubi níl ópus est, ibi ueréntur.
 séd quid agam? adeamne ád eum et cum eo iniúriam 15
 hanc expóstulem?
 640 íngeram mala múlta? atqui aliquis dícat ‘níl promóueris’:
 multúm: molestus éerte ei fuero atque ánimo morem géssero.
PA. Charíne, et me et te ímprúdens, nisi quid dí respiciunt, pérdidi.
CH. ítane ‘ímprudens’? tándem inuentast cáusa: soluistí fidem.
PA. quíd ‘tandem’? CH. etiam núme me ducere ístis 20 dictis póstulas?
 645 PA. quíd istue est? CH. postquám me amare díxi, conplacitást tibi.
 heú mé miserum quí tuom ánimum ex ánimo spectauí meo:
PA. fálsus es. CH. non tíbi sat esse hoc uísium soli-dumst gaúdium, ní me lactassés amantem et fálssa spe producéres?
 hábeas. PA. habeam? ah, néscis quantis ín malis norsér 25
 miser

629 Fleckeisen: genus hom. pess. Σ 630 denegandi Klette:
 in denegando Σ 633 denegare post premit ponunt Σ: transp.
Spengel: totum uersum secl. Klette et alii 637 pudent cum F
Bentley: pudet cett. illi Donatus: illic Σ 638 ibi add. *D*² 640 atqui Bothe: atque Σ 647 non Spengel: nonne Σ sat Fleck- eisen: satis could. 648 ní Dziatzko: nisi Σ quantásque hie consiliis suis [mihi] confláuit sollicitúdines 650 meus cármufex. CH. quid istúe tam mirumst dé te si exemplúm capit?

PA. haud istue dicas, si cognoris uél me uel amorém meum.

CH. scio: cúm patre altereásti dudum et is nunc prop-tereá tibi

30 suscénset nec te quíuit hodie eógere illam ut dúceres.

PA. immo étiam, quo tu mínus seís aerumnás meas, 655

haec núptiae non ádparabantúr mihi nec póstulabat núne quisquam uxorém dare.

CH. scio: tú coactus tuá uoluntate és. PA. mane:

35 non dúm seís. CH. scio equidem íllam ducturum ésse te.

PA. quor me énicas? hoc aúdi: numquam déstitit 660 instáre, ut dicerém me ducturúm patri;

suadére, orare usque ádeo donec pérpulit.

CH. quis homo istue? PA. Daños. CH. Dános? [PA.

interturbat. CH.] quam ob rem? PA. néscio;

40 nisi mí deos [satis scio] fuisse irátos qui auscultáuerim.

CH. factum hóc est, Daue? DA. fáctum. CH. hem, 665

quid ais? ó seelus!

at tibi di dignum fáctis exitiúm duint!

eho, díe mi. si omnes húne coniectum in núptias inimíci uellent, quód nisi consilium hóc darent?

45 DA. decéptus sum, at non défetigatús. CH. scio.

DA. hac nón successit, ália adgrediemúr uia: 670

nisi si íd putas, quia prímo processít parum, non pósse iam ad salútem conuorti hóc malum.

PA. immo étiam; nam satis crédo, si aduigiláueris,

50 ex únis geminas míhi conficies núptias.

DA. ego, Pámphile, hoc tibi pró seruitio débeo, 675

conári manibus pédibus noctisque ét dies,

650 Fleckeisen: suis cons. mihi Σ conflauit Donatus: confecit Σ 656 haec Donatus: hae Σ 661 ducturum Donatus: ducturum esse Σ 663, 664 secl. Bentley 665 o add. Spengel 668 Fleckeisen: hoc consilium Σ 671 si add. Bentley

capitis periculum adíre, dum prosím tibi; tuomst, sí quid praeter spem éuenit, mi ignóscere.
parúm succedit quód ago; at facio sédulo.

55

380 uel mélius tute réperi, me missúm face.

PA. cupió: restitue quem á me accepistí locum.

DA. faciam. PA. át iam hoc opust. DA. hem . . .
séd [mane] conerepuit hinc a Glycerio óstium.

PA. nil ád te. DA. quaero. PA. hem, núncin de-mum? DA. at iam hóc tibi inuentúm dabo.

MYSIS PAMPHILVS CHARINVS DAVOS ii

MY. Iam ubi úbi erit, inuentúm tibi curábo et mecum addúctum

685 tuom Pámphilum: modo tu, ánime mi, nolí te maceráre.

PA. Mysis. MY. quis est? chem Pámphile, optumé mihi te offers. PA. quídnamst?

MY. oráre iussit, sí se ames, era, iám ut ad sese uénias:
uidére aít te eúpere. PA. uah, perii: hóc malum integráscit. 5 sicíne me atque illam operá tua nunc míseros sollicitári!

690 nam ideíreo accersor núptias quod mi ádparari sénsit.

CH. quibus quídem quam facile pótuerat quíesci, si hic quíesset!

DA. age, si híc non insanít satis sua spónte, instiga.

MY. atque édepol

ea rés est, proptereaúque nunc misera ín macrorest. PA. 10 per omnis tibi adiuródeos numquam eám me desertúrum,

Mýsis,

695 non sí capiundos míhi sciam esse inimícos omnis hómínes.

hane mi éxpetiui: cóntigit: conuéníunt mores: náleant qui inté nos discidiúm uolunt: hane nísi mors mi adimet némo.

682 mane secl. Bentley qui etiam hinc add.
Bentley quídnam Fleckeisen: quid Σ sollicitarier Σ

686 chem pro hem
689 sollicitari Bentley:

15 MY. resipíseo. PA. non Apóllinis magis uérum atque hoc respónsumst.

si póterit fieri ut né pater per mé stetisse erédát, quo mínus haec fierent núptiae, noló; sed si id non póterit, 700 id fáciam, in procliuí quod est, per mé stetisse ut erédát.
quis uídeor? CH. miser, aeque átque ego. DA. con-sílium quaero. PA. fórtis!

20 scio, quód conere . . . DA. hoc égo tibi profécito effec-tum réddam.

PA. iam hoc ópus est. DA. quin iam habeó. CH. quid est? DA. huic, nón tibi habeo, ne érres.

CH. sat hábeo. PA. quid faciés? cedo. DA. dies híc 705
mí ut satis sit uéreor

ad agéndum: ne uocíuom [esse] me nunc ad narrandum erédas:

proinde hínc uos amolúmini; nam mí ímpedimento éstis.

25 PA. ego hanc úsam.—DA. quid tu? quo hínc te agis?

CH. uerúm uis dicam? DA. immo étiam: narrátionis íncipit mí ínítiū. CH. quid me fíet?

DA. cho tu ímpudens, non sátis habes, quod tibi diecu- 710 lam áddo,

quantum huic promoueo núptias? CH. Daue, át tamen DA. quid érgo?

CH. ut dúcam. DA. ridiculum. CH. húc face ad me ut uénias, si quid póteris.

30 DA. quid uéniam? nil habeo. CH. át tamen, si quíd.
DA. age ueniam, sí quíd.

CH. domi éro. DA. tu, Mysis, dum éxeo, parúmper [me] opperíre hic.

MY. quaprópter? DA. ita factóst opus. MY. matúra. 715
DA. iam inquam hic ádero.

703 quod pro quid Paumier, qui forti's pro fortis sine necessitate legit in
u. 702 706 Spengel: ne uacuum esse nunc me Σ 713 Spengel:
alterum si quid Charino tribuont Σ 714 me secl. Spengel

MYSIS DAVOS

iii

MY. Nilne ésse proprium quoíquam ! di nostrám fidem !
summúm bonum esse eraé putabam hunc Pámphilum, amícum, amatorém, uirum in quouís loco parátum ; uerum ex eó nunc misera quém capit 720 labórem ! facile hic plús malist quam illíc boni. 5 sed Dáuos exit. mí homo, quid istue óbsecrost ?

quo pórtas puerum ? DA. Mýsis, nunc opus ést tua mibi ad hánc rem exprompta málitia atque astútia.

MY. quid nam íncepturu's ? DA. áccipe a me hunc ócius 725 atque ánte nostram iánuam adpone. MY. óbsecro, 10 humíne ? DA. ex ara hinc súme uerbenás tibi atque eas substerne. MY. quam ób rem id tute nón facis ?

DA. quia, sí forte opus sit ád eum iurató mihi non ádposisse, ut líquido possim. MY. intéllego :

730 noua núnce religio in te ístaece íncessít. cedo ! 15

DA. mone ócius te, ut quíd agam porro intéllegas.

pro Iúppiter ! MY. quid est ? DA. spónsae pater intéruenit.

repúdio quod consílium primum inténderam.

MY. nesció quid narres. DA. égo quoque hinc ab d'ex-
tera

735 ueníre me adsimulábo : tu ut subséruias 20

orátioni, ut quómque opus sit, uerbís uide.

MY. ego quíd agas nil intéllego ; sed sí quid est quod méa opera opus sit uóbis, ut tu plús uides, manébo, ne quod uóstrum remorer cómodum.

CHREMES MYSIS DAVOS

iv

740 CH. Renórtor, postquam quae ópus facere ad núptias gnataé parauí, ut iúbeam accersi. séd quid hoc ?

717 putabam D. putauí cett. 728 iurato Bentley: insinrandum Σ

729 adposisse] apposisse E: apposuisse cett. 738 ut Guyet:

aut Σ et Donatus

puer hérelest. mulier, tu ádposisti hunc? MY. úbi illie est?

CH. non míhi respondes? MY. núsquam est. nae miseracé míhi!

5 reliquit me homo atque ábiit. DA. di nostrám fidem, apud fórum quid turbaest! quíd illie hominum lítigant! 745 tun annóna carast. quíd dicam aliud néscio.

MY. quor tu óbsecro hic me sólam? DA. hem, quae
haec est fábula?

eho Mýsis, puer hic úndest? quisue huc áttulit?

10 MY. satin sánu's qui me id rógites? DA. quem igitúr rogem

qui hic néminem alium uídeam? CH. miror únde sit. 750

DA. dictúra es quod rogo? MY. aú! DA. concede ad délixeram.

MY. Delíras: non tute ípse . . .? DA. uerbum sí míhi múnúm praeter quam quód te rogo faxís: caue!

15 male dicís? undest? díe clare. MY. a nobís. DA. hahae!
mirúm nero, impudénter mulier sí facit 755

meretríx! CH. ab Andriást [ancilla] haec, quantum intéllego.

DA. adeón nidemur uóbis esse idónei,
in quíbus sic inludátis? CH. ueni in témpore.

20 DA. propera ádeo puerum tóllere hinc ab iánua.
mané: caue quoquam ex ístoe excessís loco! 760

MY. di te éradicent! íta me miseram térritas.

DA. tibi égo dico an non? MY. quíd uis? DA. at etiám rogas?

ecdo, quóium puerum hic ádposisti? díe míhi.

25 MY. tu néscis? DA. mitte id quód seio: die quód rogo.

742 adposisti Ritschl: tun posuisti BCEP: tun apposuisti DG:
tu edd. uett. 745 Fleckeisen: quid turbaest apud forum Σ et Donatus 751 dictura es Bentley: dictura's Fleckeisen: dicturan es uel dicturane es Σ 753 praeter quam uolg.: praetera quod uel praeterequam Σ 756 uerbum seclusum habent et Σ et cum Donato Eugraphius: secl. Paumier

- 765 MY. uostrí. DA. quouis nostri? MY. Pámphili. CH.
hem. DA. quid? Pámphili?
MY. eho, an nón est? CH. recte ego sémper fugi has núptias.
DA. o fácinus animuum aduórtendum! MY. quid elá-mitas?
DA. quemne égo heri uidi ad uós adferri uésperi?
MY. o hóminem audacem! DA. uérum : uidi Cántharam 30 770 suffárcinatam. MY. dís pol habeo grátiam, quom in páriuundo aliquot ádfuerunt líberae.
DA. ne illa illum haud nouit, quóia causa haec incipit :
‘Chremés si puerum pósitum ante aedis uíderit, suam gnátam non dabít’ : tanto herele mágis dabít. 35 775 CH. non hérele faciet. DA. núnc adeo, ut tu sís sciens, nisi púerum tollis, iám ego hunc in mediám uiam pronóluam teque ibídem peruoluam ín luto.
MY. tu pól homo non es sóbrins. DA. fallácia alia áliam trudit : iám susurrari áudio 40 780 cinem Átticamesse hanc. CH. héu. DA. ‘coactus légibus eam uxórem ducet.’ MY. eho, óbsecro, an non ciúis est?
CH. ioculárium in malum ínsciens paene incidi.
DA. quis hic lóquitur? o Chremés, per tempus áduenis :
auscúlta. CH. audiri iam ómnia. DA. ain tu? haec 45
ómnia?
785 CH. audíui, inquam, a princípío. DA. audistin. óbsecro? em seclera : hánc iam oportet ín cruciatum hinc ábripi.
hic est ille : non te crédes Danom lúdere.
MY. me míseram! níl pol fálsi dixi, mí senex.
CH. noni ómnem rem. est Simo íntus? DA. est.— 50
MY. ne me áttigas.

765 hem Daui est in Σ : Chremeti tribuit Fleckeisen 767 animad-uertendum, ut semper Σ [au add. Fleckeisen] 772 quóia Brandt :
cuius Σ 784 ain Fleckeisen : an Σ 785 em Wagner : hem Σ 787 non te credes DP : non te credas cett. et uolg. : ne te credas Fleckeisen 789 attigas Paumier : attingas Σ secléste. si pol Glycerio non ómnia haec . . . 790

DA. cho inépta, nescis quíd sit actum? MY. quí sciam?

DA. hic sócer est. alio pácto haud poterat fieri ut scíret haec quae uólumus. MY. hem, praedíceres.

55 DA. paulum ínteresse cénses, ex animo ómnia, ut fért natura, fácias an de indústria? 795

v

CRITO MYSIS DAVOS

CR. In hác habitasse plátea dictumst Chrýsidem, quae sése inhoneste optáuit parere hic dítiis potiús quam in patria honéste pauper núeret:
eius móрте ea ad me lége redierúnt bona.

5 sed quós perconter uídeo: saluete. MY. óbsecro, 800
estne híc quem uideo Críto sobrinus Chrysidis?
is ést. CR. o Mysis, sálue! MY. saluos sís, Crito.

CR. itan Chrysis? hem. MY. nos quídem pol miseras pérdidit.

CR. quid uós? quo pacto hic? sátine recte? MY.
nósne? sic:

10 ut químus, aiunt, quándo ut uolumus nón licet. 805

CR. quid Glýcerium? iam hic suós parentis répperit?

MY. utinam! CR. án non dum etiam? haud aúspicato huc me áttuli;

nam pól, si id scissem, núnquam huc tetulissém pedem.
sempér eí dictast ésse haec atque habitást soror;

15 quae illús fuerunt póssidet: nunc me hóspitem 810 litís sequi, quam id míhi sit facile atque útile, aliórum exempla cómmonent. simul árbitror,
iam aliquem ésse amicum et dcfensorem eí; nám fere

797 dinitias Σ 801 Fleckeisen: quem (quid) uideo? estne hic . . . chrysidis Σ 805 sic ut quimus Donatus et schol. 807 attuli cum Prisciano Bentley: appuli Σ 809 eí cum G Bentley: eius cum enim superscr. D: enim Donatus 811 id Donatus cum D in ras. et E¹: hic cett. et Donatus ad Hec. iv. 4. 25.

- grandícula iam proféctast illinc : clámitent 815 me sýcophantam, heréditatem pérsequi 20 mendícum. tum ipsam déspoliare nón lubet.
MY. o óptume hospes ! pól, Crito, antiquom óbtines.
CR. due me ad eam, quando hue uéni, ut uideam.
MY. máxume.
DA. sequar hós : me nolo in témpore hoc uideát senex.

ACTVS V

CHREMES SIMO

- 820 CH. Sátis iam satis, Simó, spectata ergá te amicitíast mea ;
 sátis pericli incépi adire : orándi iam finém face.
 dúm studeo obsequí tibi, paene inlúsi uitam filiae.
SI. ímmo enim nunc quom máxume abs te póstulo atque oró, Chremes, út beneficium uérbis initum dúdum nunc re cómprobés. 5 825 CH. uíde quam iniquos sís prae studio : dúm id efficias quód cupis, néque modum benígnitatis néque quid me ores cógitas ;
 nám si cogités, remittas iám me onerare iniúriis.
SI. quíbus ? CH. at rogitas ? pérpulisti me, út homini adulescéntulo in alio occupáto amore, abhórrenti ab re uxória, 10 830 fíliam ut darem in seditionem átque in incertas núptias, eíus labore atque eíus dolore gnáto ut medicarér tuo.
 ímpetrasti : incépi, dum res tétulit. nunc non fért : feras.
 illam hinc eiuem esse áiunt : puer est nátus : nos missós face.
SI. pér ego te deos óro, ut ne illis ánimum inducas erédere, 15 835 quíbus il maxime útilest, illum ésse quam detérrimum.

S14 grandicula Fleckeisen : grandiuscula et erandiuscula Σ 819 Fleckeisen : nolo me Σ 823 quom Fleckeisen : eum Donatus et Eugraphius : quam Σ núptiarum grátia haec sunt fácta atque incepta ómnia.

 úbi ea causa quam ób rem haec faciunt érit adempta his, désinent.

CH. érras : cum Dauo égomet uidi iúrgantem ancillám.

SI. scio.

20 CH. uéro uultu, quom íbi me adesse neúter tum prae-sénserat.

SI. crédo et id factúras Dauos dúdum praedixít mihi ; 840 ét nescio qui id tíbi sum oblitus hódie, ac nolui, dicere.

ii DAVOS CHREMES SIMO DROMO

DA. Ánimo nunciam ótioso esse ímpero CH. em Dauóm tíbi !

SI. únde egreditur ? DA. meó praesidio atque hópitis.

SI. quid illúd malist ?

DA. égo commodiorem hómínem, aduentum, témpus non uidí. SI. scelus, quém nam hic laudat ? DA. ómnis res est iam ín uado. 845

SI. cesso ádloqui ?

5 DA. érus est : quid agam ? SI. o sálue, bone uir.

DA. éhem Simo, o nostér Chremes, ómnia adparáta iam sunt íntus. SI. curastí probe.

DA. úbi uoles accérse. SI. bene sane ; íd enim uero hinc núnc abest.

étiam tu hoc respónde, quid istic tíbi negotist ? DA.
 míhine ? SI. ita.

DA. míhin ? SI. tíbi ergo. DA. módo huc ii intro 850

SI. quási ego quam dudúm rogem.

10 DA. cúm tuo gnato una. SI. ánne est intus Pámphi-lus ? cruciór miser !

836 facta D² : fícta C G P et Eugraph. in lemm. 841 qui id Bothe : quid Σ et Donatus : qui uolý. 849 responde Σ et Seruius ad Aen. xi. 373 : respondes Donatus bis in lemm., quem sequitur Umpfenbach 850 huc add. et intro ii transp. Fleckeisen ého, non tu dixti esse inter eos inimicitias, cárnufex?

DA. sūnt. SI. quor igitur híc est? CH. quid illum eēnses? cum illa litigat.

DA. immo uero indignum, Chremes, iam fácinus faxo ex me audies.

855 néscio qui senéx modo uenit, éllum, confidéns eatus :
quóm faciem uideás, uidetur esse quantiuís preti : 15
trístis ueritás inest in uóltu atque in uerbís fides.

SI. quíd nam adportas? DA. níl equidem, nisi quód illum audiui dícere.

SI. quíd aít tandem? DA. Glýcerium se scíre ciuem esse Átticam. SI. hem,

860 Drómo, Dromo. DA. quid ést? SI. Dromo. DA.
audi. SI. uérbum si addiderís . . . ! Dromo.
DA. audi óbseero. DR. quid uís? SI. sublimen íntro 20 hunc rape, quantúm potest.

DR. quem? SI. Dáuom. DA. quam ob rem? SI. quía lubet. rape ínquam. DA. quid fecí? SI. rape.

DA. si quícquam inuenies mé mentitum, occídito. SI.
níl aúdio :

egó iam te commótum reddam. DA. támen etsi hoc nerúmst? SI. tamen.

865 cura ádseruandum uínetum, atque audin? quádrupedem constríngito.

age núnciam : ego pol hódie, si uinó, tibi 25
osténdam quid erum sít pericli fállere, et illí patrem. CH. ah, ne sacúi tanto opere. SI. ó Chremes,

pietátē gnati! nóne te miserét mei?

852 dixti edd. ant. : dixtin Σ , fort. recte, ut inimicitias quinque syl- labarum sit 857 ueritas cum C¹ Donatus ad Eun. v. l. 22 : sene-ritas cum cett. Seruius ad Aen. x. 612 et Georg. iii. 37 : tristis est seneri-tas Fleckeisen 861 sublimen Fleckeisen : sublinem Σ intro hunc rape DEG : intro rape hunc BCP : sublinem hunc intro rape uolq.

864 sic Σ nisi quod ego om. P : ego te continuo mutum reddam Flecke- sen 867 Fleckeisen : erum quid Σ tantúm laborem cāpere ob talem fīlium!

870

30 age Pámphile, exi Pámphile: cequid té pudet?

iii

PAMPHILVS

SIMO

CHREMES

PA. Quis mé uolt? perii, páter est. SI. quid ais, ómnium . . .? CH. ah,

rem pótius ipsam díe ac mitte mále loqui.

SI. quasi quíequam in hunc iam gráuius dici póssiet.

ain tándem, ciuis Glýceriumst? PA. ita praédicant.

875

5 SI. 'ita praédicant'? o ingéntem confidéntiam!

num cógitat quid dícat? num factí piget?

uide, num éius color pudóris signum usquam índicat?

adeo ímpotenti esse ánimo, ut praeter cúium morem átque legem et suí uoluntatém patris

880

10 tamen hánc habere stúdeat cum summó probro!

PA. me míserum! SI. hem, modone id démum sensi, Pámphile?

olim ístue, olim, quom íta animum inductí tuom, quod cúperes aliquo pácto efficiendúm tibi, eodém díe istue uérbum uere in te áccidit.

885

15 sed quíd ego? quor me exerúcio? quor me máceró?

quor meám senectutem huíus sollicito améntia?

an ut pro huíus peccatis égo supplicium súfferam?

immo hábeat, ualeat, uúat cum illa. PA. mí pater!

SI. quid 'mí pater'? quasi tu huíus indigeás patris.

890

20 domus, úxor, liberi ínuenti inuitó patre;

addúcti qui illam hinc cúnem dicant: uíceris.

PA. patér, licetne paúca? SI. quid dicés mihi?

CH. tamén, Simo, audi. SI. ego aúdiam? quid aúdiam, Chremés? CH. at tandem dícat. SI. age dicát, sino.

895

25 PA. égo me amare hanc fáteor; si id peccárest, fateor íd quoque.

879 adeo Bentley: adeon Σ

882 sensi edd. ant.: sensisti Σ

888 Hic incipit codex Bembinus (A), cuius pars tota superior abscissa est tibi, pater, me dēdo : quiduis óneris inpone, ímpera.

 uís me uxorem dúcere ? hanc amíttēre ? ut poteró feram.
 hóc modo te obseero, út ne credas á me adlegatum hunc senem :

900 síne me expurgem atque íllum huc coram addúcam. SI.
 adducas ? PA. síne, pater.

CH. aéquom postulát : da ueniam. PA. síne te hoc 30 exorém. SI. sino.

quíduis cupio, dúm ne ab hoc me fálli comperiár, Chremes.
CH. pró peccato mágno paulum súplici satis ést patri.

CRITO CHREMES SIMO PAMPHILVS iv

CR. Mítte orare. una hárum quacuis caúsa me ut faciám monet,

905 nēl tu nel quod uérumst nel quod ípsi cupio Glýcerio.

CH. Ándrium ego Critónem uideo ? cérte ist. CR. salhos sís, Chremes.

CH. quíd tu Athenas ínsolens ? CR. enénit. sed hicinést Símó ?

CH. híc Simost. CR. men quaéris ? SI. cho tu, Glý- 5 cerium hinc ciuem ésse aís ?

CR. tú negas ? SI. itan húc paratus áduenis ? CR.
 qua ré ? SI. rogas ?

910 tūne ímpune haec fácias ? tune hic hómīnes adulescéntulos ímpēritos rérum, eductos líbere, in fraudem ínlícis ?
 sóllicitando et póllicitando eorum ánimos lactas ? CR.
 sánnum es ?

SI. áe meretriciós amores núpitiis congútinas ? 10

898 Fleckeisen : hanc nīs amittere cum Σ Donat. : hanc nīs mittere uolg.

903 paulum edd. ant. : paululum cum Σ Donat. et Eugraphius

906 ist scripsi coll. rest pro res est, satiust pro satius est etc.

908 Fleckeisen : CH. hic. CR. Símó men C : codd. alii aliter 909 qua re *C*¹ : qua de re cett. 912 Ab hoc uersu incipit fragmentum Vindobonense lactas cum *D*¹ Donatus et Eugra- phius : iactas cett.

PA. péríi, metuo ut súbstet hospes. CH. sí, Simo, hunc norís satis,

nón ita arbitrére : bonus est híc uir. SI. hic uir sít bonus? 915
ítane adtemperáte euenit, hódie in ipsis núptiis út neniret, ántehac numquam? est uéro huic credundúm, Chremes.

15 PA. ní metuam patrem, hábeo pro illa re illum quod moneám probe.

SI. sýcophanta. CR. hem. CH. síc, Crito, est hic:
mítte. CR. uideat quí siet.

sí mihi perget quae uolt dicere, éa quae non uolt aúdiét. 920 égo istaec moueo aut eúro? non tu tuóm malum aequo animó feras?

nam égo quae dico uéra an falsa audíerim, iam scirí potest.
20 Átticus quidam ólim naui frácta ad Andrum eiéctus est ét istaec una párna uirgo. túm ille egens forte ádplicat prímum ad Chrysidís patrem se. SI. fábulam inceptát. 925 CH. sine.

CR. ítane nero obtúrbat? CH. perge tu. CR. ís mihi cognatús fuit

qui eúm recepit. íbi ego audíui ex íllo sese esse Átticum.
25 ís íbi mortuóst. CH. eius nomen? CR. nómen tam cito? PA. Phánia. CH. hem, períi! CR. uerum hercle opínor fuisse Phániam; hoc certó scio,

Rhamnúsium se aícbat esse. CH. o Iúppiter! CR. 930
eadem haéc, Chremes, multi álii in Andro tum aúdire. CH. utinam id sít quod spero! cho, díe mihi,

920 perget A: pergit Donatus in lemm.

moneo A et fort. E feras A: feres Σ audieris *A*² Σ 926 perge tu Bentley: perge. CR. tum is codd.

928 sic Bentley: cito tibi Phania A: cito tibi Σ

931 tum audire
Fleckeisen: tum audiuerunt ABCEP: tum audire DGV: tum eiéct quid eám tum? suamne esse aibat? CR. non. CH.
Bentley

quoiam igitur? CR. fratris fíliam.

CH. certé meast. CR. quid aís? SI. quid tu aís? 30

PA. árrige auris, Pámphile!

SI. qui id erédis? CH. Phania íllíc frater méus fuit.

SI. noram ét scio.

935 CH. is béllum hinc fugiens méque in Asiam pérsequens proficíscitur :

tum illám ueritust relínquere hic. postílla nunc primum aúdio quid illó sit factum. PA. nix sum apud me : ita ánimus commotúst metu

spe gaúdio, mirándo tanto tám repentino hóc bono. 35

SI. ne istám multimodis tuam ínueniri gaúdeo. PA.

credó, pater.

940 CH. at scrúpulus mí etiam únus restat quí me male habet. PA. dígnus es ;

cum tuá religione, ódium. nodum in scírpo quaeris.

CR. quíd istud est?

CH. nomén non conuenít. CR. fuit herele huic áliud paruae. CH. quód, Crito?

num quíd meministi? CR. id quaéro. PA. egon huius 40

mémoriam patiár meae

uoluptáti obstare, quóm ego possim in hác re medicarí míhi?

945 heus, Chrêmes, quod quaeris, Pásibulast. CH. Pási-bula? ipsást. CR. east.

PA. ex ípsa audiui míliens. SI. onmís nos gaudere

hóc, Chremes,

933 quiduis A qui haec uerba Simoni dat et quid tu ais Pamphilo

934 qui id Fleckeisen : quid A 936 sic uerba ordinauit ego : tum illam relinquere hic est ueritus codd. postilla *A*² : posilla A :

postid Spengel 939 multimodis A et Eugraph. in lemm. : multis modis cum Σ Donatus 940 Ritschl : at míhi unus scrupulus etiam codd. 941 odium AC : odio cett. istud Luchs : istue codd.

945 sic A nisi quod Pasibula geminauit Luchs : non patiar heus chreme BCDEGPV 946 Fleckeisen : milliens audiui codd.

te crédo credere. CH. ita me di ament, crédo. PA.
quod restát, pater . . .

45 SI. iam dúdum res reddúxit me ipsa in grátiam. PA.
o lepidúm patrem !

de uxóre, ita ut possédi, nil mutát Chremes ? CH. causa óptumast ;

nisi quíd pater aít áliud. PA. nempe id ? SI. scilicet. 950
CH. dos, Pámphile, est

decém talenta. PA. accípio. CH. propéro ad fíliam.
eho mecúm, Crito ;

nam illám me credo haud nósse. — SI. quor non íllam huc transferrí iubes ?

50 PA. recte ádmones : Dauo égo istuc dedam iám negoti.
SI. nón potest.

PA. qui ? SI. quía habet aliud mágis ex sese et máius.

PA. quid nam ? SI. uínetus est.

PA. patér, non recte uínetust. SI. haud ita iússi. PA. 955 iube solui, óbsecro.

SI. age fíat. PA. at matúra. SI. eo intro. PA. o faústum et felicém diem !

v CHARINVS PAMPHILVS DAVOS

CH. Quíd agat Pamphilús prouiso. atque éccum. PA.
me aliquis fórs putet

nón putare hoc uérum, at mihi nunc síc esse hoc uerúm lubet.

égo deorum uítam eapropter sémpternam esse árbitror quód uoluptates córum propriae súnť ; nam mi immortálitás 960

5 pártast, si nulla aégritudo huic gaúdio intercésset.

séd quem ego mihi potíssimum optem, quóí nunc haec narrém, dari ?

947 cedere A quod Σ : quid A 953 qui non potest BCEGP 956 felicem hunc diem Σ *praeter G*¹ 957 Fleckeisen :
prouiso quid agat pamphilus . . . aliquis forsitan me putet codd.
959 eapropter Bentley cum Seruio ad Ecl. vii. 31 : propterea codd.
962 optem A : exoptem Σ

CH. quid illud gaudist? PA. Dáuom uideo. némost quem mallem ómuium; nam húne scio mea sólide solum gáuísurum gaúdia.

965 DA. Pámphilus ubi nam híc est? PA. Daue. DA. quis homost? PA. ego sum. DA. o Pámphile.

PA. néseis quid mi obtígerit. DA. certe; séd quid mi 10 obtígerít scio.

PA. ét quidem ego. DA. more hóminum euenit út quod sum nancetús mali príus resciscerés tu quam ego illud quód tibi euenít boni.

PA. Glycérium mea suós parentis répperit. DA. factúm bene! CH. hem!

970 PA. páter amicus súmnus nobis. DA. quis? PA. Chremes. DA. Narrás probe.

PA. néc mora ullast quín iam uxorem dúcam. CH. 15 num ille sómniat éa quae uigilans uóluit? PA. tum de púero, Daue . . .

DA. ah, désine!

sólus es quem díligant di. CH. sáluos sum, si haec uéra sunt. cónloquar. PA. quis homóst? [o] Charine, in tém-pore ipso mi áduenis.

975 CH. béne factum. PA. audisti? CH. ómnia. age, me in tuís secundis réspice.

túos est nunc Chremés: facturum quacé uoles scio esse ómnia.

PA. mémini: atque adeo lóngumst illum me éxspectare 21 dum éxeat.

séquere hac me intro; intús apud Glyceériúmst nunc. tu, Daue, ábi domum, própera, accerse hinc qui áuferant eam. quíd stas? quíd cessás? DA. eo.

963 mallem A: malim Σ sum Fleckeisen: sim codd.

973 es Bentley: est codd.

secundis A: secundis rebns Σ Donat. Eugraph.

nos illum Σ : me om. Donat. in lemm.

965 noua scaena est in DGV 967

971 iam cum BCP Bentley: eam cett.

975 audistin A: hem uel em andistin Σ 977 illum A

978 intro add. Spengel

ne exspectetis dum exeant huc : íntus despondébitur ; 980 25 íntus transigétur si quid ést quod restet. CANTOR.
 Plaúдите !

ALTER EXITVS SVPPSITICIVS

PAMPHILVS CHARINVS CHREMES DAVOS

P.A. Te exspectabam : est dé tua re quód agere ego tecúm uolo.
 óperam dedi ne me ésse oblitum dícas tuæ gnatae álterae :
 tñbi me opinor ínvenisse dígnum te atque illá uirum.

CHA. péríi, Dane : dé meo amore ac nñra nunc sors tóllitur.

5 CHR. nón noua istaec mñhi condiciost, sí uoluíssem, Pámphile.

CHA. óccidi, Dane. D.A. ah, maue. CHA. péríi. CHR. id quam ób rem non uolui éloquar.

nón idcirco quód eum omnino adfñnem mñhi nollem, CHA. hém.

D.A. tace.

CHR. séd amicitia nóstra quae est a pátribus nostris trádicta, nón aliquam partém, sed studni adaúctam tradi líberis.

10 nunc quom copia ac fortuna utrñque ut obsequerér dedit, détur. P.A. bene factum. D.A. ádi atque age homini grátias. CHA.
 salué, Chremes,

meórum amicorum ómnium mñi aequíssime.

quid múlta uerba ? mñhi non minus est gáudio

15 me répperisse, ut hábitus antehac fuí tibi,

14 quam mí éuenire nunc id quod ego abs te éxpeto.

CHR. animúm, Charíne, quócúmque adplicáuérís, studium éxinde ut erit, tñte existimáuérís.

P.A. id ita ésse facere cóniecturam ex mñ licet.

CHA. aliénus abs te támen qui esses nóueram.

20 CHR. ita rés est. gnatam tñbi meam Philúmenam uxórem et dotis séx talenta spóndeó.

4 nunc add. Guyet : sortis pro sors melius Fleckeisen 6 ah add.
Ritschl 9 sed add. Dziatzko 11 adi Ritschl : abi uel ibi codd.

12 aequissime Fleckeisen : agissime codd. 13 multa uerba add.
Dziatzko 14, 15 Dziatzko : inuerso ordine uersus praebent codd.

16 quocumque Dziatzko : quoadcumque codd.

HEAVTON TIMORVMENOS

INCIPIT · HEAVTON · TIMORVMENOS · TERENTI · GRAECA · EST
MENANDRV · ACTA · LVDIS · MEGALENSIB · L · CORNELIO · LEN-TVLO · L · VALERIO · FLACCO · AEDILIB · CVRVLIB · EGIT
AMBIVIVS · TVRPPIO · MODOS · FECIT · FLACCVS · CLAVDI
5 ACTA · PRIMVM · TIBIS · INPARIB · DEINDE · DVABVS · DEXTRIS
FACTAST · TERTIA · M · IVVENTIO · TI · SEMPRONIO · COS

5 actal A, qui litteram L ante Ambinius omittit 6 M. Iunio Tito Sempronio cos P: Cn. Cornelio Marco Iunio cos A: Iun. Iunio B: Iunentio cell.

C. SVLPICI APOLLINARIS PERIOCHA

In militiam proficisci gnatum Clíniam amantem Antiphilam cónpulsit durís pater animique sese angébat facti paénitens.
 mox út reuersust, elám patrem deuórtitur ad Clitiphonem. is amábat scortum Bácehidem. 5 cum accérseret cupítam Antiphilam Clínia, ut éius Bacchis uénit amica ac séruolae habitúm gerens Antíphila : factum id quó patrem suám celaret Clitípho. hic technís Syri decém minas meretrículae aufert á sene. 10 Antíphila Clitiphónis reperitúr soror :
 hanc Clínia, aliam Clitípho uxorem áccipit.

PERSONAE

[PROLOGVS]

CHREMES SENEX

MENEDEMVS SENEX

CLITIPHO ADVLESCENS

CLINIA ADVLESCENS

SYRVS SERVVS

DROMO SERVVS

BACCHIS MERETRIX

ANTIPHILA VIRGO

SOSTRATA MATRONA

[CANTHARA] NVTRIX

PHRYGIA ANCILLA

CANTOR

PROLOGVS

L. AMBIVIVS

- Nequóí sit nostrum mírum quor partís seni poéta dederit quae sunt adulescéntium, id prímum dicam, deínde quod ueni éloquar.
 ex íntegra Graeca íntegram comoédiam
- 5 hodié sum acturus Heaúton timorúmenon : 5
 dúpléx quae ex arguménto facta est simplici.
 nonam ésse ostendi et quae éset : nunc qui scrípserit et quóia Graeca sít, ní partem máximam existimarem scíre nostrum, id dícerem.
- 10 nunc quam ób rem has partis dídicerim paucís dabo. 10 orátorem esse nóluit me, non prólogum :
 uostrúm iudiciúm fécit : me actorém dedit, si hic áctor tantum póterit a facúndia quantum ille potuit cógitare cómmode,
- 15 qui orátionem hanc scrípserit quam dictúrus sum. 15 nam quód rumores dístulerunt máliuoli, multás contaminásse Graecas, dúm facit paueás Latinas : íd esse factum hic nóu negat neque sé pigere et deínde facturum aútmát.
- 20 habét bonorum exémplum, quo exempló sibi 20
 licére id facere quód illi fecerúnt putat.
 tum quód maliuolus uétus poéta díctitat, repénite ad studium hunc se ádplicasse músicúm, amíeum ingenio frétum, haud naturá sua :
- 25 arbítrium uostrum, nóstra existimátio 25
 nalébit. qua re orátos omnis nós uolo.
 ne plús iniquom póssit quam aequom orátio.

3 post hunc uersum ponunt uu. 11-15 Dziatzko et Fleckeisen 6-9 hos uersus improbant Dziatzko et Fleckeisen. fort. recte 6 simplici A²Σ :
 duplici A 13 si Bentley : sed codd. 20 Fleckeisen : oratos uos omnes B : omnis uos oratos cett.

- facite aequi sitis, date crescendi copiam, nouarum qui spectandi faciunt copiam 30 sine uitis. ne ille pro se dictum existimet, qui nuper fecit seruo currenti in uia decesse populum: quor insano seruiat?
eius de peccatis plura dicet, quom dabit alias nouas, nisi finem maledictis facit.
- 35 adeste aequo animo, date potestatem mihi statariam agere ut liceat per silentium, ne semper seruos currens, iratus senex, edax parasitus, syeophanta autem impudens, anarus leno adsidue agendi sint mihi 40 clamore summo, cum labore maximo.
mea causa causam hanc iustam esse animum inducite, ut aliqua pars laboris minuatür mihi.
nam nunc nouas qui scribunt nil parcunt seni:
si quae laboriosast, ad me curritur;
- 45 si lenis est, ad alium defertur gregem.
in hac est pura oratio. experimini in utramque partem ingenium quid possit meum.
si numquam auare pretium statui arti meae et eum esse quaestum in animum induxi maximum, 50 quam maxime seruire nostris commodis:
exemplum statuite in me, ut adulescentuli uobis placere studeant potius quam sibi.

33 eius de Fleckeisen: de illius codd. uolg. 48-50 hi uersus qui iterum in Hec. prol. 49-51 leguntur aptiorem hic habent locum:
itaque, quamquam uersus duo priores in A desunt, hic restitui et eundem locum in Hecyra uncinis seclusi: aliter sentiunt Fleckeisen et Wagner et Dziatzko

ACTVS I

CHREMES MENEDEMVS

i

- CH. Quamquam haec inter nos nuper notitia admodumst (inde adeo quom agrum in proximo hic mercatus es)
- 55 nec rei fere sane hoc amplius quicquam fuit:
 tamen vel uirtus tua me vel uicinitas, quod ego in propinqua parte amicitiae puto, 5
 facit ut te audacter moneam et familiariter, quod mihi uidere praeter aetatem tuam
- 60 facere et praeter quam res te adhortatur tua.
 nam pro deum atque hominum fidem quid uis tibi?
 quid quaeris? annos sexaginta natus es 10 aut plus eo, ut conicio; in his regionibus meliorem agrum neque preti maioris nemo habet;
- 65 seruos compluris: proinde quasi nemo siet,
 ita attente tute illorum officia fingere.
 numquam tam mane egrédior neque tam uesperis 15 domum reuortor quin te in fundo conspicer fodere aut arare aut aliquid ferre. denique
- 70 nullum remittis tempus neque te respicis.
 haec non uoluptati tibi esse satis certo scio.
 'at enim me quantum hic operis fiat paenitet.' 20 quod in opere faciundo operae consumis tuae, si sumas in illis exercendis, plus agas.
- 75 ME. Chremes, tantumne ab re tuast otii tibi aliena ut cures ea quae nil ad te attinent?

54 quom Fleckeisen: quod codd. 55 hoc numerorum gratia add.
Dziatzko coll. And. 31 58 audaciter A 64 agrum ante in his stat in codd.: transp. Buechelero suadente Dziatzko 65 seruos compluris codd.: serui complures Guyet uolg.: seruos non pluris Bentley 72 at enim me Muretus: ad enim dices A Eugraph. in lemm.: ad enim me dices A2: at enim dices me cett. et Donatus ad Phorm. 172

- 25 CH. homó sum : humani níl a me alienúm puto.
 uel mé monere hoc uél pereontarí puta :
 rectúmst? ego ut faciam; nón est? te ut detérream.
ME. mihi sic est usus; tibi ut opus factóst face. 80
CH. an quóquamst usus hómíni se ut crueiét? ME. mihi.
- 30 CH. si quíd laborist nóllem. sed quid istúe malist?
 quaesó, quid de te tántum meruisti? ME. eí mihi!
CH. ne lácruma atque istuc, quídquid est, fac me út sciam:
 ne rétice, ne uerére, crede inquám mihi : 85
 aut cónsolando aut cónsilio aut re iúuero.
- 35 ME. scire hóc uis? CH. haec quidem caúsa qua dixí tibi.
ME. dicétur. CH. at istos rástros intereá tamen adpóne, ne labóra. ME. minime. CH. quám rem agis?
ME. sine mé, uociuom témpus ne quod dém mihi 90
 labóris. CH. non sinam, inquam. ME. ah, non aequóm facis.
- 40 CH. hui, tám grauis hos, quaésó? ME. sic meritúmst meum.
CH. nunc lóquere. ME. filium únícum adulescéntulum habeo. áh, quid dixi? habére me? immo habuí, Chremes;
 nunc hábeam neene incértumst. CH. quid ita istúe? 95
ME. scies.
- est é Coríntho hic áduena anus paupércula :
 45 eius filiam ille amáre coepit pérдите, prope iam út pro uxore habéret : haec clam me ómnia.
 ubi rém rescui, coépi non humánitus neque ut ánimu decuit ágrotu adulescéntuli 100 tractáre, sed ui et uía peruolgatá patrum.
- 50 cottídie accusábam : hem, tibine haec diútius licére speras fácere me uiuó patre, amícam ut habeas própe iam in uxoris loco?
 errás, si id credis, ét me ignoras, Clínia. 105

83 ei mihi BD²E: eheu ACFP uacuum cett.

90 uociuom A: uaciuum A²:

- ego té meum esse díci tantispér nolo, dum quód te dignumst fácies ; sed si id nón facis, 55 ego quód me in te sit fácere dignum innúnero.
nulla ádeo ex re istuc fít nisi ex nimio ótio.
- 110 ego istúe aetatis nón amorí operám dabam, sed in Ásiam hinc abii própter pauperiem átque ibi simúl rem et gloriam ármis belli répperi.' 60 postrémo adeo res rédiit : adulescéntulus saepe éadem et grauitér aúdiendo uíetus est ;
- 115 aetáte me putáuit et sapiéntia
plus scíre et prouidére quam se ipsúm sibi :
in Ásiam ad regem militatúm abiít, Chremes. 65
CH. quid áis ? ME. clam me proféctus mensis trís abest.
CH. ambo áccusandi ; etsi illud inceptúm tamen
- 120 animíst prudentis sígnum et non instrénui.
ME. ubi cómpéri ex eis quí fuere ei cónseii, domúm renortor maéstus atque animó fere 70
pertúrbato atque incérto prae aegritúdine.
adsído : adcurrunt sérui, soccos détrahunt ;
- 125 uideo álios festináre, lectos stérnere, cenam ádparare : pró se quisque sédulo faciébant quo illam míhi lenirent míseriam. 75 ubi uídeo, haec coepi cógitare ' hem, tót mea solús solliciti sínt causa ut me unum épleant ?
- 130 ancillae tot me néstiant ? sumptús domi
tantós ego solus fáciam ? sed gnatum únicum, quem páriter uti his décuít aut etiam ámplius, 80
quod illa aétas magis ad haéc utenda idóneast, eum ego hínc eieci míserum iniustitiá mea !
- 135 maló quidem me quóuis dignum députem,

115 Dziatzko : uersus omissus est in A : putauit me etate et sapientia
*A*² : putauit me et aetate et benivolentia Σ 125 sic codd. : inde alii Bentley schol. Bemb. secutus, qui adnotat ad hunc uersum in re praepropera infinito modo pro indicatiuo usum esse poitam 129 solus codd. : soli Fleckeisen sint T. Faber : sunt codd.

- si id faciám. nam usque dum ille nitam illám colet 85 inopém carens patria ób meas iniúrias, intérea usque illi dé me suppliciúm dabo labórans, parcens, quaérens, illi séruens.
 ita faciо prorsus: níl relinquo in aédibus 140
 nec uás nec uestiméntum: conrasi ómnia.
 90 ancíllas, seruos, nísi eos qui opere rústico faciúndo facile súmptum exsereirént suom, omnis produxi ac uéndidi. inseripsi íleo aedís mercede. quási talenta ad quíndecim 145
 coēgi: agrum hunc mereátus sum: hic me exérceo.
 95 decréui me tantísper minus iniúriae, Chremés, meo gnato fácere dum fiám miser;
 nec fás esse ulla mé uoluptate híc frui, nisi ubi ille huc saluos rédierit meus párticeps. 150
CH. ingénio te esse in líberos lení puto, 100 et illum óbsequentem sí quis recte aut cómmode tractáret. uerum nec tu illum satis nóueras nec te ille; hoc ubi fit, íbi non uere uíuitur.
 tu illúm nunquam ostendísti quanti pénderes 155 nec tibi illest credere aúsus quae est aequóm patri.
 105 quod si ésset factum, haec númquam euenissént tibi.
ME. ita rés est, fateor: péccatum a me máxumest.
CH. Menedéme, at porro récte spero et illúm tibi saluom ádfuturum esse híc confido própédiem. 160
ME. utinam íta di faxint! CH. faciént. nunc si cómmodumst,
 110 Dionýsia hic sunt hódie: apud me síis uolo.
ME. non póssum. CH. quor non? quaéso tandem ali-quántulum

143 exsercirent Paumier: exsercerent codd.: 'exsercerent resarcirent' adn. schol. Bemb. 145 mercede A: mercedem *A*² Σ

147 me tantisper Fleckeisen: tantisper me codd. 148 Chremes

*AC*¹*F*²*P*: Chreme *BC*²*DEF*¹ 154 Fleckeisen: íbi fit ubi P:

qui uel que fit A: qui cett.: quod Bentley et uoly. 158 maxumest cum *DE*¹ Fleckeisen: maximumst cett.

tibi páree: idem absens fácere te hoc uolt fílius.

165 ME. non cónuenit, qui illum ád laborem hinc pépulerim, nunc me ípsum fugere. CH. sícine est senténtia?

ME. sic. CH. béne uale. ME. et tu. — CH. lácrumas 115
excussít mihi

miserétque me eius. séd ut diei témpus est, tempúst monere me húnc uicinum Phániam

170 ad cénam ut ueniat: íbo, uisam sí domist. — nil ópus fuit monitóre: iam dudúm domi

praesto ápud me esse aiunt. égomet conuiuás moror. 120

íbo ádeo hinc intro. séd quid crepuerúnt fores hinc á me? quis nam egréditur? huc concéssero.

CLITIPHO CHREMES

ii

175 CL. Níl adhuc est quód uereare, Clínia: haud qua-quam étiam cessant, ét illam simul cum núntio hic tibi ádfuturam hodié scio.

proín tu sollicitúdinem istam fálсам quae te exerúciat mittas.

CH. quícum loquitur fílius?

CL. páter adest quem uólui: adíbo. páter, opportune 5 áduenis.

180 CH. quíd id est? CL. hunc Menedémum nostin nóstrum uicinúm? CH. probe.

CL. huic fílium seis ésse? CH. audiui esse: ín Asia.

CL. non ést, pater:

apud nós est. CH. quíd aís? CL. áduenientem, e náui egredientem ílico

abdúxi ad cenam: nám mihi magna cum eó iam inde

[usque] a puérítia

fuit sémpér familiáritas. CH. uoluptátem magnam 10 núntias.

165 hinc pepulerim Bentley: impulerim codd. 169 tempust add. Bentley 174 hic uersus deest in A 176 hic tibi Fleckeisen:
tibi hic codd. 183 magna habent AD¹F², om. cett. usque om. F¹.
exhibent cett.

quam uellem Menedemum inuitatum ut nobiscum esset 185
amplius,

ut hanc laetitiam necopinanti primus obicerem ei domi!
atque etiam nunc tempus est. CL. caue faxis: non opus est, pater.

CH. quapropter? CL. quia enim incertus etiam quid se faciat. modo uenit;

15 timet omnia, iram patris et animum amicae se erga ut sit suae.
eam misere amat; propter eam haec turba atque abitio 190 euenit. CH. scio.

CL. nunc scernolum ad eam in urbem misit et ego nostrum una Syrum.

CH. quid narrat? CL. quid ille? se miserum esse. CH.
miserum? quem minus crederes?

quid reliquist quin habeat quae quidem in homine dicuntur bona?

20 parentis, patriam incolumem, amicos, genus, cognatos, ditias.
atque haec perinde sunt ut illius animus qui ea possidet: 195 qui uti scit ei bona; illi qui non utitur recte mala.

CL. immo ille fuit senex inportunus semper et nunc nil
magis

nereor quam ne quid in illum iratus plus satis faxit, pater.

5 CH. illucine? sed me reprimam: nam in metu esse hunc illis utile.

CL. quid tute tecum? CH. dicam: ut ut erat, mansum 200
tamen oportuit.

fortasse aliquantum iniquior erat praeter eius libidinem:
pateretur; nam quem ferret si parentem non ferret suum?
hucine erat aequom ex more illius an illum ex huius uerere?

188 incertus Fleckeisen: incertumst codd. 189 patris iram codd.: transp. Fleckeisen 192 crederes Lachmann: crederest cum codd. Donatus et Seruius: crednas coni. Dziatzko 193 reliquist edd. ant.: reliquist codd. 194 ditias edd. ant.: dinitias codd.
199 Fleckeisen: illene et reprimam me codd. 203 Fleckeisen: illius more codd.

et quód illum insimulat dúrum, id non est; nám paren- 30
tum iniúriæ

205 uníus modi sunt férme, paulo qui ést homo tolerábilis :
seortári crebro nólunt, nolunt crébro conuiuárier, præbént exigue sumpsum; atque hæc sunt támen ad uirtutem ómnia.

uerum ánimus ubi semél se cupiditáte deuinxít mala, necessest, Clitiphó, consilia cónsequi consúmilia. 35

210 scitúmst perichum ex áliis facere tibi quod ex usú siet.
CL. ita crédo. CH. ego ibo hinc íntro, ut uideam nóbis cenæ quíd siet.

tu, ut témpus est diéi, uide sis né quo hinc abeas lóngius.

ACTVS II

CLITIPHO

i

CL. Quam iníqui sunt patrés in omnis ádulescentis iúdice!

qui æquom ésse censent nós a pueris ílico nascí senes

215 neque illárum adfinis ésse rerum quas fert adulescéntia.
lubídine ex suá moderantur núnc quæ est, non quæ olím fuit.

mihí si únquam filiús erit, ne ille fáci me utetúr patre; 5 nam et cónoscendi et ígnosendi dábitur peccatí locus :

non út meust qui mihí per alium osténdit suam senténtiam.

220 perii! ís mi, ubi adbibít plus paulo, súa quæ narrat fácinora!

nunc aút ' perichum ex áliis facito tibi quod ex usú siet ' :

astútus. ne ille haud scít quam mihí nunc súrdo narret 10 fábulam.

magis núnc me amicæ dícta stimulant ' dá mihí ' atque

' adfér mihí ' :

216 Fleckeisen: ex sua lub. codd.

217 facili me cum F²P²

Eugraphius: facillime A: facillimo alii

219 meust Fleckeisen:

meus codd.

quoi quód respondeám nil habeo; néque me quisquamst miserior.

nam hic Clínia, etsi is quóque suarum rerum sat agitát, tamen habét bene et pudíce eductam, ignáram artis meretríciæ. 226 15 meast ímpotens, procáx, magnífica, sumpuosa, nóbilis.
tum quód dem ei, 'recte' est; nám nil esse míhi religiost dicere.

hoc égo mali non prídem inveni néque etiam dum scít pater.

ii

CLINIA CLITIPHO

CLIN. Si míhi secundæ rés de amore meo éssent, 230
iam dudúm scio

uenissent; sed uereór ne mulier me ábsente hic corrúpta sit.
concurrunt multa opínionem quæ mi in animo exaúgeant:
occásio, locus, aétas, mater quóius sub imperióst mala,

5 quoi níl iam praeter prétium duleest. CLIT. Clínia.

CLIN. ei miseró mihi!

CLIT. etiám caues ne nídeat forte hic te á patre ali- 235 quis éxiens?

CLIN. faciám; sed nescio quíd profecto mi ánimus praesagít mali.

CLIT. pergín istue prius diiúdicare quám seis quid uerí siet?

CLIN. si níl mali esset, iam híc adessent. CLIT. iam áderunt. CLIN. quando istúe 'iam' erit?

10 CLIT. non cógitas hinc lóngule esse? et nósti mores
múlierum:

dum móliuntur, dúm conantur, ánnus est. CLIN. o 240 Clítipho,

timeó. CLIT. respira: eccúm Dromonem cúm Syro una: adsúnt tibi.

224 deest in A 227 ímpotens Bothe: potens codd. procax codd.: petax Bentley: petens Wagner: Donatum (qui ad Hec. 159 scribit pro- cax despoliatrice et petax) illud petax ex hoc loco sumpsisse putat Bentley 232 sic Bentley nisi quod eam sine causa addit: in add. ego: multae opíniones quæ mihi ánimus codd.: multae opínionem res quæ mi ánimo Dziatzko: multa eam opínionem quæ mihi ánimo Fleckeisen 238 iam add. Paumier

SYRVS DROMO CLINIA CLITIPHO iii

SY. Aín tu? DR. sic est. SY. uérum interea, dúm sermones caédimus, illae sunt relietae. CLIT. mulier tíbi adest. audin, Clínia?

CLIN. égo nero audió nunc demum et uideo et ualeo, Clítipho.

245 DR. mínime mirum : adeo ímpeditae súnt : ancillarúm gregem dúeunt secum. CLIN. périi, unde illi súnt ancillae? 5

CLIT. mén rogas?

SY. nón oportuít relictas : pórtant quid rerum! CLIN. eí mihi!

SY. aúrum, uestem; et uésperascit ét non nouerúnt uiam. fáctum a nobis stúltest. abi dum tú, Dromo, illis óbuiam.

250 própera: quid stas? CLIN. uaé mi misero, quánta de spe déciði!

CLIT. quíd istue? quae res té sollicitat aútem? CLIN. 10 rogitas quíd siet?

uíden tu? ancillas aúrum uestem, quám ego cum una ancíllula híc reliquí, unde ei ésse censes? CLIT. uáh, nunc demum intéllego.

SY. dí boni, quíd túrbaest! aedes nóstrae nix capíent, scio.

255 quíd comedent! quíd ébibent! quíd séné erit nostro míserius?

séd eccos uideo quós uolebam. CLIN. o Iúppiter, ubi 15 námst fides?

dum ego própter te errans pátria careo démens, tu intereá loci conlócupletasti te. Ántiphila, et me in hís deseruísti malis, proptér quam in summa infámia sum et meó patri minus sum óbsequens :

250 Fleckeisen : misero mihi codd.
Bentley : uideo eccos codd.

253 ei add. Bergk

256

- quoniam nunc pudet me et miseret, qui harum mores can- 260
tabat mihi,
- 20 monuisse frustra neque eum potuisse umquam ab hac me
aspellere:
quod tamen nunc faciam; tum, quom gratum mihi esse potuit, nolui.
nemost miserior me. SY. hic de nostris uerbis errat nidelicet quae hic sumus locuti. Clinia, aliter tuum amorem atque est accipis:
nam et uistast eadem et animus te erga idem ac fuit, 265
25 quantum ex re eapse coniecturam fecimus.
CLIN. quid est obsecro? nam mihi nunc nil rerum omniumst
quod malim quam me hoc falso suspiciaries.
SY. hoc primum, ut ne quid huius rerum ignores: anus,
quae est dicta mater esse ei antehac, non fuit; 270 30 ea obiit mortem. hoc ipsa in itinere alterae dum narrat forte audiui. CLIT. quae namst altera?
SY. mane: hoc quod coepi primum enarrem, Clitipho:
post istue ueniam. CLIT. prospera. SY. iam primum omnium,
ubi uentum ad aedis est, Dromo pultat fores; 275 35 anus quaedam prodit; haec ubi aperit ostium, continuo hic se intro coniecit, ego consequor;
anus foribus obdit pessulum, ad lanam redit.
hic sciri potuit aut nusquam alibi, Clinia, quo studio uitam suam te absente exegerit, 280 40 ubi de inprovisost interuentum mulieri:
nam ea res dedit tum existimandi copiam cottidianae uitae consuetudinem, quae quousque ingenium ut sit declarat maxime.

261 aspellere Bentley: expellere codd. 266 re eapse Fleckeisen:
ipsa re codd. 276 aperit Bentley: aperuit codd. 277 Bentley:
se coniecit intro codd.

- 285 texéntem telam stúdióse ipsam offéndimus, mediócritér uestítam ueste lúgubri 45 (eius ánuis causa opínor quae erat mórtua), sine aúro; tum ornatam íta uti quae ornantúr sibi, nullá mala re intéropolatam múliebri;
- 290 capíllus passus prólixè et circúm caput reíéctus neclegénter; pax. CLIN. Syre mi, óbseero, 50 ne me ín laetitiam frústra coniciás. SY. anus subtémen nebat. praéterea una ancéllula erat; éa texebat úna, pannis óbsita,
- 295 neclécta, immunda inlúuie. CLIT. si haec sunt, Clínia, q̄era, íta uti credo, quís te est fortunátior? 55
 scin hánc quam dicit sórdidatam et hórridam?
 magnum hóc quoque signumst, dóminam esse extra nóxiam,
 eius quóm tam neclegúntur internúntii:
- 300 nam dísciplinast eís demunerárier
 ancéllas primum ad dóminas qui adfectánt uiam. 60 CLIN. perge, óbseero te, et cáue ne falsam grátiam studeás inire. quíd aít, ubi me nóminas?
SY. ubi dícimus redísse te et rogáre uti
- 305 ueníret ad te, múlier telam désinit contínuo et laerunis ópplet os totúm sibi, 65 ut fácte scias desíderio id fierí tuo.
CLIN. prae gaúdio, ita me dí ament, ubi sim néscio:
 ita tímui. CLIT. at ego nil ésse scibam, Clínia.
- 310 age dúm neíssim, Síre, die quae illast áltera?
SY. addúcimur tuam Bácehidem. CLIT. hem, quíd? 70 Bácehidem?

289 Bentley: mala (malam) re expolitam codd.: nulla arte malas exp. Fleckeisen: nulla mala re os exp. Dziatzko 290 passus Σ: pexus A et Donatus prolixè et Fleckeisen: prolixus codd. 297 horridam Madvig: sordidam codd. 299 Fleckeisen: cum tam negleguntur eius BCEFP: cum eius tam negl. cett. et vulg. 300 eis demunerarier F¹P¹: isdem munerarier cett. 307 scias Bentley: scires codd.: scires desiderio fieri Bothe et vulg.

ého sceleste, quó illam ducis? SY. quó ego illam? ad nos scilicet.

CLIT. ad patremne? SY. ad eum ípsum. CLIT. o hominis ínpudentem audáciam! SY. heus, nón fit sine períclo facinus mágnum nec memorábile.

CLIT. hóc uide: in mea uíta tibi tu laúdem is quaesi- 315 túm, scelus?

75 úbi si paululúm modo quid te fúgerit, ego périerim.
quíd illo facias? SY. át enim . . . CLIT. quid ‘enim’? SY. sí sinas, dicám. CLIN. sine.

CLIT. síno. SY. ita res est haéc nunc quasi quom . . .

CLIT. quas malum ambagés mihi nárrare occipít? CLIN. Syre, uerum hic dicit: mitte, ad rém redi.

SY. énim nero reticére nequeo: múltimodis iniúrius, 320

80 Clítipho, es neque férri potis es. CLIN. aúdiundum hercle ést, tace.

SY. uís amare, uís potiri, uís quod des illi éffici;
tuóm esse in potiundó periculum nón uis: haud stulté sapis;

síquidem id saperest uélle te id quod nón potest contíngere.
aút haec cum illis súnť habenda aut illa cum his mit- 325 téndá sunt.

85 hárum duarum cóndicionum núnc utram malís uide;
étsi consiliúm quod cepi réctum esse et tutúm scio.
nam ápuđ patrem tua amíca tecum síne metu ut sit cópiast.
túm quod illi argentum és pollicitus, eádem hac inueniám uia, quód ut efficerem orándo surdas iam aúris reddiderás mihi. 330 90 quíd aliud tibi uís? CLIT. siquidem hoc fit. SY. síquidem? experiundó scies.

CLIT. áge áge, cedo istuc tuóm consilium: quíd id
est? SY. adsimulábimus

315 tu tibi codd.: tr. Fleckeisen multis modis codd.

320 multimodis Faërnus:
321 potis es Faërnus: potis A: potest cett.

túam amicam huius ésse [amicam.] CLIT. pulchre :
cédo, quid hic faciét sua?

án ea quoque dicétur huius, si úna haec dedecoríst parum?

335 SY. immo ad tuam matrem ábducetur. CLIT. quíd eo? SY. longumst, Clítipho, sí tibi narrem quam ób rem id faciam : uéra causast. 95 CLIT. fábulae!

níl satis firmi uídeo quam ób rem accípere hunc mi expediát metum.

SY. máne, habeo aliud, si ístest metus, quod ámbó confiteámmini

síne perielo esse. CLIT. huíus modi obsecro áliquíd reperi. SY. máxime :

340 ibo óbuiam huic, dicam út reuertatúr domum. CLIT. hem, quid díxí? SY. ademptum tibi iam faxo omném metum, 100 in aúrem utramuis ótiose ut dórmias.

CLIT. quid ágo nunc? CLIN. tune? quód boni CLIT. Syre! díe modo . . .

SY. uerum áge modo : hodie séro ae nequiquám uoles.

345 CLIN. datúr, fruare dúm lieet ; nam néscias

CLIT. Syre ínquam! SY. perge pórro, tamen istúe ago. 105

CLIN. eius sít potestas pósthae an nunquám tibi.

CLIT. uerum hérele istue est. Síre, Syre ínquam, heus heús, Syre!

SY. concáluit. quid uis? CLIT. rédi, redi! SY.
adsum : díe quid est?

350 iam hoc quóque negabis tibi placere. CLIT. immó, Syre, et me ét meum amorem et fámam permittó tibi. 110
tu es iúdex : ne quid áccusandus sís uide.

333 huíus esse amicam codd. : alterum amicam om. Faërnus : seruant omissis cedo et hic Umpfenbach et alii cedo quid hic faciét sua om. A. dat *A*² : cedo om. *D*¹*G* 338 si ístest metus Bentley : metu *D*¹ : metū *D*² : si istue metnis codd. cett. 340 Bentley : hinc et reuertantur codd. 344 uerum Syro tribuit Dziatzko : Clítiphoni dant cum codd. edd. alii 346 perge porro Clítiphoni dat Fleckeisen

- SY.* ridículumst [te] istue me ádmonere, Clítipho, quasi ístie mea res múnor agatur quám tua.
 hic sí quid nobis fórte aduorsi euénerit, 355
- 115 tibi erúnt parata uérba, huic homini uérbera :
 quaprópter haec res ne útiquam neclectúst mihi.
 sed istúnc exora ut súam esse adsimulet. CLIN. scélicet factúrum me esse ; in eúm iam res rediút locum ut sít necessus. CLIT. mérito te amo, Clínia. 360
- 120 CLIN. uerum illa ne quid títubet. SY. perdoctást probe.
CLIT. at hóc demiror quí tam facile pótueris persuádere illi, quacé solet quos spérnere !
SY. in témpore ad eam uéni, quod rerum ómniumst primúm. nam quendam mísere offendi ibi mílitem 365
- 125 eius nóctem orantem : haec árte tractabát uirum, ut illius animum eúpidum inopia incénderet eadémque ut esset ápuđ te hoc quam gratíssimum.
 sed heús tu, uide sis né quid imprudéns ruas !
 patrém nouisti ad hás res quam sit pérspicax ; 370
- 130 ego te aútem noui quam ésse soleas ímpotens :
 innérsa uerba, euérsas ceruicís tuas, gemitús, screatus, tússis, risus ábstine.
CLIT. laudábís. SY. uide sis. CLIT. tútimet mirábere.
- SY.* sed quám cito sunt cónsecutae múlieres ! 375
- 135 CLIT. ubi súnť quor retines ? SY. iám nunc haec non ést tua.
CLIT. scio, ápuđ patrem ; at nunc ínterim. SY. niló
 magis.
CLIT. sine. SY. nón sinam inquam. CLIT. quaéso paulispér. SY. neto.
CLIT. saltém salutare. SY. ábeas si sapiás. CLIT. eo.

353 te om. AGD¹ 354 Guyet : minor mea res codd. 357 neclectust (= neglectu est) Bentley : neclectumst A : neglectui est cett.
 360 necessus A : necesse cett. 374 tutemet codd. et Seruius et edd.
 ant. 379 salutare A²BCDEFGP : salutem A

80 quid istie? SY. manebit. CLIT. hóminem felicem!
SY. ámbula.

BACCHIS ANTIPHILA CLINIA SYRVS iv

BA. Édepol te, mea Antíphila, laudo et fórtunatam iúdice, íd quom studuisti, ísti formae ut móres consimilés forent;
 mínimeque, ita me dí ament, miror sí te sibi quisque éxpetit.

nám mihi quale ingénium haberes fúit indicio orátio :

85 ét quom egomet nunc mécum in animo uítam tuam 5 considéro

ómniumque adeó nostrarum uólgus quae ab se ségregant, ét nos esse istíus modi et nos nóu esse haud mirábilest:
 nam éxpedít bonas ésse nobis; nós, quibuseum est res, nóu sinunt :

quíppe forma inpúlsi nostra nós amatorés colunt ;

890 haéc ubi inminútast, illi síuom animum alio cónferunt : 10 nísi si prospectum ínterea aliquid ést, desertae uíuimus.
 uóbis cum uno sémel ubi aetatem ágere deeretúmst uiro, quoíus mos maxumést consimilis uóstrum, ei se ad uos ádplícant.

hóc beneficio utríque ab utrisque uéro deuincímíni,

895 út nunquam ulla amóri uostro incídere possit eálamitas. 15
AN. néscio alias : mé quidem semper scío fecisse sédulo út ex illius cómmodo meum cómpararem cómmodum.

CL. ah,

ergó, mea Antiphila, tú nunc sola réducem me in pa-triám facis ;

nam dum ábs te absum omnes míhi labores fuére quos
 cepí leues,

900 praetér quam tui caréndum quod erat. SY. crédo. CL. 20
 Syre, uix súffero :

380 o hominem codd. : om. o Fleckeisen
 mutata uel mutata A² cum cett.

390 imminuta A : im-393 ei Fleckeisen : om. A : hi cett.

hocin me miserum nón licere meó modo ingeniúm frui!
SY. immo út patrem tuom nídi esse habitum, díu etiam durás dabit.

BA. quis nam híc adulescens ést qui intuitur nós?
AN. ah, retine me, óbsecro!

BA. amábo quid tibíst? AN. disperii, périi misera!

BA. quíd stupes?

25 CL. Antíphila. AN. uideon Clíniam an non? BA. 405 quém uides?

CL. salue, ánime mi. AN. o mi Clínia, salue. CL.
 út uales?

AN. saluóm uenisse gaúdeo. CL. teneóne te,
 Antíphila, maxime ánimo exoptatám meo?

SY. ite íntro; nam nos iám dudum expectát senex.

ACTVS III

CHREMES MENEDERMVS

CH. Lucíscit hoc iam. céssó pultare óstium 410 uicíni, primum ex me út sciat sibi filium redísse? etsi adulescéntem hoc nolle intéllego.

uerúm quom uideam míserum hunc tam exerueiárier

5 eius ábitu, celem tam ínsperatum gaúdium, 415 quom illí pericli níl ex indició siet?

haud fáciem; nam quod pótero adiutabó senem.

item ut filium meum amíco atque aequalí suo uideo ínservire et sócinum esse in negótiis,

10 nos quóque senes est aéquom senibus óbsequi.

401 ingenium A: ingenio Σ 402 sic codd. praeter C: ex tuo abitu cum C Fleckeisen: nídi partis díu etiam duras dabit Bentley: habitu pro habitum Madvig et turbas pro duras Bergk 405 Cl. notam add.
Bergk 408 exoptatam Fuérnus: exoptata codd. 411 ex me
*A*² Σ : e me A, quem sequitur Dziatzko

- 20 ME. aut égo profecto ingénio egregio ad míserias natús sum aut illud fálsumst quod uolgo aúdio dicí, diem adimere aégritudinem hóminibus; nam míhi quidem cottídie augescít magis de fílio aegritúdo, et quanto díutius 15
- 25 abést magis cupio tánto et magis desidéro.
CH. sed ípsum foras egréssum uideo: ibo, ádloquar.
 Menedéme, salve: núnctum adportó tibi, quoniam máxime te fieri partícipém cupis.
ME. num quíd nam de gnató meo audistí, Chremes? 20
- 30 CH. ualet átque uiuit. ME. úbi namst quaeso? CH.
 apud mé domi.
ME. meus gnátus? CH. sic est. ME. uénit? CH.
 certe. ME. Clínia
 meus uénit? CH. dixi. ME. eámus: due me ad eum,
 óbsecro.
CH. non uólt te scire sé redisse etiam, ét tuom conspécetum fugitat: própter peccatum hóc timet, 25
- 35 ne túa duritia antíqua illa etiam adaúcta sit.
ME. non tu illi dixti ut éssem? CH. non. ME. quam
 ob rém, Chremes?
CH. quia péssume istuc ín te atque in illum cónsulis, si té tam leni et nícto esse ánimo osténderis.
ME. non póssum: satis iam, sátis pater durús fui. CH. 30
 ah,
- 40 neheméns in utramque pártem, Menedeme, és nimis aut lárgitate nímia aut parsimónia:
 in eándem fraudem ex hác re atque ex illa íncides.
 primum ólim potius quám paterere fílium commétare ad muliérculam, quae paúlulo 35
- 45 tum erát contenta quóique erant grata ómnia, protérnuisti hinc. éa coaeta ingrátis postílla coepit níctum uolgo quaérere.

444 commetare Schol. Bemb. et Bentley: commeare codd.

- nunc quóm sine magno intérrimento nón potest 40 habéri, quiduis dáre cupis. nam ut tú scias quam ea núne instructa púlehre ad perneciém siet, 450 primúm iam ancillas sécum adduxit plús decem, onerátas neste atque aúro: satrapa sí siet amátor, numquam súfferre eius sumptús queat; 45 nedúm tu possis. ME. éstne ea intus? CH. sít rogas?
 sensí. nam unam eí eénam atque eius cómitibus 455
 dedí; quod si iterum míhi sit danda, aetúm siet.
 nam ut ália omittam, pýtissando módo mihi quid uíni absumpsit ‘síc hoc’ dicens; ‘ásperum, 50 pater, hóc est: aliud lénius sodés uide’:
 reléui dolia ómnia, omnis sérias. 460
 omnis sollicitos hábuit, atque haec úna nox.
 quid té futurum cénse, quem adsidue éxedent?
 ita mé di amabunt út me tuarum míseritumst, 55 Menedéme, fortunárum. ME. faciat quídlubet:
 sumát consumat pérdat; decretúmst pati, 465
 dum illúm modo habeam mécum. CH. si certúmst tibi sic fácere, permagni illud re ferre árbitror, ut né scientem séntiat te id síbi dare.
 60 ME. quid fáciam? CH. quiduis pótius quam quod cógitas:
 per álium quenuis út des, falli té sinas 470
 technís per seruolum; étsi subsensi íd quoque, illós ibi esse, id ágere inter se cláneulum.
 Syrus cum illo nostro cónsusurrant, cónferunt 65 cónsília ad adulescéntis; et tibi pérdere taléntum hoc pacto sátius est quam illó minam. 475 non núne pecunia ágitur, sed illud quó modo mínimó periclo id démus adulescéntulo.

452 satrapa Bentley: satrapas D: satrapes cett. et Eugraph. 461 habuit Bentley: habui codd. 463 ita A²DG: sic A cett. 467 illud permagni codd.: transp. Fleckeisen 471 technis Ritschl:
 technis tegnis thegnis codd. 473 consusurrant ABCD^FG: consusurrat cett.

- nam sí semel tuom ánimum ille intelléxerit, prius próditurum té tuam uitam ét prius 70 80 pecúniám omnem quam ábs te amittas fílium : hui, huic quántam fenestram ad néquitiam pateféceris, tibi áutem porro ut nón sit suaue núere !
 nam déteriores ómnes sumus licéntia.
 [quod quoíque quomique incíderit in mentém uolet 75
 85 neque íd putabit práuom an rectum sít : petet.]
 tu rém perire et ípsum non poterís pati :
 dare dénegaris : íbit ad illud ílico, qui máxime apud te sé ualere séntiet :
 abitúrum se abs te esse ílico minitábitur. 80
 90 ME. uidére uera atque íta uti res est dicere.
CH. somnum hérele ego hac nocte óculis non uidí meis, dum íd quaéro, tibi qui fílium restítuerem.
ME. cedo dextram : porro té idem oro ut faciás, Chremes.
CH. parátus sum. ME. scin quíd nunc facere té uolo ? 85
 95 CH. dic. ME. quód sensisti illós me incipere fállere, id út maturent fácere : cupio illí dare quod uólt, cupio ipsum íám uidere. CH. operám dabo.
 paulúm negoti mi óbstat : Simus ét Crito uicíni nostri hic ámbigunt de fínibus ; 90 00 me cépere arbitrum : íbo ac dicam, ut díxeram operám daturum me, hódie non posse eís dare.
 contínuo hic adsum. ME. ita quaéro. — di uostrám fidem, ita cómparatam esse hómínium naturam ómnium aliéna ut melius uídeant et díiúdicent 95 05 quam súa ! an eo fit quía in re nostra aut gaúdio sumus praécediti nímio aut aegritúdine ?
 hic míhi nunc quanto plús sapit quam egomét mihi !

481 huic add. Fleckeisen, qui hui sine causa inducit 484, 485, secl.
Bentley 488 qui Σ: quo .1 489 minitabitur Σ: minabitur A 502 adsum Bentley: adero codd. 505 in re ADEGP: re in cum cett. Bentley

- CH.* dissólui me, otiósus operam ut tibi darem.
 100 Syrus ést prendendus átteque adhortandús mihi.
 a mé neseio quis éxit : concede hinc domum, ne nós inter nos cóngruisse séntiant.

ii

SYRVS CHREMES

- SY.* Hac illac eireumeúrsa ; inueniundúmst tamen argéntum : intendenda ín senemst fallácia.
CH. num mé fefellit hósee id struere ? uídelicet ille áduléscentis sérnos tardiúsenlust ; 515
 5 ideíreo huic nostro tráditast prouíncia.
SY. quis hic lóquitur ? perii. núm nam haec audiuit ?
CH. Syre. SY. hem !
CH. quid ta ístie ? SY. recte equidém ; sed te mirór, Chremes,
 tam máne, qui heri tántum biberis. CH. níl nimis.
SY. ‘ nil ’ nárras ? uisa uérost, quod dicí solet, 520 10 aquilaé senectus. CH. heía ! SY. mulier cómmoda, facéta haec meretrix. CH. sáne itidem uisást mihi, et quídem herele forma lúculenta ; síc satis.
SY. ita nó n ut olim, séd uti nunc, sané bona ;
 minuméque miror Clínia hanc si déperit. 525 15 sed habét patrem quendam áuidum misere atque áridum, uicínnum hunc : nostin ? át quasi is non dítiis abúndet, gnatus eíus profugit ínopia.
 seis ésse factum ut díco ? CH. quid ego ní sciam ?

509prehendendus schol. Bemb. :prehendus A : apprehendendus cett.
 509-511 post v. 497 exhibent codl. : restituit Bentley 511 congruisse Engelbrecht : congruere codl. : edd. alii aliis medellis metro opitulatum eunt 515 adulescentis Brix : Cliniae codl. : Cliniai Bentley 518 sic A : recte equidem te demiror Chreme Σ 522 itidem Fleckeisen : idem codl. mihi Σ : tibi A, qui uerba idem uisast tibi Syro tribuit 526 misere Bothe : miserum codl. 527 diutius E¹ :
 diuitiis cett. 529 quid ego ni sciam Paumier : quid ego nesciam codl.

- 530 hominém pistrino dígnum! SY. quem? CH. istunc sérnolum
dico ádulescentis. SY. Síre, tibi timuí male! 20
CH. qui pássus est id fieri. SY. quid facerét? CH. Rogas?
aliquíd reperiret, fíngeret fallácias,
unde ésset adulescénti amicae quód daret, 535 atque húnce díffícilem innítum seruaret senem.
SY. garrís. CH. haec facta ab illo oportebát, Syre. 25
SY. eho quaéso laudas quí eros fallunt? CH. ín loco ego uéro laudo; SY. récte sane. CH. quíppe qui magnárum saepe id rémedium aegritúdinumst:
540 uel iam huíc mansisset úniceus gnatús domi.
SY. iocóne an serio ille haec dicat néscio; 30
nisi míhi quidem addit ánimum quo lubeát magis.
CH. et núnc quid exspectát, Syre? an dum hic dénuo abeát, quom tolerare ille huius sumptus nón queat?
545 nonne ád senem aliquam fábricam fingit? SY. stólidus est.
CH. at te ádiutare opórtet adulescéntuli 35
causá. SY. facile equidem fácere possum, sí iubes;
etením quo pacto id fieri soleat cálleo.
CH. tanto hérele melior. SY. nón est mentirí meum.
550 CH. fae érgo. SY. at heus tu, fácito dum eadem haec mémíneris, huius síquid símile fórte aliquando enénerit, 40
ut súnť humana, túos ut faciat fílius.
CH. non úsus neniet, spéro. SY. spero herele égo quoque, neque có nunc dico quó quicquam illum sénserim; 555 sed sí quid, ne quid. quaé sit eins aetás uides:
et ne égo te, si usus uéníat, magníficé, Chremes, 45
tractáre possim. CH. de ístoc, quom usus uénierit, uidébimus quid ópus sit: nunc istúce age. —

540 uel *add. Fleckeisen*541 ille haec Bentley: illaec *codd.*543 hic A: hunc *cett.*544 ille huius Fleckeisen: illius *codd.*551 huius síquid Fleckeisen: sí quid huius codd.

SY. numquám commodius únquam erum audiui loqui, nec quóm male facere créderem mi inpúnius 56 50 licére. quis nam a nóbis egreditúr foras?

iii CHREMES CLITIPHO SYRVS

CH. Quid istuc quaeso? quí istie mos est, Clitipho?
itane fieri oportet?

CL. quíd ego feci? CH. uidin ego te módo manum in sinum huic meretrici ingerere? SY. acta haec rés est: perii. CL. méne?

CH. hisee oculis, né nega.

facis ádeo indigne iniúriam illi quí non abstineás manum: 56 5 nam istaéc quidem contuméliast, hóminem amicum récipere ad te atque eíus amicam súbigitare.

uél heri in uino quam ínmodestus fuísti, SY. factum.

CH. quám molestus!

út equidem, ita me dí ament, metui quíd futurum dénique esset!

nóui ego amantis: ánimum aduortunt gráuitér quae non 57
céñseas.

10 CL. at míhi fides apud húnec est nil me istíus facturúm, pater.

CH. ésto. at certe ut hínec concedas álíquo ab ore eorum áliquantisper.

múlta fert lubído: ea facere próhibet tua praeséntia.

dé me ego facio cóniecturam: némost meorum amícorum hodie

ápud quem expromere ómnia mea occúlta, Clitipho, aúdeam. 55

15 apud álíum prohibet dígnitas; apud álíum ipsius facti pudet, ne inéptus, ne protérus uidear: quód illum facere crédito.

560 facere Muretus: facerem codd. 564 ingerere A: inserere
*A*²Σ 570 amantis Paumier: amantium codd. animum *A*Σ: animos *A*² 572 Bentley: ut uel hinc om. codd. plerique 574 de me ego Bentley: ego de me codd. 576 ipsius codd.: ipsi
Fleckeisen

sed nóstrumst intellégere ut quomque atque úbi quomque opus sit óbsequi.

SY. quíd iste narrat! CL. péríi. SY. Clitipho, haéc ego praecipió tibi?

580 hómínis frugi et témpéran'tis fúnctu's officiúm CL.
tace sodes.

SY. récte sane. CH. Síre, pudet me. SY. crédo: 20
neque id iniúria; quin

míhi molestumst. CL. pérdis herele. SY. uérum dico quód uidetur.

CL. nón accedam ad illos? CH. eho quaeso, úna accedudí uíast?

SY. áctumst: hic prius se índicarit quám ego argentum effécero.

585 Chremés, nín tu homíni stúlto mí auscultáre? CH. quíd faciám? SY. iube hunc abíre hinc aliquo. CL. quó ego hinc abeam? SY. quó 25

lubet: da illís locum:

abi deámbulatum. CL. deámbulatum? quó? SY. uah, quasi desít locus.

abi sáne istae, istórsum, quonís. CH. récte dicit, cénseo.

CL. di te éradícent quí me hinc extrudís. Syre!

590 SY. at tú pol tibi istas pósthae comprímító manus! — cénsen nero? quíd illum porro crédas facturúm, Chremes, 30 nisi eum, quantum tibi opis di dant, séruas castigás mones?

CH. égo istuc eurabo. SY. átqui nunc tibi, ére, ístie adseruándus est.

CH. fíet. SY. sí sapiás; nam míhi iam mínus mínusque obtémperat.

595 CH. quíd tu? ecquid de illó quod dudum técum egi egístí, Syre?

582 perdis A: pergin Σ 583 non A: none *A*¹: nonne Σ 589 Syre ante qui ponunt codd. 590 pol om. codd. plerique 591 credas A: credis Σ 593 tibi ere Fleckeisen: ere tibi codd. 595 aut post Syre habent codd.

- 35 répperisti tibi quod placeat án non? SY. de fallácia dícis? est: inuéní nuper quándam. CH. frugi es. cédo
quid est?
SY. dicam, uerum ut áliud ex alio íneidit. CH. quid nám, Syre?
SY. péssuma haec est méretrix. CH. ita uidétur. SY.
immo sí scias.
uáh, uide quod incéptet facinus. fuit quaedam anus Corínthia 40 híc: huic drachumarum haéc argenti mílle dederat mútuom. 601 CH. quid tum? SY. ea mortuást: reliquit fíliam adulescéntulam.
éa relictá huic árrabonist pro illo argento. CH. intéllego.
SY. hanc secum huc addúxit, ea quae est núnc apud uxorém tuam.
CH. quid tum? SY. Cliniam órat sibi uti id núnc det: 605
illam illí tamen
45 póst daturam: mílle nummum póscit. CH. et possit quidem? SY. hui, dúbium id est? ego síc putauí. CH. quid nunc facere cógitas?
SY. égone? ad Menedemum íbo: dicam hanc ésse cap-tam ex Cária,
dítem et nobilém; si redimat, mágnum ínesse in eá lucrum.
CH. érras. SY. quid ita? CH. pró Menedemo núnc 610
tibi ego respóndeo
50 ·nón emo·: quid ágis? SY. optata lóquere. CH. qui?
SY. non ést opus.
CH. nón opus est? SY. non hérele uero. CH. qui ístue, miror. SY. íám scies.
CH. máne, mane, quid est quód tam a nobis gráuitér crepuerúnt fores?

596 an non Guyet: an nondum etiam codd. 597 quid est *AD*¹:
quid id est cett. 606 possit Dziatzko coll. 677, Phorm. 303, 818, Ad. 568: poscit uel poscet codd. 613 hunc uersum Syro dant codd.
et edd. plerique

SOSTRATA CHREMES [CANTHARA?] SYRVS i

SO. Nisi me ánimus fallit, híc profectost ánnulus quem ego súspicor,

615 is quícum expositast gnáta. CH. quid uolt síbi, Syre, haec orátio?

SO. quid est? ísne tibi uidétur? NV. dixi equidem, úbi mi ostendisti, ílico eum ésse. SO. at satis ut cótemplata módo sis, mea nutríx. NV. satis.

SO. abinúnciam intro atque ílla si iam lánerit mihi núnčia. — hic égo uirum interea ópperibor. SY. té uolt: uideas 6 quíd uelit.

620 nescío quid tristis ést: non temerest: tímeo quid sit.
CH. quíd siet?

ne ista hércle magno iám conatu mágnas nugas díxerit.

SO. ehem mí uir. CH. ehem mea úxor. SO. te ípsum quaéro. CH. loquere quíd uelis.

SO. prímum hoc te oro, né quid credas me áduorsum 10
edictúm tuom

fácere esse ausam. CH. uín me istuc tibi, etsi íncredi-bilest, crédere?

625 crédo. SY. nescio quíd peccati pórtat haec purgátio.

SO. méministin me gráuidam et mihi te máxumo opere edícere,

sí puellam párerem, nolle tólli? CH. scio quid féceris:
sústulisti. SY. sic est factum: dómna ego, erus damno 15 aúetus est.

SO. mínime; sed erat híc Corinthia ánus hand ímpura:
eí dedi

630 éxponendam. CH. o Iúppiter, tantam ésse in ánimo in-scítiam!

617 satis ut Bentley: ut satis codd.
cett. 628 domna Leo: domina codd.

626 edicere A²: dicere ego A²: ergo cett.

- SO.* périi : quid ego féci? CH. Rogitas? SO. sí peccauí, mí Chremes, ínciens feci. CH. íd equidem ego, si tú neges, certó scio, 20 te íncientem atque ímprudentem dícere ae facere ómnia :
 tót peccata in háe re ostendis. nám iam primum, sí meum ímperium exsequí noluisses, ínteremptum opórtuit, 63 nón simulare mórtē uerbis, reápsē spem uitae dare.
 át id omitto : mísericórdia, ánimus maternús : sino.
 25 quám bene uero abs té prospectumst quód noluisti cógita :
 nēppe anu illi pródita abs te fíliast planíssume, pér te uel uti quaéstum faceret uél uti uenirét palam. 64
 crédo, id cogitásti : ‘quiduis sátis est dum uiuát modo.’
 quíd cum illis agás qui neque ius néque bonum atque aequóm sciunt ?
 30 mélius peius, prósit obsit, níl uident nisi quód lubet.
SO. mí Chremes, peccáuí, fateor : uíncor. nunc hoc te
 óbsecro, quánto tuos est ánimus [natu] grauior éo sis ignoscéntior, 64
 út meae stultitiae ín iustitia tuá sit aliquid praésidi.
CH. scílicet equidem ístuc factum ignóscam ; uerum,
 Sóstrata,
 35 mále docet te méa facilitas múlta. sed ístuc quídquid est quá hoc oceceptumst caúsa loquere. SO. ut stúltae et misere omnes sumus réligiosae, quom éxponendam dó illi, de digito ánulum 65 détraho et eum díco ut una eúm puella expóneret :
 sí moreretur, ne éxpers partis ésset de nostris bonis.
 40 CH. ístuc recte : cónseruasti te átque illam. SO. is hic est ánulus.
CH. únde habes? SO. quam Báechis secum addúxit adulescéntulam, SY. hem,

632 si A : etsi Σ et Eugraph. 638 quod Bothe : quid codd.
 645 Dziatzko : quanto tu me es annis grauior tanto es ignoscentior Bentley 649 misere Fleckeisen : miserae codd.

- 55 quíd illa narrat? SO. éa lauatum dum ít, seruandum míhi dedit.
ánimum non aduórti primum; séd postquam aspexi ílico cógnoi, ad te exsílui. CH. quid nunc súspicare aut ínuenis
de ílla? SO. nesció, nisi ex ipsa quaéras unde hunc 45 hábuert, .
sí potis est reperíri. SY. interíi: plús spei uideo quám uolo:
60 nóstrast, si itast. CH. níuitne illa quói tu dederas?
SO. néscio.
CH. quíd renuntiáuit olim? SO. fécissee id quod iússeam.
CH. nómen mulierí cedo quíd sit, út quaeratur. SO.
Phílterae.
SY. ípsast. mirum ní illa saluast ét ego perii. CH. 50
Sóstrata,
séquare hae me intro. SO. hoc út praeter spem euénit!
quam timuí male,
65 né nunc animo ita ésses duro ut ólim in tollendó, Chremes!
CH. nón licet hominem ésse saepe ita út uolt, si res nón
sinit.
núne ita tempus fért mi ut cupiam fíliam: olim níl mínus.

S Y R V S

ii

- SY.* Nisi me ánimus fallit múltum, haud multum a me
áberit infortúnium:
ita hác re in angustum óppido nunc meaé coguntur cópiae;
670 nisi áliquíd uideo, ne ésse amícam hanc gnáti resciscát senex.
nam quód de argento spérem aut posse póstulem me fállere, níl ést: triumpho, sí licet me látere tecto abscédere. 5 eruciór bolum mihi tántum ereptum tám desubito e faúceibus.

662 mulieri Bentley: mulieris codd. 664 Fleckeisen: me intro hac codd. 667 fert Bentley: est codd. 673 tantum mihi
codd.: transp. Bentley

quid agam? aut quid comminiscar? ratio de integro ineundast mihi.

nil tam difficilest quin quaerendo inuestigari possiet. 678 quid si hoc nunc sic incipiam? nil est. quid, sic? tantundem egero.

10 at sic opinor: non potest. immo optume. euge habeo optumam.

retraham hercle opinor ad me idem illud fugitiuom argentum tamen.

iii

CLINIA SYRVS

CL. Res nulla mihi posthac potest iam interuenire tanta quae mi aegritudinem adferat: tanta haec laetitia obortast. 68 dedo patri me nunciam, ut frugalior sim quam uolt.

SY. nil me fefellit: cognitast, quantum audio huius uerba.

5 istuc tibi ex sententia tua obtigisse laetor.

CL. o mi Syre, audisti obsecro? SY. quid ni? qui usque una adfuerim.

CL. quouquam aeque audisti comode quicquam eue- 68
nisse? SY. nulli.

CL. atque ita me di ament ut ego nunc non tam meapte causa

laetor quam illius, quam ego scio esse honore quouis dignam.

10 SY. ita credo. sed nunc, Clinia, age, da te mihi uicissim;

nam amici quoque res est uidenda in tuto ut conlocetur, ne quid de amica nunc senex. CL. o Iuppiter! SY. 69 quiesce.

CL. Antiphila mea nubet mihi. SY. sicine mi inter-loquere?

678 ad me . . . fugitiuom BCEFPD²: idem ad me ego illud hodie fugitiuom A: illuc opinor ad me fugitiuom D¹G 679 Fleckeisen:

nulla mihi res codd. 684 audisti A: audistin A²Σ 685 quoiquam Bentley: cui codd.

CL. quid fáciám? Syre mi, gaúdeo: fer mé. SY. fero herele uéro.

CL. deórum uitám aptí sumus. SY. frustra óperam 15
opinor súmo.

CL. loquere: aúdio. SY. at iam hoc nón agis. CL.
agám. SY. uidendumst, ínquam,

395 amíci quoque res, Clínia, tui in túto ut conlocétur.
nam sí nunc a nobís abis et Báechidem hic relínquis, senéx reseiscet íleo esse amícam hanc Clitiphónis;
si abdúxeris, celábitur, itídem út celata adhúe est. 20

CL. at enim ístoe. Syre, nil ést magis meis núptiis aduórsum.

700 nam quo óre appellabó patrem? tenés quid dicam?
SY. quíd mi?

CL. quid dicam? quam causam ádferam? SY. quin
nólo mentiáre:

apérte ita ut res sése habet narráto. CL. quid aís?
SY. iúbeo:

illám te amare et uélle uxorem, hanc ésse Clitiphónis. 25

CL. bonam átque iustam rem óppido imperás et factu fácilem;

705 et scilicet iam me hóc uoles patrem éxorare ut célet senem nóstrum? SY. immo ut rectá uia rem narret ordine ónnem. CL. hem, satin sánus es aut sóbrius? tu quídem illum plane pérdis.

[nam quí ille poterit ésse in túto, díe mihi.] 30

SY. huíe equídem consílio palmam do: híc me magni-fice écéfero,

710 quí uim tantam in me ét potestatem hábeam tantae astútiae, uéra dicendo út eos ambos fállam: ut quom narrét senex uóster nostro esse ístam amícam gnáti, non credát tamen.

CL. át enim spem ístoe pácto rursum núptiarum 35
ónnem éripis;

693 apti A: adepti A²Σ 699 Syre post magis habent codd.: transp. Fleckeisen. 708 uersum secluserit Krause nám dum amícam hanc méam esse credet, nón committet fíliam.

tú fors quid me fiat parui péndis, dum illi cónsulas. 71.

SY. quíd malum me aetátem censes uélle id adsimulárier?
únus est diés, dum argentum erípíó: pax: nil ámplius.

40 CL. tántum sat habes? quíd tum quaeso, si hóc pater rescúerit?

SY. quíd si redeo ad illos qui aiunt ‘quíd si nunc cae-lúm ruat?’

CL. mé tuo quid agam. SY. mé tuis? quasi non éa 72
potestas sí tua,

quó uelis in témpore ut te exsóluas, rem faciás palam.

CL. áge age, traducátur Bacchis. SY. óptume ipsa exít foras.

iv BACCHIS CLINIA SYRVS DROMO PHRYGIA

BA. Satis pól proterue mé Syri promíssa huc induxérunt, decém minas quas dáre mihi polléitust. quod si is núnc me decéperit, saepe óbsecrans me ut uéniam frustra uéniet; 72 aut quóm uenturam díxero et constitúero, quom is cérte

5 renúntiarit, Clítipho quom in spé pendebit ánimi:
decípíam ac non ueniám, Syrus mihi térgo poenas péndet.

CL. satis scíte promittít tibi. SY. atqui tu hánc iocari crédis?

faciét nisi caueo. BA. dórmíunt: ego pól istos commouébo. 73 mea Phrýgia, audistin, módo iste homo quam uíllam de-monstráuit

10 Charíni? PII. audíni. BA. próxumam esse huic fúndo ad dextram? PII. mémíni.

BA. currículo percurre: ápuđ eum milés Dionysia ágitat:

SY. quid incéptat? BA. dic me hic óppido esse inuítam atque adseruári,

715 fors Guyet: fortasse codd. 724 mihi dare codd.: transp.
Fleckeisen 731 audistin Σ: audisti A

- 735 uerum aliquo pacto uérba me his datúram esse et uentúram.
SY. perii hérele. Bacchis, máne, mane: quo mítis istam quaéso?
iube máneat. BA. i. SY. quin ést paratum argéntum. 15
BA. quin ego máneo.
SY. atquí iam dabitur. BA. út lubet. num ego ínsto?
SY. at scin quid, sódes?
BA. quid? SY. tránseundumst núnc tibi huc ad Mé-nedemum et tua pómpa 740 eo tráducendast. BA. quám rem agis, seelus? SY.
égon? argéntum cúdo
quod tibi dem. BA. dignam mé putas quam inlúdas?
SY. non est témere.
BA. etiámne tecum hic rés mihist? SY. minumé: 20
tuom tibi réddo.
BA. eátur. CL. sequere hac. — SY. heús, Dromo. DR.
quis mé uolt? SY. Syrus. DR. quid ést rei?
SY. ancíllas omnis Bácehidis tradúce huc ad nos própere.
745 DR. quam ob rém? SY. ne quaeras: écéferant quae sécum huc attulérunt.
sperábit sumptum síbi senex lenátum esse harunc ábitu:
ne ille haúd scit, hoc paulúm lucri quantum éi damni 25
adpórtet.
tu néscies quod scís, Dromo, si sápies. DR. mutum díces.

ACTVS IV

CHREMES SYRVS

v

- CH.* Ita mé di amabunt út nunc Menedemí uicem 750 miserét me, tantum déuenisse ad eúm mali.

739 Dziatzko: huc nunc tibi D¹G: huc om. cett.
loquentem interposuit Dziatzko

743 Cliniam
746 harunc AC: harum A²Σ

748 nescies Dziatzko: nescis quod A: nescis id quod Σ illáncine mulierem álere cum illa fámilia!

etsí, scio, aliquot hós dies non séntiet:

5 ita mágno desidério fuit ei fílius.

uerum úbi uidebit tántos sibi sumptús domi cottídianos fieri nec fierí modum,

755

optábit rursum ut ábeat ab se fílius.

Syrum óptume eecum. SY. céssó hunc adorirí? CH.

Syre. SY. hem.

10 CH. quid ést? SY. te mi ipsum iám dudum optabám dari.

CH. uidére egisse iám nescio quid eúm sene.

SY. de illó quod dudum? díctum factum réddidi.

760

CH. bonán fide? SY. bona hérele. CH. non possúm pati, quin tíbi caput demúlceam: accede húc, Syre:

15 faciám boni tibi áliquíd pro ista re ác lubens.

SY. at sí scias quam scíte in mentem uénerit.

CH. nah, glóriare euénisse ex senténtia?

765

SY. non hérele nero: uérum dico. CH. díe quid est?

SY. tui Clítiphonis'esse amicam hanc Bácehidem

20 Menedémo dixit Clínia, et ea grátia secum ádduxisse né tu id persentísceres.

CH. probé. SY. díe sodes. CH. nímium, inquam. 770

SY. immo sí scias.

sed pórro ausculta quód superest falláciae:

sese ípse dícit tuám uidisse fíliam;

25 eius síbi complacitam fórmam, postquam aspéxerit; hanc cúpere uxorem. CH. módone quae inuentást? SY.

eam:

et quídem iubebit pósci. CH. quam ob rem istúe, Syre? 775 nam prórsum nihil intéllego. SY. nah, tárdus es.

CH. fortásse. SY. argentum dábitur eĩ ad núptias,

30 aurum átque uestem quí . . . tenesne? CH. cómparet?

SY. id ípsum. CH. at ego illi néque do neque despóndeo.

752 aliquot hos Brugman: hosce aliquot codd. 760 dictum ac factum codd., sed in 904 ac om. A 777 fortasse Σ : fasse A: facesse A²

- 780 SY. non? quam ób rem? CH. quam ob rem? mé
rogas? homini . . .? SY. út lubet.
non égo dicebam in pérpetuom ut illam illí dares, uerum út simulares. CH. nón meast simulátio :
ita tu ístaec tua miscéto, ne me admisceas. 35
egon quói daturus nón sum, ut ei despóndeam?
- 785 SY. credébam. CH. minime. SY. scíte poterat fíeri ;
et ego hóc, quia dudum tú tanto opere suáseras, eo coépi. CH. credo. SY. céterum equidem istúe, Chremes,
aequí bonique fácio. CH. atqui quam máxume 40
uolo té dare operam ut fiat, uerum aliá uia.
- 790 SY. fiát, quaeratur áliquíd. sed illud quód tibi dixí de argento quód ista debet Bácehidi, id núne reddendumst ílli : neque tu scílicet illúe confugies : ‘quíd mea? num míhi datumst? 45 num iússi? num illa oppígnerare fíliam
- 795 meám me inuito pótnit?’ uerum illúd, Chremes, dicúnt : ‘ius summum saépe summast málitia.’
CH. haud fáciam. SY. immo aliis sí licet, tibi nón lieet :
omnes te in lauta esse ét bene aucta ré putant. 50
CH. quin égomet iam ad eam déferam. SY. immo fílium
- 800 iube pótnus. CH. quam ob rem? SY. quía enim in eum suspíciost
transláta amoris. CH. quíd tum? SY. quia uidébitur magis uéri simile id ésse, quom hic illí dabit ; et símul conficiam fácilius ego quód uolo. 55
ipse ádeo adest : abi, écfer argentum. CH. écfero.

CLITIPHO SYRVS

vi

- 805 CL. Nullást tam facilis rés quin difficílís siet, quam inuítus facias. uél me haec deambulátio,

798 Bentley : in lauta et bene acta parte putant codd. : omnes te inlautum esse in bene parta re putent Fleckeisen

- quam nōn laboriōsa, ad languorēm dedit.
 nec quēquam magis nunc mētuo quam ne dēnuo
 5 miser āliquo extrudar hīnc, ne accedam ad Bācchidem.
 ut tē quidem omnes dī deae quantūmst, Syre, 81 cum istōe inuento cūmque incepto pērdunt!
 huius modi res sēper comminiscere, ubi me ēxcarnifices. SY. ibin hinc quo dīgnus es?
 10 quam paēne tua me pērdidit protēruitas!
CL. uellem hērele factum, ita mēritu's. SY. meritus? 815 quō modo?
 ne me istuc ex te prius audisse gaūdeo,
 quam argētum haberes quōd daturus iām fui.
CL. quid igitur tibi uis dīcam? adisti mīhi manum;
 15 amīcam adduxti quām non licitūmst tāngere.
SY. iam nōn sum iratus. sēd scin ubi nunc sīt tibi 820 tua Bācchis? CL. apud nos. SY. nōn. CL. ubi ergo? SY. apud Clīniam.
CL. perī. SY. bono animo es: iam ārgentum ad eam dēferes quod eī pollicitu's. CL. gārris. unde? SY. a tuō patre.
 20 CL. ludīs fortasse me? SY. ipsa re experībere.
CL. ne ego hōmo sum fortunātus: deamo tē, Syre. 825
SY. sed pāter egreditur. cāne quicquam admirātus sis, qua caūsa id fiat; ōbsecundato in loco;
 quod imperabit fācito; loquitor paūcula.

vii

CHREMES CLITIPHO SYRVS

CH. Vbi Clītipho hic est? SY. 'ēccum me' inque.

CL. eccum hīc tibi.

CH. quid rei ēsset dixti huic? SY. dīxi pleraque ōmnia. 83

810 di deae Guyet: di deaeque codd. 811 cum istoc A: cum tuo istoc Σ 812 sic CFP et Lex Mai: semper mihi res DG: mihi res semper cett. 813 ibin Bentley: is A: in uel ii uel i tu Σ 818 Bentley: abisti codd. 819 Fleckeisen: licitum sit A: liceat cum Σ Bentley 826 et 827 inuerso ordine dant codd.: restituit Muretus: sies etiam pro sis codd. 830 dixtin codd.

CH. cape hoc argentum ac défer. SY. i: quid stás, lapis?
 quin áccipis? CL. cedo sáne. SY. sequere hac me ócius.
 tu hic nós dum exinus ínterea opperíbere; 5 nam níl est illic quód moremur díutius. — 335 CH. mínas quidem iam decem habet a me fília, quas pró alimentis ésse nunc ducó datas;
 hasce órnaméntis cónsequéntur álterae;
 porro haéc talenta dótis adposcúnt duo. 10
 quam múlta iniusta ac práua fiunt móribus!
 340 mihi núnc relictis rébus inueniúndus est aliquís, labore inuénta mea quói dém bona.

MENEDEMVS CIREMES

viii

ME. Multo ómnium nunc mé fortunatíssimum factúm puto esse, quóm te, gnate, intéllego resipísse. CH. ut errat! ME. te ípsum quaerebám, Chre-
 mes:

345 seruá, quod in te est, fílium et mé et fámiliam.
CH. dic quíd uis faciam? ME. inuénisti hodie fíliam. 5
CH. quid tum? ME. hánc uxorem síbi dari uolt Clínia.
CH. quaesó quid tu hominis és? ME. quid est? CH.
 iamne oblítus es
 intér nos quid sit díctum de fallácia, 350 ut eá uía abs te argéntum auferretúr? ME. scio.
CH. ea rés nunc agitur ípsa. ME. quid narrás, Chremes? 10
 immo haéc quidem quae apúd me est Clitiphónis est amíca: ita aiunt. CH. ét tu credis ómnia;
 et illum áiunt uelle uxórem, ut quom despónderim, 355 des qui aúrum ac uestem atque ália quae opus sunt cómparet.
ME. id ést profecto: id amícae dabitur. CH. scílícet 15
 datum íri. ME. ah, frustra sum ígitur gauisús miser.
 quiduís tamen iam málo quam hunc amítttere.
 quid núnc renuntiem ábs te responsúm, Chremes,

845 me om. A

848 est om. Σ

854 desponderis A

857

Bentley: daturum et uah codd.

- ne sēntiat me sēnsisse atque aegrē ferat? 860
- 20 CH. aegrē? nimium illi, Ménedeme, indulgēs. ME. sine:
incēptumst: perfice hōc mi perpetuō, Chremes.
CH. dic cōnuenisse, egisse te de nūptiis.
ME. dicām. quid deinde? CH. mē faeturum esse ōmnia, generūm placere; pōstremo etiam, sī uoles, 865
- 25 despōnsam quoque esse dīcito, ME. em, istuc uōlūeram.
CH. tanto ōcius te ut pōscat et tu, id quōd cupis, quam oēssume ut des. ME. cūpio. CH. ne tu prōpediem, ut istām rem uideo, istius obsaturābere. 870
- 30 si sāpies. ME. faciam. CH. abi intro: uide quid pōstulet.
ego dōmī ero, si quid mē uoles. ME. sanē uolo.
nam tē scientem faciā quidquid ēgero.

ACTVS V

i

MENEDEMVS CHREMES

- ME.* Égo me non tam astūtum neque tam pērspicacem esse īd scio;
sēd hic adiutor mēus et monitor ēt praemonstratōr Chre- 87
mes
hōc mihi praestat: īn me quiduis hārum rerum cōnuenit, quāc sunt dicta in stūlto, caudex, stīpes, asinus, plūmbeus;
5 īn illum nil potēst: exsuperat eius stultitia haec ōmnia.
CH. ōhe, iam desinē deos, uxor, grātulando obtūndere, tūam esse inuentam gnātam; nisi illos ēx tuo ingenio iūdicās, ūt nil credas ītellegere nīsi idem dictumst cēntiens. 88
sēd interim quid illīc iam dudum gnātus cessat cūm Syro?
- 10 ME. quōs aīs hominēs, Chremes, cessāre? CH. ehem, Menedeme, āduenis?

874 tam *GD*¹: ita cett. 879 sic Σ: inquam ante deos add. A 881 dictumst A: dictum sit Σ díe mihi, Cliniaé quae dixi nuntiastin? ME. ómnia.

385 CH. quíd aít? ME. gaudere ádeo coepit quási qui cupiunt nuptias.

CH. háhahae. ME. quid risísti? CH. serui uénere in mentém Syri eálliditates. ME. ítane? CH. uoltus quóque hominum fingít scelus.

ME. gnátus quod se adsímulat laetum, id díeis? CH. 15 id. ME. idem istúe mihi

uénit in mentém. CH. ueterator. ME. mágis, si magis norís, putes 890 íta rem esse. CH. ain tu? ME. quín tu auscultas. CH. máne dum, hoc prius scire éxpeto, quíd perdideris. nam úbi desponsam nuntiasti filio, cóntinuo iniecísse uerba tibi Dromonem scélicet, spónsae uestem aurum átque aneillas ópus esse: argen- 20 tum út dares.

ME. nón. CH. quid? non? ME. non ínquam. CH. neque ipse gnátus? ME. nil prorsúm, Chremes.

895 mágis unum etiam instáre, ut hodie cónficiantur nuptiae.

CH. míra narras. quíd Syrus meus? ne ís quidem quie- quám? ME. nihil.

CH. quam ób rem, neseio. ME. équidem id miror, qui ália tam plané scias.

séd ille tuom quoqué Syrus idem míre finxit fílium, 25

út ne paululúm quidem subolat ésse amicam hanc Clíniae.

900 CH. quíd agit? ME. mitto iam óseulari atque ám- plexari: id níl puto.

CH. quíd est quod ampliús simuletur? ME. uáh! CH. quid est? ME. audí modo.

ést mihi ultimís conelaue in aélibus quoddám retro:

890 dum add. Bentley 897 a neseio Menedemi orationem inci- piunt codd.: it miror G, unde id sumpsi ego 898 idem A²Σ: isdem A 900 agit A: ais Σ 902 sic D¹G: in ultimis cett.

30 hūc est intro lātus lectus, uéstimentis strātus est.

CH. quíd postquam hoc est fáctum? ME. dictum fáctum huc abiit Clítipho.

CH. sólus? ME. solus. CH. tíneo. ME. Bacchis 90
cónsecutast ílico.

CH. sóla? ME. sola. CH. pérri. ME. ubi abiere íntro, operuere óstium. CH. hem,

Clínia haec fierí uidebat? ME. quíd nī? mecum uná simul.

35 CH. filíst amica Bácschis: Menedeme, óccidi.

ME. quam ob rém? CH. decem diérum uix mi est fámilia.

ME. quid? istúe times quod ille óperam amico dát suo? 91

CH. inmó quod amicae. ME. sí dat. CH. an dubium íd tibist?

quemquámne tam comi ánimo esse aut lení putas

40 qui sé uidente amícam patiatúr suam . . .?

ME. quid ní? quo uerba fácilius dentúr mihi.

CH. derídes merito. míhi nunc ego suscénseo: 91

quot rés dedere, ubi póssem persentísce, ní essém lapis! quae uídi! uae miseró mihi!

45 at né illud haud ínúltum, si uinó, ferent!

nam iám . . . ME. non tu te cóhibes? non te réspicis?

non tibi ego exempli sátis sum? CH. prae iracúndia, 92

Menedéme, non sum apúd me. ME. tene istúe loqui!

nonne íd flagitiumst, te áliis consiliúm dare,

50 foris sápere, tibi non pósse te auxiliárier?

CH. quid fáciam? ME. id quod me fécisce aiebás parum.

fac té patrem esse séntiat; fac ut aúdeat 92

tibi crédere omnia, ábs te petere et póscere, ne quam áliam quaerat cópiam ac te déserat.

55 CH. immo ábeat potius málo quouis géntium quam hic pér flagitium ad ínopiam redigát patrem.

nam si illi pergo súppeditare súmptibus, 93

904 dictum ac factum Σ 912 animo tam comi esse codd.: transp.
Fleckeisen: ceterum communi pro comi exhibent codd. 923 te om. A Menedéme, mi illac uéro ad rastros rés ređit.

ME. quot incómmōditates [in] hác re accipies, nísí caues!
diffícilem te esse osténdes et ignoscés tamen 60 post, ét id ingratum. CH. ah nésceis quam doleam.

ME. út lubet.

935 quid hoc quód rogo, ut illa núbat nostro? nísí quid est quod mágis uis. CH. immo et géner et adfinés placent.

ME. quid dótis dicam té dixisse filio?

quid óbticuisti? CH. dótis? ME. ita dico. CH. áh. 65

ME. Chremes,

ne quíd uereare, sí minus: nil nos dós mouet.

940 CH. dúo talenta pró re nostra ego ésse decreuí satis;
séd ita dictu opus ést, si me uis sáluom esse et rem et filium, mé mea omniá bona doti díxisse illi. ME. quám rem agis?

CH. íd mirari té simulato et íllum hoc rogitató simul, 70
quam ób rem id faciam. ME. quín ego uero quam ób rem íd facias nésceo.

945 CH. égone? ut eius ánimum, qui nunc lúxuria et lascíuia díffluit, retúndam, redigam ut quó se uortat nésceat.

ME. quíd agis? CH. mitte: síne me in hac re gérere míhi morém. ME. sino:

ítane uis? CH. ita. ME. fiat. CH. ac iam uxórem 75 ut accersát paret. —

híc ita ut liberós est acquom díctis confutábitur:

950 séd Syrum quidem égone sí uiuo ádeo exornatúm dabo, ádeo depexum, út dum uiuat méminerit sempér mei;

quí sibi me pro dérídículo ac délectamentó putat.

nón, ita me di amént, auderet fácere hacc uiduae múlieri, 80 quae ín me fecit.

931 illac (sc. uia) Fleckeisen: illec A: illac Σ : illic Bentley res om. A: habent *A*² Σ 932 incommoditates A: incommoda tibi Σ in hac re codd. 933 sic ADG: ostendis te esse cett. 950 egone codd.: ego uolg.: sed -ne affirmatiuom bene uindicat Minton
Warren in Am. Journ. of Phil. ii. 54 sq. 952 pro ridiculo *AD*¹ FG: sibi me esse pro rid. coni. Dziatzko

ii CLITIPHO MENEDERMVS CHREMES SYRVS

CL. Ítane tandem quaéro, Menedeme? út pater tam ín breui spatio ómnem de me eiécerit animúm patris? 955
quód nam ob factum? quíd ego tantum scéleris admisí
miser?

uólgo faciunt. ME. scío tibi esse hoc gráuius multo ac
dúrius,

5 quói fit; uerum ego haúd minus aegre pátiór, id qui néscio néc rationem cápio, nisi quod tibi bene ex animó uolo.

CL. híc patrem astare aibas. ME. cecum. CH. quíd 960 me incusas, Clítipho?

huíus quidquid ego féci, tibi prospéxi et stultitiáe tuae.
úbi te uidi animo ésse omisso et suáua in praeséntia

10 quae éssent prima habére neque consúlere in longitúdinem, cépi rationem, út neque egeres néque ut haec posses pérdere.
úbi quói decuit prímo, tibi non licuit per te míhi dare, 965 ábii ad proximúm tibi qui erat: eí commisi et erédidi.
íbi tuae stultítiæ semper érit praesídium, Clítipho,

15 níctus, uestitús, quo ín tectum té receptes. CL. eí mihi!
CH. sátius est quam te ípso herede haec póssidere Bácsehidem.

SY. disperii: sceléstus quantas túrbas conciuí ínsciens! 97

CL. émori cupió. CH. prius quaeso dísce quid sit uíuere.
úbi scies, si displicebit uíta, tum istoc útitor.

20 SY. ére, licetne? CH. lóquere. SY. at tuto. CH.
lóquere. SY. quae istast práuitas quaéue amentiást, quod peccaui égo, id obesse huic?

CH. ílicet.

né te admisce: némo accusat, Síre, te: nec tu arám tibi 97
néc precatorém pararis. SY. quíd agis? CH. nil suscénseo néc tibi nec tibi; nec uos est aéquom quod fació míhi.

960 astare aibas (aiebas) Σ : esse aiebas A ego Fleckeisen: quidquid ego huius codd. recipias G): recipias A

961 huius quidquid
968 receptes Σ (re-

CLITIPHO SYRVS

SY. Ábiit? uah, rogásse uellem CL. quíd? SY. 25
unde peterem míhi eibum:

íta nos alienáuit. tibi iam esse ád sororem intéllego.

980 CL. adeón rem rediisse út perielum etiam á fame mihi sít, Syre!

SY. modo liceat uiuere, ést spes CL. quae? SY. nos ésuriturós satis.

CL. inrídes in re tánta neque me cónsilio quiequam ádinuas?

SY. immo ét ibi nunc sum et úsque id egi dúdum, dum 30
loquitúr pater;

et quántum ego intellégere possum, CL. quíd? SY.
non aberit lóngius.

985 CL. quíd érgo? SY. sic est: nón esse horum te árbi-tror. CL. quid istúe, Syre?

satin sánus es? SY. ego dícam, quod mi in méntemst:
tu diiúdice.

dum istís fuisti sóla, dum nulla ália delectátio quae própior esset, te índulgebant, tibi dabant; nunc fília 35 postquámst inuenta uéra, inuentast caúsa qua te expéllerent.

990 CL. est uéri simile. SY. an tu ób peccatum hoc ésse illum iratúm putas?

CL. non árbitror. SY. nunc áliud specta: mátres omnes fíliis

in péccato adintríceas, auxilio ín paterna iniúria solent ésse: id non fit. CL. uérum dicis. quíd ergo 40

nunc faciám, Syre?

SY. suspícionem istáne ex illis quaére, rem profér palam.

995 si nón est uerum, ad mísericordiam ámbos adducés cito.

978 in codd. noua scaena nulla est exceptis DG qui post u. 979 eam incipiunt mihi peterem codd.: transp. Fleckeisen 980 redisse codd. a om. ADEGP 985 quid ergo A¹: quid id ergo A cum cett. te horum A: horum te 2 986 in mente est ADG: in mentem est cett. 987 sola (sc. delectatio) scripsi ego: solus codd. delectatio fuit A: fort. dum nulla fuit del. uel dum fuit nulla

del. cp. fuit monosyll. in u. 1024

aut sc̄ibis quous sis. CL. récte suades: fáciam.—

SY. sat recte hóc mihi

in méntem uenit; nám quam maxume huíc uana haec suspício

45 erit, tám facillumé patris pacem in léges conficiét suas.
etiam haúd scio an iam uxórem ducat: át Syro nil grátiae!
quid hoc aútem? senex exít foras: ego fúgio. adhuc 1000
quod fáctumst, mirór non continuo [hunc] ábripi iusse: ád Menedemum hunc pérgam.
eum míhi precatorém paro: seni nóstro nil fidei hábeo.

SO. Profécto nisi caués tu homo, aliquid gnáto confi-ciés mali;

idque ádeo miror, quó modo tam inéptum quicquam tíbi uenire in méntem, mi uir, 1005 pótuerit.

CH. oh, pérgin mulier esse? nullamne égo rem umquam in uitá mea

5 uoluí quin tu in ea ré mi fueris áduorsatrix, Sóstrata?
at sí rogem iam quíd est quod peccem aut quam óbrem hoc facias, néscias, in quá re nunc tam cónfidenter réstas, stulta. SO. ego néscio?

CH. immó scis, potius quám quidem redeat íntegra 1010
eadem orátio. SO. oh,

997 sic uersum ex A restituit Geppert: namque adulescens quam in minima spe situs erit Σ 999 iam add. Dziatzko, qui etiam ut pro ac legit 1001 sic Dziatzko: miror continuo hunc adripuisse A:
miror non iussisse ilico arripi me Σ : miror non iusse me abripi hunc nunc ad Men. Bentley 1002 fidei nil codd.: transp. Bentley 1006 mulier esse Σ : mulier odiosa esse A nullamne codd. cett.
ullamne E 1010 integra Dziatzko: ad integrum eadem (haec eadem) codd.

iníquos es qui mé tacere dé re tanta póstules.

CH. non póstulo iam: lóquere: níllo mínus ego hoc lofaciám tamen.

SO. fácies? CH. verum. SO. nón uides quantúm mali ex ea re éxcites?

súbditum se súspicatur. CH. ‘súbditum’ ain tu? SO.
síc erit,

1015 mí uir. CH. confitére. SO. au, te obsecro, ístuc inimieís siet.

égon confitear meúm non esse filium, qui sít meus?

CH. quid? métais ne non, quóm uelis, conuínças esse 15
illúm tuom?

SO. quod filiast inuēnta? CH. non : sed quód [magis eredundúm siet

id quod ést consimilis móribus.

1020 cónuinces facile éx te natum; nám] tui similíst probe;
 nám illi nil nitíst relietum quín sit idem itidém tibi.
 [túm praeterea tálem nisi tu núlla pareret fílium.] 20 séd ipse egreditur, quám seuerus! rém quom uideas, cénseas.

CLITIPHO SOSTRATA CHREMES iv

CL. Si úmquam ullum fuit témpus, mater, quom égo uoluptatí tibi

1025 fúerim, dictus fílius tuos nóstra uoluntate: óbseero, eíus ut meminerís atque inopis núne te miserescát mei:
quód peto aut quod uólo, parentis meós ut commonstrés mihi.
SO. óbseero, mi gnáte, ne istue ín animum inducás tuom, 5 álienum esse té. CL. sum. SO. miseram me, hóine quaesisti, óbseero?

1030 íta mihi atque huic sís superstes, út tu ex me atque hoc nátus es ;

1018-1020 magis . . . nam seclusit Klette 1021 idem itidem Dziatko: et idem A: itidem sit Σ: id itidem sit Bentley 1022 seclusit Dziatko 1030 tu add. Fleckisen

ét caue posthac, sí me amas, unquam ístuc uerbum ex te aúdiam.

CH. át ego, si me métuis, mores cáue in te esse istos séntiam.

10 CL. quós? CH. si scire uís, ego dicam: gérró iners
fraus hélluo

gáneo's damnosus: crede, et nóstrum te esse crédito.

CL. nón sunt haec paréntis dicta. CH. nón, si ex 1035
capite síis meo

nátus, ítem ut Minérnam esse aiunt éx Ione, ea causá magis pátíar, Clitiphó, flagitiis tuis me infamem fieri.

15 SO. dí istaec prohibeánt! CH. deos nescio: égo, quod potero, sédulo.

quaéris id quod habés, parentis; quód abest non quaerís, patri

quó modo obsequáre et [ut] serues quód labore inuénerit. 1040

nón mihi per fallácias addúcere ante oculós . . . pudet dícere hac praesénte uerbum túrpe; at te id nulló modo

20 fácere pduit. CL. éhen, quam nunc tótus displiceó mihi, quám pudet! neque quód principium cápiam ad placan-dúm scio.

v MENEDEMVS CHREMES SOSTRATA CLITIPHO

ME. Énim uero Chremés nimis grauitér crúciat adule- 1045
scéntulum

nímisque inhumane: éx eo ergo ut pácem conciliem. óptume ípsos uideo. CH. ehém, Menedeme, quór non accersí iubes fíliam et quod dótis dixi fírmas? SO. mi uir, te óbsecro

5 né facias. CL. pater, óbsecro mi ignóscas. ME. da ueniám, Chremes:

síne te exorent. CH. [egon] méa bona ut dem Bác- 1050 chidi donó sciens?

1034 ganeos A: ganeo Σ 1036 aiunt Min. esse codd.: transp.
Fleckeisen 1040 inueneris A 1044 capiam Faërnus: incapiam BC: inueniam DG: incipiam cett.

nón faciam. ME. at id nos nón sinemus. CL. sí me
uñuom uís, pater, ígnosce. SO. age, Chremés mi. ME. age quaeso, né tam offirma té, Chremes.

CH. quíd istie? uideo nón licere ut coéperam hoc perténdere.

ME. fácis, ut te decét. CH. ea lege hoc ádeo faciam, 10
sí facit

1055 quód ego hunc acquom cénseo. CL. pater, ímpera:
faciam ómnia.

CH. úxorem ut ducás. CL. pater . . .! CH. nil aúdio. SO. ad me récipio:

fáciet. CH. nil etiam aúdio ipsum. CL. périi. SO.
an dubitas, Clítipho?

CH. ímmo utrum uolt. SO. fáciet omnia. ME. haéc dum incipias, gráuia sunt, dúmque ignores; úbi eognoris, fácilia. CL. faciám, pater. 15

1060 SO. gnáte mi, ego pol tíbi dabo illam lépidam, quam tu fácte ames,

fíliam Phanócratae nostri. CL. rúfamne illam uírginem, caésiam, sparso óre, adunco náso? non possúm, pater.

CH. heía, ut elegáns est! credas ánimum ibi esse.
SO. aliám dabo.

CL. ímmo, quandoquidém ducendast, égomet habeo 20
 própemodum

1065 quám uolo. CH. nunc laúdo, gnate. CL. Archónidi huius fíliam.

SO. sátis placet. CL. pater, hóc nunc restat. CH.
quíd? CL. Syro ignoscás uolo quaé mea causa fécit. CH. fiat. CANTOR. uós ualete et plaúдите!

1055 Fleckeisen: omnia faciam: impera codd.

EVNVCHVS

INCIPIT · EVNVCHVS · TERENTI · ACTA · LVDIS · MEGALEN-
 SIB · L · POSTVMIO · ALBINO · L · CORNELIO · MERVLA · AEDILIB
 CVRVLIB · EGERE · AMBIVIVS · TVRPIO · [L · ANTILIVS · PRAE-NESTINVS] · MODOS · FECIT · FLACCVS · CLAVDI · TIBIS · DVABVS
 5 DEXTRIS · TOTA · GRAECA · MENANDRV · FACTA · III · M · VALE-RIO · C · FANNIO · COS

1 Megalensibus CG: Romanis A 2 M. Iunio Lucio Iulio A 3 egit A Lucius Ambiu . . s A Hatilius A 4 modulavit CG 5 edita tertium est Donatus: facta uel acta secunda codd. Valer Fan Cos A

C. SVLPICI APOLLINARIS PERIOCHA

Sorórem falso díctitatam Tháidis id ípsum ignorans míles aduexit Thraso ipsíque donat. érat haec eiús Áttica.
 eídem eunuchum, quem émerat, tradí iubet 5
 Tháidis amator Phaédria ac rus ípse abit Thrasóni oratus bíduum ut concéderet.
 ephébus frater Phaédriae puéllulam cum déperiret dóno missam Tháidi, ornátu eunuchi indúitur (suadet Pármeno) intro út iit, uítiat uírginem. sed Átticus 10 eiús repertus fráter eiús cónlocat nitiátam ephebo; Phaédriam exorát Thraso.

PERSONAE

[PROLOGVS]

PHAEDRIA ADVLESCENS

PARMENO SERVOS

THAIS MERETRIX

GNATHO PARASITYS

CHAEREA ADVLESCENS

THRASO MILES

PYTHIAS ANCILLA

CHREMES ADVLESCENS

ANTIPIO ADVLESCENS

DORIAS ANCILLA

DORVS EVNVCHVS

SANGA SERVOS

SOPHRONA NVTRIX

SENEX [DEMEA seu

LACHES?]

CANTOR

6 ut add. Dziatzko

10 ut add. Opitz: intro iuit uolg.

PROLOGVS

- Si quisquamst qui placere se studeat bonis quam plurimis et minime multos laedere, in his poeta hic nomen proficitur suum.
 tum si quis est qui dictum in se inclementius
- 5 existumarit esse, is sic existumet, 5 responsum, non dictum esse, quia laesit prior, qui bene uortendo et eisdem scribendo male ex Graecis bonis Latinas fecit non bonas.
 idem Menandri Phasma nuper perdidit
- 10 atque in Thensauro scripsit, causam dicere 10
 prius unde petitur, aurum qua re sit suum, quam illic qui petit, unde is sit thensaurus sibi aut unde in patrium monumentum peruenerit.
 dehinc ne frustretur ipse se aut sic cogitet
- 15 'defunctus iam sum, nil est quod dicat mihi': 15 is ne erret moneo et desinat lacessere.
 habeo alia multa, quae nunc condonabitur, quae proferentur post, si perget laedere, ita ut facere instituit. quam nunc acturi sumus
- 20 Menandri Eunuchum, postquam aediles emerunt, 20 perfecit sibi ut inspicundi esset copia.
 magistratus quom ibi adesset, ocepst agi.
 exclamat furem, non poetam fabulam dedisse et nil dedisse uerborum tamen:
- 25 Colacem esse Naeni et Plautili, neterem fabulam; 25

5 existumarit Bentley: existumauit codd.: existumabit Muretus is add. Fleckeisen 9 nuper perdidit Bothe: nunc nuper dedit codd. 12 illic Bentley: illi BDG: ille *APC*¹: ille ter Donatus qui tamen agnoscit ut rectam locutionem illum quam lectionem accipit
Fleckeisen

parasíti personam índe ablatam et militis.
 si id ést peccatum, péccatum imprudéntiast poétæ, non quo fúrtam facere stúduerit.
 id ita ésse uos iam iúdicare póteritis.

- 30 Coláx Menandrist : ín east parasítús Colax 30 et míles gloriósus : eas se hic nón negat persónas transtulísse in Eunuchúm suam ex Graéca ; sed ea ex fábula factás prius Latínas scisse sése, id uero pérnegat.
- 35 quod sí personis ísdem huie uti nón licet : 35
 qui mágis licet eurréntem seruom scribere, bonás matronas fácere, meretricéas malas, [parasítum edacem, glóriosum mílitem,] puerúm supponi, fálli per seruóm senem,
- 40 amáre, odisse, súspicari ? dénique 40
 nullímst iam dictum quód non sit dictúm prius.
 qua re aéquomst uos cognóscere atque ignóscere,
 quæ uéteres factitárunt si faciúnt noui.
 date óperam, cum siléntio animum atténdite,
- 45 ut pérnoscatís quíd sibi Eunuchús uelit. 45

31 hic add. Fleckeisen codd. : eas ab aliis Ritschl

33 ea ex fabula Fleckeisen : eas fabulas

ACTVS I

PHAEDRIA PARMENO

- PH.* Quid ígitur faciam? nón eam ne núne quidem quom accérsor ultro? an pótius ita me cómparem, non pérpeti meretrícum contumélias?
 exclusit; reuocat: rédeam? non, si me óbseeret.
- 5 PA. siquidem hérele possis, níl prius neque fórtius. 50
 uerúm si incípies néque pertendes gnáuitér atque, úbi pati non póteris, quom nemo éxpetet, infécta pace ultro ád eam uenies índicans te amáre et ferre nón posse: actumst, ílicet,
- 10 perísti: eludet, úbi te uictum sénserit. 55
 proín tú, dum est tempus, étiam atque etiam cógita, ere: quae res in se néque consilium néque modum habet úllum, eam consílio regere nón potes.
 in amóre haec omnia ínsunt uitia: iniúriae,
- 15 suspíciones, ínimicitiae, indútiae, 60
 bellúm, pax rursus: incérta haec si tu póstules ratióne certa fácere, nihilo plús agas quam sí des operam ut cúm ratione insánias.
 et quód nunc tute técum iratus cógitas
- 20 ‘egon íllam, quae illum, quae me, quae non . . .! síne modo, 65 morí me malim: séntiet qui uír siem’:
 haec uérba ea una mehérele falsa lácrimula quam oculós terendo mísere uix ui exprésse-restínguet, et te ultro áccusabit, ét dabis
- 25 ultro eí supplicium. PH. [o] indígnum facinus! núne ego 70 et illám scelestam esse ét me miserum séntio:

67 ea add. Bentley
seclusit Fleckeisen

70 ultro ei Bentley: ei ultro codd. o et taédet et amore árdeo, et prudéns seiens, niúós uidensque péreo, nec quid agám seio.

PA. quid agás? nisi ut te rédimas captum quáu queas

75 minumó; si nequeas paúlulo, at quantí queas; 30 et né te adffictes. PH. ítane suades? PA. sí sapis.

neque praéter quam quas ípse amor moléstias habet áddas, et illas quas habet reeté feras.

sed ecceam ípsa egreditur, nóstri fundi cálamitas;

80 nam quód nos capere opórtet, haec intércipit. 35

THAIS

PHAEDRIA

PARMENO

ii

TH. Miserám me, uereor ne íllud grauius Phaédria tulerít neue aliorsum átque ego feci accéperit, quod heri íntro missus nóu est. PH. totus, Pármeno, tremo hórreoque, póstquam aspexi hanc. PA. bóno animo es:

85 accéde ad ignem hunc, íám calesces plús satis. 5

TH. quis híc lóquitur? ehem, tun híc eras, mi Phaédria?
quid híc stábas? quor non récta íntro íbas? PA. céterum de exclúsióne uérbum nullum? TH. quíd taces?

PH. sané quía uero haec míhi patent sempér fores

90 aut quía sum apud te prímu. TH. missa istaée face. 10

PH. quid 'míssa'? o Thais, Tháís, utinam essét mihi pars aéqua amoris técum ac paríter fieret, ut aut hoc tibi doléret itidem ut míhi dolet aut égo istuc abs te fáctum nili pénderem!

95 TH. ne erúcia te obsecro, ánime mi, mi Phaédria. 15 non pól, quo quemquam plús amem aut plus díligam, eo féci; sed res íta erat, faciundúm fuit.

PA. eredo, út fit, misera praé amore exclusti húnc foras.

TH. sicíne agis, Parmeno? áge; sed hac qua grátia

79 ecceam Fleckeisen: ecca codd.

95 mi geminant Fabricius

97 res ita erat Fleckeisen: ita erat res codd.

98 exclusti cum

Donato et Prisciano Faërnus: exclusit codd

- 20 te accérsi iussi, anscúlta. PII. fiat. TH. díe mihi 100 hoc prímum, potin est híc tacere? PA. egon? óptume.
 nerum heús tu, hac lege tíbi meam adstringó fidem :
 quae uéra audiui táceo et contineo óptume ;
 sin fálsum aut uanum aut fínctumst, continuó palamst :
 25 plenús rimarum sum, hác atque illae pérfluo. 105
 proin tú, taceri sí uis, uera dícto.
TH. mihi máter Samia fúit : ea habitabát Rhodi.
PA. potést taceri hoc. TH. íbi tum matri páruolam puéllam dono quídám mercatór dedit 30 ex Áttica hinc abréptam. PII. cinemme? TH. árbitror; 110 certúm non scimus : mátris nomen ét patris dicébat ipsa : pátriam et signa cétera neque scíbat neque per aétatem etiam pótis erat.
 mercátor hoc addébat : e praedónibus, 35 unde émerat, se audísse abreptam e Súnio. 115 matér ubi accepit, coépit studiose ómnia docére, educere, íta uti si esset fília.
 sorórem plerique ésse credebánt meam.
 ego cum íllo, quocum tum úno rem habebam hópíte, 40 abii húc : qui mihi relíquit haec quae habeo ómnia. 120
PA. utrúmque hoc falsumst : écfluet. TH. qui istúe?
PA. quia
 neque tu úno eras conténta neque solús dedit ; nam hic quóque bonam magnámque partem ad te át-tulit.
TH. itást ; sed sine me péruenire quó uolo.
 45 intérea miles, quí me amare occéperat, 125 in Cáriamst profécus ; te intereá loci cognóui. tute scís postilla quam íntumum habeám te et mea consília ut tibi credam ómnia.

105 perpluo Bentley 106 taceri BCDEP : tacere AG 107 sic scripsi ego : Samia mihi mater codd. 113 potis erat Bentley :
 potuerat codd. 117 sic cum Rivino uolg. : educare ita ut codd. :
 fort. docere ita et educare ut si esset filia Don. in lemm. ut agnoscit

PA. ne hoc quídem tacebit Pármeno. TH. oh, dubiúmne id est?

- 130 hoc ágite, amabo. máter mea illic mórtuast 50
 nupér, quóius frater áliquantum ad remst áuidior.
 is ubi esse hanc forma uídet honesta uírginem et fídibus scire, prétium sperans íleo prodúcit, uendit. fórte fortuna ádfuit
- 135 hic méus amíeus: émit eam donó mihi 55
 imprúdens harum rerum ignarusque ómnium.
 is uénit: postquam sénsit me tecúm quoque rem habére, fingit caúsas ne det sédulo:
 ait, sí fidem habeat se íri praepositúm tibi
- 140 apúd me, ac non id métnat, ne, ubi accéperim, 60
 sesé relinquam, uélle se illam míhi dare;
 uerum íd uereri. séd ego quantum súspicor,
 ad uírginem animum adíecit. PII. etiamne ámplius?
TH. nil; nám quaesíui. núnc ego eam, mi Phaédria,
- 145 multaé sunt causae quam ób rem cupio abdúcere: 65 primúm quod soror est dícta; praeterea út suis restítuam ac reddam. sóla sum; habeo hic néminem neque amíeum neque cognátum: quam ob rem, Phaédria, cupio áliquos parere amícos benefició meo.
- 150 id amábo adiuta mé, quo id fiat fácilius: 70
 sine illúm priores pártis hosce aliquót dies apúd me habere. níl respondes? PII. péssuma, egon quícequam cum istis fáctis tibi respóndeam?
PA. eu nóster, laudo: tándem perdoluit: uir es.
- 155 PII. at égo nescibam quórsuam tu íres: 'páruola 75 hinc ést abrepta: edúxit mater pró sua:
 soror díetast: cupio abdúcere, ut reddám suis':

129 sic singulis personis dat singulas orationes Fleckeisen: priorem uersus partem Phaedriae posteriorem Parmenoni triluunt codd. 131 quóius Fleckeisen: eius codd. 132 esse add. Bentley 149 beneficio Fleckeisen: beneficio codd. 155 at edd. ant. cum G ex vas.: haut uel aut codd. cett.

nempe ómnia haec nunc uerba huc redeunt dénique :
ego excludor, ille récipitur. qua grátia ?

80 nisi si illum plus quam mé amas et istam núnc times, 160 quae aduécetast, ne illum tálem praeripiát tibi.

TH. ego id tíneo ? PII. quid te ergo áliud sollicitát ? cedo.
num sólus ille dóna dat ? nuncúbi meam benígnitatem sénsisti in te cláudier ?

85 nonne úbi mi dixti cúpere te ex Aethíopia 165 ancíllulam, relíctis rebus ómnibus quaesúi ? porro eunúchum dixti uélle te, quia sólae utuntur ís reginae ; répperi, herí minas uigínti pro ambobús dedi.

90 contéptus abs te támen haec habui in mémoria : 170 ob haec facta abs te spérnor ! TH. quid istic, Phaédria ?
quamquam íllam cupio abdúcere atque hac re árbitror id fíeri posse máxume, uerúm tamen potiús quam te inimicum hábeam, faciam ut iússeris.

95 PII. utinam ístuc uerbum ex ánimo ac uere díceres 175 ‘ potiús quam te inimicum hábeam ’ ! si istuc créderem sincére dici, quíduis possem pérpeti.

PA. labáscit uictus úno uerbo quám cito !

TH. ego nón ex animo mísera dico ? quám ioco 100 rem uóluiستی a me tándem, quin perféceris ? 180 ego ímpetrare néqueo hoc abs te, bíduom saltem út concedas sólam. PII. siquidem bíduom :
uerúm ne fiant ísti uigínti dies.

TH. profécto non plus bíduom aut . . PII. ‘ aut ’ níl moror.

105 TH. non fíet : hoc modo síne te exorem. PII. scíllicet 185 faciúndumst quod uis. TH. mérito te amo, béne facis.

160 quam me amas Bentley : amas quam me codd. 163 num-cubi Fleckeisen : nuncubi BCEP : num ubi A cum cett. 164 in te claudier cum A Donatus : intercludier cum S Bentley 170 Fleckeisen :
tamen contemptus abs te haec codd. 184 ‘ aut ’ níl moror Dziatzko :
aut ? níl moror uolg.

- PH.* rus ibo : ibi hoc me mácerabo bíduom.
 ita fácere certumst : mós gerundust Tháïdi.
 tu, Pármeno, huc fac illi ádducantur. PA. máxume.
- 190 PH. in hoc bíduom, mea Tháïis, uale. TH. mi Phaédria, 110
 et tú. num quid uis áliud ? PH. egone quíd uelim ?
 cum mílite isto praésens absens út sies ;
 diés noctisque mé ames, me desíderes,
 me sómnies, me expéctes, de me cógites,
- 195 me spéres, me te oblécetes, mecum tóta sis : 115
 meus fác sis postremo ánimus quando ego súm tuos.—
TH. me míseram, forsítan mi hic paruam habeát fidem atque éx aliarum ingéniis nunc me iúdicet.
 ego pól, quae mihi sum cónscia, hoc certó scio,
- 200 neque mé finxisse fálsi quicquam néque meo 120
 cordi ésse quemquam cáriorem hoc Phaédria :
 et quídquid huius féci, causa uírginis fecí ; nam me eius spéro fratrem própemodum iam répperisse, aduléscensem adeo nóbilem ;
- 205 et is hódie uenturum ád me constituít domum. 125
 concédam hinc intro atque éxspectabo, dúm uenit.

ACTVS II

PHAEDRIA PARMENO i

- PH.* Fác, ita ut iussi, déducantur ísti. PA. faciam.
PH. at díligenter.
PA. fíet. PH. at matúre. PA. fiet. PH. sátine hoc mandatúmst tibi ? PA. ah, rogitáre, quasi diffícile sit !
- 210 útinam tam aliquid ínuenire fáciie possis, Phaédria,

190 mea add. Brix. 197 forsitan mi hic Haupt : forsitan hic mihi codd. : forsán cum Donato Bentley et uolg.

5 quam hóc peribit. PH. égo quoque una péreo, quod míst cárius :

ne istúc tam iniquo pátiare animo. PA. mínime : qui effectúm dabo.

sed núm quid aliud ímperas ?

PH. múnus nostrum ornáto uerbis, quód poteris, et istum aémulum,

quod póteris, ab ea péllo.

215

10 PA. mémini, tam etsi nállus moneas. PH. égo rus ibo atque íbi manebo.

PA. cénseo. PH. sed heús tu. PA. quid uis? PH.
cénsen posse me óffirmare et pérpeti, ne rédeam interea ? PA. téne ? non herele árbitror ; nam aut iám reuortere, aút mox noctu te ádiget horsum insómnia.

PH. opus fáciam, ut defetíger usque, ingrátis ut dórmiám.

15 PA. uigilábis lassus : hóc plus facies. PH. ábi, nil 22 dicis, Pármeno.

eíciunda herele haec ést mollities ánimí ; nimis me indúlgeo.
tandém non ego illam cáream, si sit ópus, uel totum tríduom ? PA. hui,

úniuersum tríduom ? uide quíd agas. PH. stat senténtia.—

PA. dí boni, quid hoc mórbist ? adeon hómínes inmutárier 22

20 éx amore ut nón egnoseas eúndem esse ! hoc nemó fuit mínus ineptus, mágis seuerus quisquam nec magis cótinens.
séd quis hic est qui hue pégit ? attat, híc quidemst parasitús Gnatho

mílitis : ducít secum una uírginem dono huíc. papae, fácie honesta ! mírum ní ego me túrpiter hodie híc dabo 23

25 eúm meo decrepito hóc eunucho. haec súperat ipsam Tháïdem.

212 qui effectum Fleckeisen : quin effectum codd. : quin factum Bentley uolg. 219 adiget Bentley ex Donato : adigent codd.

228 Fleckeisen : hic quidem est codd. 230 ego me Σ : egomet A

GNATHO PARMENO

ii

GN. Di ímortales, hómini homo quid praestat! stulto intéllegens

quíd interest! hoc ádeo ex hac re uénit in mentém mihi:
cónueni hodie aduéniens quendam meí loci hinc atque órdinis,

235 hóminem hand impurum, ítidem patria qui ábligurríerát bona:
uideo sentum squálidum aegrum, pánnis annisque óbsitum. 5
'quíd istue' inquam 'ornátist?' 'quoniam míser quod habui pérldidi, em

quó redactus sum. ómnes noti me átque amici désérunt.'
híc ego illum contémpsi prae me: 'quíd homo' inquam
'ignauíssime?'

240 ítan parasti te út spes nulla rélicua in te sít tibi?
símul consílium eúm re amisti? uíden me ex eodem 10
ortúm loco?

quí color, nitór, uestitus, quacé habitudost córporis!
ómnia habeo néque quiequam habeo; níl quom est, níl
defít tamen.'

'át ego infelix néque ridiculus ésse neque plagás pati

245 póssum.' 'quíd? tu his rébus credis fíeri? tota errás uia.
ólim isti fuit géneri quondam quaéstus apud saecúlum prius: 15 hóc nouomst aucúpium; ego adeo hanc prímus inuení uiam.

ést genus hominum qui ésse prímos se ómnium rerúm uolunt nec sunt: hos conséctor; hisce ego nón paro me ut rídeant, 250 séd eis ultro adrídeo et eorum íngenía admirór símul.

quídquid dicunt laúdo; id rursum sí negant, laudo íd 20
quoque;

négat quis: nego; aít: áio: postremo ímperaui egomét mihi ómnia adsentári. is quaestus núnc est multo ubérrimus.'

PA. scítum herele hominem! hic hómines prorsum ex stúltis insanós facit.

240 reliqua codd. sit Σ : esset A his Σ

250 eis Bentley: is A:

GN. dum haec loquimur, interea loci ad macellum ubi 255
aduentamus,

- 25 concurrunt laeti mi obuiam cuppédinarií omnes, cetárii, lanií, coqui, fartóres, piscatóres, quibus ét re salua et pérdita profúeram et prosum saepe :
salútant, ad cenám uocant, aduentum gratulántur.
ille úbi miser famélicus uidet mi ésse tantum honórem, 260 30 tam fáciie uietum quaérere ; ibi homo coépit me obsecráre, ut síbi liceret díscere id de mé: sectari iússi, si pótis est, tamquam phílosophorum habent dísciplinae ex ípsis
vocábula, ut parasíti item Gnathónici uocéntur.

PA. uiden ótium et eibus quíd facit aliénus? GN. sed 265 ego céssó

- 35 ad Tháïdem hanc dedúcere et rogáre ad cenam ut uéniat?
sed Pármenonem ante óstium hoc astáre tristem uídeo, riuális seruom: sálua rest. ní nírum hisce homines frígent.
nebulónem hunc certumst lídere. PA. hisce hoc múnnere arbitrántur
suam Tháïdem esse. GN. plúrima salúte Pármenónem 270 40 summúm suom impertít Gnatho. quíd ágitur? PA.
statur. GN. uídeo.

num quíd nam hic quod nolís uides? PA. te. GN.
crédo: at num quíd áliud?

PA. qui dúm? GN. quia tristi's. PA. níl quidem.
GN. ne síis; sed quíd uidétur hoc tibi manepium? PA. nón malum herele. GN.

uro hómínem. PA. ut falsus ánimist.

GN. quam hoc múnus gratum Tháïdi arbitráre esse?

PA. hoc nunc dícis

27

264 Fleckeisen: parasiti ita ut A: itidem ut Σ: item ut Donat. in lemm. 267 hoc astare Dziatzko: Thaidis codd.: Thaidii Bothe:

huius stare* Minton Warren ex notis Bentleianis 268 rest ego: res est codd. hisce cum *A*¹ Donatus ('hisce' pro 'hi' uetuste): cum Σ om. uolg. 275 post dicis interpunct. tollit Dziatzko qui hoc ablatiuom censet esse

* See App. on this vs.

ciēctos hinc nos : omnium rerum, heūs, uicissitūdost. 45

GN. sex ego te totos, Pármēno, hos mensís quietum réddam, ne súrsum deorsum eúrsites neue úsque ad lucem uígiles.
ecquíd beo te? PA. mén? papae! GN. sic sóleo amicos. PA. laúdo.

280 GH. detíneo te : fortásse tu proféctus alio fúeras.

PA. nusquám. GN. tum tu igitur paúlulum da mi 50
óperae : fac ut admíttar

ad illam. PA. áge modo, i : nunc tíbi patent fores haéc, quia istam dúcis.

GN. num quem éuocari hinc uís foras?—PA. sine bíduom hoc praetéreat :

qui míli nunc uno dígitulo fores áperis fortunátus,

285 ne tu ístas faxo eálcibus saepe ínsultabis frústra.

GN. etiámne tu hic stas, Pármēno? eho num nam híc 55
relictu's eústos,

ne quís forte internúntius clam a mílite ad istam cúrset?

PA. facéte dictum : míra uero míliti quae pláceant.—

sed uídeo erilem fílium minórem huc adueníre.

290 mirór quid ex Píraeo ábierit ; nam ibi eústos publice ést nunc.

non témerest ; et properáns uenit : nesció quid circumspéctat.

CH A E R E A P A R M E N O

iii

CH. Óccidi !

neque uírgost usquam néque ego, qui illam a cónspectu amisi meo.

ubi quaeram, ubi inuestígem, quem pereónter, quam insistám uiam,

295 incértus sum. una haec spés est : ubi ubi est, dú celari nón potest.

282 i om. Σ 286 Fleckeisen : etiam nunc tu hic *A*² : etiam nunc hic Σ eho sustulit T. Faber quem edd. plerique secuti sunt 290 quid A : qui edd. ant. : quod cum G Donat. in lemm.

- 5 o fáciem pulchram! déleo omnis dehíne ex animo múlieres:
taedét cottidiánarum harum fórmarum. PA. ecce autem álterum!
néscio quid de amóre loquitur: o ínfortunatúm senem!
hic uérost, qui si occéperit,
ludúm iocunq̃ue dícet fuisse illum álterum, 300
- 10 praent húiús rabies quaé dabit.
CH. ut illúm di deaeque sénium perdant, quí me hodie remorátus est;
meque ádeo, qui restíterim; tum autem qui íllum flocci fécerim.
séd eecum Parmenónem. salue. PA. quíd tu es tristis?
quídue es alacris?
únde is? CH. egone? néscio herele, néque unde eam 305
neque quórsum eam:
15 ita prórsum oblitus súm mei.
PA. qui quaéso? CH. amo. PA. hem. CH. nune, Pármeno, tu osténdes te qui uír sies.
scis té mihi saepe póllicitum esse ‘Chaérea, aliquid ínueni modo quód ames: in ea re útilitatem ego fáciam ut cognoseás meam,’ quom in eéllulam ad te pátris penum omnem cóngere- 310
bam cláneulum.
20 PA. age, inépte. CH. hoc herele fáctumst. fac sis núne promissa adpáreant:
sic ádeo digna rés est, ubi tu néruos intendás tuos.
haud súnilis uirgost uirginum nostrárum, quas matrés student demíssis umeris ésse, uincto péctore, ut gracilae sient.

300 A: dices Σ : dicat Bentley 302 senium cum A Donat.:
senem omnes uel omnes senem Σ : unde Bentley ut illum di deae omnes senium perdant qui hodie me remoratu' sit 303 *A*² Σ : ei restiterim A, unde eliciuit quæi Spengel 307 sic post Thomas Fleckeisen: te Parmeno ostendes uel Parmeno te ostendes codd.: te ostenderis Bentley 312 Fleckeisen: si cum codd. Seruius: siue Donat.: haec Braune: ceterum ante si Parmenonis notam exhibent codd.

- 315 si qua ést habitior paúlo, pugilem esse áiunt, deducúnt eibum:
tam etsí bonast natúra, reddunt eúratura iúnceam : 25
itaque érgo amantur. PA. quíd tua istaec? CH. nóua figura orís. PA. papae.
CH. color uérus, corpus sólídum et suci plénúm. PA.
anni? CH. anni? sédecim.
PA. flos ípsus. CH. ipsam hanc tú mihi uel ui uél clam uel precárió
- 320 fae trádas: mea nil ré fert, dum potiár modo.
PA. quíd? uírgo quoiast? CH. néseio herele. PA. 30
undést? CH. tantundem. PA. ubi hábitat?
CH. ne id quídem. PA. ubi uidisti? CH. ín uia.
PA. qua rátióne amisísti?
CH. id équidem adueniens mécum stomachabár modo, nec quémquam ego esse hominem árbitror quoi mágis bonae
- 325 felicitates ómnes auorsae sient.
PA. quíd hóc est sceleris! CH. péríi. PA. quíd fae- 35
túmst? CH. rogas?
patrís cognatum atque aéqualem Archidémidem nouístin? PA. quíd ní? CH. is, dum hánc sequor, fit mi óbuiam.
PA. incómmode herele. CH. immo énim uero infelíciter;
- 330 nam incómmoda alia súnt dicenda, Pármeno.
illúm liquet mihi dcierare his ménsibus 40 sex séptem prorsum nón uidisse próxumis, nisi núne, quom minume uéllem minumeque ópus fuit.
eho, nóne hoc monstri símilest? quíd aís? PA. máxume.
- 335 CH. contínuo adeurrit ad me, quam longé quídem, ineúruos, tremulus, lábiis demissís, gemens : 45 ‘heus heús, tibi dico. Chaérea ’ inquit. réstiti.
‘sein quíd ego te uolébam?’ ‘die.’ ‘cras ést mihi

319 ipsus. ipsam Fleckeisen: ipse (ipsum). han codd.: ipse. nunc hanc
G. Hermann uolg. 325 auorsae Bentley: aduersae codd.

- iudícium.' 'quid tum?' 'ut díligenter núncties patri, áduocatus máne mi esse ut méminerit.' 340
- 50 dum haec dícit, abiit hóra. rogo num quíd uelit.
 'reete' ínquit. abeo. quom húc respicio ad uírginem, illa sése interea cómmodum huc aduórterat in hanc nóstram plateam. PA. mírum ni hanc dícit, modo huic quae datast dono. CH. húc quom aduenio, núlla erat. 345
- 55 PA. comités secuti scilicet sunt uírginem?
CH. uerúm: parasitus cum áncilla. PA. ipsast: flicet.
 desíne; iam conclamátumst. CH. alias rés agis.
PA. istúc ago equidem. CH. nóstin quae sit? díe mihi, uidístin? PA. uidi, nóui: scio quo abdúcta sit. 350
- 60 CH. eho Pármeno mi, nóstin et seis úbi siet?
PA. húc deductast ád meretricem Tháüdem: ei donó
 datast.
CH. quís is est tam poténs cum tanto múnere hoc?
PA. milés Thraso,
 Phaédriae rinális. CH. duras frátris partis praédicas.
PA. ímmo si seiás quod donum huic dóno contra eomparet, 355
- 65 [tum] mágis id dicas. CH. quód nam quaeso herele?
PA. eúnuchum. CH. illumne óbsecro ínhonestum hominem, quém mercatus ést heri, seneni múlierem?
PA. ístunc ipsum. CH. homó quatietur cérte cum donó foras,
 séd istam Tháüdem non scini nóbis uicinam. PA. haúd díust.
CH. périi, nunquamne étiam me illam uídisse! eho 360
 dum díe mihi:
- 70 éstne, ut fertur, fórma? PA. sane. CH. at níl ad
 nostram hanc? PA. ália res.

349 post die mihi ab initio uersus sequentis aut praebet A 356 tum magis codd.: tum secluser Bentley 358 istum ipsum. homo quatietur
A: nimirum homo Nonius: unde istum ipsum. nimirum homo om. certe
Fleckeisen

CH. óbsecro herele, Pármeno, fac [ut] pótiar. PA.
faciam sédulo;

dábo operam, adiuuábo: num quid me áliud? CH.
quo nunc ís? PA. domum, út maneupia haec, íta uti iussit fráter, ducam ad Tháüdem.

365 CH. ó fortunatum ístum eunuchum quí quidem in hanc detúr domum!

PA. quid ita? CH. rogitas? súmma forma sémper 75
conseruám domi

uidébit, conloquétur, aderit úna in unis aédibus;

eibúm non numquam cápiet eum ea; intérdum propter dórmiet.

PA. quid sí nunc tute fórtunatus fías? CH. qua re, Pármeno?

370 respónde. PA. capias uéstem illius. CH. uéstem?
quid tum póstea?

PA. pro illó te deducam. CH. aúdio. PA. te esse 80
íllum dicam. CH. intéllego.

PA. tu illís fruare cómmotis quibus tú illum dicebás modo:

eibum úna capias, ádsis, tangas, lúdas, propter dórmias;

quandóquidem illarum néque te quisquam nóuit neque scit quí sies.

375 praetérea forma et aétas ipsast, fáciie ut pro ennucho probes.

CH. dixísti pulchre: núnquam uidi mélius consiliúm dari. 85 age eámus intro núnciam: orna me, ábdue, due, quan-túm potest.

PA. quid agís? iocabar équidem. CH. garris. PA.
périi, quid ego egí miser!

quo trúdis? perenlerís iam tu me. tibi equidem dicó, mane.

380 CH. eámus. PA. pergin? CH. cértumst. PA. uide ne núncium calidum hoc sít modo.

362 ut tollendum esse monuit Dziatzko sedulo ac codd. 364 uti Faërnus: ut codd. 370 capias tu illius uestem codd.: nisi quod tu om. A: uestem illius Fleckeisen 376 dixi codd. 377 due om.
A: add. A¹ 380 calidum Donatus: callidum codd.

- 90 CH. non ést profecto : síne. PA. at enim istaec ín me eudetúr faba. CH. ah.
PA. flagítium facimus. CH. án id flagitiumst, si ín domum meretríciam dedúcar et illis erúicibus, quae nos nóstramque adulescéntiam habent déspicatam et quae nos semper ómnibus cruciánt modis, nunc réferam gratiam átque eas itidem fállam, ut ab illis 385 fállimur?
- 95 an pótius haec patri aéquomst fieri, ut á me ludatúr dolis?
quod quí rescierint, cúlpent ; illud mérito factum omnes putent.
PA. quid istíc ? si certumst fácere, faciam ; uérum ne post cónferas culpam ín me. CH. non faciám. PA. iubesne ? CH.
iúbeam ? cogo atque ímpero :
nunquám defugiam auctóritatem. séquere. PA. di 390
uortánt bene !

ACTVS III

i THRASO GNATHO PARMENO

- TH.* Magnás uero agere grátias Thaís mihi ?
GN. ingéntis. TH. ain tu, laétast ? GN. non tam ipsó
quidem
donó quam abs te datum ésse : id nero sério triúmphat. PA. hoc prouíso ut, ubi tempús siet, 5 dedúcam. sed eccum mílitem. TH. est istúe datum 390
profécto, ut grata míli sint quae facio ómnia.
GN. aduórti herele animum. TH. uél rex semper máxumas mihi agébat quidquid féceram : aliis nón item.

386 pati E²GP in ras. : unde an potius haec pati aequomst, pater ut a me ludatur dolis Fleckeisen 390 sequere Chaereae continuat Fleckeisen : alii Parmenoni tribuunt 394 hoc A : huc Σ

GN. labóre alieno mágno partam glóriam

400 uerbís saepe in se tráns mouet qui habét salem ; 10 quod in tést. TH. habes. GN. rex te érgo in oculis

TH. scílicet.

GN. gestáre. TH. vero : crédere omnem exércitum, consília. GN. mirum. TH. túm sicubi cum sátietas hominum aút negoti sí quando odium céperat,

405 requiéscere ubi uolébat, quasi . . . nostín ? GN. seio : 15 quasi ubi illam expueret míseriam ex animó. TH. tenes.

tum mé conuinam sólum abducebát sibi. GN. hui, regem élegantem nárras. TH. immo síe homost :

perpaúcorum hominumst. GN. immo nullorum árbitor,

410 si técum uiuit. TH. ínuidere omnes mihi, 20 mordére clanculum : égo non flocci péndere :

illi ínuidere mísere ; uerum unús tamen inpénse, elephantis quem Índicis praefécerat.

is úbi molestus mágis est, ‘ quaesó ’ inquám ‘ Strato,

415 eon és ferox, quia habés imperium in béluas ? ’ 25

GN. pulchré meherele díctum et sapientér. papae, iuguláras hominem. quíd ille ? TH. mutus fílico.

GN. quid ní ésset ? PA. di uostrám fidem, hominem pérditum

miserúmque et illum sácrilegum ! TH. quid illúd, Gnatho,

420 quo pácto Rhodium tétigerim in conuúio, 30

numquám tibi dixi ? GN. núnquam ; sed narra óbsecro.

plus míliens audíui. TH. una in conuúio erat híc, quem dico, Rhódinus adulescéntulus.

forte hábui scortum : coépít ad id adlúdere

425 et me ínridere. ‘ quíd aís ’ inquám homini ‘ ínpudens ? 35 lepus túte es, pulpaméntum quaerís ? ’ GN. háhahahae.

TH. quid ést ? GN. facete, lépide, laute, níl supra.

402 gestare *AC*¹ : gestire codd. cett. 409 hominumst Bentley :

hominum codd. 425 homini A : homo *A*² Σ 426 et pulp. Σ :

et om. A hahahahae Dziatzko coll. v. 497, Heaut. 886, Hec. 862 :

hahahae codd.

tuomme, óbsecro te, hoc díctum erat? netus erédidi.

TH. audíeras? GN. saepe, et fértur in primís. TH.
meumst.

40 GN. dolet díctum imprudenti áduléscenti et líbero. 430

PA. at té di perdant! GN. quíd ille quaeso? TH.
pérditus:

risu ómnes qui aderant émoriri. déniqúe metuébant omnes iám me. GN. non inítúria.

TH. sed heús tu, purgon égo me de istae Tháidi, 45 quod eám me amare súspicást? GN. níl mínus. 435

immo aúge magis súspícíonem. TH. quór? GN. rogas?
scín, sí quando illa méntíonem Phaédriac facit aút sí laudat, te út male urat? TH. séntio.

GN. id út ne fiat haéc res solast rémedío:

50 ubi nóminabit Phaédriam, tu Pámphilam 440

contínuo; sí quando illa dícet 'Phaédriam intró mittamus cómissatum,' Pámphilam cantátum prouocémus; sí laudábit haec illíus formam, tu húius contra. déniqúe

55 par pró pari reférto, quod eam mórdeat. 445

TH. síquidém me amaret, tum ístuc prodessét, Gnatho.

GN. quando illud quod tu dás exspectat átque amat, iam dúdum te amat, iám dudum illi fáciie fit quod dóleat; metuit sémper quem ipsa núnc capit

60 fructúm ne quando irátus tu alio cónferas. 450

TH. bene díxti ac mí istuc nóñ in mentem uénerat.

GN. ridículum; non enim cógítaras. céterum
idem hoc túte melius quánto inuenissés, Thraso!

ii THAIS THRASO GNATHO PARMENO PYTHIAS

TH. Audíre uocem uísa sum modo mílitis.

atque éccum. salue, mí Thraso. THR. o Thaís mea, 455
meum sáuium, quíd ágítur? eequíd nós amas

450 tu te contra metrum A¹ de fidicina istae? PA. quám uenuste! quód dedit princípium adueniens! TH. plúrimum meritó tuo. 5

GN. eámus ergo ad cénam. quíd stas? PA. em álterum:
460 ex hómine hunc natum dícas? TH. ubi uis, nón moror.

PA. adíbo atque adsimulábo quasi nunc éxeam.
itúram, Thaïs, quópiam es? TH. ehem, Pármeno:
bene féecisti hodie: itúra. . . PA. quo? TH. quid, 10
hunc nón uides?

PA. uideo ét me taedet. úbi uis, dona adsúnt tibi 465 a Phaédria. THR. quid stámus? quor non ímus hinc?

PA. quaeso hérele ut liceat, páce quod fiát tua, dare huíc quae uolumus, cónuenire et cónloqui.
THR. perpúlchra credo dóna aut nostri símilia. 15

PA. res índicabit. heús iubete istós foras 470 exíre, quos iussi, ócius. procéde tu hue:

ex Aéthiopiast úsque haec. THR. hic sunt trés minae.
GN. vix. PA. úbi tu es, Dore? accéde hue. em
eunuchúm tibi,

quam líberali fácie, quam aetate íntegra! 20

TH. ita mé di ament, honéstust. PA. quid tu aís, Gnatho?
475 num quíd habes quod conténmas? quid tu autém, Thraso?

tacént: satis laudant. fác periclum in lítteris, fac ín palaestra, in músicis: quae líberum seire aéquomst adulescéntem, sollertém dabo. 25

THR. ego illum eunuchum, sí opus sit, uel sóbrius. . .!

480 PA. atque haéc qui misit nón sibi soli póstulat te uínere et sua eaúsa excludi céteros, neque púgnas narrat néque cicatricés suas osténtat neque tibi óbstat, quod quidám facit; 36

uerum úbi molestum nón erit, ubi tú uoles, 485 ubi témpus tibi erit, sát habet si tum récipitur.

460 nil moror F: num moror BCP: non moror cett. cum Donato et Eugraphio 463 sic interpunxit Dziatzko: uolgo hodie cum uerbis seqq. coniungitur

- THR.* adpáret seruom hunc ésse domini paúperis miseríque. GN. nam hercle nemo posset, sát seio, 35 qui habéret qui paráret alium, hunc pérpeti.
PA. tace tú, quem ego esse infra ínnuos omnis puto hominés; nam qui adsentári huic animum indúxeris, 490 e flámma petere té cibum posse árbitror.
THR. iamne ímus? TH. hos prius íntro ducam et quae uolo 40 simul ímperabo: póst huc continuo éxéo.
THR. ego hinc ábeo: tu istane ópperire. PA. haud cónuenit una íre cum amica ímperatorem ín uia. 495
THR. quid tibi ego multa dícam? domini símilis es.
GN. hahahaé. THR. quid rides? GN. ístuc quod dixtí modo;
 45 et illúd de Rhodio díctum quom ín mentém uenit. sed Tháís exit. THR. ábi prae, cura ut sít domi paráta. GN. fiet. — TH. díligenter, Pýthias, 500 fac eúres, si forte hoc Chremes aduénérít, ut óres primum ut rédeat; si id non cómmodumst, 50 ut máneat; si id non póterít, ad me addúcito.
PY. ita fáciam. TH. quid? quid áliud uolui dícere? 505
 ehem, cúrate istam díligenter uírginem: domi adsítis facite. THR. eámus. TH. uos me séquimini.

- CH.* Profécito quanto mágis magisque cógito, ni mírum dabit haec Tháís mihi magnúm malum: ita mé uideo ab ea astúte labefactárier, 510
 iam túm quom primum iússit me ad se accérsier.
 5 roget quís ‘quid rei tibi cum illa?’ ne norám quidem.

490 ads. huic animum cum DGC Dziatzko: huic animum ads. cett.
 495 in uiam A 496 similis es cum codd. Priscianus: simia es Bentley: simiu's Fleckeisen 499 cura Paumier: curre codd.: abi praecurre Don. in lemm. 500 fiet Fleckeisen: fiat codd. 501 sic DG: si Chremes hoc forte codd. cett. 502, 503 redeat et maneat inuerso ordine dant codd.: recte constituit Bentley

- ubi uéni, causam, ut ibi manerem, répperit :
ait rém diuinam fécissee et rem sériam uelle ágere mecum. iám tum erat suspício 515 doló malo haec fieri ómnia. ipsa adcuúmbere mecúm, mihi sese dáre, sermonem quaérere. 10 ubi fríget, huc euásit, quam pridém pater mihi et máter mortui éssent. dico, iám diu.
rus éequod Sumi habérem et quam longe á mari.
520 eredo eí placere hoc : spérat se a me auéllere.
postrémo, eequa inde párua periíssét soror ; 15 eequís cum ea una ; quíd habuisset, quóm perit ;
eequís eam posset nóscere. haec quor quaéritet ?
nisi si illa forte quae ólim periit páruola 525 soror, hanc se intendit ésse, uti est audácia.
uerum éa si uiuit, ánnos natast sédecim, 20 non máior : Thaïs quám ego sum maiúsculast.
misít porro orare út uenirem sério.
aut dícat quod uolt aut molesta né siet :
530 non hérele ueniam tértio. heus heus, éequis híc ?
ego súm Chremes. PI. o cápitulum lepidíssimum ! 25
CH. dico égo mi insidias fieri ? PI. Thaïs máxumo te orábat opere ut erás redires. CH. rús eo.
PI. fac amábo. CH. non possum, ínquam. PI. at tu apud nos híc mane.
535 dum rédeat ipsa. CH. níl mínus. PI. quor, mí Chremes ?
CH. malám rem hinc íbis ? PI. si ístuc ita certúmst tibi, 30
amábo ut illuc tránseas ubi illást. CH. eo.
PI. abi, Dórias, cito húne deduce ad mílitem.

ANTIPHO

iv

- AN.* Heri áliquot adulescéntuli coñimus in Piraéo 540 in húne diem, ut de sýmbolis essémus. Chaeream eí rei

519 Fleckeisen cum DG : habeam cett.
cett.

539 *coimus BC*² : coimus

praefecimus; dati anulī; locus, tempus constitutumst.
 praeterit tempus: quo in loco dictumst paratū nīl est;
 5 homo ipse nusquamst neque scio quid dicam aut quid coniectem.

nunc mi hoc negoti ceteri dedere ut illum quaeram idque adeo uisam si domist. quis nam hinc ab Thaide 545 exit?

is est an non est? ipse est. quid hoc hominis? quid hic ornatus?

quid illud malist? nequeo satis mirari neque conicere;
 10 nisi, quidquid est, procul hinc lubet prius quid sit sciscitari.

v

CHAEREA ANTIPHO

CH. Num quis hic est? nemost. num quis hinc me sequitur? nemo homost.

iamne erumpere hoc licet mi gaudium? pro Iuppiter, 550
 nunc est profecto, interfici quom perpeti me possum, ne hoc gaudium contamineat uita aegritudine aliqua.

5 sed neminemne curiosum interuenire nunc mihi qui me sequatur quouero eam, rogitando obtundat, enicet, quid gestiam aut quid laetus sim, quo pergam, unde 555
 emergam, ubi siem

uestitum hunc nactus, quid mi quaeram, sanus sim ane insaniam!

AN. adibo atque ab eo gratiam hanc, quam uideo uelle, inibo.

10 Chaerea, quid est quod sic gestis? quid sibi hic uestitus quaerit?

quid est quod laetus es? quid tibi uis? santine sanus?
 quid me adspectas?

quid dices? CH. o festus dies! o meus amicus! salue: 560

546 sic cum Donato in lemm. Bentley et alii: qui hic ornatus est cum codd. Umpfenbach 558 quid sibi A²: quidne sibi A: aut quid sibi Z 559 quod add. A¹: laetus es schol. EG²: laetus sis cett 560 sic Bentley: quid taces. CH. O festus dies hominis amice salue codd.

nemo ómniumst quem ego núne magis cuperém uidere quám te.

AN. narra ístue quaeso quíd sit. CH. immo ego te óbsecro herele ut aúdias.

nostín hanc quam amat fráter? AN. noui: némpe, opi- 15 nor, Tháïdem.

CH. istam ípsam. AN. sic commémneram. CH.
quaedam hódie est ei donó data

565 uirgó: quid ego eius tibi nunc faciem praédicem aut laudem, Ántipho,

quom ipsús me noris quam élegans formárum spectatór siem?
in háe commotus sum. AN. aín tu? CH. primam díces, scio, si uíderis.

quid múlta uerba? amáre coepi. fórte fortuná domi 20
erat quídam eunuchus quém mercatus fúerat frater Tháïdi,

570 neque ís deductus étiam dum ad eam. súbmonuit me
Pármeno

ibi séruos quod ego arrípuí. AN. quid id est? CH.
tácitus citius aúdiēs:

ut uéstem cum eo mútem et pro illo iúbeam me illoc dúcier.

AN. pro eunúchon? CH. sic est. AN. quíd ex ea re 25
tándem ut eaperes cómmodi?

CH. rogás? uiderem, audírem, essem una quáecum cupiebam, Ántipho.

575 num párua causa aut práua ratio? tráditus sum mú-lieri.

illa ílico ubi me acceépít. laeta uéro ad se abducít domum;
comméndat uirginém. AN. quoi? tibine? CH. míhi.

AN. satis tutó tamen?

CH. edícit ne uir quísquam ad eam adeat ét míhi ne 30
abseedam ímperat:

561 Guyet: nemo est omnium A: nemo est omnium cett. nunciam A: nunc *A*² cum cett. 562 sit edd. ant.: siet codd. 566 ipsus Dziatzko: ipsum codd.: me ipse Bentley 570 dum AG: tum cett.
575 práua ratio Paumier: párua ratio codd. et Donat. in lemm.

in ínteriore pártē ut maneam sólus cum sola. ádnuo terram íntuens modéste. AN. miser. CH. ‘ego’ ín- 580 quit ‘ad cenam hínce eo.’

abducit secum ancíllas : paucae quae circum illam essént manent

nouíciāe puéllae. continuo haec adornant út lauet.

35 adhórtor properent. dum ádparatur, uírgo in conclauí sedet

suspéctans tabulam quándam pictam : ibi ínerat pictura haec, Iouem quo pácto Danaae mísisse aiunt quóndam in gremium 585 ímbrem aúreum.

egomét quoque id spectáre coepi, et quía consimílem lúserat iam olim ille ludum, impéndio magis ánimus gaudebát mihi, 40 deum sése in hominem cónuortisse atque ín alias tégulas uenísse clauulúm : per pluuiam fúcum factum múlieri.
 at quém deum ! qui témpla caeli súmma sonitu cóncutit. 590 ego homúncio hoc non fácerem ? facerem ego illud uero itidem áe lubens.

dum haec mécum reputo, accérsitur lauátum interea uírgo :
 45 iit, láuit, rediit ; deínde eam in lecto illae conlocáru[n]t.
 sto expséctans si quid mi ímprent. uenit úna, ‘heus tu’ inquit ‘Dóre,

cape hóc flabellum, uéntulum huic sic fácto, dum lauámu[s] ; 595 ubi nós lauerimus, sí noles, lauáto.’ accipio trístis.

AN. tum equidem ístuc os tuom ínpudens uidére ni-mium uéllēm,

50 qui essét status, flabéllulum tenére te asinum tántum.

CH. uix élocutast hóc, foras simul ómnes proruónt se,

588 hominem codd. : aurum uel pretium Bentley 589 pluuiam Bentley : impluuium codd. 590 suo nutu quatit con. Bentley luc- lente sed sine causa 591 Fleckeisen : ego homuncio non hoc facerem ?
 ego illud uero ita feci codd. plerique : hoc homuncio D¹L 593 in lecto illae DL : in lectulo A : in lectum illae cett. 595 lauamus CEFP : lauamur cett. 598 flabellulum Guyet : flabellum codd.

- 300 abeúnt lauatum, pérstrepunt, ita út fit, domini ubi ábsunt.
 intérea somnus uírginem opprimít. ego limis spécto sic pér flabellum elánculum; simul ália circumspécto, satin éxplorata sint. uideo esse. péssulum ostio óbdo. 55
AN. quid túm? CH. quid 'quid tum,' fátue? AN.
 fateor. CH. án ego ocasiónem 305 mi osténtam, tantam, tám breuem, tam optátam, tam insperátam
 amítterem? tunn pól ego is essem néro, qui simulábar.
AN. sane hérele ut dicis. séd interim de sýmbolis quid áctumst?
CH. parátumst. AN. frugi es: úbi? domin? CH. 60
 inmo ápud libertum Díseum.
AN. perlóngest, sed tanto ócins properémus: muta uéstem.
 310 CH. ubi mútem? perii; nám domo exsuló nunc: metuo frátrem
 ne intús sit; porro autém pater ne rúre redierít iam.
AN. eámus ad me, ibi próximumst ubi mútes. CH.
 recte dícis.
 eámus; et de istáe simul, quo pácto porro póssim 65
 potíri, consiliúm uolo capere úna tecum. AN. fiat.

ACTUS IV

DORIAS

i

- 315 Íta me di ament, quántum ego illum nídi, non nil túneo misera,
 né quam ille hodie insánu turbam fáciat aut uim Tháidi.
 nam póstquam iste aduenít Chremes aduléscens, frater uírginis,
 mílitem rogat út illum admitti iúbeat: continuo ille irasci,

601 limis *A*²*Σ*: sublimis A 609 in FP sed . . . properemus Chaereae uerba sunt 618 Fleckeisen: ille continuo codd.

5 néque negare audére ; Thaïs pórro iustare ut hóminem inuitet.

ídem faciebat rétinendi illius caúsa, quia illa quae cupiebat 620 de sorore eius índicare ad eam rem tempus nón erat.

inuitat tristis : mánsit. ibi illa eum illo sermonem flico ;
míles uero síbi putare addúctum ante oculos aémulum ;

10 uóluit facere cótra huic aegre : ‘ heus ’ inquit ‘ puere, Pámphilam

áccerse, ut deléctet hic nos.’ illa [exclamat] ‘ minime 625 géntium :

ín conuiuium illam ? ’ míles téndere : inde ad iúrgium.
interea aurum síbi clam mulier démit, dat mi ut aú-feram.

hóc est signi : ubi primum poterit, se íllinc subducét scio.

ii

PHAEDRIA DORIAS

Dum rús eo, coepi égomet mecum intérr uias, ita út fit, ubi quid ín animost moléstiae, 630
aliám rem ex alia cógitare et ea ómnia peiórem in partem. quíd opust uerbis ? dum haéc puto,

5 praetérii inprudens uíllam. longe iam ábieram, quom sénsi : redeo rúrsum, male ueró me habens.
ubi ad ípsam ueni déuorticulum, cónstiti : 635

occépi mecum cógitare ‘ hem, bíduom hic manéndumst soli síne illa ? quid tun póstea ?

10 nil ést. quid ? nil ? si nón tangendi cópiast, eho né uidendi quídem erit ? si illud nón lieet, saltem hóc lieebit. certe extrema línea 640
amáre hand nil est.’ uíllam praetereó sciens.
sed quíd hoc quod tímida súbito egreditur Pýthias ?

622 ilico A: incipit Σ: occipit Donat. in lemm. 624 puere
Erasmus: puer codd.: puer, i Bentley 625 exclamat secl. Guyet
631 omnia in | peiorem partem codd.: transp. Bentley 640 lineam A¹

PYTHIAS

DORIAS

PHAEDRIA

iii

PY. Vbi ego illum scelerosum misera atque impium inueniam? aut ubi quaeram?

hócine tam audax facinus facere esse ausum! PII. perii: hoc quid sit nereor.

645 PY. quín etiam insupér scelus, postquam lúdicatust uirginem, uestem ómnem miserae díscidit, tum ipsám capillo cónscidit.

PII. hem. PY. quí nunc si detúr mihi, 5 ut ego únguibus facile illi in oculos ínuolem uenéfico!

PII. néscio quid profécto absente nóbis turbatúmst domi.

650 adíbo. quid istuc? quid festinas? aut quem quaeris, Pýthias?

PY. ehem Phaédria, ego quem quaéram? in' hinc quo dígnu's eum donís tuis tam lépidis? PII. quid istuc ést rei? 10

PY. rogás me? eunuchum quém dedisti nóbis quas turbás dedit!

quám erae dono déderat miles, uirginem uitiáuit. PII. quid aís?

655 PY. périi. PII. temulénta's. PY. utinam sic sint qui mihi mále uolunt!

DO. au óbsecro, mea Pýthias, quod ístuc nam monstrúm fuit?

PII. insánis: qui istuc fácere eunuchus pótuit? PY. 15 ego illum néscio qui fúerit: hoc quod fécit, res ipsa índicat.

uirgo ípsa laerumat néque, quom rogites, quid sit audet dícere.

660 ille autém bonus uir núsquam adparet. étiam hoc misera súspicor,

651 egon cum ΣA¹ i pro in' A¹

654 Conradt: uirginem quam erae codd.

aliquid domo abeuntem abstulisse. PH. néqueo mirari satis, 20 quo ille abire ignavos possit longius, nisi si domum forte ad nos rediit. PY. uise amabo num sit. PH. iam
 faxo scies.—

DO. perii, obsecro! tam infandum facinus, mea tu, ne audiui quidem.

PY. at pol ego amatores audieram mulierum esse eos 665
 maximos,
 sed nil potesse; uerum miserae non in mentem uenerat;
 25 nam illum aliquo conclusissem neque illi commissem uirginem.

iv PHAEDRIA DORVS PYTHIAS DORIAS

PH. Exi foras, secleste. at etiam restitas, fugitiue? prodi, male conciliate. DO(RVS). obseero. PH. oh,

illud uide, os ut sibi distorsit carnufex!

quid huc tibi reditios? uestis quid mutatios?

5 quid narras? paulum si cessassem, Pythias, demi non offendissem, ita iam adornarat fugam.

PY. habeo hominem, amabo? PH. quid mihi habeam?

PY. o factum bene.

DOR(IAS). istuc pol uero bene. PY. ubist? PH. 671
 rogitas? non uides?

PY. uideam? obsecro quem? PH. hunc secliet. PY.
 quis hic est homo?

10 PH. qui ad uos deductus hodie est. PY. hunc oculis suis nostrarum numquam quisquam uidit, Phaedia.

PH. non uidit? PY. an tu hunc credidisti esse, obsecro, 662 uolg. aut illic pro ille reponunt edd. aut hinc ante uel post ille in-serunt: sed mutato non opus est: uersus trochaicus inter iambicos inter-cedit, ut saepe, uel supra in u. 649, ubi hic inserit Fleckeisen frustra 665 amatores mulierum esse audieram eos A: amat. aud. eos esse mul. E: amat. aud. mul. esse eos cett. 671 uestis quid Bentley:

 quid uestis codd.

80 ad nós deductum? PII. námque aliud habui néminem.

PI. au,

ne cómparandus quídem hic ad illumst: ille erat

honésta facie et líberali. PII. ita uísus est

15

dudúm, quia uaria uéste exornatús fuit.

nunc tibi uidetur foédus, quia illam nón habet.

85 PI. tace óbseero: quasi néro paulum intérsiet.

ad nós deductus hódíest adulescéntulus, quem tú uidere uéro uelles, Phaédria.

20

hic ést uietus uétus neternosús senex, colóre mustelíno. PII. hem, quae haec est fábula?

90 eo rédiges me ut quid égerim egomet nésciam.

eho tu, émin ego te? DO. enísti. PI. iube mi dénuo respóndeat. PII. roga. PI. uénisti hodie ad nós? negat. 25 at ille álter uenit ánnos natus sédecim, quem sécum adduxit Pármeno. PII. age dum hoc mi éxpedi

95 primum: ístam quam habes únde habes uestém? taces?

monstrum hóminis, non dietúr'n's? DO. uenit Chaérea.

PII. fratérne? DO. ita. PII. quando? DO. hocédie. 30

PII. quam dudúm? DO. modo.

PII. quicúm? DO. cum Parmenóne. PII. norasne

eúm prius?

DO. non. née quis esset úmquam audieram dicier.

100 PII. unde ígitur fratrem méum esse scibas? DO. Pármeno dicébat eum esse. is mi hanc dedit uestem. PII. óccidi.

DO. meam ipse induit: post úna ambo abierúnt foras. 35

PI. iám satis credis sóbriam esse me ét nil mentitám tibi?

iám satis certumst uírginem uitiátam esse? PII. age

nunc, beluae

681 nec AEL: ne cett. et Priscianus hic quidem codd.: transp.
Fleckeisen 697 hocedie Fleckeisen: hodie codd. 699 sq. uerba nec . . . dicier om. AB¹P¹: quos secutus Bentley uoc. igitur omisso unum uersum ex duobus effecit 701 sic Bentley: dedit mihi hanc ADG:

dedit mihi hanc uestem cett. 702 ambierunt A 704 beluae Fleckeisen: belua codd.

crédís huic quod dícat? PY. quid isti crédam? res 705 ipsa índicat.

PH. cóncede istim huc paúlulum: audin? étiam paululúm: sat est.

40 díe dum hoc rursum: Chaérea tuam uéstem detraxít tibi?

DO. fáctum. PH. et eamst indútus? DO. factum.

PH. et pró te huc deductúst? DO. ita.

PH. Iúppiter magne, ó scelestum atque aúdacem hominem! PY. uaé mihi:

étiam non credís indignis nós esse inrisás modis? 710

PH. mírum ni tu crédis quod iste dícat. quid agam
néscio.

45 heús negato rúrsum. possumne égo hodie ex te excúlpere uérum? uidistíne fratrem Chaéream? DO. non. PH.
nón potest

síne malo fatéri, uideo: séquere hac. modo aít módo negat.
óra me. DO. obsecró te uero, Phaédria. PH. i intro 715
núnciam.

DO. oíei. PH. alio pácto honeste hinc quó modo abeam néscio.

50 áctumst, siquidem tú me hic etiam, nébulo, ludificábere.—

PY. Pármemonis tám scio esse hanc téchinam quam me uínere.

DOR. síc est. PY. inueniám pol hodie, párem ubi referam grátiam.

séd nunc quid faciúndum censes, Dórias? DOR. de 720
istáe rogas

uírgine? PY. ita, ntrum praédicemne an táceam?

DOR. tu pol, sí sapis,

706 istim huc Dziatzko: istuc codd. etiam paululum Umpfenbach:
etiam nunc paululum codd.: etiam nunc paulum uolg. 710 credis codd.: credes Bothe 711 credis G. Fabricius: credas codd. 716 quo modo hinc codd.: transp. Bothe 718 techinam Ritschl:
technam, tehnam, teganam, codd. 721 taceamne an praedicem
codd.: transp. Bentley

quód seis neseis néque de eunucho néque de uitio uírginis. 55 hác re et te omni túrba euolues ét illi gratum féceris.

íd modo dic, abísse Dorum. PY. ita fáciam. DOR.

sed uideón Chremem?

725 Tháïs iam aderit. PY. quíd ita? DOR. quia, quom inde ábeo, iam tum incéperat túrba inter eos. PY. áufer aurum hoc. égo scibo ex hoc quíd siet.

CHREMES PYTHIAS

v

CH. Attát data herele uérba mihi sunt: uicít uinum quód bibi.

at dum ádeubabam, quám uidebar míhi pulchre esse sóbrus!

postquám surrexi, néque pes neque mens sátis suom officiúm facit.

730 PY. Chremés. CH. quis est? ehem Pýthias: uah, quánto nunc formónsior uidére mihi quam dúdum! PY. certo tú quidem pol 5 multo hílarior.

CH. uerbum hérele hoc uerum erít ‘sine Cerere et Lí-bero frigét Venus.’

sed Tháïs multon ánte uenit? PY. án abiit iam a mílite?

CH. iam dúdum, aetatem. lítes faetae súnt inter eos máximae.

735 PY. nil díxit, tu ut sequerére sese? CH. níl, nisi abiens mi ínnuít.

PY. cho, nónnie id sat erat? CH. át nescibam id dícere 10
illam, nísi quia

corréxit miles, quód intellexi mínus; nam me extrusít foras.
sed eecam ípsam: miror íbi ego huic antenórterim.

722 de istoc eunucho A: unde Fleckeisen quod seis neseis de isto eunucho aeque ac de uitio uirginis: ceterum scias codd. plerique et Eugraph. in lemm.: seis Donat. in lemm. ter 733 multon Hare:
multo codd.

vi

THAIS

CHREMES

PYTHIAS

TH. Crédo equidem illum iam ádfuturum esse, út illam a me eripiát : sine ueniat.

átqui si illam dígitó attigerit úno, oculi ilico écfodientur. 740 úsque adeo [ego] illius férre possum inéptiam et magnífica uerba,

uérba dum sint; uérum enim si ad rem cóferentur, uápulabit.

5 CH. Tháïs, ego iam dúdum hic adsum. TH. o mí Chremes, te ipsum éxspectabam.

scín tu turbam hanc própter te esse fáctam? et adeo ad te áttinere hanc ómnem rem? CH. ad me? quí quaeso istuc? TH. quía, 745 dum tibi sorórem studeo

rédde ac restítuere, haec atque huíus modi sum múlta passa.

CH. úbi east? TH. domi apud me. CH. hém. TH.
quid est?

10 éducta ita uti téque illaque dígnumst. CH. quid aïs?
TH. íd quod res est.

hánc tibi do donó neque repeto pro ílla quicquam abs té preti.

CH. et habétur et referétur, Tháïs, [tibi] íta uti merita's 750 grátia.

TH. át enim caue, ne priús quam hanc a me accípias amittás, Chremes ;

nam haéc east quam míles a me uí nunc ereptúm uenit.
15 abi tú, eistellam, Pýthias, domo écfér eum monuméntis.

CH. uiden tu illum, Tháïs, PY. úbi sitast? TH. in rísco : odiosa céssas?

741 ego secl. Bentley
ipsum expeto

743 expecto Σ : unde Fleckeisen te 745 quaeso Bentley 'ex libris': quasi codd.
750 tibi quod om. Σ secl. Bentley : tibi ita ut Umpfenbach, sed uti codd.

55 CH. mílitem secum ád te quantas cópias addúcere?
 áttat . . . TH. num formídulosus óbseero es, mi homo?
CH. ápage sis:
 égon formidulósus? nemost hómínium qui uinát minus.
TH. átque ita opust. CH. ah, métuo qualem tú me 20 esse hominem exístumes.

TH. ínmo hoc cogitáto: quicum rés tibist, peregrínus est;
 30 mínus potens quam tú, minus notus, mínus amicorum híc habens.

CH. scío istuc. sed tu quód cauere póssis, stultum ad-mittere est.

málo ego nos prospícere quam hunc ulcései accepta iniúria.
 tú abi atque obsera óstium intus, dúm ego hinc trans- 25
 curro ád forum:

uólo ego adesse hic áduocatos nóbis in turba hác. TH.
 mane.

35 CH. mélius est. TH. omítte. CH. iam adero. TH.
 níl opus est istís, Chremes.

hóc modo die, sorórem esse illam tuam ét te paruam uírginem

ámisisse, núnc cognosse. sígna ostende. PI. adsúnt.

TH. cape.

sí uim faciet, ín ius ducito hómínem: intellextín? CH. 30 probe.

TH. fác animo haec praesénti dicas. CH. fáciam.

TH. attolle pállium.

70 périi, huic ipsist ópus patrono, quém defensorém paro.

THRASO GNATHO SANGA CHREMES THAIS vii

THR. Huncíne ego ut contuméliam tam insígnem in me accipíam. Gnatho?

morí me satiust. Símalio, Donáx, Syrisee, séquimini.

765 sic A: TH. mane. CH. omitte iam adero 2
 Donat.: illam tuam esse A 766 sic 2 et primum aedis expugnabo. GN. recte. THR. uirginem eripiám. GN. probe.

THR. male muleabo ipsam. GN. pulchre. THR. in medium huc agmen cum nocte í, Donax;

5 tu, Símalio, in sinístrum cornum; tú, Syrisce, in dexterum. 775 cedo álios: ubi centúriost Sanga et mánipulus furum?

SA. ecceum adest.

THR. quid ignáue? peniculón pugnare, qui ístum huc portes, cógitas?

SA. egon? ímperatorís uirtutem nóueram et uim mílitum; sine sáanguine hoc non pósse fieri: qui ábstergerem uólnera.

10 THR. ubi álii? SA. qui malum 'álii'? solus Sánnio 780 seruát domi.

THR. tu hosce ínstrue; ego ero hic póst principia: inde ómnibus signúm dabo.

GN. illúe est sapere: ut hósee instruxit, ípse sibi cauít loco.

THR. idem hóc iam Pyrrus fáctitauit. CH. uíden tu, Tháïs, quam híc rem agit?

ní mírum, consílium illud rectumst de óccludendis aédibus.

15 TH. sané quod tibi nunc uír uideatur ésse hic, nebulo 785 mágnus est:

ne métuas. THR. quid uidétur? GN. fundam tíbi nunc nimis uellém dari, ut tu illos procul hinc éx occulto caéderes: facerént fugam.

THR. sed ecceam Tháidem ípsam uideo. GN. quám mox inruimús? THR. mane:

ómnia prius éxperiri quam ármis sapientém decet.

20 quí scis an quae iúbeam sine uí fáciat? GN. di uostrám 790
fidem,

quántist sapere! núnquam accedo, quín abs te abeam dóctior.

774 i ins. Fleckeisen 777 istut A: istunc BCEFP 779 sic Σ: fieri non posse A 781 Fleckeisen: hic ego ero uel ego hic ero codd.

THR. Tháïs, primum hoc míhi responde : quóm tibi do istam uírginem, díxtin hos diés mihi soli dáre te? TH. quid tum póstea?

THR. rógitas? quae mi ante óculos coram amátorem adduxít tuom

95 TH. quíd cum illoc agás? THIR. et cum eo té clam 25 subduxít mihi?

TH. lúbuit. THIR. Pamphilam érgo huc redde, nísi ui mauis éripi.

CH. tíbi illam reddat aút tu eam tangas, ómnium . . . ?

GN. ah, quíd agís? tace.

THR. quíd tu tibi uis? égo non tangam meám? CH. tuam autem, fúrcifer?

GN. cáue sis: nescis quóí male dicas núnc uiro. CH. non tu hínc abis?

10 scín tu ut tibi res se hábeat? si quicquam hódie hic 30 turbae coéperis, fáciam ut huius locí dieique meíque semper mémineris.

GN. míseret tui me qui húnce tantum hominem fácias inimiciúm tibi.

CH. díminuam ego tibi caput hodie, nísi abis. GN. ain ueró, canis?

síceine agís? THIR. quis tú homo es? quíd uis tibi? quíd cum illa reí tibist?

05 CH. scíbis: principio éam esse dico líberam, THR. 35 hem. CH. cinem Átticam, THIR. hui.

CH. meám sororem. THIR. os dúrum! CH. miles, núnc adeo edicó tibi né uim facias úllam in illam. Tháïs, ego eo ad Sóphronam nútricem, ut eam addúcam et signa osténdam haec.

THIR. tun me próhibeas

meám ne tangam? CH. próhibebo inquam. GN. audín tu? hic furti se ádligat:

793 hos míhi diés A 795 agís D¹G¹F²: unde Fleckeisen quin cum illo nunc agís? 804 uis tibi Fleckeisen: tibi uis codd.

40 sāt hoc tibist. THR. idem hōc tu, Thaïs? TH. quāere 810 qui rēpondeat.—

THR. quid nunc agimus? GN. quā redeamus: hāec tibi iam aderit supplicans ūltro. THR. credin? GN. immo certe: nōui ingenium mūlierum:

nōlunt ubi uelīs, ubi nolis cūpiunt ultro. THR. bēne putas.

GN. iam dimitto exēritum? THR. ubi uis. GN. Sānga, ita ut fortīs deest

45 mīlites, domī focique fāc uicissim ut mēmineris. 815

SA. iam dudum animus ēst in patinis. GN. frūgi es.

THR. nos me hae sēquimini.

ACTVS V

i

THAIS PYTHIAS

TH. Pergin, scelestā, mēcum perplexē loqui?

‘scio, nescio, abiit, audiui, ego non adfui.’

non tu istuc mihi dietūra aperte es quidquid est?

uirgō conscissa uēste lacrumans obticet; 820

5 eunūchus abiit: quam ōb rem aut quid factūmst? taces?

PY. quid tibi ego dicam misera? illum eunuchū negant fuisse. TH. quis fuit igitur? PY. iste Chaērea.

TH. qui Chaērea? PY. iste ephēbus frater Phaēdriae.

TH. quid aī, uenefica? PY. atqui certe cōperī. 825

10 TH. quid is ōbsecro ad nos? quam ōb rem adductust?

PY. nescio;

nisi amāsse credo Pāmphilam. TH. hem, misera occidi, infelix, siquidem tu istaec uera praedicās.

num id lācrumat uirgo? PY. id opīnor. TH. quid aīs, sācilega?

istūcine intermināta sum hinc abiēns tibi? 83

810 sat Fleckeisen: satis codd.: hoc om. Bentley idem hoc tu, Thaïs Dziatzko: idem tu hoc ais Thaïs et A¹: quid nunc tu ais Thaïs A ut legit Studemund 811 quid redeamus A¹ 825 certo DFB: certe cett.

PY. quid fácerem? ita ut tu iústi, soli eréditast. 15

TH. seelésta, lupo onem cómmisisti. díspudet sie míbi data esse uérba. quid illud hómínis est?

PY. era méa, tace tace óbsecro, saluaé sumus:

35 habémus hominem ipsum. TH. úbi is est? PY. em ad sinísteram.

uiden? TH. uídeo. PY. comprehendí iube, quantúm potest. 20

TH. quid illó faciemus, stúlta? PY. quid faciás, rogas?

uide amábo, si non, quom áspicias, os ípudens uidétur! TH. non est. PY. túm quae eius confidéntiast!

CHAEREA

THAIS

PYTHIAS

ii

40 CH. Apud Ántiphonem utérque, mater ét pater, quasi dédita opera dómi erant, ut nulló modo intro íre possem quín uiderent me. ínterim dum ante óstium sto, nótus míhi quidam óbuiam uenít. ubi uidi, ego me ín pedes quantúm queo 5

45 in ángiportum quóddam desertum, índé item in áliud, inde in áliud: ita misérrumus fuí fugitando, né quis me cognósceret.

sed éstne haec Thaís quám uideo? ipsast. haéreo quid fáciam. quid mea aútem? quid faciét míhi? 10

50 TH. adeámus. bone uir Dóre, salne: díe míhi, aufígistin? CH. era, fáctum. TH. satine id tíbi placet?

CH. non. TH. erédin te ínpune hábiturum? CH. unam

hane nóxiam

amítte: si aliam admísero unquam, occídito.

TH. num meám saenitiam uéritus es? CH. non. TH. 15

quíd igitur?

831 facerem misera et iussisti *A*¹ ouem lupo codd.

835 sinisteram Faërnus: sinistram codd.

836 uidesne ADG iube comprehendi DEG

839 personarum

notas secundum *D*²*GE*² distribui: uerba quid facias . . . confidentiast Pythiae continent cett. 844 ego me Bentley: egomet codd.

846 inde *A*²: deinde *A*¹: de induxit *A*²

- CH.* hanc métui ne me críminaretúr tibi. 85b
TH. quid féceras? CH. paulúm quiddam. PY. eho ‘paulum,’ ínpudens?
 an paúlum hoc esse tibi uidetur, uírginem uitiáre ciuem? CH. cónservam esse crédidi.
 20 PY. consérvam? uix contíneo me quin ínuolem monstro ín capillum: etiam últro derisum áduenit. 860
TH. abin hínc, insana? PY. quíd ita uero? débeam, credo, ísti quicquam fúrcifero, id si fécerim;
 praesérтим quom se séruom fateatúr tuom.
 25 TH. missa haéc faciamus. nón te dignum, Chaérea, fecísti; nam si ego dígna hac contumélia 865 sum máxume, at tu indígnus qui facerés tamen.
 neque édepol quid nunc cónsili capíam scio de uírgine istac: íta conturbastí mihi 30 ratiónes omnis, út eam non possím suis ita ut aéquom fuerat átque ut studui trádere, 870 ut sólídum parerem hoc mí beneficium, Chaérea.
CH. at núnc dehinc spero aetérnam inter nos grátiam fore. Tháïs. saepe ex huíus modi re quápiam 35 maló principio mágna familiáritas 875 conflátast. quid si hoc quíspiam uoluít deus?
TH. equidém pol in eam pártem accipioque ét uolo.
CH. immo íta quaeso. unum hoc scíto, contumélie non mé fecisse caúsa, sed amorís. TH. scio, 40 et pól propterea mágis nunc ignoscó tibi. 880 non ádeo inhumano íngenio sum, Chaérea, neque ita ínperita, ut quíd amor ualeat nésciam.
CH. te quóque iam, Tháïs, íta me di bene amént, amo.
PY. tum pól tibi ab istoc, éra, cauendum intéllego.

859 sic Fleckeisen: me contineo codd. 860 Fleckeisen: in capillum monstrum codd. 862 id si Fleckeisen: si id codd. 871 beneficium codd., recte, ut uidetur: uid. Lindsay ad Plaut. Capt. p. 73:
 beneficium Fleckeisen 874 et uel ex uel e malo codd.: quapiam et | malo pr. Bentley

CH. non aúsim. PY. nil tibi quícquam credo. TH. 45
désinas.

35 CH. nunc égo te in hac re mi óro ut adiutríx sies; ego mé tuae comméndo et committó fide;
te míhi patronam cápío, Thaïs, te óbsecro:
emóriar, si non hanc uxorem dúxero.

TH. tamen sí pater quid . . . ? CH. áh nolet, certó scio, 50
cuiús modo haec sit. TH. paúlulum opperírier si uís, iam frater ípse hic aderit uírginis;
nutrícem accersitum íit, quae illam aluit páruolam:
in cógnoscendo túte ípse aderis, Chaérea.

CH. ego uéro maneo. TH. uín interea, dúm uenit, 55
domi ópperiamur pótius quam hic ante óstium?

CH. immó perecupio. PY. quám tu rem actura óbsecro es?

TH. nam quíd ita? PY. rogítas? húnce tu in aedis cógítas

recípere posthac? TH. quór non? PY. crede hoc meae fide,

dabit híc pugnam aliquam dénuo. TH. au, tace óbsecro. 60

00 PY. parúm perspexisse eúus uidere audáciam.

CH. non fáciam, Pythías. PY. non credo, Chaérea, nisi sí commissum nóñ erit. CH. quin, Pýthias, tu mé seruato. PY. néque pol seruandúm tibi quicquám dare ausim néque te seruare: ápage te. 65

05 TH. adest óptume ípse fráter. CH. perii herele: óbsecro abeámus intro, Thaïs: nolo me ín uia cum hac uéste uideat. PY. quam ób rem tandem? an quía pudet?

CH. id ípsum. PY. id ípsum? uírgo uero! TH. i praé, sequor.

tu istíc mane, ut Chremem íntro ducas, Pýthias. 70

889 Bentley: si pater . . . CH. quid? codd.
uerba quam . . . pudet Thaidi dant codd.

907 Dziatzko:

iii PYTHIAS CHREMES SOPHRONA

- PI.* Quid, quid uenire in mentem nunc possit mihi, 910 quid nam, qui referam sacrilego illi gratiam, qui hunc supposiuit nobis? CH. moue te oro ocius, mea nutrix. SO. moneo. CH. uideo, sed nil promoues.
- 5 PI. iamne ostendisti signa nutrici? CH. omnia.
PI. amabo, quid ait? cognosceitne? CH. ac memoriter. 915
PI. probe elepol narras; nam illi faueo uirgini.
 ite intro: iam dudum era uos expectat domi. —
 uirum bonum eceum Parmenonem incedere
- 10 uideo: uide ut otiosus it! si dis placet, spero me habere, qui hunc meo excruciem modo. 920
 ibo intro, de cognitione ut certum sciam:
 post exibo atque hunc perterrebo sacrilegum.

iv PARMENO PYTHIAS

- PA.* Reuiso quid nam Chaerea hic rerum gerat.
 quod si astu rem tractauit, di uostram fidem, quantam et quam ueram laudem capiet Parmeno! 925 nam ut mittam, quod ei amorem difficillimum [et] 5 carissimum, a meretrice auara uirginem quo amabat, eum confeci sine molestia, sine sumptu, sine dispendio: tum hoc alterum, id uerost quod ego mihi puto palmarium, 930 me repperisse, quo modo adulescentulus
- 10 meretricum ingenia et mores posset noscere, mature ut quom cognorit perpetuo oderit.
 quae dum foris sunt, nil uidetur mundius, nec magis compositum quicquam nec magis elegans 935
 quam cum amatore cenam quom ligurriunt.

912 supposiuit Bentley: supposuit codd. moue . . . nutrix Fleckeisen: moue oro ocius te mea nutrix A: moue uero ocius te nutrix Σ 928 quo amabat eum Bentley: quam amabat eam codd.: fort. quem amabat eum: omissis uersu 927 et (cum edd. plerisque) et post difficillimum 936 Fleckeisen: quae cum amatore suo cum cenant ligurriunt codd.: uersum secl. post Bentleium edd. plerique harúm uidere inlúuiem sordes ínopiam, 15

quam inhonéstae solae sînt domi atque auidaé cibi, quo pácto ex iure hestérno panem atrúm uorent,

40 nosse ómnia haec salútist adulescéntulis.

PY. ego pól te pro istis fáctis et dietís, scelus, ulcísca, ut ne inípúne in nos inlúseris. 20

pró deum fidem, fácinus foedum ! o infélicem adulescéntulum !

ó scelestum Pármenonem, qui ístum huc adduxít ! PA.
quid est ?

45 PY. míseret me : itaque ut né uiderem, mísera huc ecfugí foras,

quaé futura exémpla dicunt ín eum indigna. PA. o Iúp-piter,

quaé illae turbast ? núm nam ego perii ? adíbo. quid 25
ístue, Pýthias ?

quíd aís ? in quem exémpla fient ? PY. rógitas, audacíssume ?

pérdidisti istúm quem adduxti pro eúnúcho adulescéntulum,

50 dúm studes dare nérba nobis. PA. quíd ita ? aut quid faetúmst ? cedo.

PY. dícam : uirginem ístam, Thaïdi hódie quae donó
datast,

scís eam hinc ciuem ésse ? et fratrem eius ésse adprime 30 nóbilem ?

PA. néscio. PY. atqui sic inuentast : éam istie uitiauí
miser.

ille ubi id rescíuit factum fráter uiolentíssimus,

55 PA. quíd nam fecit ? PY. cónligauit prímum eum miserís modis.

PA. cónligauit ? PY. átque equidem orante út ne id faceret Tháïde.

940 saluti Bentley: salus codd.
hinc Σ

952 hinc ciuem A: ciuem

- 35 PA. quíd aïs? PI. nunc minátur porro sése id quod moechís solet :
quód ego nunquam uídi fieri néque uelim. PA. qua audácia tántum facinus aúdet? PI. quid ita ‘tántum’? PA.
an non hoc máximumst?
quís homo pro moeoho únquam uidit ín domo meretrícia 960 préndi quemquam? PI. néscio. PA. at ne hoc nésciatis, Pýthias,
40 díco, edico uóbis nostrum esse íllum erilem fílium. PI.
hem,
óbseero, an is est? PA. né quam in illum Tháïs uim fierí sinat!
átque adeo autem quór non egomet íntro eo? PI.
uide, Pármeno, quíd agas, ne neque ílli prosis ét tu pereas; nam hóc putant, 965
quídquid factumst éx te esse ortum. PA. quíd igitur
faciám miser?
45 quídue incipiam? ecce autem uideo rúre redeuntém senem.
dícam huic an non dicam? dicam hercle; étsi mihi magnúm malum
seío paratum; séd necessest, huíc ut subueniám. PI. sapis.
égo abeo intro: tú isti narra omne órline, ut factúm siet. 970

v [DEMEA seu LACHES?] PARMENO

SE. Ex meó propinquo rúre hoc capio cómmodi:
neque agrí neque urbis ódium me umquam pércipit.
ubi sáticas coepit fíeri, commutó locum.

sed estne ílle noster Pármeno? et certe ípsus est.

5 quem praéstolare, Pármeno, hic ante óstium? 975

PA. quis homóst? ehem, saluom te áduenire, ere, gaúdeo.

SE. quem praéstolare? PA. périi: lingua haerét metu.

968 dicam alterum ins. Bentley
omnem ordinem codd. fort. recte

970 omne ordine Faërnus:

SE. quid ést quod trepidas? sátime salue? díe mihi.

PA. ere, prímum te arbitrári id quod res ést uelim :

980 huius quídkuid factumst, cúlpa non factúmst mea. 10

SE. quid? PA. récte sane intérogasti : opórtuit rem praénarrasse me. émit quendam Phaédria eunúchum quem dono huíc daret. SE. quoi? PA.

Tháidi.

SE. émit? perii herele. quánti? PA. uigintí minis.

985 SE. actúmst. PA. tum quandam fídicinam amat 15

hinc Chaérea.

SE. hem, quíd? amat? an scit iam ille quid meretríx siet?

an in ástu uenit? áliud ex alió malum!

PA. ere, né me spectes : me ímpulsore haec nón facit.

SE. omítte de te dícere. ego te, fúrcifer,

990 si uíno . . . ! sed istuc quídkuid est prímum éxpedi. 20

PA. is pro illo eunucho ad Tháidem hanc dedúctus est.

SE. pro eunúchon? PA. sic est. húnc pro moecho póstea compréndere intus ét constrinxere. SE. óccidi.

PA. audáciam meretrícum specta. SE. núm quid est

995 aliúd mali damnúe quod non díxeris 25

reliéuom? PA. tantumst. SE. céssó huc intro rúmpere? —

PA. non dúbiumst quin mi mágnum ex hac re sít malum ;

nisi, quía necessus fúit hoc facere, id gaúdeo proptér me hisce aliquid ésse euenturúm mali.

000 nam iám diu aliquam caúsam quaerebát senex 30

quam ob rem ínsigne aliquid fáceret eis : nunc répperit.

PYTHIAS PARMENO

vi

PF. Numquam édepol quiequam iám diu quod mágis nellem eueníre

mi euénit quam quod módo senex intro ád nos uenit érrans.

mihí sólae ridiculó fuit quae quíd timeret scíbam.

980 Fleckeisen : quidquid huius codd.
codd.

985 hinc Bentley : hic

PA. quid hoc aútemst? PY. nunc id pródeo ut con- 1005 uéniam Parmenónem.

5 sed ubi óbseero est? PA. me quaérit haec. PY.
atque éccum uideo: adíbo.

PA. quid ést, inepta? quid tibi est? quid rídes? per-gin? PY. péríi:

deféssa iam sum mísera te ridéndo. PA. quid ita?
PY. rógitas?

numquám pol hominem stúltiorem uídi nec uidébo. ah, non póssum satis narráre quos ludós prae bueris íntus. 1010

10 at étiam primo cállidum et disértum credídi hóminem.
quid? ílicone crédere ea quae díxi oportuít te?

an paénitebat flágiti, te auctóre quod fecísset aduléscens, ni miserum ínsuper etiám patri indicáres?

nam quíd illi credis túm animi fuísse, ubi uestem uídit 1015 15 illam ésse eum indutúm pater? quid? iám scis te perísse?

PA. hem, quód dixisti, péssuma, an mentíta es? etiám rídes?
itan lépidum tibi uisúmst, seelus, nos ínridere? PY.
nímium.

PA. siquidem ístuc inpune hábueris...! PY. uerúm?

PA. reddam hercle. PY. crédo:

sed ín diem istuc, Pármeno, est fortásse quod mináre. 1020

20 tu iám pendebis, ádulescentulum ístum qui nobílitas flagítiis et eundem índicas: utérque ín te exempla édent.

PA. nullús sum. PY. hic pro illo múnere tibi honós est habitus: ábeo.

PA. egomét meo indicíó miser quasi sórex hodie péríi.

vii GNATHO THRASO PARMENO

GN. Quíd nunc? qua spe aut quó consilio huc ímus? 102 quid coeptás, Thraso?

1007 tibi est Bentley: tibi uis codd. 1015 animi tum codd.:
transp. Bentley 1017 quod Fleckeisen: quid codd. ceterum dixti codd., unde Fleckeisen hem | quod dudum dixti 1021 Dziatzko: qui stultum istum adulescentulum uel qui istum ad. (om. stultum) codd.

TH. égone? ut Thaídí me dedam et fáciam quod iubeát. GN. quid est?

TH. quí minus quam Herculés seruiuit Ómphalae?
GN. exemplúm placet.

útinam tibi commítigari uídeam sandalió caput!

séd fores erepnérunt ab ea. TH. péríi: quid hoc au- 5 témst mali?

030 húnc ego numquam uíderam etiam: quíd nam hic pro-perans prósilít?

CHAEREA PARMENO GNATHO THRASO viii

CH. Ó populares, écquis me hodie uíuit fortunátior?
nemo hércle quisquam; nam ín me plane dí potestaté suam omnem óstendere quó tam subito tót congruerint cómoda.

PA. quid hic laétus est? CH. o Pármeno mi, o meárum uoluptatum ómnium

035 inuénor inceptór perfector, scís me in quibus sim gaúdiis? 5 seis Pámphilam meam inuénitam eiúem? PA. audíui.

CH. seis sponsám mihi?

PA. bene, íta me dí ament, fáctum. GN. audin tu, hic quíd aít? CH. tum autem Phaédriae meo frátri gaudeo ésse amorem omnem ín tranquillo:

unást domus;

patri se Thaís cómmendauit, ín clientelam ét fidem

040 nobís dedit se. PA. frátris igitur Thaís totast? CH. 10 scílicet.

PA. iam hoc áliud est quod gaúdeamus: míles pelletúr foras.

CH. tu fráter ubi ubi est fác quam primum haec aúdiat. PA. uisám domum. —

TH. num quíd, Gnatho, tu dúbitas quin ego núne per-petuo péríerim?

GN. sine dúbio opinor. CH. quíd commemorem prímum aut laudem máxime?

1039 Fleckeisen: Thaís patri se codd.

15 illúmne qui mihi dédit consilium ut fácerem, an me qui 1045 id áusus sim

incípere, an fortunám conlaudem, quae gubernatríx fuit, quae tót res tantas tam óportune in únun conclusít diem, an meí patris festiuitatem et fáclitatem? o Iúppiter, serua óbsecro haec bona nóbis!

ix PHAEDRIA CHAEREA THRASO GNATHO

PH. Di uostrám fidem, incredíbilia

20 Pármeno modo quae narrauit. séd ubist frater? CH. 1050 praesto adest.

PH. gaúdeo. CH. satis erédo. nil est Tháide hae, fratér, tua

dígnius quod amétur: ita nostrae ómnist fautríx fámiliae.

PH. míhi illam laudas? TH. périi, quanto mínus spei est tanto mágis amo.

óbsecro, Gnatho, in te spes est. GN. quíd uis faciam?

TH. pérfee hoc

25 préciбус pretio, ut haéream in parte áliqua tandem 1055 apud Tháidem.

GN. dífficilest. TH. si quíd conlubitumst, nóui te.
hoc si efféceris,

quódnis donum praémium a me optáto: id optatum aúferes.

GN. itane? TH. sic erít. GN. si efficio hoc, póstulo ut mihi túa domus

té praesente absénte pateat, innocato ut sít locus

30 sémper. TH. do fidém futurum. GN. adcíngar. PH. 1060 quem ego hic aúdio?

ó Thraso. TH. saluète. PH. tu fortásse quae facta híc sient

néscis. TH. scio. PH. quor érgo in his te cónspicor regiónibus?

1049 post nobis noua scaena incipit in CFP: continuant cett.

1062 Fleckeisen: ergo (uel te ergo) in his ego codd.

TH. uóbis fretus. PII. scín quam fretus? míses, edicó tibi, sí te in platea offéndero hac post úmquam, quod dicás mihi 1065 'álium quaerebam, íter hac habui': périisti. GN. heia, 35 haud síc decet.

PII. díctumst. GN. non cognóscó uostrum tám superbum . . . PII. síc ago.

GN. priús audite paúcis: quod quom díxero, si pláuerit, fácitote. CH. audiámus. GN. tu concéde paulum istúe, Thraso.

príncipio ego uos crédere ambos hóc mihi uementér uelim, 1070 me híius quidquid fácio id facere máxume causá mea; 40 nérum idem sí uólis prodest, uós non facere inseítiaſt.

PII. quíd id est? GN. militem égo riuaſem récipiun-dum cénſeo. PII. hem, récipiundum? GN. cógita modo: tu héreſe cum illa, Phaédria,

út lubenter úiſis (etenim béne lubenter uétitas), 44 1075 quód des paulumſt, ét neceſſeſt múltnm accipere Tháidem.
 út tuo amori súppeditare póſſint ſine ſumptú tuo ómnia haec, magis ópportunus née magis ex uſú tuo némot. príncipio ét habet quod det ét dat nemo lárſius.
 fátuos eſt, inſúſus, tardus, stérſit noctis ét dies:

1080 néque iſtum metuas né amet mulier: fáciſe pellas úbi uelis. 50
CH. quíd agimur? GN. praetéreſe hoc etiam, quód ego uel primúm puto,

áccipit homo némo melíus prórſus neque prolíxius.

CH. mírum ní illoſe hómíne quoquo pácto opuſt. PII.
 idem ego árbítror.

GN. récte faeítis. únnum etiam hoc uos óro, ut me in uoſtrúm gregem

1085 récipíatis: sátiſ diu hoc iam sáxum uorſo. PII. récipimur. 55

1068 CH A: PII Σ paululum codd. hic et in u. 1075 1069 Fleckeisen ambos credere codd. 1071 si idem codd.: transp. Fleck- eisen 1076 possint . . . omnia haec Bentley: possit . . . ad omnia haec codd.

CH. áe lubenter. GN. át ego pro isto, Phaédria et tu Chaérea, húnc comedendum uóbis propino ét deridendúm. CH. placet.

PH. dignus est. GN. Thraso, úbi uis accede. TH. ób-seero te, quíd agimus?

GN. quíd? isti te ignorábant: postquam eis móres ostendí tuos

60 ét conlaudauí secundum fácta et uirtutés tuas, 1090 ímpetraui. TH. béne fecisti: grátiam habeo máxumam.
númquam etiam fui úsquam quin me amárent omnes plúrimum.

GN. díxin ego in hoc ésse uobis Átticam elegántiam?

PH. níl praeter promíssum est. ite hac. CANTOR.
uós nalete et plaúdite!

1087 sic codd.: Bentley hunc comedendum et ebibendum uobis propino eruit ex Nonio: ceterum praebebo pro propino EFP, unde praebeo Faërnus 1092 omnes amarent codd.: transp. Fleckeisen

PHORMIO

NCIPIT · TERENTI · PHORMIO · ACTA · LVDIS · ROMANIS · L
OSTVMIO · ALBINO · L · CORNELIO · MERVLA · AEDILIB · CVRVLIB
GERE · L · AMBIVIVS · TVRPIO · [L · IATILIVS · PRAENESTINVS]
IODOS · FECIT · FLACCVS · CLAVDI · TIBIS · INPARIB · TOTA
GRAECA · APOLLODORV · EPIDICAZOMENOS · FACTA · IIII · C 5
ANNIO · M · VALERIO · COS

Dedi secundum C

C. SVLPICI APOLLINARIS PERIOCHA

- Chremétis frater áberat peregre Démipho relieto Athenis Ántiphone filio.
Chremés clam habebat Lémui uxorem et filiam,
Athénis aliam cóniugem et amantem únice
5 fidéinam gnatum. máter e Lemno ádvenit Athénas ; moritur ; uírgo sola (áberát Chremes) funús procurat. ibi eam cum nisan Ántipho amáret, opera párasiti uxorem áccipit.
pater ét Chremes reuérsti fremere. deín minas 10 trigínta dant parasíto, ut illam cóniugem habéret ipse : argénto hoc emitur fidicina.
uxórem retinet Ántipho a patruo ádgnitam.

PERSONAE

[PROLOGVS]	HEGIO	} ADVOCATI
DAVOS SERVOS	CRATINVS
GETA SERVOS	CRITO
ANTIPIO ADVLESCENS	DORIO LENO
PHAEDRIA ADVLESCENS	CHREMES SENEX
DEMIPHO SENEX	SOPHRONA NVTRIX
PHORMIO PARASITVS	NAVSISTRATA MATRONA
	CANTOR

3 et 4 : ac Σ 5 gnatum fidicinam codd. : transp. Fleckeisen
8 cum ante amaret exhibent codd. : transp. Fleckeisen.

PROLOGVS

- POSTQVÁM poëta uetus poëtam nón potest retráhere a studio et tránsdere hominem in ótium, maledíctis deterrére ne scribát parat ;
 qui ita díctitat, quas ánte hic fecit fábulas 5 tenui ésse oratióne et scripturá leui : 5 quia núsquam insanum scrípsit adulescéntulum ceruám uidere fúgere et sectarí canes et eám plorare, oráre ut subueniát sibi.
 quod si íntellegeret, quóm stetit olím noua, 10 actóris opera mágis stetisse quám sua, 10 minus múlto audacter quám nunc laedit laéderet.
 nunc sí quis est qui hoc dícat aut sic cógitet : ‘ uetus sí poëta nón lacessissét prior, nullum ínuenire prólogum possét nouos 15 quem díceret, nisi habéret cui male díceret : 15 is síbi responsum hoc hábeat, in medio ómnibus palmam ésse positam qui ártem tractant músicam.
 ille ád famem hunc a stúdio studuit réicere :
 hic rêspondere uóluit, non lacéssere.
 20 benedíctis si certásset, audissét bene : 20 quod ab illo adlatumst, [id] síbi esse rellatúm putet.
 de illó iam finem fáciam dicundí mihi, peccándi quom ipse dé se finem nón facit.
 nunc quíd uelim ánimum atténdite : adportó nouam
 25 Epídicażomenon quám uocant comoédiam 25
 Graecé, Latine hic Phórmionem nóminat,

4 ante hic Bentley : ante uel antehac codd. 14 posset Bentley :
 potuisset codd. 21 id secl. Dziatzko id sibi rellatum Fleckeisen 26 Bentley : Graeci, Latini Phormionem nominant codd.

quia primas partis qui aget, is erit Phormio parasitus, per quem res geretur maxime, voluntas nostra si ad poetam accesserit.

30 date operam, adeste aequo animo per silentium, ne simili utamur fortuna atque usi sumus quem per tumultum noster grex motus locost;
quem actoris uirtus nobis restituit locum bonitasque uostra adiutans atque aequanimitas.

ACTVS I

DAVOS

i

- 35 Amicus summus meus et popularis Geta heri ad me uenit. erat ei de ratione iam pridem apud me reliquum pauculum nummorum: id ut conficerem. confeci: adfero.
nam erilem filium eius duxisse audio 5
- 40 uxorem: ei credo munus hoc conratur.
quam inique comparatumst, ei qui munus habent ut semper aliquid addant ditioribus!
quod ille inciatim uix de demensio suo suum defrudans genium conpersit miser, 10
- 45 id illa inuicem abripit, haud existimans quanto labore partum. porro autem Geta ferietur alio munere, ubi era pepererit;
porro autem alio, ubi erit puero natalis dies;
ubi initiabunt. omne hoc mater auferet: 15
- 50 puer causa erit mittendi. sed uideon Getam?

GETA DAVOS

ii

GE. Si quis me quaeret rufus . . DA. praestost, desine.

GE. oh,

at ego obuiam conabar tibi, Daue. DA. accipe, em:
lectumst: conueniet numerus quantum debui.

GE. amio te, et non neclixisse habeo gratiam.

- 55 DA. praesertim ut nunc sunt mores: adeo res redit: 5 si quis quid reddit, magna habendast gratia.
sed quid tu es tristis? GE. egone? nescis quo in metu. [et] 42 diuinitioribus codd. praeter EL omnes exhibent 57 et secl.

Fleckeisen

- quanto in periculo sumus! DA. quid istuc est? GE. scies, modo ut tacere possis. DA. abi sis, insciens:
- 10 quous tu fidem in pecunia perspexeris, 60
uerere uerba ei credere? ubi quid mihi lucrist te fallere? GE. ergo ausculta. DA. hanc operam tibi dico.
- GE.* senis nostri, Dane, fratrem maiorem Chremem nostin? DA. quid ni? GE. quid? eius gnatum Phaé-driam?
- 15 DA. tam quam te. GE. euenit senibus ambobus simul, 65
iter illi in Lemnum ut esset, nostro in Ciliciam ad hospitem antiquum. is senem per epistulas pelléxit, modo non montis auri pollicens.
- DA.* quoi tanta erat res et supererat? GE. desinas:
20 sic est ingenium. DA. oh, regem me esse oportuit. 70
GE. abeuntes ambo hic tum senes me filius relinquunt quasi magistrum. DA. o Geta, prouinciam cepisti duram. GE. mi usus uenit, hoc scio:
memini relinqui me deo irato meo.
- 25 coepi aduersari primo: quid uerbis opust? 75
seni fidelis dum sum, scapulas perdidit.
- DA.* uenere in mentem mi istae: namque inscitiast, aduorsum stimulum calces. GE. coepi eis omnia facere, obsequi quae uellent. DA. scisti uti foro.
- 30 GE. noster mali nil quicquam primo; hic Phaédria 80
continuo quandam nactus est puellulam citharistram: hanc amare coepit perdit.
- ea seruiebat lenoni impurissimo, neque quod daretur quicquam: id curarant patres.
- 35 restabat aliud nil nisi oculos pascere, 85
sectari, in ludum ducere et redducere.
operam otiosi nos dabamus Phaédriae.

77 namque codd.: num quae edd. ant.
operam codd.

87 Fleckeisen: nos otiosi

- in quo haec discebat ludo, exaduorsum ei loco tonstrina erat quaedam : hic solebamus fere 90 plerumque eam opperiri, dum inde ireret domum. 40 interea dum sedimus illi, interuenit adulescens quidam laerumans. nos mirarier ;
 rogamus quid sit. 'numquam aeque' inquit 'ac modo paupertas mihi onus visumst et miserum et graue.
 95 modo quandam nidi uirginem hic uiciniae 45 miseram suam matrem lamentari mortuam.
 ea sita erat exaduorsum neque illi beniuolus neque notus neque cognatus extra unam aniculam quisquam aderat qui adiutaret funus : miseritumst.
 100 uirgo ipsa facie egrégia.' quid uerbis opust? 50 commemorat omnis nos. ibi continuo Antipho
 'uoltisne eamus uisere?' alius 'censeo :
 eamus : duc nos sodes.' imus, uenimus, uidemus. uirgo pulchra, et quo magis diceret, 105 nil aderat adiumenti ad pulchritudinem : 55
 capillus passus, nudus pes, ipsa horrida, lacrimae, uestitus turpis ; ut, ni uis boni in ipsa inesset forma, haec formam exstinguerent.
 ille qui illam amabat fiduciam tantum modo 110 'satis' inquit 'scitast' ; noster nero . . D.A. iam scio : 60 amare coepit. GE. scim quam? quo euadat uide.
 postridie ad anum recta pergit : obsecrat sibi ut eius faciat copiam. illa enim se negat neque eum aequom facere ait : illam cinem esse Atticam, 115 bonam bonis prognatam : si uxorém uelit, 65
 lege id licere facere ; sin aliter, negat.
 noster quid ageret nescire : et illam ducere

88 exaduorsum *D*² : exaduerso *AF*²*P*² : exaduersum cett. ei loco cum *A*²*Σ* : ilico A : in loco *D*¹ 97 beniuolus A : beniuolens uel beneuolens Σ cum *A*² 98 aniculam A Σ : ancillulam A 99 adiutaret A : adiunaret Σ 113 Fleckeisen : ut sibi eius codd.
 114 facere ait BCFP : post facere interpungunt EFP : ait facere cett.

cupiēbat et metnēbat absentēm patrem.

DA. non, sí redisset, eí pater ueniám daret?

70 GE. ille índotatam uírginem atque ignóbilem 120

daret illi? numquam fáceret. DA. quid fit dénique?

GE. quid fiat? est parasítus quidam Phórmio, homó confidens: qui illum di omnes pérduint!

DA. quid is fécit? GE. hoc consílium quod dicám dedit:

75 'lex ést ut orbae, qui sint genere próximi, 125 eis núbant, et illos dúcere eadem haec léx iubet.

ego té cognatum dicám et tibi scribám dicam;

patérnum amicum me ádsimulabo uírginis:

ad iúdicee ueniémus: qui fuerít pater,

80 quae máter, qui cognáta tibi sit, ómnia haec 130 confíngam: quod erit míhi bonum atque cómmodum, quom tu hórū nil refélles, uineam scílicet.

pater áderit: mihi parátae lites: quíd mea?

illá quidem nostra erít.' DA. ioculare audáciam.

85 GE. persuásumst homini: fáctumst: uentumst: uíncimur: 135

duxít. DA. quid narras? GE. hóc quod audis. DA.

ó Geta,

quid té futurumst? GE. néscio herele; unum hóc scio, quod fórs feret ferémus aequo animó. DA. placet:

em, istúe uirist offícium. GE. in me omnis spés mihist.

90 DA. laudo. GE. ád precatorem ádeam credo quí mihi 140 sic óret: 'nunc amítte quaeso hunc; céterum postháe si quiequam, níl precor.' tantúm modo non áddit: 'ubi ego hinc ábiero, uel occídito.'

DA. quid paédagogus ille qui citharístriam?

95 quid reí gerit? GE. sic, ténuiter. DA. non múltum habet 146 quod déť fortasse? GE. ímmo nil nisi spém meram.

127 dicam post scribam om EG qui sine dubio dicam perperam intel-legunt 130 cognati A 132 uineat A 135 persuasumst A:

persuasit Σ 140 adeam A et Eugraph. in lemm.: abeam Σ et Don.

in lemm. bis 141 amitte A et Donat.: omitte Σ 145 gerit uel erit Σ : geret A

DA. pater eius rediit án non? GE. non dum. DA.
quíd? senem

quoad éxspectatis uóstrum? GE. non certúm scio, sed epístulam ab eo adlátam esse audiui modo

150 et ad pórtitores ésse delatam: hánc petam. 100

DA. num quíd, Geta, aliud mé uis? GE. ut bene sít tibi.
puer, heús. nemon hoc pródit? cape, da hoc Dórcio.

ANTIPHO PHAEDRIA

iii

AN. Ádeon rem redísse ut qui mi cónsultum optumé uelit esse,

Phaédria, patrem ut éxtimescam, ubi ín mentem eius aduénti neniát!

155 quód ni fuíssem incógitans, ita éxspectarem, ut pár fuit.

PH. quíd istuc [est]? AN. rogitas, quí tam audacis fácinoris mihi cónsciú's?

quód utinam ne Phórmioni id suádere in mentem incéidisset 5 neú me cupidum eo ímpulisset, quód mihi principiúust mali!
nón potitus éssém: fuisset tum íllos mi aegre aliquót dies, 160 at nón cottidiána cura haec ángeret animum. PH. aúdio.

AN. dum expécto quam mox uéniat qui adimat hánc mihi consuetúdinem.

PH. aliís quia defit quód amant aegrest; tíbi quia 10
superést dolet:

amóre abundas, Ántipho.

nam túa quidem herele cérto uita haec éxpetenda optándaque est.

165 ita mé di bene ament, út mi liceat tám diu quod amó frui, iam dépecisci móрте cupio: tú conicito cétera, quid ego éx hac inopíá nunc capiam et quíd tu ex istae 15

cópia:

148 expectatis Σ: spectatis A 152 hoc A: huc Σ 155 sic A ita eum expectarem Σ 156 est secl. Bentley consciu's Dziatzko consciús sis codl.

- ut ne áddam, quod sine súmptu ingenuam, liberalem nactus es,
quod habés, ita ut uoluísti, uxorem sine mala famá palam :
beátus, ni unum désit, animus quí modeste istaée ferat. 171 quod sí tibi res sit cum eó lenone quó mihiist, tum séntias.
20 ita plérique omnes súmus ingenio: nóstri nosmet paénitet.
AN. at tú mihi contra núne uidere fórtunatus, Phaédria, quod de íntegro est potéstas etiam cónsulendi quíd uelis :
retinére amorem an míttere; ego in eum incidi infelíx locum ut néque mihi eius sit ámittendi néc retinendi cópia. 176 25 sed quíd hoc est? uideon égo Getam curréntem huc adueníre?
is est ípsus. ei, timeó miser quam hic míli nunc nuntiét rem.

iv

GETA ANTIPHIO PHAEDRIA

- GE. Núllu's, Geta, nisi áliquod iam [tibi] consílium celere réperies :
íta nunc inparátum subito tánta te inpendént mala ; 180
quae néque uti deuítém seio neque quó modo me inde éxtraham ;
4 nam nón potest celári nostra diútius iam audácia.
6 AN. quid íllíc commotús uenit?
GE. tum témporis mihi púnctum ad hanc rem est: érus adest. AN. quid illúe malist ?
GE. quód quom audierit, éus quod remedium ínueniam 185 iraécúndiae ?

171 quo A: quocum Σ 172 sumus ingenio Bentley: ingenio sumus codd. 175 Bothe: retinere amare amittere codd.: retinere an a te amittere Fleckeisen: retinere an uero amittere cum Eugraph.

Umfenbach 176 mihi eius sit $A^2\Sigma$: mihi sit A: mihi ius sit Guyet

178 misero A qui ei male accipit ut datiuom pronominis 179 iam

aliquod codd.: transp. ego tibi consilium codd.: sed tibi bis omittit Priscianus reperies Lachmann: repperies uel reppereris uel repereris codd. 181 post uersum hunc uel seq. in codd. reperitur And. 208

quae si non astu prouidentur me aut erum pessum dabunt 185 eius quod Fleckeisen: quod eius codd.

loquárne? incendam; táceam? instigem; púrgem me?
laterém lauem.

heú me miserum! quóm mihi paueo, tum Ántipho me 10
exerúciat animi:

eíus me miseret, eí nunc timeo, is núnc me retinet; nam
ábsque eo esset,

récte ego mihi uidíssem et senis essem últus iracúndiam:

90 áliquíd conuasássem atque hinc me eónicerem protinam ín pedes.

AN. quam nam híc fugam aut furtúm parat?

GE. sed ubi Ántiphonem réperiam? aut qua quaérere 15
insistám uia?

PII. te nóminat. AN. nesció quod magnum hoc núntio exspectó malum. PII. ah.

[sanusne es?] GE. domum íre pergam: ibi plúrimumst.

95 PII. reuocémus hominem. AN. sta ílico. GE. hem, sátis pro imperio, quisquis es. AN. Geta. GE. ípsest quem nolui óbuam.

AN. cédo, quid portas, óbsecro? atque id, sí potes, uerbo 20 éxpedi.

GE. fáciam. AN. eloquere. GE. módo apud portum . .

AN. metúmne? GE. intellexti. AN. óccidi.

PII. hem.

AN. quíd agam? PII. quid aís? GE. huíus patrem uidísse me, [et] patruóm tuom.

100 AN. nám quod ego huic nunc súbito exitio rémedium inueniám miser?

quód si eo meae fortúnae redeunt. Pháanium, abs te ut dístrahar.

190 conuassassem ACD¹E²F in ras. P¹: conuasíssem cett. protinam E: protinus cum A et cett. Donatus et Charisius et grammatici alii 191 nam add. Bentley hinc A: unde quam hinc coní. Dziatzko 192 nam AFG¹ 194 sanusne es del. Conradt 199 et A: om.
A²Σ Donatus

- 25 nūllast mihi uita éxpetenda. GE. ergo ístaec quom ita sint, Ántipho, tánto magis te aduígilare aequomst: fórtis fortuna ádiuuat.
AN. nón sum apud me. GE. atquí ópus est nunc quom máxume ut sis, Ántipho;
 nám si senserít te tímídum páter esse, arbitrábitur 205 cómmeruisse cúlpan. PH. hoc uerumst. AN. nón possum inmutárier.
- 30 GE. quíd faceres si gráuius aliquid tíbi nunc faciundúm
 foret?
AN. quom hóc non possum, illúd minus póssem. GE.
 hoc níl est, Phaedria: ílicet.
 quíd hic conterimus óperam frustra? quín abeo? PH.
 et quidem ego? AN. óbsecro, quíd si adsimulo? sátimest? GE. garris. AN. uóltum 210
 contemplámini: em, sátine sic est? GE. nón. AN. quíd si sic? GE. própemodum. AN. quíd sic? GE. sat est:
- 35 ém, istuc serua; et uérbum uerbo, pár pari ut respónd eas, né te iratus suís saeuídieis díctis protelét. AN. scio.
GE. uí coactum te ésse inuitum: PH. lége, iudició.
GE. tenes?
 séd hic quis est senéx quem uideo in última platea? 215
 ípsus est.
AN. non póssum adesse. GE. ah, quíd agis? quo abis, Ántipho?
- 40 mane ínquam. AN. egomet me nóui et peccatúm meum:
 uobís commendo *Phániu*m et uítám meam. —
PH. Geta, quíd nunc fiet? GE. tú iam litis aúdi es; ego pléctar pendens nísi quíd me feféllerit. 220
 sed quód modo hic nos Ántiphonem mónuimus, 45 id nósmet ipsos fácere oportet, Phaédria.

207 grauius aliquid Fleckeisen: aliud grauius A: aliud quid gra-uius Σ 215 hic quis A: quis hic Σ

PH. aufér mi 'oportet': quín tu quid faciam ímpera.

GE. meminístin, olim ut fúerit uostra orátio

225 in re íncipiunda ad défendendam nóxiam, iustam íllam causam, fáciem, uincibilem, óptumam?

PH. memini. GE. ém, nunc ipsast ópus ea aut, si 50
quíd potest,

melióre et callidióre. PH. fiet sédulo.

GE. nunc príor adito tu, égo in insidiis híc ero

230 subcénturiatus, sí quid deficiás. PH. age.

ACTVS II

DEMIPHIO PHAEDRIA GETA i

DE. Ítane tandem uxórem duxit Ántipho iniussú meo?
néc meum imperium, ac mítto imperium, nón simultatém meam

reueréri saltem! nón pudere! o fácinus audax, ó Geta monitór! GE. uix tandem. DE. míhi quid dicent aut quam causam réperient?

235 demíror. GE. atquí réperiam: aliud cúra. DE. an 5 hoc dicét mihi:

'inuítus feci: léx coëgit'? aúdio, fateór. GE. places.

DE. uerúm scientem, tácitum causam trádere aduorsáriis, etiámne id lex coëgit? PH. illud dúrum. GE. ego expediám: sine.

DE. incértunst quid agam, quía praeter spem atque íneredibile hoc mi óbtigit:

240 ita sum írritatus, ánimum ut nequeam ad cógitandum 10 instítuere.

quam ob rem ómnis, quom secúndae res sunt máxume, tum máxume

227 ea A: om. A²Σ 230 A² et Σ: centuriatus A 234 mihi quid Fleckeisen: quid mihi codd. 240-242 in A desunt.

meditári secum opórtet quo pacto áduorsam aerumnám ferant,

[perícła, damna: péregre rediens sémper secum cógitet] aut fili peccatum aut uxoris mórtē aut morbum filiae,

15 commúnia esse haec, fieri posse, ut né quid animo sít 245 nouom;

quidquíd praeter spem euéniat, omne id députare esse
ín lucro.

GE. o Phaédria, incredíbile[st] quantum erum ánte co sapiéntia.

meditáta mihi sunt ómnia mea incómmoda, erus si rélierit:
moléndum usque in pistríno, uapulándum, habendae cómpedes,

20 opus rúri faciundum. hórum nil quiequam áccidet 250 animó nouom.

quidquíd praeter spem euéniet, omne id députabo esse
ín lucro.

séd quid cessas hómīnem adire et blánde in principio ádloqui?

DE. Phaédriam mei frátris uideo filium mi ire óbuiam.

PH. mi pátrūe, salue. DE. sálue; sed ubist Ántipho?

25 PH. saluóm uenire . . . DE. crédo; hoc respondé mihi. 255

PH. ualet, híc est; sed satin ómnia ex senténtia?

DE. uellém quidem. PH. quid istúe est? DE. rogitas, Phaédria?

bonás me absente hic cónfecistis núptias.

PH. eho, an íd suscenses núne illi? GE. artificém probum!

243 sic Cicero Tusc. iii. 14. 30: pericla damna exilia peregre rediens semper cogitet A: pericla exilia damna peregre rediens semper cogites
B a quoceteri uix discedunt: uncis inclusit Dziatzko: pericla exitia damna:
peregre rediens semper cogites Fleckeisen 245 sic codd. et Donatus:
comm. esse haec, ne quid horum unquam accidat animo nouom cum Cicerone Bentley aliique 246 eneniat Σ: eueniet A 247 est sustulit Bentley 249 molendum usque Umpfenbach: molendum mihi est usque EP: mol. mihi esse usque BCF: molendum esse AD¹G 251 eueniet praeter E² codd. omnes 259 sic A: o artificem Σ, fort. recte.

- 260 DE. egon illi non suscénseam? ipsum géstio 30 dari mi ín conspectum, núnc sua culpa út sciat leném patrem illum fáctum me esse acérrimum.
PII. atquí nihil fecit, pátrúe, quod suscénseas.
DE. ecce autótem similia ómnia! omnes cóngruont:
265 unúm quom noris ómnis noris. PII. haúd itast. 35
DE. hic in nóxiast, ille ad dcfendendam cáusam adest;
quom illést, hic praestost: tráduñt operas mútuas.
GE. probe hórum facta imprúdens depinxít senex.
DE. nam ni haéc ita essent, cum illo haud stares, Phaédria.
270 PII. si est, pátrúe, culpam ut Ántipho in se admiserit, 40 ex quá re minus rei fóret aut famae témpérans, non cáusam dico quín quod meritis sít ferat.
sed sí quis forte málitia fretús sua insídias nostrae fécit adulescéntiae 275 ac uéit, nostran eúlpa east an iúdicium, 45 quí saépe propter inuidiam adimunt díuiti aut própter misericórdiam addunt paúperi?
GE. ni nóssem causam, créderem uera húnc loqui.
DE. an quísqum iudex ést qui possit nóscere 280 tua iústa, ubi tute nérbum non respóndéas, 50 ita ut ille fecit? PII. fúñctus adulescéntulist offícium liberális: postquam ad iúdicee uentúmst, non potuit cógitata próloqui;
ita eúm tum tímídum súbito stupefecít pudor.
285 GE. laudo húnc. sed cesso adíre quam primúm senem? 55 ere, sálue: saluom te áduenisse gaúdeo. DE. oh, bone eústos, salue, cólumen uero fámiliae,
quói cómmendaui fílium hinc abiéns menm.
GE. iam dúdum te omnis nós accusare aúdio
290 inmérito et me horum ómnium inmeritíssumo. 60

265 num noris A: cognoris Σ et Donatus 275 nostram Σ practer
*F*¹: nostra *AF*¹ 284 subito stup. Ritschl: ibi stupefecit uel ob-stupefecit codd.

nam quid me in hac re facere uoluisti tibi?
 seruom hominem eausam orare leges non sinunt neque testimoni dictiost. DE. mitto omnia.
 do istuc 'inprudens timuit adulescens'; sino

65 'tu seruo's'; uerum si cognatast maxime, 295 non fuit necesse habere; sed id quod lex iubet, dotem daretis, quaereret alium uirum.

qua ratione inopem potius ducebant domum?

GE. non ratio uerum argentum deerat. DE. sumeret
 70 alicunde. GE. alicunde? nil est dictu facilius. 300

DE. postrmo si nullo alio pacto, faenore.

GE. hui, dixti pulchre! siquidem quisquam crederet te uiuo. DE. non, non sic futurumst: non potest.
 egon illam cum illo ut patiar nuptam unum diem?

75 nil suae meritumst. hominem conmonstrarier 305 mi istum uolo aut ubi habitet demonstrarier.

GE. nempe Phormionem? DE. istum patronum mulieris.

GE. iam faxo hic aderit. DE. Antipho ubi nunc est?

GE. foris.

DE. abi, Phaedia, eum require atque huc adduc. PH. eo:
 80 recta uia quidem illuc. GE. nempe ad Pamphilam. 310

DE. ego deos penatis hinc salutatum domum deuortar: inde ibo ad forum atque aliquot mihi amicos aduocabo ad hanc rem qui adsient, ut ne imparatus sim si ueniat Phormio.

ii

PHORMIO GETA

PH. Itane patris ams conspectum ueritum hinc abiisse? 315

GE. admodum.

294 do Fleckeisen: addo A: adde Σ et Don. in lemm. 302 hui in fine u. 301 et dixti habent codd.: transp. Fleckeisen: uolg. dixisti pro dixti legunt edd. 309 huc adduc A: adduce huc Σ 314 si ueniat A: cum adueniat Σ : quom adueniet Fleckeisen 315 conspectum cum BCEFP et Don. bis in lemm. Bentley: aduentum cum cett.
Umpfenbach et uolg.

PH. Phánium relíctam solam? GE. síc. PH. et iratúm senem?

GE. óppido. PH. ad te súmma solum, Phórmio, rerúm redit:

túte hoc intristí: tibi omnest éxedendum: accíngere.

GE. óbseero te. PH. sí rogabit . . . GE. in te spes 5 est. PH. éccere, 20 quíd si reddet? GE. tu ímpulisti. PH. síc opinor. GE. súbueni.

PH. cédo senem: iam instrúcta sunt mi in córde consilia ómnia.

GE. quíd ages? PH. quid mis, nísi uti maneat Phánium atque ex crímíne hoc Ántíphonem erípíam atque in me omnem íram deriném senis?

GE. ó uir fortis átque amicu's. uérum hoc saepe, 10 Phórmio, 25 uéreor, ne istaec fórtitudo in néruom erumpat dénique. PH. ah, nón itast: factúmst periculum. iám pedum misást uia.

quót me censes hómines iam deuérberasse usque ad necem?

hóspites, tum cúis? quo magis nóui, tanto saépíus.

cédo dum. enunquam iniúriarum audísti mihi scriptám 15 dicam?

30 GE. quí istuc? PH. quia non réte accipitri ténnitur neque míluo, quí male faciunt nóbis: illis quí nihil faciunt ténnitur, quía enim in illis frúctus est, in illis opera lúditur.

áliis aliunde ést periculum unde áliquid abradí potest:

míbi sciunt nil ésse. díces 'dícent damnatúm domum': 20

35 álere nolunt hóminem edacem et sápiunt mea senténtia,

328 uersum damnat Fleckeisen

333 periculum Σ : periculum A

335 sic A: mea quidem sententia Σ cum libris Bentleianis pro maleficio si beneficium summum nolunt reddere.

GE. non pote satis pro merito ab illo tibi referri gratia.

PH. immo enim nemo satis pro merito gratiam regi refert.

- 25 tene asymbolum venire unctum atque lautum e balineis, otiosum ab animo, quom ille et cura et sumptu assumitur! 340 dum tibi sit quod placeat, ille ringitur: tu rideas, prior bibas, prior decumbas; cena dubia adponitur.

GE. quid istuc verbist? PH. ubi tu dubites quid sumas potissimum.

- 30 haec quom rationem ineas quam sint suavia et quam
cura sint,

ea qui praebet, non tu hunc habeas plane praesentem deum? 345

GE. senex adest: uide quid agas: prima cotiost acerruma.
si eam sustinueris, postilla iam ut lubet ludas licet.

iii DEMIPHO HEGIO CRATINVS CRITO
 PHORMIO GETA

DE. Enimquam quoquam contumeliosius audistis factam iniuriam quam haec est mihi?

adeste quaeso. GE. iratus est. PH. quin tu hoc age: 350
iam ego hunc agitabo. pro deum immortalium,

- 5 negat Phanium esse hanc sibi cognatam Demipho?

hanc Demipho negat esse cognatam? GE. negat.

PH. neque eius patrem se scire qui fuerit? GE. negat.

DE. ipsum esse opinor de quo agebam: sequimini. 355

[PH. nec Stilphonem ipsum scire qui fuerit? GE. negat.]

- 10 PH. quia egens relictast misera, ignoratur parens, necligitur ipsa: uide, auaritia quid facit!

GE. si erum insimulabis malitiae, male audies.

337 pote Bentley: potest codd. 347 post illam AF: postilla iam
A² cett. 351 sic ABC: fidem contra metrum add. cett. 356 damnat Bentley: ceterum hic et aliis in locis ubi nomen occurrit litteram aspiratam habet Stilpho 359 male audies codd: audibis male
Fleckeisen

- 60 DE. o audáciam! etiam me últro accusatum áduenit.
PH. nam iam ádulescenti níhil est quod suscénseam, si illúm minus norat; quíppe homo iam grándior, 15
 paupér, quoi in opere uíta erat, rurí fere se cóntinebat; íbi agrum de nostró patre 65 coléndum habebat. saépe interea míhi senex narrábat se hunc neclégere cognatúm suom:
 at quém uírum! quem ego uíderim in uita óptumum. 20
GE. nideás te atque illum [ut] nárras! PH. ín' malám
 crucem!
 nam ní ita eum existumássem, numquam tám grauís 70 ob hanc ínimicitias cáperem in nostram fámiliam, quam is áspérnatur núnce tam inliberáliter.
GE. pergín ero absenti mále loqui, impuríssume? 25
PH. dignum aútem hoc illost. GE. aín tamen, carcér?
DE. Geta.
GE. bonórum extortor, légum contortór! DE. Geta.
 15 PH. respónde. GE. quis homost? éhem. DE. tace.
GE. absentí tibi
 te indígnas seque dígnas contumélias numquám cessauit dícere hodie. DE. désine. 30 adúlscens. primum abs te hóc bona ueniá peto, si tibi placere pótis est, mí ut respóndeas: 30 quem amíeum tuom aís fuisse istum, explaná mihi, et quí cognatum mé sibi esse díceret.
PH. proinde éxpiscare quási non nosses. DE. nóssem? 35
PH. ita.
DE. ego mé nego: tu quí aís redige in mémoriam.
PH. eho tú, sobrinum tuóm non noras? DE. énicas.

363 sic Σ : ení opera uita erat A 368 ut sustulit Dziatzko atque comparative dici ratus in' malam crucem scripsi: abin' hinc in crucem Fleckeisen: abi uel i hinc in malam crucem Σ : i in malam crucem A. cf. u. 930, Eun. 536, Plaut. Poen. ii. 1. 48 (496), Men. ii. 2. 53 (528) 369 sic BCEFP: ní ita eum esse A²: ní eum esse A: ní eum ita DG 373 tamen Bentley: tandem codd.

die nómen. PH. nomen? DE. máxume. quid núnc 385
taces?

PH. perii hérele, nomen pérdidi. DE. [hem] quid aís?

PH. Geta,

40 sí méministi id quod ólim dictunst, súbice. hem, non díco : quasi non nósses, temptatum áduenis.

DE. ego autótem tempto? GE. Stílpo. PH. atque adeo quíd mea?

Stilpóst. DE. quem dixti? PH. Stílponem inquam 390
núueras.

DE. neque égo illum noram néque mi cognatús fuit 45 quisquam ístoc nomine. PH. ítane? non te horúm pudet?
at sí talentum rém reliquissét decem,

DE. di tibi malfaciant! PH. prímus esses mémoriter progéníem uostram usque áb ano atque atauo próferens. 395

DE. ita ut díeis. ego tum quom áduenissem, quí mihi 50 cognáta ea esset dícerem : ítidem tú face.
cedo, qui ést cognata? GE. en nóster, recte. heus tú, caue.

PH. dilícide expediúi quibus me opórtuit iudícibus : tum id si fálsum fuerat, fílius 400 quor nón refellit? DE. fílium narrás mihi?

55 quóius dé stultitia díci ut dignumst nón potest.

PH. at tú qui sapiens és magistratús adi, iudícium de eadem caúsa iterum ut reddánt tibi, quandóquidem solus régnas et solí licet 405
hie de eádem causa bís iudícium apíscier.

60 DE. etsí mihi facta iniúriast, uerúm tamen potiús quam litis séeter aut quam te aúdiam, ítidem út cognata sí sit, id quod léx iubet dotís dare, abduc háne, minas quinque áccipe. 410

385 sic Fleckeisen : maxume Phormioni tribuont codd. 386 hem om. A 388 nosse A : noris Σ 394 malfaciant codd. : malfa-ciant Ritschl 406 apiscier Bentley : adipiscier codd. 410 abduc A : abduce Σ

PH. hahahaé, homo suavis. DE. quíð est? num iniquom póstulo?

an ne hóc quídem ego adipíscear quod ius públicumst? 65

PH. itan tándem, quaeso, item út meretricem ubi ab-úsus sis,

mercédem dare lex iúbet eĩ atque amítttere?

15 an, ut né quíð turpe cíuis in se admíttetet proptér egestatem, próxumo iussást dari, ut cum úno aetatem dégeret? quod tú uetas. 70

DE. ita, próxumo quídem; át nos unde? aut quam ób-rem? PH. ohe,

‘actum’ áiunt ‘ne agas.’ DE. nón agam? immo haud désinam,

20 donéc perfecero hóc. PH. ineptis. DE. síne modo.

PH. postrémo tecum níl rei nobis, Démipho, est:
tuos ést damñatus gnátus, non tu; nám tua 75

praetérierat iam ad dúcendum aetas. DE. ómnia haec illúm putato quae égo nunc dico dícere;

25 aut quídem cum uxore hac ípsum prohibebó domo.

GE. irátus est. PH. tu té idem melius féceris.

DE. itan és paratus fácere me aduorsum ómnia, 80
infélix? PH. metuit híc nos, tam etsi sédulo dissímulat. GE. bene habent tíbi princípia. PH. quín quod est

30 ferúndum fers? tuis dígnum factis féceris, ut amíci inter nos símus. DE. egon tuam éxpetam amíciitiam? aut te uísus aut auditúm uelim? 85

PH. sí cóncordabis cum illa, habebis quae tuam senectútem oblectet: réspice aetatém tuam.

35 DE. te oblécet, tibi habe. PH. mínue uero iram. DE.
hóc age:

satis iám uerborumst: nísi tu properas múlIERem abducere, ego illam eíciam. dixi, Phórmio. 90

430 fers Faërnus · feres A: feras Σ

PH. si tu illam attigeris sécus quam dignumst líberam, dicám tibi grandem inpíngam. dixi, Démipho.

si quíd opus fuerit, heús, domo me. GE. intéllego. 440

iv DEMIPHO GETA HEGIO CRATINVS CRITO

DE. Quantá me cura et sóllicitudine ádficit gnatús, qui me et se hisce ímpediuit núptiis!
neque mi ín conspectum pródit, ut saltém sciam quíd de eá re dicat quídue sit senténtiae.

5 abi, nise redierítne iam an nondúm domum. 445

GE. eó. — DE. uidetis quo ín loco res haéc siet:

quíd ágo? dic, Hegio. HE. égo? Cratinum cénseo, si tíbi uidetur. DE. dic, Cratine. CRA. méne uis?

DE. te. CRA. ego quae ín rem tuam sint eá uelim faciás. mihi

10 sic hóc uidetur: quód te absente hic fílius 450

egít, restitui ín íntegrum aequomst ét bonum, et id ímpetrabis. díxi. DE. die nune, Hégio.

HE. ego sédulo hunc dixísse credo; uérum itast, quot hómínes tot senténtiae: suos quoíque mos.

15 mihi nón uidetur quód sit factum légibus 455

rescínđi posse; et túrpe inceptust. DE. dic, Crito.

CRI. ego ámplius delíberandum cénseo:

res mágnast. HE. num quíd nós uis? DE. fecistís probe:
incértior sum múlto quam dudúm. — GE. negant

20 redísse. DE. frater ést expectandús mihi: 460 is quód mihi dederit de hác re consilium, íd sequar.

percóntatum ibo ad pórtum, quoad se récipiat.

GE. at ego Ántíphonem quaéram, ut quae acta hic sít sciat.
sed eccum ípsum uideo ín témpore huc se récipere.

439 ímpingam grandem codd.: transp. Fleckeisen 441 non est noua scaena in A 456 inceptu BCEFP: inceptum A cum cett.

ACTVS III

ANTIPHO GETA

i

- 5 AN. Énim uero, Antiphó, multimodis eum ístoc animo es útuperandus :
ítane te hinc abísse et uítam tuám tutandam aliís dedísse!
álios tuam rem crédidísti mágis quam tete animum aduorsuros ?
nam út ut erant alia, illi certe quae nunc tibi domíst consuleres,
né quid propter tuám fidem decépta poteretúr mali ; 5 0 quóí nunc miserae spés opesque súnť in te uno omnes sitae.
GE. et quídem, ere, nos iam dúdum hic te absentem ínensamus qui ábieris.
AN. te ipsúm quaerebam. GE. séd ea causa níhilo magis defécimus.
AN. loqnere óbseero, quo nam ín loco sunt rés et fortunaé meae ?
num súbolet quid patrí ? GE. nil etiam. AN. ecquíd 10
spei porrost ? GE. néscio. AN. ah.
5 GE. nisi Phaédria haud cessáuit pro te eníť. AN. nil fecít noui.
GE. tum Phórmio itidem in háe re ut [in] aliis strénuom hominem praébuit.
AN. quid is fécit ? GE. confutáuit uerbis ádmodum iratúm senem.
AN. eu, Phórmio. GE. ego quod pótui porro. AN. mí Geta, omnis uós amo.
GE. síe habent princípia sese ut díco : adhuc tranquílla rest, 15

465 multimodis Faërmus : multis modis codd.
pateretur A²Σ : Donatus lectiones ambas adgnoscit num quid patri subolet codd. 476 in om. A res est codd. : res Fleckeisen

469 poteretur A :
474 Fleckeisen :
479 rest scripsi :

mánsurusque pátruom pater est, dum húc adueniat. 480

AN. quíd eum? GE. ut aibat de eíus consilio sése uelle fácere quod ad hanc rem áttinet.

AN. quántum metuist míhi uidere huc sáluom nunc pátruóm, Geta!

nam eíus per unam, ut aúdio, aut uiuam aút moriar senténtiam.

20 GE. Phaédria tibi adést. AN. ubi nam? GE. eccum ab suá palaestra exít foras.

ii PHAEDRIA DORIO ANTIPHO GETA

PH. Dório,

485

audi óbsecro. DO. non aúdio. PH. parúmper. DO.
quin omítte me.

PH. aúdi quod dicam. DO. át enim taedet iam aúdire eadem míliens.

PH. át nunc dicam quód lubenter aúdias. DO. loquere, aúdio.

PH. nón queo te exoráre ut maneat tríduom hoc? quo núnce abis?

5 DO. mirábar si tu míhi quiequam adferrés noui. AN. ei, 490 metuó lenonem né quíd . . . GE. suo suát capiti? idem ego uéreor.

PH. non dúm míhi credis? DO. háriolare. PH. sín fidem do? DO. fábulae.

PH. faéneratum istúc 'beneficium púlehre tibi dicés.
DO. logi.

PH. créde míhi, gaudébis facto: uérum herele hoc est.
DO. sómnia.

10 PH. éxperire: nón est longum. DO. cántilenam ean- 495 dém canis.

482 metuist Fleckeisen: metus est codd. 483 eius per Fleckeisen: per eius codd. 491 Dziatzko: in codd. post capiti incipit Getae oratio: ceterum pro suat Bentley fuit conicit 492 dum A: om. Σ

PH. tu míhi cognatus, tú parens, tu amícus, tu . . .

DO. garrí modo.

PH. ádeon ingenio ésse duro te átque inexorábili, út neque misericórdia neque préceibus mollirí queas!

DO. ádeon te esse incógitantem atque ínpudentem síne
modo,

500 út phaleratis dúcas dietis me ét meam ductes grátiis! 15

AN. míseritumst. PH. ei, uérís uincor! GE. quám uterquest similís sui!

PH. neque Ántipho alia quom óccupatus éssset sollicitúdine, tum hoc ésse mi obiectúm malum! AN. quid istúe est
autem, Phaédria?

PH. ó fortunatíssume Antipho! AN. égone? PH.
quoi quod amás domist,

505 néque umquam cum huius modi [tibi] úsus uenit út 20 conflictarés malo.

AN. míhin donist? immo, íd quod aiunt, aúribus teneó lupum:

nám neque quo pacto á me amittam néque uti retineám scio.

DO. ípsum istuc mī in hóc est. AN. heia, né parum lenó sies.

núm quid hic confécit? PH. hicine? quód homo in-humaníssumus:

10 Pámphilam meam néndidit. AN. quid? uéndidit? 25
GE. ain? uéndidit?

PH. uéndidit. DO. quam indígnum facinus, áncillam aere emptám meo!

PH. néqueo exorare út me maneat ét cum illo ut mutét
fidem

tríduom hoc, dum id quód est promissum ab amícis argentum aúfero.

sí non tum dedero, únā praeterea hóram ne oppertús sies.

499 Fleckeisen: Phaedria sine modo A: Phaedria (om. sine modo) Σ uolg. 501 uerbis *G*² 505 tibi om. Donatus umquam post modi stat in codd.: transp. ego

30 DO. obtundes? AN. haud longumst id quod orat: 515 exorét sine.

ídem hic tibi, quod boni promeritus fúeris, conduplicáuerit.

DO. uérba istaec sunt. AN. Pámphilamne hac úrbe priuari sines?

túm praeterea horúne amorem dístrahi poterín pati?

DO. néque ego neque tu. GE. dí tibi omnes íd quod es dignús duint!

35 DO. égo te complurís aduersum ingénium meum mensís tuli, póllicitantem et níl ferentem, fléntem; nunc contra 521
ómnia haec:

répperi qui déet neque lacerumet: dá locum melióribus.

AN. cérte hercle, ego si sátis eommemini, tíbi quidemst olím dies,

quam ad dares huic, praéstítuta. PH. fáctum. DO.
num ego istúe nego?

40 AN. iam éa praeteriit? DO. nón, uerum haec eí ánte- 525
cessit. AN. nón pudet uánitatis? DO. mínime, dum ob rem. GE. stérculi-

num. PH. Dório,

ítane tandem fácere oportet? DO. síc sum: si placeo, útere.

AN. síc hunc decipi! DO. ímmo enim uero, Ántipho,
hic me decípit:

nam híc me scíbat huíus modi esse, ego húne esse aliter
crédidi;

45 íste me feféllit, ego isti níllo sum aliter ác fui. 530 séd ut ut haec sunt, támen hoc faciam: erás mane ar-gentúm mihi míles dare se díxit: sí tu príor attuleris, Phaédria, meá lege utar, út potior sit quí prior ad dandúmst. uale.

515 Fleckeisen: obtundis A: obtunde Σ: post orat habent Dorio codd.

524 istuc Σ: istud A 528 sicine BCDGP decipi Lachmann:

decipis codd. 529 Fleckeisen: sciebat esse ADG: esse sciebat cett. 532 Fleckeisen: sí mihi prior tu codd.

PHAEDRIA

ANTIPHO

GETA

iii

PH. Quid faciam? unde ego nunc tam subito huic argentum inueniam miser,

35 quod minus nihil est? quod, hic si pote fuisset exorari triduom hoc, promissum fuerat. AN. itane hunc patiemur, Geta,

fieri miserum, qui me dudum ut dixi adiurit comiter?
quin, quom opus, beneficium rursus ei experiemur reddere?

GE. scio equidem hoc esse aequom. AN. age ergo, 6 solus seruare hunc potes.

40 GE. quid faciam? AN. inuenias argentum. GE. cupio; sed id unde edoce.

*AN. pater adest hic. GE. scio; sed quid tum? AN.
ah, dictum sapienti sat est.*

GE. itane ais? AN. ita. GE. sane hercle pulchre suades: etiam tu hinc abis?

nón triumpho, ex nuptiis tuis si nil nanciscor mali, 10 ni etiam nunc me huius causa quaerere in malo iubeas
crucem?

15 AN. uerum hic dicit. PH. quid? ego uobis, Geta, alienus sum? GE. haud puto;

sed parum est quod omnibus nunc nobis suscenset senex, ni instigemus etiam, ut nullus locus relinquatur precii?

*PH. alius ab oculis meis illam in ignotum abducet 15
locum? hem:*

tum igitur, dum licet dumque adsum, loquimini mecum,
Antipho,

50 contemplamini me. AN. quam ob rem? aut quid nam facturus? cedo.

PH. quóquo hinc asportabitur terrarum, certumst perse-qui aut perire. GE. di bene uortant quod agas: pedetemptum tamen!

537 adiurit Bentley coll. Enniano illo 'o Tite si quid ego adiuro':
adiuuerit uel adiuuerit codd. 538 sic A: experiamur Σ 542 ais

add. Bentley 546 parum est scripsi: parumne est codd.

- 20 AN. uíde si quid opis pótes adferre huic. GE. ‘sī quid’? quid? AN. quaere óbseero, né quid plus minúsue faxit quód nos post pigeát, Geta. GE. quaéro: saluos ést, ut opinor; uérum enim metuó 555 malum.
- AN.* nólí metuere: úna tecum bóna mala tolerábimus. GE. quántum tibi opust lóquere argenti? PH. sólae trigiátá minae.
- 25 GE. tríginta? hui, pereárast, Phaedria. PH. ístaec uero uílís est.
- GE.* áge age, inuentas réddam. PH. o lepidum! GE. aufér te hinc. PH. iam opust. GE. iám feres: séd opus est mihi Phórmionem ad hánc rem adiutorém dari. 560
- AN.* praéstost: audacéssime oneris quíduis inpone, écferet; sólus est homo amíco amicus. GE. eámus ergo ad eum ócius.
- 30 AN. núm quid est quod méa opera opus uóbis sit? GE. nil; uerum ábi domum ét illam míseram, quam égo nunc intus scío esse exanimatám metu, cónsolare. céssas? AN. nihil est aéque quod faciám 565 lubens.
- PH.* quá uia istuc fácies? GE. dicam in ítere: modo te hinc ámoue.

ACTVS IV

i

DEMIPHO CHREMES

DE. Quid? quá profectus caúsa hinc es Lemnúm, Chremes, addúxtin tecum fíliam? CH. non. DE. quíd ita non? CH. postquám uidet me eius máter esse hic diútius, simul áutem non manébat aetas uírginis 570

557 Fleckeisen: quantum opus est tibi argenti loquere codd. 559 caput post lepidum habent Σ feres C: feris A: ferres cett. 561 ecferet Guilelmus: feret A: et feret uel ferret Σ 566 itere Bentley:
 itinere codd.

meam néclegentiam, ípsam cum omni fámilia 5 ad mé profectam esse aíbant. DE. quid illi tám diu quaeso ígitur commorábare, ubi id audíueras?
CH. pol mé detinuit mórbus. DE. unde? aut quí? CH.
 rogas?

- 75 senéctus ipsast mórbus. sed uenísse eas
 saluás audiui ex naúta qui illas uéxerat. 10
DE. quid gnáto obtigerit me ábsente audistí, Chremes?
CH. quod me équidem factum cónsili incertúm facit:
 nam hanc cóndicionem sí quoi tulero extrário, 80 quo pácto aut unde míhi sit dicundum órđine est.
 te míhi fidelem esse aéque atque egomet súm mihi 15
 scibam. ille si me aliénus adfiném uolet, tacébit, dum interecédet familiáritas;
 sin sprcéuerit me, plús quam opus est scitó sciet.
 85 uereórque ne uxor áliqua hoc resciscát mea:
 quod sí fit, ut me excútiam atque egrediár domo, 20
 id réstat; nam ego meórum solus súm meus.
DE. scio ita ésse, et istaec míhi res sollicitúdinist, neque défetiscar úsque adeo experírier, 90 donéc tibi id quod póllicitus sum effécero.

GETA DEMIPHIO CHREMES ii

- GE.* Ego hóminem callidiórem uidi néminem quam Phórmionem. uénio ad hominem, ut dicerem argéntum opus esse et íd quo pacto fieret.
 uix dúm dimidium díxeram, intelléxerat:
 95 gandébat, me laudábat, quaerebát senem. 5 dis grátias agébat tempus síbi dari, ubi Phaédriae ésse osténderet niló minus amícum sese quam Ántiphoni. hominem ád forum

578 me equidem scripsi: quidem me codd. 589 sic Priscianus et Eugraphius: adeo defitiscar umquam experirier A: umquam adeo G: umquam ego cett. 597 sic Lachmann: esse et sese dant codd.
 sedibus inter se mutatis

iussi opperiri: eo me esse adducturum senem.

- 10 sed eccum ipsum. quis est ultérior? attat Phaédriae 600 pater uénit. sed quid pertimui autem bélua?
 an quia quos fallam pro uno duo sunt mi dati?
 commodius esse opinor duplici spe utier.
 petam hinc unde a primo institi: is si dat, sat est;
 15 si ab eo nil fiet, tum hinc adoriar hospitem. 605

iii ANTIPHO GETA CHREMES DEMIPHO

AN. Exspécto quam mox récipiat sesé Geta.

sed patruom uideo cum patre astantem. ei mihi, quam timeo aduentus huius quo inpellat patrem!

GE. adibo [hosce]: o salue, nóster Chremes. CH. salué, Geta.

- 5 GE. uenire saluom uolup est. CH. credo. GE. quid 610 agitur?

multa aduenienti, ut fit, noua hic? CH. compluria.

GE. ita. de Antiphone audistin quae facta? CH. omnia.

GE. tun díxeras huic? fácinus indignum, Chremes, sic circumiri! CH. id cum hoc agebam commodum.

- 10 GE. nam herele ego quoque id quidem agitans mecum sedulo inueni. opinor, rémedium huic rei. CH. quid, Geta? 616 DE. quod rémedium? GE. ut abii abs te, fit forte obuiam mihi Phórmio. CH. qui Phórmio? DE. is qui istáne . . .

CH. scio.

GE. uisumst mi ut eius temptarem prius sententiam.

- 15 predo hominem solum: 'quor non' inquam, 'Phórmio, 620 uidés, inter nos sic haec potius cum bona ut componamus gratia quam cum mala?
 erus liberalis est et fugitans litium;
 nam ceteri quidem herele amici omnes modo 20 uno ore auctores fuere ut praecipitem hanc daret.' 625

AN. quid hic coeptat aut quo euadet hodie? GE. 'an legibus

604 Dziatzko: instiissi A: institui si is uolg. 609 hosce del. Bentley 619 sic scripsi: ut prius ei tentarem P: ut eius temptarem cett.

- datúrū poenas díces, si illam eiécerit?
iam id éploratumst: heíā, sudabís satis,
si cum illo inceptas hómīne: ea eloquéntiast.
- 20 uerúm pono esse uíctum eum; at tandém tamen 25 non cápitis ei res ágitur sed pecúniae.
postquam hómīnem his uerbis séntio mollírier, ‘solí sumus nunc hic’ ínquam: ‘eho, die quid ús dari tibi ín manum, ut erus hís desistat lítibus,
- 35 haec hínce facessat, tú molestus né sies?’ 30
AN. satin illi di sunt própítii? GE. ‘nam sát scio, si tu áliquam partem aequí bonique díxeris, ut est ille bonus nír, tría non commutábitis uerba hódie inter uos.’ DE. quís te istaec iussít loqui?
- 40 CH. immó non potuit mélius peruenírier 35
eo quó nos uolumus. AN. óceidi! DE. perge éloqui.
GE. a prímo homo insaníbat. CH. cedo quid póstulat?
GE. quid? níminum quantum. CH. quántum? dic. GE.
si quís daret
taléntum magnum. DE. immó malum herele: ut níl pudet!
- 45 GE. quod díxi adeo ei: ‘quaéso, quid si filiam 40
suam úniceam locáret? parui ré tulit non súscepisse: inuéntast quae dotém petat.’
ut ad paúca redeam, illíus mittam inéptias, haec dénique eius fuít postrema orátio:
- 50 ‘ego’ ínquit ‘a princípīo amiei filiam, 45
ita ut aéquom fuerat, uólui uxorem dúcere;
nam míhi uenibat ín mentem eius incómmodum,
in séruitutem paúperem ad ditém dari.
sed mi ópus erat, ut apérte tibi nunc fábuler,
- 55 aliquántulum quae adférret qui dissóluerem 50
quae débeo: et etiám nunc, si uolt Démipho dare quántum ab hac accípio quae sponsást míhi,

631 ei Bentley: eius codd. 643 Paumier: quantum licit uel libuit codd. 648 Fleckeisen: ac mittam illius codd.: mille pro illius coni. A. Palmer

nullám mihi malim quam ístanc uxórém dari.'

AN. utrúm stultitia fácere ego hunc an málitia
55 dicám, seientem an ímprudentem, incértus sum. 660

DE. quid si ánimam debet? GE. 'áger oppositus pígnori

decem ób minas est.' DE. áge age, iam ducát: dabo.

GE. 'aedículae item sunt ób decem alias.' DE. oíei, nimiúmst. CH. ne clama: répetito hasce a mé decem.

60 GE. 'uxóri emunda ancíllulast; tum plúscula 665 supelléctile opus est: ópus est sumptu ad núprias:

his rébus sane pórro pone' inquit 'decem [minas].'

DE. sescéntas proinde scríbito iam míhi dicas:
nil do. ímpuratus me ille ut etiam inrídeat?

65 CH. quaeso, égo dabo, quíesce: tu modo filium 670 fac ut illam ducat, nós quam nolumus. AN. eí mihi!

Geta, óccidisti mé tuis falláciis.

CH. mea caúsa eíeitur: mé hoc est aequom amíttere.

GE. 'quantúm potest me ecértiorem' inquit 'face, 675

70 si illám dant, hanc ut míttam, ne incertús siem; nam illí mihi dotem iám constituerúnt dare.'

CH. iam accípiat: illis répudium renúntiet;

hanc dúcat. DE. quae quidem illi res uortát male!

CH. oppórtune adeo argéntum nunc mecum áttuli, 680

75 fructúm quem Lemni uxóris reddunt praécia:

inde súmam; uxori tíbi opus esse díxero.

AN. Geta. GE. hém. AN. quid egisti? GE. émunxi argénto senes.

AN. satin ést id? GE. nescio hércle: tantum iússus sum.

AN. eho, uérbero, aliud míhi respondes ác rogo?

662 sic Fleckeisen: ob decem codd. 664 repetito Fleckeisen: petito codd. 667 porro ins. Dziatzko ante sane, ante pone posui ego minas secl. Bentley 670 filium A: filius *A*² cum cett.

- 685 GE. quid érgo narras? AN. quid ego narrem? operá tua ad réstim mi equidem rés redit planíssime. 5 ut te équidem dí deaéque omnes superi ínferi malís exemplis pérđant! em, si quíd uelis, huic mándes qui te ad scópulum e tranquillo aúferat.
- 690 quid mínus utibile fuit quam hoc uleus tángere aut nóminare uxórem? iniectast spés patri 10 posse íllam extrudi. cédo nunc porro: Phórmio dotém si accipiet, úxor ducendást domum:
quid fíet? GE. non enim dúcet. AN. noui. eéterum
- 695 quom argéntum repetent, nóstra causa seílicet in néruom potius íbit. GE. nil est, Ántipho, 15
quin mále narrando póssit deprauárier:
tu il quód bonist excérpis, dieis quód malist.
audí nunc contra: iám si argentum accéperit,
- 700 ducendast uxor, út aís, concedó tibi:
spatiúm quidem tandem ádparandi núptias, 20
nocúndi, sacruficándi dabitur paúlulum.
intérea amici quód polliciti súnť dabunt:
inde íste reddet. AN. quam ób rem? aut quid dicét?
- GE.* rogas?
- 705 'quot rés postilla mónstra euenerúnt mihi!
intro íť in aedis áter alienús canis; 25
anguís in ínpluuium décidit de tégulis;
gallína cecinit; ínterdixit háriolus:
haríspex uetuit; ánte brumam autém noui
- 710 negóti incipere!' quae causast iustíssuma.
haec fíent. AN. ut modo fíant! GE. fient: mé uide. 30
pater éxit: abi, die ésse argentum Phaédriae.

686 mi equidem scripsi: mihi quidem codd. et vulg. 687 sic scripsi: ut te quidem omnes dí deaeque codd.: om. que Bentley et vulg.:
sed cf. Eun. 302 689 qui . . . auferat E²F²: quod quidem recte curatum uelis A et cett. omnes: sed uersus ex Adelph. 372 in marginem tractatus in textum uidetur se insinuauisse 690 uleus A² cum Σ uoluit A 707 in Guyet: per codd. 710 exclamandi notum posuit Fleckeisen: lacunam statuunt edd. plerique

v

DEMIPHO

CHREMES

GETA

DE. Quiétus esto, inquam: égo curabo né quid uerborúm duit.

hoc témere numquam amíttam ego a me quín mihi testis ádhibeam:

quoi dem ét quam ob rem dem cómmemorabo. GE. ut 715 caútus est, ubi níl opust.

CH. atque íta opus factost: ét matura, dúm lubido eadem haéc manet;

5 nam si áltera illaec mágis instabit, fórsitan nos réiciat.

GE. rem ipsám putasti. DE. dúc me ad eum ergo.

GE. nón moror. CH. ubi hoc égeris, transíto ad uxorém meam, ut conuéniat hanc prius quam hínc abit.

dicát eam dare nos Phórmioni núptum, ne suscénseat; 720 et mágis esse illum idóneum qui ipsí sit familiárior;

10 nos nóstro officio nón digressos ésse: quantum is uólue-rit,

datum ésse dotis. DE. quíd malum id tua ré fert?

CH. magni, Démipho.

non sátis est tuom te offícium fecisse, íd si non fama
áprobát:

uolo ipsíus [quoque] haec uoluntáte fieri, né se eiectam 725 praédicet.

DE. idem égo istuc facere póssum. CH. mulier múlieri magis cónuenit.

15 DE. rogábo. CH. ubi illas núnc ego reperíre possim cógito.

723 Fleckeisen: quid tua malum id codd. 725 quoque secl. et uoluntate haec transp. Fleckeisen 726 conuenit *DGP*²: congruet
*BCEFP*¹

ACTVS V

SOPHRONA CHREMES

SO. Quid agam? quem mi amicum inueniam mísera?
aut quo consília haec referam?

aút unde auxiliúm petam?

730 nám nereor, era ne ób meum suusum indigna iniuria áfíciatur:

íta patrem adulescéntis facta haec tólerare audió uiolenter.

CH. nám quae haec anus est, éxanimata a fratre quae 5 egressást meo?

SO. quod ut fácere egestas me ímpulit, quom scírem infirmas níptias

hasce ésse, ut id consúlerem, interea uíta ut in tutó foret.

735 CH. cérte edepol, nisi me ánimus fallit aút parum pro-spíciunt oculi,

meaé nutricem gnátae uideo. SO. néque ille inuesti-gátur. CH. quid ago?

SO. qui éius pater est. CH. ádeo, maneo, dum haéc 10
quae loquitur mágis cognosco?

SO. quód si eum nunc reperíre possim, est níl quod uerear. CH. ípsa east:

cónloquar. SO. quis hic lóquitur? CH. Sophrona.

SO. ét meum nomen nóminat?

740 CH. réspice ad me. SO. di óbsecro uos, éstne hic Stilpo? CH. nón. SO. negas?

CH. cóncede hinc a fóribus paulum istórsum sodes, Sóphrona.

ne me ístoc nomine áppellassis pósthac. SO. quid? 15
non óbsecro es

737 Fleckeisen: est eius pater uel est pater eius codd.

eisen: nihil est uel sit et ea est ipsa uel ea ipsa est codd.

istoc posthac codd.: transp. Barth caesurae causa. ceterum es obsecro uel is obsecro codd.: unde Fleckeisen omisso quid reponit non is obsecro es quem sēper te esse dīctitasti? CH. st'. SO. quid has metuís fores?

CH. conclusam hic habeo uxórem saeuam. uérum istoe me nómine

eo pérperam olim díxi, ne uos fórte imprudentés foris 745 effúttiretis átque id porro aliqua úxor mea reseísceret.

20 SO. istoe pol nos te hic ínuenire míserae nunquam pótuimus.

CH. eho dīc mihī, quid reí tibist cum fámilia hac unde éxis?
ubi illae sunt? SO. miseram me. CH. hém, quid est?
uinóntne? SO. uiuit gnáta.

matrem ípsam ex aegritúdine hac mors míseram consecútast.

CH. male fáctum. SO. ego autem, quae éssem anus 751
desérta egens ignóta,

25 ut pótui nuptum uírginem locáu huic adulescénti, harum quí est dominus aélium. CH. Antiphónin?
SO. isti inquam ípsi.

CH. quid? duásne uxores hábet? SO. au, obsecro, únam ille equidem hanc sólám.

CH. quid illam álteram quae dícitur cognáta? SO. 755
haec ergost. CH. quíd ais?

SO. compósito factumst, quó modo hanc amáns habere pósset

30 sine dóte. CH. di nostrám fidem, quam saépe forte témere euéniant quae non aúdeas optáre! offendi aduénient quocúm nolebam et út nolebam fíliam locátam:

quod nós ambo opere máximo dabámus operam ut fíferet, 760 sine nóstra cura, máxima sua cúra solus fécit.

35 SO. nunc quíd opus facto sít uide: pater ádulescentis uénit

750 miseram mors codd.: transp. Fleckeisen 753 Bentley: em isti ipsi codd. 754 sic A: is ante uxores praebent Σ equidem scripsi: quidem codd. 759 sic Bentley: collocatam amari A:

filiam collocatam Σ 761 sic A: haec sola Σ : Donatus lectiones duas hic et haec adgnoscit: Eugraphius haec eumque ánimo iniquo hoc oppido ferre aiunt. CH. nil periclist.

sed per deos atque hominés meam esse hanc eáue reseiscat quisquam.

765 SO. nemo é me scibit. CH. séquere me: intus cétera audiémus.

DEMIPHO GETA

ii

DE. Nostrápte culpa fácimus ut malís expediat ésse, dum númíum dici nós bonos studémus et benígnos.

ita fúgias ne praeter casam, quod aiunt. nonne id sát erat, accéipere ab illo iniúriam? etiam argéntumst ultro obiécum,

770 ut sít qui uiuat, dum áliud aliquid flágití conficiat. 5

GE. planíssume. DE. eis nunc praémumst, qui récta praua faciunt:

GE. ueríssume. DE. ut stultíssume equidem illí rem gesserímus.

GE. modo ut hóc consilio póssiet discélli, ut istam dúcat.

DE. etiámne id dubiumst? GE. haúd scio hercle, ut homóst, an mutet ánimum.

775 DE. hem, mútet autem? GE. néscio: uerúm, si forte, díco.

DE. ita fáciam, ut frater cénsuit, ut uxórem eius hue 11
addúeam,

cum ista út loquatur. tú, Geta, abi prae, núntia hanc uentúram. —

GE. argéntum inuentumst Phaédriae: de iúrgio silétur; prouisumst ne in praeséntia haec hinc ábeat: quid nunc pórró?

780 quid fíet? in eodém luto haesitás: uorsuram sólues, 15

Geta: praeséns quod fuerát malum in diem ábiit:
plagae eréseunt.

765 e me A: ex me Σ audiemus Bentley: intus cetera audies AFG: cetera intus audies BCEP: om. intus D 772 equidem scripsi: quidem codd. 779 in praesenti A 780 sic codd. praeter D qui uorsuram soluis habet: uorsura solues uolg.

nisi prospicis. nunc hinc domum ibo ac Phanium edocēbo ne quid uereatur Phormionem aut huius orationem.

iii

DEMIPHO NAVSISTRATA

DE. Age dum, ut soles, Nausistrata, fac illa ut place-
tur nobis,

ut suā uoluntate id quod est faciundum faciat. NA. 785 faciam.

DE. pariter nunc opera me adiunues, ac re dudum opi-tulata es.

NA. factum uolo. ac pol minus queo uiri culpa quam me dignumst.

5 DE. quid autem? NA. quia pol mei patris bene partha indiligenter

tutatur; nam ex eis praediis talenta argenti bina statim capiebat: uir uiro quid praestat! DE. binan 790 quaeso?

NA. ac rebus uilioribus multo [tamen] talenta bina.
DE. hui.

NA. quid haec uidentur? DE. scilicet. NA. uirum me natum uellem:

10 ego ostenderem, DE. certo scio. NA. quo pacto . . .
DE. parce sodes,

ut possis eum illa, mulier ne te adulescens defetiget.

NA. faciam ut iubes; sed meum uirum abs te exire uideo. 795

NAVSISTRATA CHREMES DEMIPHO

CH. Ehem, Demipho, iam illi datumst argentum? DE. curauit flico. CH.
nollam datum.

ei, uideo uxorem: paene plus quam sat erat. DE.
quor nollas, Chremes?

783 huius Bothe: eius codd. 791 tamen del. Fleckeisen: multo del. Bentley 794 Fleckeisen: ne te adulescens mulier codd.

CH. iam récte. DE. quid tu? ecquid locutu's cum istac 15 quam ob rem hanc dúcimus?

CH. transégi. DE. quid aūt tándem? CH. abduci nón potest. DE. qui nón potest?

800 CH. quia utrèque utriquest córdi. DE. quid istuc nóstra? CH. magni. praéterhae cognátam comperi ésse nobis. DE. quid? deliras. CH.
síc erit.

non témere dico: redii mecum in mémoriam. DE. satin sánus es?

NA. au, óbsecro, uide ne ín cognatam pécces. DE. non 20
est. CH. né nega:

patris nómen aliud dictumst: hoc tu errásti. DE. non norát patrem?

805 CH. norát. DE. quor aliud díxit? CH. numquamne hódie concedés mihi

neque intélleges? DE. si tú nil narras? CH. pérdis.
NA. miror quid siet.

DE. equidem hércle nesció. CH. nín scire? at íta me seruet Iúppiter, ut própior illi quám ego sum ac tu [homo] némost. DE. 25 di nostrám fidem, eámus ad ipsam: una ómnis nos aut scíre aut nescire hóc uolo. CH. ah.

810 DE. quid ést? CH. itan paruum míhi fidem esse apúd te! DE. uin me crédere?

nín sátis quaesitum mi ístuc esse? age, fiat. quid? illa fília amíci nostri quid futurumst? CH. récte. DE. hanc igitur míttimus?

CH. quid ní? DE. illa maneat? CH. síc. DE. ire 30
igitur tíbi licet, Nausístrata.

802 redii Bentley: redi (qui uolgaris est error) codd. 806 perdis
*AD*¹: pergis cett. quid siet Fleckeisen: quid hoc siet uel quid hoc est codd. 808 homo om. *AF*²

NA. sic pól commodius ésse in omnis árbitror, quam ut coéperas,

manére hanc: nam perlíberalis úsast, quom uidí, mihi.— 815

DE. quid istúe negotist? CH. iámme operuit óstium?

DE. iam. CH. o Iúppiter, di nós respiciunt: gnátam inueni núptam cum tuo filio.

DE. hem,

35 quo pácto [id] potuit? CH. nón satis tutúst ad narrandum híc locus.

DE. at tu íntro abi. CH. heus, ne filii equidem hoc nóstri resciscáunt uolo.

Laetús sum, ut meae res sése habent, fratri óbtigisse 820
quód uolt.

quam scítumst eius modi ín animo paráre cupiditátes, quas, quóm res aduorsaé sient, pauló mederi póssis!
hic símul argentum répperit, curá sese expedúit;

5 ego núllo possum rémedio me euólueré ex his túrbis quin, si hóc celetur, ín metu, sin pátefit, in probró sim. 825 neque mé domum nunc réciperem ní mi éssét spes osténta huiúscé habendae. séd ubi nam Getam ínuenire póssim?
[ut rógem quod tempus cónueniundi pátris me capere suádeat.]

PH. Argéntum accepi, trádidi lenóni: abduxi múlIERem, curáui propria ut Phaédria poterétur; nam emissást manu. 830
nunc úna mihi res étiam restat quae ést conficiunda, ótium ab sénibus ad potándum ut habeam; nam áliquot hos sumám dies.

S18 id om. A tutust Fleckeisen: tutus est codd. 819 equi-dem scripsi: quidem codd. S27 possim A: possum Σ 828 uersum proscripsit Fleckeisen

AN. sed Phórmios. quid ais? PH. quid? AN. quid 5 nam nunc facturum Phaedria?

quo pacto satietatem amoris aut se uelle absumere?

835 PH. neissim partis tuas acturus est. AN. quas? PH.
ut fugitet patrem.

te suas rogauit rursum ut ageres, causam ut pro se diceret;
nam potaturus est apud me. ego me ire senibus Sinium dicam ad mereatum, ancillulam emptum dudum quam 10
dixit Geta;

ne quom hic non uideant me conficere credant argentum suum.

840 sed ostium concrepuit abs te. AN. uide, quis egreditur?
PH. Getast.

GETA ANTIPHON PHORMIO

vi

GE. Ó Fortuna, o Fōrs Fortuna, quantis commoditatibus, quam subito meo ero Antiphoni ope uōstra hunc onerastis diem!

AN. quid nam hic sibi uult? GE. nosque amicos eius exonerastis metu!

sed ego nunc mihi cesso, qui non umerum hunc onero pallio 845 atque hominem propero inuenire, ut haec quae contigerint 5 sciat.

AN. num tu intellegis quid hic narret? PH. num tu?
AN. nil. PH. tantundem ego.

GE. ad lenonem hinc ire pergam: ibi nunc sunt. AN.
heus, Geta! GE. em tibi:

num mirum aut nouumst reuocari, cursum quom institeris?
AN. Geta.

GE. pergit herele. numquam tu odio tuo me uincas.
AN. non manes?

836 suas AGP: suam *A*² cum cett. et Donato 837 senibus unum A 845 contigerit A 848 reuocare et institueris A

10 GE. uápula. AN. id equidem tibi iam fiet nisi resistis, 850 uérbero.

GE. familiariórem oportet ésse hunc : minitatúr malum.
séd isne est quem quaero án non? ipsust. cóngredere actutúm. AN. quid est?

GE. o ómnium, quantúmst qui uiuont, hómo hominum ornatíssume!

nám sine contronórsia ab dis sólus diligere, Ántipho.

15 AN. ita uelim; sed quí istuc credam ita ésse mihi dicí 855 uelim.

GE. sátine est si te délibutum gaúdio reddo? AN.
énieas.

PH. quín tu hinc pollicitátiones aúfer et quod férs cedo.

GE. oh,

tú quoque aderas, Phórmio? PH. aderam. séd tu cessas? GE. áccipe, em :

út modo argentúm tibi dedimus ápod forum, rectá domum

20 súmus profecti; intérea mittit érnus me ad uxorém tuam. 860

AN. quam ób rem? GE. omitto próloqui; nam níl ad hanc remst, Ántipho.

úbi in gynaceum íre occipio, púer ad me adeurrít Mida, póne prendit pállio, resupínat: respició, rogo quam ób rem retineát me : ait esse uétitum intro ad eram accédere.

25 ‘Sóphrona huc fratrém modo’ inquit ‘sénis introduxít 865 Chremem,’ eúmque nunc esse íntus cum illis. hóc ubi ego audiui, ád fores

súspenso gradú placide ire pérrexi, accessi, ástiti,

850 uapula A. quam locutionem adgnoscut Festus et Varro qui Terentium in Phormione laudat: uapulabis A²CDEP: uapulabo B equi-dem pro quidem scripsi; quod ad metrum attinet, cf. uu. 859, 877 ubi anapaestus dactylum sequitur restitis A 863 prendit Dziatzko:
apprehendit uel reprehendit codd. 865 Fleckeisen: Sophrona modo fratrem huc codd.

ánimam compressi, aúrem admoui: ita ánimum coepi atténdere,

hóc modo sermónem captans. PII. eú, Geta. GE. hic pulchérissimum

870 fácinus audíui: itaque paene hercle éxclamaui gaúdío. 30

AN. quód? GE. quod nam arbitráre? AN. nescio.

GE. átqui mirificéissimum:

pátruos tuos est páter inuentus Phánio uxori tuae. AN.

[hem,] quíd ais? GE. cum eius consuúit olim mátre in Lemno clánculum.

PII. sómniū: utine haec ígnoraret suóm patrem? GE.

aliquid erédito,

875 Phórmio, esse caúsae. sed me cénseri potuisse ómnia 35 íntelligere extra óstium, intus quae ínter sese ipsi égerint?

AN. átque ego quoque inaudíui hercle illam fábulam.

GE. immo etiám dabo

quó magis credas: pátruos interea índé huc egreditúr foras:

haúd multo post eúm patre idem récipit se intro dénuo:

880 áit uterque tibi potestatem éius adhibendaé dari. 40

dénique ego sum míssus, te ut requírerem atque addúcerem.

AN. quín ergo rape mé: quid cessas? GE. féceró. AN.

o mi Phórmio,

vále. PII. vale, Antiphó. bene, ita me dí ament, factum:

gaúdeo.

Tantám fortunam de ínprouiso esse hís datam!

885 summa écludendi occásiost mihi núnc senes et Phaédriae curam ádimere argentáriam, ne quóiquam suorum aequálium suppléx siet.

nam idem hóc argentum, ita út datumst, ingrátis 5

872 hem om. A

875 men censeri A

877 Fleckeisen:

atque hercle ego quoque illam audíui (inaudíui illam A) codd.

- ei dátum erit: hoc qui cógam, reapse répperi.
 nunc géstus mihi uoltúsque est capiundús nouos. 890
 sed híne concedam in ángiportum hoc próximum, inde hísee ostendam me, úbi erunt egressí foras.
 10 quo me ádsimularam ire ád mercatum, nón eo.

viii DEMIPHO CIREMES PHORMIO

- DE.* Dis mágnas merito grátias habeo átque ago, quando éuenere haec nóbis, frater, prospere. 895
 quantúm potest, nunc cónueniundust Phórmio, prius quám dilapidat nóstras trigintá minas, 5 ut aúferamus. PH. Démiphonem sí domist uisam, út quod . . . DE. at nos ád te ibamus, Phórmio.
PH. de eadem hác fortasse caúsa? DE. ita hercle. PH. 900 erédidi:
 quid ád me ibatis? DE. rídiculum. PH. an uerebámini ne nón id facerem quód recepissém semel?
 10 heus, quánta quanta haec méa paupertas ést, tamen adhúe curaui unum hóc quidem, ut mi essét fides.
CH. estne íta uti dixi líberalis? DE. óppido. 905
PH. idque ádeo uenio núntiatum, Démipho, parátum me esse: ubi uóltis, uxorém date.
 15 nam omnis posthabui míhi res, ita uti pár fuit, postquam íd tanto opere uós uelle animum aduórteram.
DE. at híc dehortatus ést me ne illam tíbi darem: 910
 'nam quí erit rumor [populi], 'ínquit, 'id si féceris?
 olím quom honeste pótuít, tum non ést data:
 20 nunc níduam extrudi túrpest: 'ferme eadem ómnia, quae títe dudum córam me ineusáueras.
PH. satís superbe inlúditis me. DE. quí? PH. rogas? 915

889 reapse Fleckeisen: re ipsa codd. 901 *AD*¹ recte, uid.
Lindsay ad Pl. Capt. p. 34: ueremini cett.: rebamini me non id facere C. F. Mueller 905 uti Bentley: ut codd. 911 populi secl. et si id trans. Fleckeisen 913 eam nunc extrudi (niduum om.) A

- quia ne álteram quidem íllam potero dúcere ;
nam quó redibo ore ád eam quam contémpserim ?
CH. 'tum autem Ántiphonem uídeo ab sese amíttere 25
innútum eam' inque. DE. tum autótem uideo fílium 920 innútum sane múlierem ab se amíttere.
sed tránsi sodes ád forum atque illúd mihi argéntum rursum iúbe rescribi, Phórmio.
PH. quodne égo discipuli pórro illis quibus débui ? 30
DE. quid ígitur fiet ? PH. sí uis mi uxorém dare 925 quam déspondisti, dúeam ; sin est út uelis manére illam apud te, dós hic maneat, Démipho.
nam nón est aequom mé propter uos decípi, quom ego uóstri honoris caúsa repudium álterae 35
remíserim, quae dótis tantundém dabat.
930 DE. in' hínce malam rem cum ístac magnificéntia, fugítine ? etiam nunc crédís te ignorárier aut túa facta adeo ? PH. inrítor ! DE. tune hanc dúceres, sí tíbi daretur ? PH. fác periculum. DE. ut fílius 40 cum illa hábitet apud te : hoc nóstrum consiliúm fuit.
935 PH. quaesó quid narras ? DE. quín tu mi argentúm cedo.
PH. immo uéro uxorem tú cedo. DE. in ius ámbula.
PH. enim uéro sí porro ésse odiosi pérgritis . . .
DE. quid fácies ? PH. egone ? uós me indotatis modo 45
patrócinari fórtasse arbitrámini :
940 etiám dotatis sóleo. CH. quid id nostrá ? PH. nihil.
hic quándam noram, quóíus uir uxorem CH. hém.
DE. quid est ?
PH. Lemni hábuit aliam, CH. nállus sum. PH. ex qua fíliam
suscépit, et eam clam éducat. CH. sepúltus sum. 50
PH. haec ádeo ego illi iám denarrabo. CH. óbsecro,

930 Fleckeisen (cf. u. 368) : i in malam rem hinc .1 : i hinc in malam rem 2 937 in ius ante enim uero iterant codd. : sustulit
Bentley

- ne fácias. PII. oh, tune ís eras? DE. ut ludós facit! 945
CH. missúm te facimus. PII. fábulae. CH. quid uís tibi?
 argéntum quod habes eóndonamus te. PII. aúdio.
 55 quid nós malum ergo mé sic ludificámini inépti nostra púerili inconstántia?
 noló nolo; nolo nólo rursum; cápe cedo; 950
 quod díctum indíctumst; quód modo ratum erat ínritumst.
CH. quo pácto aut unde hic haéc rescíuit? DE. néscio;
 60 nisi mé dixisse némini certó scío.
CH. monstri, íta me di ament, símile. PII. inieci scrípulum. DE. hem, hícne ut a nobis hóc tantum argenti aúferat 955
 tam apérte ínridens? émorí herele sátius est.
 animó uirili praésentique ut sís para.
 65 uidés tuom peccátum esse elatúm foras
 neque iam íd celare póssé te uxorem tuam:
 nunc quód ipsa ex aliis aúditura sít, Chremes, 960
 id nósmet indicáre placabílius est.
 tum hunc ímpuratum póterimus nostró modo 70 ulcísci. PII. atattat, nísi mi prospicio, haéreo.
 hí gládiatorio ánimo ad me adfectánt niam.
CH. at uéreor ut placári possit. DE. bóno animo es: 965 ego rédigam nos in grátiam, hoc fretús, Chremes, quom e mélio excessit únde haec susceptást tibi.
 75 PII. itan ágitis mecum? sátis astute adgrédimini.
 non herele ex re istius me ínstigasti, Démipho.
 ain tu? úbi quae lubitum fúerit peregre féceris 970
 neque huús sis ueritus féminae primáriae, quin nóuo modo eĩ fáceres contuméliam,
 80 neniás nunc precibus laútum peccatúm tuom?

949 inconstantia Fleckeisen: sententia codd. 951 erat ratum codd.: transp. Fleckeisen 958 peccatum tuum codd.: transp. Bentley 960 auditura sit Σ : auditurast A 963 atattat Bentley:
 attat codd.

- hisce égo illam dictis ita tibi incensam dabo, 975 ut né restringuas, láerumís sí exstilláneris.
DE. malúm! quod isti dí deaeque omnés duínt!
 tantáne adfectum quémquam esse hominem audácia!
 non hóc publicitus scélus hinc asportárier 85
 in sólas terras! CH. ín id redactus súm loci 980 ut quíd agam eum illo nésciam prorsum. DE. égo scio:
 in iús eamus. PH. ín ius? huc, sí quíd lubet.
CH. adséquere, retine, dúm ego huc seruos éuoco.
DE. enim néqueo solus: ádeurre. PH. una iniúriast 90
 tecúm. DE. lege agito ergo. PH. álterast tecúm, Chremes.
 985 CH. rape húnc. PH. sic agitis? énim uero nocést opus:
 Nausístrata, exi. CH. os ópprime impurúm: uide, quantúm ualet! PH. Nausístrata, inquam. DE. nón
 taces?
PH. taceám? DE. nisi sequitur, púgnos in uentrem 95
 íngere.
PH. nel óculum exsculpe: est úbi nos ulciscár probe.

NAUSISTRATA CHREMES DEMIPHO ix
 PHORMIO

- 90 NA. Qui nóminat me? hem, quíd istue turbaest, óbseero, mí uír? PH. chem, quid nunc óbstipuísti? NA. quís hic homost?
 non míhi respondes? PH. hícine ut tibi respóndeat, qui herele úbi sit nescit? CH. cáue isti quiequam créduas.
PH. abi, tánge: sí non tótus friget, me énica. 5 95 CH. nil ést. NA. quid ergo? quíd istie narrat? PH.
 iám seies:
 auscúlta. CH. pergin crédere? NA. quid ego óbseero

976 uersum ex Plaut. Most. 655 sumptum multi expellunt edd. 989 exculpe A: exclude Σ: exlide Fleckeisen 993 creduas Faïrnus:
 credas codd.

huic erédam, qui nil díxit? PH. delirát miser timóre. NA. non pol témerest quod tu tán times.

- 10 CH. egon timeo? PH. recte sáne: quando níl times, et hoc níl est quod ego díco, tu narrá. DE. scelus, 1000 tibi nárret? PH. ohe tu, fáctumst abs te sédulo pro frátre. NA. mi nír, nón mihi díces? CH. át . . .

NA. quid 'at'?

CH. non ópus est dicto. PH. tíbi quidem; at scito huic opust.

- 15 in Lémno NA. hem, quid ais? CH. nón taces? PH. clam te CH. eí mihi!

PH. uxórem duxit. NA. mí homo, di meliús duínt! 1005

PH. sic fáctumst. NA. perii mísera! PH. et inde fíliam suscepít iam unam, dúm tu dormis. CH. quíd agimus?

NA. pro di ínmortales, fácínus miserandum ét malum!

- 20 PH. hoc áctumst. NA. an quíequam hódiest factum indígnius?

quí mi, úbi ad uxores uéntumst, tum fiúnt senes! 1010

Démipho, te appélló: nam cum hoc ípso distaedét loquí: haécine erant itiónes crebrae et mánisiones diútinae

Lémni? haecine erat éa quae nostros mínuít fructus uílitas?

- 25 DE. égo, Nausistrata, ésse in hac re cúlpam meritum nón nego, séd ea quín sit ígnosceuda. PH. uérba fiunt mórtuo. 1015

DE. nám neque neclegéntia tua néque odio id fecít tuo. uínolentus fére abhíne annos quíndecim muliérculam eám compressít, únde haec natast; néque postilla unquam áttigit.

- 30 éa mortem obiit, é medio abiit, quí fuit in re hac scrúpulus. quam ób rem te oro, ut ália facta túa sunt, aequo animo 1020 hóc feras.

NA. quíd ego aequo animo? eúpio mísera in hác re iam defúngier;

1004 hem quid ais in A Demiphonis, in Σ alterius senis sunt séd qui id sperem? aetáte porro mínus peccaturúm putem?

 iám tum erat senéx, senectus sí uerecundós facit.
 án mea forma atque aétas magis nunc éxpétendast, 35 Démipho?

1025 quíd mi hic adfers, quam ób rem exspectem aut spérem porro nón fore?

PH. éxsequias Chreméti quibus est cómmodum ire, em témpus est.

sic dabo: age nunc, Phórmionem qui uolet lacéssito:
 fáxo tali sit mactatus infortunio átque hic est.

DE.

PH. rédeat sane in grátiam iam: súpliei satis ést mihi. 40

1030 hábet haec eí quód, dum uiuat, úsque ad aurem obgánniat.

NA. át meo merito crédo. quid ego núnc commemorem, Démipho,

síngulatim, quális ego in hunc fúerim? DE. noui aeque ómnia

técum. NA. merito hoc meó uidetur fáctum? DE.
 minime géntium:

uérum iam quando áccusando fieri infectum nón potest, 45

1035 ígnosce: orat cónfítetur púrgat: quid uis ámplius?

PH. énim uero prius quam haéc dat ueniam, míhi prospiciam et Phaédriae.

heús Nausistrata, huic prius quam respóndes temere, audí. NA. quid est?

PH. égo minas trigínta ab illo pér fallaciam ábstuli:

eás dedi tuo gnáto: is pro sua amíca lenoní dedit. 50

1040 CH. hém, quid ais? NA. adeóne indignum hoc tibi uidetur, fílius

1022 qui id Fleckeisen: qui CDP: quid cett. 1024 magis nunc Bentley: nunc magis codd. 1028 infortunio atque hic est Fleck- eisen: atque hic est infortunio codd. lacunam statuit Dziatzko huiusmodi formae, mitte eum animum: nimis irata es in uirum, Nau-sistrata 1037 Fleckeisen: prius quam huic codd. 1038 Fleck- eisen: per fallaciam ab illo (illoe) codd.

homo adulescens si habet unam amicam, tu uxores duas?
nil pudere? quo ore illum obiurgabis? responde mihi.

DE. faciet ut noles. NA. immo ut meam iam scias sententiam,

55 neque ego ignosco neque promitto quicquam neque respondeo

prius quam gnatum uidero: eius iudicio permitto omnia. 1045 quod is iubebit faciam. PH. mulier sapiens es, Nausistrata.

NA. satin tibist? DE. satis. CH. immo uero pulchre discedo et probe

et praeter spem. NA. tu tuum nomen dic mihi quid sit. PH. Phormio:

60 nostrae familiae hercle amicus et tuo summus Phaédriae.

NA. Phormio, at ego ecaster posthac tibi, quod potero, 1050 quod uoles

faciamque et dicam. PH. benigne dicis. NA. pol meritumst tuum.

PH. uin primum hodie facere quod ego gaudeam, Nausistrata,

et quod tuo uiro oculi doleant? NA. cupio. PH. me ad cenam uoca.

65 NA. pol uero uoco. DE. eamus intro hinc. NA. fiat.
sed ubist Phaédria

iudex noster? PH. iam hic faxo aderit. CANTOR. 1055 uos ualete et plaudente.

1047 satis add. Krouse 1048 Fleckeisen: quod (quid A) est PH. mihi? Phormio BCDP immo . . . spem Phormionis sunt in codd. 1054 eamus intro hinc in AD Phormionis sunt, Demiphonis in cett.

HECYRA

NCIPIT · TERENTI · HECYRA · ACTA · LVDIS · MEGALENSIB
 · IVLIO · CAESARE · CN · CORNELIO · DOLABELLA · AEDILIB
 CVRVLIB · MODOS · FECIT · FLACCVS · CLAVDI · TIBIS
 PARIBVS · TOTA · GRAECA · MENANDRV · FACTA · V · ACTA PRIMO · SINE · PROLOGO · DATA · SECVNDO · CN · OCTAVIO 5
 · MANLIO · COS · RELATA · EST · L · AEMELIO · PAVLO
 LVDIS · FVNERALIB · NON · EST · PLACITA · TERTIO · RELATA
 ST · Q · FVLVIO · L · MARCIO · AEDILIB · CVRVLIB · EGIT
 VC · AMBIVIVS · LVC · SERGIVS · TVRPIO · PLACVIT 9

Dedi secundum Bembinum
t peracta tota add. C onatus

1 Romanis C 3 Post CVRVLIB non 4 Menandru codd.: om. C: Apollodoru

C. SVLPICI APOLLINARIS PERIOCHA

- Vxórem ducit Pámphilus Philúmenam, cui quóndam ignorans uírgini uitium óbtulit, cuiúsque per uim quém detraxit ánulum amícae dederat Bácchidi meretrículae.
 5 profectus dein in Ímbrum est: nuptam laud áttigit.
 hanc máter ut eo ex uitio grauidam cómperit ut aégram ad sese tránsfert. reuenit Pámphilus, depréndit partum, célat; uxorém tamen 10 recípere non uolt. páter incusat Bácchidis amórem. dum se púrgat Bacchis, ánulum matér uitiatæ fórte adgnoscit Mýrrina.
 uxórem recipit Pámphilus cum filio.

PERSONAE

[PROLOGVS]	PHIDIPPVVS SENEX
PHILOTIS MERETRIX	PAMPHILVS ADVLESCENS
SYRA ANVS	SOSIA SERVOS
PARMENO SERVOS	MYRRINA MATRONA
LACHES SENEX	BACCHIS MERETRIX
SOSTRATA MATRONA	CANTOR

4 sic Opitz: dederat amicae codd.
 dein prof. codd.

5 profectus dein Ribbeck:
 6 Dziatzko: utero grauidam cum comperit A: utero grauidam, ne id sciat socrus Σ

PROLOGVS (I)

- Heeyraést huic nomen fábulae. Heeyra quóm datast, nouaé nouom interuénit uitium et cálamitas, ut néque spectari néque cognosci pótuerit:
ita pópulus studio stúpidus in funámbulo 5 animum óccuparat. núne haec planest pró noua, 5 et ís qui scripsit hánc ob eam rem nóluit itérúm referre, ut íterum posset uéndere.
-
nouam ésse ostendi et quae ésset: nunc qui scrípserit 7^a et quóia Graeca sít, ni partem máxumam 7^b exístumarem scíre uostrum, id dícerem. 7^c
-
aliás cognostis éius: quaeso hanc nóscite. 8

PROLOGVS (II)

L. AMBIVIVS

- Orátor ad uos uénio ornatu prólogi:
10 siníte éxorator sim, eódem ut iure utí senem liceát quo iure sum úsus adulescéntior, nouás qui exactas féci ut inneteráscerent, ne cúm pōēta scríptura enanésceret. 5
in eís, quas primum Caécili didicí nouas, 5 partím sum earum exáctus, partím uíx steti.
quia scíbam dubiam fórtunam esse scaénicam, spe incérta certum míhi laborem sústuli:

1 Heeyra Dziatzko: haec codd.: haec noua Fleckeisen 2 nouae Fleckeisen: noua codd. 7 Post hunc u. lacunam statuunt Ihne aliique: uersus 7^a-7^c ex Heaut. prologo huc restituendos esse censet
Dziatzko

P. TERENCE AFRI

- 10 easdem ágere coepi, ut áb eodem alias díscerem
nouás, studiose, né illum ab studio abdúcerem.
perféci ut spectaréntur: ubi sunt cógnitae, 20 placitaé sunt. ita poétam restitui ín locum prope íam remotum iniúria aduorsárium
- 15 ab stúdio atque ab labóre atque arte música.
quod sí scripturam spréuissem in praeséntia et in déterrendo uóluissem operam súmere, 25 ut in ótio esset pótius quam in negótio, detérnuissem fáciie ne alias seríberet.
- 20 nunc quíid petam, mea caúsa aequo animo atténdite.
Hecyram ád uos refero, quám mihi per siléntium numquam ágere licitumst: ita eam oppressit cáламиtas. 30
eam cálamitatem uóstra intellegéntia sedábit, si erit adiútrix nostrae indústriae.
- 25 quom prímum eam agere coépi, pugilum glória, [(funámbuli eodem accéssit exspectátio)] comitúm conuentus, strépitus, clamor múlterum 35 fecére ut ante témpus exirém foras.
ueterem ín noua coepi úti consuetúdine,
- 30 in éxperiundo ut éssem: refero dénuo.
primo áctu placeo. quom ínterea rumór uenit datum íri gladiatóres, populus cónuolat, 40 tumúltuantur clámant pugnant dé loco:
ego ínterea meum non pótui tutarí locum.
- 35 nunc túrba non est: ótiúm et siléntiumst:
agéndi témpus míhi datumst; uobís datur potéstas condecorándi ludos scaénicos. 45 nolíte sinere pér uos artem músicam recídere ad paucos: fáciite ut uostra auctóritas
- 40 meae auctóritati faútrix adiutríxque sit.

34 proscr. Groutoff: pro accessit legit accedens Bentley ritati Fleckisen

48 actio-

HECYRA

- [si núnquam anare prétium statui artí meae 50 et eum ésse quaestum in ánimum induxi máximum, quam máxime seruíre uostris cómmodis,] sinite ímpetrare mé, qui in tutelám meam studiúm suum et se in uóstram commisít fidem, 45 ne eum éircumuentum iníque iniqui inrídeant.
55 mea caúsa causam accípíte et date siléntium, ut líbeat scribere áliis mihique ut díscere nouás expediat pósthac pretio emptás meo.

49-51 Vid. ad Heaut. 48-50.

ACTVS I

i

PHILOTIS SYRA

- PH.* Per pól quam paucos réperias meretrícibus fidélis eueníre amatorés, Syra.
uel hic Pámphilus iurábat quotiens Báechidi, quam sáncte, ut quiuis fácte posset crédere, 5 nunquam illa uiua dúcturum uxorém domum!
em, dúxit. SY. ergo própterea te sédulo et móneo et hortor né te quouisquam mísereat, quin spólies mutiles láceres, quemque nácta sis. 65
PH. utíne eximium néminem habeam? SY. néminem:
10 nam némo illorum quísquam, scito, ad té uenit quin íta paret sese, ábs te ut blanditiís suis quam mínimo pretio suám uoluptatem éxpleat.
hiscíne tu amabo nón contra insidiábere? 70
PH. tamén pol eandem iniúriumst esse ómnibus.
15 SY. iniúrium autem est úlcisci aduorsários?
aut quá uia te cáptent eadem ipsós capi?
cheú me miseram, quór non aut istaec mihi aetás et formast aut tibi haec senténtia! 75

ii

PARMENO PHILOTIS SYRA

- PA.* Senéx si quaeret mé, modo isse dícto ad pórtum percontátum aduentum Pámphili.
audín quid dicam, Scírte? si quaerét me, uti tum dícas; si non quaéret, nullus díxeris, 5 aliás ut uti póssim causa hac íntegra. 80
sed uídeon ego Philótium? unde haec áduenit?
Philótis, salue múltum. PH. o salue, Pármeno.

64 Bentley: misereas A: misereas te A²: misereat BC: te misereat DEF: misereat te P 65 quemque AFD²: quemquam cett.

SY. salué mecastor, Pármeno. PA. et tu edepól, Syra.
die mi, úbi, Philotis, te óbleetasti tám diu?

85 PII. minume équidem me obleetáui, quae cum mflite 10
Corínthum hinc sum proféceta inhumaníssimo :
bícnium ibi perpétuom misera illúm tuli.

PA. edepól te desidérium Athenarum árbitror,
Philótium, cepísse saepe et té tuom

90 consílium contempsísse. PII. non dieí potest, 15 quam cúpida eram hue redeúndi, abeundi a mílite uosque híc uidendi, antíqua ut consuetúdine agitárem inter uos líbere conuívium.

nam illi haúd licebat nísi praefinitó loqui

95 quae illí placerent. PA. haúd opinor cómmode 20 finém statuísse orátioni mílitem.

PII. sed quíd hoc negotist módo quod narrauit mihi hie íntus Bacchis? quód ego numquam crédidí fore, ut ille hac uina pósset animum indúcere

00 uxórem habere. PA. habére autem? PII. eho tu, an 25 nón habet?

PA. habét, sed firmæ haec néreor ut sint núptiae.

PII. ita dí deaque fáxint, si in rem est Bácehidis.
sed quí istuc credam ita ésse, die mihi, Pármeno.

PA. non ést opus proláto hoc: percontárier

05 desíste. PII. nempe ea caúsa ut ne id fiát palam? 30 ita mé di amabunt, haúd propterea té rogo.

ut hoc próferam, sed tácita ut mecum gaúdeam.

PA. numquám tam dices cómmode ut tergúm meum tuam ín fidem commíttam. PII. ah noli, Pármeno:

10 quasi tú non multo mális narrare hóc mihi 35
quam ego quae percontor scíre. PA. uera haec praédicat, et illúd mihi uítiumst máximum. si míhi fidem

84 ubi Philotis Donatus: Philotis ubi codd. 104 post hoc dis-tinguendum censet Dziatzko: post prolato uolg. 106 amabunt Donatus et uolg.: ament A: bene ament Σ 107 tacita ut Fleckeisen: ut tacita codd.

das té taciturnam, dicam. PII. ad ingeniúm redís.
fidém do: loquere. PA. ausculta. PII. istic sum.

PA. hanc Bácschidem

- 40 amábat ut quom máxime tum Pámphilus, 115
quom páter uxorem ut dúcat orare óccipit et haéc communia ómnium quae súnť patrũm, sesé senem esse dícere, illum autem únícum:
praesídium nelle sé seneectutí suae.
- 45 ille prímo se negáre; sed postquam ácrius 120
pater ínstat, fecit ánimí ut incertús foret, pudórĩ anne amóri obsequeretúr magis.
tundéndo atque odio dénique effecít senex:
despóndit ei gnatam huíus uicini próximi.
- 50 usque illud uisumst Pámphilo ne utiquám graue, 125
donéc iam in ipsis núptiis, postquám uidet parátas nec moram úllam quin ducat dari, ibi dénum ita aegre túlit, ut ipsam Bácschidem,
si adésset, credo ibi éĩs commiserésceret.
- 55 ubiquómque datum erat spátium solitúdinis, 130
ut cónloqui mecum úna posset: 'Pármeno, períĩ, quid ego egi! in quód me coniecí malum!
non pótero ferre hoc, Pármeno: períĩ miser.'
PII. at té di deaeque fáxint cum isto odió, Laeches!
- 60 PA. ut ad paúca redeam, uxórem deducít domum. 135
nocte illa prima uírginem non áttigit;
quae cónsecntast nóx eam, nihiló magis.
PII. quid afs? cum uirgine úna adulescens cúbuerit plus pótus, sese illa ábstinere ut pótuerit?
- 65 non uéri simile dícis nec uerum árbitror. 140
PA. credo ita uideri tibi; nam nemo ad té uenit nisi cúpiens tui: ille inuítus illam dúxerat.
PII. quid deĩnde fit? PA. dícbus sane paúculis

118 sese A: se Σ et Donatus 133 hoc diutius Parmeno A 134 faxint Bentley: perdunt codd.: perdunt uolg.

- post Pámphilus me sólum seducit foras
- 145 narrátque ut uirgo ab se íntegra etiam túm siet, 70
 seque ánte quam eam uxórem duxissét domum sperásse eas toleráre posse núptias.
 ‘sed quám deererim mé non posse díutius habére, eam ludíbrío haberi, Pármeno,
- 151 neque honéstum mihi neque útile ipsi uírginist, 76
- 150 quín íntegram itidem réddam, ut accepi á suis.’ 75
PII. píum ác pudíenum ingénium narras Pámphili.
PA. ‘hoc égo proferre incómmodum mi esse árbitror;
 reddí patri autem, quói tu nil dicás uiti,
- 155 supérbumst. sed illam spéro, ubi hoc cognóuerit 80 non pósse se mecum ésse, abituram dénique.’
PII. quid? intérea ibatne ad Báechidem? PA. cottídie.
 sed út fit, postquam hunc álienum ab sesé uidet, malígna multo et mágis procax facta ílico est.
- 160 PII. non édepol mirum. PA. atque éa res multo máxime 85
 díiúnxit illum ab ílla, postquam et ípse se et íllam et hanc quae dómi erat cognouit satis:
 [ad exémplum ambarum móres earum exístimans.]
 haec, íta uti liberáli esse ingenió decet,
- 165 pudéns modesta, incómmoda atque iniúrias 90
 uíri ómnis ferre et tégere contumélias.
 hic ánimi partim uxóris misericórdia deuínetus, partim uíctus huius iniúriis paulátim elapsust Báechidí atque huc tránstulit
- 170 amórem, postquam pár ingenium náctus est. 95 intérea in Imbro móritur cognatús senex horúne: ea ad hos redíbat lege heréditas.
 eo amántem inuitum Pámphilum extrudít pater.
 relínquit eum matre híc uxorem; nám senex

150, 151 Fleckeisen: inuerso ordine exhibent codd. 160 atque Σ: atqui A 162 quaedemodierat A 163 proscr. Guyet 167
 animi Dziatzko: animus codd.

- 100 rus ábdidit se, huc ráro in urbem cómmeat. 175
PII. quid adhúe habent infírmitatis núptiae?
PA. nunc aúdiēs. primo hós dies complúsculos bene cónuenibat sáne inter eas. ínterim mirís modis odísse coepit Sóstratam :
- 105 neque lítes ullae intér eas, postulátio 180
numquám. PII. quid igitur? PA. sí quando ad eam accésserat
confábulatum, fúgere e conspectu ílico, uidére nolle : dénique ubi non quít pati, simulát se ad matrem accérsi ad rem diuínam, abit.
- 110 ubi illíc dies est complúris, accersí iubet : 185
dixére causam néscio quam tum. iterúm iubet :
nemó remisit. póstquam accersunt saépius, aegram ésse simulant múlierem. nostra ílico
it úsere ad eam : admísit nemo. hoc úbi senex
- 115 rescíuit, heri ea caúsa rure huc áduenit, 190
patrém continuo cónuenit Philúmenae.
quid égerint intér se non dum etiám scio ;
nisi sáne curaest quórsum euenturum hóc siet.
habés omnem rem : pérgam quo coepi hóc iter.
- 120 PII. et quídem ego ; nam constítui cum quodam hópíte 195 me esse íllum conuentúram. PA. di uortánt bene quod agás ! PII. uale. PA. et tu béne uale, Philótium.

ACTVS II

i

LACHES SOSTRATA

LA. Pro deúm fidem atque hominúm, quod hoc genus ést, quae haec coniurátio est !
utin ómnes mulierés eadem acque stúdeant nolintque ómnia

177 Bentley: primos A: primo *A*²: primo uel primum Σ 186 tum uel tunc uel nunc nescio quam codd.: transp. Luchs 198 Fleck- eisen: pro deum atque hominum fidem, quod hoc genus est, quae haec est coniuratio codd.

- 200 neque déclinatam quécquam ab aliarum ingenio ullam réperias!
- itaque ádeo uno animo omnes socrus odérunt, oderúnt nurus.
niris ésse aduorsas aéque studiumst, símilis pertináciast, 5 in eódemque omnes míhi uidentur lúdo doctae ad málitiam:
ei lúdo, si ullus ést, magistram hanc ésse satis certó scio.
- 205 SO. me míseram, quae nunc quam ób rem accuser
néscio. LA. hem,
tu néscis? SO. non, ita mé di bene ament, mí Laches, itaque ína inter nos ágere aetatem líceat. LA. di 10
mala próhibeant.
- SO.* meque ábs te inmerito esse áccusatam póst modo resciseés, scio.
- LA.* te inmérito? an quicquam pro ístis factis dígnum te dicí potest?
- 210 quae me ét te et familiám dedecoras, filio luctúm paras;
tum autem éx amicis ínimici ut sint nóbis adfinés facis, qui illúm deererunt dígnum suos quói líberos commítterent.
tu sóla exorere, quae perturbes haéc tua inpudéntia. 16
- SO.* egon? LA. tu ínquam, mulier, quae me omnino lápidem, non hominém putas.
- 215 an, quía ruri crebro ésse soleo, néscire arbitrámini quo quisque pacto hic uítam uostrarum éxigat?
múlto melius híc quae fiunt quam illi ubi sum adsidué scio:
[ídeo quia, ut uos míhi domi eritis, proínde ego ero 21 famá foris.]
- íam pridem equidem audíui cepisse ódium tui Philúmenam,
- 220 mínusque adeo est mírum, et ní id fecísset, magis
mirúm foret;
séd non credidi ádeo, ut etiam tótam hanc odissét domum:
quód si scissem, illa híc maneret pótius, tu hinc issés foras. 25

201 oderunt geminandum censuit Umpfenbach (Anal. p. 22) 206 bene om. ABCEP 208 scio Lacheti dant codd.: Sostratae con- tinuat Guyet 210 familiam omnem A 217 illi Muretus: illic codd. 218 proscr. Dziatzko át uide, quam inmerito aëgritudo haec óritur mi abs te, Sóstrata :

rús habitatum abií, concedens uóbis et rei séruuens, súptus uostros ótiumque ut nóstra res possét pati, 225
meó labori haud párcens praeter aéquom atque aetatém meam.
30 nó te pro his curásse rebus, né quid aegre essét mihi!
SO. nó mea opera néque pol culpa euénit. LA.
iunmo máxime :

sóla hic fuisti : in te ómnis haeret cúlpa sola, Sóstrata.
quae híc erant curáres, quom ego uos cúris solui céteris. 230 cúm puella anúm suscepisse ínimicitias nó n pudet?
35 illius díes cúlpa factum? SO. haud équidem dico, mí Laches.

LA. gaúdeo, ita me dí ament, gnati caúsa ; nam de té
quidem

sátis scio peccádo fieri détrimenti níl potest.

SO. quí seis an ea caúsa, mi uir, me ódisse adsimuláuerit, 235 út cum matre plús una esset? LA. quíd ais? non signi hóc sat est,

40 quód heri nemo uóluit uisentem ad eam te intro admíttere?
SO. énim lassam oppidó tun esse aibant : co ad eam non admíssa sum.

LA. tuós esse ego illi móres morbum mágis quam ullam aliam rem árbitor, ét merito adeo ; nám uostrarum núllast quin gnatúm uelit 240 dúcere uxorem ; ét quae uobis plácitast condició datur :

45 úbi duxere inpúlsu uostro, uóstro inpulsu easdem éxigunt.

ii PHIDIPPVS LACHES SOSTRATA

PH. Etsí scio ego, Philúmena, meum iús esse ut te cógam quae ego ímperem facere, égo tamen patrio ánimo uictus fáciam

225 sumptos A nil fieri potest codd.

227 deest in A

234 Fleckeisen: detrimenti

- 245 ut tibi concedam, néque tuae lubídini aduorsábor.
LA. atque éecum Phidíppum óptume uideo : híne iam scibo hoc quíd sit.
 Phidíppe, [etsi] ego me meis ómnibus scio esse ad- 5
 prime obsequéntem,
 sed nón adeo ut mea fácilitas corrúmpat illorum ánimos :
 quod tú si idem facerés, magis in rem et uóstram et nostram id ésset.
- 250 nunc uídeo in illarum ésse te potéstate. PII. heia uéro!
LA. adí te heri de fília : ut ueni, ítidem incertum amísti.
 haud íta decet, si pérpetem hanc uis ésse adfinitátem, 10 celáre te iras. sí quid est peccátum a nobis, prófer :
 aut éa refellendo aút purgando uóbis corrigémus
- 255 te iúdice ipso. sín east retinéndi causa apúd uos, quia aégrast, te mi iniúriam facere árbitror, Phidíppe, si métuís satis ut meaé domi eurétur diligénter. 15
 at íta me di ament, haúd tibi hoc conceédo, etsi illi páter es, ut tú illam saluam mágis uelis quam ego : id ádeo gnati caúsa,
- 260 quem ego íntellexi illam haúd minus quam se ípsum
 magni fácere.
 neque ádeo clam me est, quam ésse eum granitér latu-rum erédam, hoc si rescierit : eó domum studeo haéc prius quam ille 20 ut réleat.
- PII.* Lachés, et diligéntiam uostram ét benignitátem noui ét quae dicis ómnia esse ut díeis animum indúco, 265 et te hóc mihi cupio erédere : illam ad uós redire stúdeo, si fácere possim ulló modo. LA. quae rés te facere id próhibet ?

246 sit Bentley: siet codd. 247 etsi del. Bentley me meis DC: me esse .1: meis me cett. 250 Bentley: potestate esse te codd. 252 perpetem Bentley: perpetuam codd.: hunc post adfin.
habet A 255 Bentley: causa retinendi codd. 260 magni facere A BCPD²F²: magnificare A cum cett. 264 animum induco meum A 266 facere id ADG: id facere cett.

- 25 cho, núm quid nam accusát uirum? PII. minumé:
 nam postquam atténdi magis ét ni coepi cógere ut redíret, sancte adiúrat non pósse apud uos Pámphilo se absénte perduráre.
 aliúd fortasse aliús uiti est: ego sum ánimo leni nátus: 270 non póssum aduorsarí meis. LA. em, Sóstrata! SO.
 heu me míseram!
- 30 LA. certúmme est istuc? PII. núnc quidem ut uidétur: sed num quíd uis?
 nam est quód me transire ád forum iam opórtet. LA.
 eo tecum úna.

iii

SOSTRATA

- Édepol ne nos súmus inique aeque ómnes inuisaé uiris 274
 própter paucas, quae ómnes faciunt dígnae ut uideamúr malo.
 nam íta me di ament, quód me accusat núnc uir, sum extra nóxiam.
 séd non facílest expurgatu: íta ánimum induxerúnt socrus 5 ómnis esse iníquas: hand pol me équidem; nam num-quám secus
 hábui illam ac si ex mé nata esset, néc qui hoc mi 279
 eneniát scio;
 nísi pol filiúm multimodis iam éxspecto ut redeát domum.

ACTVS III

i

PAMPHILVS PARMENO (MYRRINA)

- PAM.* Némini ego plura éx amore acérba credo [esse] homini úmquam oblata quám mi. heu me infelícem! hancine ego uítam parsi pérdere!

271 em A: hem cum S Donatus 278 equidem scripsi: qui-dem codd. 279 Fleckerisen: esset nata codd. 280 multi-modis Faërnus: multis modis cum codd. Donatus exspecto codd.: expeto Bentley et uolg. 281 Dziatzko: acerba credo esse ex amore codd.

hácine causa ego erám tanto opere cúpidus redeundí
domum! hui,

285 quáto fuerat praéstabilius úbiuis gentium ágere aetatem quam húc redire atque haéc ita esse míserum me rescíscere! 5 nám nos omnes quíbus est alicunde áliquis obiectús labos, ómne quod est intérea tempus prius quam id rescítumst lucrost.

PAR. át sic citius quí te expedias hís aerumnis réperias.
sí non rediissés, hae multo fáctae irae essent ámpliores; 10 290 séd nunc aduentúm tuom ambas, Páuphile, scito réuerituras :

rém cognosees, íram expadies, rúrsum in gratiám restitues.
léuia sunt quae tú pergrauia esse ín animum induxtí tuom.

PAM. quid cónsolare me? án quisquam usquam gén-tiumst aéqué miser?

prius quam hanc uxorem dúxi, habebam alibi ánimum
amori déditum :

295 tamén nunquam ausus súm recusare eám quam mi ob- 16
trudít pater :

iam in hác re, ut taceam, quóuis facile scítu est quam 15 fuerím miser.

uix me íllim abstraxi atque ímpeditum in ea éxpediui animúm meum,

uixque húc contuleram : em, nóua res ortast, pórró ab
hac quae me ábstrahát ;

nam aut mátrém ex ea re me aut uxorem in eúlpa inuenturum árbítror :

300 quod quom íta esse inueneró, quid restat nísi porro ut 20 fiám miser?

nam mátris ferre iniúrias me, Párméno, pietás iubet ;
tum uxóri obnoxíus sum : ita olim suó me ingenio pértulit,

288 hui Fleckeisen : cui (ab initio uersus sequentis) codd. 289

Fleckeisen : si non rediisses hae irae factae essent multo ampliores codd. 290 scito Fleckeisen : scio codd. 297 illim Bothe :

illi uel illinc codd. 299 nam aut Fleckeisen : tum codd.

- tot meas iniurias quae numquam in illo patefecit loco.
sed magnum nescio quid necessesse evenisse, Parmeno, 25 unde ira inter eas intercessit quae tam permansit diu. 305
PAR. aut quidem, ere, parum. si vis uero ueram rationem exsequi,
non maxumae eas, quae maxumae sunt interdum irae, iniuriae
faciunt; nam saepe est, quibus in rebus alius ne iratus quidem est,
quom de eadem causast iracundus factus inimicissimus.
30 pueri inter sese quam pro leuibus noxiis iras gerunt! 310 quapropter? quia enim qui eos gubernat animus eum infirmum gerunt.
itidem illae mulieres sunt ferme ut pueri leui sententia:
fortasse unum aliquod uerbum inter eas iram hanc con-ciuisse ita.
PAM. abi, Parmeno, intro ac me uenisse nuntia.
PAR. hem, quid hoc est? PAM. tace.
35 trepidari sentio et cursari rursum prorsum. PAR. 315 age dum, ad fores accedo propius. em, sensistin? PAM. noli fabularier.
pro Iuppiter, clamorem audiui. PAR. tute loquere, me uetas.
(MY.) tace obsecro, mea gnata. PAM. matris uox nisast Philumena.
nullus sum. PAR. qui dum? PAM. perii. PAR. quam ob rem? PAM. nescio quod magnum malum 40 profecto, Parmeno, me celas. PAR. uxorem Philume- 320 nam pauitare nescio quid dixerunt: id si forte est nescio.

306 Fleckeisen: hand quidem herele codd. 307 Fleckeisen:
maxumas . . . iniurias codd. 311 eum *AD*¹: om. cett. 313 conciuisse Donatus: concluserit A: conciuisset *A*²: conciuerit Σ ita
add. Dziatzko 317 loquere Engelbrecht: loqueris codd. 320 profecto Σ: prospecto A

PAM. intérii; quor id míhi non dixti? PAR. quía non poteram una ómnia.

PAM. quid mórbi est? PAR. nesció. PAM. quid? nemon médiuum adduxit? PAR. nescio.

PAM. cesso hinc ire intro, ut hoc quam primum quíd- quid est certó sciam?

325 quo nám modo, Philúmena mea, núnc te offendam ad- 45 féetam?

nam sí periculum ullum ín te inest, perísse me una haud dúbiumst. —

PAR. non úsus factost míhi nunc hunc intró sequi;

nam inuísos omnis nós esse illis séntio:

heri némo uoluit Sóstratam intro admíttere.

330 si fórte morbus ámplior factús siet 50

(quod sáne nolim, méi eri causa máxume), seruom ílico intro iísse dicent Sóstratae, aliquíd tulisse cómmiscentúr mali capiti átque aetati illórum, morbus qui auctus sit:

335 era in crímen ueniet, égo uero in magnúm malum. 55

SOSTRATA PARMENO PAMPHILVS ii

SO. Nesció quid iam dudum aúdio hic tumúltuari mísera:

male métuo ne Philúmenae magis mórbus adgrauéseat:

quod te, Aésculapi, et té, Salus, ne quíd sit huius óro.

nunc ád eam uísam. PAR. heus, Sóstrata. SO. hem.

PAR. iterum ístine excludére.

340 SO. ehem Pármeno, tun híc eras? períú, quid faciam 5 mísera?

non uísam uxorem Pámphili, quom in próxumo híc sit aégra?

PAR. non uísas? ne mittás quidem uiscéndi eausa quémquam;

331 Fleckeisen: maxume eri causa mei codd.
introísse codd.

332 Bentley:

334 Faërnus: siet codd.

- nam quí amat quói odio ipsúst, eum bis fácere stulte dúco:
labórem inanem ipsús capít et illí molestiam ádfert.
- 10 tum fílius tuos íntro iit uidére, ut uenit, quíd agat. 345
SO. quid áís? an uenit Pámphilus? PAR. uenít. SO.
dis gratiam hábeo.
hem, istóc uerbo animus míhi redit et cúra ex corde excéssit.
PAM. iam eá te causa máxime nunc hóc intro ire nólo;
nam sí remittent quídpíam Philúmenae dolóres, 15 omném rem narrabít, scio, contínuo sola sóli, 350 quae inté nos internénerit, unde órtumst initium írae.
atque éccum nideo ipsuun égredi: quam trístist! SO.
o mi gnáte!
PAM. mea máter, salue. SO. gaúdeo uenísse saluom.
sáluan
Philúmenast? PAM. Meliúsculast. SO. utinam ístuc ita di fájint!
- 20 quid tu ígitur lacrimas? aút quid es tam trístis? PAM. 355 recte, máter.
SO. quid fuít tumulti? díe mihi: an dolór repente inuásit?
PAM. ita fáctumst. SO. quid morbi ést? PAM.
febris. SO. cottídiana? PAM. ita áiunt.
i sódes intro, cónsequar iam té, mea mater. SO. fiat. — PAM. tu púeris, Parmeno, óbuiam curre átque eis onera adiúta.
- 25 PAR. quid? nón seiunt ipsí uiam domúm qua ueniant? 360
PAM. céssas?

Néqueo mearum rerum initium ullum inuenire idoneum, unde exordiár narrare, quac necopinanti accidunt;

343 ipsust eum scripsi: ipsus est eum bis facere stulte iudico A: ipsus est bis facere stulte duco (sine eum) Σ 347 istuc A redit A: rediit Σ 348 hoc = huc A (ut saepe) 359 Fleckeisen:
pueris curre Parmeno obuam codd.

pártim quae perspéxi hisce oculis, pártim percepí aúribus :
quá me propter éxanimatum cítiús eduxí foras.

365 nám modo intro me út corripui tímíduS, alio súspicans 5 mórbo me uisúrum adfectam ac sénsi esse uxorem : eí mihi !
póstquam me aspexére ancillae, aduénisse omnes ílico símul exclamant laétae, id quod me dérepente aspéxerant.
séd continuo uóltum earum sénsi inmutari ómnium,

370 quía tam incommode íllis fors obtúlerat aduentúm meum. 10 íua illarum intérea propere praécucurrit núntians mé uenisse : ego eíus uidendi cúpidus recta cósequor.
póstquam intro adueni, éxtemplo eíus mórbum cognouí miser ;

nám neque ut celári posset témpus spatium ullúm dabat, 375 néque uoce alia ac rés monebat ípsa poterat cónqueri. 15 póstquam aspexi, ‘o fácinus indignum’ ínquam et corripui ílico

me índé laerumans, increíble re átque atroci pércitus.
máter consequitúr ; iam ut limen éxieram, ad genna áccidit lácerumans misera ; míseritumst. profécito hoc sic est, út puto :

380 ómnibus nobis út res dant sese, íta magni atque humilés 20 sumus.

hánc habere orátióem mécum principio ínstitit :

‘ó mi Pamphile, ábs te quam ob rem haec ábierit cau-sám uides ;

nám uitiumst oblátum uirgini ólim ab nescio quo ínprobo.
núnce huc confugít, te atque alios pártum ut celaréť suom.’

385 séd quom orata huiús reminiscor, néqueo quin lacru- 25 mém miser.

363 Wagner : quae percepí A : quae accepi Σ 365 intro me ut Σ : me intro (om. ut) A 367 Bentley : ílico omnes codd.

368 Fleckeisen : simul laetae exclamant ‘uenit.’ id quod me derepente BCD²EF : me repente cum cett. Donatus 371 prae-cucurrit cum B Priscianus : praecurrit cett. 378 exieram Dziatzko :

exirem codd. : exibam Ladeuig : ubi limen extra eram Fleckeisen 385 huius A : eius Σ

- ‘quaéque fors fortunast’ inquit ‘nóbis quae te hodie obtulit, pér eam te obsecrámus ambae, sí ius, si fas ést, uti áduorsa eius pér te tecta tácitaque apud omnis sient.
 si únquam erga te esse ánimo amico sénsisti eam, mi
 Pámphile,
 30 sine labore hanc grátiam te ut síbi des pro illa núne rogat. 390 céterum de rédducenda id fácias quod in rem sit tuam.
 párturire eám nec grauidam esse éx te solus cónsuin’s:
 nam áiunt tecum pós duobus cóncubuisse ménsibus.
 túm, postquam ad te nénit, mensis ágitur hic iam séptimus:
 35 quód te scire ipsa índicat res. núne si potis est, Pámphile, 395 máxime uoló doque operam ut clam éueniat partús patrem átque adeo omnis: séd si id fieri nón potest quin séntiant, dícam abortum essé: scio nemini áliter suspectúm fore quín, quod ueri símilest, ex te récte eum natúm putent.
 40 cóntinuo exponétur: hic tibíst nil quiequam incómmodi, 400 ét illi miserae indígne factam iniúriam contéxeris.’
 póllicitus sum et séruare in eo cértumst quod dixí fidem.
 nám de redducénda, id uero ne útiquam honestum esse árbitror,
 née faciam, etsi amór me grauter cónsuetudoque eíus tenet.
 45 láerumo, quae posthác futurast uíta quom in mentém uenit 405 sólitudeque. ó fortuna, ut núnquam perpetuo és bona!
 séd iam prior amór me ad hanc rem exércitatum réddidit, quém ego tum consílio missum féci: idem hunc operám dabo.
 adest Pármeno cum púeris: hunc minumést opus 50 in hác re adesse: nam ólim soli créddi, 410
 eá me abstinnisse ín principio, quóm datast.

389 Fleckeisen: animo esse *codd.*reducenda *codd.*400 tibist nil Fleckeisen: tibi nil est *codd.*406 data pro bona *Donatus et uolg.*408 quem Σ : quam *A*idem hunc Bothe: idem nunc huic ABDEF: item nunc huic cett.

uereór, si clamorem éius hic crebro aúdiat, ne párturire intéllegat. aliquó mihist hinc áblegandus, dúm parit Philúmena.

PARMENO SOSIA PAMPHILVS iv

- 415 PAR. Ain tú tibi hoc incómmodum euenísse iter ?
SO. non hérele uerbis, Pármeno, dicí potest tantúm, quam reapse náuigare incómmodumst.
PAR. itan ést ? SO. o fortunáte, nescis quíd mali praetérieris, qui núnquam es ingressús mare ; 5 420 nam aliás ut mittam míserias, unam hánc uide :
diés triginta aut plús eo in naní fui, quom intérea semper mórtem exspectabám miser :
ita úsque aduorsa témpestate usí sumus.
PAR. odiósum. SO. haud clam me est. dénique 10
herele aufúgerim
425 potiús quam redeam, si eó mihi redeundúm sciam.
PAR. olím quidem te caúsae impellebánt leues, quod núnc minitare fácere, ut faceres, Sósia.
sed Pámphilum ipsum uídeo stare ante óstium :
ite íntro ; ego hunc adíbo, si quid mé uelit. — 15
430 ere, étiam tu hic stas ? PAM. équidem te exspectó.
PAR. quid est ?
PAM. in árcem transcurso ópus est. PAR. quoi hominuí ? PAM. tibi.
PAR. in árcem ? quid eo ? PAM. Cállidemidem hóspitem
Mycónium, qui mecum úna uectust, cónueni.
PAR. períí. nouisse hunc dícam, si saluós domum 20
435 redísset unquam, ut me ámbulando rúmperet ?
PAM. quid céssas ? PAR. quid uis dícam ? an conueniám modo ?

417 quantum pro quam A reapse scripsi : re ipsa codl. 430 etiam tu Guyet : etiam nunc tu codl. equidem Donatus bis in lemm. :
et quidem codl. 436 dicam edd. ant. : nuntiem A : nunc dicam *A*²Σ

PAM. immó quod constitui [me] hódie conuentúrum eum, non pósse, ne me frústra illi exspectét. uola.

25 PAR. at nón noui hominis faciém. PAM. at faciam ut nóueris :

magnús, rubicundus, críspus, crassus, caésius, 440
cadánerosa facié. PAR. di illum pérduint!

quid sí non ueniet? máneamne usque ad uésperum?

PAM. manéto: curre. PAR. nón queo: ita deféssus sum. —

30 PAM. ille ábiit. quid agam infélix? prorsus néscio 445 quo pácto hoc celem quód me orauit Mýrrina, suae gnátae partum; nám me miseret múlueris.

quod pótero faciam, támen ut pietatém colam ;

nam mé parenti pótius quam amori óbsequi

35 opórtet. attat éccum Phidippum ét patrem 450 nideo: hórsum pergunt. quíd dicam hisce incértus sum.

v LACHES PHIDIPPVS PAMPHILVS

LA. Díxiti dudum illám dixisse se éxspectare fílium?

PH. fáctum. LA. uenisse áiunt: redeat. PA. cáusam quam dicám patri, quam ób rem non reddúcam, nescio. LA. quém ego hie audiui loqui?

PA. cértum offirmare ést uiam me quám decreui pérsequi.

5 LA. ípsus est de quo hóc agebam técum. PA. salue, 455
mí pater.

LA. gnáte mi, salué. PH. bene factum te áduenisse, Pámphile,

átque adeo, id quod máximumst, saluom átque ualidum.

PA. créditur.

437 me sustulit Fleckeisen

438 illi Faërnus: ille uel illic codd.

441 cadauerosa codd.: lentiginosa Bentley quem uolg. sequuntur facie
*AD*¹: facies cett.

452 causam quam A: quam causam *A*² cum Σ

453 reducam codd nescio uerbis Pamphili adiungunt codd. et

Fleckeisen: Lacheti dat Dziatzko

457 id exhibet A: om. Σ

LA. áduenis modo? PA. ádmodum. LA. cedo, quíd reliquit Pháunia

eónsobrinus nóster? PA. sane herele hómo uoluptati óbsequens

460 fúit, dum uixit; ét qui sic sunt haúid multum heredém 10 iuuant,

síbi uero hanc relínquont laudem ‘uixit, dum uixít, bene.’

LA. túm tu igitur nil áttulisti plús una hac senténtia?

PA. quídquid est id, quód reliquit, prófuit. LA. immo óbfuit;

nám illum uiuom et sáluom uellem. PH. inpúne
optare istúe licet:

465 ille reuiniseét iam nunquam; et támen utrum malís seio. 15

LA. héri Philumenam ád se accersi hie iússit. die iussísse te.

PH. nóli fodere. iússi. LA. sed eam iám remittet.

PH. scilicet.

PA. ómnem rem seio út sit gesta: aduéniens audiúí modo.

LA. át istos inuidós di perdant, qui haéc lubenter múniant.

470 PA. égo me seio cauísse ne ulla mérito contumélia 20 fíeri a uobis pósset; idque sí nunc memorare híc uelim, quám fideli animo ét benigno in íllam et elementí fui, uére possum, ní te ex ipsa haec mágis uelim reseíscere;

námque eo pacto máxime apud te méo erit ingenió fides,

475 quóm illa, quae nunc in me iniquast, aéqua de me díxerit. 25 néque mea culpa hóc discidium euénisse, id testór deos.

séd quando sese ésse indignam députat, matrí meae quae concedat eíusque mores tóleret sua modéstia, néque alio pactó componi pótis inter eas grátiaſt,

480 ségreganda aut máter a me est, Phídippe, aut Philúmena. 30 nunc me pietas mátris potius cómodum suadét sequi.

461 Fleckeisen: laudem relinquent codd.

468 Bentley: audiui omnia A: audiui omnia modo Σ 478 quae . . . eiusque Bothe:

quae . . . cuiusque *A*²: cui . . . eiusque Σ cum A

479 Bentley:

potest inter eas gratia codd.

- LA.* Pámphile, haud inuító ad auris sérmo mi accessít tuos, quóm te omnis res póstputasse praé parente intéllego;
uérum uide ne impúlsus ira praéue insistas, Pámphile.
- 35 PA. quibus íris nunc impúlsus in illam iníquos sim? 485 quae númquam quicquam ergá me commeritást, pater, quod nóllem, et saepe quód uellem meritám scio;
amóque et laudo et uémenter desidéro:
nam fuísse erga me míro ingenio expértus sum,
- 40 illíque exopto ut rélicuam uitam éxigat 490
cum eó uiro, me qui sit fortunátior, quandóquidem illam a me dístrahit necéssitas.
PII. tibi id ín manust ne fiat. LA. si sanús sies, inbe illám redire. PA. nó n est consiliúm, pater:
- 45 matrís seruiibo cómmodis. LA. quo abís? ades: 495
mane, ínquam: quo abis? — PII. quae haéc est pertinácia?
LA. dixín, Phidippe, hanc rem aégre laturum ésse eum?
quam ob rém te orabam fíliam ut remítteres.
PII. non crédidi edepol ádeo inhumanúm fore.
- 50 ita núnc is sibi me súpplicaturúm putat? 500
si est út uelit reddúcere uxorém, licet;
sin áliost animo, rénumeret dotem húc, eat.
LA. ecce aútem tu quoque próterne iracúndus es!
PII. percóntumax redísti huc nobis, Pámphile!
- 55 LA. decédet iam ira haec, étsi merito irátus est. 505
PII. quia accéssit uobis paululum pecúniae, subláti sunt animi. LA. étiam mecum lítigas?
PII. delíberet renúntietque hodié mihi uelítne an non, ut álii, si huic non ést, siet.
- 60 LA. Phidíppe, ades, audi paúcis. — abiit. quíd mea? 510 postrémo inter se tránsigant ipsi, út lubet,

483 Fleckeisen: postputasse omnis res codd. 485 impulsus nunc A: pulsus nunc cett. plerique: quid ego ira impulsus nunc Bentley
493 sic A: sanus satis sies BCDEFP: si sanu's satis Fleckeisen
506 Fleckeisen: quia paulum (paululum) uobis accessit codd. 507 Fleckeisen: animi sunt codd.

quandó nec gnatus néque hic mi quiequam obtémperant, quae díco parui péndunt. porto hoc iúrgium ad uxórem, quoius haec fíunt consilio ómnia, 515 atque ín eam hoc omne quód mihi aegrest éuomam. 65

ACTVS IV

MYRRINA PHIDIPPVS i

MY. Périi, quid agam? quó me uortam? quíd uiro meo réspondebo
 mísera? nam audiuisse nocem púeri uisust uágientis:
 ita corripuit dérepente táctus sese ad fíliam.
 quód si rescierít peperisse eam, íd qua causa clám me habuisse 520 dícam non edepól scio. 5
 sed óstium conerépuít. credo ipsum éxire ad me: núlla sum.
PH. úxor ubi me ad fíliam ire sénsit, se eduxít foras:
 atque éccam [uideo]. quid ais, Mýrrina? heus tibi díco.
MY. mihine, mí uir?
PH. uír ego tuos sim? tún uirum me aut hómínem deputás adeo esse?
 525 nám si utrúuis hórú, mulier, úmquam tibi uisús forem, nón sic ludibrió tuis factis hábitus essem. MY. quí- 11 bus? PH. at rogítas?
 péperít filia: hém, taces? ex quó? MY. patrem istuc rógitare aequomst?
 périi! ex quo nisi ex íllo censes quóí datast nuptum
 óbsecro?
PH. crédo: neque adeo árbitrari pátris est aliter. séd
 demíror

522 eduxit Bentley: duxit codd. 524 sim A: sum Σ tun Donat. in lemm.: tune CDEFP: tu A cum cett. 527 Fleckeisen:
 istuc patrem rogare (rogitare BCF¹P) est aequom codd. 528
 Fleckeisen: censes nisi ex illo (nisi illo F) codd.

15 quíd sit quam ob rem tánto opere omnis nós celare uólueris 530 pártum, praesertín quom et reete et suó pepererit témpore.
 ádeon pernícíaci esse animo ut púerum praeoptarés perire, éx quo firmiorem inter nos fóre amicitiam pósthac scires, pótius quam adnorsús libidinem ánimi tui esset cum illo nupta!

20 égo etiam illorum ésse hanc culpam erédidi, quae te ést 535 penes.

MY. mísera sum. PH. utinam scíam ita esse istuc!
 séd nunc mi in mentém venit de háe re quod locúta es olim, quom illum generum cépimus:

nám negabas núptam posse fíliam tuam té pati
 eúm eo qui meretríceam amaret, quí pernoctarét foris.

25 MY. quámuis causam hunc súspicari quam ípsam 540
 ueram máuolo.

PH. múlto prius quam tú sciui illum habére amicam, Mýrrina:

uérum id uitium núnquam decreui ésse ego adulescéntiae;
 nám id innatumst. át pol iam aderit, sé quoque etiam quom óderit.

sed ut ólim te ostendísti, eadem esse níl cessauisti
 úsque adhuc,

30 ut fíliam ab eo abdúceres neu quód ego egissem essét 545 ratum.

id núnc indicium haec rés facit, quo pácto factum uólueris.

MY. ádeon me esse péruicacem cénse, quoi matér siem, út eo essem animo, si éx usu esset nóstro hoc matrimónium?

531 Fleckeisen: tempore suo pepererit codd. 533 post hanc A 534 Dziatzko: animi tui libidinem codd. 537 de hac re cum Donato Bentley: ex hac re codd. 541 Fleckeisen: prius sciui quam tu codd. 543 Bentley: id omnibus innatumst codd. et Donat.
in lemm. aderit tempus BCFEP fort. omnibus innatumst: at iam aderit tempus se etiam quom oderit 546 Fleckeisen: res indicium haec codd. 547 eui mater siem AΣ cum Donato: cum ei mater siem *A*²

PH. tūn prospicere aut iúdicare nóstram in rem quod sít potes?

550 aúdisti ex aliquó fortasse, quí uidisse eum díceret 35 éxeuntem aut íntro euntem ad amícam. quid tum póstea?
sí modeste ac ráro fecit [haec], nóne ea dissimuláre nos mágis humanumst quám dare operam id scíre, qui nos óderit?

nám si is posset áb ea sese dérepente auéllere, 555 quáecum tot consuésset annos, nón eum homínem dúcerem 40 néc uírum satis fírmm gnatae. MY. mítte adulescentem óbseéro

ét quae me peccásse aís. abi, sólus solum cónneni, róga uelitne an nón uxorem: si ést ut dicat uéllé se, rédde; sín est autótem ut nolit, récte ego consuluí meae.
560 PH. síquidem ille ipse nón nolt et tu sénsti in eo esse, 45
Mýrrina,

péccatum, aderam quóius consilio fúerat ea par próspecti.
quam ób rem incendor íra, esse ausam fácere haec te iniussú meo:

ínterdico ne éxtulisse extra aédis puerum usquám uelis.
séd ego stultiór, meis dictis quí parere hanc póstulem. 49
565 íbo intro atque edícam seruís, né quoquam ecferrí sinant.—
MY. nullám pol credo múlíerem me míseriorem uíuere:
nam ut híc latus hóc siet, si rem ípsam ut sit rescúerit, non édepol clam me est, quom hóc quod leuiust tám
animo iracundó tulit:

nec quá uia senténtia eius póssit mutarí scío.
570 hoc mí únum ex plurimís miseriis rélieuom fuerát malum, 55 sí púerum ut tollam cógit, quóius nos quí sit nescimús pater:

552 haec secl. Wagner: fecit haec A: haec uel hoc fecit uel facit codd. 558 sic Σ: uxorem annon A 560 sensi Faërus cf.

Andr. 882: sensisti codd. et Donat. in lemm. 561 Σ: ea par fuerat A 567 Fleckeisen: hoc sit si ipsam rem ut siet codd.

568 BCEP: iracundo animo uel animo irato A cum cett.

nam quóm compressast gnáta, forma in ténebris nosci nón quitast,
 neque détractum ei tum quíequamst, qui post póssit
 nosci quí siet;
 ipse éripuit ui, in dígito quem habuit, uírgini abiens ánulum.
 60 simul uéreor Pamphilúm ne orata nóstra nequeat diútius 575 celáre, quom sciét alienum púerum tolli pró suo.

ii S O S T R A T A P A M P H I L V S (L A C H E S)

SO. Non clám me est, gnate mí, tibi me esse súspectam, uxorém tuam
 proptér meos mores hínce abisse, etsi éa dissimulas sédulo:
 uerum íta me di ament ítaque optingant éx te quae exoptém mi, uti numquám seiens commérui, merito ut cáperet odium 580 illúm mei.
 5 teque ánte quod me amáre rebar, eí rei firmastí fidem; nam mi íntus tuos patér narrauit módo, quo pacto me hábueris praepósitam amorí tuó: nunc tibi me eértumst contra grátiam
 referre, ut apud me praémium esse pósito pietatí scias.
 mi Pámphile, hoc et uóbis et meae cómmodum famae 585
 árbitor:
 10 ego rús me abituram hinc ésse cum tuo cérto decreuí patre, ne méa praesentia óbstat neu causa úlla restet rélicua, quin túa Philumena ád te redeat. PA. quaéso quid istue cónsulist?
 stultítia illius uícta ex urbe tú rus habitatúm migres?

573 sic Σ nisi quod F om. post et noscier pro nosci exhibent omnes:
 detractum ei est quicquam qui posset post nosci A 579 exoptem
 A: exopto Σ mi uti Fleckeisen: mihi | ut codd. 580 illam mei cum Donato Faërnus: illa mei codd. 581 Bentley cum codd.
 nonnullis: ante quam ABCDEF: ambas lectiones adgnoscat Donatus 586 Fleckeisen: hinc cum tuo me esse codd. 589 Fleckeisen: illius stultitia codd.

- 590 haud fácies, neque sinam út qui nobis, máter, male dictúm uelit,
mea pérťinacia ésse dicat fáctum, haud tua modéstia. 15
tum tuás amicas te ét cognatas désere're et festós dies mea caúsa nolo. SO. níl [pol] iam istae res míhi uoluptatís ferunt :
dum aetátis tempus túlit, perfuncta sátis sum ; satias iám tenet 595 studiórum istorum. haec míhi nunc curast máxuma, ut ne quóí mea
longínquitas aetátis obstet mórtēme expectét meam. 20
hic uídeo me esse inuísam innerito : témpust me concédere.
sic óptume, ut ego opínor, omnis causas praecidam ómni-bus :
et me hác suspicióne exsoluam et illis morem géssero.
600 sine me óbsecro hoc ecfúgere, uolgu's quód male audit
múlierum.
PA. quam fórtunatus céteris sum rébus, absque una hác 25
foret,
hanc mátre'm habens talem, illam autem uxorem ! SO.
óbsecro, mi Pámphile,
non túte incommodám rem, ut quaeque est, ín animum inducés pati ?
si cétera ita sunt út uis itaque uti ésse ego illa exístumo, 605 mi gnáte, da mi hanc uéniam, reddue illam. PA. uae miseró mihi !
SO. et míhi quidem : nam haec rés non minus me mále 30
habet quam te, gnáte mi.

LACHES SOSTRATA PAMPHILVS iii

LA. Quem cum ístoc sermonem hábueris, procul híne stans aceepi, úxor.

593 pol om. A 597 me post tempust om. Σ 604 sunt ita A illa Erasmus : illam codd. 605 Flockeisen : da ueniam hanc mihi codd.

istuc sapere est, qui úbi quomque opus sit ánimum possit fléctere,

quód faciendum sít post fortasse, ídem hoc nunc fecerít sic ultro.

SO. fòrs fuit pol. LA. ábi rus ergo hinc: íbi ego te et 610 tu mé feres.

5 SO. speró mecastor. LA. í ergo intro et compóne quae tecúm simul

ferántur: dixi. SO. ita út iubes faciám. — PA. pater.

LA. quíd uis, Pamphile? PA. híne abire mátrem?
minime. LA. quíd ita tu istuc [uis]?

PA. quía de uxore incértus sum etiam quíd sim factu-rús. LA. quíd est?

quíd uis facere nísí redducere? PA. équidem eupio et 615
nún contineor;

10 séd non minúam meúm consiliúm: ex úsu quod est, id
pérsequar:

non erédo ea gratiá concordés mágis, si redducám, fore.

LA. nescias: uerúm tua re fert níl, utrum illaec fécerint, quándo haec aberit. ódiosa haec est aétas adulescéntulis.

é medio aequom excédere est: postrémo nos iam fábula 620

15 sumus. Pámphile, 'senex átque anus.'

séd uídeo Phidippum égredi per témpus: accedámus.

iv PHIDIPPVS LACHES PAMPHILVS

PII. Tibí quoque edepol sum íratus. Philúmena, grauitér quidem; nam herele fáctumst abs te túrpiter.
etsí tibi causast de hác re: mater te ínpulit. 625

huic uéro nullast. LA. ópportune té mihi,

5 Phidíppe, in ipso témpore ostendís. PII. quid est?

608 Fleckeisen: est sapere codd. possis BCEFP 609

Fleckeisen: si feceris sine ultro codd. 613 Dziatzko: quid ita istuc A: quid ita istuc uis Σ 617 Dziatzko: eredo . . . si non redducam codd. 618 nescias cum BCD Donatus et Eugraph. in lemm.: nescio cett. cum A 620 fabula Faber: fabulae codd.

PA. quid respondebo his? aut quo pacto hoc operiam?

LA. die filiae rus concessuram hinc Sóstratam:

630 ne réuereatur, minus iam quo redeat domum. PII. ah, nullam de his rebus culpam commeruit tua:

a Mýrrina haec sunt mea uxore exorta omnia. 10

PA. mutatio fit. PII. ea nos perturbat, Laches.

PA. dum ne redducam, turbent porro quam uelint.

635 PII. ego, Pámphile, esse inter nos, si fieri potest, adfinitatem hanc sane perpetuam uolo;
sin est ut aliter tua ista sit sententia, 15

accipias puerum. PA. sensit peperisse: occidi.

LA. puerum? quem puerum? PII. natus est nobis nepos:

640 nam abducta a uobis praegnas fuerat filia, neque fuisse praegnatem umquam ante hunc sciuí diem.

LA. bene, ita me di ament, nuntias, et gaudeo 20

natum illum et tibi illam saluam. sed quid mulieris uxorem habes aut quibus moratam moribus?

645 nosne hoc celatos tam diu! nequeo satis,
quam hoc mihi uidetur factum prae, próloqui.
PII. non tibi illud factum minus placet quam mihi, Laches. 25

PA. etiam si dudum fuerat ambiguum hoc mihi, nunc non est, quom eam sequitur alienus puer.

650 LA. nullá tibi, Pamphile, hic iam consultatíost.

PA. perii. LA. hunc uidere saepe optabamús diem, quom ex te esset aliquis, qui te appellarét patrem. 30
euénit: habeo grátiam dis. PA. nullus sum.

LA. reddúe uxorem ac nóli aduorsari mihi.

655 PA. patér, si ex me illa líberos uellét sibi aut sé esse mecum níptam, satis certó scío, non elám me haberet quód celasse intéllego. 35
nunc quom eius alienum á me esse animum sentiam

628 operiam Bentley: aperiam codd. 633 Bentley: mutatio fit Phidippo continuant codd. 634 turbant A 637 Dziatzko:
tua siet codd. 649 sequitur Bentley: consequitur codd.

- (nec cónuenturum inté nos posthac árbitror), quam ob rém redducam? LA. máter quod suasít sua, 660 adúlscens mulier fécit. mirandúmne id est?
- 40 censén te posse réperire ullam múlierem,
 quae cáreat culpa? an quía non delineúnt uiri?
PH. nosmét uidete iám, Laches et tu Pámphile, remíssan opus sit uóbis, reductán domum: 665
 neutra ín re uobis dífficultas á me erit.
- 45 uxór quíd faciat, ín manu non ést mea.
 sed quíd faciemus púero? LA. ridiculé rogas:
 quidquíd futurumst, huíc suom reddas scílicet, ut alámus nostrum. PA. quem ípse neglexít pater, 670 ego alám? LA. quid dixti? eho an nón alemus, Pám-phile?
- 50 prodémus quaeso pótius? quae haec améntiast?
 enim néro prorsus iám tacere nón queo;
 nam cógis ea quae nólo ut praesente hóc loquar.
 ignárum censes tuárum lacrumarum ésse me? 675
 aut quíd sit id quod sóllicitere ad húnec modum?
- 55 primum hánec ubi dixti cáusam, te proptér tuam matrém non posse habére hanc uxórém domi, pollicítast ea se cóncessuram ex aédibus.
 nunc póstquam ademptam hanc quóque tibi causám 680
 uidés,
 puér quía clam te est nátus, nactus álteram es.
- 60 errás, tui animi sí me esse ignarúm putas.
 aliquándó tandem huc ánimum ut adiungás tuom, quam lóngum spatium amándi amicam tíbi dedi!
 sumptús quos fecisti ín eam quam animo aequó tuli! 685
 egi átque orauí técum uxorem ut dúceres,
- 65 tempús dixi esse: inpúlsu duxistí meo.
 [quae tum óbsecutus míhi fecisti ut decuerat.]

663 quia codd.: qui Fleckeisen 666, 667 inverso ordine praebent codd.: transp. Bothe 673 prosus A: prosus Z 688, 690 induxit Bentley

- nunc ánimum rursum ad méretricem adduxti tuom ; 690 [eui tu óbsecutus fáeis huic adeo iniúriam:]
nam in eándem uitam té reuolutum dénuo uideo ésse. P.A. mene? L.A. te ípsum; et facis iniúriam: 70 confingis falsas cáusas ad discórdiam, ut cum illa uiuas, téstem hanc quom abs te amóneris:
695 sensítque adeo uxor; nam eí causa alia quae fuit, quam ob rem ábs te abiret? P.H. pláne hic diuinát:
nam id est.
P.A. dabo iús iurandum níl esse istorúm mihi. L.A. ah, 75 reddúce uxorem, aut quam ób rem non opus sit cedo.
P.A. non ést nunc tempus. L.A. púerum accipias;
nam ís quidem
700 in eúlpa non est: póst de matre uídero.
P.A. omnímódís ego misér sum nec quid agám scio:
tot mé nunc rebus míserum concludít pater. 80
abíbo hinc, praesens quándo promoueo parum:
nam púerum iniussu erédo non tollét meo, 705 praesértim in ea re quóm sit mí adiutrix socrus.
L.A. fugis? hém, nec quiequam cérti respondés mihi? — num tibi uidetur ésse apud sesé? sine: 85 puerúm, Phidippe, míhi cedo: ego alam. P.H. máxume.
non mírum fecit [mea] úxor, si hoc aegré tulit:
10 amárae mulierés sunt, non facile haec ferunt.
proptérea haec irast; nam ípsa narrauit mihi.
id ego hóc praesente tibi nolueram dicere, 90
neque illí credebam prímo: nunc uerúm palamst.
nam omníno abhorrere ánimum huic uideo a nuptiis.
15 L.A. quid érgo agam, Phidíppe? quid das cónsili?
P.H. quid agás? meretricem hanc primum abeundam céneó:

689 adduxti Funck: inducti codd. 697 istorum A 701
Fleckeisen: omnibus modis miser sum codd. 704 tollet A: tol-lent Σ 709 mea secl. Fabricius

- 95 orémus, accusémus, granius dénique
 minitémur, si cum illo hábnerit rem póstea.
LA. faciam út mones. eho púere, curre ad Bácehidem hanc uicinam nostram : huc éuoca uerbís meis. 720 at te óro porro in háe re adiutor sís mihi. PH. ah, 100 iam dúdum dixi idémque nunc dicó, Laches :
 manére adfinitátem hanc inter nós nolo, si ulló modo est ut póssit : quod speró fore.
 sed uín adesse me úna, dum istam cónuenis? 725
LA. immo uéro abi, aliquam púero nutricém para.

ACTVS V

i BACCHIS LACHES

- BA.* Non hóc de nihilost, quód Laches me núnc conuentam esse éxpetit ;
 nec pól me multum fállit, quin quod súspicor sit quód uelit.
LA. uidéndumst ne minus própter iram hinc ínpetrem quam póssiem, aut né quíd faciam plús, quod minus me póst fecisse 730
 sátius sit.
 5 adgrédiar. Bacchis, sálue.
BA. salué, Laches. LA. credo édepol te non níl mi-rari, Bácehis,
 quíd sít quapropter te húc foras puerum éuocare iússi.
BA. ego pól quoque etiam tímida sum, quom uénit [mi] in mentem quae sim, ne nómen mihi quaesti óbsiet ; nam móres facile tútor. 735

719 puere curre Umpfenbach : puer curre A et Σ praeter F, quem curre puer praebentem sequitur Bentley 729 hinc . . . possiem Bentley : hanc . . . possim codd. 730 Fleckeisen : post me (uel me post) minus codd. 734 mi del. Faërnus 735 obsiet Faërnus :
 obstat codd.

LA. si uéra dicis, níl tibi est a mé pericli, múlter; 16 nam ea aetáte iam sum, ut nón siet peccáto mi ignosci aéquom:

quo mágis omnis res caútius ne témere faciam adeúro;
nam si id facis factúraué es, bonás quod par est fácere, 740 inscítum offerre iniúriam tibi ínmerenti ínquom est.

BA. est mágnam ecastor grátiam de istáe re quod tibi 15
hábeam;

nam quí post factam iniúriam se expúrget, parum mi prósit.
séd quid istuc est? LA. meúm receptas fílium ad te Pámphilum. BA. ah.

LA. síne dicam: hic [uxorem] hanc prús quam duxit, uóstrum amorem pértuli.

745 máne: non dum etiam díxi id quod te uólui. hic nunc uxórem habet:

quaére alium tibi fírmiozem amícum, dum tibi témpus [consulendi] est; 20

nám neque ille hoc animo érit aetatem, néque pol [tu eadem] ista aetás tibi.

BA. quis id aít? LA. soerus. BA. méne? LA. te ipsam: et fíliam abduxít suam, púerumque ob eam rém elam noluit, nátus qui est, extínguere.

50 BA. álid si scirem quí firmare méam apud uos possém
fidem,

sánctius quam iús iurandum, id póllicerer tíbi, Laches, 25 [me] ségregatum habuísse, uxorem ut dúxit, a me Pámphilum.

739 si id facis Donatus: si facis A: si id nunc facis Σ 740
edd. ant.: tibi merenti A: tibi me immerenti Σ 741 Guyet:
magna ... gratia ... quam codd. 744 Fleckeisen: om. hic, exhi- bent uxorem codd. 745 te add. Bentley 746 Fleckeisen:
fírmiozem amicum Σ : amicum fírmiozem A: amicum om. uolg.
747 Dziatzko: erit aetatem A: om. aetatem Σ cum *A*² eadem istae (ista G) aetate Σ cum *A*²: eadem ista aetas A 750 Bentley: aliut si scirem A: aliud si scirem Σ 752 me sustulit Bentley

LA. lépida es. sed sein, quíd nolo potius sódes facias?

BA. quíd? cedo.

LA. eás ad mulierés hue intro atque ístuc ius iurándum item pólliceare illís. exple animum eis téque hoc crimine éx- 755 pedi.

30 BA. fáciam, quod pol, si ésset alia ex hóc quaestu, hand facerét, scio,

ut de tali caúsa nuptae múlieri se osténderet.

séd nolo esse fálssa fama gnátum suspectúm tuom, née leniorem uóbis, quibus est mínime aequom, eum nidérier

ínmerito: nam méritus de me est, quód queam illi ut 760 cónmodem.

35 LA. fácilem beniulúmque lingua túa iam tibi me réd-didit:

nám non sunt solae árbitratae haec; égo quoque etiam
crédidi.

núnc quam ego te esse praéter nostram opínionem cómperi, fác eadem ut sis pórró: nostra utére amicitia, út uoles.

áliter si faciés . . me reprínam, ne aégre quícquam ex 765 me aúdias.

40 uérum hoc te moneo únum, amicus quális sim aut quid póssiem

pótius quam inimicús, periclum fácias.

ii

PHIDIPPVS

LACHES

BACCHIS

PH. Nil apud mé tibi defíeri patiar, quín benigne quód opust praebeátur.

sed quóm tu satura atque ébria es, puer út satur sit fácito.

753 Muretus: quiduis cedo codd.

754 item Rein: idem codd.

765 Fleckeisen: reprínam me codd.

766 hoc te Σ: te hoc A qualis sim amicus codd.

768 Dziatzko: quod opus sit (est) E

benigne codd.

769 es Bentley: eris codd.

- 770 LA. nostér socer, uideó, uenit: pueró nutricem addúcit.
 Phidíppe, Bacchis déierat persáncte. PII. haecine east? 5
LA. haéc est.
PII. nec pól istae metuont deós neque eas respícere
 deos opínor.
BA. anéillas dedo: quólubet cruciátu per me exquíre.
 haec rés hic agitur: Pámphilo me fácere ut redeat úxor 775 opórtet: quod si pérficio, non paénitet me fámae, solám fecisse id quód aliae meretríces facere fúgitant. 10
LA. Phidíppe, nostras múlieres suspéctas fuisse fálsó nobís in reapse inuénimus: porro háne nunc experiámur.
 nam sí compererit crímini tua [se uxor] fálsó credidísse, 780 missam íram faciet; sín, ut est, ob eám rem iratus gnátust, quod péperit uxor clam, íd leuest: cito áb eo haec íra 15 abscédet.
 profécto in hac re níl malist, quod sít discidio dígnum.
PII. nelím quidem hercle. LA. exquíre: adest: quod sátis sit, faciet ípsa.
PII. quid mi ístaec narras? án quia non tute ípse
 dudum audísti,
 785 de hac re ánimus meus ut sít, Laeches? illís modo explete ánimum.
LA. quaeso édepol, Bacchis, quód mihi es pollícita tute 20 ut séries.
BA. ob eám rem nin ergo íntro eam? LA. i, [atque]
 exple ánimum eis, coge ut crédant.
BA. eo, etsí scio pol eís fore meum cónspectum inui-sum hódie:
 nam núpta meretrici hóstis est, a uíro ubi segregátast.
 90 LA. at haéc amicae erúnt, ubi quam ob rem aduénis rescíscent:

772 eas Fleckeisen: has codd. 779 se uxor secl. Dziatzko

780 sín ut est . . . gnátust Krauss: sín autem . . . gnatus A: sín autem est . . . gnatus Σ 787 atque sustulit Brix.

25 PH. at eásdem amicas fóre tibi promítto, ubi rem cognórint; nam illás errore et té simul suspícione exsólues.

BA. perii, pudet Philúmenae. me séquimini intro huc ámbae. —

LA. quid est míhi quod malim quám quod huic intéllego eueníre, ut grátiam ineat síne suo dispéndio et mihi prósit? 795

30 nam si ést ut haec nunc Pámphilum uere áb se segregárit, scit síbi nobilitatem éx ea re nátam et gloriam ésse: feret grátiam eius unáque nos síbi ópera amicos iúnet.

iii

PARMENO BACCHIS

PA. Édepol ne meam érus esse operam députat paruí preti, qui ób rem nullam misit, frustra ubi tótum desedí diem, 800

Mýconium hospitém dum exspecto in árce Callidémidem.

ítaque ineptus hódie dum illi sédeo, ut quisque uénerat,

5 áccedebam: ‘aduléseens, dic dum míhi quaeso, es tu Mýconius?’

“nón sum.” ‘at Callidémidés?’ “non.” ‘hóspitem eequem Pámphilum híc habes?’ omnes negabant: néque eum quemquam esse 805 árbitor.

dénique herele iám pudebat: ábii. sed quid Báechidem áb nostro adfíne éxeuntem uídeo? quid huic hic ést rei?

10 BA. Pármeno. opportúne te offers: própere curre ad Pámphilum.

PA. quíd eo? BA. dic me oráre ut ueniat. PA. ád te? BA. immo ad Philúmenam.

791 Fleckeisen: rem ubi cognouerint Σ : uersus deest in A 794

Fleckeisen: quod mihi codd. 797 ex ea re Donatus: ex eo et rem codd.

798 Fleckeisen: referet gratiam ei *AD*²: referetque cett. 803 mihi ins. Dziatzko tun es cum Goueano uolg. 809 uenia A

- 810 PA. quid rei est? BA. tua quod nil re fert, pércontari
désinas.
PA. nil dicam aliud? BA. étiam: cognosse ánulum illum Mýrrinam gnátae suae fuisse, quem ipse ólim mi dederát. PA.
scio.
tántumne est? BA. tantum: áderit continuo, hóc ubi 15
ex te audíuerit.
séd cessas? PA. minime équidem; nam hodie míhi potestas haúd datast:
815 íta cursando atque ámbulando tótum hunc contrinuí diem.—
BA. quantam óbtuli aduentú meo laetítiam Pamphilo hódie!
quot cómmodas res áttuli! quot autem ademi cúras!
gnatum eí restituo, paéne qui harum ipsúsque opera 20
périit:
uxórem, quam nunquam ést ratus posthác se habiturum,
réddo;
820 qua ré suspectus suó patri fuit ét Phidippo, exsólui:
hic ádeo his rebus ánulus fuit ínitium inueniúndis.
nam mémini abhinc mensís decem fere ad me nocte príma confúgere anhelantém domum sine cómite, nini plénium, 25 cum hoc ánulo: extinui ílico: ‘mi Pámphile.’ inquam, ‘amábo,’ 825 quid éxanimatus óbsecro es? [aut] unde ánulum istum nácti’s?
dic mi.’ ille alias res ágere se simuláre. postquam id
nídeo,
nescío quid suspiciárier, magis coépi instare ut dícat.
homo sé fatetur ni ín uia nescío quam compressísse, 30

811 Fleckeisen: aliud dicam codd. 813 audíuerit Bentley:
audierit codd. 818 Bentley: qui paene codd. 820 Fleckeisen:
et Phidippo fuit codd. 825 aut induxit Umpfenbach 826 id D¹E²: om. cett.

dicítque sese illi ánulum, dum líctat, detraxísse.
 eum haec cognouit Mýrrina, in dígito modo me habén-te. 830 rogat únde sit: narro ómnia haec: inde ést cognitio fácta, Philúmenam compréssam esse ab eo et fílium inde hunc nátum.

- 35 haec tót propter me gaúdia illi cóntigisse laétor:
 etsi hóc meretrices áliae nolunt; néque enim est in rem nóstram,
 ut quísqum amator núptiis lactétur. uerum ecástor 835
 numquam ánimum quaesti grátia ad malás adducam pártis.
 ego illó dum licitumst úsa sum benígno et lepidó et cómi.
 40 incómmode mihi núptiis euénit, factum fáteor:
 at pól me fecisse árbitror, ne id mérito mi eueníret.
 multa éx quo fuerint cómmoda, eius incómmoda ae- 840 quomst férre.

iv PAMPHILVS PARMENO BACCHIS

PAM. Víde, mi Parmeno, étiam sodes, út mi haec certa et clára attuleris, né me in breue conlícias tempus gaúdio hoc falsó frui.

PAR. uísunst. PAM. certen? PAR. cérté. PAM.
 deus sum, si hóc itast. PAR. uerum réperies.

PAM. máne dum sodes: tímco ne aliud crédam atque aliud núnties.

- 5 PAR. máneo. PAM. sic te díxe opinor, ínuenisse 845
 Mýrrinam

Báechidem anulúm suum habere: PAR. fáctum. PAM.
 eum quem olim eí dedi;

éaque hoc te mihi núntiare iússit. itane est fáctum?

PAR. ita, inquam.

PAM. quís me est fortunátior uenustátisque adeo plénior?

829 anulum digito dum luctat A: digito om. Σ 830 Bentley:
 habentem codd. 837 Fleckeisen: dum illo codd. 842 conlícias Paumier: conicias codd. 845 dixit Bentley: dixisse codd.

- ého tu, pro hoc te nuntio qui donem? qui? qui? nescio.
- 850 PAR. át ego scio. PAM. qui? PAR. nihilo enim; 10
 nám neque in nuntio neque in me ipso tibi boni quid sit scio.
PAM. égon qui ab oreo mórtuom me réducem in lucem
 féceris
 sinám sine munere á me abire? ah, númium me ingratúm putas.
 sed Báechidem eecam uideo stare ante óstium:
 855 me expéctat credo: adibo. BA. salve, Pámphile. 15
PAM. o Báechis, o mea Báechis, seruatríx mea!
BA. bene fáctum et uolup est. PAM. fáctis ut cre-dám facis;
 antíquamque adeo tuám uenustatem óbtines,
 ut uóluptati obitus, sérmo, aduentus túos, quo quomque
 aduénieris,
 860 sempér sit. BA. at tu ecástor morem antíquom atque 20
 ingenium óbtines,
 ut únus omnium hómo te uiuat núsquam quisquam blándior.
PAM. hahahaé, tun mi istuc? BA. récte amasti, Pámphile, uxorém tuam;
 nam númquam ante hunc diém meis oculis eám, quod
 nossem, uíderam:
 perlíberalis uísast. PAM. dic uerum. BA. íta me di ament, Pámphile.
 865 PAM. dic mi, hárum rerum núm quid dixi meó patri? 25
BA. nil. PAM. néque opus est
 adeó muttito. nón placet fieri hóc item ut in comoédiis, omnia ómnes ubi resciscunt. hic quos fúerat par resciscere,
- 849 Fleckeisen cum *D*¹: egone te pro hoc nuntio quid donem? quid?
 quid? cett. 859 aduentus codd. et Donat. et Eugraph.: adfatus Bentley: om. edd. cett. 861 sic A: unus hominum homo z ceterum numquam codd.: nusquam edd. uett. om. quisquam A 866 non placet . . . item Fleckeisen: placet non . . . itidem codd.

sciúnt; quos autem nón scire aequomst, néque resciscent néque scient.

BA. ímmo etiam qui hoc óccultari fácilius credás dabo.

30 Mýrrina ita Phidípโป dixit iúre iurandó meo 870 sé fidem habuisse ét propterea té sibi purgatum. PAM.

óptumest :

spéroque hanc rem esse éuenturam nóbis ex senténtia.

PAR. ére, licetne scíre ex te hodie, quíd sit quod fecí boni?

aút quid istuc est quód uos agitis? PAM. nón licet.

PAR. tamen súspicor :

35 égo hunc ‘ab orco mórtuom’ quo pácto . . ! PAM. 875

nescis Pármeno,

quántum hodie profúeris mihi et ex quánta aerumna extráxeris.

PAR. ímmo [uero] scio, neque hóc inprudens féci.

PAM. ego istuc sátis scio. PAR. ah, témere quicquam Pármeno praetéreat quod facto úsus sit?

PAM. séquere me intro, Pármeno. PAR. sequor.

équidem plus hodié boni

40 féci inprudens quám sciens ante húnce diem umquam. 880

CANTOR. plaúdite !

S68 Fleckeisen: non autem aequomst scire codd. S77 uero sustulit Bothe ah Conradt: an in initio uersus sequentis codd. 878 hunc uersum Parmenoni dant BCDEFP, Pamphilo cett.: Bentley cum Donato Bacchidi laetanti et Parmenonem ridenti tribuendum censet.

ADELPHOE

INCIPIT · TERENTI · ADELPHOE · ACTA · LVDIS · FVNERALIB
 L · AEMELIO · PAVLO · QVOS · FECERE · Q · FABIVS · MAXVMVS
 P · CORNELIVS · AFRICANVS · EGERE · L · AMBIVIVS · TVRPPIO · L
 HATILIVS · PRAENESTINVS · MODOS · FECIT · FLACCVS · CLAVDI
 5 TIBIS · SARRANIS · TOTA · GRAECA · MENANDRV · FACTA · VI · M
 CORNELIO · CETHGO · L · ANICIO · GALLO · COS

1 Adelphoe codd. pterique: Adelphos A: Adelphe LF funeralibus A: funebribus C: funeribus cett. 2 quos Σ : modos A 5 Graeca Menan-dru post Adelphoe exhibet A

C. SVLPICI APOLLINARIS PERIOCHA

Duós cum haberet Démea adulescéntulos, dat Mícioni frátri adoptandum Aéschinum, sed Ctésiphonem rétinet. hunc citharístriæ lepóre captum súb duro ac tristí patre fratér celabat Aéschínus; famám reï, amórem in sese tránsferebat; déniqúe fidéinam lenoni éripit. uitiáuérat idem Aéschínus ciuem Átticam paupéreulam fidémque dederat hánc sibi uxorém fore.
 Deméa iurgare, gráuitér ferre; móx tamen ut uéritas patefáctast, ducit Aéschínus uitiátam, potitur Ctésipho citharístriam.

5

10

PERSONAE

[PROLOGVS]	SOSTRATA MATRONA
MICIO SENEX	CANTHARA ANVS
DEMEA SENEX	GETA SERVOS
SANNIO LENO	HEGIO SENEX
AESCHINVS ADVLESCENS	DROMO PVER
SYRVS SERVOS	CANTOR
CTESIPHO ADVLESCENS

MVTAE

MERETRIX BACCHIS	PARMENO SERVOS
PAMPHILA VIRGO

PROLOGVS

Postquám poëta sénsit scripturám suam ab iníquis obseruári et aduersários rapere ín peiorem pártém quam acturí sumus indício de se ipse érit, nos eritis iúdice,

5 laudín an uitio dúci id factum opórteat. 5

Synápothnescontes Díphili comoédiast :

eam Cómmorientis Plaútus fecit fábulam.

in Graëca adulescens ést, qui lenoni éripit meretrícem in prima fábula : eum Plantús locum

10 reliquit integrum. eum híc locum sumpsít sibi 10 in Adélphos, uerbum dé uerbo expressum éxtulit.

eam nós acturi súmus nouam : pernóscite furtúmne factum existumetis án locum reprénsum, qui praetérítus neclegéntiast.

15 nam quód isti dicunt máliuoli, homines nóbilis 15 hunc ádiutare adsídúeque una seríbere :

quod illí maledictum uéhemens esse existumant, eam laúdém híc ducit máxumam, quom illís placet, qui uóbis uniuórsis et populó placent,

20 quorum ópera in bello, in ótio, in negótio 20 suo quísque tempore úsust sine supérbia.

dehinc ne éxpeetetis árgumentum fábulae :

senés qui primi uénient, ei partem áperient,

in agéndo partem osténdent. facite aequánimitas

25 poëtae ad scribendum aúgeat indústriam. 25

3 post hunc uersum duos aliquos excidisse statuit Umpfinboch 5 an om. A : add. A² 15 F. : maledici A : maleuoli rett. 16 hunc Ritschl, ex Suet. Vit. Tr. : eum codd. 17 quid A 24 post hunc uersum lacunam indicauit Bentley

ACTVS I

Micio

Storáx! — non rediit hác nocte a cena Aésehinus, neque séruolórū quísquam, qui aduersum fuerant.
profécto hoc uere dicunt: si absis úspiam aut ibi si cesses, éuenire ea sátiús est

5 quae in te úxor dicit ét quae in animo eógitat 30

iráta quam illa quae parentes própítii.
nóxór, si cesses, aut te amare eógitat aut téte amari aut pótare atque animo óbsequi, et tibi bene esse sóli, sibi quom sít male.

10 ego quía non rediit fílius quae eógito! 35 quibus núne sollicitór rébus! ne aut ille álserit aut úspiam ceciderit aut praefrégerit aliquíd. uah, quemquamne hómīnem in animo instítuere aut paráre quod sit eárius quam ipse ést sibi!

15 atque éx me hie natus nón est, sed ex fratre. ís meo 40 dissímili studiost iam índé ab adulescéntia:

ego hanc elementem uítam urbanam atque ótium secútus sum et, quod fórtunatum istí putant, uxórem nunquam habui. ille contra haec ómnia:

20 ruri ágere uítam; sémper parce ac dúriter 45 se habére; uxorem dúxit; nati filii duo: índé ego hunc maiórem adoptaui mihi;

edúxi a paruolò, hábui, amaui pró meo;
in eó me oblecto: sólum id est carúm mihi.

25 ille út item contra me hábeat facio sédulo: 50

26 storax Σ: astorax A (litteram primam induxit A²): falsa lectio ex falsa litterae Graecae primam personam denotantis interpretatione exorta est redit (ut saepe) A 34 deest in A 36 Donatus in lemm.: et quibus codd. 40 is meo scripsi: meo is A: meo induxit A²: is adeo cum Σ Bentley 50 adsedulo A do, praetermitto, nōn necesse habeo omnia pro meo iure agere; postremo, alii clanculum patres quae faciunt, quae fert adulescentia, ea ne me celet consuefeci filium.

55 nam qui mentiri aut fallere insuerit patrem aut 30 audebit, tanto magis audebit ceteros.

pudore et liberalitate liberos retinere satius esse credo quam metu.

haec fratri mecum nōn conveniunt neque placent.

60 venit ad me saepe clamans quid agis, Micio? 35

quor perdis adulescentem nobis? quor amat?

quor potat? quor tu his rebus sumptum suggeris, nescitu nimio indulges? nimium ineptus es.

nimium ipse est durus praeter aequomque et bonum;

65 et errat longe mea equidem sententia, 40 qui imperium credat gravius esse aut stabilius ui quod fit quam illud quod amicitia adiungitur.

mea sic est ratio et sic animum induco meum:

malō coactus qui suum officium facit,

70 dum id rescitum iri credit, tantisper pauet; 45 si sperat fore clam, rursum ad ingenium redit.

ille quem beneficio adiungas ex animo facit, studet par referre, praesens absensque idem erit.

hoc patriumst, potius consuefacere filium

75 sua sponte recte facere quam alieno metu: 50 hoc pater ac dominus interest. hoc qui nequit, fateatur nescire imperare liberis.

sed estne hic ipse, de quo agebam? et certe is est.

nescio quid tristem nideo: credo iam, ut solet,

80 iurgabit. saluom te advenire, Demea, 55

gaudemus.

56 codd.: han dubie Fleckeisen: frandare Ritschl: fort. aut | manum adibit, tanto magis adibit ceteris: aut habent in fine u. 55 FP

60 clamans Guyet: elamitans codd.

62 putat A

63 indulgis A

65 sic scripsi: mea quidem codd.

70 A: cauet Σ

77 nescire

A: nescire se A²GDV: se nescire cett.

ii

DEMEA MICIO

DE. Ehem, opportúne? te ipsum quaérito.MI. quid trístis es? DE. rogás me, ubi nobis Aéschinus siét, quid tristis égo sim? MI. dixin hóc fore?quid fécit? DE. quid ille fécerit? quem néque pudet

5 quicquám nec metuit quémquam neque legém putat 85

tenére se ullam. nam illa quae antehac fácta sunt omítto: modo quid désignauit? MI. quid nam id est?DE. forés ecfregit átque in aedis ínruit

aliénas; ipsum dóminum atque omnem fámiliam

10 mulcáuit usque ad mórtem; eripuit múlIERem 90

quam amábat: clamant ómnes indigníssime factum ésse. hoc adueniénti quot mihi, Mício, dixére! in orest ómni populo. dénique, si cónferendum exémplumst, non fratrém uidet

15 rei dáre operam, ruri ésse parem ac sóbrium? 95 nullum húius simile fáctum. haec quom illi, Mício, dicó, tibi dico: tú illum corrumpí sinis.

MI. homine ímperito númquam quicquam iniústius, qui nísi quod ipse fécit nil rectúm putat.

20 DE. quorsum ístue? MI. quia tu, Démea, haec male iúdicas. 101 non ést flagitium, míhi crede, adulescéntulum scortári neque potáre: non est; néque fores eefrúgere. haec si néque ego neque tu fécimus, non sñt egestas fácere nos. tu núnc tibi

25 id laúdi ducis quód tum fecisti ínopia? 105 iniúriumst; nam si ésset unde id fieret, faecerémus. et tu illúm tuom, si essés homo, sinerés nunc facere, dúm per aetatém licet,

82, 83 ubi . . . quid codd.: ubi nobis Aeschinust? scin iam quid*Ritschl* 87 designauit AE cum Donato: dissignauit cum Eugraphiocodd. cett. 96 Micio] mio A 99 sini pro nisi A 104 siid A:sinit Σ 107 homo om. A: add. *A*² 108 seneres A licet*ABCEF²G²*: decet A: DF¹GV

- potiús quam, ubi te expectátum eiecissét foras,
 110 aliénioire aetáte post facerét tamen. 30
DE. pro Iúppiter! tu homo ádigis me ad insániam.
 non ést flagitium fácere haec adulescéntulum? MI. ah, áuseúta, nè me optúndas de hac re saépíus.
 tuom fílium dedísti adoptandúm mihi;
 115 is méus est factus: sí quid peccat, Démea, 35
 mihi péccat; ego illi máxumam partém fero.
 obsónat, potat, ólet unguenta: dé meo;
 amat: dábitur a me argéntum, dum erit cómmodum.
 ubi nóñ erit, fortásse excludetúr foras.
 120 forés ecfregit: réstituentur; díscidit 40 uestém: resareíctur: est — dis grátia — est únde haec fiant, ét adhuc non molésta sunt.
 postrémo aut desine aut cedo quemvis árbitrum:
 te plúra in hac re péccare ostendam. DE. eí mihi!
 125 pater ésse disce ab illis, qui ueré sciunt. 45
MI. natúra tu illi páter es, consiliís ego.
DE. tun cónsiliís quicquam? MI. áh, si pergis, ábiero.
DE. sicíne agis? MI. an ego tótiens de eadem re aúdiam?
DE. curaést mihi. MI. et mihi eúraest. uerum, Démea, 130 eurémus aequam utérque partem: tu álterum, 50 ego item álterum; nam ambós curare própemodum repóscere illum est quém dedisti. DE. ah, Mício!
MI. mihi sic uidetur. DE. quíd istie? si tibi istúc placet, profúndat perdat péreat, nil ad me áttinet.
 135 iam sí uerbum unum pósthac. . . MI. rursum, Démea, 55 iráscere? DE. an non crédís? repeton quém dedi?
 aegrést: alienus nóñ sum; si obsto. . . em, désino.
 unúm uis eurem: cúro; et est dis grátia, quom ita út uolo est. isté tuos ipse séntiet

121 et est dis gratia A: et om. Σ 122 est scripsi: et codd. Σ
 . . . sunt *A*² cum Σ (molesta non sunt E): non om. A 127 consilii AE: consulis cett. 135 unum A: ullum Σ 136 repeto A 139 sesentiet A

- 60 postérius . . nolo in illum grauius dicere. — 140
MI. nec níl neque omnia haec sunt quae dicít: tamen non níl molesta haec súnť mihi, sed osténdere me aegré pati illi nólui; nam itást homo:
 quom plăco, aduorsor sédulo et detérreo,
- 65 tamen uíx humane pátitur; uerum si aúgeam 145
 aut étiam adiutor sim éius iracúndiae, insániam profécto eum illo. etsi Aéschímus non núllam in hae re nóbis facit iniúriam.
 quam hic nón amauit méretricem? aut quoi nón dedit
- 70 aliqúid? postremo núper (credo iam ómnium 150 taedébat) dixit uélle uxorem dúcere.
 sperábam iam deféruisse adulescéntiam:
 gaudébam. ecce autem de íntegro! nisi quídquid est,
 uolo scíre atque hominem cónuenire, si ápud forunst.

ACTVS II

SANNIO AESCHINVS (PARMENO) [BACCHIS?]

SA. Óbsecro. populáres, ferte mísero atque innocéti 155
 auxílium:

súbuenite inopi. AE. ótiose: núnciam ilico híc consiste.
 quíd respectas? níl periclist: númquam, dum ego adero,
 híc te tanget.

SA. égo istam inuitis ómnibus . .

5 AE. quamquámst scelestūs, nón committet hódie umquam iterum ut uápulet.

SA. Aéschine, audi, né te ignarum fuísse dicas meórum 160
 morum,

144 cum plăco *A*² Σ : quod A lénō ego sum. AE. seio. SA. át ita, ut usquam fuít fide quisquam óptima.

tú quod te postérius purges, hanc iniuriám mihi nolle fáctam esse, huius non fáciam. crede hoc, égo meum ius
pérsequar:

néque tu uerbis sólues unquam, quód mihi re male 10
féceris.

165 nóui ego uostra haec 'nóllem factum: iús iurandum iniúria hac

dábitur te esse indígnum,' indignis quom égomet sim acceptús modis.

AE. ábi prae strenue ác fores aperi. SA. céterum hoc nilí facis?

AE. í intro nunciám tu. SA. enim non sinam. AE.
áccede illuc, Pármēno:

núnium istue abísti: hic propter húnē adsiste: em, sic 15
nolo.

170 caue núnciam oculos á meis oculis quóquam demoueás tuos, ne móra sit, si immuerím, quin pugnus cóntinuo in mala haéreat.

SA. istúe uolo ergo ipsum éxperiri. AE. em, sérua.
omitte múlterem.

SA. o fácinus indígnúm! AE. geminabit nísi caues.

SA. ei miseró mihi!

AE. non ínnueram; uerum ín istam partem pótius 20 peeccató tamen.

175 i núnciam. — SA. quid hóc reist? regnumne, Aéschine, hic tu pössides?

AE. si pössiderem, ornátus esses éx tuis uirtútibus.

162 hancuriam A: in add. A²: hanc mihi iniuriam DG: hanc iniuriam mihi cell. 165 sic scripsi: insur. dabitur te esse | indig-

num iniuria hac codd. 168 Fleckeisen: nunciam enim A: iam

nunc tu (nunc tu iam DG) at enim Σ 171 pugnus A 173

o . . . mihi A: caues est monosyll.: SA. o miserum facinus. AE.

geminabit nisi caues. SA. ei miseriam Σ

SA. quid tibi rei mecumst? AE. níl. SA. quid? nostin quí sim? AE. non desídero.

SA. tetigín tui quiequam? AE. si áttigisses, férres in-fortúnium.

25 SA. qui tibi magis licét meam habere, pró qua ego argentúm dedi?

respónde. AE. ante aedis nón fecisse erit mélius hic 180 conuícium;

nam sí molestus pérgis esse, iam íntro abripiere átque ibi usque ád necem operiére loris. SA. lóris liber? AE.
síe erit.

SA. o hómínem impurum! hícine libertatem áiunt esse aequam ómnibus?

30 AE. si sátis iam debacchátus es, leno, aúdi si uis núnciam.

SA. egon débacchatus sum aútem an tu in me? AE. 185
mítte ista atque ad rém redi.

SA. quam rém? quo redeam? AE. iámme me uis dícere id quod ad te áttinet?

SA. cupio, aéquí modo aliquid. AE. uah, leno iníqua me non uólt loquí.

SA. lenó sum, pernícíés communis, fáteor, adulescéntium, 35 periúrus, pestis: támen tibi a me núlla ortast iniúria.

AE. nam hercle étiam hoc restat. SA. illuc quaeso 190 rédi, quo coepisti, Aéschine.

AE. minís uiginti tú illam emisti (quaé res tibi uortát male!):
argénti tantum dábitur. SA. quid? si ego tibi illam nolo uéndere,

cogés me? AE. minime. SA. námque id metuí. AE.
néque uendundam cénseo,

40 quae líberast; nam ego líberali illam ádsero causá manu.
nunc uíde utrum uis, argéntum accipere an caúsam 195 meditarí tuam.

179 qui *A*² Σ : quid A 182 operire A 185 ista A Σ : istaec *A*² 188 Fleckeisen: fateor post sum habent codd. 194 causamet manu A delíbera hoc, dum ego rédeo, leno. — SA. pró supreme Iúppiter!

mínime miror qui ínsanire occípiunt ex iniúria.

dómo me eripuit, uérberauit; me ínuito abduxít meam;

hómíni misero plús quíngentos cólaphos infregít mihi. 45

200 ób malefacta hæc tántidem emptam póstulat sibi trádier.
uérum enim quando béne promeruit, fiat: suum ius póstulat.

áge iam cupio, sí modo argentum réddat. sed ego hoc háriolor:

úbi me dixeró dare tanti, téstis faciet ílico uéndidisse mé. de argento sómniū: ‘mox; crás redi.’ 50

205 íd quoque possum férre, modo sí réddat, quamquam iniúriumst.

uérum cogito íd quod res est: quádo eum quaestum occeperis,

áccipiunda et mússitanda iniúria adulescéntiumst.

séd nemo dabít: frustra egomet mécum has rationés puto.

SYRVS SANNIO

ii

SY. Tace, égomet conueniam ípsū: cupide accípiat
iam faxo ác bene

210 dicát secum etiam esse áctum. quid istuc, Sámio, est quod te aúdio

nesció quid concertásse cum ero? SA. núnquam uidi iníquiū

certátionem cómparatam, quam hæc hodie inter nós fuit:
ego uápulando, ille uérberando, usque ámbó defessí sumus. 5

SY. tua cúlpa. SA. quid facerem? SY. ádulescénti mórem gestum opórtuit.

205 modo si Bentley: si modo codd. 203 quaestum] questum A occeperis Donatus: inceperis codd. 209 ac Fleckeisen: atque etiam codd. (atque etiam om. G)

SA. qui pótui melius, quí hodie usque os praébui? 215

SY. age, seís quíd loquar?

pecúniám in locó neelegere máximum interdúmst lu-erum. hui,

metuísti, si nunc dé tuo iure cóncessisses paúlulum [atque],

10 adúléscenti esses mórigeratus, hómínium homo stultíssime, ne nón tibi istue faéneraret. SA. égo spem pretio nón emo.

SY. numquám rem facies : ábi, inescare néscis homines, 220 Sánnio.

SA. credo ístue melius ésse ; nerum ego númquam adeo astutús fui,

quín quídquid possem mállem auferre pótius in prae-séntia.

15 SY. age, nóui tuom animúm : quasi iam usquam tibi sint uigintí minae, dum huic óbsequare ! praétereá autem te áiunt proficiséi Cyprum, SA. hem !

SY. coemisíse hinc quae illuc néheres multa, náuem 225
conductam : hóc scio, animús tibi pendet. úbi illine, spero, rédieris tamen, hóc ages.

SA. nusquám pedem. perii hércle : hac illi spe hóc inceperúnt. SY. timet :

20 iniícei scrupulum hómíni. SA. o scelera ! illúd uide, ut in ípso articulo opprésit ! emptae múlieres complúres et item hinc ália quae portó Cyprum. 230

nisi eo ád mercatum uénio, damnum máximumst.
nunc si hóc omitto ac túm agam ubi illine rédiero,

217 atque secl. Fleckeisen 220 Bothe: nescis inescare codd.
222 in om. A 223 tanti pro iam Fleckeisen qui om. age 226 ubi illim, ut spero, rediero, tum tu hoc ages Fleckeisen 232 actum codd. et Donatus

- nil ést: refrixerít res: ‘nunc demúm uenis? 25
 quor pássu’s? ubi eras?’ út sit satius pérdere 235 quam aut núnc manere tám diu aut tum pérsequi.
SY. ianne énumerasti id quód ad te rediturúm putes?
SA. hocine illo dignumst? hocine incipere Aéschinum, per oppréssionem ut hánc mi eripere póstulet! 30
SY. labáscit. unum hoc hábeo: uide si sátis placet:
 240 potiús quam uenias ín periclum, Sámio, seruésne an perdas tótum, diuiduóm face;
 mínas decem conrádet alicunde. SA. eí mihi!
 etiám de sorte núnc uenio ín dubiúm miser? 35
 pudét nil? omnis déntis labefecít mihi; 245 praetérea colaphis túber est totúm caput:
 etiam ínsuper defraúdat? nusquam abeo. SY. út lubet:
 num quíd uis quin abeam? SA. imóno hercle hoc quaesó, Syre:
 ut ut haéc sunt aeta, pótiús quam litís sequar, 40
 meum míhi reddatur, sáltem quanti emptást, Syre.
 250 scio te ántehac non esse úsum amicitia mea:
 memorém me dices ésse et gratum. SY. sédulo faciám. sed Ctesiphónem uideo: laétus est de amíca. SA. quid quod te óro? SY. paulispér mane. 45

CTESIPHO

SANNIO

SYRVS

iii

- CT.* Abs quíuis homine, quóm est opus, beneficiúm accipere gaúdeas:
 255 uerum énim nero id demúm iuuat, si quem aéquomst facere is béne facit.
 o fráter frater, quíd ego nunc te laúdem? satis certó
 scio,

235 quam aut hic nunc BCEFP: quam hic nunc DG tum Σ : cum A 239 si om. A: *add. A*² 240 periculum A 250 Fleckeisen:
 te non usum antehac A: te non esse usum antehac *A*² Σ numquam ita magnifice quicquam dicam, id uirtus quin superet tua.

5 itaque unam hanc rem me habere praeter alios praeci-puam arbitror,

fratrem homini nemini esse primarum artium magis principem.

SY. o Ctésipho. CT. o Syre, Aeschinus ubist? SY. 260
illum, te expectat domi. CT. hem!

SY. quid est? CT. quid sit? illius opera, Syre, nunc
uuo. festiuum caput, qui quom omnia sibi post putarit esse prae meo com-

modo,

10 maledicta, famam, meum laborem et peccatum in se transulit.

nil pote supra. quid nam foris crepuit? SY. mane, mane: ipse exit foras.

iv A E S C H I N U S C T E S I P H O S Y R U S S A N N I O

AE. Vbist ille sacrilegus? SA. me quaerit. num quid 265 nam efert? occidi:

nil uideo. AE. ehem opportune: te ipsum quaero: quid fit, Ctésipho?

in tutost omnis res: omitte uero tristicium tuam.

CT. ego illam hercle uero omitto, qui equidem te ha-beam fratrem: o mi Aeschine!

5 o mi germane! ah, uereor coram in os te laudare am-plius, ne id adsentandi magis quam quo habeam gratum facere 270 existumes.

259 frater A 262 qui quom omnia Dziatzko: qui ignominia A: qui omnia Σ putarit codd.: putant uolg. 263 laborem Nonius:
amorem codd. 264 pote Donatus: potest codd. 268 illam ...
uero *A*²: hercle om. A: illam facile hercle uero D: illam facile uero cett. qui equidem scripsi: qui quidem codd.

AE. age inépte, quasi nunc nón norimus nós inter nos, Ctésipho!

hoc míhi dolet, nos séro rescisse ét rem paene in eúm locum

redísse, ut si omnes eúperent tibi nil póssent auxiliárier.

CT. pudébat. AE. ah, stultítia istaec, nón pudor. 10
tam ob páruolam

275 rem paene e patria! túrpe dietu. deós quaeso ut istaec próhibeant.

CT. peccáui. AE. quid aít tándem nobis Sánnio? SY.
iam mítis est.

AE. ego ad forum ibo, ut húne absolvam; tu i íntro ad illam, Ctésipho.

SA. Syre, ísta. SY. eamus; námque hic properat ín Cyprum. SA. non tám quidem, quam uís: etiam maneo ótiosus híc. SY. reddetur: né 15 time.

280 SA. at ut ómne reddat. SY. ómne reddet; táce modo ac sequere háe. SA. sequor. —

CT. heus heús, Syre. SY. quid est? CT. óbsecro te hercle, hómínem istum impuríssimum quam prímum absoluitóte, ne, si mágis inritatús siet, aliqua ad patrem hoc permánet atque ego túm perpetuo périerim.

SY. non fíet, bono animo és: tu cum illa te íntus ob- 20
lecta ínterim

285 et léctulos inbe stérni nobis ét parári cétera.

ego iám transacta ré conuortam mé domum cum obsónio.

CT. ita quaeso. quando hoc béne successit, hílare hunc sumamús diem.

272 Fleckeisen: nos paene sero scisse et paene in eum locum codd.:
nos paene sero scisse et in eum rem locum Bentl. 278 non Mad- rig: ne codd. 279 quam uís Donatus: quamvis codd. 281 te om. A²DEFG 284 te íntus] íntus te A 287 hílare Pau- mier: hílarem codd.: sed hílaris ap. Ter. non reperitur

ACTVS III

SOSTRATA

CANTHARA

SO. Óbsecro, mea nútrix, quid nunc fíet? CA. quid fiát rogas?

recte élepol spero. SO. módo dolores, méa tu, occipiunt prímulum.

CA. iam núnc times, quasi númquam adfueris, núm- 290
quam tute pépereris?

SO. miserám me! neminem hábeo, solae súmus; Geta autem hic nó n adest,

5 néc quem ad obstetrícem mittam, néc qui accersat Aéschinum.

CA. pól is quidem iam hic áderit; nam numquam únun intermittít diem quin sémpér ueniat. SO. sólus mearum míseriarumst rémediun.

CA. é re nata mélius fieri haud pótuit quam factúmst, 295 era,

quándo uitium oblátumst, quod ad illum áttinet potíssumum,

10 tálem, tali ingénio atque animo, nátum ex tanta fámilia.

SO. ita pol est ut dícis: saluos nóbis deos quaeso út siet.

ii

GETA

SOSTRATA

CANTHARA

GE. Nunc illud est, quom, si ómnia omnes síua consilia cónferant

atque huíc malo salútem quaerant, aúxili nil ádferant, 300 quod míhique eraeque fíliaeque erílist. uae miseró mihi!

289 Cantharae uerba continuat A: modo . . . primulum Sostratae tri-buunt alii codd. 290 iamnum A 297 ingenio Bentley: genere codd. 300 auxilii A

tot res repente circumvallant se unde emergi non potest :
uis egestas iniustitia solitudo infamia. 5 hocene saechum ! o scelera, o genera sacilega, o hominem impium !

305 SO. me miseram ! quid nam est quod sic uideo timidum et properantem Getam ?

GE. quem neque fides neque ius iurandum neque illum misericordia

repræssit neque refléxit neque quod partus instabat prope, quoi miserae indigne per uim uitium obtulerat. SO. 10 non intéllego

satis quae loquitur. CA. propius obsecro accedamus, Sóstrata. GE. ah,

310 me miserum ! uix sum compos animi, ita ardeo iracundia.
nil est quod malim quam illam totam familiam dari mi obuiam,

ut ego hanc iram in eos euomam omnem, dum aegritudo
haec est recens.

[satis mihi id habeam supplicii, dum illós ulciscar meó modo.]
seni animam primum exstinguerem ipsi, qui illud pro- 16
duxit scelus :

315 tum autem Syrum impulsorem, uah, quibus illum lacera-rem modis !

sublimen medium arriperem et capite pronum in terra statuerem,

ut cerebro dispergat uiam.

adulescenti ipsi eriperem oculos, post haec praecipitem 20 darem.

ceteros ruereim agerem raperem tunderem et prosternerem.

320 sed cesso eram hoc malo impertire propere ? SO. reuo-cemus : Geta. GE. hem,

308 indignae A 309 satius quae loquitur A : satis quae loquatur *A*Σ proprius A 312 iram hanc Σ eos duplicat A 313 proscrispsit Guyet 316 sublimen Fleckeisen : sublimem codd.
pronum Paumier : om. A : primum Σ

- quísquis es, sine me. SO. égo sum Sostrata. GE. úbi east? te ipsam quaérito, te éxpecto; oppido ópportune te óbtulisti mi óbuiam.
 25 éra . . SO. quid est? quid trépidas? GE. ei mi! CA.
 quíd festinas, mí Geta?
 ánimam recipe. GE. prórsus . . SO. quíd istue 'prórsus' ergost? GE. périimus.
 áctumst. SO. eloquere [ergo], óbsecro te, quíd sit? 325
GE. iam . . SO. quid 'iám,' Geta?
GE. Aéschinus . . SO. quid is érgo? GE. alienus ést ab nostra fámilia. SO. hem!
 périi. qua re? GE. amáre ocepit áliam. SO. uae míseraé mihi!
 30 GE. néque id occulte fért: a lenone ípsus eripuíť palam.
SO. sátine hoc certumst? GE. cértum. hisce oculis égomet uidi, Sóstrata. SO. ah, me míseram! quid iam crédas? aut quoi crédas? no- 330
 strumne Aéschinum,
 nostrám uitam omnium, ín quo nostrae spés opesque omnés sitae
 erant! quí sine hac iurábat se unum núnquam uictu-rúm diem!
 35 qui se ín sui gremió positurum púerum dicebát patris, ita óbsecraturum út liceret hánc sibi uxorem dúcere!
GE. era, lácrumas mitte ac pótius quod ad hanc rem 335
 ópus est porro próspice:
 patiámurne an narrémus quoipiam? CA. aú au, mi homo, sánun es?
 an hoc próferendum tíbi uidetur úsquam [esse]? GE.
 mi equidem nón placet.

321 es et me om. A 324 periinus edd. ant.: perinus (solito errore) codd. 325 ergo habent ADG: om. cett. 329 certum hisce Σ : certum his A: certe his *A*² 330 iam credas Σ : credasam
A: credas iam *A*¹ 334 Σ : si A: se Umpfenbach et uolg. 337 Bentley: usquam esse A: esse usquam Σ mi equidem scripsi: mihi quidem codd.

iam primum illum alieno animo a nobis esse res ipsa indicat. 40 nunc si hoc palam proferimus, ille infitias ibit, scito : 340 tua fama et gnatae uita in dubium ueniet. tum si maxime fateatur, quomammet aliam, non est utile hanc illi dari.

 quapropter quoque pacto tacitost opus. SO. ah, minime gentium :

non faciam. GE. quid ages? SO. proferam. CA. 45
 hem, mea Sôstrata, uide quam rem agas.

SO. peiore res loco non potis est esse quam in quo nunc sitast.

345 primum indotatast; tum praeterea, quae secunda ei dōs erat,

perit: pro uirginē dari nuptum nōn potest. hoc reliquomst:

si infitias ibit, testis mecum est anulus quem amiserat.

postrēmo quando ego conscia mihi sum a me culpam 50
 esse hanc procul,

neque pretium neque rem ullam intercessisse illa aut
 me indignam, Geta,

50 expariar. GE. quid istic? cedo, ut melius dicis. SO.
 tu quantum potes

abi atque Hégioni cognato eius rem enarrato omnem ordine;

nam is nostro Simulō fuit summus et nos coluit maxime.

GE. nam hercle alius nemo respicit nos. SO. prōpera 55
 tu, mea Cānthara,

currere, obstetricem accēse, ut quom opus sit ne in mora nobis siet.

339 ille om. A ad seio A²: sat om. A 344 potis est Faërus:
 potest codd. sitast A²: siest A 347 amiserat BCFGP: mise-rat A: amiserat ipse D: ipse amiserat E 349 illam aut me A²BCDE: illumaute A 350 cedo Bentley: accedo codd. dicis Priscianus: dicas codd. 351 ordinem A 353 nam A²:
 cum A respiciet A

iii

D E M E A S Y R U S

- DE.* Dispérui! Ctesiphónem audiui filium 355
 uná fuisse in ráptione cum Aéschino.
 id mísero restat míhi mali, si illúm potest, qui aliquóí reist etiam, eum ád nequitiam addúcere.
- 5 ubi ego illum quaeram? crédo abductum in gáneum 360
 aliquó: persuasit ille impurus, sát scio.
 sed cecúm Syrum ire uídeo: iam hinc scibo úbi siet.
 atque hérele hic de grege illost: si me scúserit eum quaérítare, núnquam dicet eárnufex.
- 10 non óstendam id me uélle. SY. omnem rem módo seni 365 quo pácto haberet énarramus órdine:
 nil quécquam uidi laétius. DE. pro Iúppiter, hominís stultitiam! SY. cónlaudauit filium;
 mihi, qui íd dedissem cónsilium, egit grátias.
- 15 DE. disrúmpor! SY. argentum ádnumerauit fíleo; 370 dedít praeterea in súmptum dimidiúm minae;
 id dítributum sáne est ex senténtia. DE. hem, huic mándes, si quid récte curatúm uelis.
SY. ehem Démea, haud aspéxeram te. quíd agitur?
- 20 DE. quid agátur? uostram néqueo mirarí satis 375
 ratiónem. SY. est herele inépta; ne dicám dolo [atque] absúrda. piscis céteros purgá, Dromo;
 gongrum ístum maxumum ín aqua sinito lúdere tantísper: ubi ego rédiero, exossábitur;
- 25 prius nólo. DE. haecin flagítia! SY. mi equidem nón 380
 placent,
 et clámo saepe. sálsamenta haec, Stéphanio,
 fac mácerentur pulchre. DE. di nostrám fidem!

360 sas scio *A*²: sat om. A 365 enarrauius A: enarrauimus *A*² 372 hic uersus Phormioni 689 iterum obtruditur 375 atque secl.
Fleckeisen 377 gongrum AD 379 haecin Fleckeisen: haecine codd. mi equidem scripsi: mihi quidem codd.

- utrum studione id sibi habet an laudi putat fore, si perdidit gnatum? uae misero mihi!
uidere uideor iam diem illum, quom hinc egens 30 385 profugiet aliquo militatum. SY. o Démea, istuc est sapere, non quod ante pedes modest uidere, sed etiam illa quae futura sunt prospicere. DE. quid? istaec iam penes uos psaltriat?
SY. ellam intus. DE. eho, an domist habiturus? SY. 35
eredo, ut est
390 demencia. DE. haecin fieri! SY. inepta lenitas patris et facilitas praua. DE. fratris me quidem pudet pigetque. SY. nimium inter uos, Démea, (non quia ades praesens dico hoc) pernium interest.
tu, quantus quantus, nil nisi sapientia es, 40 395 ille somnium. num sineres uero illum tuum facere haec? DE. sinerem illum? aut non sex totis mensibus
prius olfecissem quam ille quicquam coeperet?
SY. uigilantiam tuam tu mihi narras? DE. sic siet modo ut nunc est, quaeso. SY. ut quisque suum uult 45 esse, itast.
400 DE. quid eum? uidisti hodie? SY. tuumne filium?
abigam hunc rus. iam dudum aliquid ruri agere arbitror.
DE. satin scis ibi esse? SY. oh, qui egomet produxi.
DE. optumest:
metui ne haereret hic. SY. atque iratum admodum.
DE. quid autem? SY. adortus iurgio fratrem apud forum 05 de psaltria ista. DE. ain uero? SY. uah, nil retineat; 51 nam ut numerabatur forte argentum, interuenit

383 $A^2 \Sigma$: fores si A 391 facilitas $DEGF^2P^2$: facultas ABC
394 quantus quantus codd. 395 futilis (futilis) ante somnium habent (praeter C^1 et P) Σ num add. Klette illum tuum A : illum tu tuum uel tu illum tuum Σ 396 sinerem A^1 : sinere A 397 coeperit $G^2D^2F^2$: coeperit $ABPC^2$: ceperit C^1 405 ista Fleck- eisen: istae codd. uah codd.: istae . . . ah Bothe et uolg.

- homo de ínprouiso : eoépít clamare ‘o Aéschine, haecín flagítia fácere te! haec te admíttere 55 indígna genere nóstro!’ DE. oh, lacrumo gaúdio!
SY. ‘non tu hóc argentum pérdis, sed uitám tuam.’ 410
DE. saluós sit, spero. est símilis maiorúm suom. SY. hui!
DE. Syre, praéceptorum plénust istorum ille. SY. phy!
domi hábuit unde dísceret. DE. fit sédulo:
60 nil praétermitto; cónsuefacio; déniqúe inspícere tamquam in spéculum in uitas ómnium 415
iubeo átque ex aliis súmere exemplúm sibi: ‘hoc fácito.’ SY. recte sáne. DE. ‘hoc fugito.’ SY. cállide.
DE. ‘hoc laúdíst.’ SY. istaec rés est. DE. ‘hoc uitió datur.’
65 SY. próbissime. DE. porro autóem . . SY. non hercle ótiumst
nunc mi aúscultandi. píscis ex senténtia 420 naetús sum: ei mihi ne córrumpantur caútíost;
nam id nóbis tam flagítiumst quam illa, Démea,
non fácere uobis quae modo dixi; et quód queo 70 conséruis ad eundem ístunc praecipió modum:
‘hoc sálsumst, hoc adústumst, hoc lautúmst parum; 425 illúd recte: iterum síc memento.’ sédulo moneó quae possum pró mea sapiéntia:
postrémo tamquam in spéculum in patinas, Démea, 75 inspícere iubeo et móneo quid facto úsus sit.
inépta haec esse nós quae facimus sentio; 430
uerúm quid facias? út homost, ita morém geras.
num quíd uis? DE. mentem uóbis meliorém dari.
SY. tu rús hinc ibis? DE. récta. SY. nam quid tu híc agas, 70 ubi sí quid bene praecipias, nemo obtémperet? —
DE. ego uéro hinc abeo, quándo is quam ob rem huc 435
uéneram
rus ábiit: illum cíuro unum, ille ad me áttinet:

409 gaudia A 412 plenus es A 415 inuitast omnium A 416 exemplum] simplum A 417 facio A 422 quam] nam A 436 attinet] admeat A

- quando ita nolt frater, de istoc ipse uiderit.
 sed quis illie est quem uideo procul? estne Hégio tribúlis noster? sí satis cerno, is est hérele. uah, 85 440 homo amícus nobis iam índe a puero! o dí boni, ne illíus modi iam nóbis magna cúium penúriast antíqua [homo] uirtute ac fide!
 haud cito mali quid órtum ex hoc sit públiee.
 quam gaúdeo, ubi etiam híius generis réliquias 90 445 restáre uideo! ah, únere etiam núne lubet.
 oppériar hominem hic, út salutem et cónloquar.

HEGIO DEMEA GETA (PAMPHILA) iv

- HE.* Pro di ímmortales, fácinus indignúm, Geta!
 quid nárras? GE. sic est fáctum. HE. ex illan fámilia tam inlíberale fácinus esse ortum! o Aéschine, 50 pol haúd paternum istúe dedisti! DE. uidelicet de psáltria hac audíuit: id illi núne dolet 5 aliéno; pater eius nílí pendit. eí mihi, utinam híc prope adesset álienbi atque audíret haec!
HE. nisi fácient quae illos aéquomst, haud sic aúferent.
 55 GE. in té spes omnis, Hégio, nobís sitast:
 te sólum habemus, tú es patrónus, tú pater: 10
 illé tibi moriens nós commendauít senex:
 si déseris tu, périmus. HE. caue díxeris:
 neque fáciam neque me sátis pie posse árbítror.
 60 DE. adíbo. saluere Hégionem plúrimum iubeo. HE. óh, te quaerebam ípsum: salue, Démea. 15
DE. quid aútem? HE. maior fílius tuos Aéschinus, quem frátri adoptandúm dedisti, néque boni

437 A²: ita nos ita nolt A 439 Fleckeisen: tribunus A is A²Σ: bis A 441 neque illius A 442 homo sustulit Guyet 445
 ah Fleckeisen: uah codd.: om. edd. plerique 448 illan edd. ant.:
 illam A: illa E 452 A: pater est A²: pater is Σ nihil AD¹G:
 nihili cett. 458 perimus codd. dextris A neque liberalis fūctus officiūmst uiri.

DE. quid istūc est? HE. nostrum amicum noras Sīmul- 465
lum

- 20 aequālem? DE. quid nī? HE. fīliam eius uirginem nitiūit. DE. hem! HE. mane: nōn dum audisti, Démea, quod ést grauissimum. DE. án quicquam est etiam ámplius?
HE. nero ámplius; nam hoc quídem ferundum aliquó modost:

persuásit nox amór uinum adulescētia: 470

- 25 humánumst. ubi scit fáctum, ad matrem uirginis nenit ípsus ultro lácerumans orans óbsecrans fidém dans, iurans se íllam ducturúm domum.
ignótumst, tacitumst, créditumst. uirgo éx eo compréssu grauida fáctast: mensis [hic] décumus est: 475 30 ille bónus uir nobis psáltriam, si dís placet, paráuit quicum uíuat; íllam déserit.

DE. pro cérton tu istaec dícis? HE. mater uirginis in médiost, ipsa uirgo, res ipsa, híc Geta praetérea, ut captus ést seruorum, nōn malus 480

- 35 neque inércs: alit illas, sólus omnem fámiliam
susténtat: hunc abdúce, uinci, quaére rem.

GE. immo hércle extorque, nísi ita factumst, Démea.
postrémo non negábit: coram ipsúm cedo.

DE. pudét: nec quid agam néque quid huic respóndeam 485

- 40 sció. [PA.] miseram me, dífferor dolóribus!
Iunó Lucina, fér opem! serua me óbsecro! HE. hem!
num nam ílla quaeso párturit? GE. certe, Hégio. HE. em, íllaéc fidem nunc uóstram implorat, Démea:
quod uós uis cogit íd uoluntate ímpetret. 490

- 45 haec prímum ut fiant deós quaeso, ut uobís decet.
sin áliter animus uóster est, ego, Démea,

464 A: est officium *A*²Σ

Bentley ius cett.

478 certon] certo A

468 Σ: quid A

480 malum A

475 hic sustulit

490 ACD:

- summá nī defendam hānc atque illum mórtuom.
 cognátus mihi erat; úna a pueris páruolis 495 sumus éducti; una sémper militiæ ét domi fuimús; paupertatem úna pertulimús grauem. 50 quaprópter nitar, fáciam, experiar, dénique animám relinquam pótius quam illas déseram.
 quid míhi respondes? DE. frátrem comeniam, Hégio.
 500 HE. sed, Démea, hoc tu fácito cum animo cógites:
 quam uós facillume ágitis, quam estis máxume 55
 poténtes dites fórtunati nóbiles, tam máxume uos aéquo animo aequa nóscere opórtet, si nos uóltis perhiberí probos.
 505 DE. redíto: fient quæé fieri aequomst ómnia. 59
HE. decét te facere. Géta, due me intro ad Sóstratam. —
DE. non me índicente hæc fíunt: utinam hic sít modo defínctum! uerum nímia illæc licéntia profécito euadet ín aliquod magnúm malum.
 510 ibo ác requiram frátrem, ut in eum hæc éuomam.

H E G I O

v

- Bono ánimo fac sis, Sóstrata, et istam quód potes fac cónsolere. ego Mícionem, si ápuđ forumst, comúeniam atque ut res géstast narrabo órdine:
 si est ís facturus út sít officiúm suom, 515 faciát; sin aliter de hác re est eius senténtia, 5 respóndeat mi, ut quíd agam quam primúm sciam.

495 Faërnus: educati codd. 499 post hunc uersum Phorm. u.
 461 interpolant Σ: *eundem uersum Bemmino adscripsit A*² 507 fient A 514 is add. Fleckeisen: si est codd.: si itast Bentley

ACTVS IV

i

CTESIPHO SYRVS

CT. Aín patrem hinc abísse rus? SY. iam dúdum.

CT. die sodés. SY. apud uillamst:

núne quom maxume óperis aliquid fácere credo. CT.
utinám quidem!

quod eúm salute eius fiat, ita se défetigarít uelim ut trídúo hoc perpétuo prorsum e lécto nequeat súrgere. 520

5 SY. ita fiat, et istoc síqui potis est réctius. CT. ita; nam húnc diem

miseré nimis cupio, ut coépi, perpetuom ín laetitia dégere; et illud rus nulla ália causa tám male odi, nísi quia propest: quód si abesset lóngius, príus nox oppressísset illi quam húc reuorti pósset iterum. 525

10 núne ubi me illic nón uidebit, iam húc recurret, sát scio:
rogitábit me ubi fúerim: ‘ego hodie tóto non uidí die.’
quid dicám? SY. nilne in méntemst? CT. numquam quícquam. SY. tanto néquior.

eliéns amicus hóspes nemost uóbis? CT. sunt: quid póstea?

SY. hisce ópera ut data sit? CT. quae non data sit? 530 nón potest fieri. SY. potest.

15 CT. intérdius: sed si híc pernocto, caúsae quid dicám, Syre?

SY. uah, quám uellem etiam nóctu amicis óperam mos essét dari!

quin tu ótiosus ésto: ego illius sénsu pulchre cálleo.
quom férui maxumé, tam placidum quási ouem reddo.

CT. quó modo?

521 qui A: quid Σ 522 nimis add. Donatus: om Σ: miser uinos cupio A ut ut coepi A 523-4 in A uersus 523 exit in propest 525 illi A: illic Σ 527 A: quem ego hodie Σ: ego hoc te Krausse et uolg. 528 mentem A: mente Σ 530 data sit] datast A 531 A: interdiu Σ 533 esto A: es A²Σ 534
A: feruet Σ quam ABCEP: quasi cett.

- 535 SY. laudári per te audít lubenter: fácio te apud illúm deum.
uirtútes narro. CT. meás? SY. tuas: homini ílico 20
lacrumaé cadunt
quasi púero gaudio. ém tibi autem! CT. quíd nam est? SY. lupus in fábula.
CT. pater ést? SY. is ipsust. CT. Síre, quid agimus?
SY. fúge modo intro, ego uídero.
CT. si quíd rogabit, núsquam tu me: audístin? SY.
potine ut désinas?

DEMEA CTESIPHO SYRVS ii

- 40 DE. Né ego homo sum infélix: [primum] fratrem núsquam inuenio géntium;
prácterea autem, dum íllum quaero, a uílla mereennárium uídí: is filiúm negat esse rúri. nec quíd agám scio.
CT. Síre. SY. quid est? CT. men quaérit? SY. 4 uerum. CT. périi. SY. quin tu animó bono es.
DE. quíd hoc, malum, infelícitatis? néqueo satis decérnere;
45 nísí me crédo huic ésse natum réi, ferundis míseriis.
prímus sentió mala nostra, prímus resciseo ómnia, prímus porro obnúntio; aegre sólus si quíd fít fero.
SY. rídeo hunc: primum aít se scire: is sólus nescit ómnia.
DE. núne redeo: si fórte frater rédierit uisó. CT. Syre, 10
50 óbsecro, uide ne ille huc prorsus se ínruat. SY. etiám taces?
égo cauebo. CT. núnquam herele hodie ego ístuc com-mittám tibi;
nám me iam in cellam áliquam cum illa cóncludam:
id tutíssimumst.
SY. áge, tamen ego hunc ámouebo. — DE. séd eecum secleratúm Syrum.

535 Spengel (perlubenter in tmesi est) laudariet codd. 538
Bentley: ipsest A: ipsest uel ipsest est Z 540 primum sustulit G.
Hermann

15 SY. nón herele hic qui uólt durare quísquam, si sic fít, potest.
scíre equidem uoló quot mihi sint dómini. quae haec 555
est míseria!

DE. quíd ille ganit? quíd uolt? quíd aís, bóne uir?
est fratér domi?

SY. quíd, malum, ‘bone uír’ mihi narras? équidem perii. DE. quíd tibist?

SY. rógitas? Ctesiphó me pugnis míserum et istam psáltriam 20 úsque occidit. DE. héin, quíd narras? SY. ém uide ut discidít labrum.

DE. quam ób rem? SY. me impulsóre hanc emptam 560 esse aít. DE. non tu enim rus híne modo próduxe aibas? SY. fáctum; uerum uénit post insániens:

níl pepercit. nón puduisse uérberare hominém senem!
quem égo modo puerúm tantillum in mánibus gestauí meis.

25 DE. laúdo: Ctesiphó, patrissas: ábi, uirum te iú dico.

SY. laúdas? ne ille cóntinebit pósthac, si sapiét, manus. 565

DE. fórtiter! SY. perquám, quia míseram múlierem et me séruolum,

quí referire nón audebam, uéit: hui, perfórtiter!

DE. nón potuit meliús. idem quod ego séntit te esse huic reí caput.

30 séd estne frater íntus? SY. non est. DE. úbi illum inueniam cógito.

SY. scío ubi sit, uerum hódie numquam mónstrabo. 570

DE. hem, quíd aís? SY. ita.

DE. dímminuetur tíbi quidem iam cérebrum. SY. at nomen néscio

íllius hominis, séd locum noui úbi sit. DE. dic ergó locum.

SY. nóstin porticum ápuđ macellum hac deórsum?

DE. quíd ní nóuerim?

554 qui uólt Nonius: quidem codd.: quidem perdurare Bentley 560 aít esse A 561 post om. A 567 referinon A 568 sentit *A*²: sensit cum A cett. 573 hac *D*²: hanc cett.: hic Donatus

- SY.* praeterito hac recta platea sursum. ubi eo ueneris, 35 575 cliuos deorsum uorsum est: hac te praecipitato. postea est ad hanc manum sacellum: ibi angiportum propter est.
DE. quod nam? SY. illi ubi etiam caprificus magna
 est. DE. noui. SY. hac pergit.
DE. id quidem angiportum non est peruium. SY. uerum hercle. uah,
 censens hominem me esse? erravi: in porticum rursum redi:
 580 sane hac multo propius ibis et minor est error. 41 scin Cratini huius ditis aedis? DE. scio. SY. ubi eas praeterieris,
 ad sinistram hac recta platea; ubi ad Dianae ueneris, ito ad dextram. prius quam ad portam uenias, apud ipsum lacum
 est pistrilla et exaduorsum fabrica: ibist. DE. quid ibi facit?
 585 SY. lectulos in sole ilignis pedibus faciundos dedit. 46
DE. ubi potetis uos: bene sane! sed cesso ad eum pergere? —
SY. i sane: ego te exercebo hodie, ut dignus es, silicernium.
 Aeschinus odiose cessat: prandium corrumpitur;
 Ctésipho autem in amore totus. ego iam prospiciam mihi:
 590 nam iam abibo atque unum quicquid, quod quidem erit 51 bellissimum,
 carpam et cyathos sorbilans paulatim hunc producum diem.

MICIO HEGIO

iii

MI. Ego in hac re nil reperio, quam ob rem lauder tanto opere, Hégio:
 meum officium facio: quod peccatum a nobis ortumst corrigo.
 nisi si me in illo credidisti esse hominum numero, qui ita putant,

575 uorsum Σ : om. A: uorsus Dziatzko qui te omittit. 577 quonam A illi edd. ant.: illic codd. 584 Σ : pistrilla ei aduorsum
 A: ei exaduorsum Fleckeisen 585 codd.: illi salignis Fleckeisen sibi fieri iniuriam ultro, si quam fecere ipsi expostules, 595 5 et ultro accusant : id quia non est á me factum, agis grátias ?

HE. ah, mínime : nunquam te áliter atque es ésse animum induxí meum.

sed quaéro ut una mécum ad matrem uirginis eas, Micio, atque istaec eadem quac mihi dixti túte dicas mulieri :
 suspícionem hanc própter fratrem esse : eius esse illam 600 psáltriam.

10 MI. si ita aequom censes aut si ita opus est fácto, eamus.

HE. béne facis :

nam et illi ita animum iam releuabis, quac dolore ac miseria

tabescit, et tuom officium fueris functus ; sed si aliter putas, egomet narrabo quac mihi dixti. MI. immo ego ibo.

HE. béne facis :

omnes, quibus res sunt minus secundae, magis sunt 605
 nescio quó modo

15 suspíciosi : ad contumeliam omnia accipiunt magis :
 propter suam inpotentiam se semper credunt ludier.
 quapropter te ipsum purgare ipsi coram placabilius est.

MI. et recte et uerum dicis. HE. sequere me ergo hac intro. MI. maxime.

iv

AESCHINVS

Discreuor animi :

610^a hocine de improuiso mali mihi obieci tantum

610^b ut neque quid me faciam nec quid agam certum sit !

membra metu debilia sunt ; animus timore

5 obstipuit ; pectore consistere nil consili quit.

597 esse ins. Madvig : in animum codd. 600 Bentley : fratrem eius se et illam A : fratrem eius isse et illam *A*² : fratrem eius esse et illam Σ 602 ita add. Umpfenbach (Anal. p. 19), qui (ibidem) uu.
600, 601 proscribit 603 tuo officio codd. : sed fungi ap. Ter. semper cum accusatiuo coniungitur 607 Bentley : claudier codd. fort. recte
cf. Andr. 573 : caluier Faernus 611 sit Dziatzko : siet codd.

- uah, quó modo hac me expédiam turba? tánta nunc 615 suspício de me incidit;
 néque ea inmerito: Sóstrata crédit mihi me psáltriam hance emísse; id anus mi indícium fecit:
 nám ut hinc forte ad óbstetricem erat míssa, ubi eam 10
 uidi, ílico
 accédo, rogito Pámphila quid agát, iam partus ádsiet, 620 eon óbstetricem accérsat. illa exclámat ‘abi, abi! iam, Aéschine,
 satis diú dedisti uérba; sat adhuc túa nos frustratást fides.’
 “hem, quíd istuc obsecro” ínquam “est?” ‘ualeas, hábeas illam quacé placet.’
 sensi ílico id illas súspicari, séd me reprehendí tamen, 15 ne quíd de fratre gárrulae illi dicerem ac fierét palam.
 625 núnc quid faciam? dícam fratris ésse hanc? quod minumést opus
 úsquam ecerri. ac mítto: fieri pótis est ut ne qua éxeat.
 íd ipsum metuo ut crédant: tot concúrrunt ueri símilia:
 égomet rapui ipse; égomet solui argéntum; ad me ab- 20
 ductást domum.
 haéc adeo mea cúlpa fateor fieri. non me hanc rém patri, 630 út ut erat gesta, índicasse! exórassem ut eam dúcerem.
 céssatum usque adhúc est: nunc porro, Aéschine, expergíscere!
 núnc hoc primumst: ád illas ibo, ut púrgem me. accedam ád fores.
 péríi: horresco sémper ubi pultáre hasce occipió miser. 25 heús heus! Aeschínús ego sum. aperite áliquis actutum óstium.
 635 pródit nescio quís: concedam hue.

618 ut hinc A²Σ: id A 621 post uerba add. A²Σ nobis 624 quid] qui A 625 dicam A²Σ: om. A 626 nusquam A 627 id ipsum Dziatzko: ipsum id A¹Σ: ipsum A 631 nunc A: iam A²:
 nunc iam DG 633 miser G: fores AB: miser fores cett.

v

MICIO AESCHINVS

- MI.* Ita uti dixi, Sóstrata, fácite; ego Aeschinúm conueniam, ut quó modo aeta haec sint sciat.
- séd quis ostium híc pultauit? AE. páter herele est: perii! MI. Aéschine,
- AE.* quid huic híc negotist? MI. túne has populistí fores?
- 5 tacet. quór non ludo hunc áliquantisper? mélius est, quandóquidem hoc nunquam mi ípse uoluit dicere. 640
nil míbi respondes? AE. nón equidem istas, quód sciam.
MI. ita? nám mirabar quíd hic negoti essét tibi.
erúbuit: salua rés est. AE. dic sodés, pater,
- 10 tibi uéro quid istic ést reï? MI. nil mí quidem. amícus quidam me á foro abduxít modo 645 hue áducatum síbi. AE. quid? MI. ego dicám tibi:
habitánt hic quaedam múlieres paupéreulae;
ut opínor eas non nósse te, et certó scio;
- 15 neque ením diu hue migráruunt. AE. quid tum póstea?
MI. uirgo ést eum matre. AE. pérge. MI. haec uirgo 650
orbást patre;
hic méus amícus ílli genere est próxumus:
huic léges cogunt núbere hanc. AE. perii! MI. quid est?
AE. nil: récte: perge. MI. is uénit ut secum áuehat:
- 20 nam habitát Miletí. AE. hem, uírginem ut secum áuehat?
MI. sic ést. AE. Miletum usque óbsecro? MI. ita. 655
AE. animó malest.
quid ipsaé? quid aiunt? MI. quíd illas censes? níl enim.
comménta mater ést esse ex alió uiro nesció quo puerum nátum, neque eum nóminat;
- 25 priórem esse illum, nón oportere huic dari.
AE. eho, nónne haec iusta tíbi uidentur póscier? 660

637 A: ostium hoc cett.: hostium BEF 648 eas ADG: has cett. 660 Fleckeisen: uidetur postea A: uidentur postea A²Z:
uidetur poscere Dziatzko cum Bothe et uolg.

MI. non. AE. óbseero non? án illam hinc abducét, pater?

MI. quid illám nĩ abducatur? AE. fáctum a uobis dúriter innímisericorditérque atque etiam, si ést, pater, dicéndum magis apérte, inliberáliter.

30

665 MI. quam ob rém? AE. rogas me? quíd illi tandem eréditis

fore ánimi misero qui illa consueuít prior, qui infélix haud scio án illam misere núnc amet, quom hanc síbi uidebit praésens praesenti éripi, abdlúci ab oculis? fácinus indignúm, pater!

35

670 MI. qua rátione istuc? quís despondit? quís dedit?
quoi quándo nupsit? aúctor his rebús quis est?
quor dúxit alienam? AE. án sedere opórtuit domi uírginem tam grándem, dum cognátus huc illíne ueniret, éxspectantem? haec, mí pater,

40

675 te dícere aequom fúit et id deféndere.

MI. ridículum! aduorsumne illum causam dícerem quoi uéneram aduocátus? sed quid ista, Aéschine, nostra? aút quid nobis cum illis? abeamús. quid est?
quíd lacrimas? AE. pater, óbseero, auseulta. MI.

45

Aéschine, audiui omnia

680 ét scio; nam té amo: quo magis quac agis curae súnt mihi.

AE. ita uelim me prómerentem amés, dum uiuas, mí pater, út me hoc delictum ádmisisse in me, íd mihi uehementér dolet ét me tui pudét. MI. credo herele; nam íngenium nouí tuom liberale; séd uereor ne indíligens nímíum sies.

50

685 ín qua ciuitáte tandem te árbitrare uiuere?

uírginem nitiásti quam te nón ius fuerat tángere.

iam íd peccatum prímum magnum, mágnum, at humanúm tamen:

666 illa A: cum illa contra metrum cum Σ Donatus 667 amet
*AD*¹*G*: amat cett. 668 praesenti codd.: praesentem Bentley cum Seruio 670 quis (bis) Σ : qui A 673 huc codd.: hinc cum Donato Bentley 684 indiliges A 687 magnum geminauerunt

Muretus et Faërnus: primum agnum A: primum magnum *A*¹

- fécere alii saépe item boni. at póstquam id euenít, cedo :
 55 núm quid circumspekti? aut num quid túte prospexti tibi, quíd fieret? qua fíeret? si te mi ípsum puduit próloqui, 690 quá resciscerem? haéc dum dubitas, ménses abierúnt decem.
 pródidisti et te ét illam miseram et gnátum, quod qui-dem in té fuit.
 quíd? credebas dórmienti haec tíbi confecturós deos, 60 ét illam sine tua ópera in eubiculum íri deductúm domum?
 nólim ceterárum rerum té socordem eodém modo. 695
 bóno animo es, dueés uxorem hanc. AE. hé! MI.
 bono inquam animo és. AE. pater, óbsecro, num lúdis nunc tu me? MI. égo te? quam ob rem? AE. néscio :
 quía tam misere hoc ésse cupio uérum, eo uereór magis.
 65 MI. ábi domum ac deos cónprecare ut úxorem accersás : abi.
AE. quíd? iam uxorem? MI. iám. AE. iam? MI. 700
 iam quantúm potes. AE. di mé, pater, ómnes oderínt, ní magis te quam óculos nunc ego anó meos.
MI. quíd? quam illam? AE. aequé. MI. pérbenigne!
AE. quíd? ille ubist Milésius?
MI. périit : abiit, náuem ascendit. séd quor cessas?
AE. ábi, pater :
 70 tú potius deos cónprecare ; nám tibi eos certó scio, quó uir melior múlto es quam ego, obtémperaturós magis. 705
MI. égo eo intro, ut quae opus súnť parentur : tú fae ut dixi, sí sapis. —
AE. quid hoc ést negoti? hoc ést patrem esse aut hóc est filium ésse?

688 uenit A 696 Fleckeisen: om. hanc A animo est inquam
A: animo es inquam Σ 697 DG: nunc ludis tu A: num ludis tu nunc (mihi nunc F) cett. 700 potes ADGF: potest cett.
 701 ego om. A 702 quicquam illa A 703 periit abit nauem escendit A: nauem ascendit abiit periit DG: abiit periit nauem ascendit cett.

- si fráter aut sodális esset, quí magis morem géreret?
 hic nón amandust? híeine non gestándus in sinúst? hem! 75 710 itaque ádeo magnam mi ínieit sua cómmoditate cúram, ne imprúdens forte fáciam quod nolít: sciens cauéo.
 sed céssó ire intro, né morae meis núptiis egomét siem?

DEMEA

vi

- DE.* Deféssus sum ambuládo: ut, Syre, te cúm tua monstrátione mágnus perdat Iúppiter!
 715 perréptauí usque omne óppidum: ad portam, ád lacum, quo nón? neque fabrica illi úlla erat nec frátrem homo uidísse se aibat quísquam. nunc ueró domi 5 certum óbsidere est úsque, donec rédierit.

MÍCIO DEMA

vii

- MI.* Ibo, illis dicam núllam esse in nobís moram.
 720 DE. sed eccum ípsum.. te iam dúdum quaero, Mício.
MI. quid nám? DE. fero alia flágitia ad te ingéntia boni illíus adulescéntis. MI. ecce autém! DE. noua, capitália. MI. ohe iam! DE. néscis qui uir sít. MI. scio. 5
DE. ah stúlte, tu de psáltria me sómnias
 725 agere: hóc peccatum in uírginemst ciuén. MI. scio.
DE. oho, scís et patere? MI. quíd ní patiar? DE. díe mihi,
 non clámas? non insánis? MI. non: malím quidem. . .
DE. puer nátust. MI. di bene uórtant! DE. uirgo níl 10 habet.
MI. audíui. DE. et dueenda índotatast. MI. seflícet.
 730 DE. quid núnc futurumst? MI. íd enim quod res ípsa fert:

709 amandus A: amandus est Σ 710 inieit Bentley: iniecit codd. 711 imprudens forte Bentley: forte imprudens codd. 712 siem codd.: sim Gwæt 716 Bentley: neque illi (illic *A*²) fabrica
A: illic fabrica DG: fabrica illic cett. 717 domo A 723 eho A: oeh *A*² ah nescis Σ 724 *A*² Σ : o stulte A 728 natus A: natus est Σ illíne huc transferétur uirgo. DE. o Iúppiter, istóeíne pacto opórtet? MI. quid faciam ámplius?

- 15 DE. quid fácias? si non ípsa re tibi istúe dolet, simuláre certe est hómínis. MI. quin iam uírginem despóndi; res compósitast; fiunt núptiae; 735 dempsí metum omnem: haec mágis sunt homínis. DE.
eéterum

- placét tibi factum, Mício? MI. non, sí queam 20 mutáre. nunc quom nón quco, animo aequó fero.
ita uítast homínem quási quom ludas tésseris:
si illúd quod maxime ópus est iactu nón cadit, 740
illúd quod cecidit fórte, id arte ut córrigas.

- DE.* corréctor! nempe tua árte nígintí minae 25 pro psáltria períere, quae quántúm potest aliquo ábieiundast, sí non pretio, grátiis.

MI. neque ést neque illam sáne studeo uéndere. 745

DE. quid ígitur facies? MI. dómi erit. DE. pro diuóm
fidem,

meretríx et mater fámílias una ín domo!

- 30 MI. quor nón? DE. sanum te crédís esse? MI. equi-dem árbitror.

DE. ita mé di bene ament, út uideo [ego] tuam inép-tiam,

factúrum credo ut hábeas quicum cántites. 750

MI. quor nón? DE. et noua nupta éadem haec discet.

MI. scílícet.

DE. tu inté eas restim dúctans saltabís. MI. probe.

- 35 DE. probe? MI. ét tu nobiscum úna, si opus sit. DE.
eí mihi!

non te haéc pudent? MI. iam uéro omítte, Démea, tuam ístanc iracíndíam, atque ita utí decet 755

738 id mutare A

744 A: at gratiis A²: nel gratiis Σ 747

A: una erit in domo A²Σ

748 sanum AD¹G: sanumne cett.

749 me habet A: om. cett.

ego tuam uel tuam ego codd.: ego seclusi

750 cantites A²: cantices A 755 istam A

hilarum ac lubentem fac te gnati in nuptiis.
 ego hos conuenio: post huc redeo. — DE. o Iuppiter, hancine uitam! hoscin mores! hanc dementiam! 40
 uxor sine dote ueniet; intus psaltriast; 760 domus sumptuosa; adulescens luxu perditus;
 senex delirans. ipsa si eupiat Salus, seruare prorsus non potest hanc familiam.

ACTVS V

SYRVS DEMA

i

SY. Edepol, Syrisce, te curasti molliter lautèque munus administrasti tuum:
 765 abi. sed postquam intus sum omnium rerum satur, prodeambulare huc libitumst. DE. illud sis uide:
 exemplum disciplinæ! SY. ecce autem hic adest 5 senex noster. quid fit? quid tu es tristis? DE. oh scelus!
SY. ohe iam! tu uerba fundis hic, sapientia!
 770 DE. tun si meus esses. . . SY. dis quidem esses, Démea, ac tuam rem constabilisses. DE. exemplo omnibus curarem ut esses. SY. quam ob rem? quid feci? DE. rogas?
 in ipsa turba atque in peccato máximo, 11
 quod uix sedatum satis est, potasti, scelus, 775 quasi re bene gesta. SY. sane nollem huc exitum.

DROMO SYRVS DEMA

ii

DR. Heus Syre, rogat te Ctésipho ut redeas. SY. abi. — DE. quid Ctésiphonem hic narrat? SY. nil. DE. elio, carnufex,

756 in om. A 757 A: conueniam A²Σ 765 abi om. A:
 add. in fine uersus 764 A² 766 A² Σ: libuit A 770 tun codd.
 omnes praeter GP¹: hic et alibi tun adfirmatiuom tuetur Minton Warren 771 Bentley: exempla A: exemplum Σ 774 potasti Σ: potis A: potatis A² 775 huc D¹G: hunc A et cett.

est Ctésipho intus? SY. nōn est. DE. quor hic nōminat?

SY. est alius quidam, párasitaster paululus:

5 nostín? DE. iam seibo. SY. quíd agis? quo abis? 780

DE. mítte me.

SY. noli ínquam. DE. non manum ábstines, mastígia?

an tíbi iam manis cérebrum dispergam híc? SY. abit. — edepól comissatórem haud sane cómmodum, praesértim Ctesiphóni! quíd ego núnc agam?

10 nisi, dum haéc silescunt túrbæ, interea in ángulum 785 aliquo ábeam atque edormíscam hoc uilli: síc agam.

iii

MICIO DEMENTIA

MI. Paráta a nobis súnť, ita ut dixi, Sóstrata:

ubi uís . . quis nam a me pépulit tam granitér fores?

DE. ei míhi, quíd faciam? quíd agam? quíd clamem aút querar?

o caélum, o terra, o mária Neptuni! MI. ém tibi!

790

5 rescúit omnem rem: íd nunc clamat: ílicet;

parátae lites: súccurrendumst. DE. éccum adest commúnis corruptéla nostrum líberum.

MI. tandém reprime iracúndiam atque ad té redi.

DE. représsi, redii, mító maledieta ómnia:

795

10 rem ipsám putemus. díctum hoc inter nós fuit

(ex te ádeo est ortum), né tu eurarés meum

nene égo tuom? respónde. MI. factumst, nōn nego.

DE. quor núnc apud te pótat? quor recipís meum?

quor émis amicam, Mício? num quí minus

800

-5 mihi idém ins aequomst ésse quod mecúmst tibi?

quando égo tuom non cúro, ne curá meum.

MI. non aéquom dicis. DE. nōn? MI. nam uetus

uerbum hóc quidemst,

780 scio A

786 uilli EGF²: uillis A: uini cett.

791 scilicet

BCEFGP: licet D

commúnia esse amícorum inter se ómnia.

805 DE. facéte! nunc demum ístace nata orátioſt.

MI. auſcúltá paucis níſi moleſtumſt, Démea.

20 princeípío, ſi id te mórdeť, ſumptum filii quem faciunt, quaeso hoc fáciťo tecum cógites:

tu illós duo olim pró re tollebas tua,

810 quod sátis putabas túa bona ambobús fore, et mé tum uxorem crédidisti scílicet

25 ductúrum. eandem illam rátionem antiquam óbtine:

conſérúa, quaere, páree, fac quam plúrimum illís relinquas: glóriam tu íſtam óbtine.

815 mea, quae praeter ſpem euénere, utantúr ſine.

de ſúmma nil decédet: quod hinc accéſſerit,

30 id dé lucro putáto eſſe omne. haec ſí uoles

in ánimó uere cógitare, Démea, et mi ét tibi et illis démpſeris moléſtiam.

820 DE. mittó rem: conſuetúdinem amborúm . . MI. mane:

ſcio: íſtuc íbam. múlta in homine, Démea,

35

ſigna ínsunt ex quibus cóniectura fáciťe fit, duo quóm idem faciunt, ſaépe ut poſſis dicere

‘hoc lícet ínpune fácere huic, illi nón lícet,’

825 non quó diſſimilis rés ſit ſed quo ís quí facit.

quae ego ínſeſſe in illis uídeo, ut confidám fore

40 íta ut uólumus. uideo eos ſápere, intellegere, in loco ueréři, inter ſe amáre: ſcíres líberúm ingénium atque ánimum: quó nĩs illos tú die

830 reddúcas. ‘at enim métuas ne ab re ſínt tamen omíſſiores paúlo. o noster Démea,

45

ad ómnia alia aetáte ſapimus réctius;

804 se om. A 809 tolerabas A 814 AD¹G: tu istanc tibi obtine cett.: unde Bentley tu istanc tibi (sc. habeas) 816 deedit
A 820 amborum A: ipsorum cum Σ Donatus 824 facere] re A 826 in om. A 827 eos om. A 828 Lachmann:
sciret A: scire est cett.: seiris Dziatzko 829 illostude A: illo studio D¹ 830 D: reducas cett.

- solum unum hoc vitium adfert senectus hominibus:
 attentiores sumus ad rem omnes quam sat est:
 quod illis sat aetas aevet. DE. ne nimium modo 835 50 bonae tuae istae nos rationes, Micio, et tuos iste animus aequos subvertat. MI. tace:
 non fiet. mitte iam istaec; da te hodie mihi:
 exporge frontem. DE. scilicet ita tempus fert:
 faciundumst. ceterum ego rus cras cum filio 840 55 cum primo luci ibo hinc, MI. de nocte censeo:
 hodie modo hilarum fac te. DE. et istam psalteriam una illuc mecum hinc abstraham. MI. pugnaueris:
 eo pacto prorsum illi adligaris filium.
 modo facito ut illam serues. DE. ego istuc videro: 845 60 atque ibi fauillae plena, fumi ac pollinis coquendo sit faxo et molendo; praeter haec meridie ipso faciam ut stipulam conligat:
 tam excotam reddam atque atram quam carbost. MI.
 placet:
 nunc mihi videre sapere. atque equidem filium 850
 65 tum etiam si nolit cogam ut cum illa una cubet.
DE. derides? fortunatus qui isto animo sis.
 ego sentio. . . MI. ah, pergisne? DE. iam iam desino.
MI. i ergo intro, et quod rei est, ei rei [hilarum] hunc sumamus diem.

Nunquam ita quisquam bene subducta ratione ad vitam fuit quin res, aetas, usus semper aliquid adportet novi, 856 aliquid moneat: ut illa quae te scisse credas nescias, et quae tibi putaris prima, in experiundo ut repudies.

833 adfert senectus ADG: senectus adfert (affert) cell. 837 istae AC 845 is videro A 854 *A*²: quod res est ABCP:
 cui rei opus DEG ilarum add. *A*²: hilarem DEG: ilare F 857 scisse A: scire Σ

- quód nunc mi euenít; nam ego uitam dúram, quam uixi 5
úsque adhuc,
- 860 própe iam excurso spátio omitto. id quam ób rem? re ipsa répperi facilitate níl esse homini mélius neque cleméntia.
íd esse uerum ex me átque ex fratre quoíuis facilest nóscere.
ílle suam egit sémper uitam in ótio, in conuíuiis, clémens, placidus, núllo laedere ós, adridere ómnibus; 10
- 865 síbi uixit, síbi sumpsum fecit: ómnes bene dicúnt, amant.
égo ille agrestis, saénos, tristis, páreus, truculentús, tenax dúxi uxorem: quam íbi miseriam uídi! nati fílii:
ália eura. heia autem, dum studeo íllis ut quam plúrimum fácerem, contriui in quaerendo uítam atque aetatém meam;
- 870 núnc exacta aetáte hoc fructi pró labore ab eís fero, 16
ódium; ille alter síne labore pátria potitur cómoda.
illum amant, me fúgitant; illi crédunt consilia ómnia, illum diligúnt, apud illum súnť ambo, ego desértus sum;
illum ut uinat óptant, meam autem mórtem expectant 20
scílicet.
- 875 íta eos meo labóre eductos máximo hic fecít suos paúlo sumptu: miseriam omnem ego cápio, hic potitur gaúdia.
áge age nunciam éxperiamur cótra, eequid ego póssiem blánde dicere aut benigne fácere, quando hoc prouocat.
égo quoque a meis me amari et mágni fieri póstulo: 25
- 880 si íd fit dando atque óbsequendo, nón posteriorés feram.
déerit: id mea mínime re fert quí sum natu máximus.

SYRVS D E M E A

v

SY. Heus Démea, orat fráter ne abeas lóngius.

DE. quis homo? ó Syre noster, sálue! quid fit? quíd agitur!

860 id quam *A*¹: inquam A 870 fructu fructi A 875 meo geminauit A eductos *C*²: edoctos *C*¹*D*: edictos A: educatos *A*²*D* 877 *A*²: porro contra et quid A 879 fieri A: pendi *A*² Σ

SY. reete. DE. óptumest. iam núnc haec tria primum addidi

- praetér naturam: 'o nóster! quid fit? quíd agitur?' 885
5 seruom haúd inliberálem praebes te ét tibi Iubéns bene faxim. SY. grátiam habeo. DE. atquí, Syre, hoc uérumst et ipsa re éxperiere, própEDIEM.

vi

GETA D E M E A

GE. Era, ego húc ad hos prouiso quam mox uírginem accérsant. sed ecceum Dèmeam. saluós sies. 890

DE. o quí nocare? GE. Géta. DE. Géta, hominem máxumi

pretí te esse hodie iúdicauí animó meo;

- 5 nam is míli profectost séruos spectatús satis
quói dóninus curaest, íta uti tibi sensí, Geta, et tibi ob eam rem, sí quid usus uénerit, 895
lubéns bene faxim. méditor esse adfábilis et béne procedit. GE. bónus es, quom haec exístumas.
10 DE. paulátim plebem prímulum fació meam.

vii

A E S C H I N U S D E M E A S Y R U S G E T A

AE. Occídunt me equidem, dúm nimis sanctas núptias student fácere: in adparándo consumúnt diem. 900

DE. quid ágitur, Aeschine? AE. éhem, pater mi, tu híc eras?

DE. tuos hércle nero et ¹⁰⁹⁶ánimo et naturá pater, (1116)

- 5 qui té amat plús quam hosee óculos. sed quor nón domum uxórem accersis? AE. cúpio; uerum hoc míli moraest, tibícina et hymenaéum qui cantént. DE. eho, 905 uin tu huíc seni auscultáre? AE. quid? DE. missa haéc face,

hymenaéum turbas lámpades tibícinas,

888 *A*¹: experire A 893 praefecto A 899 equidem scripsi cum A: quidem Σ 906 istaec A: istec DG 907 lampades scripsi: lampedes A: lampadas Σ

- atque hanc in horto mœceriam iube dirui 10
 quantum potest: hæc transfer; unam fac domum; 910 traduce et matrem et familiam omnem ad nos. AE. placet, pater lepidissime. DE. euge, iam lepidus uocor.
 fratri aedes fient peruiæ, turbam domum adducet, [et] sumptu amittet multa: quid mea? 15 ego lepidus in eo gratiam. iube nunciam 915 dinumeret ille Bablyo uiginti minas.
 Syre, cessas ire ac facere? SY. quid ego? DE. dirue.
 tu illas abi et traduce. GE. di tibi, Demea, bene faciant, quom te uideo nostræ familiæ 20
 tam ex animo factum uelle. DE. dignos arbitror. — 920 quid tu ais? AE. sic opinor. DE. multo rectius quam illam puerperam huc nunc duci per uiam aegrotam. AE. nil enim uidi melius, mi pater.
DE. sic soleo. sed eccum Micio egreditur foras. 25

MICIO DEMEA AESCHINVS

viii

- MI.* Iubet frater? ubi is est? tu iubes hoc, Demea?
 925 DE. ego uero iubeo et hæc re et aliis omnibus quam maxime unam facere nos hanc familiam, colere, adiuuare, adiungere. AE. ita quaeso, pater.
MI. haud aliter censeo. DE. immo hercle ita nobis decet. 5 primum huius uxorist mater. MI. est. quid postea?
 930 DE. proba et modesta. MI. ita aiunt. DE. natu grandior.
MI. scio. DE. parere iam diu hæc per annos non potest nec qui eam respiciat quisquam est: solast. MI. quam hic rem agit?
DE. hanc te æquomst ducere, et te operam ut fiat dare. 10
MI. me ducere autem? DE. te. MI. me? DE. te inquam. MI. ineptis. DE. si tu sis homo,

910 traduce et matrum A 912 fratri A: fratris contra metrum
*A*²Σ 913 *A*²: et sumptum (sumptu EF) amittet (admittet) cett.
 914 Hic est uersus ultimus codicis Bembini 920 ais E: agis BC hic faciat. AE. mi patér! MI. quid tu autem huic, 935 ásine, auscultas? DE. níl agis: fieri áliter non potést. MI. deliras. AE. síne te exo-rem, mí pater.

MI. insánis: aufer. DE. áge, da ueniam fílio. MI.
 satin sánus es?

15 ego nóuos maritus áno demum quínto et sexagénsumo fíam átque anum decrépitam ducam? idne éstis anetorés mihi?

AE. fac: prómisi ego illis. MI. prómisti autem? dé te 940 largitór, puer.

DE. age, quíd si quid te máius oret? MI. quási non hoc sit máximum!

DE. da uéniam. AE. ne grauáre. DE. fac, promítte.
MI. non omíttitis?

20 AE. non, nísi te exorem. MI. uís est haec quidem.
DE. áge, prolixé, Mício!

MI. etsi hóc mihi prauom, inéptum, absurdum atque álienum a uítá mea uidétur, si uos tánto opere istue uóltis, fiat. AE. béne facis.

DE. meritó te amo. nerúm . . MI. quid? DE. ego 946 dicam, hóc quom confit quód uolo.

MI. quid núne quod restat? DE. Hégio est hic hís cognatus próxumus,

25 adfínis nobis, paúper: bene nos áliquid facere illí decet.

MI. quid fácere? DE. agellist híc sub urbe paúlum quod locitás foras:

huic démus qui fruátur. MI. paulum id aútemst? DE. 950
 si multúmst, tamen

faciúndumst: pro patre huic est, bonus est, nóster est, recté datur.

937 aufer Donatus: om. Σ sat insanus es BFP 940 pro-misti A: promisti Σ 946 Dziatzko sic personas distribuit confit Donat.: cum fit Σ 947 hic add. Bentley 950 multum sit BCEFP

postrémo nunc meum illud uerbum fácio quod tu, Micio, bene ét sapienter díxisti dudum: 'uítium commune ómniumst, quod nímium ad rem in senécta attenti súmus'; hanc 31 maculam nós deet

955 eefúgere; et dictumst uére et reapse fíeri oportet. AE.
mí pater!

MI. quid istúe? ager dabitur Hégioni quádoquidem hie uolt. AE. gaúdeo.

DE. nunc tú mihi es germánus frater páriter animo et córpoze.

suó sibi gladio hunc iúgulo. 35

SYRVS D E M E A M I C I O A E S C H I N V S ix

SY. Factumst quód iussisti, Démea.

DE. frúgi homo's. ergo édepol hodie meá quidem senténtia 960 iúdico Syrum fíeri esse aequom líberum. MI. istunc líberum?
quód nam ob factum? DE. múlta. SY. o noster Démea, edepol uír bonu's!

égo istos nobis úsque a pueris cúraui ambos sédulo: 5 dócuí, monuí, béne praecepi sémper quae potui ómnia.

DE. rés apparet. équidem porro haec, óbsonare eúm fide, 965 seórtum adducere, ádparare dé die conuíuium:
nón medioeris hómínis haec sunt ófficia. SY. o lepidúm caput!

DE. póstre mo hodie in psáltria ista emúnda hie adiutór fuit, hie curauit: pródesse aequomst: álíi melióres erunt. 11
dénique hie uolt fíeri. MI. uin tu hoc fíeri? AE.
cupio. MI. sí quidem

970 tú uis: Syre, eho accéde hue ad me: líber esto. SY.
béne facis.

952 nunc Paumier: non codd. 955 et dictumst DG: et om.
cett. 956 Fleckeisen: istuc Σ : istuc uolg. 957 mihi es EFG:
es mihi cett. frater ins. Fleckeisen 958 iusti DEG 961 bonus C¹FP: bonus es C² 964 equidem scripsi: et quidem codd.
967 istac Σ

- ómnibus gratiam hábeo et seorsum tíbi praeterea, Démea.
 15 DE. gaúdeo. AE. et ego. SF. crédo. utinam hoc perpétuom fiat gaúdium,
 Phrýgiam ut uxorem meam una mécum uideam líberam!
DE. óptimam equidem múlierem. SF. equidem tuó nepoti huius filio hódie prima mámmam dedit haec. DE. hérele uero sério, 975
 síquidem prima dedit, haud dubiumst quín emitti aequóm siet.
 20 MI. ób eam rem? DE. ob eam. póstrema a me argéntum quantist súmito.
SF. dí tibi, Demea, ómnes semper ómnia optata ófferant!
MI. Síre, processisti hódie pulehre. DE. síquidem porro, Mício,
 tú tuom officium fácies, atque huic áliquíd paulum praé manu déderis, unde utátur, reddet tíbi eito. MI. istoc uílius. 981 25 AE. frúgi homost. SF. reddam hérele, da modo. AE.
 áge, pater! MI. post cónsulam.
DE. fáciét. SF. o uir óptume! AE. o patér mi fes-tiuísime!
MI. quíd istuc? quae res tám repente móres mutauít tuos?
 quód prolubium? quac istaec subitast lárgitas? DE. 985
 dicám tibi:
 út id ostenderém, quod te isti fáciilem et festiuóm putant, 30 íd non fieri ex uéra nita néque adeo ex aequo ét bono, séd ex adsentando, índulgento [et] lárgiéndo, Mício.
 núne adeo si ob eám rem uobis méa uita inuisa, Aéschine, est, quía non iusta iniústa prorsus ómnia omnino óbsequor, 990
 míssa facio: eefúndite, emite, fácite quod uobís lubet.
 35 séd si id uoltis pótius, quae nos própter aduleseéntiam mínus uidetis, mágis ímpense eúpitís, consulitís parum,

974 equidem scripsi: quidem codd. 985 prolunium BC²DG:
 sed poeta Caecilii locum in quo reperitur prolubium habuisse in animo uidetur 988 et secluserunt Ladewig et Madvig háec reprehendere ét corrigere me ét obsecundare ín loco,

995 ecce me, qui id fáciám uobis. AE. tíbi, pater, permíttimus:

plús scis quod ópus factost. sed de frátre quid fiét?

DE. sino:

hábeat; in istac fínem faciat. MI. ístuc recte. CAN- 40

TOR. plaúdite!

994 Bentley: obsecundare Σ : secundare Donat. 996 Fleckeisen quid opus factost (sit *D*¹) Σ : post quid potius sequeretur coniunctius

ABBREVIATIONS USED IN THE NOTES AND APPENDICES

abl. = ablative.

absol. = absolute, absolutely.

acc. = accusative.

Ad. = Adelphoe.

A. & G. = Allen and Greenough's "New" Latin Grammar.

adj. = adjective, adjectively.

A. J. A. = American Journal of Archaeology.

A. J. P. = American Journal of Philology.

adv. = adverb, adverbial, adverbially.

advers. = adversative, adversatively.

And. = Andria.

antec. = antecedent.

App. = Critical Appendix.

Ar. = Aristophanes.

B. = Bennett's Latin Grammar.

B. App. = Appendix to Bennett's Latin Grammar.

B. App. (rev. ed.) = Bennett, "The Latin Language" (Boston, 1907), a revision or reconstruction of the "Appendix," to which revision I had made some references by means of advance sheets (kindly lent to me by Professor Bennett) before I was aware that the name of the book was to be changed.

char. = characteristic.

cf. = compare.

cl. = clause.

Class. (or Cl.) Rev. = Classical Review.

comp. = comparative.

cond. = condition, conditional.

conj. = conjugation.

constr. = construction.

crit. = critical.

dat. = dative.

decl. = declension.

dem. = demonstrative.

dep. = deponent.

dim. = diminutive.

Don. = Donatus (edited by Paul Wessner, Leipzig, 1905).

Dz., or Dz. (1884) = Dziatzko's collective text edition in the Tauchnitz Series (Leipzig, 1884).

Dz. (1881) = Dziatzko's annotated edition of the Adelphoe (Leipzig, 1881).

Dz. Adn. Crit. = the Adnotatio Critica prefixed to Dziatzko's collective text edition.

Dz.-Hauler = Dziatzko's second annotated edition of the Phormio (Leipzig, 1885) as revised by Edmund Hauler (Leipzig, 1898). All references to Dziatzko's Phormio are made through this.

Dz.-Kauer, or Kauer = Dziatzko's annotated edition of the Adelphoe (Leipzig, 1881) as revised by Robert Kauer (Leipzig, 1903).

ed. = edition.

Eng. = English.

esp. = especially.

Eugr. = Eugegraphus.

Eun. = Eunuchus.

ex. = example.

excl. = exclamation, exclamatory.

fem. = feminine.

fin. = finis.

Fleck. = Fleckeisen's collective text edition in the Teubner Series (1898).

Fleck. (1st ed.), or Fleck. (1857) = Fleckeisen's collective text edition in the Teubner Series (1857).

fut. = future.

G. = the Gildersleeve-Lodge Latin Grammar.

gen. = genitive.

Gil.-Lodge = the Gildersleeve-Lodge Latin Grammar.

Gk. = Greek.

Goodwin = Goodwin's Greek Grammar.

H. = Harkness' Latin Grammar ("Complete" edition, 1898).

H. & B. = Hale and Buck's Latin Grammar (Boston, 1903).

Hauler = the Dziatzko-Hauler edition of the Phormio, as described above under Dz.-Hauler.

Heaut. = Heauton timorumenos.

Hec. = Hecyra.

hist. = historical.

Hor. = Horace.

imp. = imperative.

impers. = impersonal.

impf. = imperfect.

imv. = imperative.

indef. = indefinite.

- indic. = indicative.
infin. = infinitive.
instr. = instrumental.
intens. = intensive.
interrog. = interrogative, interrogatory.
intrans. = intransitive.
Lex. = Harper's Latin Lexicon (Dictionary), unabridged.
lit. = literally.
Lucr. = Lucretius.
masc. = masculine.
Meis. = Meissner's edition of the Andria (Bernburg, 1876).
MS. = manuscript.
MSS. = manuscripts.
n. = note, or notes.
362. n. = verse 362 and note: here 362 is any number.
neg. = negative.
neut. = neuter.
nom. = nominative.
Od. = Odes of Horace.
P. A. P. A. = Proceedings of the American Philological Association. part. = partitive.
pass. = passive.
pers. = personal.
pf. = perfect.
Phorm. = Phormio.
pl. = plural.
Plaut. = Plautus.
plpf. = pluperfect.
plur. = plural.
poss. = possessive.
pred. = predicate, predicative, predicatively.
prep. = preposition.
pres. = present.
prtepl. = participle.
refer. = reference.
Roby = Roby's Grammar of the Latin Language from Plautus to Suetonius.
sc. = scilicet.
Schlee = Schlee's Scholia Terentiana (Leipzig, 1893).
sing. = singular.
spec. = specification.
Spen. = Spengel's edition of the Andria or of the Adelphoe.
Stud. Terent. = Studia Terentiana.

subj. = subjunctive.

syl. = syllable.

T. A. P. A. = Transactions of the American Philological Association.

temp. = temporal.

Ter. = Terence.

trans. = transitive, sometimes (by accident) translate.

transl. = translate.

Umpf. = Umpfenbach's collective text edition with apparatus criticus, etc.
(Berlin, 1870).

voc. = vocative.

vs. = verse.

vss. = verses.

Wag. = Wagner's collective annotated edition (Cambridge, England, 1869).

Abbreviations of the names of the plays of Plautus are those found in the Ritschl edition of Plautus (revised by Loewe, Goetz and Schoell) and, for the most part, in Harper's Latin Dictionary. Abbreviations of the titles of other works of Latin authors are approximately the same as those given in Harper's Dictionary.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

ANDRIA

DIDASCALIA

Didascalía (Διδασκαλία) was a term applied by the Greeks to the training of the chorus and the actors for a dramatic performance. It was used also of the pieces thus brought forward at a dramatic entertainment, and again of certain public notices (hung up in the theatre) in which were given the names of the competing poets, and the titles of their plays, as well as important dates, names of actors and choregi, and other matters connected with the dramatic contests. Documents such as these were systematically prepared, by Alexandrian scholars, upon particular tragedies and comedies, and from 150 B. C. downward the Roman grammarians imitated this custom in the interest of their own dramatic writers. Prominent among these Roman grammarians was Marcus Terentius Varro, who lived from 116 to 27 B. C. The didascaliae inserted in the MSS. of Plautine and Terentian comedies rest largely on his authority. They are given in the form of prefatory notices, whose purpose is to make known, as a sort of advertisement, the source or origin of each play, and the time and circumstances of its first representation. The didascaliae of Terence are in the main complete; those of Plautus are merely fragmentary, except that attached to the Stichus.

In consequence of the destruction of the first leaves of the Codex Bezae, the didascalía to the Andria is lost, but it has been restored without difficulty on the analogy of the didascaliae to the other plays, and through the information supplied by Donatus (Intro. § 41).

Andria: the play takes its name from one of its characters, who is a native of Ἄνδρος, an island in the Cyclades group. Hence ἡ Ἀνδρία, "the Andrian (woman)." The story is adapted from the Andria (Ἀνδρία) of Menander, with additions from the Perinthia (Περινθία) of the same poet.

acta, etc., "acted at the ludi Megalenses, under the auspices of M. Fulvius and M. Glabrio, Curule Aediles." The Megalesian games began on the fourth of April, and continued for six days. The third day was devoted to the performance of plays. Cf. Intro. § 74.

Aedil Curul: i. e. Aedilibus Curulibus; one of the prerogatives of these magistrates was the licensing of plays for public performances.

egit, "undertook the representation," "put upon the boards;" sc. fabulam.

L. Ambulius Turpio was the manager of a troupe of actors, and himself the most famous actor at Rome, previous to Roscius, with whom he is coupled by Tacitus in his Dialogus de Oratoribus. That his acting delighted even those who sat in the most distant seats of the theatre is affirmed by Cicero (Cat. Mai. 14). His grex or company brought out all of the six comedies of Terence, for in the time of that poet it was customary for the aediles to contract with some 'manager' for the production of the play which they had accepted from the playwright. In earlier times the poet himself had been both composer and exhibitor. Cf. Introd. § 65.

L. Hatilius Praenestinus belonged probably to a later period than Ambulius Turpio, and the association of the two names may have been due to accident or carelessness. The name is coupled with that of Ambulius in all of the didascaliae except that to the Ilecyra (and Heaut. in Codex A). In Dziatkow's opinion, the mention of two actors suggests two different performances. See Dz., on the didasc. to the Aud., in Rhein. Mus. 20. 572 f., and 21. 64 f.

modos fecit, "composed the measures," "set the play to music."

Flaccus Claudi: sc. servos; see Introd. § 64. The attitude of the Roman citizen towards accomplishments of this sort was one of disdain. Singing, dancing, and the like were inconsistent with that gravitas which was the Roman's typical virtue. Cicero (Murena, 6. 13) says, nemo . . . fere saltat sobrius, nisi forte insunit. But slaves were often very accomplished, and were employed in occupations in which their less intellectual masters might well have been proud to be expert.

tibIs paribus tota, "on equal pipes throughout" (tibIs = tibis; understand acta est); i. e. whenever in this play there was musical accompaniment the instrument used was the flute, consisting of two pipes of equal length, divergent and uniting so as to bring each mouthpiece within the clasp of a bandage that passed over the mouth of the performer. Cf. Introd. § 85. Contrasted with the tibiae pares were the tibiae impares, whereof the pipes were unequal in length. The right hand pipe was that on which the melody was played, while the left was used for the accompaniment. The former was usually known as dextra, the latter as sinistra. Yet both pipes were occasionally dextrae (see didasc. to Eun.), and in that case they were also commonly pares. Cf. Introd. l. c.

Graeca Menandru, "the Greek original is by Menander." With Graeca understand fabula. See n. on didasc. to Ad. 6. Menandru = Μένανδρος, gen. of Μένανδρος; understand est. The Greek form was preferred by the learned composers of the didascaliae; cf. Apollodoru = Ἀπολλοδώρου (in the didasc. to the Phorm. and Ilec.); cf. also timorumenos = τιμωρούμενος. On the other hand, Diphili (not Diphilu) occurs in Ad. Prol. 6.

facta I = facta prima; i. e. it was the first of the poet's plays to be brought out or exhibited, and this happened when M. Marcellus and C. Sulpicius were consuls, in 166 B. C. Less probably, facta I refers to the order of composition; see the Teuffel-Schwabe Hist. of Rom. Lit. vol. 1, § 109. 5 (Warr's translation). If so, it is not to be immediately connected with the names of the consuls, since the latter are intended to indicate the year in which the play was performed. See Spengel's Andria, 2d edition, Introd. p. viii. It is probable that the play was composed and presented to the aediles two years, at least, prior to its performance.

cos: i. e. consulibus.

PERIOCHA

Short metrical summaries of the plots of the plays are found in the MSS.; in the Bembine these are called periochae (περιοχαί), in the other codices argumenta. They are composed in the metre known as the iambic senarius, and have, each, twelve verses; but their prosody is loose, and their diction, though in evident imitation of the style of Terence, is often quite mechanical, and far removed from any resemblance to classical Latinity. Since the prologues to Terence's plays, however, have little or nothing to do with the plot, these summaries are not altogether without their appropriate character. They were not written by Terence, but by Gaius Sulpicius Apollinaris of Carthage, who is frequently mentioned in the Noctes Atticae of Aulus Gellius. The latter had been his pupil, and refers to him as uir in nostra memoria praeter alios doctus. Apollinaris was the teacher also of the Emperor Pertinax, and the author of the summaries of the books of the Aeneid, and perhaps of the non-acrostic Arguments to Plautus. He was one of the learned pedants who, in the second century after Christ, devoted themselves to the study of the older Latin literature: it was evidently his aim to revive as far as possible the language and style of the comic poets.

1. sororem, etc.: cf. Eun. Per. 1. meretriculae: i. e. Chrysis, the daughter of the Andrian citizen to whom Phania, the brother of Chremes, had attached himself as client, and who on Phania's death adopted Pasibula, the daughter of Chremes, changing her name to Glycerium. The diminutive occurs again in Heaut. Per. 10, and Hec. Per. 4, and also in Plautus, but nowhere in Terence himself.

3. dat fidem, etc.: cf. Ad. Per. 9.

4. namque aliam: thus Unpf., Meis., Dz., Fleck. The MSS. have nam aliam, presenting an uncertain hiatus.

5. gnatam: i. e. Philumena, another daughter of Chremes, born since the loss of Pasibula. The form is in imitation of Terence's use of gnatus (older form of natus) as substantive; the pure participle appears in the MSS., without exception, as natus, nata. Hence natum in vs. 9.

8. persuasu: suasu, if read, would be pronounced as a trisyllable, contrary to the usage of Plautus and Terence. "Pamphilus scorns not the advice of Dauos," and gets into trouble in consequence.

10. generum abdicat, "disclaims (rejects) him as son-in-law."

11. filiam, "as his daughter." adgnitam: archaic for agnitam; cf. Phorm. Per. 12, and Hec. Per. 11.

12. aliam: for alteram, i. e. Philumena. Apollinaris follows that edition of the play which terminated with the so-called Second Ending of the Andria; see below on vs. 981.

PERSONAE

Persona was the word for a character in a play, and was first applied to the actor's mask, through whose mouth-aperture the voice reached the ears of the audience (per, sonare), greatly increased in volume; see Haigh, The Attic Theatre, 2d ed. p. 296 f. In the text of most MSS. of Terence, the personae are distinguished by the initial letters of their names, but in the codices Bembinus and Victorianus (in part) they are indicated by letters of the Greek alphabet. Cf. n. on Cantor, 981. The lists of personae prefixed to the plays are not found in the MSS., but are compiled from the headings to the different scenes. The order of the names corresponds to the order in which they come upon the stage, rather than, as in Shakespeare's dramas, to the relative importance of the characters themselves. The names in both Plautus and Terence are, in most cases, of Greek origin, and are frequently intended to suggest the disposition or some striking peculiarity of the character represented. For example, in the Andria, the possible derivation of Pamphilus (from $\pi\alpha\varsigma + \phi\iota\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\omega$), the name of the ardent lover, is obvious, while Glycerium, his betrothed, is suggestive of $\gamma\lambda\upsilon\kappa\acute{\upsilon}\varsigma$, "sweet." On this subject see Spengel's Andria, Introd. p. xiv, and Lorenz's Most. pp. 2-3; compare the custom of the playwrights of the Elizabethan period in England; see also Sheridan (School for Scandal), and Thackeray.

PROLOGUS

The purpose of the prologue in the New Comedy of Menander and his brother poets was to explain whatever the audience needed to know about the play — its source, name, plot — and to bespeak for it the goodwill of the spectators. In general it may be said that Plautus followed his models in this respect. But Terence departed from this custom. His prologues are simply short addresses which, though they give the name and the origin of the play, and plead for a friendly and impartial hearing, are yet in no respect concerned with the plot or contents of the play itself. They are devoted chiefly to the criticism of rival poets and detractors, by whom Terence seems to have been much beset. In using the prologue as a weapon of defence against unfriendly critics he differed radically from his predecessors. Among his detractors, the poet Luscius Lanuvinus (or Lauinius)¹ seems to have been particularly prominent. He is referred to as poëta uetus in Phorm. 1, and as multiuolus uetus poëta in Heaut. 22 and And. 7, but never by name, for ὄνομαστί κωμωδεῖν had by this time ceased. Cf. n. on 7 below.

It is probable that prologues were at one time prefixed to all the plays of Plautus. If so, at least nine of them are lost, in whole or in part; those that have survived belong, probably, to the second half of the second century B. C., when a revival of Plautine study took place in Rome, and when the lack of new pieces induced a reversion to the former favourite of the people. See Ritschl's Parerga, I, pp. 180-238. It is true that argument has been made in favour of the genuineness of the prologues to the Aulularia, Rudens, and Trinummus, but as all the prologues are inferior productions, and for that reason hardly to be attributed to Plautus, the best that can be said for the authenticity of those in question is that they may be the originals considerably interpolated and changed.

The prologues of Terence, on the other hand, are all genuine. Their delivery was usually assigned to one of the younger actors (see Heaut. Prol. 1-2), who was dressed especially for the purpose — ornatu prologi — and did not, for the time being, represent one of the regular characters of the play. The prologues of the Heauton and the Heccyra, however, seem to have been assigned to an old man, who was undoubtedly Ambivius Turpio. The metre of all the prologues is the iambic senarius.

The origin of the prologue may almost be said to be due to Euripides. At least, he more than any one else is responsible for the use of a preliminary address or speech, which details the events leading up to the main action, and informs the audience of what it needs to know in order to a proper understanding of the piece. An example of the Euripidean prologue is the speech of Apollo at the opening of the Alcestis. — the drama that, with others of Euripides' plays, did much to pave the way for the New Comedy of Menander and his colleagues, and thus for the comedy of the Romans.

1. Poëta: Terence's usual way in the prologues of alluding to himself. hic (18) and hic noster (19) have the same reference. Terence never mentions himself by name, whereas in seven of the prologues of Plautus, where reference is made to the author, the latter is spoken of as Plautus or Maccius, not as poëta. quom: always thus spelled in Plautus and Terence, and preferred to cum until the time of Augustus. quum (if a Latin form at all) belongs to the very late Empire. adpulit ad is both early and classical. The dat. instead of ad with acc., as in Vergil's me uestris deus adpulit oris, does not belong to the ante-Ciceronian period. Cf. 446 and 56.

¹ But see Dziatzko-Hauley (crit. note) on Phorm. Prol. 1.

2. id negoti, "this simple task"; more restricted than id negotium. The partitive gen. dependent on a neut. pron. (more commonly the interrog. quid) is very frequent in Terence; cf. 250, 953; Heaut. 848; Eun. 546, 662, 833; Phorm. 343; Hec. 643.

3. quas fecisset fabulas, "whatever plays he should compose"; for fabulae quas fecisset. Another kind of attraction takes place when the antecedent keeps its position before the rel., as in Plaut. Amph. 1009 Naucratem quem convenire uolui, in navi non erat. Usually the attracted word is the subject of the sentence, though not always; cf. Plaut. Capt. 110 istos captiuos duos Heri quos emi . . . Is indito catenas singularias.

4. euenire, "happens," "turns out." multo, "very much so," strengthens aliter and is a kind of afterthought.

5. prōlogis: from πρόλογος. So we have occasionally prōpino from προπίνω, prōpola from προπώλης, etc. operam abutitur, "uses up (exhausts) his efforts." abuti (ἀποχρῆσθαι) before Cicero's time meant "to use completely"; afterwards it came to signify "to misuse," in consequence of its association with the idea of misdirected effort, or owing to its connection with an adv., like male, peruorse. From this it is but a step to the idea of abuse or outrage, without any modifying word or phrase, as in quousque abutere patientia nostra (even here, however, we may render "use up"). abutor takes the acc. in Terence, but utor is constructed with the abl., except in Ad. 815. So fruor is joined with the abl., except possibly in Heaut. 401, where ingenium frui is the reading of A, ingenio of the other MSS. potior is written with the acc. in Ad. 871, 876, Phorm. 469, but with the abl. in Phorm. 830. fungor governs the acc. everywhere, except, perhaps, in Ad. 603, where however some editors substitute tuom officium for tuo officio of the MSS. In Plautus the acc. is the rule with fungor, and in general it may be said that the acc. was the prevailing construction with these verbs in early Latin. See Roby, 1223, and Preface to vol. ii, p. lxxvii. For abutor see Lodge, Lex. Pl. s. v.

6. "Not in explaining the plot, but in replying," etc.; cf. Ad. Prol. 22 f. qui is an old form of the abl., or perhaps a locative. It may be either relative, interrogative, or indefinite, and of any gender or number. Here it is rel. and adverbial (cf. English "whereby") = quibus of classical prose, and the following subj. is one of purpose; cf. 307, 334, 335, 408, etc.

7. ueteris poëtae: i. e. the poet Lucius Lanuvinus, whose name has been handed down by Donatus; see n. above on Prologus. Donatus has preserved also two lines of his poetry.

8. quam rem uitio dent, "what they impute as a fault"; cf. n. on 3. The subject is the uetus poëta and his party.

9. Menander: see Introd. § 10 and passim. Andriam et Perinthiam: thirteen short fragments of the first, and eight of the second, are all that have been preserved of these two plays. See Meineke, Frag. Com. Graec. IV, p. 81 f. and p. 187 f. The Perinthia is named from one of the characters, a girl of Perinthos in Thrace.

10. norit . . . nouerit: cf. the plpf. forms noras and noueras (Phorm. 384 and 390). nouerit is fut. pf.; norit the same contracted. The longer form is usually placed at end of the vs., metri gratia. For the thought cf. Phorm. 265 and Vergil's ab uno disce omnis.

12. oratione . . . ac stilo, "thought and expression." stilus is similar in meaning here to scriptura in Phorm. Prol. 5. Cf. Donatus, oratio ad res refertur, stilus ad uerba.

13. quae conuenere, "all that he found suitable." in Andriam: to be taken with transtulisse. The Andria of Terence is meant.

14. fatetur transtulisse: see se; the omission of the pronominal subject of the infin. is common in Terence. Cf. n. on 870. The expression means simply that Terence translated the Greek into Latin. Donatus is authority for the statement that the whole of the first scene of Terence's Andria was taken from the Περινθία.

15. isti: the poet's detractors; cf. 21 and Ad. Prol. 15. But under cover of the pl. Terence refers more particularly to Lanuvinus. id isti: a monosyllable, or an initial syllable, long by nature or by position, if preceded by a short monosyllable or by a word rendered monosyllabic through elision of its final vowel, may be shortened, and the two may constitute either the thesis or the arsis of the foot; if the thesis, then the accented syllable precedes the shortened syllable, but otherwise follows it. Cf. Introd. § 91.¹ in eo, "in doing so," "in this"; with a refer. to uituperant. Cf. 46 and 50 in hac re, 94 in ea re. disputant, "maintain."

16. contaminari, "be mingled," "be mixed," refers to the practice of blending parts of two Greek plays so as to form one Latin play. The idea of spoiling the plays in the process is connoted; the Gk. originals are spoiled for translation into Latin by Lanuvinus, if scenes are taken from them by Terence. Cf. F. D. Allen in P. A. P. A. for July, 1888, vol. xix, p. xxv. Contaminare is connected with tag-, the root of tango, and suggests contact merely. Through contact comes often defilement; hence the meaning, "pollute," "spoil," — the usual signification of the word: cf. Cic. Cat. 1. 12; Caes. B. G. 7. 43; Hor. Od. 1. 37. 9. The usual meaning is dominant in Heaut. Prol. 17, and is the only possible one in Eun. 552. The word occurs nowhere else in Terence, and seems to have been unknown to Plautus. The noun, contaminatio, is post-classical. See Introd. §§ 48, 49. The practice itself is defended also in the prologues to the Eun. and the Ad., but without the use of the word contaminare. A Latin play taken wholly from a single Greek play was termed integra fabula; cf. Heaut. Prol. 4.

¹ On the general subject of word-groups, see Radford, T. A. P. A. vol. xxxiv, pp. 60-103, and vol. xxxv, pp. 33-64; A. J. P. vol. xxv, pp. 147-162, 256-273, 406-427.

17. "Do they not make it out with their knowing that they know nothing?" That -ne often has the force of nonne in Plautus and Terence is correct enough for practical purposes; but, of course, -ne is non-committal. For the oxymoron cf. Ilec. 274.

18. For the poets mentioned here see Introd. §§ 27, 28, 29, 30-36, 37.

19. hic noster, "this poet of ours," i. e. Terence; cf. n. on vs. 1 (poeta). auctores, "examples," "models." The liberties which Plautus took with his originals are hinted at by Horace (Epist. 2. 1. 175), who believed that that dramatist was indifferent to the artistic merit of his plays if only their sale put money into his pocket.

20. exoptat, "ardently desires"; a strong word. Cf. Heaut. 408. nec-legentiam, "freedom."

21. istorum obscuram diligentiam, "the pedantic accuracy of his critics"; i. e. that excessive accuracy which resulted in obscurity, by destroying the freedom of spirit which gave life to the original. 'The letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life.' Lannuinus gave his attention to the first, at the cost of the second. Terence avoided this snare. Cf. Eun. Prol. 7.

22. dehinc: see on 187. dehinc porro = "from this time forth"; like deinde porro in Plaut. Trin. 945.

23. diceré: see Introd. § 91. noscant, "come to know," i. e. through me.

24. fauete (sc. linguis) = silete, "keep silence." Cf. εὐφημεῖτε (Ar. Ran. 353). Before the commencement of a sacrifice, the priest or herald exhorted the people "to favour (the occasion) with their lips (or tongues)," that is, to avoid all ill-omened words which might vitiate the sacred rite. As the best way of doing this was to maintain silence, the expression came to bear that meaning in colloquial language, as elsewhere. Cf. Hor. Od. 3. 1. 2, and 3. 14. 10; Verg. Aen. 5. 71 ore fauete omnes. See on Eun. Prol. 44. adeste aequo animo, "lend your attention and be fair-minded"; cf. Phorm. Prol. 30; Ad. Prol. 24; Heaut. Prol. 27, 28; Plaut. Amph. Prol. 16. Cf. also Verg. Aen. vi. 129 aequus Iuppiter, i. e. "friendly," which may be the meaning here. rem cognoscite, "seek to understand the matter," i. e. as though you were conducting a judicial investigation. Cf. Eun. Prol. 42; Plaut. Capt. Prol. 67.

25. "That you may reach a conclusion whether you have aught to expect (from such a poet)"; cf. Phorm. 474 aequid spei porrost. Cf. n. on And. Prol. 2. quid is indef. relicuom: four syllables. Understand uobis.

26-7. quas comoedias = comoediae quas; see on 3. Transl. "(and) whether the comedies which hereafter he shall make anew are to be witnessed throughout by you or are to be hissed from the stage before (they are seen).” The indirect question in 27 depends on pernoscatis, and serves merely to explain further the words ecquid spei sit reliquom. prius may be explained as = potius “rather,” or preferably as = prius quam spectatae sint.

ACT I. SCENE I.

Instead of using his prologue as a means of expounding to his audience the circumstances that condition the action of the play, and so much of the plot as might be necessary to an appreciation of the events of the drama, Terence has chosen to use for this purpose a number of verses at the opening of each play (in the Andria, vss. 28-171). There can be no doubt that he was assisted in this by his models of the New Comedy, which must have dealt with the plot in the first scene. In the Andria, whose first scene is based on the Perinthia (Περινθία) of Menander, Terence has chosen as his model the play which presents its opening scene in the form of a dialogue, in preference to the one which begins with a soliloquy—the plot being substantially the same in both. In doing this he takes into account the peculiarities of a Roman audience, to whom the monologue of the Ἀνδρία would have seemed dull. According to Donatus, who is our chief informant on these points, this monologue is said by an old man, whereas in the Περινθία an aged gentleman converses with his wife. In Terence the same personage speaks with his freedman, who is an invention of the Latin poet himself. Such a character however was merely a mechanical device to which Terence resorted according to his needs, and for which he had the authority of Plautus. It was persona extra argumentum arcessita, as explained by Donatus, and had no part in the action of the play. The Gk. πρόσωπον προτακίδου was a similar creation. Of such a nature are Philotis and Daus in the Heqyra and Phormio respectively.

28. Simo and his freedman Sosia enter the stage from the right (see Introd. § 72). Behind them are two slaves carrying victuals purchased in the forum. Simo sends the slaves within doors, but detains Sosia.

uos: i. e. slaves. istaec: i. e. the victuals. Sosia, after his manumission, remains in the household of his former master, and acts as overseer to the culinary department. In the scene-headings of some MSS. he is designated as coqus.

29. ades dum, “here, a moment”; often used in recalling a person who is about to take his departure. Cf. 344; Hee. 510. The enclitic particle dum serves to modify the force of the imperative, and so affects the accent that adésdum may be regarded as one word. Cf. n. on 184; Introd. § 89. For dum see Lindsay, Lat. Lang. p. 609. paucis te uolo: i. e. paucis uerbis te uolo conloqui (or adpellare); cf. Plaut. Mil. 376 sed paucis uerbis te uolo, Aul. 199 paucis te uolo adpellare. paucis is abl. So also with audire and auscultare; cf. 536; Eun. 1067; Hec. 510; Ad. 806. In these cases the full construction may have been audi (auscultu) me paucis uerbis dicere.

30. curentur, "be attended to," i. e. "cooked"; understand uis. immo aliud, "nay, another thing"; see on 523.

31. mea ars, "my skill." Sosia is thinking of his skill in cookery, but there is a reference to "skill" taken in a more general sense. On the high esteem in which the art of cookery was held in the days of the New Attic Comedy, see Mahaffy, Social Life in Greece, p. 299. hoc: i. e. the preparation of the meal.

33. eis: sc. rebus or artibus; explained by fide et taciturnitate.

34. expecto quid uelis, "I await your pleasure."

35. a paruolo: ἐκ παιδός; cf. Ad. 48 and 494; And. 539; 2d Tim. iii. 15 "from a child." The English is commonly abstract, "from boyhood." ut: dependent interrogative, "how"; a common use in Plaut. and Ter.

36. apud me: a word group, the pers. pron. being without accent if unemphatic. Hence the ictus falls on the second syllable of apud instead of the first. Cf. n. on ades dum, 29. clemens, "mild," "easy"; cf. Ad. 42.

38. seruibas = seruiebas; thus frequently in verbs of 4th conj. Cf. 930 aiebat with 932 aibat; 116 scies with Hec. 246 scibo. liberaliter, "in the spirit of a freeman"; cf. n. on Ad. 886. Cf. also the fine words of Menander (Frag. Com. Graec. Mein. iv, p. 293), ἐλευθέρως δοῦλεν· δούλος οὐκ ἔσει.

39. pretium, "reward," i. e. freedom; cf. 610, where the reward is punishment.

40. haud muto factum, "not that I would alter what I have done." A freedman, if he proved to be unworthy of his freedom, might be reduced again to slavery by due process of law. See Harper's Dict. Class. Lit. s. v. libertus.

41. Sĩmo: the quantity of the i is against the suggested derivation from Σίμων.

42. et ideo gratum: see on Prol. 15. aduorsum te: lit. "before you," and so "in your estimation," "in your eyes." habeo gratiam, "I am thankful"; see on Phorm. 894. There is a play on gratum and gratiam.

43. sed hoc mihi: see on 42. hoc: anticipatory. molestumst: i. e. molestum 'st, i. e. molestum est, the enclitic form ('st) of the verb having become joined in writing with the previous adj. Thus generally in Terence. See B. App. § 202. 3. nam, "(I say so) because." Cf. n. on enim, 91. istaec commemoratio, "your (act of) reminding (me)," i. e. "your act in reminding me."

44. inmemori: governed by exprobratio which is regularly followed by a dative of the person. Verbal nouns sometimes retain the construction of the verb from which they are derived. In Plaut. the acc. still appears occasionally after the nouns derived from trans. verbs. By the time of Ter. the gen. had regularly taken the place of the acc.; cf. examples cited on 400. benefici: not dependent on inmemori so much as on exprobratio, which, in good Latin, is followed by a dat. of the pers. and a gen. of the thing — the latter corresponding to the acc. of the thing after exprobrare; see previous n., and cf. Livy, 23. 35. 7 praeceperat ne qua exprobratio cuiquam ueteris fortunae discordiam inter ordines sereret, where fortunae and cuiquam are separately dependent on exprobratio. Transl., “is like the reproaching an ingrate on account of a benefit (conferred upon him).” benefici is placed where it can be felt slightly also with commemoratio. The genitive ending in a single i is the regular inflection for all nouns in -ius, -ium, in the older Latin.

45. quin (“why not?”) with the inv. is a development of its use with the indic. in questions; e. g. Heaut. 832 quin accipis (“why not take it?”) is in effect a command. So 399. In And. 849 responde of the MSS. is changed to respondes by some good editors, who follow Don. quid est: questions apparently dependent frequently have the indic. in Plaut. and Ter. Strictly speaking, such questions are independent; as in English, when we say ‘tell me, where are you going?’ instead of ‘tell me where you are going.’ This is called parataxis. Cf. 449, 849, 878, etc. The indic. occurs most frequently after such expletives as dic mihi, loquere, cado, responde, expedi, narra, uide, rogo, uolo scire, fac sciam, niden, audin, scin, and the like. The tendency to paratactic arrangement of the members of a sentence predominated in early Latin speech, as also in the early Greek, and is natural to colloquial language at all times. Cf. E. Becker, de syntaxi interrog. oblig. in Studemund’s Studien, p. 115; Ussing’s note on Plaut. Amph. Prol. 17; Roby, 1761. quod me uelis: clause of characteristic.

46. praedico, “I tell you beforehand,” i. e. before entering into further details.

47. Ter. might have written haec nuptiae, quas ueras esse credis, non sunt uerae. Cf. n. on Prol. 3.

48. quōr: later cūr.

49–50. Simo’s narrative corresponds, in the order of its events, to the three divisions here given: gnati uita, 51–156; consilium meum, 157–167; quid facere te uelim, 168–170. Cf. Cicero’s divisio tripartita (De Invent. 1. 23. 33).

51. nam, “well then,” introduces the narrative. postquam excessit ex ephebis, “after he had ceased to be counted among the ephebi,” i. e. after he had passed his twentieth year. At Athens young men were styled ἐφηβοί (“mature youths”) from 18 to 20 years of age, and served as ἐπιπολοί in the militia. Here however the word ephebi may bear a meaning hardly more definite than adullescentes. Cf. Eun. 824, and Hor. Epist. 2. 1.

170 f. For the form of expression cf. Xen. Cyr. 1. 2. 12 ἐξῆλθεν ἐξ ἐφύβων; Plaut. Merc. 61. Sosia, etc.: see App.

52. nam, "(and I begin with this period of his life) for." antea: only here in Ter., and nowhere in Plaut.

53. qui: see on Prol. 6; cf. 150, 302, etc.; Hor. Sat. 1. 1. 1 qui fit, Maecenas. Transl., "how could one have understood or even begun to know his natural bent?"

54. magister: i. e. παιδαγωγός, the slave who had charge of a boy's education, and accompanied him to school. prohibebant, "kept him out of mischief." For this tense after dum cf. Eun. 728, and see G. 569. Note 1.

55. plerique omnes, "almost all"; cf. Heaut. 830, Phorm. 172. The expression is somewhat inaccurate. The order ought to be omnes plerique, the second word serving as a corrective to the first. The traditional order is due to metrical convenience, the que being then disposed of by elision.

56. ut . . . adiungant: explanatory of quod. animum adiungere occurs only here and in Hec. 683. Elsewhere Ter. uses animum adplicare (193), animum adpellere (Prol. 1; 446), animum adducere (Hec. 689, 836), animum aduortere (Heaut. 570).

56-7. equos and canes are both objects of alere which is in apposition with studium (56). ad philosophos is (logically) another appositive, but (grammatically) animum adiungant is understood. The infin. alere is a loose constr. for the gen. of the gerund; cf. Phorm. 886, where adimere should be adimendi. See Hor. A. P. 161 and Ar. Plut. 157, for testimony to the fondness of the Roman and Athenian youths for dogs and horses.

58. horum = harum rerum.

60. non iniuria, "not without reason."

61. ut nequid nimis: sc. agas; "that one should do naught to excess"; a proverb translated from μηδὲν ἄγαν, which has been ascribed to Solon, to Pythagoras, and to other philosophers. For the omission of the subjunctive, cf. 120. See Wölfflin, Publili Syri Sententiae, p. 152.

62. sic refers to what follows. For sic = talis, cf. Phorm. 70. The use is colloquial. omnis: acc. pl. perferre ac pati: two verbs not infrequently united; cf. Cic. De Orat. 2. 19. 77 facile omnis perpetior et perfero, and Caes. B. G. viii. 30 ut omnia sibi patiunda et perferenda existimaret. The hist. infin. is not uncommon in Ter.; cf. 97, 147, 662, and Ad. 45 where its use is co-ordinate with that of a finite verb.

63. quibus . . . quomque: tmesis; so in 263. dēdere: much stronger than dare. Transl., "to them he would devote himself," or "give himself up." Cf. 897, Eun. 1026. The difference between the two verbs in meaning and application is well illustrated in Heaut. 681 and 688, where dedere is seen to express absolute and permanent surrender, while dare denotes surrender that is merely relative and temporary.

64-5. See App.

65. ita ut = co modo, quo.

66. inuenias: subjunctive of contingent futurity, "one would find"; see B. App. 360. b. Not infrequently this subj. of the 2d sing. has a strictly potential force, "one can find," and such may be its meaning here. See B. App. 366. a.

67. hoc tempore, "in our time," i. e., in these degenerate days.

68. This proverb, whether it originated with Ter., or, as is more probable, was only passed on by him to his successors, must have been a common saying in the time of Cicero, who says of it, Terentiano uerbo libenter utimur (De Am. 24. 89). obsequium almost = "fawning"; but Cicero (l. c.) uses it in the sense of "compliance."

69. abhinc triennium, "three years ago." abhinc regularly refers to the past, rarely to the future; cf. dehinc (22). It is associated usually with an acc., which serves as an appositive defining it more closely. It is seldom found with the abl.

70. huc uiciniam = huc in uiciniam, "into this neighbourhood." See App.

71. inopia: the Andrians were proverbially poor. cognatorum negligentia, "through the neglect of her kindred." As her parents were dead it was incumbent on her nearest kinsman either to marry her himself, or to provide her with a dowry, that she might marry someone else. This at least was Athenian law, as laid down by Solon, and there seems to be a reference to it here, although there is no proof that the law held good at Andros. The law is stated, probably somewhat loosely, in the Phormio (125, 126). See n. on Ad. 652. Her nearest of kin is evidently Crito, since after her death he inherits the little property she had to leave (799).

72. aetate integra, "in the bloom of youth"; abl. of quality. Cf. Eun. 473.

73. ei (= hei) is an interjection.

74. parce ac duriter: inserted to explain pudice. Cf. Ad. 45. Cf. also durus in Hor. Epist. 1. 7. 91, and asper used of the country mouse in Hor. Sat. 2. 6. 82.

75. lana, etc., "with wool and web her living eking out"; cf. Heaut. 285. quaeritans: cf. n. on Ad. 81.

78. lubidinem, "pleasure."

79. condicionem, "their terms." Cf. Heaut. 326; Hor. Od. 1. 1. 12 Attalicis condicionibus, "terms such as Attalus could offer." quaestum may signify any business or occupation whereby money is made. In Plant. Capt. 98, it is used of the trade of a slave-dealer, and is coupled with in- honestum. In Ad. 206 it refers to the occupation of a leno, and commonly the word points to some calling of a disreputable character. But this is largely because it = 'a seeking (of money),' then 'the process by which the money was sought,' trade, etc. Cicero (De Off. 1. 150, 151) supplies the necessary atmosphere for the word.

81. ēsset: from edo.

82. The omission of a verb of saying, thinking, or doing, is frequent in colloquial speech.

83. habet: sc. ictum or uolnus. When a gladiator received a mortal blow, the spectators cried habet. Here the expression is transferred to a love affair: "he has it," "he is hard hit." For the thought cf. Hor. Od. 1. 27. 11 f. obseruabam, "I used to watch." seruolos: young slaves (hence the dim.) who accompanied their masters when they went out to dinner, and returned at a specified hour to bring them home. Cf. Ad. 28 f.; Lorenz on Plaut. Most. 313. Donatus says they were called aduorsitores, and among the dramatis personae of the Mostellaria of Plautus the name Phaniscus aduorsitor occurs; but the word is nowhere used in the play itself, and is not found in general use. The expression aduorsum uenire is found in Most. 313; cf. Fay's note, l. c.

84. uenientis aut abeuntis: i. e. on errands to and from the houses of their respective masters, not the house of Chrysis. puer: cf. the similar use of παῖς, the German Knabe, the French garçon, the English boy.

85. sodes, "if you please"; contracted from si audes (audere = auidere, "to desire," "to wish," whence auidus). It is commonly accompanied by an imv., as here and in Ad. 517, 643; Heaut. 580; Hee. 844; Hor. Sat. 1. 9. 41 me sodes (sc. relinque); but not invariably, for cf. Hee. 753; Heaut. 738.

86. teneo, "I understand"; cf. 300, 349, 498; Heaut. 700, 778, etc.

87. Nicēratum: Νικήρατον. Editors who retain nam may read Nicēratum on the analogy of Simo = Σίμων.

88. Pamphilus: sc. habuit. symbolam dedit, "he paid his scot." symbola (συμβολή), for which the pure Latin was colecta (Cic. De Orat. 2. 57. 233), was the amount paid by each one of a number of contributors to a feast. Such a feast was called δεῖπνον ἀπὸ συμβολῶν, and the participants might be said de symbolis ēsse, as in Eun. 540. asymbolus was a person who attended the feast, but contributed nothing — as in Phorm. 339.

90-1. nil . . . quicquam, "nothing whatever." The emphatic pleonasm nil quicquam and nemo quisquam are frequent in the sermo cottidianus. For the former cf. Hee. 400; Eun. 884; Phorm. 80, 250; Ad. 366: for the latter Hee. 67; Eun. 226, 1032, and the equivalent constructions in Ad. 38, 529, 716-7.

91. enim uero, "why, of course." enim, which is often combined with other particles, was originally a corroborative particle, coniunctio affirma- tiua (Priscian xvi, p. 103 f. II.; vol. iii, Keil), and in early Latin capable of standing first in the sentence (as here and in 206; Ad. 168; Hec. 238; Phorm. 983; Plaut. Trin. 1134, and Cupt. 592); in later Latin it stood first only when immediately followed by vero. In Plaut. it is normally corroborative; in Ter. it is sometimes causal (e. g. in Ad. 649; Hec. 834); see Clement in A. J. P. xviii. 4, where the subject is treated at length. spectatum, "tested," "approved."

93. nam: cf. n. on 43. qui, "he who;" with animus in the next line understand cuius; that is, cuius animus = qui animo. This is better than to make animus the antecedent of qui, or to regard qui as equal to si quis. In actual fact, however, Greek and Latin are loath to repeat a relative in a changed case-form. ingeniis, "characters." conflictatur, "is in company"; usually dep., but found in the act. voice in Phorm. 505. eius modi: i. e. such as were Chrysis and her lovers. eius is a monosyllable.

94. in ea re, "in doing so"; with a reference to conflictatur. tamen, "after all," "in spite of everything"; often added to bring out the idea of concession. It gives strength to the sentence as ἔμως does. Cf. 881; Heaut. 1012; Ad. 110, 174, 226.

95. scias, "one may be confident"; cf. B. App. 366. a; and n. on 66 (inuenius). scias and suae are monosyllabic, by synizesis. So scio in 653, 658, etc. posse: sc. eum, antec. of qui (93). habere modum has the sense and constr. of adhibere modum, "to set bounds to." On the use of the simple for the compound verb cf. Wilson in Gildersleeve Studies p. 49, and T. A. P. A. xxxi, pp. 202-222. ipsum, "of himself," "un-assisted."

96-7. "Not only was I pleased at this, but also with one accord all men began to say all manner of complimentary things to me and to commend my good fortune."

96. ore omnes omnia: the alliteration strengthens. It occurs most frequently in the last two or three words in a vs., but not seldom extends to many words, as in Ad. 322; Phorm. 334; Plaut. Men. 252 non potuit paucis plura plane proloqui. Cf. Ad. 990. The early Latin writers, notably Ennius, Plautus, and Lucretius, were extremely fond of alliteration and assonance. See Munro's Lucretius, Introd. to Notes, II, p. 311. omnes omnia is a common collocation.

97. dicere: sc. mihi. The infinitives are hist.; see on 62. meas has the value of the gen. of ego, and thus furnishes an antecedent to qui.

100. ultro . . . uenit, "went out of his way to come to me." It was more usual for the father of the young man to make the first advances.

101. dote summa: this proves to be decem talenta (951), or about $12,160. In Heaut. 838, a modest dowry is two talents, or about $2,432. No wonder Simo speaks of Chremes' offer as summa!

102. placuit, "I agreed"; often without a dat. despondi (sc. eum), "I promised him in marriage." This verb is commonly used of promising a daughter in marriage, as in Heaut. 779. That the legality of a marriage contract should depend on a formal betrothal, in which the consent of the parents or guardians of the young people was a necessary factor, was owing mainly to the seclusion in which the women of a family were kept in both Greece and Rome, as well as to the power of the patria potestas, which a Roman father exercised over his sons. In the present instance it is evident from the sequel that Pamphilus had not even seen the daughter of Chremes, to whom he is thus betrothed by his own father. In Rome the consent of the bride's father had first to be obtained. Here it is given gratuitously. The simplest form of betrothal appears in Plaut. Poen. 1157: Ag. spondesne igitur? Ha. spondeo.

103. quor non = quominus; cf. Cic. N. D. 1. 34. 95 quid obstat quominus sit beatus? Terence's words = quid igitur causae est cur non fiant? Transl. "what then is in the way of the marriage (sc. nuptiae) taking place?"

104. fere in diebus paucis quibus, "very shortly after." Cf. the Spanish "en pocos días que." fere goes with paucis, "a couple of days or so." quibus is illogical; we should expect postquam. Cf. Caes. B. G. 3. 23 paucis diebus quibus coeuentum erat.

105. uicina haec, "our neighbour here." factum bene: an expression of joy over the happy ending of some matter that causes anxiety; cf. 969, 975. The opposite is male factum, as in Phorm. 751. In these expressions est is regularly omitted.

106. beasti (sc. me), "you delight me"; cf. Eun. 279. a Chryside expresses the source of his fear; cf. Liv. 23. 36. 1 ab Hannibale metuens. ibi tum, "thereupon," "then"; a pleonasm of the sermo cottidianus. Cf. 131, 223, 633; ibi alone has this sense in 149, 356, 379.

107. amarant: plpf.; see App. frequens, "often"; cf. Cic. Cat. Mai. 11. 38 uenio in Senatum frequens.

109. conlacrumabat, "wept bitterly." The preposition strengthens the verb, as in conlaudo, conclamo, etc. Compounds of con- are more numerous than those with any other prefix; most of these compounds belong to the early period. See Cooper, Word Formation in the Roman Sermo Plebeius, pp. 262-271. The word may mean also that he wept in sympathy with the rest.

110. paruae consuetudinis, "slight intimacy." Cf. 135.

111. causa = ob or propter, "on account of." tam familiariter, "with so much friendly feeling."

114. mansueti, "gentle." multis: cf. 29 paucis and n.

115. eius: i. e. Pamphilus.

116. etiam, "still." The negative here does not modify etiam; the sense is "still unsuspecting of evil." Cf. Heaut. 175 haud quaquam etiam cessant, and see Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii. 1, p. 27. Spengel's n. on this etiam is misleading.

117. ecfertur, "she is carried forth (from the house)"; cf. Plaut. Most. 1001 unum uidi mortuom efferri foras. imus: i. e. the funeral procession starts on its way. On this description of the funeral of Chrysis, see Cicero, De Oratore 2. 80. 327. The great orator not only commends the style as a whole, but praises in particular the elegant brevity of the words, ecfertur; imus.

118. unam, "one in particular."

120. ut nil supra: sc. esse possit; "that nothing could exceed it"; cf. n. on 61; Ad. 264; Eun. 427. For a slightly different view (involving the Emphatic Neuter) see Greene in Class. Review for December, 1904, p. 450.

121. lamentari praeter ceteras: because she was the sister and nearest relative.

123. honesta ac liberali, "fair and noble"; cf. Eun. 682, 473; Ad. 684. Note that Simo is much impressed with the beauty of Glycerium. His description awakens our interest in her, and our sympathy for the young man. Glycerium, as we shall learn presently, was freeborn, ingenua. She was, too, an Athenian citizen. Hence the poet is careful to save her character as far as possible. Passages similar to this in thought and purpose abound in the plays. pedisequas: attendant slave-women of Chrysis. These would naturally follow in the funeral procession of their mistress, who may be supposed, from what Crito says in 779, to have been no longer poor at the time of her death.

125. percussit ilico animum, "suddenly it struck me"; almost impersonal. The subject (= the truth of the matter) is suggested by the previous words, and explained further by what follows. For ilico see on 514. attāt, "ah!" Note the long ultima. hoc illud est: i. e. τοῦτ' ἐστ' ἐκεῖνο, "this explains that matter," "there we have it."

126. hinc illae lacrumae became a proverb, used often when there was no question of actual tears—as in Hor. Epist. 1. 19. 41; cf. Cic. Pro Cael. 25. 61. There is a reference to conlucrumabat (109). Cf. n. on Ad. 96 (nullum factum).

127. quorsum euadas: cf. 176; Ad. 509.

128. sepulchrum: the place where the body was burned; so also sepelio often of the place merely, although the body was burned, not buried.

129. fletur: impers. Notice the tenses in this and the previous vs. The presents denote repeated action and are picturesque; the historical perfects (aorists) give the final issue or result and point to acts done once.

131. satis cum periculo, "with no little danger (to herself)." ibi tum:

see on 106. exanimatus, "almost breathless," implies loss of self-possession.

132. "Betrays the passion he had thus far so well concealed." The synonyms, dissimulatum and celatum, merely strengthen each other.

133. mediam, "around the waist"; cf. Ad. 316.

134. te is perditum: Glycerium is actuated solely by love for her sister, and for the moment forgets everything in the intensity of her despair and grief. To suppose that in going dangerously near to the burning pyre her purpose was to force Pamphilus to betray in public his affection for herself, in order that his betrothal to the daughter of Chremes might be annulled, is to make her both calculating and heartless — which is far from the poet's intention. See on 123. For the constr. cf. Heaut. 315.

135. consuetum amorem, "the enduring quality of their affection." Cf. Hee. 404, 555. ut cerneres: both potential and consecutive; "so that one could observe." Cf. Heaut. 307 ut facile scires. See B. App. 366. b.

136. quam familiariter: lit. "how trustingly," or, as Mme. Dacier puts it, "d'une manière si pleine de tendresse." For the constr. and order cf. Eun. 178.

137. quid ais: a common expression in Plaut. and Ter., with varying shades of meaning (cf. n. on 184). Here, as often, it is an exclamation of surprise, "what!" "what's that you say!" Cf. 301, Ad. 570, etc.

138. ad obiurgandum: the more classical constr. would be obiurgandi, as in 158; cf. 154. See on 482. nec satis causae: cf. n. on Ad. 96 (nullum factum). nec = et non tamen. diceret: sc. si obiurgarem; ideal ('less vivid') condition transferred to the past; see G. 596. 2.

139. quid commerui, "of what error have I been guilty?" commereo is used regularly in a bad sense, promereo regularly in a good sense, mereo in either; cf. Hee. 486, 631; Phorm. 206, 516; Ad. 201, 681.

141. honesta, "proper."

143. quid facias illi, "what would you do to that fellow?" Cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 1. 63. The dat. of the person in this constr. is the dat. of the indirect object, and is rare; still more rare is the use of the prep. de. Regularly facere, feri and esse are (in future forms, which serve as the passive of facio) united with the simple instrumental abl. See 709; Heaut. 188, 317, 333, 462, 715; Ad. 611, 996; Phorm. 139; Hee. 668. damnum is damage done to property, while malum is outrage done to the person; hence malum dare is often used of the punishment of slaves, as in 431.

144. postridie: a locative; thus also meridie, die erastini, etc. See B. App. 256, 173, 126.

145. indignum facinus: an exclamation, which may be treated here as a statement in oratio obliqua (sc. esse); "that it is a shocking deed," "that it is monstrous." The exclamatory nature of the expression is seen in Phorm.

613, Eun. 70, Ad. 173, 669. On the other hand it is object of audies in 854. comperisse: sc. se; see on Prol. 14. A better punctuation and interpretation = clamitans (se) indignum facinus comperisse, Pumpholium, etc.

146. peregrinam: euphemistically for meretricem; nam hoc nomine etiam meretrices nominabantur (Donatus). The mere fact of a love affair with such a person, though censurable, would not have signified in comparison with the truly indignum facinus of desiring her pro uxore, in preference to an Attic citizen.

147. instat factum, "insists that it is true."

148. ut qui . . . neget: qui here is not nom., but the adverbial abl. (see on Prol. 6), which shows itself later in atqui, quippe, etc. It is properly indefinite (= "in any way," "somehow,") but has ceased here, as in atqui, etc., to have any translatable force; ita . . . ut = "on the understanding that." For ut with 'stipulative' force, see C. E. Bennett, T. A. P. A. vol. xxxi.

149. gnatum: sc. inuasisti or obiurgasti or adortus es (Donatus). Note the aposiopesis. ibi, "then"; cf. n. on 106.

150. qui, "how so?" See on 53. cēdō ("tell me!" "pray!") is an archaic imperative corrupted by contraction from ce-dato = hocce dato, "give it here." It is not always used absolutely, as here, but may be followed by an acc. or by a clause. Sometimes a dependent question follows it, as in 383 (perhaps), and Heaut. 662; but cf. 389; Heaut. 597; Ad. 688. The pl. cette is found only in early Latin, but the sing. is used by Cicero.

151-3. The excuses which Simo imagines his son would advance.

151. his rebus: i. e. the intrigue with Glycerium. finem: the limit set by his marriage. praescripti = praescripsisti; the omission of -is(s) is to avoid excessive sibilation. Such omission occurs in verb-forms when s or x precedes. It is found in all the Latin poets, and occasionally in colloquial prose; cf. Cic. ad Att. 12. 42. 1 dixti. It happens most frequently in the pf. indic. act. 2d sing. and pl., as promisti, scriptis; in the pf. infin. act., as scripse, dixere, and in the plpf. subj. act., as recesset, duxem. Cf. Roby, § 663; Lindsay, Lat. Lang. p. 508, and the note of Klotz on this passage. Cf. also Lease, 'Contracted Forms of the Perfect in Livy,' Class. Rev. xviii (Feb. 1904).

152. prope adest quom, "the time is near when"; cf. Hec. 543; Ad. 299; Plaut. Capt. 516, and Rud. 664 nunc id est quom. alieno more: i. e. as a wife would have him live.

155. The apodosis is implied in 154, according to the punctuation. But see App. amorem: i. e. for Glycerium.

156. ea: i. e. nolle uxorem ducere. aduortenda: see App. ab illo, "coming from him," "on his part." animum aduortenda iniuriast (= animaduortendu, etc.), "is a punishable offence"; the meaning, "to punish" (cf. 767), is derived from the primary sense, "to notice," which,

e. g., the expression bears in Phorm. 909. Observe that, in the passive, one of the two accusatives (animus), which belonged to the active construction, is retained, as is usual when other active verbs that govern two accusatives become passive.

157-67. Simo now explains his plan of procedure (consilium meum); see on 50.

157. operam do is used with a neut. pron., as if it were a single word, euro, ago; cf. 307; Hec. 546 note; Ad. 617; and the use of animus aduerto. This use of id, quod, quid, etc., is essentially the same with that in 376, 448; Eun. 998, 829, 1034; Ad. 939. It gives the ground of the emotion.

159. sceleratus, "rascal"; cf. Ad. 553.

160. ut consumat, "that he may exhaust it," depends on operam do (157).

161. manibus pedibusque, "with might and main," modifies omnia facturum. Cf. Hom. Il. xx. 360 χερσίν τε ποσίν τε. obnixē: adv. and redundant, "to the utmost of his powers."

162. magis id adeo, "the more so for this reason in fact"; id (adv. acc.) anticipates the ut-cl.; see G. 333. 1, Rem. 2. adeo is intensive; cf. 415, 579, 585, 759, 775. incommodet, "thwart"; for the opposite see Hec. 760.

163. Tyrrell's text makes Sosia utter the words rogus, etc.; but this is a manifest oversight, probably due to the same error in Dziatzko. I have made the needed correction.

164. mala mens. malus animus, "evil thoughts, evil intentions." Cf. Ar. Pax 1068 ὦν δόλαι ψυχᾶι, δόλαι φρένες.

166. in Pamphilo . . . morae: for the form of expression, cf. 420; Ad. 719; Verg. Ec. 3. 52 in me mora non erit ulla. For a second form cf. 593, and for a third, 424, 467; Plant. Trin. 277 neque tibi ero in mora.

167. exorandus est, "must be prevailed upon"; exorare = "to succeed in one's entreaty," "to persuade." confore: impers.; "that this will be brought about." The other parts of the verb consum are supplied by confieri. Cf. n. on Ad. 946. confuturum however occurs in Plant. Mil. 941 and elsewhere.

168. Here begins the third division of Simo's narrative. See on 50. ut adsimules: we might expect the infinitive, but ut is right, for tuomst officium has the force of tibi agendumst.

169. That Simo himself undertakes the two duties here enjoined upon Sosia is evident from 196 ff. and 404. But Sosia, though he does not appear after this scene, may be imagined as acting elsewhere in accordance with these instructions.

171. nunciam: an emphatic "now"; the word is not = nunc iam, but nunci-am, and is of three syllables. The same -am is found in quispiam, palam, coram; see Tyrrell, Mil. n. on 357. i prae: on Ad. 167. sequor: see App. See also n. on 186 (agis), and on 322.

ACT II. SCENE 1. [I. 2.]

Notwithstanding the fact that a new act is here indicated, Simo must be supposed to remain on the stage, where he lingers until vs. 205, in apparent disregard of his promise at 171 to follow Sosia into the house. But sequor need not be interpreted too literally, and Simo naturally takes advantage of the sudden appearance of Dauos, to warn the slave against any attempt to thwart him in his plans regarding Pamphilus.

172. Simo recalls to mind that Dauos exhibited considerable anxiety on hearing of Chremes' offer of his daughter in marriage. As Dauos is the accomplice of Pamphilus, this reflection causes Simo to give emphatic expression to what now amounts to a conviction, viz., that Pamphilus will prove unwilling to enter the bonds of matrimony. Previously (155-158) Simo had entertained doubts on this point.

173. ita: parataxis; later Latin would have preferred a causal particle. modo, "lately," "recently"; cf. Ad. 87. After the event mentioned in 99-102 and before the opening of the play, Simo must have given out that his son was to marry the daughter of Chremes, and that the day for the wedding had been fixed. modo is used also of the immediate fut., as in 594, and of the pres. (= "just now"), as in Ad. 289. This last use is ante-classical.

175. Dauos comes out of the house. He is muttering to himself; Simo withdraws to one side and overhears his remarks. mirabar si: cf. Phorm. 490. See A. & G. 572. b, note; Lane, 2068; G. 542, note 1. hoc: i. e. the conduct of Pamphilus. sic, "thus easily"; cf. n. on Ad. 454 haud sic auferent. abiret, "would come off (turn out)," i. e. pass unnoticed. semper: with lenitas, "the unbroken forbearance." The use of the adv. as an adj. is possible because lenitas has an attributive, eri. Cf. the Gk. οἱ νῦν ἀνθρώποι, etc.; Juvenal, iii. 34 quondam hi cornicines; Plaut. Per. 385 non tu nunc hominum mores uides? and Shaks. Hamlet, 'our sometime sister, now our Queen.' Spengel takes semper with urebar. See App.

176. quorsum euaderet, "the outcome," "issue." For the clausula see Introd. § 79.

177. Since the event mentioned in 148, Simo has maintained strict silence (178), a fact somewhat inconsistent with the interpretation of those commentators who will have it that Simo stepped into the house at 171 and gave orders in the presence of Dauos for the pretended marriage. Those who interpret thus understand 173 to refer to these orders. But vs. 173 actually refers to the event described in 99-102, of which Dauos naturally would have been informed almost as soon as it had taken place. It was then too that Simo noticed the slave's anxiety (see on 172). Accordingly the nuptiae of 173 are not the "pretended marriage" of 157 and 168, and the stage does not become empty at 171. See n. introductory to this scene.

178. numquam: used instead of non for emphasis, like the English 'never.' Cf. Heaut. 559 numquam unquam, "never did I ever" (West). The sudden change of metre marks a sudden change of feeling (Intro. § 83), from grave to gay, in Dauos—a change emphasized by the five trochees, each of which consists of a separate word.

179. faciet: with particular reference to uerbum fecit (178). malo: on 143 (damnum).

180. id and hoc are frequently anticipatory to a clause of some kind, or even to a direct quotation, as in 255. Cf. 376, 497, 675, 268, 269, 391. nos: i. e. Pamphilus and Dauos. necopinantis: explanatory of sic. nec- has the same force (= non) as in neglego, negotium, etc. duci, "be led on"; cf. Phorm. 500.

181. interoscitantis opprimi, "be caught unawares"; more lit. "open-mouthed," "yawning," and so "half asleep," "napping."

182. spatium cogitandi: cf. 154 and n. on 138.

183. astute, "shrewdly (done)." hoc et gestu et uultu seruili et cum agitatione capitis dixit (Donatus). carnufex, "scoundrel," "villain"; in reality "an executioner." The occupation was called carnuficina, and as the office was neither honourable nor popular the word carnufex became a common term of vituperation and abuse, and was often applied to slaves. Cf. 651, 852; Ad. 363, 777; cf. also Ramsay's Mostell. pp. 259–260. neque prouideram, "yet I had not seen him before"; for neque cf. n. on 138. The common meaning of the verb is "to foresee," "to provide," as in Heaut. 116. praeuidere belongs to a later period.

184. eho dum ad me, "ho! for an instant, I want you"; eho is an exclamation that implies an imperative; hence dum. Cf. Heaut. 249, 550; Plant. Bacch. 794 manedum, etc. See on 29 and cf. 324, 616; Eun. 360. quid ais: often used in Plant. and Ter. to introduce a new point in conversation; here it is introductory to what Simo is about to say in 185, but the cunning Dauos takes the words literally and injects qua de re (= "about what?"). Simo does not hear the words quid hic uolt. With quid ais as used here cf. the French 'dis donc,' German 'sage mal,' English 'I say' and 'look here,' American 'say.' Cf. 517, 575; Ad. 556; n. on And. 137.

185. rumor est: in reality Simo has himself seen the evidence of it (129–136).

186. hocine agis an non, "will you attend to me or not?" more lit. "to this business of mine." Cf. n. on Heaut. 694. hocine = hoco-ne. agis: the pres. for the fut. is common in the sermo cottidianus. istuc: neut. acc. of istic, "that business of yours," "what you say"; understand ago. It is a neut. substantive likewise in the expression istuc aetatis (= id aetatis, Cic.), "at your age"; see Heaut. 110. It is an adv. = "to that point of yours," in Heaut. 274 and Ad. 821. ea: i. e. the course of conduct pursued hitherto by Pamphilus, to which reference is made in quod antehac fecit (187).

187. antehac: dissyllabic. See Introd. § 96.

188. tempus: the same as aetatis tempus in Hec. 594. Cf. 443 aetas = "youth." tulit: intrans. through the ellipsis of se (cf. Knapp's Vergil, Introd. § 139); "was suited to," more lit. "bore upon." siui: sc. eam rem. As the subj. after this verb is never introduced by ut in Plaut., it is well to take siui absolutely here and ut expleret as an adv. cl. of purpose = "in order that, etc." But the ut-cl. in Hec. 590 clearly stands in objective relation to sinum, and may be warrant for a similar construction here.

189. hic dies: cf. 102.

190. dehinc: temp., "from this time on," "henceforth." siue = vel si. in uiam, "to the right way"; cf. n. on 442 (uia); Cic. Philipp. xii. 2. 7 quod si est erratum, patres conscripti, spe falsa atque fallaci, redeamus in uiam. ut . . . uiam = ut tu cures ut ille redeat iam in uiam.

191. hoc quid sit may depend on rogas understood (cf. Ad. 288), as if Dauos had looked inquisitive or surprised, or had actually said hoc quid est? and Simo were repeating his question in the answer. A question echoed or repeated is mentally dependent and may have the subj. See on 282. Cf. Ad. 84, 374. quā amant: hiatus, with a shortening of the vowel, is allowed when a monosyllable bearing the ictus and ending in a long vowel or m stands before a word beginning with a vowel. See Introd. § 97. Cf. Ritschl, Prolegomena in Trin. 200 f.

192. magistrum: in this instance Dauos himself. Cf. n. on 54. eam rem: the fact stated in 191. inprobum, "bad," "ill-disposed."

193. ipsum aegrotum, "itself love-sick"; cf. 559. ipsum has the force of "without the promptings of a teacher." ad deteriorem partem, "upon (toward) the inferior course of action." adplicat, "sets," "guides."

194. non Oedipus: I am no guesser of riddles, says Dauos, and by this he suggests a resemblance between Simo and the Sphinx — an insinuation that would have amused the audience. Plautus (Poen. 443) says: —

Nam istī quidem herele orationist Oédipo
Opus cōniectore, quī Sphingī interprēs fuit.

196–8. The change of metre is significant. The former lines being in recitative, the change to spoken lines (iambic senarii) gives particular prominence to the conditions therein set forth as those under which Simo will fulfil his threat; but the details of the threat itself are unfolded in the more weighty octonarii which follow (199, 200).

196. hodie: on Phorm. 1009.

197. quo . . . minus here indicates purpose, like ne after an expression denoting an effort to hinder.

199. pistrinum, "the grist mill," "mill-house." See Harper's Class. Diet. s. v. mola.

200. ea lege atque omine, "on these terms and with this assurance." ut . . . molam, "that I shall grind"; stipulative. Cf. 148 and n.

201. intellextin: on 151 (praescripti). non dum etiam: dum is reinforced by the temp. etiam; see Kirk in A. J. P. vol. 18, pp. 33 and 34. 2). Cf. n. on 116. immo callide, "nay, thoroughly." Cf. n. on 523. callide is an ironical echo of quam sis callidus (198).

202. ita aperte: with sarcastic reference to aperte uis, etc. (195). For the force of ita see on 173. ipsam rem, "the plain truth." locutu's = locutus es; see on 43. circum itione: here as two words, since the second syllable of circum suffers elision. This reading is confirmed by the chief of the Regii codices used by Bentley; see Introd. § 110, and Warren in A. J. P. vol. III, p. 67. For the abl. see on Prol. 5.

203. passu(s) sim: for the obscuration of final s see Introd. § 93. For the mood see on 66, and cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 5. 4 nil ego contulerim iucundo sanus amico. See also Elmer in Cornell Studies in Class. Phil. no. vi, p. 211. For the tense cf. Elmer, l. c. p. 158. Transl. "in anything more readily than in this should I suffer myself to be deceived." deludier: an archaic form of the pass. infin., frequent in Plaut. and Ter. It is found generally at the end of the line—in Ter. always so, except in Hec. 827, where suspiciari ends the first half of an asynartetic vs. In Ad. 535 the true reading is laudari. Simo's statement illustrates a fundamental characteristic of the old man in comedy—the constant fear of being duped.

204. bona uerba, quaeso, "gently, gently, please"; more lit. "(speak) words of good omen, I pray you." Like εὐφήμει, bona uerba is borrowed from the language of sacrifice, and is spoken here in irony. Hence Simo's indignant question, inrides? nil me fallis, "I'm not deceived by you."

205. ne temere facias, "don't do anything rash." See App. neque haud dicas, "and be sure you do not say." The two negatives strengthen each other. This was not only a Greek idiom (cf. οὐδὲ μή, and see Goodwin in Harvard Studies, vol. I, p. 72 fin.), but was in a measure characteristic of the sermo plebeius, from which it passed into the Romance languages. But see App. tibi non praedictum, "that you were not warned of this." With the threat on his lips Simo enters the house not to reappear until 404.

ACT II. SCENE 2. [I. 3.]

Now that Simo has retired Danos assumes an easier manner and reflects on the difficulties of the situation. He is uncertain whether to heed the old man's warning or to side with Pamphilus, whose loves he would fain promote. He decides upon the latter course.

206. enim uero, "in very truth"; see on 91. segnitiae neque socordiae: probably datives, like preci in 601 and Phorm. 547; possibly genitives similar to obiurgandi (154). Transl. "there is no time for sloth or negligence." For the form segnitiae see on Ad. 267. Syrus, the slave, addresses himself in Ad. 763. For the sentiment cf. Ad. 631, Plaut. Asin. 249 and Merc. 112.

207. quantum, "so far as"; cf. 756, 423; n. on 861; Heaut. 592.

208. astu: from astus, "craft," "cunning," but found only in the abl. and as an adv., until the post-Aug. period. providentur, "are prevented." erum: i. e. Pamphilus. pessum dabunt, "will send to the bottom"; a metaphor taken from the sea. Cf. Plaut. Rud. 395 nunc eum cum navi scilicet abiisse pessum in altum.

210. illum and eius refer to Pamphilus, huius to Simo. ei(u)s and hui(u)s are monosyllabic. See Introd. § 96. uitae timeo: Pamphilus is not incapable of taking his own life. uitae is dat. of the object for which one fears; cf. Heaut. 531; Hor. Sat. 2. 1. 23 sibi quisque timet. The dat. is to be distinguished from the acc., as in minas, which denotes the object feared.

211. uerba dare, "to impose upon," "hoodwink." Cf. 504; Ad. 621 n.; Eun. Prol. 24. primum, "in the first place," is balanced by ad haec mala (215); cf. Gk. πρῶτον μὲν. de amore hoc comperit: for the more usual amorem hunc comperit; cf. Nep. Pous. 5. 3 postquam de scelere filii comperit.

212. seruat, "keeps watch on." ne . . . fallaciam, "lest I devise some trick in the matter of the marriage."

213-4. "If he finds it out, I am lost: [or] if it suits his whim, if he hits on an excuse, (whether) rightly or wrongly he will send me post-haste to the mill." See App.

214. praecipitem: sc. me. Cf. 606.

218. amentium, haud amantium, "lubbers not lovers." (So Knapp.) Puns are common in the Roman comedians, as in Shakespeare; but Plaut. is much freer in his use of them than Ter. The above is an instance of paronomasia or agnominatio, i. e. the bringing together of two or more words similar in sound, but wholly different in sense and etymology. This may be distinguished from 'assonance' in the narrower sense, the latter being caused by the juxtaposition of two words etymologically related. The distinction, however, must not be pressed too far. Cf. Heaut. 209, and n. on And. 96.

219. tollere, "to acknowledge." According to a custom prevalent among both Greeks and Romans, the father of a new-born infant was called upon to decide whether it should be reared or exposed to death. If he decided upon the former course he formally raised (tollere) the child from the ground or other place where it had been laid for the purpose. Hence the expressions τέκνα ἀναρπείσθαι and liberos tollere, which mean "to bring up," "to rear." Otherwise the child was "exposed." Cf. Ad. 809.

221-4. Notice the change from indirect to direct quotation and back again. Such a mixture is common in Greek, and may have existed in the original.

221. ciuem Atticam esse hanc: this proves to be true in the end, so that, as Dauos remarks in 780, Pamphilus would be under legal obligation to marry her even if he did not in reality wish to do so. Ter. is here preparing for the dénouement. hinc improves the sense by making it clear at once that the mercator came from Athens. fuit olim: cf. 923.

222. mercator was the girl's uncle, not her father; cf. 932.

223. obiit mortem: not through shipwreck, but afterwards on the island of Andros, as appears from 923-928. ibi tum: see on 106.

224. fabulae! "Mere stories!" "Nonsense!" Cf. Heaut. 336. Dauos deceives himself.

225. The flatness of this remark suggests that the vs. crept into the text from the margin where it stood as a comment on fabulae. atque, "and yet"; so also 607; Ad. 40; Phorm. 389, etc. commentum, "the fiction."

226. ab ea: i. e. ab (ex) aedibus Glycerii; cf. 461; Heaut. 510; Eun. 545; Phorm. 732; Ad. 788. Similarly apud me (te) = "at my (your) house"; cf. Phorm. 837, 926, 934, etc., and the French chez moi, chez vous, etc. me ad forum: sc. conferam; cf. n. on 361 (ego me). The Roman forum, like the Gk. ἀγορά, was a common loitering place for idle young men, as well as a place of business for those who were actively employed. ut: see App.

ACT II. SCENE 3. [I. 4.]

Mysis, maid-servant to Glycerium, comes out of the house, and while doing so pauses at the threshold to continue her conversation with Archylis, her fellow-servant, who had been urging her to go in haste and fetch Lesbia, the midwife. Archylis does not appear upon the stage, but may be seen by the spectators just within the doorway.

228. Archylis (from ἀρχεῖν, in reference to her position of authority within the household) is an older woman than Mysis. Lesbiam: lit. "the Lesbian woman"; from Lesbos, an island where the grape was grown in abundance. She was addicted to drink (temulenta), and therefore, in the opinion of Mysis, was hardly the right person to be summoned on the present occasion.

229. sane pol: like sane herele (Eun. 607; Hee. 459). pol (and edepol), an adjuration to Pollux, one of the 'Great Twin Brethren,' was freely used by women and often by men; herele or hercule only by men; ecastor chiefly by women. See Aulus Gellius, xi. 6. Cf. n. on 305. illa: i. e. Lesbia.

231. Archylis retires from the doorway to the interior of the house, and Mysis comes forward talking to herself. aniculae (a dim. of anus, and expressive of contempt) refers to Archylis.

232. quia . . . est: dependent on Lesbiam adduei iubet understood. compotrix, "drinking companion," occurs again only in Sidonius, who wrote in the fifth century A. D.

233. huic: i. e. Glycerium. illi: i. e. Lesbia. in aliis: sc. mulieribus, i. e. in the case of other women rather than in that of Glycerium. For the spirit of this remark cf. Hor. Od. 1. 21. 13-16 (send woes from us to the Britons, etc.). peccandi, "of doing her work amiss."

234. quid nam, "why, pray?" Cf. n. on 321, and G. 498, notes 2 and 5. exanimatum: see on 131. siet: this archaic form of the subj. (optative; see B. App. 218) is placed by Plaut. and Ter. commonly at the end of the line in iambic and trochaic metre, and often at the close of the first half of the vs., in the tetrameter. Cf. Ad. 282, 298; Hee. 567. So also possiet (874).

235. quid: indef., and limited by tristitiaē. turba, "emotion," "confusion."

ACT II. SCENE 4. [I. 5.]

Pamphilus enters from the direction of the forum. He is in a state of great excitement, due to his having fallen in with his father and having received from him a command to prepare to be married this very day. He protests that he will never desert Glycerium, and finally tells Mysis how Chrysis, on her deathbed, committed Glycerium to his charge. Mysis remains in the background, and talks only to herself, until 267.

237. pro deum fidem: sc. inploro; but cf. n. on 716. pro is without influence on the case. This appears from Caecil. Stat. Syneph. Fr. 3 (Ribbeck) pro deum . . . inploro fidem. Occasionally fidem is omitted after pro, as in Phorm. 351. Sometimes pro is followed by the voc., as in Ad. 111, 196, 447; Plaut. Poen. 1122 pro supreme Iuppiter. Scan quid est si haec.

239. praescisse: pf. infin., through a species of attraction exerted by oportuit. So also communicatum (sc. esse). Thus Heaut. 536, 635, and often in both Plaut. and Ter. communicatum oportuit: impers.; sc. esse. So also Heaut. 200 mansum oportuit. In Heaut. 247 and 635, relictus and interemptum are constructed personally. For the tense, cf. n. on praescisse, just above.

242. inmutatum: adj.; "unchanged," i. e. still faithful to Glycerium.

244. fit, pereco: on 186 (agis).

245. For the infin., with or without subject acc., in exclamations, see B. 334. Cf. n. on 870. -ne is frequently added, as here (adeo). Cf. 253, 425, 609, 689, 870, 879; Ad. 38, 237. Warren (A. J. P. vol. II. 5, p. 75) argues that this -ne is an asseverative particle = "in sooth," "indeed." inuenustum, "unlucky in love"; 'inuenusti' dicebantur quibus Venus in amoribus non faueret (Muretus on this passage). Cf. Gk. ἀναφρόδιτος.

246. See on 237.

247. Chremetis: gen.; see n. on 368. adfinitem, "alliance."

248. quot: Tyrrell invariably reads quod and aliquod instead of quot and aliquot, in deference to the Bembine codex. I have substituted the common form here and elsewhere, to save the reader from needless confusion, and have accordingly expunged that portion of the footnote, which follows 'quot Σ,' viz., quam discrepantiam dehinc referre supersedens Bembinī orthographiam exhibebo. See App.

249. repudiatus: see 148. repetor. quam ob rem: Pamphilus does not know that the marriage which his father has told him to prepare for is unreal (nuptiae falsae), and therefore he is mystified by this apparent change (for the second time) on the part of Chremes. His natural conclusion is that Chremes' daughter, whom he has never seen, is some terrible fright, and that her father is ready to bestow her upon any one willing to accept her; while his own father is willing to make any compact for his son that may induce the latter to abandon his present mode of life. nisi si id est, "surely it is the thing"; see on Ad. 594. In nisi si, quasi si, and similar pleonasm the hypothetical force of the first word has been lost. Cf. Eun. 524, 662, and numerous instances in Plautus.

250. aliquid monstri: on Prol. 2. obtrudi, "be shoved off"; obtrudere alicui is to give to a person against his inclination.

252. nam, etc., "(I have attempted to account for the conduct of Chremes, but there I must stop) for what shall I say (i. e. I know not what to say) about my father's?"; see on 43. Cf. 395, 612. nam, however, may be rendered by the single word, "pray."

253. See on 245. agere: sc. eum. tam negligenter, "with so much indifference."

255. id: on 180.

256. censen = censesne.

257. Transl. "or (utter) any excuse, foolish though it might be, (and) groundless (and) unreasonable?" Pamphilus had in mind: 'I ought to have made some excuse at least (saltem), even if it were foolish, etc. But do you think (i. e. you don't suppose) I could?'

258. quod: on 289; cf. 604. The order of the three clauses in this vs. is exactly the reverse of the order natural to English. The apodosis to si quis roget is understood before aliquid facerem (259), as e. g. "I should answer (say)," i. e. respondeam or dicam.

259. ut ne, used to introduce neg. purpose, is common in Ter. Cf. 327, etc., and Cicero. passim.

260. diuorsae trahunt: cf. Plaut. Mere. 470 diuorsus distrahor.

261. huius: i. e. Glycerium; the gen. is objective. nuptiarum (obj. gen.); i. e. with the daughter of Chremes of course, not with Glycerium. Notice the chiasmus.

262. With the light thrown on the character of Pamphilus in this and the next vs. cf. 882, 883, 889, 897.

263. quae . . . quomque: on 63. ein ego ut aduorser, "is it possible that I should turn against him?" ein = ei (dat. of is) + ne. The pron. is emphatic. There is, possibly, an ellipsis of fieri potest. Cf. v. on Heaut. 784. But ut may be explained as similar to ut in Eun. 302, that is, as an indef. adv., and the subjunctive as delib.; "shall I just set myself against him?" See B. App. 368. 1; 358. c), and B. 277. In 618, tibi ego ut credam, the -ne is omitted. Cf. n. on 282.

265. peropus: ἀπαξ λεγόμενον. Ter. is even more fond than Plaut. of prefixing per (intensive) to adjectives, adverbs, and verbs, as in the following examples, percurus, pergravis, perbenigne, perfortiter, pernimium, pereupio, perdoleo, and many more. Moreover per may be separated from the word thus strengthened, by another intensive particle, or by a pronoun, as in 486; Cic. De Or. 2. 67. 271 per mihi scitum uidetur. ipsa: i. e. Glycerium. aduorsum hunc, "to his face"; cf. n. on 42.

266. paulo momento, "by a slight impulse." paulo: commonly an adv., or a substantive (paulum), but here and in Ad. 876 an adj. uel illuc: on 15 and 174.

267. o Pamphile: o is simply emotional, and is omitted in the absence of any excitement. Cf. 282, 318. quid agit, "how is she?"

268. dolore: the pangs of child-birth: usually in the pl., as in Ad. 289, 486. hoc: on 180.

269. nuptiae: the same as in 102, i. e. with the daughter of Chremes. That no marriage is really to take place is a fact not known to Glycerium. hoc: on 180.

270. queam: subj. of contingent futurity (B. App. 360. b); "should I be able to attempt the thing you speak of?" i. e. even if I were to have the inclination.

271. propter me: on Hec. 833.

273. quam . . . habuerim: subj., because the cl. states the reason why Pamphilus is unwilling to desert her; "seeing that she has been singularly dear to me and that I have loved her with a husband's love." credidit (272) also might have been subj. The indic. indicates merely a difference in the point of view of the speaker at that moment. See on 536; Eun. 302-303. See also B. App. 400. 3.

274. bene et pudice: cf. 120 ff. and n. on 123. doctum atque eductum, "taught and trained." The more logical order is preserved by Cicero (ad Fam. 6. 5) ita enim natus, ita educatus, ita doctus es. Glycerium had been reared in virtue and modesty, and being true to Pamphilus is not a meretrix in the usual acceptation of the word. Cf. n. on Ad. 48. sinam: on 271.

275. Pamphilus is unwilling that Glycerium should be compelled by poverty to fall to the lower level of a meretrix. For a parallel to the character of Glycerium cf. that of Antiphila, as described in Heaut. 226. ingenium, "character." inmutarier: on 203 (deludier).

276. uerear: see App.

277. ut queas: sc. ueror. Cf. 705. In its origin ut queas here is merely an expression of a wish (optative subj.), "may you be able to withstand compulsion." See B. App. 389.

278. ingratum, "unfeeling." ferum, "unnatural."

279. consuetudo, "association," "intimacy," "intercourse." amor, "genuine affection." pudor, "honour." Each of the three substantives in this vs. answers to one of the three adjectives in 278, but in the reverse order.

280. commoueat . . . commoneat: on 218.

282. essem: cf. 649 habeam, 900 adducas, 915 sit; Phorm. 382 nossem; Hec. 524 sim; Plaut. Amph. 813 (with Palmer's note). These and other instances, common in early Latin, of the subj. in Repudiating Questions (see H. 559. 5) illustrate how that mood is used to repeat or echo a previous statement, question, command, or wish, in interrogative form and generally with a view to its repudiation or denial. Sometimes the subj. is preceded by an interrog. -ne or ut or both combined, as in Plaut. Cure. 615-616. Cf. n. on 263. o Mysis Mysis: cf. Eun. 91, Hec. 856, Ad. 256, for other examples of a name or appellation repeated for the sake of emphasis; primum uocandi, alterum increpandi est, says Don. etiam, "still"; see Kirk in A. J. P. vol. 18, pp. 27 and 33.

283. scripta: to be taken with sunt.

284. morienis: for a parallel see Ad. 457.

286. aetatem, "inexperience," as the natural characteristic of "youth"; cf. the description of Chrysis by Simo in 72.

287. clam te: te is acc. clam is found only with the acc. in early Latin. See Lodge, Lex. Pl. s. v. quam, "to what extent," i. e. "how little": slightly ironical. utraque: the sing. would be more regular, since two objects, not two classes or sets of objects, are referred to.

288. ét ad rem: Tyrrell scans et ad rem, for which he gives his reason in the footnote. I have altered the scansion so as to bring it into conformity with the iambic law: $\cup \text{—}, \cup \text{—}, \cup \cup \text{—}$, etc. In this I follow the 'editores' with whom Prof. Tyrrell differs. I have ventured also to supply in the footnote an accidental omission, viz., the two words which immediately follow puclitiam, and are necessary to the sense. rem: i. e. rem familiarem, pecuniam, or lucrum; cf. Ad. 95, 220; Phorm. 393. ad rem tutandam answers to aetatem (286), ad pudicitiam to forma.

289. quod, "but" or "wherefore"; really a rel. pron. with its antecedent implied in the context, and = "as to all of which." Cf. Hor. Epist. 1. 7. 94; Verg. Aen. 2. 141 with Knapp's note. Cf. also Roby 2208, and Paul Thomas on Hee. 338. genium tuum, "your better self." According to Preller, Röm. Myth. p. 567, the genius as such is always good, and the source of health and other rich gifts to the individual man. Cf. Hor. l. c., and Epist. 2. 2. 187.

290. solitudinem, "helplessness"; cf. 381; Eun. 147 f.; Ad. 303.

294. morigera, "compliant," "pleasing." This adj., like the verb morigero or morigeror, is formed from the union of morem and gerere; cf. 641; Ad. 431, 218. morigera fuit = morem gessit.

295. uirum, "husband"; so in 718; Hee. 523, 524. Cf. the German 'Mann,' Eng. 'man' ('woman') as used often in country districts. With this vs. cf. Hom. Il. 6. 429 f. do: enclitic.

296. tuae: monosyllabic. fide (= fidel): possibly correct spelling for dat. and gen. of the fifth declension; but Mss. and Fleckeisen have fidei.

297. hanc mi in manum: i. e. gave her into my possession. This amounted to a solemn betrothal, the marriage being sure to follow. in manum was a legal phrase applied to marriage of a certain kind recognized in law. It referred in fact to the power which such marriage gave to the husband over the wife. The consent of Simo was necessary to make the marriage complete, but Chrysis went as far in this direction as she was able to go under the circumstances. Regarded from a modern standpoint Pamphilus and Glycerium were man and wife. Spengel and others take in manum literally: i. e. Chrysis laid Glycerium's hand in that of Pamphilus, as a token of marriage. But Chrysis and Pamphilus were now alone (see 285), there having been no opportunity for Glycerium to approach them, inasmuch as vs. 286-296 form a single speech.

299. ab illa: on 226. accerso, "I am going to fetch." See App. audin (= audisne), "will you listen," has the force of an imperative.

300. caue: sc. dicas, or fazis (as in 753). Transl. "not a word about the marriage!" nuptiis: i. e. with the daughter of Chremes. morbum: i. e. the dolor of 268. hoc etiam: sc. accedat: i. e. lest this should make her worse. etiam (additory) is often employed in elliptical phrases where the verbal notion is itself suggested by the adverb; see Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii. p. 29. teneo; on 86.

ACT III. SCENE 1. [II. 1.]

The scene opens with the appearance of two new characters, Charinus and his slave Byrria. Charinus, a friend of Pamphilus, is in love with Philumena, the daughter of Chremes, and is in great distress of mind because he has been told by Byrria that she is betrothed to Pamphilus. The latter, on hearing from Charinus of his attachment to Philumena, is ready enough to unite with him in an endeavour to secure a postponement of the marriage, and, if possible, the full accomplishment of his friend's desires.

The characters are secondary, and are created by Terence himself, to enliven the play through the addition of an under-plot. Has personas Terentius addidit fabulae, — nam non sunt apud Menandrum, — ne παθητικόν fieret Philumenam spretam relinquere sine sponso, Pamphilo aliam ducente, says Donatus.

301. quid ais: on 137. The surprise of Charinus is provoked by words of Byrria, spoken, presumably, before the opening of the scene and relating to the proposed marriage of Pamphilus with Philumena. Byrriā? datūrne illa: Introd. § 91. For the final ā in Byrriā, cf. Chaereā in Eun. 558. So always in Ter. in proper names of more than two syllables. illa: i. e. Philumena, the daughter of Chremes. hodie: the same day as that intended by hodie in 254, and by hic dies in 102. The events of the play take place within the limits of a single day. nuptum: supine.

302. qui, "how"; see on 53, and on Prol. 6. apud forum: a colloquialism=in foro; thither Dauos had gone to seek Pamphilus (226). Dauos, however, met Byrria instead, — a fact mentioned by the former in 357.

303. in spe . . . timore=dum in spe . . . timore eram, "so long as I was in hope and in fear"; a dum cl. of 'complete coextension' (see G. 569). Thus the prepositional phrase presents a parallel to the postquam clause in 304. antehac: on 187.

304. cura: with confectus, not with lassus. This is indicated by the alliteration. confectus, "utterly used up," "worn out." There is something unusually comic in the use of so strong a word here — a word applied by Cicero (Cat. 2. 11) to an exhausted gladiator, and defined by Don. to mean sicut vulneratus vel percussus, ut sanari non possit.

305. edepol, "by Pollux"; made up of the intensive e [h], found also in ecastor, and forms of deus and Pollux. See on 229. quoniam . . . uis . . . possit: cf. the French saying, 'si on n'a pas ce que l'on aime, il faut aimer ce que l'on a.' Cf. n. on 805. The subj. is due in part to the influence of uelis; it is also hypothetical in character, whereas the indic. in the quoniam cl. deals with fact.

306. nil . . . aliud: the neut. is more sweeping and therefore more emphatic than nullam aliam would be. Cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 6. 1 non quia, Maece-nas, Lydorum quicquid Etruscos incoluit finis, where quisquis would be less expressive. Cf. also Ad. 49. Philumenam: i. e. the loved one, τὴν φιλομένην.

307. id dare operam: on 157. id anticipates the following qui cl. istam: object of amoucas. qui: on Prol. 6.

308. quo: instr. abl., "whereby."

309. The sentiment is a favourite one with the poets. Shakespeare of course has something similar. Cf. the whole speech of Leonato at the opening of Act V of Much Ado about Nothing, from which we may extract the following:

. . . 't is all men's office to speak patience
To those that wring under the load of sorrow,
But no man's virtue nor sufficiency
To be so moral when he shall endure
The like himself.

Cf. Eur. Alcestis 1078, and Æschylus Prometheus 265 ἐλαφρὸν ὅστις πημά-των ἔξω πόδα | ἔχει παραινεῖν νουθετεῖν τε τὸν κακῶς | πράσσοντα.

310. si . . . sis: a condition contrary to fact, though expressed with the pres. subj.; cf. n. on 914; see A. & G. 517. e; II. 576. 2; G. 596. rem. 1. hic: probably the dem., in place of ego, as often ᾧδε in Gk. Cf. Heaut. 356 huic homini, Ad. 906 huic seni, Hor. Sat. 1. 9. 47 hunc hominem (= me); cf. also And. 890. But it is not impossible that hic is the adv. = "in my place."

311. certum est (sc. mihī), "I am resolved." quid hic agit, "what does he mean?" Said aside. Byrria has turned away from Charinus, as though in despair at the latter's refusal to receive advice.

313. credo: parenthetic; so in Eun. 862; Ad. 79; spero in the next line and censes in 578, etc. aliquot saltem nuptiis prodato dies, "postpone the marriage for a few days at least." aliquot dies is briefly put for aliquot dierum moram; cf. 615. Cf. also 328-9, where dies is (perhaps) direct object of profer; but, as nuptiis (dat.) is not written there, it is possible to supply has nuptias out of 328, and so get an example of the regular syntax. Cf. Eun. 181-2, where sc. hanc rem or the like with concedas.

315. adeon ad eum, "am I to go to him?" The indic. in deliberative questions is common in early Latin comedy; see G. 254, note 2; A. & G. 444. a, note. quid ni, "why not?" "most assuredly"; sc. adeas. ni had originally the sense of non or ne. Cf. Lindsay, Lat. Lang. p. 611, jin. nil, "nothing else."

316. Understand hoc impetrabis before ut. si illam duxerit, "in case he should marry her"; pf. subj. The verb ducere is frequent in comedy, in the sense of "to marry" (of the man), albeit without either uxorem, or in matrimonium, or donum. For the full expression see Phorm. 693, Ad. 473.

317. abin in malam rem, "will you go and be hanged!" This imprecation occurs often in comedy—in Plaut. especially—and with a variety of modifications. Cf. n. on 299; Phorm. 368 and 930. abin = abisne. scelus, "scoundrel"; stronger and more contemptuous than seclustus or secleratus; so also in 607 and often in Plautus.

318. o is emotional and shows that Charinus is excited; cf. 267 and 282.

320. ad auxilium: cf. n. on 138 (ad obiurgandum).

321. istuc, "that which you desire." quid namst, "what is it, pray?" Cf. n. on 234. ducis: on 322. aiunt: similar to ita aiunt (192), ita praedicant (875).

322. facis: the pres. is more vivid than the fut. Cf. 321; Plaut. Asin. 480 non eo, "I won't go." postremum, "for the last time."

324. ne = val, νή: an asseverative particle = "really," "verily." Generally it precedes the word or words it qualifies, and in the best writers is joined always with pronouns or their adverbs. Cf. 772, 939; Ad. 441, 540, 565. eho dum: on 184.

325. quid: indef., as in 235. nam emphasizes the interrogation, as in 234 and 321. For the thought cf. Eun. 143.

327. principio, "chiefly," "in particular," μάλιστα μὲν; cf. 570. The second point (sed si id non = εἰ δὲ τοῦτο μή) is emphasized by saltem in 328. Cf. 571, where, however, there is asyndeton. ut ne: on 259. ducas: on 316.

328. haec (= haece); alternative form in Ter. for the nom. pl. fem., and perhaps the regular one before vowels or h. Donatus on 656 says, legitur et 'haec nuptiae,' sic enim ueteres dixerunt. Cf. 438, 656, etc. cordi, "dear", "desired"; see G. 356; A. & G. 382; B. 191. 2. a. Cf. Phorm. 800. aliquot dies: on 313.

329. dum, "until"; see on Phorm. 982. Cf. G. 571 and 228 (last example).

330. ne utiquam ("in no wise"); always two words in Ennius, Plaut. and Ter. The e does not form a diphthong with the u, but is elided, and the u remains short; cf. Heaut. 357, Hec. 125. liberi hominis, "true man," or perhaps "gentleman"; the opposite of seruos homo (Phorm. 292), but the contrast holds true for the spirit of the man, as well as for the letter of the law. Cf. 38; Phorm. 168.

331. id: i. e. his act, whatever that may be. gratiae adponi, "be counted as a favour." sibi, "on his part."

332. malo = magis uolo. quam tu: sc. uis. Cf. Hec. 110. apiscier: on 203 (deludier). See App.

334. qui, "(that) whereby," "how" (with final force).

335. qui: with final force, as in 334; hence ne follows rather than non.
sat habeo, "I am content"; cf. n. on 705. optume: i. e. opportune or opportunissime.

336. at tu: addressed to Byrria; sc. dicis.

337. sciri: complementary infin. fugin = fugisne, "will you be off?" Cf. n. on abin (317), and 299. Such interrogations have the force of imperatives. Charinus is tired of Byrria, whose inferiority to Dauos is very evident. ego uero: sc. fugio. ac, "and indeed." Cf. Heaut. 763; Eun. 591; Ad. 403 atque.

ACT III. SCENE 2. [II. 2.]

Byrria has disappeared, and Dauos returns from the forum after an unsuccessful effort to find Pamphilus. Dauos, however, brings news which will please his young master, and his consequent cheerfulness and haste are depicted in his gait. He informs Charinus and Pamphilus of the observations he has made in regard to the proposed marriage, and emphasizes his conviction that Simo's announcement of the wedding is not to be taken seriously. Dauos does not notice the presence of Charinus and Pamphilus until 344.

338. boni, boni: cf. 947 credo credere.

340. laetus: i. e. on account of his recent discovery that the proposed marriage is a mere pretense—the falsae nuptiae of 157. nescio quid, "over something or other"; a species of cognate acc. with laetus est = laetatur (or gaudet). That this is the construction is made clear by nil: "his joy is nothing at all." nescio quis is, to all intents and purposes, an indef. pron. and a single word, even to the extent of being constructed with the indic. rather than the subj. of indirect question. In this combination nescio always becomes a dissyllable. haec mala: the proposed marriage; see 254.

342. audin tu illum: Pamphilus is mistaken in what he says in 340, for in 341 Dauos shows that he has heard of the marriage. Here Charinus calls upon Pamphilus to listen to what Dauos is saying. exanimatum: on 131.

343. intendam: sc. gradus or iter. The cl. depends on habeo (344).
cessas adloqui, "why don't you speak to him?" Cf. 845.

344. ades: on 29. resiste, "stop." qui me: sc. reuocat or commoratur. Cf. Plaut. Epid. 201, Merc. 874. o: cf. n. on 318.

345. euge: interjection expressive of joyful surprise. See App. ambo opportune: sc. adestis. Cf. n. on 361; Ad. 81, 266. *The verb is added in Heaut. 179.

346. quin audi: on 45.

347. certo: see App.

348. hodie: Pamphilus would have added sunt paratae, had Dauos not interrupted him. obtundis: sc. auris meas (cf. Plaut. Cist. 116 auris grauius optundo tuas), or me (cf. Ad. 113; Eun. 554; Hecaut. 879 deos obtundere). It is used absol. in Phorm. 515, as here. The metaphor is from the forge. Cf. Hec. 123.

349. rem tenes: cf. n. on 86.

350. istuc ipsum: nom. absol. (Spengel); it is better to supply est; cf. magnum signum (est), 366. atque: advers., "and yet." me uide, "look to me"; that is, trust me for that. Cf. Phorm. 711.

352. non dat iam, "is now withholding." iam suggests a new deal — a new stage in the history of the marriage.

353. modo: i. e. shortly before Dauos met Byrria in the forum and imparted the news to him (302). meprehendit, "stopped me," "button-holed me." dare: sc. se; cf. n. on Pröl. 14. The tense is a true present.

354. alia multa: threats of punishment to which Dauos was quite accustomed.

356. ibi: temporal; cf. n. on 106. In 357 it is local.

357. huius: gen. of possession; "this man's (slave) Byrria." Cf. Flaccus Claudi in the didascaliae.

358. mihi molestum: cf. Hamlet, Act I, scene 2, "indeed, indeed, sirs, but this troubles me."

359. redeunti: i. e. to Simo's house. ex ipsa re, "from the very state of the case," indicates the source of the suspicio.

360. paululum obsoni, "a slim bit of marketing"; this was carried into the house at the beginning of Act I. Had a wedding been in contemplation, something more would surely have been purchased in the market place. For obsonium cf. n. on Ad. 286; for paul., on Phorm. 702. ipsus: sometimes used by Ter. in place of ipse to avoid hiatus, as in Phorm. 178, Eun. 974, or for euphony. The reference is to Simo, "the master." Cf. the use of αὐτός, and the force of the pron. in ipse dixit. tristis, "in bad humour." This would have been otherwise had Pamphilus really been about to marry Philumena. Cf. Ad. 79.

361. quorsum nam istuc, "to what, pray, does all this have reference?" With ellipsis of pertinet or dicit, says Don. on Ad. 100. But the choice of a verb may be made as well by refer. to 127 (euadit) or 264 (accidit). The omission of the verb is natural to the sermo cottidianus; cf. Cic. ad Q. Fr. 2, 32 Pompeius domum. Neque ego tamen in senatum. When the ellipsis is indef., it is as well not to attempt to supply it; cf. G. 688. R. nam: on 234. ego me: sc. confero; cf. n. on 226. ad Chremem: Dauos goes next "to the house of Chremes," to see whether he can detect there any indications of a wedding being near at hand. For the constr. cf. n. on 226 (ab ea).

362. illo: adv., "to that place." id gaudeo: on 157.

364. matronam: a married woman in attendance on the bride; a pronuba.

365. ornati . . . tumulti: some nouns of the fourth declension make their gen. in -i and -uis, in Plaut. and Ter. Thus Phorm. 154 aduenti; Hec. 836 quaesti; Ad. 870 fructi; Eun. 815 domi; Heaut. 287 annuis; Phorm. 482 metuis. The later form in -ūs is a contraction of that in -uis. The form in -i is a contraction from -ui(s), the s being slightly pronounced or dropped, and is common in nouns ending in -tus. The bustle and preparation suggested by tumultus would include the wedding procession, which accompanied the bride from the house of her father to that of the bridegroom. Some of the elements of this procession are given in Ad. 907. ornatus suggests the decorations with which the house of the bride was usually made beautiful on such occasions.

367. non opinor, "perhaps not." non recte accipis, "you don't understand."

368. etiam: purely additory, "also." See A. J. P. vol. XVIII, p. 30. V. 1). Cf. Heaut. 999, Ad. 209. Chremi: genitive. Gk. proper names often follow more than one form of inflection; hence 247 Chremetis; Phorm. 1026 Chremeti (dat.), etc.

369. ferre: hist. infin.; see on 62. See App. obolo: the abl. of price with ferre is elliptical (sc. emptos), and colloquial. The meal cost the least sum possible. Cf. the slang phrase "for a cent." The Attic obol was worth about three cents.

370. ac nullus quidem (sc. es); lit., "and yet you are just nobody at all" = a very strong negation, "nay, not at all." Cf. 599; Hec. 79; Shakespeare's 'you are naught.' For atque (ac) = "and yet" cf. 225, 350.

371. caput, "fellow"; by synecdoche for the whole person, esp. in familiar address. Cf. Ad. 261, 966; Eun. 531.

372. necessus: that the Bembinæ Codex favours necessus before a consonant is shown by Eun. 998, Heaut. 360. This Ms. is mutilated as far as 786 of And. Cf. Lachmann on Lucr. p. 397.

373. uides, "look alive." ambis, "solicit."

ACT III. SCENE 3. [II. 3.]

Pamphilus wonders why his father has resorted to deception in reference to the marriage. Daus explains that Simo's object is to find cause for accusing his son of open disobedience, and advises Pamphilus to fall in with his father's plans and consent to marry Philumena. This, Daus tells him, he can do with perfect safety, since it is certain that Chremes will not give his consent to the marriage. Pamphilus yields to this advice with considerable reluctance. See App.

375. quid sibi uolt pater, "what does father mean?"

376. id: on 157 and 180.

377. tuom animum ut sese habet = ut tuos animus sese habet. Grammatical prolepsis is frequent in the sermo cottidianus. For the indic. in indirect questions, in early Latin, cf. A. & G. 575. c.; H. 649. II. 6.

378. "In his own eyes he would seem to be unfair, and quite rightly so." The adj. iniurius is rare, except in early Latin. ipsus: on 360.

379. negaris ducere = negaris te ducturum esse. Cf. 411, 613, for similar violations of the rule which requires the fut. after verbs of promising and the like. Cf. n. on Phorm. 532. ibi: temporal; cf. n. on 106.

381: sola: i. e. without a defender recognized by the law, such as Pamphilus would have been, had he married her. Cf. 290 and 295. dictum [ac] factum, "no sooner said than done," i. e. "straightway"; the same as the Gk. ἄμ' ἔπος ἄμ' ἔργον. The words are used adv. here and in Heaut. 904, or else est (coördinate with inuenerit) is understood. ac, if written here, signifies "and instantly," as in Verg. Aen. 1. 82, 227; iv. 663. See Knapp's Vergil, Introd. § 200. inuenerit, "he will quickly find"; for the fut. pf. cf. n. on 456.

382. causam quam ob rem = causam propter quam; cf. 837; Eun. 145; Hec. 452; Ad. 435.

383. cedo: on 150.

384. ne nega: this form of prohibition belongs almost exclusively to early (colloquial) Latin and to poetry. See G. 270; A. & G. 450. a.

386. ab illa: i. e. a Glycerio. hoc = huc, "hither," "here" (i. e. within the house of Chremes, i. e. with Philumena). So Eun. 394, 501; Phorm. 152; Hec. 348; Ad. 878 ("thereto"), etc. See App. concludar: cf. Phorm. 744, where also the word suggests a resemblance between the actual circumstances and the barring in or caging of a wild beast. If Pamphilus marries Philumena he will be so fast in prison that he cannot get out.

389. hic: pron. = pater; possibly adv. = "in this case." See App.

391. sine omni: an illogical phrase = sine ullo, and evidently a colloquialism. Cf. Plaut. Aul. 215, 606; Trin. 338, 621. hoc: on 180.

392-3. nec . . . minueris, etc., "but you ought not for that reason to let up on your present doings, lest he should (i. e. for there is just a chance that he may) change his mind"; subjunctive of obligation or propriety; cf. my article in P. A. P. A., vol. xxxii (1901), p. lxxxv, and see Elmer, in A. J. P., vol. xv. 3, p. 319. According to another and more widely prevailing view nec . . . minueris is a prohibition (nec = neue); see A. & G. 450, notes 4 and 5.

394. uelle: sc. te; see on Prol. 14.

395. "For, as to your entertaining hopes, (such as) 'I shall easily keep off a wife by practices like mine; nobody will offer me one' — (I tell you) he will find a beggar for you rather than suffer you to be ruined (by your association with this stranger-woman)." For the mood of the quod-cl., which has the constr. of an acc. of specification, see G. 525. 2, note 3; Roby 1748; cf. A. & G. 572. a. Cf. Ad. 162; Eun. 785, 1064. So, often in Plautus.

396. inopem: i. e. without the dos or dowry, which was regarded as essential to a marriage with equality of position on both sides; cf. Plant. Trin. 690, where Lesbonicus, to whom it has been proposed that he give his sister in marriage to Lysiteles sine dote, says that to do so would be to give her in concubinatum (a kind of morganatic marriage) . . . magis quam in matrimonium.

397. feceris: on 381, 456.

398. acciderit: on 456; cf. 381.

399. quin taces, "be silent, can't you?" See on 45.

400. dicam: sc. me ducturum esse. See 383, 394. puerum. "child"; without reference to sex. cautio est (= cauendum est), "we must be on our guard." The use of the verbal substantive in -io, instead of the gerundive, belongs esp. to the sermo plebeius (Intro. § 120). The form in Plant. retains the government of the original verb, as e. g. in Truc. 622 quid tibi huc uentios? quid tibi hanc adios? quid tibi hanc notios, inquam, amicum meum? In Ter. it is usually followed by a gen., as in Phorm. 293, Eun. 671, or by a separate cl., as here and in Ad. 421. See on 44. Cf. Cooper, Word Formation in the Roman "Sermo Plebeius," pp. 3-17.

401. suscepturum: sc. me; see on 394. suscipere = tollere; see on 219. fidem, "promise"; object of darem (402).

402. qui = quā. Cf. n. on Prol. 6.

403. curabitur: the subject is understood from 400. caue: scanned cāuē; cf. 760; Heaut. 302, 737 iubē, etc. See Intro. § 91.

ACT III. SCENE 4. [II. 4.]

Simo left the stage at 205, and went to seek his son. As he was passing through the forum he met Pamphilus, and ordered him to go home and prepare at once for his marriage with Philumena (253-255). As Pamphilus made no reply (256, 257), Simo now returns in order to ascertain what the young man intends to do. Meantime Pamphilus has prepared his answer, and is now urged by Daos to meet his father with becoming self-possession.

404. reuiso, "I am returning to see"; so promiso (957; Ad. 889), "I am going forth (or "out") to see." Cf. 535 uiso. Simo undertakes to do that which he had enjoined upon Sosin (169, 170).

405. hic: contemptuous, as "he" in English often is.

406. meditatus, "having studied his part"; cf. n. on Ad. 195. Cf. also And. 909 paratus; Phorm. 427.

408. qui, "whereby." differat, "confound"; lit. "tear apart," "rend asunder." apud te ut sies, "that you keep your presence of mind," "keep your wits about you"; cf. 937 and n. on Phorm. 204. For sies see on 234 (siet).

409. modo ut introduces a wish. So also modo and ut modo. Cf. Phorm. 59, 711, 773; (negative) Ad. 835. The wish is not far from a proviso. Trans. "I only hope I can." Strictly, modo modifies, not ut, but the wish, which is expressed by ut and the subj. Cf. both modo and dum with the imperative or inv. subj. hoc anticipates 410-411.

410. commutaturum: on Phorm. 638.

411. unum uerbum, "a word of any sort." ducere: on 379.

ACT III. SCENE 5. [II. 5.]

Byrria has been directed by his master, Charinus, to watch Pamphilus, and to see if he is true to his assertion that he does not care for Philumena (332). So the slave follows Simo and overhears the conversation between the latter and Pamphilus, in which the young man promises to do his father's bidding. As Byrria is ignorant of what has passed between Pamphilus and Dauos he naturally believes the former to be sincere, and gives expression to his disgust in vs. 427.

412. relictis rebus: on Heaut. 840; cf. Eun. 166.

414. id denotes the purpose = ut scirem; propterea refers to the reason. viz., that Charinus has so ordered (iussit). Transl. "for this purpose, accordingly." Cf. Eun. 1005 id prodeco. hunc uenientem: i. e. Simo.

415. ipsum adeo, "the very man himself," i. e. Pamphilus. With ipsum understand eum or illum. adeo is intensive as in 162 and 440. Cf. Heaut. 804. hoc agam, "I'll attend to business," i. e. to their conversation; cf. 186.

416. utrumque: i. e. Dauos and Pamphilus. em, serua, "there, be on your guard"; said in an undertone, as Simo is seen to be making ready to speak. em is a common interjection in Plaut. and Ter., and quite different from hem, though the two are often confused in the MSS. See Sonnenschein's Rudens (larger ed.), pp. 189, 190. em, not hem, should be read with imperatives like uide, specta, tene, accipe, serua. See Tyrrell's note on Plaut. Mil. 365. hem is an emotional ejaculation, often expressive of surprise, as "What?" See Sonn. l. c. Cf. Dz.-Hawler on Phorm. 52. Cf. also n. on Ad. 260.

417. ehem, "ah!" expresses surprise.

418. ut dixi: i. e. in 254. uolo: the announcement of a Roman father's will was as good as law. Hence Byrria's alarm was natural enough (419).

420. See on 166. hem expresses Byrria's surprise at Pamphilus' immediate acquiescence. See on 416.

421. obmutuit: Simo is dumb with astonishment. He expected to meet with opposition from Pamphilus, not with compliance. Thus he fails to find the vera obiurgandi causa (158) that he is looking for and feels himself to have been outwitted; his falsae nuptiae are rendered of no account. te decet: on Ad. 491, 948.

422. quom. "in that"; quom causal followed by the indic. is common (though not invariable) in Ter., and was regular in early Latin. See A. & G. 549, note 3; II. 599. cum gratia: sc. bona; cf. Phorm. 621-622.

423. quantum: on 207. excidit. "has lost"; ἀπέτυχεν, says Donatus (Wessner). Cf. Æsch. Prom. 756 πρὶν ἂν Ζεὺς ἐκπέσῃ Τυραννίδος, and id. ib. 757.

424. nunciam: on 171. ne in mora, etc.: on 166.

425. nullane . . . esse . . . fidem: on 245.

426. uerbum: i. e. λόγος, "proverb," "saying." Cf. Eun. 732; Ad. 803.

427. Cf. Eurip. Med. 86 πᾶς τις αὐτὸν τοῦ πέλας μάλλον φιλεῖ, and Menander (Meineke, iv. p. 355) φιλεῖ δ' ἑαυτοῦ πλεῖον οὐδὲς οὐδένα. Cf. also 635 and Ad. 38-39. malle melius, etc., "prefers (things) to be (go) better for himself than, etc."

429. quo, "wherefore." aequior, "of like opinion with," "inclined to be sympathetic with." Cf. aequus = "friendly," in Verg. Aen. vi. 129.

431. renuntiabo: sc. Charino. ut, etc., "that for my ill news he may do me some ill turn," i. e. punish me. Notice the play on malum; cf. ii. on 143 (damnum).

ACT III. SCENE 6. [II. 6.]

Simo questions Dauos about the feelings of Pamphilus in regard to the marriage. Dauos assures him of his son's sincerity, and quiets Simo's suspicions by means of a very plausible explanation touching the young man's somewhat downcast demeanour.

432. hic: on 405. This and the next vs. are said aside.

433. ea gratia = eius rei gratia.

434. quid Dauos narrat? i. e. to the fact that Pamphilus consents to marry the daughter of Chremes. The words do not refer to Dauos' previous remark. aeque quicquam nunc quidem? = aeque atque antea (nolgo) quicquam nunc quidem narrat? Simo, in ironical tones, asks Dauos if he has anything to say now, as commonly he has had on former occasions, — presumably in the way of lying and trickery (see 432-433). Cf. Dziatzko's Adnotatio Critica. Simo, though he is looking for some explanation from Dauos, yet expects the answer, No (435), to his question; thus quicquam becomes possible. Those editors who give these words to Dauos remove the interrogation point. Fleckeisen does so, and writes nequeo for aeque, after von Winterfeld (Hermes, vol. xxxiii, p. 168).

436. Said aside. praeter spem, "contrary to his expectation." male habet, "troubles," "worries." Cf. 940; Hec. 606. uirum: ironical, "the gentleman," "the good man."

437. potin es = potisne es = potesne; frequently es (or est) is omitted. Cf. Ad. 539 n. potis in early Latin may refer to a subject of any gender, or may be used impersonally. Cf. Heaut. 659; Eun. 263, 101; Ad. 344, 521, 626. It may stand for either number. Commonly pote (weakened from potis) is employed before consonants, while potis is usual before vowels; cf. Phorm. 535 pote fuisset = potuisset. The form potis (pote) is archaic and frequent in Plaut. and Ter. dicerē: the quantity of the final ē is due to the ictus and to the change of speakers.

438. quidpiam, "in any respect," "at all." haec: on 328.

439. eius: i. e. Pamphilus. See App. hospitae: fem. of hospes = a peregrinus visiting somewhere away from his native country.

440. si adeo: sc. hae nuptiae ei molestae sunt. For adeo see on 415.

441. nosti: interjected parenthetically, "you know, don't you?"

442. ipsus: on 360.

443. laudo, "good!" "bravo!" without an object, as in 455; Eun. 154; Ad. 564. aetas: on 188.

445. fortem, "honourable," "excellent." Cf. the occasional use of 'brave' in English, and fortius in Eun. 50.

446. adpulit ad: on Prol. 1.

447. aliquantillum reinforces sub- in subtristis.

448. quod, "on account of which"; see on 157 and 376. Cf. G. 333, note 1. suscenset: for the indic. cf. Hec. 273, 732; Heaut. Prol. 3, etc. The subj. might have been used with but slight variation in the meaning.

449. quin dic: on 45.

451. drachumis: drachuma = δραχμή, as Alcumena = Ἀλκμήνη. Cf. mīna = μνᾶ, and techna = τέχνη. The Romans could not pronounce certain consonantal combinations; thus we too sometimes carelessly insert a vowel to ease a group of consonants: cf. 'athletics.' This epenthetic vowel (G. 8. 3) is not invariable in the MSS., where such forms as drachma and techna are found, and even mna. Ritschl defends the full form: Op. II. 469 ff. The value of the drachma was about eighteen cents. It was equivalent to six obols (see on 369), and like the Roman denarius was made of silver. est obsonatum: impers. See App.

454. potissimum emphasizes quem; the two words about = quem nam. quod, "so far as." hic, "here," i. e. "by one in my position," "between ourselves." siet: the subj. as in quod sciam, quod meminerim and other restrictive rel. clauses.

455. quoque: i. e. you seem to me also to be acting stingily. perparce nimium, "stingily, too much so." non laudo: with sarcastic reference to Simo's laudo in 443, where see note.

456. commoui: said aside. uidero: the fut. pf. denotes that the action will be surely and quickly carried out. Cf. n. on 381.

457. This vs. and the following are said aside. quid . . . uolt . . . sibi: on 375. ueterator: Dauos is an "old hand" at rascality of all kinds. 'ueterator' est 'uetus in astutia et qui in omni re callidus est,' says Donatus. em: on 416. illic = ille, i.e. Dauos.

458. caput, "author," "origin." Cf. Ad. 568.

ACT III. SCENE 7. [III. 1.]

Mysis, who had gone (299) to fetch the midwife, Lesbia, now returns with her. The conversation of the two women is overheard by Simo, who is astounded to learn that Pamphilus has determined to acknowledge the child. Simo, however, is unwilling to believe what he hears, and overreaches himself in his conviction that the whole performance is merely a trick devised by Dauos to mislead him and frighten Chremes.

459. See App. pol: on 229. rest = res est.

461. ab Andria: on 226.

462. firmauit fidem, "has made good his word." hem: on 416 fin.

464. On the difference between the simple rel. quod here and the more inclusive quidquid in 219, see Greene on the Emphatic Neuter, Class. Rev. for Dec. 1904, vol. xviii, p. 449. See 219 and n.

465. actum est, "all is over," "the thing is at an end"; an expression originally belonging to the language of the courts, and used of a case upon which judgment has been fully rendered. Cf. Phorm. 419.

466. bonum: predicative.

467. illi: i. e. Glycerium. ne in mora sis: on 166. Cf. 424.

470. uix tandem sensi, "not till now did I see through it (perceive the trick)."

471. hoc: i. e. Dauos.

472. Chremetem: so again in 533; but Chremem (361, 527; Phorm. 63, 865). Cf. n. on 368.

473. The cries of Glycerium from behind the scenes would dispel all doubt from Simo's mind, were he not blinded to the truth by his determination to see in all this nothing but a clever trick. Iuno Lucina is the goddess who brings the child to light. She is invoked under similar circumstances by Pamphila in Ad. 487. The Greeks called on Artemis. The situation was common in the later Gk. comedy.

474. hui expresses ironical assent, as in Eun. 223; Ad. 216, 411.

475. audiuit: i. e. from Mysis and Lesbia.

475-6. non sat . . . haec, "not with enough skill in respect to time have you distributed these incidents, Dauos."

477. inmemores, "forgetful of their parts." discipuli, "pupils," refers to Mysis, Lesbia, Glycerium. Pamphilus may be included, but the use of the masculine is due to the general nature of the remark. For Simo's irony cf. the application of the term magister to Dauos, in 192.

478. in ueris nuptiis, "in the case of a real marriage." As the nuptiae are not uerae, Simo is paratus (as he imagines), and the tricks of Dauos fail. hicine: the particle -ne is strengthening or intensive here, not interrogative. See Minton Warren in A. J. P. II. p. 51. Cf. Plaut. Mil. 439 Egone? Tune, "Is it I? Yes, you"; ib. 309, 565, 936; Tyrrell on 439.

480. in portu nauigo: a translation of the Gk. proverb ἐν λιμένι πλέω, "I am out of the deep water." Cf. 845 in uado. Vss. 478-480 are said aside.

ACT III. SCENE 8. [III. 2.]

As Lesbia steps out of the house she calls back to Archylis, who is within, in order to give her some final directions regarding the patient, of whom she is to take charge until Lesbia's return. Simo regards all of this as part of the plot arranged for his deception, and Dauos takes care to encourage him in this view of the case. Finally, in a state of great perplexity, Simo falls back on his son's promise to marry Philumena, and decides to seek Chremes and once more to ask his consent to the marriage.

481-2. Archylis: on 228. quae . . . salutem, "the symptoms which usually and properly point in the direction of recovery." In early Latin paenitet, taedet, piget, puget, licet, oportet were used also personally; but the subject was usually a pronoun. Cf. Ad. 754 haec pudet; Plaut. Cas. 877 ita nunc pudes. For ad cf. Heaut. 207, Hec. 693 and n. on And. 138.

483. ista: i. e. Glycerium. lauet, "bathe." Cf. λούσατ' αὐτὴν αὐτίκα (frag. of Men. preserved by Don.; see Wessner). post deinde: see App.

484. bibere: complementary to dari. Cf. G. 421. note 1. b.

485. reuortor: for the tense cf. n. on 404.

486. per ecastor scitus = perscitus ecastor; tmesis. Cf. Hec. 58. For per-intensive cf. n. on 265. perscitus = "very fine." Cf. Phorm. 110. For ecastor see on 229.

487. quaeso: an old form of quaero; see Festus, s. v. p. 259 (Müll.); Lindsey, L. L., p. 487. ipse: i. e. Pamphilus.

489. uel, "or (for example)," takes up the conversation where it dropped at the end of 477, and calls attention to a new example of the slave's cunning. hoc: acc. subject of ortum esse.

490. coram: adv. = "in Glycerium's presence." quid opus facto esset: quid is adverbial (acc. of extent), or perhaps nom. subject of the verb (see on Phorm. 584). facto is abl. of the pf. pass. prtcl. used as a noun, which is common with opus est in Plaut. and Ter. See Roby 1094 and 1255. The supine in -u is also found, but more rarely, with opus est; cf. Ad. 740, and Roby 1255. Transl. "she did not give orders as to what was necessary to be done." puerperae: dat., "for the woman in labour."

491. de uia, "from the street."

492-3. idoneus . . . quem . . . incipias: rel. cl. of purpose; cf. 757. See B. App. 368. 5.

493. incipias, "attempt," "endeavour."

494. accurate, "with some degree of skill," "artfully"; sc. me fallere debebas. Note the contrast with aperte = "bluntly."

496. interminatus sum: strengthened form of minatus sum; mostly poetic. Cf. Eun. 830. rē tulit: pf. of rēfert (rē fert). Cf. Plaut. Epid. 133 quid rētulit te . . . mittere ad me epistulas? Transl. "what did it avail?"

497. credon tibi hoc, "am I to believe you in this?" hoc is explained by peperisse hanc; cf. n. on 180. For the indic. cf. 921; in later Latin the verb would be in the delib. subj.

498. teneo: on 86. Daos is talking to himself.

499. quid credas: with allusion to credon (497). For the mood cf. n. on 191. haec: i. e. the supposed trick.

500. mihi quisquam: sc. renuntiavit. eho, an tute, etc., "oh! now, did you then of your own accord perceive that this thing was a mere pretence?" Daos ironically compliments Simo on his sagacity; much as in 589. Cf. 766; Phorm. 259. intellexti = intellexisti; see on 151.

501. qui, "how?"

503. enim is corroborative and strengthens certe. See on 91. etiam: on 116.

504. egon te: sc. pernoui; "don't I know you?"

504-5. dari uerba: on 211. falso: ironical, "wrongly I suppose"; i. e. dari mihi uerba falso censeo. muttire: lit. "to say 'mu.'"

506. intellexti: ironical. itast: see App.

508. ut sis sciens = ut scias, nearly. For this illustration of a tendency to analytical forms of expression in colloquial Latin, cf. 775; Plaut. Poen. 1038. Cf. also Phorm. 394-395.

509. ne . . . dicas: final cl., dependent on renuntio.

510. prorsus amotam, "utterly removed."

512. qui (= quibus), "whereby"; cf. n. on 402, and Prol. 6. coniec-turam . . . faciam: cf. Heaut. 574. prius, "formerly."

513. inuentumst falsum, "that has proved to be false." Notice that Daos is putting Simo's conclusions into words. inuentum may be a substantive, as in Heaut. 811.

514. ilico (in-loco); frequent in the comic poets, and usually, as here, in a temporal sense, "on the spot" = "immediately." So in 125, Ad. 536, etc. In Ad. 156 ilico denotes place, as in Plaut. Bacch. 1140^a ilico ambae manete.

516. hoc anticipates the ut-cl. The vs. is an expression of Glycerium's (supposed) reason for her conduct described in 515. Transl. "unless it is arranged that you see the child." mouentur = perturbantur; "there's no impediment to the marriage." See App. For moueo = 'disturb' cf. n. on 921; Cic. Phil. 1. 7. 17 ea non muto, non moueo.

517. quid ais, "what say you?" i. e. "tell me." Cf. 184, 872 and notes.

518. capere: sc. eam (i. e. Glycerium) or cas referring to all the women. dixi: on 151.

519. Observe Dauos' clever evasion of Simo's very searching question.

520. misere, "desperately."

521. id negoti: the business of withdrawing Pamphilus from the influence of Glycerium, and persuading him to comply with his father's wishes; the business also of dealing successfully with the (supposed) scheme of Glycerium and her friends, which Simo and Dauos have been discussing. idem: masc.

523. immo, "nay"; often used to correct or improve some preceding word or expression, but seldom as a wholly independent negative like minime. Cf. n. on 30, 201, 655; Ad. 604, 928. quod parato opus est, "what has to be got ready"; see on 490.

525. atqui: see App. haud scio an, "perhaps"; cf. Roby 2256.

527. quod, "the fact that." ipsus gnatus: see App.

528. id, "that point"; see App.

529. alias, "at another (later) time"; in this sense twice in Ter. (see Hec. 80).

531. cogere: sc. facere; cf. Hec. 243.

532. atque adeo, "and indeed"; for adco intensive see on 162, 415. Cf. 977; Phorm. 389. in ipso tempore, "just in time," "in the very nick of time." eccum, "there he is." ecce is combined with the acc. of is, ille, iste, making such forms as eccam, eccos, eccas, eccillum, eccistum, etc. These have usually one of three constructions: (1) with an acc. influenced by the verbal force of ecce, as here, and in Eun. 738; Ad. 890; (2) associated with a nom. and verb, as in 580; Ad. 361, 923, where the constr. is not affected by eccum, which is merely interjectional; (3) with an acc. as in (1), but followed also by a finite verb the subject of which is suggested by the acc., as in Plaut. Amph. 1005 sed eccum Amphitruonem: aduenit. In (3) the difficulty is lightened by punctuation, for the verb is merely explanatory. eccum sometimes stands alone, as in 957. Cf. Brix on Plaut. Capt. 1005; Sonnenschein's Rudens (larger ed.), p. 188. See n. on 855.

ACT III. SCENE 9. [III. 3.]

Chremes is on his way to Simo's house, to make angry protest regarding the rumour that his daughter is to be married to Pamphilus, and on this very day. Simo however succeeds in talking him over, by assuring him, on the authority of Dauos, that Pamphilus has positively severed his relations with Glycerium. Chremes' consent makes matters doubly difficult for Dauos.

533. iubeo Chremetem: sc. saluere. For the form of the acc. see on 472 and 368. For the constr. cf. Ad. 460. Chremes is too much excited to be polite. optato: adv. abl. = "in accordance with my desire"; cf. 807 auspicato, "under a good omen." Thus consulto, composito, etc. In origin these ablatives are pf. pass. participles, and their constr. the abl. absol. used without a noun (impersonally).

535-6. uiso: on 404. ausculta paucis: on 29. See App. quid . . . uelim . . . quod quaeris: the subj. and indic. are sometimes found in successive clauses in which either mood would be permissible; cf. 272-273 and n., 649-650, 967-968 (where Mss. = sim uinctus).

538 per te, etc.: cf. verse 289. Chremes: voc. The form Chreme is recognized by Donatus and is not uncommon in the Mss.

539. a paru: on 35.

541. quouis (gen. of rel. pron.) answers to old dat. quoi.

542. ita uti: on 65.

543. fuerant futurae, "had been intended"; see 99-102.

545. olim quom = olo or ollo (= illo) tempore quom. olim is dem. here; cf. 883; Phorm. 912. dabam, "I offered her."

546. in rem, "to the advantage." The opposite, ab re = "to one's disadvantage," occurs in Plaut. Trin. 238. Cf. Phorm. 449; Hec. 102, 549. Cf. also Phorm. 526 ob rem = "with advantage," "to the purpose." utrique: i. e. Pamphilus and Philumena. fiant: sc. nuptiae. accersi (sc. eam); i. e. from her father's house to that of the bridegroom, according to ancient custom. Cf. 581, 741, 848.

548. id anticipates in commune ut consulat. in commune, "for our common good," i. e. with reference to the interests of both families, as explained in the next verse.

550. immo ita uolo, "nay, such is my desire"; see on 523. itaque, "and . . . so."

552. audio, "of course"; ironical.

553. fabulae, "nonsense"; see on 224.

555. A proverb adapted from Menander's Monost. 410: ὀργή φιλοῦντος μικρὸν ἰσχύει χρόνον. Cf. Enn. 59-61.

556. em, "well then"; see on 416. id, "this (very) thing," viz., amoris integrationem, id being the object of the expression ante eam, "prevent." But id may be acc. of the thing with oro and explained by the ut-cl. (as in 548), "I pray you this, that we be beforehand," i. e. in preventing a renewal of their affection. With ante eamus in this sense cf. Plaut. Trin. 911 ante uenire.

558. harum : i. e. Glycerium, Mysis, Archylis. confictae dolis, "hypocritical."

559. aegrotum : on 193. redducunt : the d is correctly doubled in Ter. So the Bembine MS. in 948 and in Hec. 605, 615, 617.

560. consuetudine : cf. n. on 110 and 135.

561. coniugio liberali : marriage with a free-born citizen, and therefore "an honourable marriage," as opposed to a union with a peregrina, like Glycerium ; cf. 146, 439, 469.

562. sese emersurum, "will extricate himself"; the pron. is object of the verb, which more commonly is intrans., as in Eun. 555, Ad. 302.

563-4. posse : sc. eum sese emergere. hanc : contemptuous, "this woman," i. e. Glycerium, not Philumena. With habere and perpeti understand posse. The sense is : so it may seem to you, but I do not think he can cut loose from his present entanglement, and he certainly cannot continue in it (if he marries my daughter); nor could I permit him to do so.

565. istuc : on 186. periculum, "experiment." Cf. n. on Hec. 766-767.

566. in filia, "in the case of one's daughter."

567. "Why, surely, all annoyance at the worst comes to this"; explained by the following si-clause.

568. si eueniat . . . discessio, "the possibility of separation." Simo puts it as gently as he can, through the subj., and softens the suggestion further by the parenthetical "which may the gods forfend."

569. si corrigitur : sc. filius. The indic. shows that Simo is well assured of the result.

570. principio : on 327. restitueris : on 456 (uidero).

572. quid istic : sc. dicendum (agendum) est. istic is an adv. = "there," "in that case," and the formula indicates concession after an argument, as "well then," "enough." Cf. Ad. 133, 350; Eun. 171, 388; Heaut. 1053. istuc : on 186. induxti : on 151. animum (or in animum) inducere, "to resolve," "to be convinced," is practically one word, and may be followed by an object or an object cl.; cf. 834, 883; Hec. 264; n. on Phorm. Prol. 24.

573. in me claudier, "to be impeded as far as regards me." The vs. is rendered by Stock, "I would not have you debarred from any advantage through me." On the form of the infin. see on 203 (deludier).

575. quid ais : on 184 and 517.

576. consiliis : dative.

578. censes : on 313 (credo); "would he have done it, do you suppose?" Simo is insincere, for he distrusts Dauos (524). But he is cornered, and can do no better than make the most of hints received from that wily slave. Cf. 442-446, and 519.

579. tute adeo: on 415 and 162.

580. eccum: on 532. foras: adv. expressing motion, "out of doors"; foris is an adv. expressing rest. These two forms are the acc. and abl. (or locative) of a supposed forae (nom. pl.) cognate to θύραι, "doors." A nom. sing. of the third declension, foris, is found in Plaut. and Ter., as are also the plurals fores and foribus. See Ad. 264, 638; Heaut. 278.

ACT III. SCENE 10. [III. 4]

Simo unfolds his plans to Dauos. The latter discovers that his confidence in Chremes' firmness has been misplaced, and with difficulty conceals his chagrin from Simo. After the old men have departed, Dauos reproaches himself for his rashness and folly. Terence often begins a new scene within the limits of a verse; Plautus never. Cf. Ad. 81, 635, 958.

581. accersitur: on 516. aduesperascit, "the day is drawing to a close," i. e. the time is approaching for the bridal procession, which according to custom took place about sunset. The verb is derived from Vesper, the evening star, called by Cicero stella Veneris (N. D. II. 20. 53), and by Pliny sidus appellatum Veneris (N. H. II. 36). Cf. Catullus, 62. 1.

582. dudum, "some time ago," "lately"; cf. 824, 948. In 591 and 840 dudum = "a moment ago," "just now." In 850, and also in Eun. 697 quam dudum = "how long ago?"

583. uolugus seruorum, "the common run of slaves"; cf. Hec. 600 uolugus mulierum.

584. facirem repeats faceres (582); cf. n on 282.

586. fidem, "trust," "confidence." tibi, "in you." tandem, "at last"; cf. 503.

587. ea gratia: on 433. fueraut futurae: on 543.

588. quid ais: on 137. uide, "just see," "only fancy."

589. numquam: on 178. uah: a favourite interjection with Ter., often expressing surprise, as in Ad. 439; sometimes irony and contempt, as in Ad. 187. It frequently denotes anger or vexation, as in Ad. 38, 315, 532, 578; disdain, as in Heaut. 765, 901; despair (688, Ad. 614); admiration, as here and in Ad. 439. consilium: acc. of excl.; see Roby 1128. Cf. 604 astutias.

590. hic: i. e. Chremes, whose presence has not been observed by Dauos until this moment. hem: on 116. fit obuiam: on Phorm. 52 and 617.

591. num nam perimus cf. Ad. 488. Dauos suspects that Simo is telling him the truth and says aside, "are we going to ruin after all?" nam is intensive; see on 231 and 321. The tense is present. dudum: on 582.

592. id exoro, "I obtain my request." This is too much for Dauos, who finds that he has actually been playing into Simo's hands, while doing his best to defeat him. Accordingly his next 'aside,' occidi, "I am done for," is uttered in so loud a tone that his master overhears him, and asks him what he has said.

593. dixisti: see App. hunc: i. e. Chremes. mora: on 166.

594. modo: on 173. ut adparetur, "that preparations be made"; impers., as in Eun. 583. dicam=edicam. renuntio=redco ut nuntiam; cf. reuiso (404). The pres. tense indicates the rapidity with which he expects to accomplish his purpose, a meaning assisted here by atque = "and forthwith"; see Knapp's Vergil, Introd. § 200, and Aen. i. 82, 227; iv. 662. Cf. Eun. 493, Heaut. 502.

598. quiescas, "rest assured," "trust me for that"; cf. Phorm. 670, 713. mirum ni domist, "I shan't be surprised if he is (I believe that he is) at home"; a colloquial form of expression and only slightly (if at all) ironical. Cf. Eun. 230, 344; Heaut. 663; Plaut. Capt. 824.

599. nullus sum, "I am naught," "I am done for," denotes utter despair. Cf. Phorm. 179, 943 sepultus sum = "I am dead and buried."

600. pistrinum: on 199, 213-4. Cf. Simo's threat in 196-200. recta uia, "right away"; lit. "by a straight road." uia is often omitted; cf. Phorm. 859, Ad. 433, Eun. 87, Hec. 372; n. on Ad. 573, 574.

602. in nuptias conieci: suggestive of in uincula conicere, and to the mind of Pamphilus (cf. 603, 620) its practical equivalent.

603. insperante hoc: on Ad. 507. hoc=Simo. Note the asyndeton in vss. 601-603.

604. em: on 416. astutias: on 589 (consilium). quod si: quod as in 289, where see n.

605. eccum: on 532.

606. aliquid, "something," i. e. some place into which or upon which (quo = "whither") he might throw himself. Dauos is confused, and while he rushes up and down upon the stage he fails to indicate the exact means by which he would accomplish his self-destruction. praecipitem, etc.: on Ad. 318.

ACT III. SCENE 11. [III. 5.]

Pamphilus, having been informed by Simo that Chremes consents to his daughter's marriage (cf. 599), comes out of the house in a great rage. He looks about for Dauos, upon whom he would gladly inflict severe punishment. From this, however, he refrains, for prudential reasons. Dauos stands aside and remains unobserved until 616.

607. scelus: on 317. scelus qui: for the constructio ad sensum cf. scelus hic (844-845) and Ad. 261 festinum caput qui. atque: on 225, 614.

608. nulli: gen. Pronouns having their gen. and dat. in -ius and -i are occasionally declined in early Latin like adjectives in -us, -a, -um. Cf. alterae (dat.) in Heaut. 271, Phorm. 928; cf. also Eun. 1004 mihi solae, nulli consili = "of no good," "of no account."

609. See on 245. futtilli, "worthless", emphatic.

610. pretium: on 39. fero: for the meaning cf. Phorm. 272, Ad. 178, Eun. 1057, Heaut. 918. inultum id auferet, "carry it off with impunity." Cf. Heaut. 918, Ad. 454 n. numquam: on 178.

611. The sense is: I shall be safe in the future, and no mistake, if only I escape the present desperate situation. That is, everything will seem so trifling compared with this, that I can never be in real danger again.

613. dūcerē: on Prol. 23. For the tense see n. on 379; cf. 411. audacia: see App.

614. quid me faciam, "what to do with myself"; see on 143. atque = atqui = "and yet," "though." id ago, "I am considering this point."

615. productum moram, for the constr. cf. n. on 313 (prodat dies) and Ad. 591 (producam).

616. eho dum: on 184. bone: ironical; thus also 846. Cf. Ad. 556, 722.

617. inpeditum, "entangled." expediam: opposed to inpeditum. Note that both verbs are used in their literal meaning.

618. ut modo: sc. me expediti; ironical. ut credam: on 263 (ein . . . ut). furcifer, "scoundrel," lit. "fork-bearer"; in allusion to a common punishment inflicted upon slaves, whereby the culprit wore over his neck a fork-shaped, wooden yoke, whose prongs were bound to the offender's hands. Even slight offences were atoned for in this way. Cf. Donatus (Wessner's ed., vol. I. p. 192) on this vs.

619. em quo fretus sim, "behold (the man) on whom I have relied"; clause of characteristic.

620. coniecisti in nuptias: on 602. For the indie. cf. n. on 273 and 536. The change to the second person makes the charge more direct and cutting.

621. meritu's: cf. n. on 202 (locutu's). crucem: Davos admits that his offence is worthy of death, but pleads for a moment's respite that he may search for a way out of the difficulty. There is a humorous side to the situation which may be illustrated through comparison with Plaut. Mil. 372 ff.

622. sine . . . redeam: contrast ulcisci sinit in 624. ad me redeam, "return to my senses," "become myself again." Cf. n. on 408; Ad. 794, Heaut. 921, Ille. 707; Hor. Sat. 2. 3. 273 pues te es? and Shak. Tit. Andron. 1. 1. 368 'he is not with himself; let us withdraw.' Cf. also Xen. Anab. 1. 5. 17 δ Κλέαρχος ἐν αὐτῷ ἐγένετο.

622-3. ei mihi, quom non habeo, "alas, that I have not." Cf. Plaut. Men. 303 ei mihi, quom nihil est, etc. For quom = quod see on Ad. Prol. 18.

624. praecauere; sc. cogit, implied in the following sinit. Zeugma. ulcisci, "take vengeance on," "chastise." So Eun. 762, Phorm. 963, Hec. 72.

ACT IV. SCENE 1.

The various complications of the plot have now reached their highest development. The plans of Daos have been frustrated. Charinus believes himself to have been betrayed by Pamphilus, and Glycerium is suffering from the conviction that she is deserted. Even Simo is nursing the hope that Pamphilus, however unwillingly, can be induced at last to marry the daughter of Chremes, and Chremes himself has reluctantly given his consent to an arrangement from which he will be forced by circumstances to withdraw. Daos, however, is already meditating new schemes which eventually lead to a solution of all difficulties.

The scene opens with a canticum, in which Charinus expresses his indignation at the treatment he has received at the hands of Pamphilus. This occupies the first fourteen lines, in which there is a mixture of dactylic, cretic, iambic and bacchiac metres, denoting the excitement of the speaker. Nowhere else in Terence is the metrical disturbance so violent, although in Plautus such passages are common.

625. hocine: cf. n. on 186. hoc is explained by vs. 626 (consecutive cl.). est: see App. memorable, "fit to be mentioned."

626. uecordia, "heartlessness."

627. gaudeant: the pl. in this word and in comparent (629) is natural enough after the indef. quoquam; cf. our loose and colloquial they.

628. alterius: the long i is retained, to suit the requirements of the metre (cretic). In dactylic verse we find only alterius. For the form of expression cf. Heaut. 397.

629. uerum, "right," "just"; uerus in this sense is common, esp. in Livy, as e. g. 2. 48. 2; 3. 40. 11; 32. 33. 4; 39. 27. 3. Cf. Ad. 987 ex uera uita = "from a well regulated life," Heaut. 154 ibi non uere uiuitur = "there men do not live aright." immo: on 201.

630. "Who just at the time are in some slight degree ashamed to say no." denegandi: see App. quis = quibus.

632. necessario, "unavoidably," goes with aperiunt. se aperiunt, "betray their true nature." Cf. Plaut. Epid. 166-7.

633. See App.

634. quor meam tibi: elliptical; "why should I surrender my betrothed to you?" Understand tradam; see on 82.

635. Cf. n. on 427. heus, "look you!" An exclamation used for the sake of emphasis. Cf. Eun. 276. It is also an interjection, often employed in calling to people, in which case it is usually doubled, as in Heaut. 348, Eun. 337, Ad. 281.

637. pudent: on 481, Ad. 754. hic, "here." illi, "there"; locative of ille, used adverbially. In classical Latin it was in use only with the demonstrative suffix -ce, -e (in the form illice, illic). Cf. Phorm. 91; Hec. 94, 217; Ad. 116, 525, 577, etc.

638. uerentur, "they have scruple."

639. expostulem, "complain of." So Ad. 595.

640. mala, "reproaches," "taunts." dicat: jussive subj., serving as a cond. clause (protasis); see B. 305. 2. promoueris: on 711. For the fut. pf. cf. n. on 381 (inuenerit).

641. morem gessero, "I shall have pleased (gratified)." The two words are practically one, and are frequently compounded, as morigerare (or -ri); lit. "to adapt one's ways to." The expression governs usually the dat. of the pers., as in Heaut. 917, Ad. 218, Hec. 599; but also the dat. of the thing personified, as here and in Cic. Orat. 48 uoluptati aurium morigerari debet oratio. Cf. Plaut. Amph. Prol. 131 pater nunc intus suo animo morem gerit. animo = mihi, nearly. uolup. aur. in Cic. l. c. = the hearer.

642. nisi quid di respiciunt (sc. nos), "unless the gods do us some friendly turn"; cf. Phorm. 817.

643. causa: on 257. soluisti fidem, "you have broken your word." To keep one's promise = fidem seruare.

644. etiam: on 282. ducere: on 180 (duci). postulas, "do you expect?" Cf. 657 postulabat.

645. conplacitast tibi; sc. illa (i. e. Philumena); "she (suddenly) became beautiful in your eyes." Cf. Heaut. 773; Hec. Prol. 21, 241. The dep. form is more common, but the act. occurs in Plaut. Rud. 727 huc autem Veneri complacueret. Cf. the use of this verb by Lucan (1.128): Vetricis causa deis placuit, sed uicta Catoni, 'the conquering cause pleased Heaven, the conquered Cato.' See, however, Plaut. Amph. 106, 635; Rud. 186. The prefix is intensive. See on 109.

646. animum, "disposition." spectaui, "judged." Charinus regrets that he should have thought Pamphilus as honourable as himself.

647. falsus es, "you are wrong." hoc: i. e. the betrothal of Pamphilus to Philumena. solidum, "real," "substantial," "complete," "genuine." Cf. 964, Eun. 871.

648. ni: see App. lactasses: freq. of lacio, and unusual. It means "to cajole," "to delude," and is explained by falsa spe produceres. For the (virtual) indirect discourse see A. & G. 592. 2, and 589. a. 3; G. 663. 2. (b), and 656. 3. produceres: cf. ducere (644) and duci (180).

649. habeas, "keep her." Cf. 889. habeam: the command repeated. "(you bid me) keep her?" See on 282.

649-650. uorser . . . conflauit: on 536.

650. See App.

651. carnufex: on 183. exemplum: cf. Ad. 416.

653. altercasti: the active form of altercor occurs only here and in a fragment of Pneuuius (Ribbeck, 210). dudum: an ironical reference to 418 f. Cf. n. on 582.

655. We may render freely, with Kirk (A. J. P. vol. 18. p. 41): "Nay, I will tell you another thing by (ignorance of) which you fail to understand my troubles; no one was asking me to marry." The rel. pron., quo, is necessary to etiam (as may be seen by comparing Phorm. 877, Ilec. 869) which is half additory, half temporal. See App.

656. haec nuptiae: on 328.

657. postulabat: on 644.

659. non dum: cf. 340.

660. enicas: a strong colloquialism; "worry me to death."

662. suadere, orare: hist. infin.; cf. n. on 62 and 97. These infinitives might be regarded as dependent on destitit (660).

663. istuc: sc. fecit. Cf. n. on 186. interturbat, "he throws everything into confusion." See App.

664. nisi (or nisi quod), "except that," "but," "only," modifies the general assertion made in nescio; cf. Heaut. 542, 658, 959; Eun. 827; Phorm. 475, 953. The usage is common in Plautus.

666. at: frequent in curses and imprecations; cf. Eun. 431, Ilec. 134. In And. 762 it expresses indignation; in 828 indignation and remonstrance. duint: an early form of the subj. pres. (properly optative). Thus Phorm. 519, 713. Cf. Heaut. 811.

667. coniectum in nuptias: on 602; cf. 620.

670. hac: in agreement with uia. successit: impersonal.

671. id anticipates the statement in 672. Note alliteration. processit: impers. Cf. Ad. 897 procedit = "it succeeds."

673. immo etiam, "on the contrary, (I think it can) still (be cured)"; ironical. The temp. sense of etiam is given by non iam (672). See Kirk in A. J. P. vol. 18. p. 41. si aduigilaueris, "if you keep a good lookout": fut. pf. indic., the constr. being paratactic.

675. hoc: on 180. pro seruitio, "in view of my state of servitude."

676. manibus pedibus: on 161. Note the asyndeton within this phrase and the polysyndeton within the next one. The result is to render the second couplet emphatic. The combination, -que et, is not uncommon in Ter.; cf. Eun. 876, Phorm. 1051, Ad. 64 n.

677. dum, "if only."

678. tuomst: a monosyllable.

679. sedulo, "earnestly"; (with facio) "I am doing my best."

680. uel: intensive, "if you choose." Cf. Phorm. 143. me missum face, "dismiss me"; cf. 833, Eun. 90, Ad. 906; n. on And. 683. The older forms face, dice, duce (not fere) occur in Plaut. and Ter., though less frequently than the shortened fac, dic, duc.

681. locum, "situation," "condition of things," i. e. as existing before I followed your advice and consented to marry the daughter of Chremes.

682. See App. iam contrasts with the fut. in faciam and is emphatic. concrepuit, "creaked." Ancient doors were hung on wooden pivots (cardines) which made considerable noise as the door swung back and forth. See Marquardt, Privatleben der Römer, 2nd ed., 1. p. 230. To prevent this noise water was sometimes used. See Plaut. Cure. 158 ff. The door was said crepare, concrepare, ψοφεῖν, when an inmate made his exit. When a person sought admission from the street, he knocked (or kicked), the usual word for which was pultare, κόπτειν, as in Ad. 633, 637, Plaut. Most. 674 pulta dum foris. Other verbs were sometimes thus used, as pellere in Ad. 638, percutere in Plaut. Most. 516. The door to which words like crepare apply did not open directly on the street, but into a passage, at the other end of which was the street door. It was at this outer door that the knocking was done, even by day, at which time the door was usually open. hinc: (not hic) to correspond with the idiom a Glycerio.

683. nil ad te: sc. attinet. quaero: sc. consilium. Cf. 702. nuncin = nunc-ne; cf. 689 sicine and n. Transl. "well, now at last (beginning to think)?" inuentum dabo = inueniam, or nearly so. Cf. 684 inuentum curabo, "I'll have him found." This use of the pf. pass. prtepl. as a secondary predicate is found after verbs of causation and desire, and denotes impatience of anything except entire fulfilment (G. 537; 280. c.). Cf. 864, Haut. 950, Eun. 212, Phorm. 974 and 625 (where an adj. takes the place of the prtepl.), Ad. 849.

ACT IV. SCENE 2.

Mysis steps out of the house of her mistress Glycerium, and as she does so calls back to her in reassuring tones. In an interview with Pamphilus, Mysis is convinced of the young man's good intentions, and takes courage. Charinus gives expression to his despair at the situation, and Daus devises new plans for the benefit of his young master.

684. ubi ubi, "wherever." Thus also Eun. 1042. inuentum curabo: on 683.

688. uah: on 589. integrascit, "begins again." Cf. Ad. 153 de integro (amat or peccat).

689. sicine = sice-ne. See Roby 524. Cf. n. on 683. me . . . sollicitari: on 245. tua: i. e. of Daus.

691. quibus: sc. nuptiis; the abl. with the impers. potuerat quiesci — a rare constr., resting perhaps on the analogy of such verbs as uacare and the like. Transl. "how easily in fact could we have kept out of this marriage if this fellow had been still." hic: i. e. Danos.

692. hic: i. e. Pamphilus. instiga, "prick him on."

693. ea res est, "such is the fact"; with a refer. to 690. The remarks of Charinus and Danos are ignored by Mysis.

695. omnis homines: Pamphilus is thinking more particularly of his father — a fact noted by Donatus.

696. contigit (sc. haec), "fortune made her mine," refers to the death of Chrysis and the latter's formal commitment of Glycerium to his care. See 284-298. Don. seems to have understood contigit to be impers. So also Fairclough, who renders "success befell me." valeant qui, "away with all who"; cf. Ad. 622 valeas and n., and the use of χαίρειν in Gk. Pamphilus still has his father in mind, and therefore expresses himself with caution.

697. nemo: not nilil, for mors is personified; the allusion is to Simo.

698. resipisco, "I recover myself." Cf. Heaut. 844. magis uerum atque hoc, "more certain than this." atque, with the force of quam, after comparatives, is mainly poetic, and is found more often in negative than in positive constructions. The Delphic oracle served the Romans, as well as the Greeks, as a standard of certainty, and allusions to its "replies" are to be found in the literature from Plautus to Cicero.

699. ut ne: purpose, not result; thus also in Ad. 626. Transl. "if a plan be set on foot to keep my father from believing, etc." stetisse: impers.; freely, "that owing to my endeavours an obstacle has arisen in the way of the fulfilment of this marriage."

700. uolo, "very well," "well and good."

701. Pamphilus means that he is prepared to take the consequences, if circumstances render it necessary that his father attribute to him, and to him alone, the responsibility for placing an obstacle in the way of his marriage with the daughter of Chremes. in procliui, "easy," "likely to befall," lit. "on the incline"; cf. Plaut. Capt. 336 tam hoc quidem tibi in procliui quam imber est quando pluit.

702. quis uideor, "what do you think of me now?" Understand tibi fortis, "(you are) fine"; ironical. For the omission of es cf. Ad. 528 tanto nequior and Heaut. 549 tanto melior. In expressions of an exclamatory nature es, like est, is often dropped.

703. quod: see App. effectum reddam, "I will achieve;" see on 683 (inuentum dabo).

704. iam, "without delay." See on 682. huic: i. e. Pamphilus. ne erres: a final cl.; there is an ellipsis of the idea on which it immediately depends, as e. g. "(I say so) that you may make no mistake."

705. sat habeo : see on 335; cf. 710. Charinus puts up with the impertinence of Dauos, since he cannot afford to anger the slave on whose efforts his own happiness so largely depends. So in 373. cedo : on 150. ut . . . uereor : the optative origin of the ut-cl. is strikingly apparent here; see B., App. 389. Cf. n. on 277.

706. ne . . . credas : on 704 (ne erres). uociuom, "at leisure"; see App. ad narrandum, "for telling (fairy) tales (yarns)."

707. uos amolimini, "take yourselves off"; said in a tone of affected superiority. Cf. Phorm. 566.

708. uerum uis dicam, "do you wish me to tell you the truth?" immo etiam, "yes, of course"; ironical. For a different view see Kirk in A. J. P. xviii. p. 41. Dauos would be glad to get rid of Charinus. But see App.

709. narrationis, "a speech." Cf. A. J. P. xviii. p. 41. footnote. quid me fiet, "what's to become of me?" See on 143 and 614, Ad. 611.

710. eho : on 184. dieculam, "delay," "brief respite"; dim. of dies, and colloquial. Cf. 328.

711. quantum, "in so far as." promoueo : like differo, profero; "put off," elsewhere "accomplish," as in 640, Eun. 913, Ilec. 703. See 329.

712. ut ducam : sc. fac. huc : i. e. to the house of Charinus, which however is not visible to the spectators, as has been imagined. si quid poteris : sc. pro me efficere.

713. age ueniam, "very well, I'll come."

714. dum : on 329.

715. adero : Dauos goes into Glycerium's house.

ACT IV. SCENE 3.

Mysis, left alone on the stage, soliloquizes. Dauos quickly reappears bearing in his arms Glycerium's child, and bids Mysis lay the infant at Simo's door. Suddenly Chremes appears, and Dauos is compelled to make a slight change in his plans.

716. nilne esse : on 245. proprium, "constant," "certain." Cf. Menander's fragment, Monost. 655 (Mein. vol. iv. p. 359) βέβαιον οὐδὲν ἐν βίῳ δοκεῖ πέλειν. Cf. also Hor. Epist. 2. 2. 172 tamquam sit proprium quicquam. di uostram fidem : sc. inploro or obsecro; fidem = "aid," "protection." The expression, however, is always an exclamation of surprise, "great heavens!" "good God!" Accordingly fidem perhaps may better be explained as an acc. of exclamation than as object of a verb understood. So also in 237, and elsewhere.

718. uirum : on 295. loco, "vicissitude," "emergency."

719. eo : i. e. Pamphilus.

720. laborem, "trouble," "misery," "distress"; cf. 831, 870. hic . . . illic, "here . . . there." hic refers to the situation as indicated by uerum . . . laborem (719-720), illic to the circumstances suggested by amicum . . . paratum (718-719).

721. mi homo, "my good fellow," "my dear man," expresses astonishment; cf. Ad. 336.

723. malitia, "shrewdness," "cunning," as in Plaut. Epid. 546 muliebris mi adhibenda malitiast.

724. hunc: sc. puerum. ocius, "quickly," "at once"; so 731, Phorm. 562, Heaut. 832; Eun. 470, 912. The comparative thus used occurs only in commands.

725. nostram: i. e. Simo's. adpone, "put down"; cf. Heaut. 89.

726. humine: Mysis naturally hesitates to lay the infant on the hard ground. ara: the altar of Apollo, which was decked with leafy boughs (uerbenas), and stood before the house. uerbenas: the laurel, olive, myrtle; regarded as sacred, and used in sacrificial rites. Servius (on Verg. Aen. 12. 120) cites this passage, and adds that in the original of Menander, from which this line is taken, it is the myrtle that is here intended. The old English word is 'vervain.'

727. tute: cf. n. on 500.

728. ad erum, "before my master." iurato: see App.

729. adposisse (sc. me) = adposuissse from posui. This pf. of pono is found in Plaut. and in Cic. Tusc. 5. 29. 83 (where it is an intentional archaism). Ter. MSS. have adposu-. Cf. Engelbrecht, Studia Terent. p. 47. 6. See App. ut liquido possim, "that I may be able (to swear) with a clear conscience;" not Dauos' true reason, of course, but one that he considers a sufficient answer for the time being. Notice the anacoluthon in quia . . . ut. liquido is an adv. abl.; cf. n. on 533.

730. religio, "scruple," ἐνθόμιον. in te incessit, "has come to you," "has seized you." This constr. is supported by Livy, 29. 10. 3 cum tanta incesserit in ea castra uis morbi. cedo, "give him to me." Mysis does as she is bidden.

731. moue ocius te, "bestir yourself," "make haste"; cf. 724. porro: with agam.

732. pro luppiter: on 237. sponsae pater: i. e. Chremes. interuenit, "interrupts us." Chremes is returning to Simo's house, having made his preparations for the wedding. See 594.

734. As Chremes comes from the right, Dauos disappears. He returns by the street on the right, in order that he may seem to have come from the same direction as Chremes, whom he follows at a considerable distance. His original plan, interrupted by Chremes' sudden arrival, had been, probably, to inform Chremes and Simo that the boy was lying before Simo's door, and to express his surprise at the discovery.

735-6. "See that you support my story with words (of your own) whenever necessary." ut quomque = classical utcumque.

738. quod, "on account of which"; see on 448. ut tu plus uides, "as you have more discernment." plus uidere in this sense is frequent in Cic., e. g. Phil. 2. 15. 39, de Am. 99, etc. But see App.

739. quod uostrum commodum, "any advantage to you," i. e. to Damos and Pamphilus.

ACT IV. SCENE 4.

Chremes sees the child lying at Simo's door, and overhears the conversation between Damos and Mysis, which formed part of Damos' plan to put a stop to the marriage and rescue Pamphilus from his difficulties. The plan succeeds. Chremes changes his mind, and goes off thinking himself fortunate at having made the discovery in time to save his daughter from a union so undesirable.

740. reuortor: i. e. in accordance with his promise made in 594. quae opus fuere: the personal use; cf. n. on 490, Ad. 335.

741. paraui: cf. 594. accersi: on 546.

742. adposisti = adposuisti; cf. n. on 729. illic (= ille + ce); i. e. Damos. Mysis is greatly perplexed and distressed at being left alone, and in her confusion she neglects to answer the old man's question.

744. di uostram fidem: on 716. Damos enters as if from the forum, and talks to himself. He pretends not to see Chremes, but means that the latter shall hear all he says.

745. quid hominum = quot homines. On this instance of the so-called Emphatic Neuter, see Greene in Class. Rev., vol. xviii. p. 449. litigant: the subject is collective.

746. tum, "then again," "moreover"; cf. 816. annona carast, "the market is up."

747. quor . . . solam: sc. reliquisti. quae haec est fabula, "what stuff and nonsense is this (that you are talking)?" For fabula cf. n. on 224. Mysis would have given the situation away had not Damos rudely cut her short. We may, however, with Fairclough, regard fabula as explained by the next line, in which case fabula = "comedy," "farce."

749. satin sanus: cf. Heaut. 707, Ad. 329. satin = satirne with force of num, nearly.

751. au: Damos hurts Mysis as he pushes her farther away from Chremes. Cf. n. on Ad. 336.

752. non tute ipse . . .: Mysis is very dull and is about to add eum attulisti, when Damos cuts her short again; cf. 747.

753. si . . . faxis, "if you say a single word to me, except in reply to my questions." The real conclusion is suppressed, as in 860. The form farim (fac-sim) is used by the comic poets for the pf. subj. Cf. excessis (760). It is originally optative of the sigmatic aorist. Faro (fac-so) is similarly used for the fut. pf. indic. It is originally subj. of the sigmatic aorist. Cf. Victor Henry, Comp. Gram. of Gr. and Lat., p. 115 (Eng. Transl.), and B. App. 205. 3, and 219. For the thought cf. Plaut. Amph. 608 caue quicquam, nisi quod rogabo te, mihi responderis. The vs. is a stage whisper.

754. male dicis? "What, do you abuse me?" Said in reply to deliras (752). This vs. is said aloud. undest: Mysis has not yet answered the first question in 748, which was intended to bring out the fact, for Chremes' benefit, that the child belongs to Pamphilus and Glycerium. This is at last made clear to Chremes' wondering curiosity by a nobis.

755. mirum uero . . . si: ironical; "astonishing, indeed, that."

756. meretrix: the use of this word confirms what has already been suggested to Chremes in 754. The redundancy in mulier meretrix is natural to colloquial language; cf. 828, 910; Phorm. 292. ancilla: see App. quantum: on 207.

757. idonei . . . inludatis: on 492-3.

758. in quibus: the abl. is rare with includere. The acc. is regular (cf. 822, Enn. 942, Phorm. 915, Heaut. 741), with or without the preposition. Later the dat. became the rule, as in Hor. Sat. 1. 4. 139 inludo chartis, and 2. 8. 62 ut semper gaudes includere rebus humanis! So illudere pecuniae, Tac. Hist. 2. 90.

759. adeo: on 162 and 415.

760. caue: on 403. excessis = excesseris; see n. on 753. This vs. is an aside, and was so understood by Donatus.

761. eradicent, "utterly confound," lit. "tear up by the roots"; cf. Heaut. 589.

762. at: on 666. etiam: temporal; i. e. are you still asking, notwithstanding I have already given you explicit directions? See 759.

763. quoium, "whose"; from quouis, -a, -um (cuius, -a, -um), an interrog. adj., quite common in Plaut. and Ter., and appearing occasionally in later writers, and finally descending, through the sermo cottidianus, to the Romance languages; cf. the Spanish cuyo, cuya. adposisti: on 729.

765. uostri: sc. er. quouis: genitive of the pronoun.

766. eho, an: cf. n. on 500. semper: something of an exaggeration in view of the statement in 100.

767. animum aduortendum = animaduortendum; cf. n. on 156.

768. quemne: i. e. cumne (puerum) quem? "You mean the child that . . . ?" quem is rel., not interrog. Cf. quodne in Phorm. 923. Cf. also Plaut. Mil. 13 quemne ego seruavi in campis Curculionis? For a different view see Elmer in P. A. P. A. xxiii. 18 ff.

769. o hominem : hiatus is admitted in Ter. after an interjection. See Intro. § 97. See also 817, Ad. 183, etc. uerum, "it's true," i. e. that I saw, etc.; said in confirmation of 768.

770. suffarcinatam, "all puffed out," i. e. with a bundle under her dress. habeo gratiam : on Phorm. 894.

771. quom, "that"; cf. 422, 623; n. on Ad. Prol. 18. adfuerunt liberae : Mysis is a slave and is aware that her testimony would be worthless accordingly. See Phorm. 292.

772. ne : on 324. illa : i. e. Glycerium. illum : i. e. Chremes. quoia : on 763. haec, "these schemes."

773-4. Dauos quotes Glycerium's words, as it were.

775. non hercle faciet : hercle is an echo of hercle in 774; faciet represents dabit. Dauos succeeds in producing in Chremes' mind a change of purpose regarding the marriage. nunc adeo, "this very instant"; cf. n. on 162. ut sis sciens : on 508.

778. tu homo suggests contempt, while mi homo (721) implies intimacy, friendship. Cf. Haut. 1003, Ad. 111.

780. See on 221. coactus . . . ducet : i. e. so they say. Dauos is now putting the rumour in the form of direct narration. hem : Chremes is startled at this additional revelation, for he knows the law, and realizes that his daughter would have been placed in a most embarrassing situation had she been formally married to Pamphilus.

781. eho . . . an : on 766. Mysis says enough to convince Chremes that Glycerium is in reality believed to be an Attic citizen by her own people. This is what Dauos desires.

782. iocularium in malum, "into a droll scrape"; cf. Phorm. 134 iocularem audaciam, "amusing impudence." The form of this adj. in -us, -a, -um does not occur elsewhere.

783. Dauos now pretends to hear Chremes for the first time. per tempus, "just in time"; nearly the same as in tempore. Cf. Haut. 364, Hec. 622.

785-6. em scelera : cf. em astutias, 604 and n.

786. hanc : i. e. Mysis; the pron. is contemptuous.

787. hic est ille, "this is the gentleman," i. e. Chremes. hic is a pron., not an adv., and is said with a gesture. The entire vs. is addressed to Mysis. te Dauom ludere, "that you are tricking Dauos merely." You have Chremes to deal with now. credes : see App.

789. Chremes is convinced. So he goes in search of Simo. attigas : earlier form of attingas. Pacuvius (Ribbeck, Trag. Lat. Ral. 343 and 165) uses the simple tagere. Dauos detains Mysis to explain to her the true significance of his actions.

791. inepta, "you simpleton." Cf. Ad. 271.

792. socer: only by anticipation. fieri: only at the end of a vs., elsewhere fieri.

793. praediceret, "you should have told me before"; so Heaut. 202 pateretur (where see n.); Phorm. 297 dotem daretis, "you should have given her a (marriage) portion." Elmer rightly calls this the subj. of obligation or propriety; see Class. Rev. vol. XII, p. 201 ff. That the mood is purely volitive, however, is held by Bennett (App. 362; Cornell Studies in Class. Phil. No. IX, p. 27). Cf. G. 272.3 (imperative of the past); II. 559.6; A. & G. 439. b.

794-5. Dauos means that, had he informed Mysis of his intentions, she would not have answered his questions "spontaneously" and "naturally," but rather "with premeditation," in which case the effect upon Chremes would have been less certain and complete.

ACT IV. SCENE 5.

At this point there appears upon the scene a certain relative of Chrysis, whose name is Crito. He has arrived in Athens from Andros, and has come to claim the property of his cousin, whose heir-at-law he is, being her nearest of kin. He is much disturbed on hearing that Glycerium has not yet discovered her parents, more particularly since Glycerium had always passed as the sister of Chrysis and would in this capacity inherit her property, rather than himself. This would make necessary a suit at law to establish his actual title. His testimony however brings about the recognition of Glycerium as the daughter of Chremes, and is the occasion of the winding up of the plot. We must suppose that the entrance of Crito is not observed by Dauos and Mysis, who are busily engaged in conversation.

796. platēa, "street": ἡ πλατεῖα ὁδός. The penult has been shortened, as in Hor. Epist. 2. 2. 71. Thus also Eun. 344, 1064; Phorm. 215; Ad. 574, 582; Plaut. Trin. 840. Cf. balinēum (βαλανεῖον), chorēa, gynacēum, etc., wherein the shortening is due to change of accent.

797. parere ditias: see 70-71.

798. patria: i. e. Andros. uiueret: for a cl. of result following quam cf. Eun. 174, Phorm. 408; Ad. 109-110, 240, and see Roby, 1672-8.

799. lege: i. e. of Solon, providing that the property should revert to the nearest of kin. Cf. Ar. Ar. 1660 ff. redierunt: property was said lege redire, "to revert," when the owner died and left no will. Cf. Hee. 172.

800. obsecro. "gracious goodness!" "Good Heavens!" "I say!"

801. sobrinus, "cousin"; strictly an appellation for the children of sisters. For the form of sobrinus see B. App. 108. 3.

803. itan Chrysis, "and so is Chrysis, really . . .?" Crito would have added mortua est, but discreetly avoids the word of ill omen. perdidit: ἀπώλεσε; the strongest word that Mysis could have used to suggest both the grief caused by the death of Chrysis, and the disaster resulting from Glycerium's union with Pamphilus — a union that Chrysis herself had urged and sanctioned. Transl. "she has left us poor souls in the utmost distress."

804. "And you? How fare you here? Pretty well?" The three ellipses may be supplied by agitis, uiuitis and ualetis respectively. Cf. Plaut. Aul. 183 quid tu? recten atque ut uis ualet? sic, "so, so"; as in Phorm. 145, where see n.

805. A proverb, as aiunt (= "as the saying runs") shows. Cf. the fuller id quod aiunt and quod aiunt in Phorm. 506 and 768. Among the fragments of Menander (Mein. vol. iv. p. 84) the line appears with slight variation: ζῶμεν γὰρ οὐχ ὥς θέλομεν, ἀλλ' ὥς δυνάμεθα; and among those of Caecilius are the words (Ribbeck, Com. Lat. Rel. p. 56), uiuas ut possis, quando non quis ut uelis. Cf. also 305-6 and n.

807. non dum etiam: on 201. attuli: see App. auspicato: on 533 (optato).

808. tetulissem: the reduplicated pf. (plpf.) of ferre, which occurs only once again in Ter. (832), although in Plaut. it is quite frequent. The form belongs to archaic Latin, and the poets. Cf. Plaut. Men. 381 pedem . . . tetulit, 630 tetuli pedem.

809. Cf. 124. ei: i. e. Chrysis.

810. possidet: i. e. as the (supposed) sister of Chrysis. Cf. 296. The discovery of Glycerium's parents would have rectified the difficulty without reference to the courts of law. hospitem, "stranger"; on 439.

811. litis sequi: cf. Ad. 248, Phorm. 408, and the Gk. δίκην διώκειν. quam, "how little." Note the irony in facile atque utile.

813-4. fere grandicula iam, "already quite a well-grown maid." grandidiuscula of the MSS. presents here an awkward case of synizesis. Cf. Miuton Warren, 'On the Distinctio Versuum in Terence,' in A. J. A., second series, vol. iv. (1900), p. 103. See App. illinc: i. e. from Andros. clamitent, "people would cry aloud." Cf. n. on Ilec. Prol. (II) 41.

815. sycophantem, "a trickster," "impostor," "fraud." The character is common in Aristophanes, and is prominent in Plaut. Trin., Act IV. sc. 2. Cf. 919. persequi: i. e. through the law-courts: cf. Ad. 163.

816. tum: on 746. non lubet, "it is not my wish." To go to law is not in keeping with Crito's generous nature. See App.

817. o optume: on 769. antiquom obtines (sc. morem), "you hold fast your character of earlier days," i. e. "you are the same (good) Crito as of old." The fuller expression appears in Ilec. 860. antiquom is a term of praise here, as in Ad. 442, Plaut. Capt. 105 ille demum antiquis est adulescens moribus.

818. quando = quandoquidem: cf. Ad. 348. maxume, "by all means."

819. As Chremes had gone into the house of Simo (789) to inform the latter of his change of purpose regarding Philumena, Dauos prefers to avoid his master, if possible, and decides in consequence to follow Mysis and Crito into the house of Glycerium. The disappearance of Dauos marks only the second occasion in the play when the stage is left entirely empty, the other being at vs. 300—showing that the division into acts was not dependent upon the stage being void of actors. Cf. Introd. §§ 57, 60. senex : i. e. Simo.

ACT V. SCENE 1.

Chremes and Simo may be imagined as having been in conversation within the latter's house since vs. 789. They step forth while their discussion is still animated. Simo continues to urge the marriage, and endeavours to persuade Chremes that he has been deceived by Glycerium's people. Chremes persists in his determination to have nothing more to do with Pamphilus, who, he is convinced, has his affections fixed on Glycerium, an Attic citizen, and is therefore in every way unfitted to be entrusted with the safe-keeping and the happiness of Chremes' daughter.

820. spectata : on 91.

821. face : on 680.

822. inlusi uitam : on 758. For dum in this vs. cf. Ad. 899. n.

823. immo enim, "nay indeed," "on the very contrary"; said in answer to orandi iam finem face (821). See on 91 and 523. nunc quom maxume : elliptical, and in its origin equivalent to nunc postulo ita ut eo tempore quom maxume postulo. Transl. "now most particularly," "now at this very moment." Cf. Phorm. 204, Ilec. 115, Ad. 518, and Reid on Cic. Cl. M. § 38. Perhaps the original form was merely nunc est quom maxume postulo. See Knapp in Class. Rev. vol. xiv. p. 216.

824. uerbis initum : i. e. in 572-3. dudum : as in 582. re, "in actual fact"; opposed to uerbis, as in Ad. 164. Cf. Eun. 742. So ἐργῶ is often contrasted with λόγῶ.

825. prae studio, "because of your eagerness." For this causal use of prae, cf. Heaut. 123, 308, 920; Eun. 98.

826. "You take into account neither the limits of my favour nor the character of your request."

827. remittas, "you would cease." A dependent infin. with this verb is rare. Cf. 873. iniuriis, "unjust demands."

828. at : on 666. perpulisti : Chremes had given his consent in 572-3. homini adulescentulo : for the redundancy cf. n. on 756.

829. re uxoriam, "matrimony"; cf. res rustica, res diuina, etc.

830. ut : a repetition (due to excitement) of ut in 828; cf. Phorm. 154. seditionem, "domestic discord." incertus, "insecure"; because Glycerium was an Athenian citizen, and Pamphilus might be forced to marry her and divorce Philumena.

831. labore : on 720. medicarer : with a reference, perhaps, to animum aegrotum (193).

832. tetulit, "suffered it," "brookd it." Cf. 188. See on 808. feras, "bear with it," "be content"; note the play on the verb fero.

833. hinc : i. e. of Athens. missos face : on 680.

834. per ego te deos oro : for the order cf. 289 and 533. ut ne : on 259. illis : i. e. Glycerium, Mysis and the rest. animum inducas : on 572.

836. nuptiarum gratia : i. e. to prevent the marriage. facta atque incepta, "accomplished and set on foot"; hysteron proteron. fieta would mean "invented." Cf. 220, Eun. 200, Heaut. 545, and see App.

838. scio : cf. n. on 552.

840. facturas : sc. eas, i. e. Glycerium and her attendants. dudum : on 582. praedixit : i. e. in 507-9.

841. nescio qui, "some how or other."

ACT V. SCENE 2.

Daios comes out of Glycerium's house, which he had entered at 819. As he does so he calls back assuringly to Glycerium and her people. He does not see Chremes and Simo, who withdraw to one side. Chremes, however, sees him and nudges Simo, who suspects mischief at once. The behaviour of Daios tends to confirm Chremes in his opinion, and to discredit Simo's recent efforts to answer Chremes by quoting his slave (840-1). Finally, when Daios refers to Crito's assertion that Glycerium is an Athenian citizen, Simo is so enraged that he summons Dromo and commits Daios to his charge for summary punishment.

842. nunciam : on 171. esse : for the infin. with impero cf. Eun. 252. The constr. is found also in both classical and silver Latin; in the former the infin. is always pass. or dep. See G. 532, Note 1. em : on 416. Cf. Eun. 472.

843. unde egreditur : Simo is surprised to see Daios coming from the house of Glycerium. meo, etc. : a continuation of Daios' sentence in 842. hospitis : i. e. Crito. The gen. corresponds to that implied in the poss. meo.

844. scelus : on 317.

844-5. scelus . . . hic : on 607 (scelus qui).

845. in uado : on 480. cesso adloqui : on 343.

846. bone : on 616. ehem : on 417. Daios has to make a very sudden change of front, but he maintains his self-possession and assures the old men that everything has been got ready for the wedding in accordance with previous orders : see 523. noster (with a voc.) = "dear," "my dear"; cf. Ad. 831, 883, 961, etc.

847. curasti probe : very ironical.

848. accerse : cf. n. on 546. bene sane, "finely said, indeed"; cf.

Ad. 586. id: emphatic. enim uero: on 206. hinc, "from (to) the present situation." abest, "is wanting"; so Heaut. 1039.

849. etiam . . . responde, "again (I say), do you answer me as to this." etiam harks back to 843 quid illud malist. For this use of etiam see Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii. 1. p. 28, II. See App. istic: i. e. in the house of Glycerium. quid negotist: for the indic. see on 45 (quid est). ita, "yes."

850. modo, "just now." See App. quam dudum: on 582.

853. quid illum censet: sc. esse hic. quid = "why." Cf. Ad. 656. cum illa litigat: this facetious remark of Chremes increases Simo's anger and confusion, for it renders plain the fact that Chremes has little confidence in Simo's presentation of the case. See 552.

854. Daos pretends to think that Crito is an impostor, and that Pamphilus is in Glycerium's house for the purpose of having Crito furnish testimony to the effect that Glycerium is an Attic citizen. faxo: on 753. faxo . . . audies: MSS. B D P have audias. But the fut. indic. after faxo is the regular constr. in early Latin. There are more than forty-one instances in Plaut. (ed. Goetz and Schoell) against twelve cases of the pres. subj. The subj. came in by degrees, as hypotaxis became more frequent and the paratactic arrangement less so, until in the Augustan age it is the rule. Hence we find the archaic faxo itself appearing less often than we might expect in the plays of Ter. (only 7 times), and there only four times certainly (viz. Eun. 285, 663; Phorm. 308, 1055) with the fut. indic. Three of these (all but the first) are examples of pure colloquialism inherited from Plaut., while the subj. appears in Ad. 209 and 847, and in this passage if MSS. B D P are correct. But faciam (with subj.) is found in Ter. no less than twenty-seven times. See my "Note on Faxo," in the P. A. P. A., vol. 28. p. vii.

855. ellum, "there he is." Daos points towards the house of Glycerium. Cf. Ad. 260, 389. ellum (= em + illum) and ellam (= em + illum) are used to designate the place where an absentee may be found, if desired, or to point out the person in question while at a distance from, though visible to, the speaker. ecum, eccam, and em usually point to some person in the speaker's immediate vicinity; occasionally to an absent person, as in Plaut. Capt. 169. Amph. 120. See Spengel's n. here, and cf. n. on 532. confidens catus. "bold, shrewd"; not in a bad sense, but so as to suggest to Simo that Crito is a strong man and likely to prove convincing in what he says, whether he be right or wrong. confidens is used in a bad sense in Phorm. 123. Cf. n. on 876.

856. quantuius preti, "of the utmost worth."

857. tristis ueritas, "austere sincerity." See App. fides, "sober truthfulness."

860. Dromo (Δρόμων); strictly a messenger boy; here a lorarius, whose business it is to see that punishment is meted out to refractory slaves. Cf. Ad. 376. Simo is both alarmed and enraged, for Dausos has outwitted him and brought him into contempt in the eyes of Chremes, to whom he can no longer represent the rumour of Glycerium's citizenship as a mere fiction of a slave.

861. sublimen, "upwards"; probably an adverb. Transl. "up with him and carry him within doors." The adv. appears in Plaut., in six places of the Cod. Vat. (B), and elsewhere. But that sublimen appears also as an indeclinable adj. is shown by Schmitz, Rhein. Mus. (1872) p. 616. The form in -n has been generally received as the true one. But see App. quantum potest (sc. feri): impers., "as quickly as possible." The MSS. vary between potest and potes, but the third pers. is generally to be preferred. Cf. Eun. 377, 836; Phorm. 674, 896; Ad. 743, 909. See Ussing on Plaut. Amph. 964. Wagner (on Plaut. Aul. 119) argues in favour of potes.

864. te commotum reddam, "I'll give you a touching-up"; see on 703 and 683.

865. quadrupedem constringito, "bind him hands to feet." The hands and feet of Dausos are to be tied into one bundle. The explanation given in Harper's Lat. Diet., "so that he can only move on all fours," is incorrect. Cf. Hom. Od. 22. 173.

868. et illi patrem: i. e. et Pamphilo ostendam, patrem quid sit periculi fallere.

869. pietatem, "dutiful conduct," "gratitude." For the excl. acc. cf. Roby, 1128. -ne is frequently added, whether the infin. follows or not. Cf. n. on 245 and Ad. 304.

870. laborem: on 720. capere: sc. mene; cf. n. on 245. Transl. "that I should have so much trouble for such a son!" Omission of the pronominal subject is very rare in the first pers., infrequent in the second, very common in the third. See Lachmann on Lucr. II. 16. Cf. n. on Prol. 14.

ACT V. SCENE 3.

In response to his father's summons Pamphilus comes out. Simo is unable to restrain his wrath. Pamphilus is humble, but begs to be allowed to bring Crito forward, and to prove through him that the situation is not so bad as Simo appears to imagine.

872. quid ais: on 517. omnium: Simo would have added nequissime, or something similar, but the aposiopesis is more effective; cf. Eun. 797.

873. mitte male loqui, "cease your abuse"; cf. 827.

874. iam, "under such circumstances." gravius, "too harsh," "too severe." possiet: on 234 (sic).

875. ain tandem, "do you, too, say?" tandem suits Simo's persistent unwillingness to believe his son prepared to back up Dauos and the rest in their efforts to deceive him.

876. confidentiam: in a bad sense; "presumption," "impudence." See on 855, 869.

877. Simo apostrophizes Pamphilus in the third person, instead of addressing him directly in the second—a manner suggestive of passion and grief.

878–881. These lines are more in the manner of a soliloquy than of direct address; cf. 886.

878. uide num . . . indicat: on 45 (quid est). Fleckeisen punctuates at uide, so as to make the question certainly direct. color, "complexion." pudoris signum: i. e. a blush. Of course this could not be seen on the stage, whether the actor wore a mask or not. It could be indicated only by statement. Cf. Ad. 643.

879. inpotenti: i. e. wanting in self-control, and so "mad," "rash," "headstrong;" cf. Heaut. 371; Hor. Od. I. 37. 10 quidlibet inpotens sperare esse: sc. eum. See on 245 and 870. animo, "disposition."

880. uoluntatem patris marks the climax. This is emphasized in 891, and is distinctly a Roman way of looking at the matter.

881. tamen: on 94. cum summo probro, "to his deep disgrace."

882. me miserum: an expression of genuine contrition. For this tendency in the character of Pamphilus cf. 262, 889, 893, 897 ff. sensti: on 151.

883. olim, quom: on 545. ita points to (id) efficiundum (esse) in 884. induxti: on 572.

884. aliquo pacto, "somehow-or-other," "by hook or by crook." efficiundum: sc. id = antecedent to quod.

885. eodem die: i. e. at the time indicated in olim (883). istuc uerbum constitutes a second and more explicit reference to me miserum (882), istuc (883) being the first. in te accidit, "befitted you."

886. ego: sc. facio or dico, or perhaps doleo.

888. an ūt pro huius: an anapaest; through the Iambic Law (Introd. § 91) for ūt, through elision of o in pro, and through synizesis (Introd. 96) whereby huius becomes a monosyllable. The line denotes strong feeling. Hence the alliteration and assonance.

889. habeat: on 649. ualeat: on 696 (ualeant qui).

890. huius patris: i. e. mei; cf. n. on 310.

891. liberi: said without refer. to the number of children. Cf. adulescentulos (910); Hec. 212. inuito patre: cf. n. on 880.

892. adducti: sc. sunt a te. uiceris, "you (will) have won the day"; fut. pf. Cf. Roby, Pref. to vol. II. p. cvi.; Ad. 843 pugnaueris.

893. pater, etc.: Pamphilus cannot bear to be accused of suborning false witnesses to prove Glycerium's citizenship, and begs to be permitted to explain. pauca: sc. dicere.

896. hanc: this pron. is seldom used of an absent pers.; but Glycerium is ever present to the mind of her lover, and her house stands in the immediate neighbourhood. Moreover the word is said with a gesture, no doubt.

897. dedo: on 63. Pamphilus, who is affectionate, filial, and weak, is willing to place himself in his father's hands. His very weakness, however, disarms Simo's hostility and paves the way for the introduction of Crito.

899. adlegatum, "suborned"; cf. Plaut. Pers. 135.

900. adducas: for the mood see on 282.

901. da ueniam, "give consent"; cf. Ad. 937, 942. hōc: acc. sino: a sign to Pamphilus that he may bring Crito out at once. P. leaves the stage.

902. comperiar: dep. only here, in Ter.

903. paulum supplicii: in this case, Simo's displeasure, which P. evidently feels acutely. Fairclough's note is, I think, misleading. patri: emphatic.

ACT V. SCENE 4.

Pamphilus now returns in company with Crito. The latter is recognized by Chremes as an old acquaintance: but he is attacked by Simo, as a sycophant and a corrupter of youth. Pamphilus fears that Crito will not be able to endure such treatment, and that he will retire without telling his story. Crito shows much forbearance, however, and the tale he tells brings about a happy dénouement. Glycerium proves to be the daughter of Chremes, who bestows her upon Pamphilus. Simo becomes reconciled to the situation, and Dausos is released from his captivity.

904. mitte orare: on 873. harum: sc. causarum ("reasons"). It is evident that Pamphilus has entreated Crito to intercede for him, and to tell what he knows about Glycerium. monet, "prompts."

905. quod cupio, "the fact that I wish well to"; cf. Cæs. B. G. 1. 18 cupere Helvetiis.

906. ist = is est.

907. Athenas: sc. uenisti; see on 361 (quorsum, etc.). insolens, "contrary to your custom," "unexpectedly." euenit, "it has happened so." Donatus says, pudet fateri propter hereditatem uenisse; cf. 815.

908. men quaeris: Pamphilus has told Crito that Simo wished to speak with him. eho: on 184. hinc ciuem: cf. 833 and n.

909. paratus, "primed," i. e. with mind already made up, and for the purpose of advocating an unworthy cause. Cf. Phorm. 427, And. 406 meditatus.

910. adulescentulos : on 891. Note the repetition of tune — for emphasis.

911. eductos : cf. n. on 274. The asyndeton suggests mental excitement. fraudem, "harm," "mischief."

912. lactas : cf. n. on 648. Note the assonance in the first half of the line. Simo is eloquent in his abuse. Hence Crito's rejoinder, sanun (i. e. sanusne) es?

913. nuptiis, "by means of a (make-believe) marriage," i. e. by falsely proving Glycerium a civis. conglutinas, "cement."

914. substet, "stand his ground." si noris : in form contingent (ideal); in reality contrary to fact = "if you knew him" : you do not know him. See on 310.

915. bonus, "honourable." sit : on 900 (adducas).

916. itane adtemperate euenit . . . ut, "(and yet) has it happened at so convenient a moment that?" Said sarcastically in allusion to Crito's euenit above.

917. antehac : on 187. est uero, etc. : very ironical, "he must be believed of course."

918. ni metuam : on 914 and 310. habeo : Pamphilus is aching to offer certain apt and fitting advice, but refrains through fear of his father. The object of habeo is the antecedent of quod. moneam is followed by two accusatives.

919. sycophanta, "adventurer" : cf. n. on 815. sic est hic, "that's his way." sic is a colloquialism for talis here, in Phorm. 527 sic sum, and in Eun. 408 sic homost. mitte, "let him alone," "ignore him." uideat qui siet, "let him have an eye to his way (of acting)." qui is nom., and has the force of qualis.

920. Thus Alcaeus (Bergk, Anth. Lyr., ed. 2. p. 385), αἴ κε εἴπῃς τὰ θέλεις, ἢ κεν ἀκούσῃς τὰ κεν οὐ θέλεις. See Eur. Alc. 704-5.

921. Freely : "is it to my interest to stir up your affairs, or to feel concern about them?" For the indic. cf. n. on 497. For moveo see on 516. feras : potential.

922. audierim : i. e. from Phania. iam, "soon," "in a moment or two."

924. una : adv.

924-5. adplicat . . . se : i. e. he "attaches himself" to the father of Chrysis, as a client to his patron. In this way he would secure protection for Glycerium after his death, and until she could find her parents.

925. fabulam, "a yarn," which Simo is disinclined to believe. See on 224 and 747. sine : said to Simo.

926. obturbat, "interrupt." Cf. Plaut. Poen. 261 ne obturba ac tace. is and illo (927) refer to the father of Chrysis.

927. eum : i. e. the shipwrecked merchant. sese also refers to the shipwrecked merchant (923), whose story was reported to Crito by the father of Chrysis, and is used as though Crito had said, eum audiui dicentem, in place of audiui ex illo.

928-9. See App.

929. fuisse: two syllables.

930. Rhamnusium, "from Rhamnus." Ῥαμνοῦς was a deme, or district, of Attica, about five miles northeast of Marathon and near the coast. It possesses remains of an ancient theatre.

931. audire: hist. infin.

932. quid eam tum: sc. esse aiebat (Phania). eam: i. e. Glycerium. aibat: on 38 (seruibus). The subject is Phania. quoiam: on 763.

933. quid ais: on 137. tu: addressed to Chremes as opposed to Crito.

934. qui credis, "on what grounds do you suppose so?" Cf. n. on 53, and Prol. 6. noram et scio, "I knew him, and am aware of the fact (that he was your brother)."

937. illo: for this abl. see on 143; cf. n. on 709. apud me: on 408.

938. mirando, "with wondering"; abl. of attendant circumstances. hoc bono: abl. of cause.

939. ne: on 324. Crito congratulates Chremes on having found his daughter. multimodis, "in many ways," "on many accounts." Cf. Heaut. 320, Phorm. 465. Simo is thinking of himself and Pamphilus. credo, "that's my way of thinking," "those are my sentiments," often follows gaudeo or other expression of congratulation or felicitation. Cf. 947, Eun. 1051, Ad. 972.

940. scrupulus: lit., "a sharp bit of stone"; figuratively, "a slight obstacle," "difficulty," "doubt." Cf. Phorm. 954, 1019; Ad. 228. etiam unus, "still one more"; etiam is temp. and additory, the latter sense being reinforced by unus; see Kirk in A. J. P. xviii, p. 29. male habet: on 436. dignus es: sc. qui male habearis (thus Don.); "you deserve (to be worried)."

941. cum tua religione, "with your scruples"; abl. of accompaniment, with idea of cause connoted. Cf. Eun. 153, Phorm. 465, Hec. 134, Ad. 713. odium: voc.; "hateful fellow," "wretch." Cf. scelus in 317 and 607. nodum in scirpo quaeris, "you are hunting for a knot on a bulrush"; i. e. you are looking for a difficulty where none exists. The proverb occurs in Plaut. Men. 247.

944. uoluptati, "happiness," "good fortune." Pamphilus is well acquainted with the name by which Glycerium was known in her early life, and is much concerned lest Crito's imperfect memory should be the occasion of a hitch in the present very important proceedings. His impatience finally gets the better of him, and he speaks the name, which is recognized immediately by Chremes and Crito.

945. Pasibūla: see App.

946. ipsa : i. e. Glycerium. hoc : abl. of cause.

947. quod restat, pater . . . : i. e. as to what remains to be said after all this, I hope, father, you will not refuse your consent to my marriage with Glycerium. A similar instance of aposiopesis occurs in 972.

948. res . . . ipsa : i. e. the discovery that Glycerium is a daughter of Chremes. redduxit me in gratiam : Simo is now quite reconciled to the marriage of Pamphilus and Glycerium, and in these words makes the fact known. For redduxit see on 559.

949. ita ut possedi, "so far as possession makes good my case." Possession was nine-tenths of the law then as now. The case of Pamphilus was one de uxore, and needed only confirmation by the father of the young woman to make it perfect. Chremes does as he is asked, and replies, causa optumast, "your case is of the best," "all is well."

950. Chremes intimates that the question is settled so far as he is concerned, but that Simo may have something to say. nempe id, "oh! is that it?" This is said in a somewhat disconcerted tone, for Pamphilus has understood that his father agreed to the arrangement. scilicet, "of course," i. e. I agree. Chremes hereupon names the amount of the dowry.

951. decem talenta : about $12,000, in silver. accipio : as the dowry was a large one (cf. 101), this would seem rather a perfunctory way of acknowledging Chremes' generosity; but, as Donatus remarks, Pamphilus is using technical language, prescribed by law.

952. transferri, "to be carried across," i. e. from her own house to that of Simo (huc).

953. istuc negoti : on Prol. 2.

954. aliud magis, etc., "something else that suits him better and is of more importance to him"; ironical.

955. non recte, "not rightly." haud ita iussi : Simo plays upon the word, and says that he did not order Pamphilus to be bound non recte = "not well," "not thoroughly." Cf. 865.

ACT V. SCENE 5

Vs. 956 might have brought the play to a close, were it not for the evident propriety of doing justice to the characters of the under plot, Charinus and Philumena. As Donatus says, it would be unfair to leave Philumena without a husband. Accordingly Pamphilus is no sooner left alone on the stage than Charinus appears and listens to his soliloquy and to his subsequent conversation with Daos. Having learned the truth, Charinus elicits from Pamphilus a promise to plead his cause with Chremes. Hence Pamphilus leads the way into the house in search of Chremes, and Daos informs the audience that whatever else is to be done will take place within.

957. prouiso : on 404. Pamphilus : the diæresis at the end of the half-verse takes the place of the cæsura, as the point where a pause is to be made. Hence the quantity of the final syllable. eccum: on 532. fors, "perhaps"; cf. Heaut. 715, Verg. Æn. 5. 232. See App. putet, "may (would) think"; see B. App. 360. a. On the 'Potential Use of the Subj. Mood' see H. C. Elmer in Cornell Studies in Class. Phil. no. vi. See also P. A. P. A., vol. xxxii, pp. cxvii ff. Cf. W. G. Hale, T. A. P. A., vol. xxxi, p. 138.

958. at . . . lubet, "and yet that this is really true at this very moment I rejoice to believe."

959. eapropter = propterea; see Lucr. 4. 313.

960. propriae: on 716. nam, "for instance"; often in Plaut. and Ter.

961. Pamphilus reasons that he has now attained immortality like that of the gods, if only no new sorrow shall intervene to interrupt his happiness. Cf. Heaut. 693, Heu. 843. aegritudo: cf. n. on Ad. 312.

963. quid . . . gaudist: on Prol. 2.

964. solide: on 647 (solidum). mea gaudia: cognate acc. Note the double alliteration in this vs.

969. factum bene: on 105.

970. amicus summus nobis, "our most intimate friend"; thus also Phorm. 35 and 1049, and (without amicus) Eun. 271, Ad. 352, Plaut. Truc. 79 nam me fuisse huic fateor summum atque intumum.

971-2. num ille . . . uoluit, "is he dreaming that which he wanted when awake?"

973. solus es quem diligant di: i. e. because his utmost desires have been fulfilled. See 964. Cf. Phorm. 854.

974. Charinus, who is surprised and delighted at all that he has overheard, determines now to make his presence known. Consequently he says conloquar in a tone that is audible to Pamphilus. mi: dat. of advantage; "to my great delight."

975. bene factum: on 105; cf. 969. tuis secundis, "your good fortune." It is not necessary to understand rebus, since tua secunda is said in the same way as omnia mea occulta (Heaut. 575) and tua iusta (Phorm. 280).

977. memini, "I don't forget that." atque adeo: on 532. exeat: the subject would be ille which illum anticipates. Prolepsis; see G. 468. Note.

978. intus . . . est: sc. Chremes. The poet leads us to believe that the marriage of Charinus and Philumena will be arranged within to the satisfaction of all who are interested. This is all that is necessary so far as the underplot is concerned.

980-1. As Pamphilus and Charinus enter the house, Dausos lingers a moment and speaks these two lines to the audience. intus despondebitur, "the betrothal will take place within"; impers. With the final settlement of the affairs of Pamphilus and Glycerium the real interest in the plot ceases. Accordingly Terence brings the play to a close with as little attention as possible to further matters of detail. It is probable however that vs. 981 refers to the settlement of Crito's business regarding the property, which could now be transferred to him without undue litigation. Cf. Meissner's n.

Cantor: a person who sang the lyrical monologues, or cantica proper, and who is thought to have come forward at the close of the play for the purpose of saying plaudite (thus And., Hec., Ad.), or uos ualete et plaudite (as in Phorm., Eun., Haut.). He is perhaps to be distinguished not only from the actor, but from the musical accompanist or flute-player, tibicen. His employment in the theatre is said by Livy (vii. 2) to have been due to Liuius Andronicus, who, to save his voice, introduced upon the stage a young slave, and stationed him near the flute-player. The business of this slave was to sing while Liuius Andronicus gave expression to the thought by means of suitable mimicry and gesticulation.

In all of Terence's plays the best MSS. use the symbol ω to mark the cantor, — i. e. the person who speaks last, — even as other letters of the Greek alphabet occasionally denote the other actors, e. g. in the Codex Bembinus throughout. Cf. Ritschl, Præf. to Trin. of Plautus, p. lv., cited by Wilkins on Hor. A. P. 155. Cf. also Dziatzko, Introd. to Phorm. p. 31 and n. on 1055; Spengel on And. 981, and Dz. on Ad. 997. But while this is the prevailing view of the significance of the omega symbol, it is nevertheless possible that the ω referred to does not represent cantor at all, but rather the whole troupe or company of actors (or those of them who were on the stage at the time), who (and not the cantor) came forward at the finish and challenged the applause of the spectators. Such at least is the opinion of Prof. Lindsay. See Class. Rev. vol. xix. p. 111.

Alter Exitus: the "Second Ending" of the Andria begins after line 976, though, as it stands, it is without sufficient connection with the preceding vss. It occurs in several MSS. of comparatively late date, but is not found in the best codices. Ritschl (Par. 583 ff.) attributes it to a poet a little later than Terence. But Dz. (N. J. 1876, p. 235 ff.) would make it as late as the second century A. D., and K. Braun (Quæst. Ter., 1877, p. 21) as late as the fourth. That it is of ancient date is shown by the fact that both Sulpicius Apollinaris (earlier than 150 A. D.), Donatus and Eugraphius were aware of its existence. It is considered spurious by Don. and rejected by Eugr., and is very corrupt in some of its lines. Moreover the fact that its concluding verses are in iambic senarii, while the last lines of every other play of Terence are in trochaic septenarii, is against the assumption of a Terentian authorship. For the latest word on the subject see Fairclough, who cites Greifeld, De Andriae Terentianae Gemino Exitu (Diss. Halle, 1886).

APPENDIX TO NOTES ON THE ANDRIA

8. Spengel follows the MSS. See his crit. note.

51-2. Sosia . . . potestas: rejected by C. F. Hermann (Rh. Mus. vol. vi. p. 444). The facts are summed up by Fairclough, who regards the words as a gloss on the preceding line.

64-5. aduersus . . . illis: rejected by Bentley 'numerorum potissimum causa.' But if we read obsequi studiis the metre will take care of itself, thus: eorum obsequi studiis, aduersus nemini. See however Spengel's crit. note.

70. huc uiciniam: so Dz. and Speng., for MSS. huic (evidently a corruption of huc) uiciniae (part. gen.) — the latter a familiar construction adopted and supported here by some editors, but rejected by those above named on the ground that by all analogy in early Latin uiciniae must be a locative and therefore without sense in this passage. Cf. Phorm. 95 hic uiciniae, Plaut. Mil. 274 hic proxumae uiciniae, where uiciniae (loc.) is independent of hic = "here." So huc uiciniae must be altered to huc uicinium (acc., limit of motion) in order that the noun may serve as appositive to the adverb. See Dz. on Phorm. 95, Brix on Plaut. Mil. 274, and esp. Spengel on And. 70 (Anhang) where the matter is argued at length.

103. Spengel and Fairclough retain uerae (the latter on the ground that it is required by 47), and reject igitur which is not in P C B. But Fleck. keeps igitur, not uerae, and it may be that uerae was brought into the text from 47 by some copyist who had not observed that fiant is sufficient here; cf. 529, 543.

107. amarant: thus also Bentley, Meis., Fleck.; yet amabant is sufficiently exact for colloquial language, though logically inferior to the plpf.

155. If a comma (rather than colon or period) be placed at ducere, vs. 156 may be the apodosis. This view, which is that of Bentley and Klotz, followed by Fairclough, is preferable, since thus are presented two parallel conditional periods, the second being contained within lines 157 and 158, where si deneget answers to si . . . nolet, and uera obinurgandi causa sit to animum aduortenda iniuriast. Cf. Fairclough's crit. note.

156. aduortenda: on the spelling nortere (older than uertere) see Lindsay, Lat. Lang., p. 467. § 8.

171. sequor: D E P, Donatus (as quoted by Priscian) and Bentley read sequar, which is certainly as well suited to the actual situation as sequor, although the latter does not necessarily imply that Simo follows Sosia into the house at once. The fact is that nothing in the text indicates that the stage is emptied of performers at this point. Simo goes on talking after Sosia has left him, and does not leave the stage until 205. To say (with Spengel) that Simo enters the house at 171 and returns at 172 is to force the situation for the sake of making the first act end with this scene, it being assumed that the dividing line for a new act occurs only when the stage is empty. This rule however will not hold, as an examination of the text of the plays will show. Nor should we expect it to do so, since the comic writers had no thought of a regular division into five acts. See Introd. § 57. As a scene is properly a subdivision of an act, it is inconsistent with this theory to make an act consist of but a single scene. The only good reason for doing so in this instance is that the expositio ends at 171, and the plot really begins to work in the next vs. But even this reason will not stand as a hard and fast rule for other plays, in which the expositio comes to an end in the first scene, and considerably before the commencement of the second act. Accordingly Umpf., Fleck. and others, following Bentley, mark the end of the first act of the Andria at 300 — rightly.

175. semper, according to Fairclough, should go with uerebar, for the reason that there is no exact parallel in Ter. to justify its use with a noun having so slight a verbal force as lenitas. But it is construed as in the commentary, by Klotz, Wag., Meis. and other editors — rightly, for its position in the sentence is really the decisive factor; cf. οἱ νῦν (ἀνθρώποι), etc.

204-5. I prefer (omitting sed) edico tibi, ne temere facias, the reading of Fleck. and Fairclough. ne . . . facias, in that case, is dependent. edico was read by Don. The best MSS. also have dices in 205, which Fleck. keeps, and which perhaps is to be preferred, if the previous ne-cl. be dependent, on the ground that a prohibition with the pres. subj. is rarely introduced by neque (uec) (but rather by neue), unless a cl. with ne (prohibitive) certainly precedes it — which in this case is at least doubtful; cf. Elmer on The Latin Prohibitive in A. J. P. vol. xx. 3. But it is to be preferred also because (as a fut. indic. = an imperative) it suits the sense and the context, whatever may be the constr. of the ne-cl. It is less polite than the subj., and is not infrequent in Terence.

205. neque tu haud: Don. I prefer neque tu hoc of the MSS. The double neg., though easily accounted for, is not needed, and praedictum (esse) expects a subject acc.

213. It is well to reject aut, and thus avoid the awkwardness of such a disjunction as perii aut . . . dabit. Bentley's explanation that perii is interjectional is hardly satisfactory: "if he finds it out (ruin!) or even should it suit his whim, etc."

226. ut: rightly rejected also by Fleck. for the reason that monosyllabic conjunctions and prepositions are rare at the end of a vs., if in sense they belong to what follows rather than to what precedes. Cf. however Spengel's crit. note.

248. quot modis: Hauler argues for quot and aliquot in preference to quod and aliquod. See his crit. n. on Phorm. 159.

276. uerear: generally accepted on the authority of D¹ and O, but uercor is supported by P D² B and M (Schlee, Scholia Terent. p. 18), and is better suited to the strong feeling of the speaker.

289. MSS. quod ego te per hanc dextram oro et ingenium tuum, which is against the metre. Emendations are numerous — all involving transposition. Umpf., Spen., Dz., Fleck. (in both editions) unite in the substitution of genium for ingenium. The former seems to have been known as a variant to Don. and was adopted by Bentley; cf. Hor. Epist. 1. 7. 94. The arrangement involving the least departure from the MSS. reading is given by Fleck. (1st ed.): quod ego per hanc te dextram oro et genium tuum, altered to quod per ego te, etc., in 2d ed. The latter arrangement has good support: cf. 834, 538; Plaut. Rud. 627; Liv. 23. 9. 2. It is adopted by Dz., who however is obliged to borrow nunc from Eugr. for the sake of the metre — a difficulty skillfully avoided by Fleck. through transposition: quod per ego te dextram hanc oro et genium tuum.

299. accerso: the form favoured by the MSS., which vary between it and arcesso.

332. apiscier: thus also Dz. here and in Phorm. 406, where Hauler now reads adipiscier with the MSS. Spen. adipiscier, rightly. See his note.

345. euge, Charine: Spen. (after Bentley) scans eugē, notwithstanding εὔγε, and cites engue of the MSS. and Plaut. Bach. 1105, Most. 260. Thus he gets rid of o, which was introduced by Fleck. on the authority of old editions, and accepted by Dz. See Jahn's N. Jahrb. 1873, p. 503. But see note.

347. certo: MSS. certe, which is perhaps best when hercle follows, as in Aut. 495, Phorm. 523; but when hercle precedes there is good MSS. evidence in support of certo, which Dz. and Fairclough accept on the authority of A in Phorm. 164. Cf. Plaut. Men. 314, and see Schlee, Scholia Terent., p. 36.

369. ferre: Tyrrell prefers ferē (sc. tulit), for which see Dz., Adn. Crit.

375. The new scene here is recognized also by Meis., Dz., and Fleck., who follow Don. MSS. make no division.

386. hoc: that this was the only form of the adv. huc in use up to the time of the Roman emperors has been pointed out by Buecheler (Lat. Decl. p. 102). So Engelbrecht, Studia Terent., p. 70. 5.

389. hic: it is better to punctuate the question at tecum, and take hic as an adv. (= "hereupon," or "thereupon") with reddes, as Meis. does. Dz., though he follows Spen. in the matter of punctuation, yet remarks (Adn. Crit.), aduerbium, non pron. pers., esse puto.

439. eius: Dz. (Adn. Crit.) refers to Plaut. Poen. 1188, for the double gen. But, as Fairclough says, no pron. is needed here in view of the preceding illi. The common text (the conjecture of Erasmus) will answer, which is merely a rearrangement of the MSS. reading. See however Fairclough's note.

451. Klotz, Ritter, Wag., Fleck., Fairclough read obsonatus (dep.), for which see Engelbrecht, Studia Terent. p. 49. 9. Dz. and Spen. keep obsonatum, with Bentley.

459. According to the traditional division Act iii would begin here instead of at 301.

483. post deinde: Fleck. has poste, which Fairclough says is necessary, as deinde is always a dissyllable in Ter. But while this is true of deinde in iambic and trochaic metre, the rule does not apply to bacchiac verse, wherein, as Spen. points out, Plaut. makes even coëpi trisyllabic. poste is an old form of post, found in Plaut. and Ennius.

506. itast completes the octonarius.

516. Fleck. accepts this vs in full, but changes mouentur to remouentur. So also Spen., who however retains mouentur unaltered. The flatness of the line is apparent, and suggests interpolation. Dz., in rejecting the latter half and uniting the first half metrically with 517, has struck a probable mean, whose naturalness is enhanced by the aposiopesis.

525. atqui, for atque of the MSS., is unnecessary, since atque in Ter. and Plaut. is at times adversative. Cf. 225 and note.

527. ipsus gnatus: thus B D¹ G against C E P (ipse gnatus). Engelbrecht (Studia Terent. p. 35) cites nine passages from Ter., in which ipsus is read 'ad hiatus evitandum,' and two 'propter ictum (ipsus).' But these considerations do not apply here. Moreover in Heaut. 894, A, as well as other MSS., has ipse gnatus. Yet many editors, including Fleck., have failed to restore ipse here. Not so Fairclough.

528. id rests on the authority of Priscian (II. 243) alone, and is not necessary to the sense; cf. Plaut. Pers. 245 facile impetras; Cus. 214, 235 non potes impetrare.

532. obuiam: rejected by Bentley, but possessing the support of the best MSS., as well as an obvious force in the passage. Schubert, Spen., Fleck. and Fairclough rightly reject Chremem.

536. The first et is rejected by Spen. and Dz. to save paucis, which most MSS. give rather than pauca. Meis., Spen., and Fleck. have paucis, and Meis. notes that elsewhere in Ter. (and in Plaut.) paucis is usual. Yet pauca easily solves the metrical difficulty, was read by Priscian, is found in B. and is suggested by paucas of P C.

593. quid dixisti: Tyrrell reads: quid dixti? DA. dixti? The second dixti, introduced by Tyrrell metri gratia, is difficult. If Dauos is to be made to repeat Simo's question, he should rather say, 'dixerim?' (against the metre). Moreover, as Dauos has said occidi before, he needs to accent the first syllable of optume, in order that it may sound somewhat like that of occidi. This is impossible in Tyrrell's reading. On the other hand, quid dixisti, of the text and most editions, for quid dixti, is not quite satisfactory, for Ter. probably wrote the latter, which appears in all MSS. Fairclough follows the MSS. and accepts hiatus at the change of speakers, which is a fair solution of the difficulty. I prefer Engelbrecht's suggestion (Studia Terent. p. 59) by which hem (592) is brought into this vs. — for which cf. Eun. 1017. and the MSS. reading there.

613. audacia is supported by Eun. 958. Fairclough accepts as superior the conjecture of Professor Palmer (Hermuthena, vol. viii. p. 160), qua facie facere id andeam.

625. est: rejected by Bentley, that the line may be a pure dactylic tetrameter. But see Klotz, Altrömische Metrik, pp. 61, 78.

630. Fairclough and Fleck. have in negando, due to Spengel.

633. The vs. is a mere gloss. It is accepted however by Fleck., and by Fairclough who says that it naturally sums up the previous reflections.

648. ni: cf. Eun. 1014, Phorm. 544. Thus also Fleck.

650. The MSS. reading is rightly retained by Spen., who takes suis as a monosyllable. If suis be dissyllabic the metre affords ground for the rejection of mihi and the transposition, consiliis suis, of the text. conflauit is a variant preserved by Don. But confecit is supported by Heaut. 1003.

655. quo is retained by Meis., Spen., Fleck., Wag., Fairclough. But Fleck. (1st ed.) and Dz. alter to quom.

663-4. Both interturbat and satis scio impair the evenness of the metre, through the creation of two octonarian verses where iambic senarii are to be expected.

682. Emendations and corrections are numerous. To be preferred is Fleckeisen's, Fuciam. At iam hoc opus est. Hæm, mane: crepuit a Glycerio ostium.

703. scio, quod conere: MSS. quid, which Meis., Spen., Fairclough retain; but the correction is a probable one. Pa. is about to say, "whatever you may attempt, it will turn out a success" (ironical), when Daus breaks in with hoc as grammatical antecedent of the relative. scio is parenthetical.

706. uociuom: in G the letters following uac- are partly erased, so as to leave the impression that the reading is uociuom (uaciuum), the earlier form of the word. Moreover A has uociuom in Heaut. 90, and would undoubtedly be found to have the same form in the present passage but for the destruction of this portion of the codex. Plautus has only uociuos and uociuos, never uacuos. See Ritschl, Neue plant. Excursus I. p. 59. esse: Spen. transposes, uociuom nunc me esse. Fleck. has nunc me uociuom esse.

708. immo etiam: cf. n. on 673 and 655. According to Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii. p. 41, the stop placed here after etiam by Dz. and Spen. (and Tyrrell) interferes with the true force of etiam, which is temp., as "nay, he is still (etiam prius quam abit) beginning a speech to me."

728. iurato accords with comic usage, but is after all a mere evasion of the difficulty. As Don. read iurandum, Fairclough would read iurandumst, place a comma after opus sit, and suppose an ellipsis (et ita ego agam, or the like) before ut. This obviates the difficulty involved in the awkward combination quia . . . ut. See T. A. P. A. vol. xxx, pp. 12-13, and Fairclough's Andria.

729. adposisse: the MSS. here, in 742 and in 763 have adposu-. But Dz. (Adn. Crit.) compares Ritschl, Opusc. iv. 119 f.

738. Though ut is generally accepted, aut gives good meaning, as "or (if) you see any further reason (why I should remain)."

756. ancilla: retained by Fleck., Spen., and Klotz, who reject meretrix. But meretrix has more force here than ancilla; see note.

787. Fleck. seems to go too far in accepting ne here for non, even on the authority of Priscian. Fairclough follows Fleck.; see his crit. note.

807. huc me attuli: like Plaut. Amph. 989 eius iussu nunc huc me adfero. attuli is attested by Priscian (II. p. 68). appuli would mean, "I came by sea," — as in fact he did. But appellere with a reflexive pron., for appellere nauem, is rare, if not ἀπαξ εἰς.

814. grandicula: possibly in A and probably in some early MS. now lost. Hauler defends grandiuscula in Archiv, V. 294.

816. non lubet: I prefer non licet (with Fairclough), the reading of P C B O, Don., and Eugr. The text follows the testimony of DG.

836. facta: thus Bentley and Meis.; but fieta is the reading of Klotz, Wag., Spen., Fleck., Fairclough. See T. A. P. A., vol. xxx. p. 12.

849. responde: Umpl., Fleck. (1st ed.), Spen., following Don., change to respondes — rightly, since this construction is regular in impatient questions, and s may easily have fallen out in the arsis of the foot. Cf. Heaut. 235, Phorm. 542, Ad. 550. Hec. 841 is different. The construction is frequent in Plaut. The imp., however, sometimes appears as a development from the indic., as in quin die (45), where see note.

850. modo, etc.: for confirmation of Fleckeisen's reading (which is also that of the text) see Fairclough's crit. note.

857. tristis ueritas: discussed and defended by Fairclough. O has ueritas, which is accepted by Spen., Wag., Klotz. Other editors give seueritas, with most MSS.

861. sublimen: MSS. here and in Ad. 316 have sublimem = "raised aloft," "lifted from the ground"; but sublimen is better authenticated in Plaut., and is thought by Ritschl to be the only correct form. See Rhein. Mus. 1850, p. 556. See also Ritschl, Opusc. ii. 462 ff.; O. Ribbeck in N. Jahrb. 1858, p. 184 ff. Cf. Fowler on Plaut. Men. 994, Spengel's note on the present passage, and Dz. on Ad. 316. But Klotz, in his excursus on this passage, argues against the recognition of sublimen, and Fairclough holds that sublimem has been proved to be correct by W. Heraeus in Phi- lologus, vol. lv. (1896), pp. 197-212 — which would render possible a return to the traditional order. See foot-note on this verse.

928-9. hem, perii comes very well from the lips of Chremes, to whom it is assigned by Bentley, Meis., and Fleck., while Umpf., Klotz, Spen., Dz. give it to Pamphilus (omitting Phania) to whom it is less appropriate. Pamphilus jogs Crito's memory, and Chremes is quite electrified at the sound of his brother's name, for he sees instantly that Glycerium is his own daughter. Fairclough, falling back on Don., is less convincing when he assigns "hem" to Simo, and "perii" to Pamphilus.

945. Pasibūla? The repetition renders possible the preservation of the ū (cf. Πασιβούλη), without doing violence to the metre. MSS. (except A) have non patiur at the beginning of the line, which is retained by Spen., who however sacrifices the quantity of the ū in Pasibūla.

957. Spen. reads fors, and is followed by Dz.; cf. Heaut. 715 (where however it is also a concession to the metre), and Verg. Æn. 5. 232. Fleck. accepts fors, but reads me aliquis (after Podiaski), on the ground that aliquis cannot carry the ictus on its final syl. if it constitutes an independent foot. He is followed by Fairclough, who reads me aliquis fors putet. Umpf., Wag., and Meis. retain forsitan by placing it after me and transferring putet to the beginning of the next line; cf. G. Hermann (Elem. p. 176). This would make 958 an iambic octonarius, but is perhaps the best solution of the difficulty.

HEAUTON TIMORUMENOS

DIDASCALIA

See introductory and other notes on didascalia to the Andria.

Heauton timorumenos, "the 'Self-Tormentor,'" is based on Menander's ἑαυτὸν τιμωρούμενος, the fragments of which are given by Meineke (Com. Graec. Frag., vol. iv. p. 111). Some critics prefer the contracted form Hauton, on the ground that it is better suited to Terence's own prosody in Prol. 5. The Greeks too, as Bentley pointed out, wrote αὐτόν as well as ἑαυτόν. But Heauton is the reading of the MSS. and of quotations of the grammarians. Probably the play was first exhibited in 163 and revived in 146 B. C.

tibiis inparibus, "to the accompaniment of unequal pipes." Cf. Introd. §§ 85, 86. Manius Iuuentius Thalna and Tiberius Sempronius Gracchus were consuls in 163 B. C.

PERIOCHA

See introductory note on the periocha to the Andria.

2. durus pater, "a hard-hearted father," i. e. Menedemus.
 3. animi: locative. paenitens: with obj. gen.; "repentant (of)."
 4. ut reuersus est, "when (Clinia) returned." deuortitur ad, "he puts up at."
 5. ad Clitiphonem: i. e. to (at) the house of Clitipho, or, more accurately, of Chremes, the father of Clitipho. is: i. e. Clitipho.
 6. See App.
 7. ut, "in the character of." eius: i. e. Clinia.
 8. factum: sc. est. id: with reference to vs. 7. quo, "in order that."
 9. suam refers to Bacchis. hic: i. e. Clitipho.
 10. meretriculae: i. e. Bacchis. sene: i. e. Chremes.
 11. reperitus: sc. esse.
 12. hanc: i. e. Antiphila. aliam, "a different (woman);" not Bacchis.
- See 1065. uxorem: predicative, "as his wife."

PERSONAE

See n. on the personae of the Andria.

PROLOGUS

Although the recitation of the prologue was ordinarily assigned to one of the younger actors, in this case the task is given to an old actor, probably Ambuius Turpio, in order that the attacks of the poet's critics may be answered by a man of recognized importance and influence.

1. uostrum: partitive gen. partis: the pl. is preferred to the sing. when a theatrical rôle is intended.

2. poëta: on And. Prol. 1.

3. quod ueni, "what I have come for." Cf. n. on And. 448.

4. integra and integram, "untouched," "unadapted"; cf. integrum (Ad. 10). Hence "fresh," "new," "original." Cf. nouam, 7; Eun. Prol. 33-34.

5. Heauton: see n. on Didasc.

6. "Which has been wrought out double from a single plot." The line seems to imply nothing more than that Ter. elaborated a double plot from a single Greek play, adding material of his own devising by way of a side-study or underplot. He was not on that account guilty of contaminatio. See App.

10. paucis: sc. uerbis.

12. uostrum iudicium fecit, "he has made the decision yours." Cf. Ad. Prol. 4. actorem, "pleader," "advocate;" cf. oratorem, 11. agere causam or simply agere = to conduct a case in a court of law.

13. si, "if only." a facundia, "in the matter of eloquent delivery." Cf. Hor. Od. 2. 16. 27 nil est ab omni parte beatum, i. e. "in every respect"; Plant. Mil. 631 ne utiquam ab ingenioss senex, "by no means is he an old man in mind."

14. ille: i. e. Terence. cogitare commode, "happily to devise."

15. dictūru(s) sūm: see Introd. § 93.

16. quod, "as to the fact that," "whereas." maliuoll: unfriendly critics, among whom was Luscus Lanuvinus. See on And. 7. Cf. Ad. Prol. 15.

17. contaminasse: sc. Terentium. See Introd. §§ 45, 48, 49, 50, and on And. Prol. 16. This is one charge, and is made by his critics at large. The other is given in vss. 22-24, and is ascribed particularly to Lanuvinus. It is practically a charge of insincerity, and is rebutted in the prologue to the Adelphoe (15 ff.).

20. bonorum: i. e. Naevius, Plautus, Ennius. See on And. Prol. 18.

22. quod: on 16. uetus poëta: i. e. Luscus Lanuvinus. Cf. n. on 16 and 17.

23. repente: i. e. without any training or preparation. hunc: i. e. Terence. studium musicum, "the pursuit of (dramatic) poetry." Cf. Phorm. Prol. 17 artem musicam, i. e. "the dramatic art." Cf. also Hec. Prol. 23.

24. amicum = amicorum: i. e. Scipio, Laelius, Furius and other young patricians belonging to the Scipionic circle of litterati, with whom Terence was on terms of intimacy. But see on Ad. Prol. 15. Cf. Introd. § 44 ingenio, "talents." natura, "abilities."

25. arbitrūm . . . existumatio, "decision . . . judgment." Cf. 12; Ad. Prol. 4. The charge is neither admitted nor denied. Cf. Ad. Prol. 17 ff.; Introd. § 45. Note the chiasmus.

26. oratos, "entreated," i. e. by me, the orator.

27. iniquom . . . aequom: gen. pl.; cf. 24 amicum. Transl. "the prejudiced . . . the unprejudiced." oratio, "the words," "the suggestions."

29. nouarum: sc. fabularum; trans. "(to those) who give you an opportunity of seeing new plays." The usual constr. would be copiam nouarum spectandarum, or else copiam spectandi nouas. We may regard nouarum as the obj. gen. after the verbal noun spectandi (gerund). Thus Phorm. 186. Hee. 372 where eius fem. is gen. after uidendi. Cf. Plaut. Capt. 852.

30. sine uitiiis, "without faults;" with nouarum. ille: i. e. Luscius Lanuuius. dictum: i. e. that the expression sine uitiiis has been used with reference to his plays. The plays of Luscius are certainly not without faults, and the speaker proceeds (in 31 and 32) to show that they are not. Cf. Phorm. Prol. 6-8.

32. decesse (= decessisse), "make way for." For the form see on And. 151. Such a scene as this, in which the people are represented as being hustled to one side by a hasty slave, would be in poor taste, and probably a stale joke — though in fact this seems to have been no uncommon occurrence, to judge from the allusions in passages like Plaut. Mil. 116, Amph. 986-987. Luscius Lanuuius appears to have introduced scenes of this character into his dramas. quor insano seruiat: sc. populus; "why should they (the people) be at the mercy of a lunatic?"

33. eius: i. e. Luscius Lanuuius. dicet: sc. poëta, i. e. Terence. dabit, "shall exhibit." The subject is Terence again.

34. alias: sc. fabulas. facit: sc. Luscius Lanuuius. Cf. And. Prol. 22-23.

35. Cf. And. Prol. 24, Phorm. Prol. 30, Ad. Prol. 24.

36. statariam: sc. fabulam; "a quiet play," i. e. a play in which there was little action, as opposed to a fabula motoria, in which the action was "lively." Of the latter sort are the Phormio and the Eunuchus. To the former class belong the Heauton timorumenos and the Heecyra, while the Andria and Adelphoe hold a position midway between the two extremes, and may be styled mixtae, in accordance with the classification of Donatus (on Ad. 24): 'duo agendi (gen. sing.) sunt principales modi, motorius et statarius, ex quibus ille tertius nascitur qui dicitur mixtus.'

37-40. Ambuius does not wish to be obliged always to act in a fabula motoria, to which the characters enumerated would chiefly belong. Such parts required stentorian lungs and great exertion on the part of the actor, if he was to make himself heard above the din of laughter and applause and general disturbance, which the livelier dramas usually called forth. It is therefore in part to bespeak a quiet hearing that Ambivius comes forward himself as Prologue.

38. sycophanta : on And. 918.

41. causam iustam : pred. to esse ; "that this is a righteous cause." Ambivius continues to use the language of an advocate in a court of law, animum inducite, "persuade yourselves."

43. seni : i. e. the aged actor, like Ambivius himself.

44. si quae : sc. fabula.

45. lenis : the opposite of laboriosa ; i. e. if it is a stataria, or quiet play (cf. 36). gregem, "troupe," "company." Cf. Phorm. Prol. 32. Ambivius was the head or leader of a caterua or grex of actors.

46. hac : sc. fabula. pura oratio, "simplicity of diction," "purity of style." Cf. Cæsar, as quoted in the Vita Terenti.

47. in utramque partem, "in both directions," i. e. in the stataria, as well as in the motoria. ingenium, "ability," as an actor.

48. auare, "covetously." arti, "skill."

49. eum anticipates servire (50), but has been attracted from the neut. to the masc. by quaestum. in animum induxi, "have always considered."

51. exemplum, "a precedent." in me, "in my case." Cf. 108 in te. adulescentuli : young actors. The idea is: show by your conduct toward an old man that young men may reasonably hope for a quiet hearing.

ACT I. SCENE 1.

The scene opens on the farm of Menedemus, which is in the neighbourhood of Athens. Menedemus, dressed in a hide (Varro, De Re Rust. II. 11. 41), is hard at work with a hoe. Chremes, whose house adjoins that of Menedemus, comes out and remonstrates with him on the uselessness of such hard labour at his time of life, and seeks to know why he torments himself in such cruel fashion. It is this peculiar conduct that earns for Menedemus the title of The Self-Tormentor (ἑαυτὸν τιμωρούμενος). The latter then tells his story — that he had dealt so harshly with his son, Clinia, as to drive him away from home, and that it was no longer possible for him (Menedemus) to enjoy the luxuries of which his son was now deprived; that he had determined accordingly to punish himself, and had therefore sold his house in town and had purchased a farm at a little distance from Athens, in order that his self-imposed punishment might be carried out.

The house-fronts of Chremes and Menedemus face the stage.

53. nuper : practically an adj. here, "recent." This use of an adv. in the pred. with sum is common, and is a survival of the time when that verb had life (= "exist"), and needed an adv. Thus also bene, male, etc. with sum. nuper here is strengthened by admodum. Cf. n. on Phorm. 477.

54. adeo: intensive, with inde; "(dating) in fact just from the time when, etc."

55. rei: gen., modifying quicquam; "anything in the way of intercourse"; cf. Hec. 718.

57. quod, "a circumstance that."

59. quod mihi uidere, "because you seem to me."

61. See on And. 237.

63. plus eo: cf. Hec. 421 for a similar instance of this use of eo after a plural.

65. seruos: sc. habes. proinde quasi, "just as if." Scan proīndē; synizesis.

66. officia fungere: cf. n. on And. Prol. 5.

67. tam mane . . . tam uesperī, "so early in the morning . . . so late in the evening."

70. te respicis: cf. n. on Phorm. 434.

72. quantum: i. e. "how little." paenitet. cf. n. on Eun. 1013.

74. illis, "those fellows," i. e. the slaves.

76. ea quae, etc.: in apposition with aliena. We might expect eaque. The vs. really exhibits a fusion of two constructions, (1) aliena cures (alone), and (2) ea cures quae, etc. (without aliena). Menedemus regards Chremes as a Paul Pry.

77. homo: in the broadest sense possible. The vs. is a rebuke to Menedemus for his use of the word aliena. The common brotherhood of all men was a tenet of the Stoic sect of philosophers, and this line, which succinctly and clearly voices this sentiment, became famous at once, and was often alluded to by Cicero, Seneca, and others. Cf. Cic. de Leg. I. 12, de Fin. III. 19. 63; Sen. Ep. 95. 52. It was received by the audience with great applause, according to the tradition handed down to us by St. Augustine (Ep. 51).

78. hoc: acc.; not abl. percontari, "(that I) am asking for information."

79. rectumst, etc.: i. e., if what you are doing is right, that I may do likewise; if it is not, that I may dissuade you from your purpose. ut faciam is said with a reference to percontari; ut deterream with thought of monere.

80. usus est in Ter. has the meaning and constr. of opus est. Cf. Hec. 327, 878; n. on And. 490.

82. labori, "trouble"; pred. dat. nollem, "I would it were not so." Cf. Phorm. 796, Ad. 165.

83. "Pray, what punishment have you merited at your own hands, so great (as all this)?" For de te cf. 138 de me.

84. me: on And. 377.

86. iūuero: on And. 456.

87. qua: abl. by attraction of the rel. into the case of the antec.; a constr. common in Gk., but exceptional in Latin. Cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 6. 15 notante indice quo nosti populo.

89. adpone: on And. 725.

90. uociuom . . . laboris, "free from toil." For the gen. cf. Plaut. Bacch. 154 uaciūom uirium. See on And. 706. quod is indefinite.

92. hos: sc. rastros; acc. of excl. meritum: substantive; cf. Phorm. 337, 338, 1031, 1033.

96. paupercula: on Ad. 647.

99. humanitus, "kindly," φιλανθρώπως.

100. aegrotum: on And. 193, 559.

104. amicam ut habeas: explanatory of haec in 102. in uxoris loco: a variation on pro uxore in 98.

106-7. tantisper . . . dum, "only so long as"; cf. 147-8; Ad. 70.

108. me: abl. with dignum. in te, "in your case." inuenero: on 86.

109. istuc: i. e. your conduct.

110. istuc aetatis, "at your time of life."

112. belli: locative; i. e. in foreign wars. The successors of Alexander the Great waged frequent wars upon one another in Asia Minor, a fact that afforded opportunity to young men to leave Athens and find change, and possibly the betterment of their condition, amid the conflicts and political disturbances of a foreign land.

113. adeo rediit, "came to this." Cf. 359, 931, 980, Ad. 273. The force of re- is lost.

116. prouidere: on And. 183. se ipsum: attracted from the nom. into the acc. by me (115). This attraction would not have taken place had the verb been repeated, as e. g. quam ipse sibi prouideret. Cf. Phorm. 592 quam Phormionem, and Ad. 534 quasi ouem. sibi: with scire and prouidere; "for his interests."

117. ad regem militatum: i. e. to enlist in the army of some Oriental potentate. Cf. n. on 112; Ad. 385.

118. quid ais: on And. 137.

119. illud inceptum refers to the enterprise of the son in leaving home.

122. fere limits perturbato; "almost distracted."

123. prae: on And. 825.

124. soccas detrahunt: it was customary to remove the shoes or slippers before reclining at table. Cf. Hor. Sat. 2. 8. 77 soleas poscit, where Nasidienus calls for his slippers with a view to leaving the triclinium. The soccus was a kind of slipper (without straps) that covered the entire foot, and was worn by actors on the comic stage. It contrasted with the cothurnus or high buskin of tragedy.

125. sternere, "to spread (with coverlets)." This was preparatory to the cena. Cf. Ad. 285.

127. quo, "whereby." For the syntax see on And. Prol. 6.

129. solius: in agreement with mei implied in mea. sint: deliberative. See App. causa: with mea solius.

130. ancillae: female slaves whose business it was to make clothes for their master.

132. uti his, "to enjoy these (blessings)." pariter . . . aut etiam amplius, "in like manner (with myself) or even more so." The intensive force of etiam is derived from the temporal ("still"). If joined with amplius, the particle is temp. when amplius is an adv. and the verb is pres. or fut. (cf. Ad. 468); but the temp. force is lost when the tense is pf. (as here and in Eun. 143) or when amplius is a substantive as in Plaut. Capt. 777. See Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii. p. 30.

133. utenda: in agreement with haec.

134. eum recalls the real object of eieci, which is gnatum unicum in 131.

136. id refers to continuing the life of luxury which Menedemus had been wont to lead before his son left him, and which is described in 129-131. usque dum, "just as long as"; cf. n. on 106.

138. interea usque, "for that same period of time." illi: i. e. Clinia.

139. Cf. Ad. 813 and note.

141. nec uas nec uestimentum is meant to include all superfluous furniture and finery — uas referring not only to household utensils in general but also to ornamental vessels of plate; while uestimentum includes embroidered couch-coverings, tapestries, curtains and the like.

142. opere: on Phorm. 363.

143. exsercirent (ex-sarcire), "patch," "repair," and so "make good," "repay."

144. inscripsi aedis, "I advertised the house."

145. mercede, "at a rent"; sc. conducendas esse, of which the subject acc. is aedis (144), the constr. being that of oratio obliqua after inscripsi, with which verb the words in titulo = "on a placard" may be understood. quasi talenta ad quindecim, "talents to the number of fifteen or thereabouts"; about $18,000. in silver.

147-8. See on 106-107.

150. meus particeps, "as one who shall share it with me," "as my partner (in it all)."

151. liberos: on And. 891. 154. uere: on And. 629.

155. quanti: locative, "at how much."

156. quae, etc.: i. e. (ea) quae est aequum filium patri credere.

159. recte spero: a colloquialism = spero recte futurum esse (or omnia euentura esse). Cf. Ad. 239.

161. faxint: on And. 753. si commodumst: the real apodosis is in uolo (162). The whole = nunc si e., quom D. hic sunt hodie, apud me sis uolo.

162. Dionysia: τὰ Διονύσια; celebrated in Athens in the spring; in the country (all over Attica) in the autumn. It was known in the first case as τὰ μέγαλα Διονύσια; in the second as τὰ κατ' ἀγροὺς Διονύσια, and it is probably to the latter or rural celebration that the present reference is made. apud uolo: an invitation to dinner. Cf. Juvenal, 5. 18 una simus.

166. fugere: sc. laborem = 'hardship.' sicine: on And. 689.

169. tempust monere me, "it is time for me to remind." See App.

170. domi: i. e. at Phania's house, not the house of Chremes. Chremes leaves the stage for a moment or two. It is not probable that one of the houses fronting on the stage was that of Phania, in view of the facts that Phania nowhere appears in the play and that he is not alluded to except in this scene. The stage is therefore empty (if only for a moment): a rare occurrence in the plays of Plaut. and Ter., but there are a few other instances.

171. domi: i. e. at Chremes' house.

172. aiunt, "they tell me"; i. e. the slaves at Phania's house do so.

173. crepuerunt: on And. 682. fores: on And. 580.

174. huc, "to one side," i. e., perhaps, into the angiportus (alley). Cf. Ad. 635. See App.

ACT I. SCENE 2.

As Clitipho enters the stage from his father's house he pauses a moment to speak to Clinia, who is within. Chremes overhears his remarks, and on questioning him learns that the son of Menedemus has returned from Asia and has taken refuge at the house of his old friend Clitipho, who now requests his father not to inform Menedemus of Clinia's return. Chremes makes good the opportunity to impart to his son a few words of warning, touching the unfilial conduct of young men in general.

175. haud quaquam etiam cessant. "by no means (as you imagine) are they making a long stay of it." It is pointed out by Kirk (A. J. P. vol. xviii. pp. 27-28) that the negative here modifies only the modal adverb, and that this combination modifies the complex etiam cessant. Hence this is not an instance of etiam with negative = nondum, "not yet," as in And. 116, but of temporal etiam without the neg., i. e. etiam = "still." Put affirmatively, the whole = "they are still making the best of their way hither." The pl. in cessant refers to Antiphila, Dromo and Syrus, the slaves having recently been despatched to Athens to find Clinia's sweetheart and bring her to Clitipho's house. See 191.

176. illam: i. e. Antiphila.

185. amplius: with inuitatum: "urged the more."

187. atque, "and yet." etiam: temporal rather than intensive;

"there is still time (to urge him to come)." See on And. 282. caue faxis, "see that you don't." Cf. n. on And. 753.

188. enim merely lends emphasis; so in at enim, nunc enim, immo enim, and the like. Cf. n. on And. 91. etiam: on 187. quid se faciat: on And. 143.

189. animum . . . ut sit: on And. 377.

192. minus: sc. miserum esse. crederes: potential, with indefinite force: see B. 280. 3 and 356. 3. See App.

193. quae, "(of those things) which."

194. incolumem is felt with all the nouns, though it agrees with only one of them.

195. atque: on 187. quī: i is merely shortened here before ea. Cf. Phorm. Prol. 27. With this vs. cf. Hor. Epist. 1. 2. 49 ff.

198. plus satis: i. e. plus quam satis, "too much." The full phrase occurs in Phorm. 797.

199. illicine = illicē + ne (illicē = ille + ce). Transl. "what? he!" Chremes is surprised, for he knows how unjust is Clitipho's estimate of the character of Menedemus. The rest of the vs. is said aside. hunc and illi refer to Clinia and Menedemus respectively.

200. ut ut erat, "however things were"; cf. n. on Ad. 630. mansum: sc. esse. See on And. 239. Transl. "he ought to have stayed at home."

201. iniquior erat: sc. Menedemus. eius: i. e. Clinia.

202. pateretur, "he (Clinia) should have endured it." See on And. 793. quem ferret: a rhetorical question; it serves here to convey a negative opinion. See G. 259 and 466.

203. huncine = hunc + ce + ne. Clinia is meant. illius: i. e. Menedemus.

204-5. quod, etc., "as to the fact that he (Clinia) accuses him of harshness." parentum: subjective gen.

205. paulo . . . tolerabilis, "(of a father) who is at all a tolerant person"; qui (= quicumque) is generalizing; hence it is essentially plural, and the whole = paulo qui sunt tolerabiles, "of those (fathers) who are at all tolerant." For the act. meaning of verbal adjectives in -bilis cf. Phorm. 226, 961; Ad. 608; Plaut. Mil. 1144; Hor. Od. 1. 3. 22.

206. Note the chiasmic arrangement.

207. ad: on And. 481-482. Transl. "with a view to their virtue."

210. For the sentiment cf. Ad. 416, where the maxim is amusingly parodied.

211. ita credo: Clitipho is weary of his father's lecture, to which he yields a merely verbal assent.

212. sis: on 369. quo, "in any direction." longius, "very far." So Ad. 882.

ACT II. SCENE 1.

In the following monologue, which really belongs to Act I, Clitipho gives expression to his distress at his father's teaching, and dwells upon his own unhappy lot, whereof, as he declares, his father is in total ignorance.

215. "And that we should have no participation in those things, etc." On the gen. denoting participation after adfinis, see G. 374. Note 2.

217. ne: on And. 324.

218. cognoscendi: gerundive; "for learning (the character of)."

219. meus est: sc. pater.

220. With this vs. and 216 cf. the thought of Juvenal xiv, that men should set a good example to their sons.

225. suarum rerum sat agit, "has enough to do (in dealing) with his own affairs."

226. Cf. And. 274.

227. inpotens, "without self-control," "headstrong," as in Hor. Od. 1. 37. 10 quidlibet inpotens sperare. nobilis, "conspicuous."

228. "Then as to what I am to give her, there is (merely the answer) 'oh! yes certainly.'" recte is the evasive reply given to Bacchis by Clitipho, because he is unwilling to say, nil est. religio: cf. And. 730 and 941.

229. hoc mali, "this misfortune," i. e. his relations with Bacchis. non pridem, "only recently." neque etiam dum, "and not yet in fact." The temp. etiam is reinforced by dum (= ῥῆν). See on And. 201.

ACT II. SCENE 2.

Clinia tells Clitipho of his doubts regarding the faithfulness of Antiphila, and is reassured by his friend. Presently Antiphila appears, accompanied by Dromo and Syrus.

231. uenissent: the subject is Antiphila and the two slaves, whose arrival is momentarily expected. mulier, "she," i. e. Antiphila.

232. See App.

235. etiam caues: etiam is additory, but the additory force is weakened to the point of being, for us, untranslatable except by a vocal stress upon the modified word. See Kirk in A. J. P. xviii. p. 32, d. Transl. "will you take care, etc." See Phorm. 542, Ad. 550, And. 849, and notes. aliquis: for emphasis; otherwise quis would be regular after nē. See G. 315. Note 1.

237. pergin = pergine?

239. hinc longule esse, "that it is a bit of a way from here," i. e. to Antiphila's residence in Athens. For longule (dim. of longe) cf. Plaut. Men. 64, Rud. 266.

240. conantur: lit., "are making the attempt," i. e. to start (sc. ire),

"are getting under way." With the thought cf. Eun. 341; Hor. Sat. 1. 5. 13.

241. eccum: on And. 532.

ACT II. SCENE 3.

Syrus and Dromo arrive from Athens, the women being not far behind. The slaves are in conversation, as they enter the stage by the door on the spectator's right. Their talk is overheard by Clinia and Clitipho, who are not aware that Syrus has brought with him Bacchis also and all her train. Bacchis is Clitipho's mistress. Clinia mistakes the remarks of Syrus about Bacchis as though they referred to Antiphila, and is much distressed in consequence. Syrus reassures him, however, and outlines a plan to pass off Bacchis as Clinia's mistress, and to entrust Antiphila to the keeping of Clitipho's mother—an arrangement finally accepted by the young men.

242. dum sermones caedimus, "while we are carving sentences"; from the Gk. κόπτειν λόγους or ῥήματα, according to Priscian.

246. illi: i. e. Antiphila.

247. relictas: on And. 239. Cf. n. on 200.

249. dum strengthens the inv.; "be off at once." See G. 269.

251. autem is common in lively questions; "what in the world is troubling you?" See G. 484. Note 1. Cf. 1000; Ad. 185.

252. uiden tu, "you see surely, don't you?" The accusatives are subjects of esse (253), but are put first for emphasis.

253. ei is necessary, and has been adopted by editors in general since Faernus, though it is not in the MSS. It is the antecedent of quam and refers to Antiphila.

256. sed eccos: Syrus sees the two young men for the first time. Cf. n. on And. 532.

257. interea loci, "meantime," as in Eun. 126 and 255.

259. propter quam, "for whose sake." minus obsequens, "disobedient." Cf. parum in 334 and 924.

260. quoius: the gen. with pudet sometimes denotes the person before whom, or in whose presence, the shame is felt. Cf. Hec. 793, Ad. 683. See Roby 1328. et miseret, qui, etc., "and I am sorry that he who used to keep harping to me on the ways of these women warned me in vain, and that he was not able ever to get me away from her." cantabat: suggestive of constant and wearisome repetition; like Shakespeare's "still harping on my daughter." Cf. Gk. ὑμνεῖν, and Plaut. Trin. 287.

262. faciam: i. e. I will withdraw myself from her. gratum: here of the act that wins gratitude; "when it might have been gracious in me."

264. amorem: i. e. Antiphila. atque, "than"; see A. & G. 324. c.

266. Cf. n. on 574. eāpse: old form = (eā)ipsā; see on Hec. 778.

268. suspiciarier: on And. 203 (Iudier).

269. huius: i. e. Antiphila. Scan huius. rerum. "circumstances."

270. antehac: on And. 187.

271. alterae: colloquial for alteri, which might be taken to refer to Dromo, whereas the reference is to Bacchis. See on And. 608. Cf. Phorm. 928.

272. quae namst altera: Clitipho is taken by surprise. He is not aware that Bacchis is in the company.

273. enarrem, "I'd better finish telling"; subj. of obligation or propriety (see Elmer in A. J. P. xv. 317 ff.; Class. Rev. xii. p. 202). Bennett calls it subj. of determined resolution, "I'm bound to tell" (see B. App. 358. b.).

278. foribus obdit pessulum, "bolts the door." pessulus was a bolt which was fastened without the aid of a key. Cf. Eun. 603.

281. est interuentum, "we interrupted." mulieri, "her." Cf. n. on 231.

284. ingenlum: acc. See on And. 377.

285. Cf. And. 75. ipsam, "Antiphila herself." offendimus, "we came upon," "we found."

287. anuls: gen. of the -u declension; contracted later into anūs.

288. ornatam: sc. offendimus. ornantur sibi, "dress to please themselves," i. e. not to please admirers.

289. mala re, "cunning device," such as rouge, paint, powder, etc. Cf. Phorm. 105-107. interpolatam, "beautified"; see App.

290-1. "Her hair was let fall in its abundance, and was tossed back carelessly around the head." passus (from pando) indicates that no attempt was made to bind up the hair — an idea assisted by prolire, which suggests also that the hair was long and plentiful.

291. pax: an interjection, "enough"; cf. 717.

292. ne . . . conicias: in reality a final cl., implying an ellipsis, as in And. 704, 706, where see notes.

294. pannis obsita, "covered with rags"; cf. Eun. 236.

295. inmunda: nominative.

297. hanc: i. e. the ancillula in 293. quam: rel. sordidatam, "in mean attire." horridam, "unkempt," "untidy," with a refer. to inmunda inlucie in 295.

298. hoc takes up hanc . . . horridam, with a change in the constr. dominam esse extra noxiam, "that the mistress is beyond reproach," depends on signum.

299. negleguntur: i. e. by those ad dominas qui adfectant uiam (301) internuntii, "her go-betweens," i. e. those who do her errands; masc. instead of fem., because a class is referred to. The pl. is general, as in the words eis, ancillas, dominas in 300-301.

300. disciplina, "system," "regular way." eis: antec. of qui (301). demunerarier: on the subject of tips see Juv. iii. 183-189; Hor. Sat. 1. 9. 57; Plaut. Asin. 162 ff., Men. 541 ff.

302. caue: on And. 403.

302-3. gratiam inire, "curry favour"; cf. Ad. 914; n. on Ilec. 795.

306. opplet, "fills," "suffuses."

308. prae: on And. 825.

309. scibam: on And. 38.

310. ulcissim: said in allusion to Syrus' promised explanation; see 273-274. altera: cf. 272.

314. For the thought cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 9. 59-60 nil sine magno uita labore dedit mortalibus. Note the slave's grandiose manner.

315. in mea uita, "at the expense of my happiness"; lit. "on my life." Clitipho's life depends on his love, and it is on the latter that the experiment is to be tried by Syrus. is quaesitum, "are you going to seek?" Cf. n. on And. 134.

316. ubi, "(in a matter) where." te fugerit, "shall have eluded your caution," "shall have slipped your memory."

317. quid illo facias: addressed to Clinia. Cf. 333. See on And. 143.

318. malum: acc. of excl.; often used interjectionally in angry questions. Transl. "the plague on it!" "the mischief!" Cf. Eun. 780; Phorm. 723, 948; Ad. 544, 557. ambages, "long story," "rigmarole."

320. multimodis: on And. 939. iniurius, "unfair."

321. potis es: on And. 437.

322. illi: i. e. Bacchis. effici, "to be made up"; said of a sum of money.

323. periculum, "risk." haud stulte sapis: Syrus is speaking ironically; "there's no folly in your wisdom." For the oxymoron cf. n. on And. Prol. 17.

324. contingere, "happen"; often with dat. of pers.; here absol.

325. haec: sc. pericula (from 323). illis: i. e. the blessings as enumerated in 322.

326. condicionum: cf. n. on And. 79. Transl. "alternatives."

328. copia, "opportunity."

329. eadem hac uia refers to the consilium of 327.

332. cedo: on And. 150.

334. haec: sc. amica. dedecori est parum, "is not disgrace enough." For parum cf. 924, and minus in 259.

335. eo, "thither," i. e. ad matrem.

336. uera causast, "there is a good reason." fabulae: on And. 224.

340. huic: i. e. Bacchis. dicam ut, etc., "I'll tell her that she must, etc."

342. "That you may sleep quietly on whichever ear you please"; a proverbial expression signifying to rest in peace.

343. quid ago: deliberative; cf. n. on And. 315. quod boni: continued in 345. dic modo, "just tell me."

344. uerum age modo, "but do you just do (as I bid you)." uoles, "you will wish it," i. e. that my first suggestion had been carried out.

345. datur: the subject is quod boni (343). nescias, "you can't know," "you can't tell." The object is the disjunctive question in 347. For the potential cf. B. App. 366. a.

346. istuc: the thing Syrus has threatened to do (in 340). Syrus turns to go.

347. eius (obj. gen.) refers to quod boni (343).

348. uerum . . . est: addressed to Clinia. heus: on And. 635.

349. concaluit: said aside. Clitipho's love for Bacchis has caused him to warm up to the point of consenting to Syrus' plan, although he fears the possible consequences of her being passed off as Clinia's mistress. The warmth of his affection has overcome the chill of fear.

350. "Presently you'll tell me that this also fails to please you." Syrus pretends to feel irritation at being recalled. hoc = Syrus' return. immo, "on the contrary."

353. te: see App.

354. istic, "there," "in that matter." mea res, "my interests." minor agatur, "were less at stake."

355. hic, "here," "in this matter."

356. huic homini: on And. 310 (hic). For the thought cf. 949 f., Phorm. 219-220.

357. ne utiquam: on And. 330. neclectu: pred. dative. This form of the dat. is found also in Plautus, Lucretius, Cicero, Sallust, and Vergil. Another instance in this play occurs in 639 (ann), according to the reading of the Codex Bezae; see Engelbrecht, Studia Terent., p. 21, § 3. Cf. Ad. 63.

358. istunc: i. e. Clinia. scilicet = scire licet; cf. n. on 856.

359. rediit: on 113.

360. necessus: on And. 372. merito te amo, "I have good reason now to love you." This and amo te (Phorm. 54) are colloquial, and in reality mean nothing more than "I thank you." So si me amas = "if you please." The verb lori is similarly employed by Shakespeare and Sheridan. Cf. King Lear, Act 4, Sc. 5: "I'll love thee much, let me unseal the letter," and The Rivals: "Let me bring him down at a long shot, a long shot, Sir Lucius, if you love me." Cf. 404, 825; Eun. 186, Ad. 946.

361. uerum illa ne quid titubet, "but (see) that she makes no mistake." Understand either nide or caue before ne. Cf. Plaut. Pseud. 942 ut uide, ne titubes; Hor. Ep. 1. 13. 19 uale: cave ne titubes mandataque frangas. Cf. also Heaut. 369. illa: i. e. Bacchis.

362. qui, "how"; on And. 53.

363. persuadere illi, "induce her (to come with you)." quos, "what lovers!" That is, considering what wealthy and serious lovers she is wont to scorn.

365. misere, "piteously"; with orantem (366). offendi: on 285.

366. arte, "skilfully"; cf. astu (Eun. 924).

367. inopia, "through want of her," i. e. "through her refusal," "denial."

368. eademque: sc. opera; "and at the same time"; abl. of manner (Roby, 1237). hoc, "this" (i. e. her conduct toward the soldier), is subject of esset.

369. sis (= si vis), "if you please," is generally subjoined to an inv., though sometimes placed before it, as in Ad. 766. quid ruas, "make any rash move"; lit., "rush headlong at all." Clitipho is impetuous, and Syrus fears that he may upset everything by some imprudent act. Cf. n. on Ad. 319.

371. inpotens: on And. 879.

372. Syrus cautions Clitipho against the use of ambiguous phrases, side glances, sighs, hemmings, coughs, and smiles. These things will not escape the observation of his keen-sighted father (370).

373. abstine, "hold back," "keep to yourself," "suppress."

374. tutimet (= tu-te-met), "you yourself."

379. saltem salutare, "at least to say 'how do you do.'" See App.

380. istic (= iste + ce as illic = ille + ce often); the reference is to Clinia. Clitipho retires, leaving Clinia and Syrus to receive Bacchis and Antiphila.

ACT II. SCENE 4.

Bacchis discourses to Antiphila on the superior happiness of those women, who, like Antiphila, have made it a principle to be faithful to one lover. Subsequently Clinia is recognized by Antiphila, and an affectionate greeting takes place.

The contrast in character between the self-seeking and commonplace Bacchis, and the tender, self-denying Antiphila, is one of Terence's best strokes, and points to an important distinction in the social relations of the Greeks—the distinction between the class of meretrices, represented by Bacchis, and the amica pro uxore, or wife in all but the name, presented to us in the person of Antiphila. The future conduct and destiny of these two characters is already suggested in the manner of their first presentation to the audience.

381. edepol: on And. 229.

382. isti: not an old form of the gen., as claimed by Ritschl, but a nom.

in agreement with mores. See Engelbrecht, Studia Terent., pp. 37-38 formae, "beauty." mores, "character."

384. indicio: pred. dat. Menander's original line is quoted by the scholiast of the Codex Bezae: ἀνδρὸς χαρακτήρ ἐκ λόγου γνωρίζεται.

386. uostrarum: occasionally for uostrum, as nostrarum for nostrum in Eun. 678. uolgus, "the common crowd (of lovers)." quae ab se segregant, "(those women, that is) who keep from them."

390. alio, "elsewhere," "to another."

391. nisi si, "unless indeed."

393. uostrum: by brachylogy for uostrum moris. The stock example is κῆμαί χαρίτεσσιν ὁμοῖαι, "hair like (the hair of) the Graces." ei . . . adplicant: the pl. is natural in view of the indefinite or generalizing character of the rel. clause. ei = "lovers such as these."

394. utrique ab utrisque: the pl. because of ei adplicant. Hence the reference is to the two sets of lovers. The singular would signify two individual lovers, such as Clinia and Antiphila. Transl. "each by the other."

396. nescio alias, "I don't know about other women." Cf. 1038 deos nescio.

397. Cf. And. 627-628.

400. tui: the gen. with carco is not found elsewhere in Ter. The acc. occurs in Eun. 223. Cf. 869, where the gen. is found with a verb of fulness.

401. See on And. 245. hocin . . . ingenium: sc. Antiphilae.

402. esse habitum, "to have been esteemed"; hence, "so far as I have observed your father's reputation." diu etiam, "for a long time to come." The temp. etiam is reinforced by diu; see Kirk in A. J. P. xviii. p. 34. duras dabit: sc. partis; "he'll give you a hard rôle (to play)."

404. amabo, "pray!" "please!" Cf. n. on 360 and Ellis on Catullus, xxxii. 1.

408. exoptatam: on And. Prol. 20. See App.

409. intro refers to the house of Chremes, where dinner is waiting. The time is evening, and the feast of the Dionysia (162) has yet to be celebrated. In addition to Phania, a special guest (169), there are now in Chremes' house the following persons: Chremes, his wife Sostrata, his son Clitipho, Syrus, Baechis, Antiphila, and Clinia, whose return has not yet been made known to his father, Menedemus.

ACT III. SCENE 1.

The scene begins with dawn of the morning that follows the first day of the play. Chremes comes to tell Menedemus of Clinia's return, and advises Menedemus not to allow Clinia to discover how eager he is to grant his son the fullest possible indulgence. Menedemus is partly influenced by this advice, and Chremes departs, after having promised to hasten arrangements for an interview between father and son.

Although a night has elapsed since the action of the last scene, the play is continued without break, or if an interval occurs between the two acts it is brief and is filled up by simple music. Chremes enters the stage from the doorway of his house.

410. luciscit hoc iam, "it is beginning to grow light here now." hoc is nom.; cf. Palmer on Plaut. Amph. 543 lucescit hoc iam. Yet the verb is practically impers., like adulesperaseit, pluit, and the like. Gray considers hoc acc. It is said with a sweep of the hand. Cf. Plaut. Cure. 182.

415. quom, "notwithstanding," "although"; see B. 309. illi: i. e. Clinia.

416. quod: restrictive, "so far as." It is an acc. of extent of space.

419. senibus = amicis et aequalibus.

420. The door of the house of Menedemus now opens and Menedemus himself steps upon the stage. The sentiment expressed in this vs. is much the same as that which the old man, Demea, utters in Ad. 545.

422. diem: χρόνος, i. e. "time," in general. hominibus: dative.

423. augescit magis: for the pleonasm cf. Hee. 337.

425. magis: final s is slurred twice in this vs. Cf. Introd. § 92.

429. num, which expects the answer, 'no,' indicates that Menedemus does not dare to hope for an answer in the affirmative; "you have not heard anything, have you?" nam: corroborative, "assuredly."

433. etiam: on And. 116.

435. etiam adaucta, "still further increased." etiam is intensive. See Kirk in A. J. P. xviii. p. 30.

436. ut essem, "how I was," i. e. how I longed for his return.

437. istuc . . . consulis: acc. of inner object, "you are adopting this plan." Transl. "this is the worst possible counsel (policy) that you are adopting with reference to yourself and him."

439. non possum, "I cannot," i. e. adopt harsh measures.

441. nimia: with both nouns. Menedemus is ever ready to go to extremes. Chremes is more even tempered and complacent.

442. fraudem: on And. 911. ex illa: sc. re.

446. ingratiis, "against her will." Chremes imagines that Bacchis is the object of Clinia's affection.

450. "How finely fitted out for destruction she is at this moment."

452. satrapa, "nabob"; used here, like the word rex, to signify a rich person. The governors of the provinces of the Persian Empire were persons of wealth. The Gk. is σατράπης. For the Latin ending cf. poeta from ποιητής, trapessita from τραπέζιτης.

454. nedum tu possis, "much less could you"; see G. 482. 5. R. 2. sit: on And. 282.

455. sensī, "I have felt it (to my sorrow)"; thus often in Plant. and Ter. It is a stronger word than vidi, which Chremes might have used here.

456. actum siet: on And. 465.

457. pytissando: a Gk. word, πυτίσειν, "to spit." Bacchis tastes the wine but does not swallow it. For this habit cf. Juv. xi. 175. As Gk. ζ is generally represented in Latin by double s, the form pytissando of the MSS. is probably incorrect.

458. quid = quantum; see Fay in Class. Rev., vol. xii. p. 297. sic hoc, "so so, this." Cf. 523, Phorm. 145, And. 804.

459. pater is suggestive of Bacchis' familiar manner; "old man," "old fellow." aliud: sc. vinum. sodes: on And. 85. uide, "provide."

460. releui, "I broached," i. e. removed the pitch with which the mouths of the wine-casks were closed as with a seal. Cf. Hor. Od. 3. 8. 9. ff. serias: smaller than the dolia; "jars."

461. omnis sollicitos habuit, "she (Bacchis) had everybody in a state of excitement."

462. te: abl.; see on And. 143.

467. permagni re ferre, "to be of very great importance."

468. ut ne, etc.: unusual after rēferre + genitive, but the force of sic facere is felt in what follows, making the sense = "it's important to see to it that, etc."

470. ut des denotes purpose, and follows falli te sinas: "let yourself be deceived by tricks through (the agency of) your little slave, that you may give it through any other person (rather than yourself)."

471. techina is the Latinized form of the Gk. τέχνη. For the i cf. n. on And. 451.

472. illos: i. e. the slaves. ibi, "there" = "at it." Cf. 983 and 1063.

473. illo uostro: i. e. Dromo. The verbs are plural because Syrus cum illo nostro = Syrus et ille noster.

475. talentum = 60 minae; the mina = 100 drachmae.

476. illud: sc. agitur.

478. tuom animum, "your feelings"; explained by the two vss. following.

481. fenestram: we say "door," or "gateway." nequitiam: archaic for nequitia; see on Ad. 267.

482. "And for you moreover how unpleasant would it be to live."

484-5. See App.

484. quod . . . quomque, "whatever"; tmesis.

486. ipsum: i. e. Clinia.

487. dare denegarīs, "you will refuse to give to him"; a prediction substituted for a formal protasis. Cf. Eun. 252; Juv. iii. 100.

488. quī, "whereby." See on And. Prol. 6.

492. qui, "how"; on And. Prol. 6.

496. facere: sc. nolo te.

502. continuo, etc., "I'll be here directly." Cf. n. on And. 594. See App. di uostram fidem: on And. 716.

503. See on And. 245.

506. nimio: with gaudio, rather than (as an adv.) with praepediti.
aegritudine: sc. nimia.

510. domum: i. e. of Menedemus.

511 congruisse: see App.

ACT III. SCENE 2.

Syrus comes out of Chremes' house, revolving in his mind a plan for getting money out of his master. Chremes, who overhears him as he talks to himself, imagines that he is plotting against Menedemus. Accordingly Chremes encourages the slave in his designs, in pursuance of the agreement already existing between himself and Menedemus. Syrus is ready enough to be thus encouraged, and chuckles to think how little Chremes appreciates the true situation.

512. circumcursa: Syrus addresses himself, or, possibly, the money which he imagines to be running away from him; cf. fugitiuom argentum (678). tamen: on And. 94.

513. argentum: i. e. which Syrus has promised Clitipho to secure for Bacchis. Cf. 329-330. senem: i. e. Chremes, from whom Syrus plans to obtain the money by a trick. Chremes thinks the word refers to Menedemus.

514. hosce: particularly the slaves Syrus and Dromo, whom Chremes had suspected of forming a plot to deceive Menedemus — a suspicion already communicated to Menedemus by Chremes (471-474).

515. adulescentis: i. e. Clinia. See App. seruos: i. e. Dromo. Chremes is endeavouring to account for the fact that Syrus is alone in the present plot, for according to 473 he and Dromo ought to be working together.

516. prouincia, "task"; more lit. "department." Cf. Phorm. 72.

517. num nam: cf. n. on And. 591.

518. quid tu istic: sc. agis; "what are you up to there?" recte equidem, "oh, I'm doing very well." "I'm all right"; said as though Chremes had asked after his health.

519. tam mane: on 67. nil nimis: sc. bibi.

520. quod dici solet, "as the saying is."

521. aquilae senectus: ἀετοῦ γῆρας; proverbial for a lusty, hearty old age. This, of course, is a compliment, though tinged with impertinence. heia: said deprecatingly, if not forbiddingly. commoda: said of one who observes the proprieties; "proper," "nice," "agreeable." Contrast 456-461 and note the slave's irony ('nerve'), which, however, is lost on Chremes.

522. faceta, "well-bred," "polite." sane, "no doubt," "certainly"; said in a half-hearted tone, if not with real irony.

523. et quidem, "and moreover." forma luculenta, "of superior beauty." sic satis, "quite so," "well enough."

524. "Oh! of course, not as women were in the olden time (olim), but as they are now-a-days, (she is) certainly handsome." The undercurrent of impertinence in the slave's talk would have amused the audience.

525. hanc . . . deperit, "is dying (of love) for her."

526. aridum, "stingy," lit. "dry"; cf. Plant. Aul. 297 pumex non acquiescit aridus quam hic est senex.

527. uicinum hunc, "our neighbour here."

529. quid ego ni sciam, "of course, I am aware of it." For the separation of quid . . . ni cf. Ad. 662; Plant. Amph. 434 quid ego ni negem? See n. on And. 315.

530. hominem: on And. 589 (consilium). pistrino: on And. 600.

531. male: intensive; cf. Illec. 337. Syrus is speaking aside.

532. qui: the antecedent is seruolus (530), i. e. Dromo.

533. For the subjunctives see on And. 793, Phorm. 297.

535. inuitum, "in spite of himself," "against his will."

536. facta. sc. esse. See on And. 239.

537. in loco, "at the right time." Cf. Ad. 216, 827, 994.

538. quippe qui, "in as much as." qui is the locative of the indef. pron., and is attached to quippe as an enclitic for the sake of emphasis. Cf. at-qui, hercle qui, ecce qui, edepol qui in Plautus. The subject of est (539) is id. If qui were relative and subject of the verb, we should expect sit instead of est.

539. id: i. e. eros fallere.

540. uel: on And. 489.

542. nisi, etc., "only (I do know) he certainly gives me encouragement to feel better pleased (with my plan)"; for his plan cf. 512-513. For nisi cf. n. on And. 664.

543. quid exspectat, "what is he waiting for?" The refer. is to Dromo. an dum, etc., "is he waiting until, etc.?" hic: i. e. Clinia.

544. quom: causal. ille: i. e. Menedemus. huius: i. e. Bacchis, Clinia's supposed mistress.

545. ad, "in reference to," or ironically "for the benefit of." fingit: sc. Dromo.

549. tanto melior: sc. es; see on And. 762 (furtis). Chremes is ironical. non est mentiri meum, "it is not my fashion to lie," and therefore when I say that I am skilled in trickery, you should believe me. Cf. 782.

550. dum: intensive, as in 229 (see n.).

551. quid: not the object of faciat (552), as some editors make it, but the subject of enenerit. The object of faciat is easily supplied.

553. non usus ueniet, "there will be no need." See on 80. Cf. 556, 557.

554. quo . . . senserim, "because I have noticed him doing anything of the sort"; sc. huius simile facere. For quo see G. 541. Note 2.

555. sed: sc. dico; "but I say so." si quid: sc. huius simile fecerit; "in case he shall do anything of the kind." ne quid. sc. suscenseas or gravius decernas.

556. ne: on And. 324.

558. istuc age, "attend to your business," i. e. the task I have assigned to you. Chremes goes into his house.

559. numquam . . . umquam: on And. 178.

560. "And never (did I hear him) when I thought it was allowed me to play the rogue with greater freedom."

ACT III. SCENE 3.

Chremes comes out of his house, accompanied by Clitipho, who has been discovered by his father to be on intimate terms with Bacchis (Clinia's reputed sweetheart). This apparent treachery on Clitipho's part is the occasion of Chremes' indignation expressed in 562, and bids fair to reveal the truth which Syrus is anxious to keep secret. Accordingly Syrus comes to the rescue, unites with Chremes in rebuking Clitipho, and succeeds in having the latter removed from the scene of action (590). Syrus then explains to Chremes his plan to cheat Menedemus — a plan really intended to obtain money for Clitipho

562. quid: sc. est.

564. acta . . . est: said aside; see on 456.

565. illi: i. e. Clinia.

566. contumelia: ὕβρις; stronger than iniuria.

568. uel: on 540.

570. amantis: see App. animum, etc., "they take serious notice of things which you would not think (they observe)."

571. nil istius, "nothing of the kind"; part. gen. Cf. 961.

572. ut: sc. monco; or else the subj. is optative in character, and ut = utinam. See G. 261; A. & G. 442. a. eorum: i. e. Clinia and Bacchis.

573. fert, "suggests."

574. de . . . coniecturam, "I infer it from my own experience." Cf. 266; And. 512; Ad. 822.

575. omniā: See Introd. § 91.

576. dignitas, "his rank." pudet: sc. me.

577. quod . . . credito, "and be sure this is the case with him," i. e. with Clinia. Chremes means that Clinia is ashamed to show his affection for Bacchis when Clitipho is present.

578. ut quomque, etc., "howsoever and wheresoever there is need to humour him." Chremes' fondness for giving advice is well exemplified in 572-578.

579 Chremes now thinks that Syrus is upbraiding Clitipho for his intimacy with Bacchis, but Clitipho quite understands that Syrus fears a disclosure of the plot. Syrus' words accordingly have a double meaning. haec, etc., "is this the teaching I give you?" Syrus uses the language of a paedagogus.

580. functu's officium: on 66. Cf. Phorm. 282 and 413 n. tace sodes, "keep quiet, will you." Clitipho is irritated by Syrus' irony.

581. recte sane are the concluding words of Syrus' ironical remark in 580. puDET me, "I am a-bamed," i. e. of my son's behaviour.

582. perdis: sc. me. uerum, "true."

584. Said aside. Syrus is in despair lest Chremes discover the plot.

585. auscultare (with dat) = "to take the advice of," "be persuaded by."

588. istac: sc. uia. istorsum, "in that direction"; cf. Eun. 305 quorsum. quouis, "whither you will."

589. eradicent: on And. 761.

591. censen uero takes up Chremes' previous remark: "you think so, don't you?"

592. quantum: on And. 207.

595. quid tu serves to change the subject. Chremes now asks Syrus whether he has done anything about the matter discussed in the previous scene. See esp. 545-547.

597. est: sc. mihi. quandam: sc. fallaciam.

598. ut, "as." Transl. "but in the natural sequence of events."

599. pessuma, "very shrewd." immo si scias, "nay, if you did but know."

601. huic, "to her," i. e. to the anus Corinthia. drachumarum may be loosely rendered "francs." See App. The gen. is partitive with mille which is here a substantive. haec: i. e. Bacchis. mutuom, "as a loan."

602. ea: i. e. the anus Corinthia. filiam: i. e. Antiphila.

603. ea: sc. filia. huic: i. e. Bacchis. arraboni, "as security", pred. dat. Cf. Plaut. Most. 918 quod isti dedimus arraboni.

604. hanc: i. e. Antiphila. adduxit: sc. Bacchis. ea quae est, etc., "the one who is," etc., explains hanc. We should expect eam. As it is, the sentence is parenthetical, "she it is who," etc.

605. id, "that sum of money." illam (i. e. Antiphila); object of daturam. illi: i. e. Clinia

606. post: i. e. after she has received the money. daturam: sc. se (i. e. Bacchis). mille: substantive, as in 601. nummum (= num- morum); equivalent to drachmarum. Cf. 601. The sum, which equals ten minae, is not large in consideration of the security offered; for the price of an ordinary slave might be anywhere between twenty and sixty minae. See Ad. 191. et possit quidem sc. effici; "and this could be done, could it?" The change from MSS. poscit seems unnecessary; "and she demands (so big a sum), does she?"

609. in ea, "in her," i. e. in her purchase from Bacchis. Her wealthy relatives would pay a large ransom for her.

611. optata loquere (= loqueris); "well said," more lit. "you say just what I wanted." Syrus is not pleased. He makes a counter-stroke by telling Chremes that he looks for a refusal from Menedemus. Chremes is puzzled accordingly, and our inference is that Syrus means to get the money from Chremes himself.

612. non opus est: the subj. might be expected; see on And. 282.

613. măně măně: the first iambic word is shortened in its final syllable, owing to the position of its accent. Cf. 977.

ACT III. SCENE 4. [IV. 1.]

Sostrata, wife of Chremes, comes out of Chremes' house. In her company is the old nurse. Sostrata is greatly excited because she thinks she has recognized a certain ring worn by Antiphila. This is the beginning of the ἀναγνώρισις, dénouement. If the ring is the same as that which she once ordered to be placed with her infant daughter when the latter was 'exposed,' then Antiphila is that daughter. For the use of a ring to effect a recognition (a common dramatic device) cf. the Curculio and the Epidicus of Plautus.

616. ilico modifies dixi. The nurse declares that she recognized the ring the instant it was brought to her notice.

617. ut: sc. uide, and cf. n. on 572 (ut). Transl. "but be sure that you have sufficiently examined it now."

620. non temere est, "it's not by accident," "it's not for nothing." Cf. Eun. 291.

621. ne: on And. 324.

623. edictum: Chremes had ordered his infant daughter to be 'exposed.'

625. haec purgatio, "this attempt at justification," "this apology." Syrus says in effect, 'qui s'excuse s'accuse.'

627. nolle: sc. te. tolli: on And. 219, 401.

628. domna: abl. Chremes' newly found daughter would be a new mistress for Syrus; to her father she would be a dead loss, as he would be obliged to support her and provide her with a dowry at her marriage. damno: notice the alliteration, paronomasia, chiasitic arrangement, and the oxymoron in the use of damno auctus here. Syrus is speaking aside.

632. equidem emphasizes id not ego; "of that in fact I am quite sure."

635. interemptam: sc. esse; transl. "she (the child) ought to have been put to death." See on And. 239. Cf. Heaut. 200, 247, 536.

636. simulare and dare are governed by oportuit. reapse, "in reality," is contrasted with uerbis.

638. quod uoluisti furnishes the subject of prospectumst.

639. This vs. and the next explain more or less ironically what is in Chremes' mind as he gives utterance to vs. 638. Transl. "why, it's quite obvious that your daughter was handed over to the mercy of that old woman, that for anything you cared she might make her living (as a courtesan) or be openly sold (as a slave)."

642. sciunt: pregnant; "know," and so "have a care for." Cf. Ad. 503 noscere.

643. "Whether a thing is better or worse, whether it be advantageous or the reverse, they see naught but their own desires." The asyndeton is characteristic of everyday speech.

644. uincor, "I am convinced." Cf. Phorm. 501.

645. "In proportion as your mind is more serious [because of your age] (than mine), to that extent be the more considerate." See App.

646. "That there may be some protection for my foolishness in your (sense of) justice."

647. scilicet: cf. n. on And. 950.

650. religiosae, "full of scruples." See on 228. illi: sc. anui.

652. expers partis . . . de, "without a share in." Sostrata's weakness consisted in too scrupulous a regard for the sentiment prevalent among the Greeks that no child should be wholly deprived of its right to an inheritance.

658. nisi: see on And. 664.

659. si potis est reperiri: on And. 437; "if it can be ascertained." Interii: the discovery that Antiphila is Chremes' daughter is an insuperable obstacle to the success of Syrus' plans, since she can no longer be held as security for a debt, now that she is known to be an Attic citizen. Cf. Ad. 193. spei: a monosyllable. See Engelbrecht, Studia Terent., p. 15.

660. nostra est, "she belongs to our family." illa: i. e. the anus Corinthia; see 629.

661. olim, "at the time"; see on 443.

662. Philterae: dat., through attraction to mulieri.

663. mirum ni: on And. 598.

665. ut olim: sc. fuisti. in, "in the matter of." tollendo: on And. 219.

667. ita . . . fert . . . ut, "the circumstances incline me to." minus sc. cupivi.

ACT III. SCENE 5. [IV. 2.]

668. Syrus, who has been watching Sostrata intently ever since her appearance on the stage, now opens his soliloquy with a repetition of the very words with which she had opened the previous scene.

669. in angustum, "into a narrow pass." Cf. Plaut. Mil. 218-30 for an elaborate instance of military metaphor. oppido: on Ad. 322.

670. "Unless I hit upon something to prevent the old man from finding out that this (Bacchis) is his son's mistress."

671. "As for being hopeful about the money or thinking that I might trick him, there is nothing in it." Cf. n. on And. 395.

672. latere tecto, "with my ribs covered," i. e. "with my skin intact." The reference is to a possible flogging. The phrase is also a military one and may be taken as continuing the metaphor in 669. Hence we might render, "with my flank well covered (protected)," or "without exposing my flank."

673. bolum: a throw with a casting-net, βόλος; then the thing caught, as βόλος ἰχθύων = "a draught of fishes" (Æsch. Persae, 424). Hence a "haul" in a metaphorical sense, "piece of luck," "choice morsel." tantum: with bolum. desubito: cf. Ilec. 518, 554 derepente.

675. possiet: on And. 234 (sic).

677. non potest: impers.; "it won't do." immo optume, "nay, capital!" euge: on And. 345. optumam: sc. rationem.

678. ad me: with retraham. tamen: on And. 94.

ACT III. SCENE 6. [IV. 3.]

Clinia has heard that Antiphila is the long-lost daughter of Chremes, and he enters the stage in a state of wild excitement and delight at the prospect of a speedy union with her, and of a reconciliation with his father, Menedemus. But Syrus curbs his ecstacy, and makes certain unwelcome suggestions which promise to retard his marriage.

681. frugalior: comparative of frugi; "more exemplary."

683. ex sententia tua, "according to your desire," "to your liking." For ex = "in accordance with", cf. 765; Ad. 371, 420; Ilec. 872; Phorm. 256; Plaut. Capt. 997 ex suis nirtutibus; and the expressions ex more, ex lege, ex tuis uerbis, ex usu suo, etc.

685. aeque commode, "quite so conveniently."

690. ne quid: sc. resciscat. amica: i. e. Bacchis. senex: i. e. Chremes.

692. fer me, "bear with me." Cf. Ilec. 610.

693. Cf. n. on And. 961. apti = adepti. sumo = consumo, "spend," "waste."

694. hoc . . . agis: on And. 186.
 702. quid ais: on And. 137. Clinia's astonishment is profound.
 703. illam: i. e. Antiphila. hanc: i. e. Bacchis.
 704. Said in bitter irony.
 706. recta uia on And. 600.
 707. ēs: thus often in Plaut. and Ter., but in the class. period regularly
 708. illum: i. e. Clitipho. satin: on And. 749.
 709. See App.
 709. hic, "here," i. e. on this plan. me ecfero, "I plume myself."
 711. ambos: this is not exact, for Menedemus will not be deceived, except through Chremes later on (849 ff.). quom, "although."
 712. istam: i. e. Bacchis. gnati: i. e. Clitipho.
 713. It is necessary to the realization of Clinia's hopes that Chremes should learn the truth regarding Bacchis.
 714. hanc: i. e. Bacchis. filiam: i. e. Antiphila.
 715. fors: on And. 957. See App. quid me fiat: on And. 143. illi:
 i. e. Clitipho.
 716. malum: on 318. aetatem, "for a life-time"; acc. of duration. Cf.
Hec. 747, Eun. 734. id adsimularier, "that this pretence be kept up," viz., that Bacchis belongs to Clinia. For the form see on And. 203.
 717. pax: on 291.
 718. tantum sat habes, "do you think that enough?" pater, "his father."
 719. quid . . . ruat, "what if the sky should fall?" The Gk. was $\tau\acute{\iota}$ $\epsilon\acute{\iota}$ οὐρανὸς ἐκπέσῃ. Such a contingency would be ruinous indeed, but is so unlikely that to take it into one's calculations is to be guilty of an absurdity.
 722. traducatur: i. e. from the house of Chremes to that of Menedemus.

ACT III. SCENE 7. [IV. 4.]

As Bacchis comes out of the house of Chremes, in conversation with her maid Phrygia, she gives expression to her impatience at the fact that Syrus has not yet obtained for her the ten minae which had been promised to her the day before. She threatens to leave him in the lurch by deserting Clitipho and transferring herself to the house of a certain soldier dwelling hard by. Syrus is alarmed, but by renewed assurances regarding the ten minae succeeds in inducing Bacchis to abandon her threat. He persuades her also to remove with her attendants to the house of Menedemus, and thus to further his designs on Chremes.

723. Syri promissa induxerunt = Syrus promissis induxit.

724. decem minas is explanatory of promissa, and has been attracted out of the nom. case into that of the rel. pron. (inverse attraction). Cf. Eun. 653. For the opposite idiom cf. n. on 87.

727. animi: locative (with pendebit). Cf. Ad. 610.

728. tergo poenas pendet: Syrus would get a flogging, and thus Bacchis would be avenged. pendet is said with a punning reference to pendebit.

729. scite: ironical; "neatly," "nicely." Clinia and Syrus have overheard the words of Bacchis, but she is not aware of it.

730. commouebo: on And. 864.

731. Said in a loud voice, that Clinia and Syrus may hear her.

732. Charini, "(as that) of Charinus." fundo: i. e. the farm of Chremes.

733. curriculo: abl. of manner, without an attribute; "at full speed." percorre, "cut across." miles: mentioned in 365. Dionysia: on 162.

734. quid inceptat, "what is she up to?" adseruari, "that I am kept under close watch."

735. uerba . . . daturam esse, "that I will give these fellows the slip." Cf. n. on And. 211.

736. măně, măně: on 613. Syrus is alarmed. istam, "that girl," i. e. Phrygia.

737. iubě: on And. 403. i: addressed to Phrygia.

738. atqui, "and in fact," is used in adding a thought confirmatory of a preceding one — here of est paratum. num ego insto, "am I pressing (for payment)?" at scin quid: sc. quid sit tibi faciendum.

741. quam inludas: on And. 758. temere: on 620.

742. Bacchis says, "have I business with you still in this matter?" For etiam, see Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii. p. 27. tuom: Syrus very subserviently replies that he is only giving back to her what is really her own. Upon this Bacchis consents to enter the house of Menedemus, and Clinia points out the way.

743. eatur, "let a start be made (then)," "let us go."

745. quae, etc.: i. e. the aurum and uestem of 248.

746. senex is Chremes, not Menedemus. The departure of the women will appear at first to be a gain, but in the end will cost Chremes more money, if Syrus succeeds in his little trick. harunc = harum + ce.

748. Note the oxymoron, and cf. Eun. 722. mutum: sc. me esse. The stage is now left empty, for Syrus goes with Dromo into the house of Chremes to bring over the retinue of Bacchis to the house of Menedemus. Clinia has entered his father's house for the first time since the play began.

ACT IV. SCENE 1. [IV. 5.]

Chremes, who still thinks that Bacchis is Clinia's mistress, is full of compassion for Menedemus, upon whom now so heavy a burden has been laid as the support of Bacchis and her numerous attendants. It is now that Syrus makes his master-stroke. In telling Chremes the truth about Bacchis and Clitipho he leads the old man to believe that Clinia has thus represented the case to Menedemus, in order to make it possible for him (Clinia) to ask the hand of Antiphila in marriage, and in order that, through the betrothal to himself of Chremes' daughter, he may obtain from his father a sum of money ostensibly to defray the expenses of the wedding. This money, however, would (presumably) be given by Clinia to Bacchis. But Chremes, as Syrus suspects, refuses to be a party to any such scheme. Syrus must play his tricks upon Menedemus without making Chremes in any way responsible for the consequences. Syrus thereupon suggests that Chremes should at least requite Bacchis for the loss of her attendant, Antiphila, and pay to her the ten minae for which Antiphila had been given to her as security by the anus Corinthia. See Syrus' story as related in 600 ff. To this arrangement Chremes at last agrees. He even sends the money by Clitipho in order to assist Clinia in keeping up his supposed pretence. Thus Chremes, in aiding, as he imagines, the deception of Menedemus, is himself the real dupe, and Syrus' success is complete.

749-750. Menedemi uicem miseret me, "I am sorry now (lit. "in my turn") for Menedemus." Chremes has had his turn at entertaining Bacchis, and can now well appreciate the situation in which Menedemus has just been placed. uicem is less common in this sense than in-nicem or inuicem. Cf. Liv. 1, 9, 15. Some editors regard uicem here as the acc. object of miseret me (= miseror), i. e. "I pity the lot (fate) of M." uicem may be an adv. acc., i. e. a preposition postpositive (= "on account of") with the gen. case.

751. See on And. 245. alere: on And. 870. Cf. Eun. 209, 644. familia: cf. Ad. 89, 910. The slaves are always included.

757. eccum: on And. 532.

759. "You appear already to have had some dealings or other with the old man," i. e. with Menedemus. This remark is evoked by the apparent eagerness of Syrus to see Chremes (757), as well as by the fact that Clinia and Bacchis have suddenly departed from Chremes' house and taken up their abode with Menedemus. Chremes fails as usual to hit the nail on the head.

760. de illo quod dudum. "(you mean) about that matter which a while ago (we were talking of)?" These words refer directly to 545, to which allusion was made also in 595-6. dictum factum reddidi, "I accomplished it at once", more lit., "I rendered it no sooner said than done." Cf. n. on And. 381. Syrus hints that he has worked some trick on Menedemus, but refrains from saying what the trick is.

763. ac iubens, "and that with pleasure." Cf. n. on And. 337 (ac); Ad. 887, 896.

764. scite: on 729. The full significance of Syrus' remark is not perceived by Chremes.

765. uah: on And. 589. ex sententia: on 683.

766. non hercle uero: sc. glorior; "there's no boasting about it, I assure you." uerum dico, "it's the truth I'm telling."

770. probe, "capital!" dic sodes: "say it (again), if you please." Syrus pretends not quite to have heard the word of approval. nimum, inquam, "it's too good, I say."

773. conplacitam: on And. 645.

774. cupere: sc. se. modone quae inuentast, "(do you mean) the girl who was recently discovered?"

775. posci, "that she be demanded in marriage." Cf. 846, f.

776. prorsum, "wholly," "absolutely"; hence (with nihil), "nothing at all."

778. qui: abl. of the means. The antec. is argentum (777). Cf. 855. See introductory note to this scene.

779. despondeo: on And. 102.

780. homini: the aposiopesis is noteworthy.

783. istaec tua, "those schemes of yours."

784. "Can I, possibly, betroth her to a man to whom I do not intend to give her (in marriage)?" The question indicates surprise and indignation. Cf. Phorm. 304, 955: Eun. 771. See on And. 263. -ne is not always found in such questions (cf. Phorm. 669, Ileaut. 1050)—which would seem to show that the particle in itself is non-interrog. (cf. Warren in A. J. P. II. 5).

786. hoc: object of copi. dudum: i. e. in 530-50.

787. eo, "on this account." istuc, "what you say."

788. aequi bonique facio, "I acquiesce in." The phrase aequi bonique is colloquial. It appears also in Ovid, Cicero's letters, and Livy. The case is locative, as in tanti, quanti and the like, and expresses price or valuation.

790-791. illud quod tibi dixi: i. e. in 600-6.

791. ista: i. e. Antiphila.

792. illi: i. e. Bacchis.

793. quid mea: on Eun. 849. datumst: sc. argentum.

794. illa: i. e. the anus Corinthia. Transl. "could she pledge my daughter without my consent?"

796. The proverb is given by Cicero (De Off. I. § 33) as follows: summum ius summa iniuria, with the comment, factum est iam tritum sermone proverbium.

797. haud faciam, "I'll not do that"; with a reference to illuc confugies, etc. (793). Hence the words are equivalent to "I'll pay the money." si licet: i. e. to make such excuses.

798. "Every body considers you to be in possession of a splendid and well improved property." See App.

799. deferam: sc. argentum.

802. magis ueri simile, "more natural."

803. The double meaning in this verse would be apparent to the audience, though not to Chremes. 804. ipse adeo: on And. 415.

ACT IV. SCENE 2. [IV. 6.]

While Chremes is in the house, getting the money, Clitipho returns from his walk, on which he had been sent at 589. He is still angry with Syrus, whose schemes have excluded him from the society of his mistress. But he is quickly appeased on hearing that the money for Baccis is at hand.

806. quam = sicam. uel, "for example." deambulatio: on Ad. 766.

807. quam: with dedit; "how it has reduced me to utter weariness, though (in itself) far from fatiguing."

808. denuo, "again," "a second time."

810. ut = utinam; see A. & G. 442. a. quantumst emphasizes omnes; "all, as many as exist," "all the gods and goddesses together."

811. perduint: on And. 666. The form was archaic even in Terence's time, and confined mostly to this curse.

812. comminiscere: pres. indic. 2nd sing.

813. ubi: for quibus (= ut eis) referring back to res. excarnufices, "torture"; a word made up here for effect. ibin: i. e. ibisne, "away!"

815. uellem . . . factum, "I would it had been so." Cf. n. on 82; Phorm. 787. meritu's = meritus es.

817. quod . . . fui, "which I was just now intending to give you," but no longer intend so to do.

818. adisti mihi manum, "you imposed upon me," "you made sport of me." adire manum is not unfrequently found in Plautus in the sense of "to deceive." Cf. Plaut. Aul. 376 (378) ita illis impuris omnibus adii manum, and Wagner's note.

825. deamo te: on 360.

826. caue, etc., "don't be at all surprised as to why this happens." admirátūs sis: for the scansion see Introd. §§ 92, 93.

827. obsecundato, "humour him." Cf. Ad. 994. in loco: on 537.

ACT IV. SCENE 3. [IV. 7.]

Chremes returns with the money, and hands it to the astonished Clitipho.

829. hic: adv., with ubi. eccum me: on And. 532.

830. pleraque omnia: on And. 55 (plerique omnes).

831. lapis: cf. Shaks. Jul. Cæs. 1. 1. 40: 'you blocks, you stones, you worse than senseless things.'

832. quin accipis: on And. 45. cedo sane, "let me have it, by all means." See on And. 150. ocius: on And. 724.

833. dum: on And. 329. opperibere: fut. indic. = an abrupt inv.

836. pro alimentis, "for her maintenance," "keep."

837. ornamentis: dative; "for her outfit," i. e. for clothes and ornaments.
alterae. sc. decem minae; "a second sum (of ten minae)."

838. haec: nom. pl. fem. (sc. viginti minae); subject of adposcunt.
 See on And. 328. dotis, "by way of dowry." Cf. with this appositional gen. the pred. dat. in 942. talenta duo: cf. 940; see on And. 101.

839. moribus, "in conformity with custom."

840. relictis rebus, "to the neglect of my business"; cf. And. 412.

841. aliquis: i. e. some one to whom he may give his daughter in marriage — a son-in-law.

ACT IV. SCENE 4. [IV. 8.]

Clinia has informed Menedemus that Bacchis is Clitipho's mistress, and that he himself desires to marry Antiphila. Menedemus comes out of his house, full of joy at his son's return and reformation. He asks Chremes to bestow his daughter upon Clinia. Chremes, however, tells Menedemus that he has been imposed upon. The latter is finally persuaded, but prefers to be duped rather than run the risk for the second time of losing his son.
 Accordingly Chremes complies with his request, and promises Antiphila in marriage.

842-843. Menedemus, as he comes out, turns and speaks to Clinia, who is within.

844. resipisse, "have recovered your senses." See on And. 698.

845. quod: on 416.

849. dictum: i. e. in 470-5 and 495-7.

850. ut, "how"; the cl. is a dependent question explanatory of quid; or else a final cl. depending on fallacia, that is, a trick put in operation that money may be obtained.

855. qui, "wherewith." Cf. 778. See on And. Prol. 6.

857. datum iri (sc. id) depends on scilicet; see on 358. Cf. 892-3.

861. illi: Terentian usage prefers the acc. of the person indulged; cf.
 988, Eun. 222.

862. inceptumst, "I have begun to do it." perpetuo, "to the end."

863. dic conuenisse: sc. me, "say that you met me." egisse te,
 "that you settled (with me)."

865. placere: sc. mihî. etiam is purely additory = "also," and goes with dicito in 866. See Kirk in A. J. P. xviii. p. 31. c. and pp. 36, 37.

866. quoque: with desponsam; "that she has even been betrothed."

868. ne tu propediem, "in good truth you, at an early date."

869. istius obsaturabere, "you'll have your fill of him." For the gen.
 cf. n. on 400.

872. quid . . . uoles: quid is adverbial; "if you shall want me at all."
sane uolo, "indeed I do want you," i. e. I shall want you; pres. for fut., as often. As the two old men enter their respective houses, the stage is left empty as at 748. Since the same two old men reappear as the sole interlocutors in the next scene, it follows that an interval of time must elapse before Act V. This interval probably was filled up by the tibicen; cf. Plaut. Pseud. 573 b, tibicen uos interea hic delectauerit.

ACT V. SCENE 1.

Menedemus has discovered, beyond possibility of doubt, that Bacchis is Clitipho's mistress, and he is now jubilant over the fact that Chremes is in reality a greater dupe than himself. Chremes appears and is reluctantly convinced of the truth. In consequence he becomes very angry, for which Menedemus rebukes him in terms similar to those which Chremes had once addressed to Menedemus. However, Chremes promises Antiphila to Clinia, and vows vengeance on Syrus — which he does not execute.

874. non tam, "not so very."

875. praemonstrator, "director."

877. dicta: substantive: "proverbial sayings," "epithets." caudex, "log." stipes, "stock." asinus: cf. Ad. 935. plumbeus, "dunder-head."

878. potest: sc. conuenire. Chremes' folly passes description.

879. As Chremes steps out of his house he turns and exhorts his wife to cease her endless thanksgiving to the gods. ohe, "enough!" Cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 5. 12 ohe iam satis est! obtundere: on And. 348.

882. illic i. e. in the house of Menedemus, where Syrus and Clitipho had gone, at vs. 833, to carry the money to Bacchis. cessat: Chremes thinks they should have returned ere this, considering the promise made in 834.

884. quae dixi, "my message," i. e. Chremes' consent to the marriage, which was not given in good faith because of Clinia's supposed intimacy with Bacchis. See 865.

885. adeo . . . quasi, "exactly as," "just as"; cf. Ad. 739 ita . . . quasi, and note.

887. figit: i. e. Syrus not only invents tricks, but fashions also the very looks of people: makes them appear glad, when they are not. scelus: on And. 317.

888-889. idem . . . mentem: ironical.

889. ueterator on And. 457. Syrus is "an old hand" at cunning of all sorts, and the fact is a source of great satisfaction to Chremes, so long as the slave's clever tricks are not played upon his master.

889-890. magis . . . esse, "you'd think that to be the fact still more, if you were more fully informed."

892. iniecisse . . . Dromonem depends on scilicet; cf. n. on 358, 856. uerba, "hints."

894. nil prorsum, "nothing of the sort," "not a bit of it."

895. magis unum etiam instare: sc. filium; "rather (I say) that the one point on which he did not cease to lay stress was." etiam is surely temporal here, not additory, though Kirk, in A. J. P. xviii. p. 29, seems to make it the latter.

897. qui, "inasmuch as you." Cf. n. on Ad. 197.

898-899. "But that same Syrus also has (so) skilfully moulded your son (i. e. shaped his conduct) that there cannot exist even a very slight suspicion that this woman is Clinia's mistress." Menedemus rubs it in. finxit is used with sly reference to uoltus fingit (887). The whole is very ironical.

899. paululum: used adv. with subolat, which is of the 3rd conjugation and a collateral form of subolco; cf. Phorm. 474.

900. quid agit: spoken aside.

901. uah, "bah!" Cf. n. on And. 589.

904. dictum factum: adverbial; "instantly"; see on And. 381.

907. quid ni: on And. 315.

909. familia, "property," "supplies," οὐσία = res familiaris. Chremes ironically exaggerates in order to show his thorough appreciation of Bacchis' character.

910. amico: i. e. Clinia. Menedemus continues to rub it in.

911. amicae: sc. operam dat; a grim jest on the part of Chremes, who is now convinced that Bacchis belongs to Clitipho, not to Clinia. si dat: sc. operam amicae. Menedemus pretends that he is not sure of the actual situation.

913. The aposiopesis has more force than any words. Cf. Eun. 479.

914. quo, "in order that." Menedemus is ironical, and greatly enjoys the situation.

916. "How many circumstances gave me an opportunity of detecting the truth."

918. inultum . . . ferent: on And. 610.

920. prae: on And. 825.

921. apud me: on And. 408 and 622. tene istuc loqui, "(to think) that you should say that!" i. e. you who have preached self-control to others.

923. foris: lit. "out of doors," i. e. "where your neighbours are concerned," "in all matters but your own."

924. fecisse parum, "had neglected to do"; cf. n. on 259 (minus obsequens).

925. Menedemus now gives back to Chremes the latter's own advice. See 153-156.

928. potius malo: on And. 427. Probably malo is parenthetical; its position (after abcat) supports this view. quouis gentium, "anywhere in the world": see on Ad. 540, Phorm. 1033.

930. illi: i. e. Clitipho. sumptibus: probably dat.; see Eun. 1076.

931. "For me matters will come that way to the mattock in actual fact"; i. e. I shall be obliged to go to digging for a livelihood. Cf. n. on 113; Phorm. 686.

933. ignosces: sc. ei, i. e. Clitipho.

934. et id ingratum, "and that without thanks (from him)." Cf. n. on 262.

938. Chremes' silence is due to a thought on which he is pondering and to which he gives expression in 940-943.

939. Menedemus mistakenly supposes that the amount of the dowry is troubling Chremes. si minus: sc. dixeris. minus = "less than is customary."

940. duo talenta: on 838. Cf. n. on And. 101.

941. ita, "as follows"; explained in 942. dictu: supine; rare as an abl. with opus est.

942. omniā: on 575. doti: on 838 (dotis). illi: i. e. to Antiphila.

943. illum: i. e. Clitipho.

944. uero, "in reality"; with a reference to simulato.

946. diffluit: the metaphor is from a river that overflows its banks. retundam, "repress." redigam: sc. eo; "reduce to such a pass." Cf. Eun. 690.

947. gerere mihi morem, "to please myself," "to have my own way." See on And. 641.

948. accersat: on And. 546. paret: sc. Clinia. Menedemus goes into his house to give Chremes' message to Clinia.

949. hic: i. e. Clitipho. liberos: antithetical to Syrus (950) who is not "free." est aequom: sc. confutari. dictis confutabitur, "shall be repressed with a scolding." Cf. Phorm. 477. confutare is lit., "to keep (boiling water) from running over," and here is suited to the metaphor already employed by Chremes in the word diffluit (946).

950. egone, "I for my part," "I in sooth"; see on And. 478, 245. exornatum dabo: on And. 683. For the meaning of exornatum here, cf. Ad. 176.

951. depexum, "combed down," "curried," hence "flogged." Cf. Plaut. Capt. 896 fusti pectito.

952. "Who thinks of me as a subject for his derision and as a source for his amusement."

953. uiduae mulieri, "an unprotected woman," i. e. a woman without a legal protector, whether husband or other male guardian; the reference is usually to the former, but uidua does not necessarily imply widowhood.

ACT V. SCENE 2.

Menedemus returns from his house in company with Clitipho and Syrus, who have just learned from him of Chremes' determination to disinherit his son. Chremes justifies himself, on the ground that he is acting for Clitipho's good. Syrus puts in a word of protest, but is snubbed for his pains.

955. de me: with animum patris; "the feelings of a father with regard to me."

957. hoc: i. e. Chremes' determination to disinherit his son.

958. quoi fit, "to whom it happens." haud minus: sc. quam tu. id: on 957 (hoc). id qui nescio, "though I do not understand it."

959. nec rationem capio, "nor grasp the reason for it." nisi quod, "only"; on And. 664.

960. eccum: at this point Menedemus retires.

961. huius: on 571. Cf. Eun. 202, 980. The full constr. would be quid- quid est huius quod feci.

962. omisso, "careless"; cf. Ad. 831. The opposite is attentus; cf. Ad. 834.

962-3. et suauius . . . habere, "and that you considered as of first importance the things that were agreeable at the moment." in praesentia: cf. Phorm. 779, Ilec. Prol. 24, Ad. 222.

963. neque, etc., "and that you took no thought for the morrow." Cf. And. 548.

964. haec: said with a gesture in the direction of his house; "my property here."

965. quoi decuit: sc. me dare. primo: in agreement with quoi. tibi . . . dare: sc. mea bona; "owing to your conduct I was deprived of the right to bestow my property upon you."

966. ad proximum, etc., "to the nearest relative you possessed." The mase. refers to Clinia, who was about to marry Clitipho's sister. See 942.

967. ibi = apud eum, i. e. at Clinia's house. tuae stultitiae: less blunt than tibi stulto.

968. quo: i. e. (locus) quo, "whither."

970. Said aside.

971. emori, "to die at once"; (with cupio) "would I were dead."

972. istoc: sc. consilio moriendi.

973. tuto: sc. loqui cupio.

974. huic: i. e. Clitipho. ilicet = ire licet, "you may go," "be off"; a formula of dismissal. In Phorm. 208 and Eun. 54, it connotes despair.

975. aram: the altar of a god was a place of refuge, where a slave might escape punishment temporarily. Cf. Plaut. Most. 1094 ego interim hanc aram occupabo. Cf. n. on And. 726.

976. precatorem, "an intercessor," upon whose representations to the master of a refractory slave punishment was remitted. Cf. Phorm. 140. pararis: contracted from paraueris; subj. of obligation or propriety, "you need find," "you are under obligation to find." See my article in P. A. P. A. vol. 32, p. lxxxvii. Perhaps the mood is prohibitive, nec = neue. Thus

Gray, and other editors. But this is regular only when nec (neque) carries onward a previous ne-clause — a principle at least implied by G. 260 (p. 172 at the top), and by A. & G. 450. Notes 3, 4, 5.

977. néc tibi nec tibi: the second iambic word is shortened in its final syl.; the first not so. This is determined by the verse-ictus. Cf. n. on 613. By the first tibi Syrus is meant, by the second Clitipho. uos: sc. suscensere. quod facio, "on account of what I am doing."

Chremes takes his departure, and then, in what is practically another (the 3rd) scene (though only two MSS. of importance, viz. D G, seem to indicate it, and these at 980) Syrus makes a suggestion to Clitipho, on which the latter acts without delay.

978. rogasse uellem, "would I had asked him."

979. esse: sc. cibum. ad = apud.

980. adeo: on 113. rediisse: on 931, 359. For the infin. see on And. 245. etiam: intensive; "even." See A. J. P. xviii. pp. 32–33.

981. modo = dummodo. nos esurituros satis, "that we shall be hungry enough." This sort of joke, known as παρὰ προσδοκίαν, or something said contrary to that which is expected, was characteristic of the merriment of slaves in comedy, and is common in Plautus. Clitipho imagined that Syrus was about to indicate some way out of the difficulty.

983. ibi: on 472.

984. aberit: sc. consilium; transl. "the scheme we want will prove to be not far distant." For the fut. cf. 668.

985. horum, "those people," i. e. Chremes and Sostrata.

986. in mentemst: probably an archaic use = in mente est, and not derived by analogy from in mentem uenit. Cf. n. on Ad. 528.

987. istis: i. e. those parents of yours. sola: sc. delectatio; see App delectatio: sc. fuit. The reference is to Antiphila.

988. te: on 861.

994. "Make inquiry of them with respect to your suspicion." For the acc. after quaero in this sense cf. Ad. 482.

996. quouis, "whose"; nom. of the adj. Clitipho enters the house. Of course Syrus does not believe Clitipho to be a foundling. But the suggestion may tend to soften Chremes' anger.

997–8. quam maxume . . . tam facillume: we should expect quo magis . . . eo facilius, for which quam . . . tam with the superlatives is a rare substitute, and occurs elsewhere in Ter. only in Ad. 501–503. Transl. "the more he shall find this fancy to be groundless, the more easily will he patch up peace with his father on his own terms."

999. etiam: additory. haud scio an: on And. 525.

1000. adhuc quod factumst, "as to what has been done (by me) thus far."

1001. "I wonder that he has not ordered me to be hurried off (to punishment)." See App. iusse = iussisse; see on Prol. 32.

ACT V. SCENE 3. [4.]

Clitipho has lost no time in letting his mother know that he is disinherited, and that he believes himself to be a foundling. Accordingly Sostrata remonstrates with her husband on his severity. Chremes replies sarcastically, and treats the matter more or less as a joke.

1003. tu homo : on And. 778.

1006. mulier expresses reproach.

1007. quin tu . . . fueris, "without your having been." Cf. 805, 1021; Ad. 294 and n.

1009. in qua re, etc. : these words do not depend on nescias, but refer rather loosely to what precedes nescias; "although in this matter you now so confidently withstand me." restas has the force of resistis; cf. Lucr. 1. 110 nunc ratio nulla est restandi, nulla facultas.

1010. redeat integra, "should be reiterated." Chremes admits his wife's claim to knowledge rather than discuss the question further with her. See App.

1014. subditum, "supposititious." "a changeling." sic erit, "so you will find it to be," with a refer. to suspiciatur, not subditum.

1015. confitere: imv.; "admit it," i. e. that he is a changeling. If confitere be taken as indic., au is without sense here. au: cf. n. on And. 751. istuc inimicis siet, "let that be for your enemies (to say)."

1017. metuis ne, etc. = noli metuere, etc.; i. e. no fear of your failing to prove him to be your own son—he is too like you.

1018. quod filias inuenta, "(do you mean that I can easily prove that he is my son) because I have been so skilful in finding my daughter?" i. e. because I have accepted such slight evidence—only a ring—as proof of my daughter's identity?

1019. moribus : abl. of specification.

1020. tui similis probe, "he is exactly like yourself."

1021. quin, etc. : on 1007.

1023. quam seuerus, "how grave (proper) he looks." rem . . . censeas, "if one should look at the truth of the matter (i. e. the truth about his conduct with Bacchis), one would (indeed) think him proper"; very sarcastic. quam = si, nearly.

ACT V. SCENE 4. [5.]

Clitipho appeals to his mother to know who are his real parents. His doubts are set at rest, but his past conduct is severely reproved by his father, who succeeds in arousing in him a sincere desire to repent.

1025. uostra uoluntate, "by your joint consent." nostra includes Chremes, while tuos refers only to Sostrata.

1026. eius : sc. temporis.

1027. quod, etc., "with regard to what I demand or (at least) with regard to what I wish"; explained by the following ut-cl. uolo is weaker than peto; the latter might imply that he had some claim.

1029. alienum, "a stranger (to our blood)," "a child of other parents," ἀλλότριον.

1030. ita . . . ut, "so surely . . . as." Sostrata gives to Clitipho the most emphatic assurance of which she is capable. sis: optative subj.

1032. mores istos, "such behaviour."

1033. quos: sc. mores. Clitipho's unwillingness to acknowledge himself in the wrong reasserts itself. Cf. 563.

1033-4. gerro, etc., "a trifter, idler, cheat, glutton, rake, prodigal, art thou: realize all that, and then believe (if thou canst) that thou art our son": i. e. no roué, such as thou art, can be our son. See App. ganeo's = ganeo es.

1035. Clitipho hints that Chremes could not speak in such terms to his own son. To this Chremes replies that he would not permit Clitipho to disgrace him, even though he himself had given birth to his son (in the only manner conceivable, viz., as Jupiter gave birth to Minerva).

1038. deos nescio: on 396. quod potero: on 416. sedulo: sc. prohibebo. Transl. "I shall do my best."

1039. abest: on And. 848.

1040. ut, "how." labore inuenerit: cf. 841.

1041. Chremes omits probably scortum puduit, the first of these two words being that to which he alludes in uerbum turpe (1042). fallacias: i. e. the "trick" whereby Bacchis was introduced into Chremes' house (ante mihi oculos), in the character of Clinia's mistress.

1042. hac praesente, "in the presence of this lady."

1043. totus, "wholly"; cf. Ad. 589 and n.

1044. ad placandum: sc. eum, i. e. patrem.

ACT V. SCENE 5. [6.]

Menedemus comes out of his house to intercede for Clitipho. Chremes agrees to pardon his son if he will abandon Bacchis and take a wife—a condition to which Clitipho at first demurs, but finally consents. Syrus also is forgiven.

In this last scene the positions of the two old men are completely reversed. As in the first scene Chremes gave advice to Menedemus regarding Clinia, so in this Menedemus becomes the mentor, and interposes on behalf of Clitipho.

1045. Cf. 99–112. Menedemus fears that Chremes is making the same mistake with regard to Clitipho, as that which he (Menedemus) had made in reference to Clinia.

1046. ut pacem conciliem, "to bring about a reconciliation."

1048. quod dotis: cf. 937; n. on 838. dixi: i. e. in 942. firmas, "ratify."

1050. exorent: on And. 167. mea bona ut dem, etc., depends in thought on exorent. Another view is indicated in n. on 784. The latter is preferable if egon be retained (with Fleckeisen), and possible even if it is not; as "what, I hand over my property to Bacchis as a gift, and that knowingly?" For sciens, cf. n. on Ad. 711.

1052. ne . . . te, "be not so obstinate." For tam, cf. Ad. 278.

1053. quid istic: on And. 572. Chremes consents.

1054. facis, ut te decet expresses gratitude rather than praise, like bene facis (Ad. 601, 945, 970), and benigne dicis (Phorm. 1051). Cf. n. on 360, and Eun. 186. ea lege, "on this condition." Cf. n. on And. 200.

1055. hunc: sc. facere.

1056. ducas: sc. impero. ad me recipio, "I take it upon myself," i. e. I engage that he shall do as you say. recipio is used in this sense in Phorm. 903, but without ad (in) me.

1057. etiam, "yet." See on And. 116. ipsum: i. e. Clitipho. Chremes wants assurance from the young man.

1058. immo utrum uolt, "nay whichever of the two he prefers," that let him choose; i. e. let him either abandon Bacchis and take a wife, or submit to the penalty of disinheritance.

1058–9. dum, "while." The subj. is iterative. See G. 572. R. 1, and esp. 567. Note.

1061. Phanocratae: gen., from nom. Phanocrates.

1062. caesiam: used only of the eyes: lit. "cutting," "sharp," like the eyes of a cat, with which the word was associated. Hence, "cat-eyed." If the derivation from caelum (caeruleus) be accepted, the word may refer to the colour (bluish gray) of a cat's eyes; hence, "gray-eyed." This is in keeping with Aulus Gellius (ii. 26. 19). The word occurs only once again in Ter., viz., Ilec. 440. sparso, "freckled." adunco, "turned up"; cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 6. 5.

1063. elegans, "nice," "fastidious"; cf. Eun. 566. ibi esse: cf. n. on 472. Transl. "one would suppose he had actually given thought to the matter."

1065. Archonidi: cf. App. on And. 368, and n. huius, "of our neighbour."

1067. Cantor: on And. 981. The best MSS. here read ω.

Note that virtue, represented by Clinia and Antiphila, is rewarded, and that vice, depicted in the conduct of Clitipho and Bacchis, is not allowed to prevail. Bacchis, it is presumed, is abandoned to her own devices, as an incorrigible. Clitipho turns over a new leaf, and is permitted to choose his wife. The characters of the two old men are well contrasted, and in them the main interest of the play may be said to rest.

APPENDIX TO NOTES ON THE HEAUTON TIMORUMENOS

6. Of this vs., which he brackets, Dz. (Adu. Crit.) says, grammaticorum sapientiam redoluit.

129. slnt: the subj. is needed, although sunt is the reading of all good MSS.

169. tempust: supported by the Scholiast in A: tempus supra horam significat. Cf. Ilec. 597, tempust me concedere.

174. Wanting in A and regarded as spurious by Umpf., Wag., Dz.

192. crederes: the MSS. reading crederest = "it is possible to believe," (est = ἔστι; see Goodwin, 144. 5. and G. 422. Note 4. fin.), should be allowed to stand here, I think.

232. The MSS. reading, concurrunt multae opiniones quae mihi animum exaugeant, is defended by West, and rendered "so many suspicions conspire to torment my mind: — there 's her opportunities, the place, her youth, etc." But opinionēs is not readily forced into the sense thus imparted to it, except in places outside of Terence, and animum exaugeant applies only to expressions of joy. Hence Bentley rewrote the line and is followed closely by Tyrrell. See footnote. Fleck. has concurrunt multa eam opinionem quae mihi animo exaugeant.

289. Fleck. (1857) reads, nulla mala re esse expositam muliebri, for which there is good MSS. support, and assumes, with Dietsch, that a lacuna exists between this and the next verse.

353. te is not without MSS. support, and is retained by Fleckeisen.

379. salutare: as hiatus is permitted at a change of speakers, there can be no objection to salutem, the reading of A; see footnote.

408. exoptatam: Fleck. reads exoptata animo meo.

484-5. Suspected by Bentley as foreign to the general sense of the context, though resting on good MSS. authority, including that of A. The vss. read like an explanatory note.

502. adsum avoids a union of dactyl and anapaest.

511. Engelbrecht (Studia Terent., p. 44. 3 ff.) proposes congruisse in place of congruere illi, the pronoun being a former conjecture of his own. Fleck. introduces ut before ne, and adheres to the MSS.

515. adulescentis, see Brix. on Plaut. Trin. 359, and Engelbrecht, Studia Terent., p. 14. Fleck. happily follows Bentley in reading Cliniai.

570. amantis: so most editors. MSS. amantium animum, which makes it necessary to understand aduortunt in the sense of animum aduortunt; for this there is no warrant in either Plautus or Terence.

601. drachumarum: MSS. drachmarum and dragmarum; but see Lindsay, Lat. Lang. p. 145.

645. The text is very uncertain. Dz. (with Umpf.) adheres closely to the MSS., but is obliged to insert eo sis for the sake of quanto, and to reject natu. But Fleck., though bold in his departure from the received reading, has made the vs. easy: quando tuos est animus, mi uir, natura ignoscentior, "in as much as, my dear husband, your mind is naturally inclined to leniency." Thus the omission of natu grauior is at least a relief, on account of the difficulty of applying to animus an expression belonging properly to persons.

708. Regarded as genuine by Fleck., who correctly places an interrogation point after tuto.

715. fors: Guyet followed by Bentley, Umpf., Dz., Fleck., for MSS. fortasse. Cf. App. on And. 957. See Dz., Adn. Crit. Tyrrell seems to be in error in writing forsitan in his foot-note, instead of fortasse.

798. The reading of the MSS. is both obscure and unmetrical. That of the text is supported by Hor. Epist. 1. 16. 68, 1. 20. 20; Sat. 1. 4. 32.

987. sola: see footnote. Umpf., Dz., Fleck. read solus — rightly. For the elision of final s see A. & G. 629. a; Introd. § 92.

1001. abripi is a judicious emendation from adripi, that is, arripi which the MSS. (not A) exhibit.

1010. The common reading is de integro, and thus Umpf.; cf. 674, And. Prol. 26.

1034. Dz. reads ganeo, Fleck. ganeo's. Cf. footnote.

EUNUCHUS

DIDASCALIA

See Dz. in Rh. Mus. 20, 573 f. and 21, 65 ff. Cf. notes on didascaliae to the And. and Heaut.

6. facta tertia: i. e. third in order of production. See Dz. in Rh. Mus. 39, 345. See also John C. Watson, T. A. P. A. vol. xxxvi, p. 152.

PERIOCHA

6. ut concederet: i. e. to give up two days of Thais' society to Thraso.

8. deperiret, "was dying of love for."

12. uitiatam: cf. Ad., Per. 12. n.

PROLOGUS

3. poeta: on And. Prol. 1. nomen profitetur suum, "professes himself (to be)," "declares himself."

7. bene, "literally." male: i. e. in bad Latin, because too closely translated from the Greek.

8. The reference is to Luscius Lanuvinus. See on And. Prol. 7. bonis: scan bonīs.

9. Phasma: φάσμα, "Apparition." An outline of this play of Menander is given by Donatus (Wessner, vol. i. p. 272).

10. Thensauero: the plot of this play is given by Don. (Wessner, vol. i. p. 273). It differed considerably from that of the Phasma, yet Ter. seems plainly to indicate here that the Thensaurus was an adaptation of the Phasma, though a poor one (perdidit). Ter. is criticizing Luscius for representing the defendant in a law-suit as opening the case, instead of the plaintiff. There was a play of this name, written by Philemon, and imitated in the Trinummus of Plautus. causam dicere: sc. eum. Transl. "has represented him from whom the gold is demanded as pleading his cause."

11. prius: with quam (12). unde = ex quo; i. e. the defendant. petitur: sc. aurum. aurum qua re sit suum: indirect question, in apposition with causam.

12. illic qui petit: i. e. the plaintiff. With illic understand dicat or dixerit, of which unde is sit, etc., is the object. Transl. "before he who demands (the gold) declares from what source this treasure is his, or whence it has come to be in his father's tomb."

14. ipse: i. e. Luscius Lanuvinus.

15. defunctus iam sum, "I have now made an end of the matter," i. e.

I have brought his abuse (sc. maledicto Terenti) to an end now; the danger is past. Cf. Phorm. 1021, Ad. 508. dicat: sc. Terence, who replies that he has other matters that he can bring up against Lanuvinus if the latter does not cease his attacks. See 17-19.

17. quae . . . condonabitur: the pron. is acc. pl. neut. Transl. "which for the present he shall be forgiven." For this verb in the act. voice with two accusatives cf. Phorm. 947.

20. emèrunt: for the ē see Munro on Lucr. i. 406. The license occurs also in Vergil and other authors.

21. inspiciundi means, probably, that Lanuvinus sought and secured an opportunity to witness one of the rehearsals of the play before the aediles. There and then he accused Terence of plagiarism.

22. magistratus: though the noun is in the sing., yet it refers to the aediles as a body.

23. furem: i. e. a plagiarist.

24. nil dedisse uerborum, "had not imposed upon us", lit. "had given us no words." There is a play on the two expressions dare fabulam (from fari, "to speak"), and dare uerba which, according to Donatus (Wessner, vol. i. p. 275), 'decipere est eum qui cum rem expectet nihil inueniet praeter uerba.'

25. Naeui et Plauti: i. e. the Colax of Naeuius was revised and brought out by Plautus. Thus Ritschl in Parerg. i. 99 ff. See Ribbeck, Com. Lat. Rel. p. 9.

28. non quo, "not that." Fleck. has non qui (after some MSS.), which is the same thing. Euphrasius had non quod.

34. Latinas: sc. fabulas.

35. huic: i. e. Terence.

38. See App.

39. puerum supponi depends on facere (37). For facere = "represent," with acc. + infin., see G. 527. R. 2. The expression denotes the substitution of one child for another, or the ascription of a child to a false parentage.

40. The infinitives depend on facere (37), and are equivalent to substantives.

41. The poet sums up with the remark that there is nothing new under the sun.

42. cognoscere: on And. Prol. 24.

43. factitarunt: frequentative; "have done again and again." faciunt, "do (once)." noui, "the poets of the new school," among whom Terence includes himself. ueteres were those of the old school, among whom would be reckoned Naeuius and Plautus and even Lucius Lanuvinus.

44. cum silentio suggests faute (And. Prol. 24), where see n. The importance of this exhortation may be more fully appreciated after a perusal of the prologue to the Heqyra, and of that prefixed to the Poenulus of Plautus. Cf. Plaut. Trin. 22 adeste cum silentio.

45. "That you may reach a thorough comprehension of the meaning of the Eunuchus."

ACT I. SCENE 1

Phaedria is at a loss to determine how he shall deal with Thais, whose fickle conduct causes him much perplexity. Parmeno gives him sage advice. A brief outline of this scene is to be found in Horace, Sat. 2. 3. 259-271. Persius also has imitated the scene (Sat. 5. 161-175), but appears to have gone to the Gk. original, rather than to Terence's adaptation of it, for his example of 'love or liaison.'

46. Persius has Quidnam igitur faciam? nec nunc, cum arcessor [arcessat, Jahn followed by Gildersleeve] et ultro Supplicet, accedam? which Conington renders "What am I to do? not to go to her even when I am sent for, and she goes out of her way to beg me!"

47. quom accersor ultro = quom illa me ultro accersit.

48. perpeti: a loose constr. for ut with subj. Cf. 240, Hee. 68.

50. prius. "better." fortius: on And. 445.

54. ferre: sc. amorem. ilicet: on Heaut. 974.

55. eludet. "she'll make game of you." eludere was said of gladiators, and meant "to parry a blow," then "to deceive," "jeer at," "mock," etc. 59-61. Cf. n. on And. 555; Plaut. Merc. 18-36; Hor. Sat. 2. 3. 265-271.

64. quod: on And. 395. tecum cogitas: on. Ad. 500.

65-6. "What! I (visit) her, who (preferred) him, who (expelled) me, who would not (admit me yesterday)! just let me alone (for that), I'll die first." The ellipses express profound indignation. For modo cf. Phorm. 420, 496.

66. qui uir. "what sort of man."

67. una falsa lacrimula. "with a single, false little-tear."

68. misere: with terendo.

69. ultro: i. e. without waiting for you to chide her first.

69-70. dabis . . . supplicium: i. e. you will suffer at her hands, as though you and not she were to blame (ultro).

74. nisi ut, "except that," "unless"; see G. 591. h. R. 3. redimas, "ransom." captum, "(as one) captured (in war)"; cf. And. 82.

77-8. neque . . . addas, et . . . feras: subj. of obligation or propriety; "you should refrain from adding burdens to those which love in itself possesses for you, and those which are inseparable from the situation you should bear with fortitude." See my article in P. A. P. A. vol. 32, Special Session, p. vii. The subj. in this passage is more commonly regarded as prohibitive; see Bennett, Cornell Studies, no. ix. p. 4. But cf. Elmer on The Latin Prohibitive, A. J. P. vol. xv, pp. 302-303.

79. eccam: on And. 532. nostri fundi calamitas: a figure taken from agriculture; "the blight of our estate." Thais is so called by Parmeno because she absorbs his master's fortune.

80. "For what we ought to receive she intercepts." capere: used often of receiving rents or produce from an estate; cf. Phorm. 790.

ACT I. SCENE 2.

Thais laments that she is misunderstood by Phaedria. She explains to him that her apparent indifference is due to her anxiety to get possession of the girl whom Thraso has promised her, and whom she believes to be an Attic citizen. By keeping Thraso's friendship she may succeed in restoring the girl to her family. She entreats Phaedria to aid her in her plan by withdrawing himself to the country for a couple of days. At first Phaedria is suspicious, but at last he consents, and takes himself off in company with his slave, Parmeno.

82. alioisum . . . feci, "otherwise than (as) I intended."

88. de exclusione, etc.: said aside to Phaedria.

89. Phaedria speaks ironically; "oh of course, because," etc. haec: on And. 328. semper: emphatic.

90. missa istaec face: on And. 680.

91-2. utinam . . . tecum, "would I had as much of your love as you have of mine." For aequa tecum cf. Phorm. 1032-1033.

98. prae: on And. 825.

99. sicine agis, "is it thus you act?" Intended as a rebuke to Parmeno. Cf. Ad. 128. age expresses reproach, as Donatus says.

100. te: i. e. Phaedria.

101. potin: on And. 437.

112. signa, "tokens," such as might lead to her identification.

113. neque . . . etiam, "nor yet." potis: neut. See App.

115. unde = a quibus, cf. n. on Prol. 11.

117. See App.

118. Cf. the case of Glycerium in the Andria; she also was believed to be soror meretricis; see And. 124.

120. omnia: i. e. property.

121. ecfluet: the metaphor of rimarum and perfluo (105) is continued.

123. hic: i. e. Phaedria.

126. interea loci = interea, as in Heaut. 257.

128. ut, "how."

130. hoc agite, "listen (attend) to this" Cf. Phorm. 350, 435. amabo: on Heaut. 404.

132. esse: see App.

133. fidibus scire: sc. canere; cf. Cic., De Sen. 8. 26 discebant enim fidibus antiqui.

134. producit, uendit: cf. Heaut. 144. forte fortuna, "by great good luck." Fors Fortuna was a goddess whose name was used in connection with an extraordinary piece of good luck. She is to be distinguished, says Donatus, from the goddess Fortuna. Cf. Phorm. 841, Ilec. 386.

135. hic meus amicus: i. e. the miles of 125.

143. ad uirginem animum adiecit, "has taken a fancy to the girl." etiamne amplius: on Heaut. 132. On the meaning of amplius, cf. And. 325.

148. neque . . . cognatum distributes neminem (147).

151-2. priores partis habere, "to play the principal part"; a metaphor from the stage. Cf. Phorm. 835, Ad. 880.

153. cum istis factis, "with this conduct of yours." This use of cum in expressions of indignation is colloquial; cf. And. 941 and n.

154. perdoluit: sc. tibi. Transl. "she has galled you at last."

158. huc: explained in the next line.

161. illum talem, "so fine a fellow as that"; talem is ironical.

163. numcubi = numquid alicubi; Don.

164. in te claudier: on And. 573. Transl. "have you ever perceived that my liberality was checked at all in your case?"

166. relictis rebus: cf. Heaut. 840 and n.

169. pro ambobus: i. e. for each of the two, since it appears from vs. 984 that Phaedria gave twenty minae for the eunuch alone.

171. quid istic: on And. 572.

172. hac re: i. e. by your complying with my request (151-152).

174. habeam: for the mood see on And. 798.

178. quam cito: on And. 136.

182. concedas: see on And. 313 fin.

184. 'aut' nil moror, "I have naught to do with 'or.'" For nil moror ("I do not delay," and so "I do not care about") with a direct object, cf. Plaut. Trin. 297 nil ego istos moror faecios mores, and Hor. Epist. 1. 15 16 uina nihil moror illius orae.

186. merito te amo: cf. Heaut. 360. n. bene facis, "you're very kind." Don. here says, 'non iudicantis esse sed gratias agentis.' Hence "quite right" would be an incorrect rendering. Cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 4. 17 di bene fecerunt; n. on Heaut. 1054.

188. See App. mos gerundust Thaidi, "Thais must be humoured"; cf. Ad. 218, 431 and notes.

189. illi: the eunuch and the Ethiopian slave purchased by Phaedria for Thais; see 165 ff. maxume: on And. 818.

190. mea: see App.

191 num quid uis aliud, "you don't want anything else, do you?" A conventional form of leave-taking, of which the fuller and more exact phraseology is given in Ad. 247, "you don't want anything, do you, before I go away." For variations upon this cf. 213 and 363 below; Phorm. 151, 458, 563; Heaut. 272; Ad. 432; Plant. Trin. 192 numquid uis? The last is the most common form. It is called by Donatus formula abeundi, and was used to avoid the appearance of abruptness or discourtesy. Hence it is said, half in irony, by Horace, Sat. 1. 9. 6. In spite of its conventionality, however, the expression is sometimes felt also in its true and literal signification, as e. g. here, where the long ut-clause follows by way of reply.

192. praesens: i. e. in body; absens: i. e. in mind.

196. meus . . . animus, "lastly, be my very life (soul)."

202. quidquid huius: cf. 980, 1070; Heaut. 961. huius is partitive genitive (= huius rei).

205. constituit, "has made an appointment." Cf. Heaut. 195; Juvenal, 3. 12 hic, ubi nocturnae Numi constituebat amicae.

206. dum uenit: the present used in anticipation of the future; lit. "all the time that he is coming," i. e. "until he comes." The constr. is archaic and colloquial. See G. 228 and Note 1.

ACT II. SCENE 1.

Phaedria urges Parmeno to make haste in delivering his presents to Thais, and to do his utmost to injure Thraso in her opinion. He then discusses with Parmeno the chances of his being able to remain away from Thais for the time stipulated. After Phaedria's departure Parmeno sees the parasite Gnatho approaching in company with the girl whom Thraso had promised to give to Thais. The scene is to some extent a repetition of that which has been said once—a fact noted contemptuously by Donatus.

207. isti: i. e. the ancillula and the eunuchus (166 and 167).

209. rogitare: on And. 870 (capere) and 245. Cf. Heaut. 751, Eun. 644.

211. hoc: i. e. the fact of your making this present to Thais. peribit: i. e. is thrown away. Cf. Ad. 743, Heaut. 486. pereo: a play on the word. quod . . . carius, "a thing that is of more consequence to me," i. e. than the loss of the present itself.

212. iniquo animo refers to Parmeno's remark (210-211). qui, "in some way." effectum dabo: on And. 683 (inuentum dabo). See App.

213. See on 191.

214. quod poteris: on Heaut. 416 and And. 454.

216. nullus: more emphatic than non. Cf. n. on And. 599.

217-8. posse me affirmare et perpeti: the pronoun is governed by affirmare, while the two infinitives present an instance of hendiadys; "do you think that I can be strong (in my resolution) and endure to the end (of the allotted period)?" That is, "do you think that I can continue throughout to be immovable (in my resolution)?" For me affirmare cf. n. on Heaut. 1052, Hec. 454.

218. ne redeam depends rather on me affirmare than on perpeti.

220. ingratiis, "in spite of myself"; cf. n. on Heaut. 446.

221. hoc plus facies, "by just this much the more you'll do (what I said)," i. e. come posting back; see 219.

222. me indulgeo; on Heaut. 861.

223. illam: the acc. with careo is archaic. hui: on And. 474.

224. uniuorsum: synonymous with totum, but stronger (cf. 'whole' and 'entire'). The two are colloquially united for emphasis in Plaut. Trin. 171 gregem uniuorsum uoluit totum auortere. Parmeno is ironical, but Phaedria seems to take him seriously. stat sententia, "I am resolved"; said with a tragic air. Livy adds the complementary infin. (xxi. 30.): Hannibal, postquam ipsi sententia stetit pergere ire atque Italiam petere, etc.

226. fuit: i. e. before he fell in love.

227. quisquam: sc. non from previous nemo.

229. milltis: i. e. Thraso. huic: i. e. Thais.

230. honesta: on And. 123. mirum ni: on And. 598. me turpiter dabo, "I shall make a poor showing."

231. haec: i. e. the uirgo.

ACT II. SCENE 2.

The parasite, Gnatho, approaches, leading the girl who is to be a present to Thais from Thraso. He gives the spectators a glowing description of his success at his profession, and then rallies Parmeno on Phaedria's (supposed) ill-luck with his mistress. Parmeno hints that the tables may be turned in a day or two.

232. quid, "how much." intellegens, "a wise man," "a clever fellow."

233. interest: constructed pers., as in Ad. 76. stulto (232) is dative. hac re: explained by what follows.

234. hinc, "of this place," i. e. of Athens. mei loci atque ordinis, "of my own rank and condition in life." locus and ordo are synonymous here.

235. itidem: i. e. "like myself." abligurrierat, "had squandered (in eating and drinking)."

236. sentum, "ragged", lit. "bristly." pannis annisque obsitum, "covered with patches and years"; lit. "sown (planted) with." Cf. Heaut. 294. n.

237. ornati, "garb," "get up." See on And. 365. quoniam, etc.: the reply of the homo sentus, etc.

239. hic, "hereupon."

242. nitor: cf. Hor. Epist. 1. 4. 15 me pinguem et nitidum bene curata cute uises.

243. Oxymoron; cf. 'as having nothing, and yet possessing all things' (2 Cor. vi. 10). Gnatho has rich friends. Hence nil deficit, "nothing is wanting"; cf. Ilec. 768. For the indic. after quom (adversative) cf. n. on Phorm. Prol. 23.

244. ridiculus, "buffoon," "jester," as in Plaut. Capt. 477 neque ridiculos iam terrunci faciunt. plagas pati: cf. Plaut. Capt. 88 nisi qui colaphos perpeti potest parasitus frangique aulus in caput. This was the old-fashioned view of the parasite's profession, to which Gnatho now takes exception. Cf. also l. c. 472 plagipatidas, etc.; said of parasites.

246. quondam emphasizes olim.

249. hisce: nom. pl. me: with rideant (= "laugh at my jokes") rather than with paro. Cf. Plaut. Capt. 481 neque me rident.

252. negat quis: that si has been omitted is suggested by the use of quis for aliquis. See Fay in Class. Rev. vol. xii, p. 297. This vs. is quoted by Cicero (Lacl. 25. 93).

253. adsentari: on And. 842 (esse).

257. Quoted by Cicero (Off. I. 42. 150).

258. profueram goes with re salua; prosum with perdita (sc. re).

259. aduentum: substantive; cf. Plaut. Capt. 502 gratulanturque eam rem.

261. uictum quaerere: sc. me; "that I gain a living."

262. sectari iussi, "I bid him follow me," "I bid him be my pupil."

263. potis est: impers. Cf. n. on And. 437. disciplinae, "schools," "sects." ipsis: sc. philosophis.

264. uocabula, "names." Gnathonici: i. e. Gnathonics, or followers of Gnatho (Γνᾶθων = "Puff-Cheek," "Full-Mouth"); a new school of parasites. Though Gnatho may be compared with Ergasilus in the Captivi of Plautus, yet his methods are supposed to be somewhat different. Ergasilus belonged to the old school.

265. facit: the verse-accent causes the natural long quantity of the final syl. to be retained. See Introd. § 91.

267. See App.

268. rest = res est. ni mirum: on 508. hisce: on 249. The refer. is to Phaedria and Parmeno. frigent, "are coldly received," "are not in favour." Cf. Hor. Sat. 2. 1. 62 ne quis amicus frigore te feriat.

269. nebulonem: much like "knave" in Shakespeare. hisce: i. e. Thraso and his party, including Gnatho himself.

270-1. plurima salute inperitit: a very strong expression = "greet," "wishes health to."

271. sumum suum: on And. 970. statur: the impers. pass. lays stress on the act of "standing," and is in keeping with the unfriendly tone of the rejoinder. Cf. Plant. Pseud. 457 Simo: salve. quid agitur? Pseud.: statur hic ad hunc modum. Parmeno takes Gnatho's question in the sense of "what are you about?"

273. qui dum, "how so?" "what makes you ask?" So πῶς; colloquial English "how?" "beg pardon?"

274. mancupium, "slave"; only here and in 364. uro, "sting." ut falsus animist: said aside; "how mistaken is he in his ideas." Cf. n. on And. 647, Heaut. 727.

275-6. hoc, etc., "it is this you mean now, that we have been thrust out from here." heus: on And. 635.

277. quietum, "at your ease," "at rest."

279. papae (παπαί): an interjection = "wonderful!" Here it is ironical. sic soleo: sc. beare. See on Ad. 923.

281. operae, "assistance"; partitive gen. with pauculum.

282. nunc: emphatic. It is implied that at a later day the situation will have changed. quia istam ducis: said aside.

283. Gnatho insinuates that Parmeno would not be permitted to enter the house himself, but might like to have Gnatho send out to him any one whom he may wish to see. sine biduom, etc.: Parmeno is alone on the stage.

285. faxo . . . insultabis: cf. n. on And. 854, and my 'Note on Faxo, etc.' in P. A. P. A. vol. xi, p. vii. Cf. n. on Ad. 209. frustra: emphatic.

286. Gnatho returns from the house of Thais, having left the maiden behind him, and finds Parmeno still standing before the door.

287. internuntius: on Heaut. 299.

288. mira uero, etc., "they are fine sayings, in fact, that (are of a nature to) please a captain." Parmeno facetiously congratulates Gnatho on his wit, which must be of a high order to please his patron, Thraso. Gnatho leaves the stage.

290. custos publice: a species of patrolman, whose business it was to assist in guarding the frontier. The post was assigned to young men, ἐφηβοί, about 18 years of age. Chaerea was such an ἐφηβος (see 824, and Knapp in Class. Phil. vol. ii, p. 14), and on duty at the Piraeus.

291. non temerest: on Heaut. 620.

ACT II. SCENE 3.

Chaerea, the brother of Phacdria, rushes upon the stage, in a state of great excitement. He has seen a girl in the street, with whom he has fallen violently in love. While he was following her, a friend of his father's stopped him, and detained him some time in conversation. Meanwhile the girl disappeared. Chaerea asks Parmeno to find her for him. The slave recognizes Chaerea's description of the girl, and tells him that she has just been taken by Gnatho into the house of Thais. As the courtesan is not among Chaerea's acquaintances, the young man sees no way of approach to the object of his admiration. Parmeno jokingly (378) suggests that Chaerea enter the house in the guise of the eunuch whom Phaedria intends to present as a gift to Thais. Chaerea jumps at the idea, and although Parmeno, now much alarmed, sees difficulty and danger in the undertaking, he is persuaded by the youth to carry it out.

297. alterum: i. e. the other brother (Chaerea) in a like predicament — in love.

298. senem: the father of Phaedria and Chaerea.

299. hic: i. e. Chaerea. qui si occeperit: lit. "if who once begins," i. e. "after whose beginning." qui (i. e. Chaerea) is subject of occeperit, not of dicet (300).

300. dicet: sc. senex. See App. illum alterum: i. e. Phaedria.

301. praeut, "when compared with." huius: i. e. Chaerea. quae: neut. pl. acc. dabit, "will do," "will accomplish."

302. ut: on Ileaut. 810. senium . . . qui: on And. 607.

311. sis = si uis; cf. n. on Ileaut. 369.

312. See App. neruos, "energies."

314. uincto, "cramped," "corseted," by means of the ξώνιον or στρόφιον, Roman mamillare = "breast-cloth." gracilae, "slender."

315. habitiior, "too plump," qui ait trop d'embonpoint (Madame Dacier). Cf. 242. pugilem, "prize-fighter."

316. "Though she have a good constitution, they render her (slight as) a rush by their treatment."

317. itaque ergo amantur, "and for that very reason they are admired"; not ironical, as Donatus says, but descriptive of what, in Chaerea's estimation, is a degenerate taste. noua figura oris, "a cast of countenance (wholly) novel."

318. uerus, "genuine," "natural," indicates an entire absence of rouge (cerussa), or other cosmetic, often used to heighten the complexion; see Plaut. Most. 258. solidum, "compact," "sound." suci plenum, "youthful," "strong."

319. flos ipsus, "the very budding time of life."

321. quoia, "whose."

323. id mecum stomachabar, "I was fretting about this"; mecum as with cogitas (64).

325. felicitates, "luck." auorsae: see App.

326. sceleris, "ill-luck," "misfortune."

329. incommode, "inconveniently," "inopportunistically."

331. liquet mihi deierare, "I can take my oath with a clear conscience." Cf. n. on And. 729 (ut liquido possim).

332. sex septem, "six or seven"; an instance of asyndeton not uncommon in Class. Latin.

334. monstri: cf. Phorm. 954 and n.

335. quam longe, "from the very farthest distance possible," "from never so far away." Cf. n. on And. 136.

337. heus: on And. 635.

340. aduocatus: a person who attended at a trial to give advice; not necessarily the pleader. The advice was not always of the best, and the custom of seeking it has been satirized in the Phormio, Act 2. scene 4. Cf. Ad. 646.

341. hora: an exaggeration, like annus in Heaut. 240. Cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 5. 14. rogo num quid uelit: i. e. preparatory to taking leave of him; see on 191.

343. commodum: adv.; "just," "just then." Cf. Phorm. 614; Plaut. Trin. 400.

344. plateam: on And. 796. mirum ni, etc.: said aside. Cf. n. on And. 598.

345. huic, i. e. Thais. nulla: on 216.

347. uerum: sc. est; "yes." Cf. n. on And. 769. ipsast: said aside. ilicet: as in Heaut. 974.

348. iam conclamatumst, "all is lost"; a proverbial expression derived from the custom of setting up a loud cry (conclamare) at a death bed. If there was no answer it was inferred that all was over, and the friendly call ceased.

353. potens, "opulent," "influential," "rich."

354. duras: cf. n. on Heaut. 402. Transl. "a difficult business for my brother, to judge from what you tell me."

355. huic dono: i. e. the girl, Thraso's gift. comparet: often thus used of matching gladiators or of pitting one thing against another.

357. inhonestum, "ugly." Cf. n. on And. 123 (honestu).

360. numquam etiam = non dum. eho dum: on And. 184.

361. ad, "in comparison with," more lit. "side by side with"; cf. Gk. παρά. Similarly English "to," as "she is nothing to mine here."

363. num, etc.: on 191.

374. quisquam: on 678.

375. probes: sc. te; "represent yourself as," "pass for."

377. quantum potest: on And. 861.

379. perculeris iam, "you will quite upset me presently." Parmeno has repented of his jocose suggestion and begs Chaerea not to press him further.

380. calidum: i. e. periculosum (Donatus). Transl. "rash."

381. istaec in me cudetur faba: proverbial, but the origin of the proverb remains unexplained. The general meaning is given by Donatus: 'in me hoc malum recidet; in me haec uindicabitur culpa.' me is acc.

383. illis crucibus, "those pests"; dative.

385. referam gratiam: ironical; "pay back." Cf. 719 and 911.

386. haec: i. e. the tricks commonly played on a father by his son, in order to wheedle him out of his money for the benefit of the young man's mistress. Better play the tricks upon the designing courtesans themselves, says Chaerea. It will be more to our credit. The pronoun is explained by the following ut-clause.

387. illud: i. e. the other plan, described in 382-385.

388. quid istic: on And. 572.

390. defugiam auctoritatem, "disavow the responsibility," which rests upon me now for instigating you to this deed.

ACT III. SCENE 1.

In this scene is depicted the foreign soldier, who boasts of his great influence with his king, and of his success in putting down his rivals. He and Gnatho discuss the effect upon Thais of the present which Thraso has sent to her, and Gnatho, after flattering the soldier's vanity, gives him some sage advice regarding Thais' jealousy. Parmeno is an unobserved observer.

391. agere: historical infinitive.

393. id: cf. And. 376.

394. hoc = huc; see on And. 386.

395. deducam: i. e. take Phaedria's presents to Thais. istuc: explained by the following ut-clause.

396. grata mihi sint, "bring me into favour (with others)." Cf. n. on Heaut. 262.

397. uel rex, "for instance, the king"; perhaps Seleucus, king of Asia (Minor). Cf. Plaut. Mil. 75 and Tyrrell's note. maxumas: sc. gratias.

399-400. The idea is that a king (qui habet salem) may appropriate to himself, by a few words aptly chosen, the renown acquired by another's (Thraso's) labour.

401. quod in te est, "and this is true in your case," "and this applies to you"; i. e. your renown was appropriated by the king. Yet there is a covert hit at Thraso's boastfulness, which the soldier fails to appreciate. habet: i. e. intellegis; Donatus.

401-2. in oculis gestare, "kept you in his eye," i. e. was very fond of you. The infin. is historical.

403. mirum, "astonishing!" The spectators take this as ironical; Thraso takes it as evidence of sincere admiration on Gnatho's part.

405. ubi: temporal.

406. quasi ubi, "just as though at any time." exspueret: lit. "spit out." Thraso's company would act as an emetic; but the irony of the word is lost on the soldier. illam miseriam, "such trouble."

408. elegantem, "of good taste." Cf. 566, 1093, Heaut. 1063. sic: on And. 919.

409. perpaucorum hominum: gen. of quality; "(a person) of very few intimates." Cf. Hor. Sat. I. 9. 44. immo, etc.: said aside. Gnatho's double meaning would be enjoyed by the audience.

411. mordere, "carped at me." Cf. Juv. 9. 9 conuiua ioco mordente facetus.

413. inpense: on Ad. 993.

418. iugularas: cf. Ad. 958. The plpf. denotes the completeness of the act; "you had the man quite throttled."

419. illum: i. e. Gnatho. quid: see App.

420. tetigerim, "touched up," i. e. "nettled." Rhodium: the Rhodians, the Sicilians, the Byzantines, and the people of Attica were regarded as no mean antagonists, where a contest of wit was concerned. Cf. Cicero, De Orat., ii. 54. 217.

422. plus, etc.: said aside.

426. "A hare art thou thyself, (yet) goest thou in quest of game?" i. e., as Donatus puts it, 'quod in te habes, hoc quaeris in altero'; which was as much as to say that the Rhodian was more than half a woman himself.

According to Vopiscus, De Numeriano 14, this was 'a proverb originating with Liuius Andronicus, as were also many others found in Plautus and Caecilius.' If Ter. took it from Andronicus, then the latter translated it from the Gk. δασύπους ὡν κρέως ἐπιθυμεῖς, which is quoted by Erasmus and others.

430. dolet: sc. mihi. dictum: sc. illud fuisse. libero, "free," "unrestrained," "unbridled," with a reference to the youth's conduct as described in coepit . . . inridere (424-425). Transl. "it pains me (to think) that it was said to the heedless and imprudent youth." Gnatho is sorry for the young man, who has encountered so clever an antagonist as the captain. This is the height of flattery.

431. at: on And. 666. perditus: sc. erat; "(he was) desperate," "wholly at a loss," i. e. for something to say in reply.

434. istac: i. e. the girl, called Pamphila (440).

442. comissatum: supine.

445. par, etc.: on Ad. 73.

448. illi: i. e. Thais.

448-9. iam dudum illi facile fit quod doleat, "it has long been easy (for you) to do that to her over which she shall smart."

450. alio: for in aliam.

453. melius quanto, "far more readily," than I.

ACT III. SCENE 2.

Thais now comes from her house, attended by Pythias her handmaid. Thraso proceeds at once to make capital with her by alluding to his presents, and Gnatho, like the parasite that he is, suggests that they go to dinner. Parmeno endeavours to counteract the possible effect of Thraso's presents by bringing forward the gifts of his master. The situation calls forth unfavourable comments from the lips of both Thraso and the parasite, and Parmeno lets the latter know in plain terms what he thinks of him. Finally Thais goes off with the captain, having first left word that Chremes, should he turn up, be entreated to await her return.

456. sauium = suauium; "my love." For this and other such terms see Plaut. Poen. 365 ff.

457. de, "on account of," "in return for." quam uenuste: ironical. Parmeno speaks aside, and is thinking of the tactlessness of the soldier in making immediate reference to his presents. dedit, "has made."

460. ex homine, etc., "should you say that this fellow was of human extraction?" The reference is to Gnatho's beast-like craving for food.

463. bene fecisti hodie; itura . . . , "thank you for coming at this time (for) I am off . . ." Cf. n. on Heaut. 1054.

466. pace tua, "by your leave"; ironical. quod refers to what follows. fiat: optative subj. The words are addressed to Thraso.

468. aut nostri similla, "or at least equal to mine," lit. "to us." nostri = gen. from nos.

469. heus: Parmeno calls aloud at the door of Laches' house.

470. ocius: on And. 724.

471. tres minae: a low price. Cf. Phorm. 557, Ad. 191.

472. Dore: so named (Dorus) from Doris, a part of Caria, in Asia Minor. Chaerea has been dressed to look like a eunuch. em: on And. 416.

473. liberali: on And. 123. aetate integra: on And. 72.

474. honestus: on And. 123. quid tu ais, "what do you say to this?" A request for another's opinion. For the other use of this expression see on And. 137.

476. litteris, etc.: literature, gymnastics, and music were the three chief subjects in which a free-born Athenian citizen was supposed to be well versed, if liberally educated.

479. For the aposiopesis here cf. that in Heaut. 913.

483. quidam refers to Thraso.

485. recipitur: the present is often used of an action really future — esp. in conditions and in animated discourse; cf. II. 533. 2.

488. qui pararet, "wherewith to procure."

490. huic refers to Thraso.

491. "To snatch food from out of the midst of the fire" was a proverb applicable to any act of unwarranted audacity.

493. exeo : for the tense cf. Heaut. 502, And. 594 (dicam).

498. Cf. 420-426.

499. abi prae : on Ad. 167.

501. hoc : on And. 386.

506. uos : i. e. her attendants.

ACT III. SCENE 3.

Chremes is unable to understand why Thais should have summoned him to her house. He suspects that she means mischief. In this of course he does her injustice. His suspicion that she wishes to pass herself off as his sister is dismissed with the recollection that she is too old. After declining to await her return he is persuaded by Pythias to join Thais at Thraso's house.

508. ni mirum = ne mirum; lit. "not wonderful," hence "without doubt," "assuredly." See Donatus (Wessner, vol. i, p. 382). dabit, "will make."

511. roget quis : on 252. noram : the tense is adapted to that of iussit (510). We should expect noui.

513. rem diuinam, "a sacrifice." Thais wanted to detain Chremes for some time and made this her excuse for being absent at a moment when it was difficult for her to arrange for a prolonged interview.

515-6. The infinitives are historical.

517. friget : sc. sermo.

520. auellere : sc. rus. See on And. 379, Phorm. 532.

522. ecquis : sc. exstet. quid habuisset : i. e. on her person, in the way of dress or ornament.

523. quaeritet : subj. of obligation; "why should she ask these questions?"

525. intendit, "insists," "maintains." Note the change of construction. uti est audacia : on Ad. 389.

526. ea : i. e. soror (525).

528. porro, "now again." orare : infin. of the end (G. 423. Note 2.). We might expect qui oret.

531. capitulum : on And. 371.

532. dico, etc. : said aside.

534. fac amabo : lit. "do this (and) I will love you," i. e. "please do this." Cf. Heaut. 404, n.

537. amabo, etc., "I'll beg of you just to step across to the place where she is." amabo = amanter rogabo; cf. the Eng. 'I'll thank you to step, etc.'; Plaut. True. 872 inmo amabo ut . . . sinas cum esse apud me. This use is but a slight remove from the parentetical use of amabo with inv., as in 534.

ACT III. SCENE 4.

Chaerea and his friends at the Piraeus had agreed to dine together. To Chaerea had been entrusted the duty of making the necessary arrangements. The feast was to have come off before this, but at the place appointed nothing was ready, and Chaerea was nowhere to be found. So Antipho goes to look for him. As Chaerea comes out of Thais' house, Antipho steps aside to take note of his appearance and actions.

539. This vs. is quoted by Cicero, ad Att. 7. 3. 10.

540. in hunc diem: i. e. met and agreed upon this day. ut de symbolis essemus, "with a view to dining on the picnic (club) plan." See on And. 88. Cf. the Gk. δειπνεῖν ἀπὸ συμβολῶν.

541. dati anuli: i. e. as pledges for the payment of our several shares.

542. parati: partitive gen., from paratus (4th decl.). For the form cf And. 365. n.

543. homo: i. e. Chaerea.

546. quid hic ornati est, "what sort of a 'get up' have we here?" See on 237.

547. mali, "mischief."

548. nisi: on And. 664, Heaut. 542.

ACT III. SCENE 5.

As Chaerea comes out of Thais' house he congratulates himself on the success of the plan according to which he had represented himself to be the eunuch whom Phaedria had promised to Thais as a gift. He meets Antipho and gives him an account of his reception by Thais and of his subsequent adventures. Finally he goes off to Antipho's house, where he may change his costume without risk of being seen by his father or brother. Thence the two are to proceed to the house of the freedman Discus, where the entertainment already alluded to has been provided.

549. nemo homo: an emphatic pleonasm. Cf. Phorm. 591, Ad. 259.

550. erumpere, "to give full vent to." For this transitive use (which is rare) cf. Cic. Att. 16. 3. 1 ne in me stomachum erumpant.

551. quom, "when"; see on And. 152. For the sentiment cf. Shak., Othello, Act ii, Scene 1, 'If it were now to die, 'T were now to be most happy.'

552. contaminet, "mar," "sully." Cf. n. on And. Prol. 16. aegritu dine: on Ad. 312.

553. For the construction see on And. 245.

555. quid, etc.: dependent on rogitando. emergam: on And. 562.

556. anne: pleonastic for an, but rendered necessary by the metre.

557. ab eo gratiam hanc inibo, "I'll get into his good graces on this score,' by putting to him the questions which evidently he is wishing for.

quam uideo uelle: sc. eum; "as I see he desires." quam is relative.

558. quod: on 449.

560-1. See App.

566. elegans: on 408.

567. in hac: sc. uirgine; "in the case of this girl," "over her."

568. forte fortuna: on 134.

570. etiam dum: on And. 201.

570-1. submonuit me quod, "gave me a hint which."

572. illoc = illuc; cf. And. 387. n.

579. interiore parte: sc. acdiūm; i. e. the women's apartments, gynaecēum (Phorm. 862), Gk. γυναικείον, γυναικωνίτις.

580. inquit: sc. Thais.

581. quae . . . essent, "such as were in attendance on her."

582. haec: sc. puellae; see on And. 328.

583. adparatur: cf. And. 591. n.

583-5. uirgo . . . aureum: see Knapp in Class. Rev. vol. xx, p. 397, on this passage, and others (from Plaut.) on the subject of painting.

586-7 consimilem ludum: i. e. a game like to the one I wanted to play.
inpendio: abl. of measure; "by a great deal," and so (adv.) "greatly," "very much." Cf. Plaut. Aul. Prolog. 18; Cic. Att. 10. 4. 9 at ille inpendio nunc magis odit senatum.

588. in hominem: see App.

589. per . . . mulieri, "that by means of a shower a woman was beguiled," facum facere (with dat.) meant "to deceive," "to impose upon."

590. templa . . . concutit: cf. Hom. Il. I. 530 μέγαν δ' ἐλέλιξεν Ὀλυμπον.

591. ac: on And. 337.

598. asinum: on Ad. 935.

599. proruont se: cf. Ad. 319. n.

601. limis: sc. oculis. Cf. Plaut. Mil. 1217 aspicito limis, ne ille nos se sentiat uidere.

603. explorata, "sure," "safe." pessulum, etc.: on Heaut. 278.
obdo, "fasten," "close"; on this word see Postgate in Class. Rev. vol. xv, p. 304.

606. qui simulabar: sc. esse; cf. Plaut. Mil. 152 atque eadem erit, uerum alia esse adsimulabitur. Transl. "whose counterfeit I was," i. e. the eunuch. The absence of all coarseness of speech in this scene is noticeable. Fontaine however omits the scene from his L'Eunuque, and substitutes another of a more refined character.

607. sane hercle: on And. 229.

608. frugi es, "you're a clever fellow." Cf. Heaut. 597, Ad. 959. n.

ACT IV. SCENE 1.

Dorias, who was sent to conduct Chremes to the house of Thraso (538), returns, bearing the jewels of her mistress, Thais. Thraso, thinking that he saw a rival in Chremes, threatened to send for Pamphila, in accordance with the advice given him by Gnatho (439-445). This led to a quarrel between himself and Thais.

615. illum: i. e. Thraso.

621. eius: i. e. Chremes. Dorias explains the true reason for Thais' interest in Chremes.

622. inuitat tristis: i. e. Thraso sullenly invites Chremes to enter. mansit: Chremes had come to stay.

624-5. Cf. 440 ff. See App.

626. conuiuium: Thais is horrified at the suggestion that Pamphila, whom she believes to be an Attic citizen, should appear among strangers at a banquet, contrary to custom and prevailing notions of propriety. Thais is eager to restore her to her rights as a citizen even though, through misfortune, she is at present in the position of a slave. tendere, "persisted." inde: sc. uentum est.

627. aurum, "her jewels." Cf. Heaut. 288. Thais may have feared that Thraso in his anger would forcibly possess himself of some of her ornaments as a guarantee of her submission to his wishes.

628. signi: partitive gen. Transl. "this is significant."

ACT IV. SCENE 2.

Phaedria has reached the conclusion that an absence of two days from his mistress is more than he can stand. At least he will place himself where he can feast on her with his eyes, though her society be denied to him. He returns therefore without having entered his villa, and meets Pythias as she comes out of the house of Thais.

629. inter uias, "on the way (road)."

634. male uero me habens, "feeling truly dejected."

635. deuorticulum: i. e. the point where a by-path led from the main road to his country house; or else, a kind of pet name for the house itself, as e. g. "my little inn."

640. extrema linea: abl.; "at a distance." The expression is ἀπὸ τοῦ ἐκρημένον; but cf. Hor. Epist. 1. 16. 79 mors ultima linea rerum est.

641. haud nil est, "is something," though not all that I could wish. Cf. n. on Ad. 141. sciens: contrast inprudens (623).

ACT IV. SCENE 3.

Pythias rushes out upon the stage, much excited over her discovery touching Chaerea (whom she believes to be Dorus, the eunuch) and Pamphila. She tells the news to Phaedria, who goes into his house to see if he can find Dorus.

644. esse ausum: on And. 245, 870.

645. quin etiam insuper, "nay, in addition to this also." 'The additory etiam lends itself to conjunction with particles (insuper) kindred in meaning.' See Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii, pp. 29 and 36.

646. ipsam capillo conscidit = ipsi capillum conscidit. ipsam is the girl herself as opposed to her garments. capillo limits the action of the verb to her hair (abl. of specification). conscidit is a manifest exaggeration, as is also discidit; but Pythias is both angry and excited.

649. absente nobis: loosely said for absente me. But, as Don. suggests, absente may be taken absolutely (sc. me); nobis would then be dat., "we have had some disturbance or other at home, during my absence."

651. in' hinc = isne hinc.

653. eunuchum: for the case see on Heaut. 724.

655. utinam . . . uolunt: i. e. may my enemies be drunk in the way I am, i. e. non nino sed nalo (Don.). Cf. Plaut. Asin. 841.

656. au here denotes surprise and distress. nam: with quod.

662. See App.

663. faxo scies: cf. 285. See on And. 854. Phaedria departs.

664. mea tu: an apostrophe to the injured girl. See Ad. 289. n.

665. eos = sc. eunuchos.

666. potesse: frequent in Plaut.; afterwards contracted into posse. miserae. sc. mihī.

ACT IV. SCENE 4.

Phaedria returns with Dorus and is amazed to find that Pythias does not recognize the eunuch. He soon discovers that the eunuch exchanged dresses with Chaerea, and that the latter entered Thais' house in disguise. Phaedria at the last succeeds in throwing a partial veil over his brother's crime by compelling the eunuch openly to deny the truth.

668. etiam: temporal.

669. male conciliate, "you bad bargain." conciliare = "to purchase."

671. huc . . . reditio: on And. 400. uestis: gen. Cf. n. on And. 400.

673. offendissem: sc. eum. Cf. 1064, Heaut. 285. n. ita refers to his dress, which was that of the ordinary citizen. He had exchanged with Chaerea. Of this exchange Phaedria, of course, is ignorant; hence he misinterprets the change in the eunuch's appearance as a preparation for flight.

675. istuc, "that which you say," refers to Phaedria's last remark (674). bene: sc. factum est.

678. nostrarum, "of our people," i. e. the women of Thais' household.

quisquam : fem. The form quaequam is less frequent in early Latin. The same is true of other compounds of quis, as well as of the simple quis itself. For examples see Brix on Plaut. Mil. 362. Cf. G. 107. 3. Note 2

681. illum refers to Chaerea.

682. honesta, etc. : on And. 123.

683. uaria refers to the motley colouring of the garments in which the eunuch had been decked out before he met Chaerea and Parmeno.

684. illam : sc. uariam uestem.

685. paulum : adverbial; really an acc. of extent of space.

689. colore mustelino, "with a weasel-like complexion," i. e. livid, leaden-hued. Cf. Don. (Wessner, vol. ii, p. 417).

691. eho : on And. 184.

697. hocedie, "this very day." quam dudum : on And. 582.

699-700. See App.

706. etiam : on Heaut. 187.

710. etiam non : on And. 116. credis : Tyrrell and others alter to credes (or credas) on account of the metre, but the ictus of the verse justifies us in keeping the MSS. reading. See App.

711. mirum ni, etc., "I'm surprised that you don't believe what he says." Cf. n. on And. 598. quid agam nescio : said aside.

712. heus negato rursum : said apart to Dorus.

714. malo, "punishment."

715. ora me : said aside to Dorus. Phaedria secretly compels Dorus to unsay all that he has said, in the hope that the two maid-servants may be deceived; but the latter are not convinced. He also pretends to punish Dorus for failing to speak the truth.

716. alio pacto, "in any other manner," i. e. than through the pretence referred to. hinc, "out of this." The vs. is said aside.

717. etiam ludificabere, "continue to make sport of me." See A. J. P. vol. xviii, p. 29. Phaedria follows Dorus into the house.

718. techinam : see Heaut. 471. n.

719. referam gratiam : on 385.

721. utrum, etc. : on Ad. 382.

722. Cf. n. on Heaut. 748.

723. illi : i. e. Pamphila; not Thais, nor Phaedria. So Don., rightly.

726. eos : i. e. Thais and Thraso. ex hoc : i. e. from Chremes.

ACT IV. SCENE 5.

Chremes comes upon the stage half drunk. He tells Pythias that Thais has left the Captain's house, and he is astonished to hear that she has not yet come home. While he is speaking Thais appears.

727. attat : on And. 125. uicit : sc. me.

728. pulchre, "splendidly," "quite." Cf. n. on Ad. 979. Wagner renders, "jolly sober."

732. uerbum : on And. 426. erit : on Heaut. 1014. Cf. Phorm. 801.

733. See App.

734. aetatem : cf. n. on Heaut. 716.

735. nisi : on And. 664 and Heaut. 542.

736. id dicere illam, "that she meant that"; id refers to tu ut sequerere sese (735).

736-7. nisi . . . minus, "save that the soldier made clear to me what I failed to understand."

738. eccam ipsam : on And. 532.

ACT IV. SCENE 6.

Thais returns from Thraso's house. She is much disturbed in mind lest Thraso may come and carry off Pamphila. Chremes meets her, and she tells him that the girl is his sister. Chremes is inclined to run off on the pretext of bringing legal assistance from the forum. Thais dissuades him, and the two await the coming of Thraso, who brings with him a company of attendants.

742. rem, "reality," "fact"; cf. n. on And. 824. Transl. "if his words are turned into deeds."

745. See App.

752. ereptum : supine.

753. cistellam : the trinket-box in which the signa (112, 767, 808) or "birth-tokens" were placed by those persons who happened to come into temporary possession of an 'exposed' or kidnapped infant. The tokens were attached to the child at the time of exposure, and were intended to assist in the identification, in case the infant were found and brought up. Witness the ring in the Heaut. Such trinkets were sometimes called monumenta, γνωρίσματα. Cf. Plant. Cist. 656. Rud. 1154-1174. Pamphila had been kidnapped. See 114-115. Consequently the signa included anything she may have worn when she was carried off.

754. illum : with militem (755). Chremes becomes agitated as he sees Thraso and his household in the distance. Both he and Thraso are timid characters. Cf. 789.

755. quantas : we might expect multas or the like, in view of the infin. ; or else miles . . . adducat in place of militem . . . adducere.

760. Thais encourages Chremes by pointing out to him the disadvantages under which Thraso labours, in being a foreigner. A lawsuit would surely go against him. See And. 810 ff. potens, "influential," as in Ad. 502. Cf. n. on 353.

762. ulcisci on And. 624. It is better to prevent the evil than to obtain redress after it has been accomplished. Chremes' timidity is very manifest in this verse.

764. aduocatos: to serve as witnesses of Thraso's assault, and in general to assist in the suit to be brought against the soldier if he proved violent; see on 340. Cf. Phorm. 313 amicos aduocabo, etc.

767. signa, "the tokens." See on 753.

769. animo praesenti, "with ready courage," "fearlessly." Cf. Phorm.

957. attolle pallium, "tuck up your cloak," i. e. "make ready for action"; a final exhortation to Chremes to take courage and do his best. Cf. Plaut. Capt. 789 conlecto quidemst pallio: quidnam acturust? Cf. Phorm. 844. n.

770. "Alas! the man I have got as a champion is himself in need of a protector."

ACT IV. SCENE 7.

Thraso comes up with his attendants, whom he marshals in battle array before the house of Thais, with the ostensible purpose of taking the place by storm, but reserving for himself a position at a safe distance. When Thais appears, he determines to hold parley with her, before resorting to forceful measures. This gives Chremes an opportunity to inform Thraso that Pamphila is an Attic citizen, that she is his (Chremes') sister, and that the captain will molest her at his peril. Thraso then deems it better to retire. The whole scene is suggestive of the manner of a modern comic opera.

771. hancine . . . ut: on Heaut. 784.

774. ipsam: i. e. Thais.

776. manipulus furum, "his bundle of rogues," i. e. his assistants in the kitchen. Cooks had little reputation for honesty.

777. peniculo, "sponge"; really an animal's tail (which could be squeezed out like a sponge, after absorbing moisture), used for wiping tables on which food and wine had been spilled. Cf. Plaut. Men. 77-78.

779. qui, etc.: rel. clause of purpose; "(I brought it) to wipe our wounds with." Understand portavi from portas (777).

780. malum: on Heaut. 318. seruat, "keeps watch," i. e. "keeps close," "stays," "dwells."

781. post principia, "in the rear."

782. Said aside. ipse sibi cauît loco: i. e. the captain himself got out of the way. caueo with the simple abl. (i. e. without ab) is not uncommon in Plaut.; cf. Bacch. 147 caue malo, and Rud. 828 caue sis infortunio.

783. Pyrus: i. e. the king of Epirus, who invaded Italy (B. C. 281-275).

785. "Doubtless in so far as (= though) you now think this fellow to be a great man, he is (in reality) a huge good-for-nothing." For the constr. cf. n. on And. 395. For nebulo cf. n. on 269.

786. quid uidetur, "what seems best?"
787. ex occulto, "from ambush."
788. inruimus: a very strong word; "how soon do we make our onslaught?"
789. omniā: see Introd. § 91.
795. quid . . . agas, "what is one to do with such a fellow as that?" i. e. with Thraso. Thais is addressing Chremes. For the constr. cf. Heaut. 642. te . . . mihi, "you withdrew yourself from me clandestinely."
797. omnium: on And. 872.
799. sis: on Heaut. 369.
800. hodie: on Phorm. 1009.
801. Chremes is showing himself to be braver than we should expect. This vs. is all but identical with Plant. Capt. 800.
806. os durum, "brazen face!"
809. furti se adligat, "implicates himself in a charge of theft." For the gen. cf. Plant. Poun. 737 homo furti sese adstringet. Cicero (pro L. Flacco, 17. 41) has the abl. ne . . . se scelere adliget. With the gen. understand crimine. Cf. the gen. with verbs of accusing, etc. (A. & G. 352). Thraso has purchased Pamphila with his own money. If Chremes takes her away from him, he is guilty of theft (provided she is not an Attic citizen).
810. quaere, etc., "go search for some one to answer you." Thais hereupon disappears. It is not improbable that in this scene Thais and Chremes are represented as speaking from an upper window, rather than from the stage. This is suggested by lines 784 and 786-787.
811. haec: i. e. Thais.
815. domi: felt as a gen., with memineris, as in Plant. Trin. 1027 commeminit domi. "Remember your hearths and homes" was a stock expression in addressing soldiers.
816. est in, "is engrossed with."

ACT V. SCENE 1.

Thais appears from her house, greatly excited and followed by Pythias, who has been trying to evade her questions regarding Pamphila. Suddenly Chaerea comes into view, and Pythias persuades Thais to accost him. Chaerea still wears the clothes of Dorus, the eunuch.

817. perplexe, "ambiguously."
820. obticet: cf. Heaut. 938. n.
824. qui Chaerea, "what Chaerea?" Thais hears of this young man now for the first time. ephebus: see on 290 (custos publico) and cf. And. 51. n. Prof. Knapp thinks (see Class. Phil. vol. ii, p. 14) that ephebus here, as seen in the light of 290, is proof that the word should be taken in its technical sense in And. 51.

827. nisi : on 735. amasse : we might expect amavit.
 829. id lacrumat : cf. And. 157. n.
 830. interminata sum : on And. 496.
 832. dispuget : on Phorm. 1011.
 836. quantum potest : on And. 861.
 839. confidentia : on And. 876.

ACT V. SCENE 2.

Chaerea, on arriving at Antipho's house, was disappointed to find that the latter's parents were at home—a fact that rendered it dangerous for him to enter. Accordingly he has been unable to exchange his eunuch's dress for that of an ordinary citizen. He now returns in the direction of Thais' house, after having narrowly escaped observation by an acquaintance. Thais reproaches him for his rash conduct, and receives a cool rejoinder. But after she has explained her purpose regarding Pamphila, Chaerea takes heart, and conceives the idea of making Thais his friend and ally. Thais is only too ready to fall in with Chaerea's plan to make Pamphila his wife, and bids him await the coming of Chremes, who has gone to fetch the old nurse through whose testimony the true parentage of Pamphila is to be established. Chaerea and Thais go into the house to await Chremes' arrival, despite the protestations of Pythias, who distrusts the young man's intentions.

841. quasi dedita opera, "as if on purpose."

844. in pedes : sc. conicio (cf. Phorm. 190), or do (cf. Plaut. Capt. 121 mene vis dem ipse in pedes?).

845. angiportum : a term applied to a narrow passage or alley-way separating two adjacent houses or blocks of buildings (insulae), and not always a thoroughfare (cf. Ad. 578). For the neut. form cf. Ad. 576, 578, Phorm. 891. The masc. angiportus (4th decl.) occurs in Hor. Od. 1. 25. 10.

849. quid mea autem : sc. rēfert; "what difference does it make to me, however?" Cf. n. on Ad. 881 and 913. Cf. also Hec. 510, Phorm. 389, Heaut. 793.

850. Dore : Thais pretends to take Chaerea for the eunuch.

851. era, factum : Chaerea pretends that he is the eunuch, and the property of Thais. satine . . . placet, "you approve of such conduct, do you?" In Ad. 737 (cf. 641) the interrog. particle is omitted, the tone of the voice being sufficient to indicate the interrogation.

852. inpune, "without punishment." Cf. 1019. noxiam, "offence," "fault."

855. hanc : i. e. Pythias.

860. etiam : additory. ultro goes with etiam; see Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii, p 36.

861-2. debeam . . . quicquam : i. e. I should be somewhat in that rascal's debt, I suppose, if I did this thing (i. e. tear his hair); but precious little would it be. Pythias is ironical, and her irony makes the expression = "I should not be at all in his debt." Hence quicquam. Her words are explained in part by the following verse. If he confesses himself to be her fellow-slave and equal, she is free to vent her rage upon him.

866. indignus qui = dignus qui non.

871. solidum : on And. 647.

874. malo principio : in apposition with re; or else an abl. absol. = "though the beginning is bad."

876. -que et : on And. 676.

882. te . . . amo : on 186. Chaerea does not mean that he is in love with Thais, but merely that he is grateful to her for taking this charitable view of his offence. But Pythias understands him to mean more than this. Hence her caution expressed in the next verse.

883. tum : illative; "in that case." ab istoc : a common construction with canto.

884. non ausim : sc. quicquam facere.

886. fide : dat. ; see on And. 296.

890. haec : i. e. Pamphila. Transl. "if only she is a citizen."

892. accersitum : collateral form of arcessitum.

899. pugnam, "trouble."

900. uidere = videris.

901-2. non faciam : i. e. I'll not commit any wrong. non credo . . . erit : i. e. I trust you not, until the opportunity for you to do wrong shall have passed by. committere = "to do," "to perpetrate."

903. seruato, "you shall keep guard over me."

908. id ipsum : on And. 350. uirgo uero : lit. "in truth a maid!" i. e. "truly (an example of) maiden modesty"; a sarcastic reference to Chaerea and his fears about his dress. i prae : on Ad. 167.

ACT V. SCENE 3.

While Pythias is cogitating how she may take vengeance on Parmeno, Chremes appears, bringing with him Sophrona, the nurse, who has recognized the tokens and is prepared to speak with authority on the question of the identity of the girl, Pamphila. The recognition gives Pythias the opportunity she is seeking, to play a trick upon Parmeno.

911. quid nam : on And. 321. qui, "whereby"; see on And. Prol. 6.

912. hunc : i. e. Chaerea. supposiuit : see App. ocius : on And. 724.

913. promoues : on And. 711.

915. ac memoriter, "(yes) and accurately," "in detail."

916. nam : on And. 43.

918. bonum: sarcastic. incedere: ironical; "advancing majestically"; cf. Verg. Aen. 1. 46.

919. si dis placet, "please God"; cf. Ad. 476. n.

920. qui: on 911.

ACT V. SCENE 4.

Parmeno congratulates himself on his success in securing for his young master (Chaerea) the object of his desires. Amid these reflections he is accosted by Pythias, who feigns grief at what she pretends is Chaerea's wretched fate. He must suffer the penalty of the law, she says, for his misconduct, inasmuch as his victim has been proved to be an Athenian citizen. Parmeno is amazed and terrified, for he can see no escape from the necessity of making the facts known to Laches, the young man's father, at whose hands he may look for nothing but condign punishment.

924. astu: cf. Plaut. Capt. 221 nam doli non doli sunt, nisi astu colas, and n. on Heaut. 366.

926. quod, "the fact that." amorem, "passion."

927. a meretrice auara: denotes the source whence the uirgo was obtained; hence "belonging to, etc." uirginem: object of amabat (928).

928. quo: the antecedent is amorem. The abl. is causal. eum is resumptive and refers to amorem. confeci, "I accomplished," "I brought to its consummation."

930. palmarium, "a master-stroke."

933. mature, "in good season."

936. See App.

938. quam, "how." inhonestae, "repulsive."

939. ex iure hesterno, "steeped in (lit. 'taken from') yesterday's broth." Aut deest "madidum" aut "maceratum" aut "emollitum." nam apparet et sordidum esse, quia sit ater, et durum utique, qui ex iure hesterno sit comedendus; Donatus.

940. saluti, "salvation." See App.

941-2. Said aside. in nos: on And. 758.

943-6. Spoken aloud, that Parmeno may hear, but as though Pythias were not aware of his presence. adulescentulum refers to Chaerea.

944. huc: i. e. to our house. quid est: Parmeno wonders what it all means.

946. quae exempla: i. e. ea exempla quae; "those cruel penalties which they say will be inflicted upon him." For indigna = "cruel," "dreadful," cf. Don. (Wessner, vol. i, p. 468).

947. nam: cf. And. 321. n.

952. hinc: i. e. of Athens.

953. istic miser, "that wretched fellow," i. e. Chaerea.

954. frater : i. e. Chremes.
 955. conligauit, etc. : cf. n. on And. 865.
 956. See App.
 957. sese : sc. facturum esse. solet : sc. feri.
 962. erilem : Parmeno's master was the father of Phaedria and Chaerea.
 965 illi : i. e. Chaerea. ne neque . . . et, "lest you both fail to be of service to him and."
 967. senem : see list of Personae.
 968. See App.
 969. huic : i. e. Chaerea.
 970. isti : sc. seni. omne, "all," "the whole story." ut, "how"; interrogative. See App.

ACT V. SCENE 5.

Laches (Demea) comes in from his place in the country, and is felicitating himself on thus being able to escape the ennui incidental to too long a stay in one place, when he meets Parmeno. Suspecting mischief he questions the slave as to his reason for being where he is. The latter is greatly confused, but makes a confession of his fears regarding Chaerea. Laches becomes very angry and rushes into Thais' house. Parmeno is left to meditate on his chances of punishment.

971. SE. = Senex. See App. The name does not appear in the text.
 973. satias : commonly used only in the nom. sing., the other cases being taken from satiatus.
 976. saluom te aduenire gaudeo : the usual formula of greeting addressed to a person coming from abroad, or from the country to the city; cf. Ad. 89.
 978. satine salue, "is all well?" salue is explained by Don. as = integre, recte, commode, i. e. as an adv. Thus Plaut. Men. 776 saluen aduenis? Cf. And. 804 and Livy, I. 58. 7 with Lease's note. In Plaut. Trin. 1177 the answer recte lends support to the adv.; but some good editions have satine saluae here (sc. res sunt), and the evidence of the MSS. to the contrary can hardly be cited against the adjective, since the MSS. do not distinguish carefully between diphthongs and single vowels. See App.
 980. huius : part. gen. ; cf. Heaut. 551 and 961. n. ; or huius here may be governed by causa (taken twice in the verse).
 985. hinc : with refer. to the household of Thais. See App.
 986. iam, "already"; explained by 693
 987. in astu : Athens was called $\tau\delta\ \xi\sigma\tau\upsilon$ in distinction from the Piraeus, and Laches is surprised to hear that his son (Chaerea) has left his post at the latter place and come "to town." Cf. the use of urbs = Roma.
 996. tantum est, "this is all."

998. necessus : cf. And. 372. n. id gaudeo : on And. 157 (operam do).

1001. insigne, "extraordinary," "remarkable." Transl. "make an example of them."

ACT V. SCENE 6.

Pythias returns from Thais' house to find Parmeno and enjoy his discomfort. The trick she has played upon him has proved a success: Laches having entered Thais' house has seen his son in the dress of a eunuch and will punish Parmeno for suggesting the device to Chaerea, while the son also will be angry because Parmeno has betrayed him to his father.

1003. errans, "under a false impression," "full of his mistake"; very emphatic.

1004. solae : on And. 608. fuit : impers. ; "I had the fun all to myself." scibam : Pythias knew there was nothing to fear, but she knew also what was passing in the mind of the old man — which the others did not.

1005. id : adverbial acc. ; "for this purpose." Cf. n. on And. 414.

1011. etiam : the additory force is weakened to the point of being untranslatable, except by a vocal stress upon the modified word (primo) ; "and yet I formerly took you, etc." See Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii, p. 32. credidi : sc. te esse.

1013. paenitebat : sc. te. Transl. "were you then not satisfied with the crime?" For paenitet = parum uidetur, cf. Heaut. 72, Hec. 775, Plaut. Rud. 578 an te paenitet, In mari quod clavi, hic in terra ni iterum eluam ? flagiti : on Ad. 101.

1014. miserum : i. e. Chaerea. insuper etiam : insuper reinforces the additory sense of etiam ; "in addition to all this." The temporal force, however, is not expelled. See Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii, p. 29.

1015. illi : i. e. Chaerea. animi : on Ad. 666.

1015-6. uestem illam indutum, "clothed in that dress." For this use of the acc. with the pass. of induo, see G. 338, Note 2.

1017. etiam : additory (or intensive), often in questions which imply that the utterance, or act, is an aggravation of some wrong done, an adding insult to injury. See Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii, p. 39.

1018. nimum : adv. ; "very much so."

1019. inpune : on 852. habueris : the apodosis may be supplied from what precedes, viz., nimum lepidum est (ironical) ; or else reddam (= "I'll requite you," "I'll pay you back") is the apodosis. uerum, "yes?" Said with a mocking smile on her lips. credo : ironical.

1020. in diem, "for a (distant) day," "for a day (yet to come)."

1021. iam pendebis, "you'll be strung up presently." Slaves were tied to a high post and whipped. Cf. Phorm. 220. nobilitas flagitiis, "render notorious for rascalities."

1022. uterque : i. e. both Chaerea and his father.

1023. illo munere, "that present (which you made us)," i. e. Chaerea in the dress of a eunuch. For munere see Introd. § 91. honos, "reward."

1024. meo indicio, "through betrayal of myself." sorex : a rat might be tracked by its squeak, but would escape if it kept quiet. Had Parmeno held his tongue he would not have found himself in the present predicament.

ACT V. SCENE 7.

Thraso appears, accompanied as usual by his "hanger-on," Gnatho, for the purpose of surrendering himself, heart and soul, to Thais; for this he finds a parallel in the conduct of Hercules. Chaerea bursts out upon him from Thais' house, which rouses in him further suspicion and dismay.

1027. qui, etc., "how (i. e. why) (should I serve her) less than Hercules served Omphale?"

1028. Said aside. conmitigari : cf. Plaut. Mil. 1424 mitis sum equidem fustibus, where mitis is rendered by Tyrrell, "beaten to a jelly." Cf. also Aul. 422 ita fustibus sum mollior magis quam ullus cinaedus. sandalio : according to Lucian, Hercules was beaten by Omphale with a slipper : παιόμενος ὑπὸ τῆς Ὀμφάλης τῷ σανδάλῳ; see Dial. de Historia Scribenda.

1030. numquam etiam : on 360.

ACT V. SCENE 8.

Chaerea comes out of Thais' house in a state of great elation at the turn affairs have taken. Much to the surprise of Parmeno he thanks the latter for his assistance, and addresses him as the sole author of his happiness. He informs Parmeno that Pamphila has been discovered to be an Athenian citizen; that she has been betrothed to him (Chaerea), and that Thais has placed herself under his father's protection and is accordingly wholly devoted to Phaedria. Parmeno expresses his satisfaction at the situation, particularly as it will be a source of discomfort to Thraso. The latter declares himself to be utterly undone.

1034. quid : on Aul. 157.

1038. in tranquillo, "secure", lit. "in a calm (in calm water)." Cf. Aul. 845 in uado, and 480 in portu; Phorm. 689; Lucretius 5. 12.

1039. clientelam : a relation such as is implied in Aul. 924-925 ille . . . se. See Harper's Dict. Class. Lit., s. v. clientes.

1040. scilicet : cf. Aul. 950. n.

1041. quod, "on account of which"; cf. n. on 449.

1042. ubi ubi : on Aul. 684. uisam domum, "I'll go home and look for him."

1043. perpetuo perierim, "I'm done for forever." The idea is strengthened by the alliteration. Cf. Ad. 283.

1044-9. Chaerea, believing himself to be alone, gives full vent to his joyous feelings. It may be inferred from 1041 that he is expecting his brother Phaedria.

ACT V. SCENE 9.

Phaedria appears from Laches' house, having heard a full account of the situation from Parmeno. He and Chaerea congratulate each other, while Thraso is in utter despair. The captain begs Gnatho so to arrange matters for him that he may at least have a share in Thais' good graces. This Gnatho accomplishes by appealing to the characteristic greed of the young men, who are persuaded that it would not be a bad thing to make a friend of Thraso and thus take advantage of his good dinners and of his readiness to bestow favours upon Thais, whose natural extravagance it may be beyond their means to gratify. They decide accordingly to receive both Gnatho and the captain into their company. While this decision is undoubtedly due to the poet's desire to represent all parties as satisfied and happy at the conclusion of the play, it cannot but place both Phaedria and Chaerea in an unfavourable light before the spectators, who can hardly find pleasure in anything so unworthy as the pretence of friendship for purely sordid purposes.

1049. serua . . . nobis : for the sentiment cf. Hor. Sat. ii. 6. 5 nil amplius oro, Maia nate, nisi ut propria haec mihi munera faxis.

1051. credo : on And. 939.

1055. precibus pretio, "by entreaty or bribery," "by hook or by crook." in parte aliqua tandem, "in some degree at least, be it never so slight." haeream apud, "hang about," "dance attendance upon." Cf. Plaut. Epid. 191 haerere apud nescio quam fidicinam.

1056. si quid conlubitumst: sc. tibi; "if you have made up your mind to a thing," i. e. "I am sure, if you make, etc.," you will be successful.

1057. auferes : cf. n. on And. 610.

1058. efficio : pres. = fut., as often in colloquial Latin.

1059. inuocato : sc. mihi; "for me though uninvited." For the application of this word to parasites cf. Plaut. Capt. 69-76.

1060. adcingar, "I'll make ready (then)," more lit. "I'll gird myself (for the fray)."

1063. uobis fretus : a conciliatory reply; "relying on your goodness."

1064. platea : on And. 796. offendero : cf. 673, and the omission of the pronoun there. quod, etc., "as to the fact that, etc." Understand some such idea as "this will avail you naught." See And. 395 and n.

1065. hac : sc. uia.

1066. uostrum : neut.; transl. "I do not recognize as yours so haughty (a manner of acting)." Cf. Plaut. Trin. 445 hau nosco tuom, and 123 non istuc meumst = "that is not my way."

1067. audite paucis: on And. 29.

1070. huius: cf. 980. n. Gnatho, with that keenness which is peculiar to his class, admits at once that what he is about to propose is intimately connected with his own interests, but suggests that his interests and theirs may be identical.

1073-4. cum illa ut lubenter uiuis, "as you are fond of (good) living in that lady's company." Cf. And. 889, Ilec. 694, Ad. 477. illa = Thais.

1074. uicitas: with a play on uiuis; transl. "and indeed you are exceedingly fond of good living." bene lubenter = lubentissime.

1076. suppeditare possint, "may be at hand," "may be available."

1077. See App.

1080. neque . . . metuas, etc., "nor need you fear that the lady will fall in love with him"; i. e. there is no reason to fear: subj. of obligation or propriety. See my article in P. A. P. A. for July, 1901, vol. 32, p. lxxxvii. Cf. Elmer in Class. Rev. vol. xv, p. 159.

1081. hoc etiam: on And. 300. quod: i. e. id quod.

1082. "There is certainly not a man who entertains in better fashion nor more liberally." For this use of accipio cf. Plaut. Pseud. 1253 ff., and the English 'receive.'

1084. unum etiam: on And. 940. gregem, "company," "society."

1085. hoc saxum uorso, "have I been rolling this stone", that is, "have I been engaged in this unprofitable labour." Cf. the Gk. λίθον κυλινδεῖν. Gnatho refers to the occupation of a parasite by which he has hitherto been making his livelihood. The expression is proverbial, and is borrowed from the story of Sisyphus.

1087. hunc uobis prōpino, "I pass him on to you"; a metaphor derived from the custom of tasting the cup and handing it on to another. But the original meaning is largely forgotten, or its use with comedendum ("to be eaten out of house and home") and deridendum ("to be made your laughing-stock") would be false metaphor. It is for this reason that Bentley wrote ebibendum instead of deridendum.

1092. numquam etiam: on 360.

1093. in hoc: i. e. in Thrasone. elegantiam: cf. n. on 408.

1094. nil praeter promissum est, "everything is exactly as you promised," lit. "nothing is contrary to your promise"; addressed to Gnatho. Cantor: on And. 981.

APPENDIX TO NOTES ON THE EUNUCHUS

38. Probably spurious. The characters are evidently repeated from vss. 30-31, and are those whose existence in the play the argument is intended to justify. The line is bracketed by Dz.

113. potis erat: thus Umpf., Dz., Fleck., after Bentley. MSS. potuerat, which will not stand with scibat. On potis see And. 437, n.

117. For educere preferred to educare cf. 156, And. 274; n. on Ad. 48.

132. esse: thus Bentley, followed by Fleck., Umpf., Dz. The word is necessary both to the metre and to the syntax.

188. Not in A: bracketed by Dz.; but approved by Don. and accepted by Fleck. — rightly.

190. mea: accepted by Fleck. and Dz.

212. qui is the reading of A.

267. Thaidis of the MSS. is undoubtedly a gloss, probably for huius (eius). Dr. Minton Warren (A. J. P. vol. iii, p. 482) shows that Bentley proposed to read stare eius (not huius stare, as in Prof. Tyrrell's footnote), and thus anticipated Hauler's huius (eius) stare. Dziatzko's objection (see Adn. Crit.) to huins (eius), viz., that Parmeno would hardly have been standing at that time before the house of Thais, is strained, and his conjecture is inferior to that of Hauler, since it ignores altogether the existence of MSS. Thaidis.

300. dicet yields a poorer meaning than dices, which was the reading of Euphrasius.

312. Dz. has est adeo, but rejects est after res. Fleckeisen's sic adeo keeps closest to the MSS., and makes excellent sense. rés est: Tyrrell rés. ubi = in qua.

325. auorsae: I prefer the oxymoron presented by aduorsae (aduersae).

419. Perhaps a better pointing than that of the text would be quid? illud, etc. quid? arrests attention; illud anticipates quo pacto, etc.

560-1. The text is very uncertain. 'quid est festus dies hominis?' says Eugr. Many efforts at emendation have been made by editors, for which see Umpf., Fleck., Dz. (with Adn. Crit.), and Fabia. Dz.'s judgment here shows perhaps the least inclination to depart from the MSS. tradition.

588. in hominem: to object to this reading on the ground of its inaccuracy is to be too literal. Whatever the form of the disguise assumed by the god, it is the fact of his taking on human nature for the time being, that is of interest to Chaerea. Donatus saw this when he made his comment, 'in hominem, id est in hominis audaciam atque flagitia.' Consequently Bentley's emendation (aurum uel pretium) is needless.

624-5. Bentley's puer, i is a probable conjecture, commended by Dz. who follows Guyet in rejecting exclamat. puere is an archaic vocative; cf. Plaut. Asin. 891, Most. 949, 990. Thus also Hee. 719.

662. It is natural to seek to avoid a change to trochaic metre in this verse, although Tyrrell makes it. Yet illie is shown by Engelbrecht (Stud. Terent., p. 69) to be all but impossible. A fair compromise would be quo illinc, approved by Engelbrecht. See footnote.

699-700. If Bentley is followed, the two verses will scan as a single iambic senarius; thus Dz. and Fleck. See footnote.

710. MSS. etiam nunc non credis indignis nos esse inrisis modis, which will not scan. Fleck. reads étiam nunc non crêdis nos indignis inrisis modis, and thus retains nunc which is more important here than esse, and credis which is preferable to credes (the conjecture of Bothe). Dz. omits nunc and reads credes. In this he is followed by Tyrrell. But credis is quite possible, in view of the ictus of the foot, and is the true reading.

733. sed . . . uenit: the interrog. nature of the sentence is noticed by Don., and -ne, suggested by Hare, assists the metre and is accepted by Umpf., Dz., Fleck., and others.

745. quasi is retained by Umpf. who punctuates qui? quasi istuc. . .

912. supposiuit: see Engelbrecht (Stud. Terent., p. 47), and n. on And. 729.

936. Condemned by Guyet, Bentley, Dz.; retained by Umpf. and Fleck.

940. MSS. salus est is retained by Umpf., Fleck. (1st ed.), Wag., Fabia, — rightly.

956. atque equidem: MSS. But Bentley reads et quidem and Umpf. atque quidem, on the mistaken assumption that equidem belongs only to the first person. Cf. Fabia's n. on this verse.

968. dicam: repeated metri causa, by most good commentators.

970. omne ordine: thus also Bentley, Umpf., Wag., Dz., Fleck.

971. In the MSS. scene-heading A has Demea, & Laches. See Fabia's n.

978. salue: thus most good MSS. But Umpf., Wag., Fleck. read saluae, with slight MSS. support. See note.

985. hinc: thus also Fleck., Wag., Dz.; but MSS. hic makes good sense = "at Thais' house." See Fabia's note.

1077. Don. read possit . . . ad omnia haec with the MSS. His note is, 'aut pro "suppeditari" aut deest "se," ut (Verg. Aen. II. 235) "accingunt" [sc. se].' The subject of possit is Thraso.

PHORMIO

DIDASCALIA

Cf. n. on the didascaliae to the previous plays.

1. Phormio: see Introd. § 48. Ludis Romanis: see Introd. § 74.

6. facta quarta, "produced fourth in order." The second and third performances of the Heeyra took place in 160 B. C., the year after that in which the Phormio was brought out. See Introd. § 47. As the first performance of the Heeyra was a failure it may have been disregarded by the person who composed this notice. In that case the place of the Phormio in the order of production will correspond with the numeral here given, as well as with that assigned to it in the Codex Bezae, and by Donatus. See the Dziatzko-Hauley edition of the Phormio (Introduction, p. 17), and Watson's article in T. A. P. A. p. 150 f.

PERIOCHA

Cf. introductory n. on the Per. to the Andria.

7. cum: inserted here rather than at the beginning of vs. 8, by Dziatzko and Fleckeisen, to avoid hiatus in uisam Antipho. But Elmer (p. 156 of his edition of the Phormio) has shown that this departure from the universal testimony of the MSS. is unnecessary, to say the least, because the hiatus 'may be easily paralleled' from Plautus.

12. adgnitam: on And., Per. 11.

PERSONAE

See remarks on the personae of the Andria. In Codices Vaticanus, Ambrosianus, Parisinus, and Dunchelmensis (see Introd. pp. 61, 63) there are pictures of masks, on the page following the didascaliae of each play. The expression of each mask is in keeping with the character in the drama which it is intended to fit. All the characters in each play are thus represented. The masks belonging to the Phormio have been reproduced from the Vaticanus, and published in a libretto translation of the play by M. H. Morgan (Cambridge, Mass., 1894), together with the miniatures of the same codex, representing the dramatis personae of the Phormio, as these might appear in the several scenes, and as they may have been posed or grouped for some important moment of each scene. These miniatures have been published also in Harvard Studies, vol. xiv. (at the back), together with a paper relating to them by John Calvin Watson. Cf. the article by John W. Basore on the 'Scenic Value of the Miniatures,' in Studies in Honor of

B. L. Gildersleeve (Johns Hopkins Press, 1902). A selection of these miniatures is given in Laming's ed. of the Phormio (London, 1902).

PROLOGUS

See introductory remarks on the Prologue to the Andria.

1. postquam: with accessory notion of cause, "since," as in And. 765 and Prol. 1. poëta uetus: on And. 7. poëtam: i. e. Terence.

2. transdere: the spelling is based on C. I. L. 1. 198, 54 and 58 transdito, and on Donatus' note, 'transdere' uterque sonantius, quod nos lenius 'tradere,' etc. (Wessner, vol. ii, p. 350).

4. qui refers to poëta uetus. hic: i. e. Terence.

5. scriptura leui: on And. Prol. 12. Observe the emphasis produced by the chiasmus.

6. scripsit, "has described." The subject is Terence.

6-8. insanum adolescentulum, etc., "a frenzied youth gazing at a hind in flight and the hounds in full pursuit, while she (the hind) implores him with tears to come to her assistance." These words probably refer to some scene in a play of Lanuvinus, in which the youthful lover imagines that he sees the object of his affections, in the form of a hind pursued by dogs, and imploring his protection. Such a scene would be objectionable in a comedy, on account of its startling character. Ter. is careful to avoid situations suited to tragedy—a fact noted by Euanthius (4th cent. A. D.) in his preface to the Terentian dramas.

8. eam plorare: cf. Shak., As You Like It, Act ii, Scene 1, 'poor sequester'd stag, That from the hunter's aim had ta'en a hurt, . . . and the big round tears Cours'd one another down his innocent nose In piteous chase.'

9. quod si "but if." intellegeret: sc. poëta uetus. stetit, "maintained its ground," "succeeded." As a rule, the indie. is found after quoniam in early Latin, whether its use be temporal or otherwise. Cf. 23 and Eun. 243. The subj. of indirect discourse might be looked for here, but the indie. presents the idea as a fact and thus lends force to the argument. See on And. 152. For the length of the final syl. see Introd. § 91. noua: sc. fabula. The adj. refers to the first performance.

10. actoris: i. e. the leading actor of the troupe or company, who was also the dominus gregis or manager.

12. hoc and sic refer to what follows.

14. prōlogum: ὁ, although short in πρόλογος. The Latin prō is responsible. Cf. prōpīao (προπίνω), Eun. 1089. The sense is that Ter. would have had no reason for writing a prologue had not Lanuvinus attacked him. nouos: sc. poëta, i. e. Terence, who was younger than Lanuvinus. On the nom. sing. in -os see A. & G. 46. Note; H. 83, 10.

15. quem diceret, "to deliver"; we should expect scriberet; see Dz., Adn. Crit. See App. nisi haberet, etc., "without having some one to abuse"; a second protasis, repeating the first, as frequently in Latin.

16. is . . . habeat, "let him take home to himself this answer."

16-7. in . . . positam, "that the prize (for literary composition) is offered to all."

17. artem musicam, "the pursuit of poetry," with special reference, however, to the dramatic art; see on Heaut. Prol. 23. tractant, "take up," "practise." In classical Latin we should expect the subj. in a rel. cl. in indirect discourse. In Ter., dependence on an infin. with subject acc. is seldom sufficient in itself to occasion a change of mood, if the indic. would be the mood of direct discourse.

18. reicere: trisyllabic.

19. As Lanunnus has endeavoured to drive Terence off the stage ("from his studies to starvation") by his criticisms, the latter is obliged in self-defence to reply to his accusations. It is an answer however, not an attack, that is intended: the other man began the fight; reprisals therefore are justified.

20. benedictis si certasset, "had he carried on the rivalry by means of compliments." audisset bene, "he would have received compliments in return," more lit., "he would have heard himself well mentioned." audire bene is similar to the Gk. καλῶς ἀκούειν or ἀκούειν εὖ. Thus also male audire = κακῶς ἀκούειν; cf. Ilc. 600.

21. "Let him understand that what he has administered (to our poet) has been repayed to him in kind." For id see App. sibi esse; see Introd. § 91.

23. quom, "albeit," "although"; see on 9 (stetit), but the subj. occurs in 733. Ad. 166. Cf. Dz.-Hauler's n. on 22 f. de se, "on his own part."

24. animum attendite, like animum advertere, governs an object. Cf. animum induxi (And. 572 and n.).

25. Epidicazomenon: see Introd. § 48. The word signifies "the claimant," and has reference to the fact that Phormio makes claim in an Athenian law-court that under the law of Athens Antipho must marry Phanium. uocant: i. e. "people call" — unless we read Graeci, with Fleckeisen.

26. hic: i. e. Terence.

27. partis: on Heaut. Prol. 1. quī: cf. Heaut. 195. n.

29. uoluntas, "favour."

32. grex: cf. n. on 10 and Heaut. 45. motus loco est, "was driven from the stage." The reference is to the 'failure' of the Hecyra at its first production. See Introd. §§ 47 and 73.

33. quem locum, "which place (upon the stage)."

34. Owing to the "skill" of the actor and stage-manager, L. Ambivius Turpio, as well as to the general "affability" and "good-will" of the audiences, the Heauton timorumenos and the Eunuchus were successful.

ACT I. SCENE 1.

The scene represents a street in Athens, leading, on the spectator's right, to the market-place (forum), on the left to the harbour.¹ At the back of the stage stand the houses of Chremes, Demipho, and Dorio, in the order named, beginning on the left.

Dauos enters from the right, bearing a small bag of money which represents the balance of an account held by Dauos to the credit of Geta, his fellow slave. The latter has asked Dauos to collect it and close the account, since he is in need of the money for a special purpose. The nature of this purpose is the subject of Dauos' speculations. Dauos is a πρόσωπον προτακόν, i. e. a character employed merely to introduce the play, and assist in the explanation of the plot. He appears only in the πρότασις or that part of the play which precedes the action proper, ἐπίτασις. Hence he disappears forever at vs. 152. Of like nature are Sosia in the Andria and Philotis in the Hecyra, and Grunio in the Mostellaria of Plautus. Cf. introductory note to And., Act I, Scene 1. fin. See Fay's Most., p. 67.

35. amicus summus: on And. 970 popularis, "fellow-citizen," "fellow-townsmen." This is the meaning in Eun. 1031 and Ad. 155, the only other places in Ter. where the word is found. The rendering "fellow-countryman," which rests on the kindred nationality of the Daci and Getae (Dauos, i. e. Dauus = Dacus), is less likely to be correct. Though the slave was not technically a citizen, yet he might speak of himself as such, euphemistically; especially as it was the custom of slaves often to identify themselves with their masters. Some commentators take the word in the sense of "fellow," "comrade," "chum."

36-8. erat . . . nummorum. "there had long been in my hands a trifling balance on his little account." The diminutives lend a pathetic colouring to the statement. relicuōm: tetrasyllabic; thus always in Plaut. and Ter. See Lachmann on Lucr. V. 679

38. conficerem: sc. oravit.

39. eius: i. e. Geta. filium: i. e. Antipho.

40. ei, etc., "it is as a present for her, I suppose, that this is being scraped together."

43. quod ille: see Introd. § 95.

43-4. "What the poor fellow has scarce saved, ounce by ounce, from his month's dole, at the cost of his very life." demensum was the measure of food or rations which the slave received each month for his own sustenance. According to Plaut. Stich. 60, the apportionment was made on the Kalends, and Donatus says that it amounted to four modii (about a bushel) of corn

¹ See the Dziatzko-Hauser ed. of this play, Introd. p. 36, and for another view of this question cf. introductory note to Act I, Scene 1 of the Adelphoe.

That an equivalent in money was sometimes given to the slave appears to be not unlikely. Cf. Seneca, Ep. 80. 7; Cato, R. R. §§ 56-59; Plaut. Trin. 944 and the editions.

44. suom defrudans genium: i. e. denying himself reasonable comforts. A man's genius was conceived to be a sort of attendant spirit associated with his life from the cradle to the grave. It was divine, but not immortal, and its character and moods were identified with those of the man himself. Perhaps the nearest English parallel is the word 'soul' as used in the parable of the rich man (St. Luke xii. 16), 'I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry.' Cf. Hor. Od. 3. 17. 14 cras genium mero curabis. Cf. also Plaut. Aul. 724 egomet me defraudavi, animumque meum geniumque meum. The word is from the root GEN- in gigno.

46. partum: sc. sit. The omission of the copula when it would be in the subj. mood is rare. Here the exclamatory nature of the subordinate sentence renders the ellipsis more natural. Besides, if written in this (early) Latin, the copula could well be est.

47. ferietur alio munere, "will be struck (by) for another gift," "will be hit again"; a metaphor natural to a slave who had had experience of the lash.

49. ubi initiabunt: sc. puerum; a fourth occasion for getting money out of Geta. The reference is to the initiation of the child into certain religious mysteries, in accordance with Athenian custom; cf. Donatus (Wessner, vol. ii, p. 363). See App.

50. causa, "an excuse," "pretext." uideon: on And. Prol. 17.

ACT I. SCENE 2.

Geta appears from the house of Demipho. In the conversation that ensues between the slaves the situation is unfolded. Chremes and Demipho, two old men and brothers, have left their respective sons, Phaedria and Antipho, in charge of Geta, during their absence in far countries. Chremes has gone to Lemnos, Demipho to Cilicia. Geta, who belongs to the family of Demipho, has tried to do his duty by his old master, and to keep the young men within reasonable bounds. For this he has received harsh treatment at their hands, has given up the task in consequence, and is now bent on aiding them as much as possible even in their follies. Phaedria has fallen in love with a music-girl belonging to a certain slave-merchant of the town, whose name is Dorio. Antipho has become enamoured of a young woman named Phanium, who, he has reason to believe, is an Athenian citizen. Through the assistance of the parasite, Phormio, he has been enabled to marry her, and is now in dread of his father's displeasure. In this dread Geta shares, for reasons of his own; but he resolves to bear the consequences like a man.

51. rufus, "red-head." Geta is looking for Danos, who wore a red wig. Slaves were commonly represented on the stage as having hair of a flaming red colour. Note the aposiopesis caused by the interruption of Danos, who sees Geta as the latter turns back toward the house to call to some one within.

52. obuiam conabar, the verb is used absolutely (cf. And. 676, Heaut. 240) and is to be joined closely with obuiam; "I was making every effort to find (more lit. 'to come and meet') you." We may however understand fieri, esse, ire or the like; cf. 617. em: on And. 416.

53. lectum est: lit. "it has been picked out"; with allusion to the quality and weight of the coins, not their number — "it's good money." Cf. Plaut. Pseud. 1149 accipe: hic sunt quinque argenti lectae numeratae minae. conueniet . . . debuī, "the number (of coins) will be found to agree with the amount that I owed you"; i. e. conueniet tanto (dat.) quantum. Cf. And. 366 conuenire nuptiis.

54. amo te: on Heaut. 360. neclexisse: sc. te; see on And. Prol. 14. habeo gratiam: cf. n. on 894.

55. adeo: on Heaut. 113.

59. modo ut: on And. 409. abi: contemptuous; "off with you," "go to"; see on 994. sis: on Heaut. 369.

60-1. quoius: i. e. cuius, which became the correct form as early as the first quarter-century B. C. perspexeris: pf. subj. in a cl. of characteristic, which also conveys a notion of opposition (adversative); "do you fear to trust a (mere) secret to one whose fidelity you have had proof of in a matter of money?" Cf. B. App. 372 (371).

61. ubi: relative, quid being interrogative; "and what profit have I in this matter?"

62. hanc . . . dicō: operam dicare is more emphatic than operam dare. Transl. "I am wholly at your service."

63. Chremem: more common in Ter. than Chremetem. Cf. n. on And. 368.

65. tam quam te = tam bene eum noui quam te.

66. illi: i. e. Chremes. nostro: i. e. Demipho.

67. antiquom, "of long standing." Cf. Plaut. Mil. 751 ueterem atque antiquam, and Tyrrell's note there.

68. modo . . . pollicens: lit. "promising him only not (all but) mountains of gold," i. e. "promising him everything short of mountains of gold." The reference is to the business opportunities which such a visit would afford. See Knapp, in Class. Phil. vol. ii, on Travel in Ancient Times, etc. Yet Donatus may be right in explaining the words as a reference to the presents which hospites were wont to give to those who availed themselves of the hereditary right of hospitium, when on a journey to a foreign country. 'hospites hospitibus multa donabant' says Don., and the custom did not begin nor end with the Greeks and Romans.

70. regem . . . oportuit: Danos means that, if he had been a "rich man," he would have made a better use of his wealth than to be ever trying to add to it. For per in the sense of "patron," "man of wealth and standing," cf. 338, and see instances in Horace and Juvenal. The English 'king' is similarly employed.

72. magistrum: i. e. as paedagogus, a word that would not suit the metre. It was the business of the παιδαγωγοί to exercise a general supervision over the conduct of their young masters. prounciam: on Heaut. 516.

73. mi usus uenit, "such was my experience." Cf. n. on Heaut. 553.

74. memini relinqui me, "I am sure that I was left in charge." The pres. infin., not the pf., is regular with memini when the latter expresses recollection of personal experience. deo = genio; see on 44.

76. scapulas perdidit, "I got my shoulder-blades ruined," i. e. I got well beaten for my pains. Cf. Plaut. Epid. 91 corium perdidit.

77. istaec: sc. scapulae; "those shoulders of yours." Like haec (see on And. 328), istaec may be fem. pl. Cf. Plaut. Men. 520 istaec contumeliae. If it is neut. pl. here, it refers to what Geta has just said.

78. aduorsum stimulum calces: sc. iactare; i. e. "to kick against the pricks." The proverb is Greek and is found in Aeschylus, Euripides, Pindar, and the Acts of the Apostles, xxvi. 14. Cf. Aesch. Ag. 1624 πρὸς κέντρα μὴ λάκτιζε.

79. obsequi quae uellent: i. e. obsequi eis omnia quae eis obsequi me uellent, "to humour them in all things in which they wished me to humour them." obsequi here and elsewhere in early Latin takes an acc. of the thing; cf. Ad. 990, Plaut. Asin. 76 id ego percipio obsequi gnato meo. The subj. seems to be due to the influence of the infin. uti foro, "to work the market"; a proverb signifying to act in accordance with circumstances and one's own best interests.

80. noster refers to Antipho. quicquam strengthens nil. So quisquam lends emphasis to nemo in Hec. 67. The pleonasm is colloquial. The omission of the verb (fecit) is common enough in hasty narrative.

82. perdite, "desperately."

83. inpurissumo: on Ad. 183.

86. ludum, "the music-school." By sending her to such a place the slave-merchant would increase the marketable value of the citharistria.

87. otiosi, "having little else to do."

88. exaduorsum ei loco, "exactly opposite that spot." Elsewhere in Ter. (97, Ad. 584) exaduorsum is used absolutely; cf. Plaut. Bacch. 835. But in Ad. 584 the Codex Bezae has ei aduorsum for which Fleckeisen reads ei exaduorsum.

89. tonstrina: barber-shops, then as now, were favourite places of meeting for idlers, gossips, and scandal-mongers. Cf. the London coffee-houses of Dr. Johnson's day, and Hor. Sat. 1. 7. 3 opinor omnibus et lippis notum et tonsoribus esse. Cf. also Plautus, passim, and Harvard Studies, vol. ii, p. 42.

91. illi: the locative of ille. See on And. 637.

92. mirarier: hist. infin. For the form see on And. 203 (debulier).

95. uiciniae: loc.; a sort of appositive to hic. Parallel is the use of the acc. (as if in apposition) with huc in And. 70. But the partitive gen. with adverbs (as in Heaut. 110, Plant. Capt. 182) is a use to which hic uiciniae may also be legitimately referred.

96. lamentari: for the acc. and infin. with a verb of perception cf. Prol. 7. In Classical Latin such verbs often take an acc. and ptepl. — a constr. very rare in early Latin.

97. ea: i. e. mater mortua. sita erat, "had been laid out." exaduor-sum: i. e. opposite the outer door of the house, so that the body was visible from the street. illi: i. e. the uirgo just mentioned.

98. extra, "except." Thus also Plant. Amph. 833 extra unum te — a use belonging to the sermo familiaris.

99. adiutaret funus: cf. Ile. 359 onera adiuta. miseritumst: sc. me.

102. uisere: infin. of purpose after the verb ire. This infin. occurs, in Ter., also after dare, introire, and mittere. alius: i. e. Phaedria.

103. sodes: on And. 85. uenimus: notice the change from the pres. to the pf. (aorist) tense and back again, and for the reverse cf. 135, 943, And. 128.

104. diceret: indef. subject as in And. 135. The mood is potential; see B. 280. 3, and B. App. 366. b (365. b.). A similar description of a maiden all forlorn appears in Heaut. 285–291.

105. Cf. Heaut. 289. n.

110. satis, "quite"; cf. Heaut. 523. n. scita: on And. 486. noster uero: note the aposiopesis, which, as Donatus says, 'succurrit, quotiens uerba rebus minora sunt' (Wessner, vol. ii, p. 379).

112. recta: sc. uia.

113. sibi ut eius faciat copiam, "that she give him an opportunity to meet her." eius: i. e. Phanium. illa, i. e. the old woman. enim, "indeed"; on And. 91. se negat: sc. copiam facturam esse.

114. aequom: neut. substantive.

116. id: i. e. uxorem ducere.

117. ageret, delib. subj.: "what he was to do," "what to do." nescire historical infinitive.

120. indotatam: on Ad. 345, Phorm. 938.

122. quid fiat repeats the previous quid fit as though it were made the object of rogasne understood (indirect quotation); but no definite ellipsis of rogasne was really felt. Cf. Elmer's note, and see on 382 (nossem).

123. confidens: on And. 855. qui: abl. or locative of the (indef.)

pron., used here like ut or utinam to introduce a wish (curse). Cf. Plant. Men. 451 qui illum di omnes perduint, and n. on And. Prol. 6. perduint: on 976 (duint).

125. lex: on Ad. 652 and And. 71.

127. tibi scribam dicam, "I will bring suit against you." Cf. 329, 439, 668, and the Gk. γράφω δίκην.

129. qui fuerit pater: later Latin would ordinarily have quis here.

130. qui cognata, "how related"; see on And. 150 and Prol. 6.

131-2. quod . . . commodum refers to the following clause, quom . . . refelles; "since you will not refute any of these charges, which circumstance will be to my profit and convenience, I shall gain my suit of course." Some editors place a comma at confingam and a period at commodum, thus making quod restrictive, as "all these things I'll make up, so far as shall suit my convenience."

133. paratae lites. on Ad. 96 (nullum factum) and 792. lites = "quarrel," "row." quid mea: sc. refert or interest; "what care I?"

134. iocularem audaciam. on And. 782; transl. "jolly cheek!" (Laming).

135. homini: i. e. Antipho. uentumst: sc. ad iudices (129). uincimur, "we are worsted (in the suit)"; cf. n. on 103 (uenimus).

137. quid te futurumst, "what will become of you?" See on And. 143.

138. "What fortune shall have in store for me I'll bear with equanimity."

Note the play on the verb ferre, the stately effect of the alliteration, and the comic touch lent to the scene by the incongruity between the slave and his high-flown sentiments. For the idea cf. Phorm. 429-430; Hor. Od. 1. 24. 19-20; Verg. Aen. V. 710 (with Knapp's note). placet, "quite right!"

140. laudo, "fine!" "splendid!" precatorem: cf. Heaut. 976. n. adeam, "I'd better go"; subj. of obligation or propriety. See Elmer in Class. Rev. vol. xii, p. 202. For other views of this subj. see W. G. Hale, The Anticipatory Subjunctive in Greek and Latin, p. 4. note; and Elmer's note on this passage in his ed. of the Phormio. Cf. Morris on Plant. Trin. 1136; Fay on Most. 848. In any case the thought is ironical. For the idea expressed in 140-142 cf. Petronius, Cena Trim., § 49. 10-14.

141. amitte, "let him off." Cf. 175, 414. n.

143. uel occidito: freely, "do what you like to him." See on And. 680 (uel).

144. paedagogus: i. e. Phaedria, who is thus ironically designated because he was wont to escort the girl daily to the music-school, and back again to her home. See 86. qui citharistriam: sc. sectatur (86).

145. sic: on And. 804, Heaut. 523. 'sic' dicendum est cum aliquo gestu, says Donatus.

146. fortasse: hiatus is permitted because the dialogue is taken up by the other speaker. See Intro. § 97.

147. non dum, "not yet."

148. quoad = ad quod tempus; cf. 462, 524 (dies) ad quam. Thus we often say loosely, "when are you looking for (expecting), etc.?" certum: inner or adv. acc.; "I have no positive knowledge." Cf. Eun. 111, 921. In And. 929, Hec. 324, scio already has an object in the acc. Hence in these passages certo is used instead of certum.

150. portitores, "custom-house officers"; they collected the portoria or harbour-dues, by contrast with the publicani or farmers of the revenue. They were charged with the inspection of letters also, in case these were of the sort to create suspicion. Cf. Plaut. Trin. 793 f. and 809 f.

151. See on Eun. 191. ut bene sit tibi (sc. uolo) has the force of a polite "no."

152. heus: on 903. hoc prodit: on And. 386. da hoc: i. e. the purse. Dorcio: Dorcium is the name of Geta's wife (contubernalis).

ACT I. SCENE 3.

Antipho and Phaedria appear upon the stage, probably from the house of Chremes. Each is eager to explain to the other the reason for his own unhappiness. The former is ill at ease because the gratification of his wishes has placed him in an attitude of defiance toward his father whom he now dreads to meet. The latter is wretched in having to contend with a grasping slave-merchant to secure the object of his affections.

Verses 153-163 constitute a canticum, and are sung to the music of the flute. The metre varies, but consists chiefly of trochaic octonarii. Verse 163 is a clausula. The iambic octonarii which follow are more subdued in tone, but the notes of the tibia accompany the words of the actor throughout the scene. See Introd. §§ 61 and 84.

153. adeon: on And. 245.

154. ut: on And. 830. aduenti: on And. 365. The gen. follows in mentem ueniat exactly as it would follow meminerim. "I am mindful of"; cf. Plant. Rud. 685 miseræ quom uenit in mentem mihi mortis, metus membra occupat.

155. quod ni, "but if . . . not"; cf. n. on Prolog. 9. quod seems to refer loosely to the previous sentences, in the sense of "as to which" (acc. of reference or specification). Cf. 157 quod utinam.

156. See App. consci's = *consci*us eg.

157. quod: on 155.

159. non potitus essem "I shouldn't have got possession (of the girl)"; sc. si non fecisset. illos aliquot dies, "for those few days." The forms aliquot and quot were not of regular occurrence until the beginning of the Empire. But see on And. 218.

160. audio is ironical and suggests impatience. Cf. 947.

161. dum connects what follows with angeret animum. consuetudinem, "marriage."

162. dolet may have a cl. for its subject, as here; sometimes a neut. pron. anticipating the cl., as in Plaut. Capt. 152 huic illud dolet, quia nunc remissus est edundi exercitus. More common in Ter. is a simple pron. in the neut. gender, used as subject, cf. Eun. 93, Ad. 272, 451, 682, 733. Such an impers. use of dolet and other verbs of feeling is more frequent in Plaut. than in later writers.

165. ita . . . ament, "so help me heaven." Cf. 883 and 954, where bene is omitted, as often in this formula, which is to be read parenthetically. The following ut-cl. is one of purpose and depends on deprecisci.

166. morte: abl. of price with deprecisci. conicito, "compare." Thus Gk. συμβάλλειν. In apposition with cetera are the two dependent questions which follow.

168. ut ne addam, "not to mention"; see on And. 259. quod, "the fact that." Cf. Ad. 305. sumptu: sumptus is a sore point with Phaedria, cf. 145-146. liberalem: on And. 330.

169. quod: on 168. palam: emphatic. Phaedria means that Antipho has a wife whom he need not be ashamed to present openly to the world.

170. ni unum desit, "were you to have one thing," expresses a possible exception to the negative implied in beatus = "not unhappy."

171. mihi est: sc. res.

172. plerique omnes: on And. 55. Transl. "that's the nature, mostly, of us all." nostri: from noster, not nos; "we are dissatisfied with our very own"; rather than "we think ourselves failures" (R. C. Jebb). The sentiment suggests Hor. Sat. I. 1. 1 f.

173. fortunatus, "in a situation to be envied."

174. etiam: temporal; "still."

175. retinere, etc., "hold to your love or let it (her) go"; see App.

178. ipsus: on And. 360.

ACT I. SCENE 4.

Geta has seen Demipho at the harbour, and comes to inform Antipho of his father's arrival. Antipho abandons himself to despair, but is urged by Geta to assume a little courage even though he have it not. The young man makes a show of putting on a bold front, but when he sees his father actually at hand he loses his self-command and goes off, leaving Phaedria and Geta to cope with the situation. This scene begins, as does the previous one, with a canticum, which continues as far as verse 196.

179. nullu's = nullus es; cf. n. on And. 599. Geta is talking to himself and fails to notice Antipho and Phaedria. celere: adv., as in Plaut. Cure.

283 ita nunc subito propere et celere obiectumst mihi negotium. Donatus makes it an adjective.

180. Freely, "so unprepared are you now for the stupendous evils which suddenly threaten you." Instead of te we should expect tibi, or in te, for inpendeo is intrans. in classical Latin. But the direct acc. seems to have been common with this verb in early Latin; e. g. Lucilius (Marx, 1227) has quae res me inpendet, and Lucretius (1. 326) mare quae inpendent. Other verbs too are found in Plaut. to be followed by an acc., which are intransitive in the classical period. A list of them is given by Brix, Mil. 1047.

183. Said aside to Phaedria.

184. "Moreover, I've (just) a moment's time for this business: my master is at hand."

185. quod quom audierit, "and when he hears of it," i. e. of Antipho's marriage, to which reference is made by Geta, indirectly, in 182 and 184. eius: i. e. Demipho.

186. laterem lauem, "I should lose my labour," lit. "I should be washing a brick." Cf. πλύνθων πλύνεις, and Seneca, Controu. X. Præf. 11 non intellegis te laterem lauare.

187. animi: on Heaut. 727

188. absque eo esset, "if it had not been for him," "but for him." Cf. Plaut. Trin. 832 absque foret te, and colloquial English, without you had helped me. 'Properly absque is a prep., and the impf. subj. is an independent concessive subj.; then by association absque comes to have concessive or conditional force, retaining also its function as prep.' Thus Morris on Plaut. Capt. 754. In general this prep. is used by Plaut. and Ter. only before a personal or demonstrative pron., and with the impf. subj. Cf. Dz. Hauler's n. Cf. also Knapp in T. A. P. A. vol. xxv, p. 16. Here the expression constitutes the protasis to the apodosis in the next verse.

189. uidissem = providissem; "I should have looked out for."

190. conuasassem, "I should have scraped together," i. e. out of my master's property. Hence the act would have been a theft. This comports with the definition of the word given by Nonius: furto omnia colligere. protinam: an early Latin form = protinus.

191. See App. Antipho is speaking aside to Phaedria.

193. nescio quod: cf. n. on And. 340. Here quod (instead of quid) makes the expression adjectival.

194. ibi plurimumst, "he's mostly there."

195. hem: on And. 416. Vss. 194-195 (without sanusne es) constitute a single iambic octonarius. Cf. Conrad. Metr. Comp., p. 128 f.

196. satis pro imperio (sc. loqueris); "you speak with authority enough, whoever you are." Antipho's peremptory tone suggests to Geta that there may be something more in the command than the mere attempt of some joker to delay a slave in haste. Cf. 848. For pro cf. n. on And. 675. uolui obuiam: sc. ire; see on 52.

197. cedo: on And. 150.

199. See App.

200. nam quod = quod nam. See on And. 321.

201. Phanium (voc.); the name of Antipho's bride, whom the young man now apostrophizes, as Clinia apostrophizes Antiphila in Heaut. 398.

203. fortis fortuna adiuuat: a proverb of frequent occurrence and wide application. Cf. Verg. Aen. X. 235 audentis fortuna iuuat; Cic. Tusc. II. 11 fortis . . . fortuna adiuuat, ut est in uetere prouerbio; Soph. Fr. 12 (Brunck) οὐ τοῖς ἀθύμοις ἡ τύχη συλλαμβάνει. Cf. also Seneca's Medea, 158; Pliny, Epp. vi. 16. 11.

204. apud me, "in my senses." Cf. n. on And. 408, and the Gk. ἐν ἑμαυτῷ εἰμί. nunc quom maxume: on And. 823. ut sis: sc. apud te.

206. commeruisse: on And. 139. inmutarier: middle voice; "change myself," "change my nature." I cannot assume a virtue (confidence) if I have it not, says Antipho.

208. quom possum, etc., "since I cannot (do) this, I should be the less able (to do) that." See on Prol. 9 (stetit). hoc nil est, "all this amounts to nothing," or "it's no use." But hoc, says Don., may refer contemptuously to Antipho. Parallels exist in Latin, Greek, and English. ilicet: cf. n. on Heaut. 974; Eun. 54. Here transl. "let us go," or "come along."

210. This verse and the next are often supposed to afford some slight evidence at least that in the time of Plaut. and Ter. masks were not in common use at Rome. Cf. 57, 890; And. 839, 878; Plaut. Men. 828. See Intro. § 67. quid si adsimulo, "what if I make believe?" That is, what if I make a pretence of being bold, and assume an air of confidence? Cf. Molière, Les Fourberies de Scapin, Act I. Scene 4. em: on And. 416.

212. ut respondeas: understand some imv. such as fac, uide; "see that you answer him word for word, tit for tat." uerbo and pari are datives.

213. ne . . . protelet, "lest in his wrath he should smite (overwhelm) you with his furious sayings." The verb is connected, perhaps, with telum, and one of the synonyms suggested by Don. is percutiat. The metaphor seems to be that of a combat followed by a rout. scio: said absently, as Don. points out (Wessner, vol. ii, p. 405).

214. tenes: on And. 86.

215. See App. platea: on And. 796.

219-20. tu . . . pendens, "you'll get a scolding presently; I shall be strung up and flogged." pendens: on Eun. 1021.

220. nisi . . . fefellerit: fut. pf.; "unless I shall prove to have been mistaken."

223. aufer mi 'oportet,' "away with 'what I ought.'" Cf. 857. quin . . . impera: on And. 45.

225. in re incipiunda, "at the time when we undertook this project"; "at the beginning of our plan" (Jebb). ad defendendam noxiam, "with reference to warding off blame (from yourselves)"; the original sense of defendere.

226. "That that suit was equitable, plain, sure to win, fair as could be"; infin. with subject acc. after the idea of speaking implied in oratio (224) = "language." The suit was brought by Phormio against Antipho with the collusion of the latter. vincibilem = quae facile vincat; Donatus. Cf. Heaut. 205 tolerabilis = "tolerant."

227-8. "Well, we have need now of that very plea or, if possible, of one finer and more artful." Understand oratione.

229-30. Geta is fond of metaphors taken from the sphere of military tactics. Cf. 346-347. subcenturiatus: i. e. a man held in reserve, in order that he may fill a vacancy in a centuria; hence, "as a reserve."

ACT II. SCENE I.

Demipho appears on the stage in a state of extreme indignation at what he has heard regarding his son's marriage. Phaedria and Geta stand on one side, out of the old man's sight, and the slave keeps up a running commentary on Demipho's remarks, for the benefit of the audience. Phaedria then addresses Demipho, and defends his cousin in accordance with the plan of operations already arranged between himself and Geta. The old man refuses to be reconciled. His wrath, however, is somewhat diverted in the direction of Phormio's part in the business, and he sends Geta to find the parasite that he may have an interview with that bold schemer in the presence of witnesses.

232. imperium, "authority," refers to the patria potestas, or absolute power which the law allowed to the father in dealing with his child. ac, "and yet." mitto = omitto. simultatem, "animosity," "resentment."

233. reuereri: on And. 245 and 870. Understand cum. non pudere: freely, "no compunction!" (Jebb).

234. uix tandem, "at last!" sc. mi meminit. Geta expected Demipho to attack him first. Cf. And. 470. Of course Geta's 'asides' are ironical.

235. reperiam: sc. causam. aliud cura "try again," more lit. "think of something else."

236. audio, fateor, "well, well, I grant it." places, "good!"

238. illud durum, "that's a hard one," "that's a poser." Cf. 901 ridiculum. expediam: lit. "I'll set it free," i. e. "I'll make it clear."

241. omnis: acc. with oportet (242).

242. quo . . . ferant, "how they are to bear tribulation when it meets them."

243. See App. peregre, "from abroad," as in Plaut. Stich. 584 saluom gaudeo peregre te in patriam redisse.

245. "(He should reflect) that these things belong to our common humanity, that they may happen (at any time), to the end that nothing shall find his mind unprepared." fieri posse repeats communis esse haec. For ut ne cf. n. on And. 259; the cl. gives the purpose of the whole injunction, quam ob rem . . . posse (241 ff.). See App.

246. spem, "forebodings"; so spero often of things not good. deputare depends on oportet (242). But see App. For the sentiment cf. 757 f., Hec. 287; Hor. Epist. 1. 4. 14, Od. 1. 9. 14.

247. eo: indicative, because incredibile quantum is felt as one word = "wonderfully." Cf. nescio quis, and n. on 193 and 643.

248. omniā: see Introd. § 91; cf. Heaut. 575. redierit (fut. pf.) refers to the fut. idea implied in incommoda; "I have conned over all the misfortunes that will fall to my lot if my master comes back." Notice Geta's parody of Demipho's words, from this point to end of vs. 251.

249. See App. usque, "perpetually." in pistrino: cf. And. 199.

250. ruri: town slaves disliked work "in the country." The picture however is more Roman than Greek.

252. hominem = eum (almost); thus frequently in Terence.

255. uenire: sc. te. See on And. Prol. 14. credo: ironical; "no doubt," "I dare say." hoc refers to Demipho's question concerning Antipho.

256. "He's well; he's in town; but is everything quite to your liking?" Cf. n. on Heaut. 683.

257. uellem quidem, "would it were, indeed."

258. "A fine marriage have you consummated here in my absence." Note the particular emphasis imparted to the adj. by its position.

259. id: an adv. acc. = "on this account." The use is probably due to the analogy of quod employed as in 263 — originally an abl. (in -d), afterwards mistaken for an acc. Cf. 361.

260. ipsum: i. e. Antipho. illum or eum would do, but ipsum contrasts the person spoken of with the person spoken to.

261. sua culpa: emphatic; "that it is through his own fault that, etc."

262. acerrimum, "a martinet" (Jebb); contrasted with lenem = "good-natured."

263. quod: on 259.

264. congruunt: until the end of the republican period it was customary to avoid u after u or v.

265. noris . . . noris: fut. pf. indic., says Hauler. See the Dz.-Hauler

ed. of this play. The proverb is familiar, "know one, know all"; $\xi\kappa\ \epsilon\upsilon\delta\iota\varsigma\ \tau\alpha\ \pi\acute{\alpha}\nu\theta'$ ὅρᾱν.

266. hic: usually short in Plaut. and Ter. when it is nom. sing. of the pronoun. Cf. 1028. hūc (nom. and acc. sing.) is long.

267. quom illest: sc. in noxia. tradunt operas mutuas, "it's a joint-stock company," or "it's a put-up job." See 835-836.

269. illo: i. e. Antipho. cum illo = pro illo (Don.). Cf. Nep. Ages. 5. 4 quī nobiscum aduersus barbaros steterunt. The more usual construction was ab aliquo or ab alicuius parte stare. stares: this verb, like adesse (cf. 266), was said of a person who gave advice or assistance in a suit at law; cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 9. 38 and 39.

270. si est . . . ut: on 925. culpam in se admiserit: on Ad. 682. Transl. "has been guilty of anything."

271. minus . . . temperans, "too little considerate of fortune or fame." rei and famae are genitives (objective), as in Tac. Ann. xiii. 46 potestatis temperantior; cf. Plaut. Asin. 857 amantem uxoris maxime. There is an allusion (in rei) to indotatam, and (in famae) to ignobilem of vs. 120. foret: subj. in a characterizing cl. in which the idea of result is very marked.

272. ferat: for the meaning cf. And. 610.

273. si quis: i. e. Phormio. Cf. Molière, Les Fourberies de Scapin, Act I. Scene 6.

280. tua iusta, "your rights"; cf. n. on And. 975. ubi . . . respondeas: indef. second pers. Hence the mood. The cl. is conditional, and differs but slightly from a si-cl. with an indef. temp. adv. following the conjunction. Cf. Gk. $\delta\tau\alpha\nu$, and the Engl. whenever (for if at any time).

281. ita ut ille fecit: the verb fecit here picks up the preceding negative verbal complex. Some critics have said that this never happens in an ut-cl. of comparison. But see Knapp on Hor. Sat. 1. 1. 108 (A. J. P. xviii, 332-334).

281-2. functus officium: on Heaut. 580. Cf. n. on 413.

284. See App.

287. columen: as in Hor. Od. 2. 17. 4. Cf. our figurative use of the word "pillar." The verse is ironical.

289. iam dudum . . . audio: for the tense cf. the French depuis longtemps je vous entends.

293. dictio: on And. 400, Eun. 671. Slaves were not permitted at Athens to give evidence in support of their masters.

294. inprudens, "from inexperience."

295. seruo's = seruos es.

297. "You ought to have dowered her; he should have sought another husband (for the girl)," i. e. in place of himself. For the subjunctives see on And. 793. Cf. Hec. 230 curares.

298. qua ratione, "for what reason?" "in accordance with what theory (of right and wrong)?"

299. ratio: observe the play on this word which Geta takes in the sense of "an account" in money. sumeret: on 297; "he should have got it from some quarter or other."

301. faenore: sc. sumeret; i. e. "he should have borrowed it."

302. siquidem quisquam crederet, "yes, if any one would have trusted him (us) during your life-time." Demipho was Antipho's guardian and must give his consent to the contract, or it would not be binding; more especially as Antipho was under twenty-five years of age, and came therefore under the provisions of the lex quina uicenaria.

304. egon . . . ut patiar: on Heaut. 784. The negative of this constr. is given in 260.

305. nil suaue meritumst: sc. corum; lit. "no gentle treatment is his desert," i. e. "he deserves no clemency." meritum is a substantive, not pf. pass. prtepl. Cf. 1051, Heaut. 92.

307. nempe, "you mean."

308. faxo: on And. 753. faxo . . . aderit: on And. 854, Eun. 285.

311. For the custom of paying a greeting to the household gods, on returning from a journey, cf. Plaut. Stich. 534 deos salutatum atque uxorem modo intro deuortor domum. Cf. Knapp in Class. Phil. ii. 300.

313. adsient: on 269 (stares). For the form see on And. 234 (siet).

ACT II. SCENE 2.

Phormio and Geta enter the stage from the market-place, discussing the subject of Demipho's return. The former is confident that he can carry the matter through, and expresses his eagerness to meet Demipho.

315. admodum, "quite so," "certainly."

317. oppido, "very much so"; a colloquial word, obsolete in the time of Quintilian, though found in Livy. ad . . . redit, "on you alone devolves the whole responsibility."

318. "You are the man who has mixed this mess; you must eat it up." Cf. "you have made your bed and you must lie on it." intristi = intristi. accingere: middle; "get yourself ready."

319. rogabit: sc. Demipho. Phormio is meditating on his possible course of action in the event of Demipho's asking him certain questions. eccērē, "but, see here now," occurs nowhere else in Ter.; in Plaut. it appears six times. The true composition may be ecce and re (= rem). But according to Paul. Fest. p. 78 (M., 55 Th.) it is an oath derived from Ceres, as ecastor from Castor, edepol from Pollux.

320. quid si reddet, "what if he shall retort?" Understand responsum. But the meaning may be, "what if he shall (try to) give the girl back?"

sic opinor: Phormio has now reached a conclusion as to his course of action; "I have it, I think." His words do not answer Geta's.

321. cedo senem, "bring the old man out." See on And. 150.

323. deriuem, "turn the current of"; from de and riuos. The metaphor is similar in Lucr. 2. 365 deriuare animum.

325. in neruom erumpat denique, "may land (you) in the pillory (prison) at last." Cf. 696; Plaut. Cure. 720 in neruo iacabis, and 723 ego te in neruom . . . rapiam.

326. factumst periculum, etc., "I have tried it, I have learned the road by this time." periculum here bears its original signification. The expression pedum uia may have been chosen with special reference to in neruom (325). Cf. Morgan's rendering, "I know where to set my feet."

327. deuerberasse, etc., "have cudgelled to death"; a humorous exaggeration.

328. "Aliens as well as citizens? The better I know the way, the oftener I tread it." For the force of tum here cf. And. 262. See App.

329. cedo: on And. 150. dum: used with imperatives to emphasize the command. Cf. 784, and the familiar abi dum, die dum, mane dum, etc., in which dum is always enclitic. enumquam: i. e. en umquam. The prefix is the same as em, for which cf. 52 and see on And. 416. It is used in conjunction with umquam in questions expecting the answer 'no.' and assists in fixing the attention on the negative character of the reply. Transl. "did you ever hear that a suit for damages was brought against me?" See on 127, 439.

330. qui: on 130. tennitur: i. e. tenditur. See App.

332. quia enim, "because indeed"; on And. 91. in illis . . . in illis, "in the latter . . . in the former"; for in his . . . in illis. The actor's gestures would have prevented any mistake that might otherwise arise from the use of the same pronoun to contrast two sets of people. Cf. Ad. 130 f. opera luditur, "our labour is wasted." Cf. Plaut. Capt. 344, Pseud. 369 operam ludimus.

333. "Some people are in danger from one source, others from another, from whom there is anything that can be pilfered." unde=ex quibus, the antecedent being aliis. On the sentiment cf. Juvenal. 10. 22 cantabit uacuus coram latrone uiator.

334. ducent, etc., refers to the law under whose provisions a debtor, unable or unwilling to pay damages legally awarded, might be arrested and compelled to live with his creditor as a slave. Notice the telling alliteration, and cf. 347.

337. pote: see App. Cf. n. on And. 437.

338. immo enim: on And. 823. regi, "to one's patron." Phormio was a parasite and might speak from experience.

339. tene: on And. 245. asymbolum (= ἀσύμβολον); "free of expense." See on And. 88. Cf. n. on Eun. 540. The Greeks were fond of banquets at which each participant contributed his share, συμβολή. bali-neis: from βαλανεῖον. For the shortening of the penult cf. platea (= πλατεῖα) in 215, and n. on And. 796. The form balneum became more common after Plautus.

340. ab animo indicates the origin from which the action or state is derived. Cf. a fronte, a tergo, etc., and Plaut. Epid. 129 a morbo ualui, ab animo aeger fui. The English says "in mind." quom: adversative. ille: i. e. the patron. absumitur would be subj. in classical Latin.

341. "While that is being done which shall satisfy you, he submits to annoyances." quod placeat expresses volition, purpose, and at the same time characterizes an indefinite antecedent. Such clauses are termed by Elmer, 'volitive characterizing clauses'; see his note. tu rideas, etc., "you are free to laugh, to taste first of the wine-cup, to occupy a better place at table;" a kind of Oratio Obliqua, a sort of quotation of the courtesies rendered by the rex (338).

342. dubia, "puzzling," i. e. where there is a profusion of dishes — un embarras de richesses, as explained in the next verse.

344. rationem ineas, "consider"; practically a single word. The subj. is due to the indefinite second person, while quom has the force of a general rel. = "whenever," i. e. "if ever," "if." Cf. n. on 280.

345. qui: the antecedent is hunc.

346. coitio: a military metaphor = "clash," "shock." Cf. n. on 229.

347. postillā: with iam; "immediately after that." For the form, cf. post-eū, practer-eū, ante-hūc, post-hūc, in which the second part is probably an old abl. Cf. And. 936. ludas licet, "you may play with him"; the only place in Ter. where licet is joined with the subj. rather than the infin. Cf. Hor. Od. 1. 28. 35 licebit iniecto ter puluere curras.

ACT II. SCENE 3.

Demipho appears with three friends who are to help him with their advice. Geta and Phormio converse apart, but in such a way as to be overheard by Demipho, whose wrath is stirred up accordingly. Demipho then assails the parasite, and challenges him to prove Antipho's kinship to the girl. But he finds his match in Phormio, who retorts that the relationship has already been established in a court of law. The parasite further refuses Demipho's offer to compromise on the basis of a dowry to be paid by Demipho, and the transfer of the girl, under the form of marriage, from Antipho's possession to that of her self-constituted champion. Phormio finally leaves the old man to nurse his anger and get what comfort he can from the aduocati, who have been silent witnesses of the proceedings.

348. enumquam : on 329.

350. quin . . . age : on And. 45. Cf. 223. hoc age, "just give your attention to me now"; a formula used to invoke attention at a sacrifice, which became colloquial. Cf. 435 and n. on Eun. 130. The words quin . . . agitato are said aside.

351. pro, etc. : on And. 237.

354. neque : the negative is repeated here merely for emphasis; one would expect negatque. qui : on 129.

356. A gloss, as is evident from 386. It serves the purpose of explaining 354. Stilphonem : thus all MSS. and Donatus. The Greek is Στλφων, and the correct spelling Stilpo is given in a lemma of the Codex Monacensis. See Schlee (Schol. Ter., p. 28). Cf. Dz.-Hauler's crit. note.

357. ignoratur, "is disowned," "is ignored."

358. quid facit : on And. 45 (quid est).

359. malitiae : gen. of the charge. male audies : on Prol. 20.

360. etiam : additory, and reinforced, as often, by ultra. See Kirk in A. J. P. xviii, p. 36. ultra, "gratuitously."

361. quod : on 263 and 259.

362. illum : i. e. Phanium's father. grandior, "elderly." Cf. n. on Ad. 673.

363. pauper, "whose means were limited." egens would be the word for 'living in poverty,' which is not the idea. He was able to live by his labour, as the next few words indicate. opere, "field-work"; thus also Eun. 220; Heaut. 72, 73, 142; Ad. 518. uita, "livelihood"; "bread" (Jebb). Cf. 734.

365. colendum : i. e. by contract or stipulation.

366. hunc : i. e. Demipho.

367. quem . . . uiderim restricts optimum; "the best that I have seen." See Hale, The Cum-Constructions, p. 92.

368. uideas te, etc., "may you discover yourself to be as you say he is," i. e. optimus. Geta is ironical. See App. in' malam crucem : on And. 317. in' = isue. The original instrument was a pole, and the process that of impaling. This was succeeded by the cross, to which the slave or malefactor was nailed or bound.

370. hanc : i. e. Phanium. in, "with regard to."

371. quam refers to hanc (370).

372. pergin = pergisne. male loqui governs the dat. as though it were a single word.

373. "This however is just what a man like that deserves." illo is contemptuous. ain tamen : see App. ain = aisne. carcer, "you prison-house," i. e. possessing the qualities that make for one.

374. "You goods-extractor, law-twister"; new phrases invented by Geta, on the spur of the moment, in which to express his assumed indignation.

377. hodie: on 1009.

378. adulescens: contemptuous; "young man." bona uenia, "with your good leave."

379. potis: on And. 437.

381. qui cognatum: on 130.

382. proinde quasi: on Heaut. 65. expiscare, "you're fishing (for it)." nossem: an echo of Phormio's nosses; see on 431 (expetam) and cf. n. on Hec. 524.

383. nego: sc. nouïsse. qui aïs, "who say (I do know)." redige in memoriam, "assist me to recollect," "jog my memory."

384. "What, man, not know your own cousin?" The question expresses surprise, and does not expect an answer, as it would do if non had the force of nonne. enicas: cf. 856. n.

387. subice, "prompt me"; said aside.

388. non dico, "I'll not tell you"; strictly, "I'm not telling you." See on 669, Ad. 781 (non manum abstines). Cf. n. on And. 404. temptatum: supine.

389. ego autem tempto, "what, I pump you?" The subj. is more usual in indignant repetitions of this character, than the indic. Cf. 431. n. atque adeo, "and yet indeed"; on And. 532. quid mea: sc. refert. See on Eun. 849.

392. horum, "in the presence of these gentlemen," i. e. of the aduocati; the gen. as in Ad. 683, Heaut. 260, Hec. 793, Plant. Trin. 312 deum hercle me atque hominum pudet. If horum were neut. it would be in the nom. case, since pudet takes the pers. constr. with neuter pronouns, e. g. Ad. 754, Plant. Mil. 626. pudet: cf. n. on 384; "what, you're not ashamed?"

393. talentum: gen. pl. of the 2nd decl. Cf. Ad. 411 maiorum suum, and n. rem: on And. 288.

394-5. esses . . . proferens = proferres (nearly); "you would have been the first to be putting forward, etc." Cf. n. on And. 508.

396. quom aduenissem, "if ever I had come," i. e. before the court, to claim an inheritance. Cf. n. on 280 and 344.

397. face: on And. 680.

398. cedo: on 197. eu: the same as the Gk. $\epsilon\upsilon$, "well done." So in Ad. 911 euge = $\epsilon\upsilon\gamma\epsilon$, "bravo!" Cf. 478, 869.

399. quibus me oportuit: sc. expedire. Cf. 383, 447, 683, 113, etc., for similar omissions of the infinitive.

400. fuerat: the force of the indic. is to assume the truth of the supposition, for the sake of argument simply; "suppose this had been false." Phormio does not commit himself.

404. ut reddant depends on the idea of petitioning implied in magistratus adi.

405. solus regnas : i. e. you alone can do as you please ; others must obey the law. Cf. Ad. 175, where Sannio is likewise ironical. soll : sc. tibi.

406. bis : Athenian law did not allow a case once closed to be reopened. Cf. Demosth. in Lept. 147, p. 502.

408. sector : on And. 798 (uiueret).

410. abduc hanc, minas quinque accipe. "off with her, take five minae." Demipho is much excited—a fact that accounts for his use of imperatives, as well as for the transposition of the two verbs. The Attic mina was equivalent to 100 drachmae, or about $18.75. mina = μνᾶ, the i being inserted merely to facilitate pronunciation. Cf. colloquial Engl., 'athletes,' 'puleverize.'

413. meretricem . . . abusus : in early Latin abutor and fungor regularly take the acc., utor, fruor (perhaps) and potior the abl. sometimes. See on 830. For abutor and utor in Ter. see on And. Prol. 5, Ad. 815.

414. amittere, "to let her go."

415-7. The purpose is stated twice, viz., by ut ne (415) and by ut (417). Cf. an analogous repetition (of a condition) in Prol. 13-15.

416. propter egestatem : for an illustration cf. the case of Chrysis in the Andria.

418. unde : sc. proximi sumus ; "whence (i. e. 'how') are we the nearest (of kin)?" ohe : on Ad. 723.

419. actum ne agas. "don't try a suit already decided" ; a proverb taken from the law courts. Cf. Ad. 232 agam and Donatus' n., 'quod enim in iure semel indicatum fuerit, rescindi et iterum agi non potest.' This was true in general of the Athenian courts. See Meier u. Schöman, Att. Proc. 733 ff. It was otherwise at Rome, as with us. Cf. n. on 406 and on And. 465. The right of appeal however was limited at Rome. See Greenidge, Roman Public Law, 293; Smith, Dict. of Antiq. 1. 601. non agam : cf. n. on 382 (nossem) and on 431.

420. ineptis, "you are talking nonsense" ; cf. Ad. 934. sine modo : cf. n. on Eun. 65-66.

426. te : abl. ; "better do the same with yourself." feceris : fut. pf. indic.

427. paratus : on And. 909. aduorsum is frequently post-positive in early Latin.

428. infelix, "wretch." Cf. Shak., Comedy of Errors, Act V, Scene 1, line 27. metult, etc. : Phormio's reply to Geta's iratus est (426).

429. bene habent : sc. se, which is usually expressed, as in 820, Heaut. 702, but cf. Ad. 365, Plant. Cas. 338. quin, etc. : for the sense cf. 138. n.

430. feceris : on 426. For ferundum fers cf. n. on 138.
431. expetam echoes Phormio's thought, though not his word : subj. in a repudiating question. Cf. n. on 382; B. App. 363. d. (rev. ed.), and Harkness' Lat. Gram. 559 5. ('complete' ed.).
432. uisum aut auditum : sc. a me. uelim : on 431.
- 433-4. quae . . . oblectet : on 770.
434. respice, "think of"; cf. Heaut. 70.
435. hoc age : on 350.
438. dignum, "proper."
439. dīcam . . . inpingam, "I'll bring a suit against you for weighty damages." Cf. n. on 127.
440. domo me, "you may fetch me from home." domo is abl. of separation. The speaker's manner suggests the verb, e. g. arcesse. Cf. n. on 38. The illustrated MSS. mark a scene division at this vs. by means of miniatures; but the usual superscription in the Bembiné Codex is lacking. Umpfenbach accordingly refrains from making 441 the beginning of a new scene.

ACT II. SCENE 4.

Demipho consults his friends, the three aduocati, two of whom give opposite opinions, while the third is undecided. This leaves Demipho in still greater perplexity than that in which he was involved before he sought their advice. The humour of the situation is manifest.

445. nondum : on And. 340.
447. quid ago : on And. 315 ; cf. Heaut. 343, Eun. 811, Phorm. 1007. Cratinum censeo : sc. dicere. Cf. n. on 399.
449. in rem tuam, "to your advantage." See on And. 546.
451. restitui in integrum, "be cancelled," more lit. "be restored to its original state," before the marriage.
454. quot homines, etc., "many men, many minds." Cf. Hor. Sat. 2. 1. 27 f. quot capitum uiuunt, totidem studiorum milia.
- 455-6. mihī . . . posse : this was in accordance with Athenian law. Cf. n. on 419.
456. inceptust = inceptu est : supine, as in Ad. 275.
457. amplius, "further"; possibly a reference to the Roman judicial system which allowed the postponement of a case for the sake of obtaining further evidence. Such postponement was termed ampliatio.
458. num . . . uis : on Eun. 191.
459. quam dudum : sc. eram; "than I was a moment ago"; cf. n. on And. 582, where however the reference given to Phorm. 459 should be omitted. dudum = dū dum.
460. redisse : sc. eum, i. e. Antiphonem. Cf. n. on And. Prol. 14. Geta returns from the house of Demipho, whither he was sent (445) to look for Antipho. The slaves there tell him that the young man has not come home.

462. quoad: "how soon"; see on 148. se recipiat, "he is likely to return." The direct question would be quoad se recipiet?

464. eccum: on And. 532.

ACT III. SCENE 1.

Antipho returns much vexed with himself for his cowardice in running away and leaving his own dearest interests in charge of others. Geta assures him that his affairs have not suffered during his absence, and that his father will not act until Chremes arrives on the scene. This however arouses new fears in Antipho's breast.

465. enim uero: on And. 91. multimodis: on And. 939; cf. Heaut.

320. cum istoc animo: cf. n. on And. 941 (cum tua religione) and on Eun. 153; cf. also Phorm. 930, Hec. 134, Ad. 713.

466. itane . . . dedisse: on 153. uitam refers to Phanium.

467. tete: acc. by attraction; strictly we should have tute (aduorsurus sis). animum aduorsuros: regarded as one word having rem for its object.

468. ut ut: cf. 531. illi . . . consuleres, "you ought at least to have taken thought for that girl, etc." See on 297.

469. tuam fidem, "her trust in you." For this use of the pronoun cf. 1016. quid . . . poteretur: on 830, and And. Prol. 5.

471. qui: causal; "for having run away." See A. & G. 320. e; B. 283. 3. u; H. 517.

472. Antipho sees Geta for the first time. ea causa: i. e. because you deserted us.

474. subolet quid: on Heaut. 899; "has my father any inkling of it?" etiam: on And. 116.

475. nisi, "only"; about the same as nisi quod, and frequent after nescio, to whose sweeping negation it attaches a modifying statement. Cf. n. on And. 664, Phorm. 953. See A. & G. 525. e.

476. See App. hominem praebuilt: sc. se. The omission of the reflexive is rhetorical and rare with praebere. See Dz.-Hauler's crit. n.

477. confutauit senem, "kept the old gentleman from boiling over." Cf. n. on Heaut. 949. admodum, "very"; with iratum. Cf. Heaut. 53.

478. quod potui: the omission of fecit suggests modesty on Geta's part. amo: on 54; "I'm beholden to you all."

479. rest = res est.

480-1. ut aibat: the rest of the sentence is given as though Geta had omitted ut. After ut aibat we should expect de eius consilio uolebat facere. Cf. Ad. 648 for a similar irregularity, and see Dz.-Hauler's note.

481. de, "in accordance with," "by."

482. metuist = metuis est (i. e. metūs est, gen. of 4th decl.). Cf. n. on Heaut. 287. uidere : infin., as though preceded by quantum metuo. huc : sc. redire.

484. palaestra : the young Greeks went regularly to the palaestra for exercise and recreation. Hence the regularity of Phaedria's visits at the house of Pamphila suggests the application of the word to the place where she lives. Transl. "from his play-ground."

ACT III. SCENE 2.

Phaedria begs Dorio, the slave-dealer and owner of Pamphila, to give him more time in which to procure the money needed for the purchase of the girl. But Dorio is obdurate and refuses to listen any longer to Phaedria's oft-repeated request. He has had an offer from a soldier who is to bring the money to him on the morrow. He will make the sale however to Phaedria if the latter succeeds in bringing him the cash before the soldier can do so.

486. non audio, "I won't"; cf. n. on 388. quin omitte me, "you let me alone"; cf. n. on And. 45.

488. quod lubenter audias, "something which you would be glad to hear," if you should listen; a characterizing clause of contingent futurity (B., App. 404. 3. a.). Thus also 1052-1053 quod gaudeam and quod doleant. The subj. has the same force as in an independent clause. In the fully developed type of characterizing clause this would not be true.

489. triduum hoc : on 513.

490. mirabar si : on And. 175.

491. ne quid, etc. : Antipho fears that some real trouble may come to Phaedria from the situation. But Geta breaks in and gives Antipho's sentence a turn suggesting that Dorio may try the young man's patience a little too far. Such violent measures as are taken with Sannio in the Adelphoe were not uncommon. Transl. "lest he may be patching up something for his own head," i. e. "lest he may have to wear the night-cap himself." This metaphorical use of suo, "to sew," occurs here only.

492. non dum : on And. 340. hariolare, "you are talking truth," "you're quite correct," "you've got it to a T"; an ironical compliment. Nowhere in Plaut. or Ter., says Knapp, does hariolari = "talk nonsense," although it has been so explained. See Knapp (on Ad. 202) in Class. Rev. vol. xxi., pp. 46-47. Cf. Ad. 202. fabulae, "mere talk." Cf. And. 224.

493. faeneratum : sc. esse; from faenero, "to lend on interest." Transl. "you shall say that this kindness was richly repaid." Cf. Ad. 219. logi = λόγῳ. Cf. Shak., Hamlet, Act ii, Scene 2, "words, words, words."

494. somnia : cf. n. on 874.

495. cantilenam eandem canis, "it's the same old chant you're singing." Cf. n. on Heaut. 260 (cantabat).

496. cognatus, etc.: i. e. I will so regard you, if you will only grant me the favour I ask. modo: cf. n. on Eun. 65-66.

497. adeon: on 153.

500. "As (to want) to take me in with tinselled words, and to take off my girl without paying for her." Notice the play on ducas and ductes. The former verb often suggests deception; the latter is used of taking to one's self a mistress.

501. miseritum est, "I'm sorry for him," i. e. for Phaedria; said aside to Geta. ei, ueris uincor, "ah, the truth is too much for me." Phaedria turns away from the slave-dealer, feeling that he cannot argue with him any longer. See App. uterque: i. e. Dorio and Phaedria. similis sui: the gen. is regular with similis in early Latin.

502-3. "And then (to think) that this blow should n't have befallen me when Antipho had some trouble on hand too!" This is Jebb's rather free translation, given by Bond and Walpole. It is in keeping with o fortunatissime of vs. 504, and seems to express the true spirit of a doubtful passage. Phaedria would have been happy to see Antipho involved in a trouble similar to his own. Misery loves company. He fails to see Antipho's difficulties. For neque with infin. of exclamation cf. 232-233. See App. For the idea that misery loves company cf. Plaut. Capt. 581-583; Pl. Epp. vi. 20, 17; Seneca. Med. 426 ff., Troad. 1016 f.

505. cum: with malo, which is modified by huius modi. conflictares: on And. 93.

506. id quod aiunt: on And. 805. auribus teneo lupum: a proverbial expression similar in spirit to the English 'to catch a Tartar.' Donatus derives it from the Gk., τῶν ὥτων ἔχω τὸν λύκον· οὕτε γὰρ ἔχειν οὐτ' ἀφείναι δύναμαι. The latter part is probably explanatory of the first.

507. See App.

508. Dorio means that he stands to Phaedria in the same relation as that in which Antipho stands to the wolf. hoc: i. e. Phaedria. ne . . . sies: very ironical. The ne is final (cf. And. 704, 706): "look out there lest you be too little of a leno," i. e. (tauntingly) "act well up to your reputation."

509 num . . . confecit, "has he done anything?" i. e. any mischief? hic = Dorio.

510: meam would move the spectators to laughter, for Pamphila was in reality the property of Dorio; note the slave-dealer's fine reply in 511.

512. illo: i. e. the man to whom Dorio had sold the girl. mutet fidem, "cancel his bargain," "break his faith."

513. triduum hoc, "for the next three days." Cf. 489. dum: purely temporal; "while."

514. ne oppertus sies: pf. subj. in a prohibition conceived of without reference to the continuance of the action. See B., App. 358. d. (rev. ed.).

515. obtundes, "will you keep pounding it into me?" Cf. n. on And. 348. See App.

516. idem hic, "he also," "he too." conduplicauerit, "will promptly double." Notice the force of the fut. pf.

518. horunc = horum-ce. poterin = poterisne. Note that -ne is attached to the sixth word in the sentence — for emphasis; "can you possibly, etc.?"

519. neque ego neque tu, "neither you nor I (can bear it)," but it will surely happen for all that, as she is already promised to another person. Dorio is ironical. quod: sc. accipere. Cf. n. on 399. duint: on And. 666.

521. contra: a prep. (probably). In early Latin contra is more often an adv., as in Ad. 50. In Ad. 41 it may be a prep., but Dz. makes it an adv. there, while Spengel and Wagner deny the prepositional use altogether for Terence.

522. qui . . . lacrumet; see B., App. 371 (370 rev. ed.) fin.

523-4. tibi . . . praestituta. "assuredly a day was once fixed by which (time) you were to pay him." quam ad: a rare order. Cf. however 427 me aduersum; Heaut. 189, 265 te erga; Hec. 535 te est penes. In Plaut. this order is common in connection with the rel. pronoun. dares: subj. in rel. cl. of purpose.

524. factum. "yes." The omission of est is regular; cf. Eun. 708, 851, Heaut. 568, Hec. 846, Ad. 543, 561, 676.

525. haec: sc. dies, i. e. the date on which the other purchaser made his appearance.

526. ob rem: on And. 546.

527. sic sum: on And. 919.

528. immo, etc., "nay, in very truth, Antipho, it is he who is deceiving me."

532. dare: for daturum esse; frequent in Ter. after verbs of promising. The pres. infin. marks the prompt fulfilment of the promise, as in Caes. B. G. 4. 21 qui polliceantur obsides dare atque imperio populi Romani obtemperare. Cf. Ad. 203 and 224, Eun. 520, Phorm. 837 ire; n. on And. 379.

533. "I'll follow my rule of first come, first served." ut . . . dandumst explains mea lege.

ACT III. SCENE 3.

Phaedria is in great perplexity to find means of obtaining the money. He and Antipho unite in entreaties to Geta to help them out of the difficulty. Geta protests, but yields at last and promises to do his best on condition that he can have Phormio to help him.

534. huic : i. e. Dorio.

535-6. quoi : the antecedent is ego. quod refers to argentum. Transl. "which had been promised me, if this fellow could have been induced to grant me three days more (of grace)." exorare, being a verb of asking, would govern two accusatives, one of the person and the other of the thing. The verb being in the passive, the acc. of the person becomes nom., the acc. of the thing remains unchanged. It is possible however to regard triduum hoc, not as object of exorari, but as acc. of duration of time. In that case the expression must be looked upon as an instance of colloquial brevity = exorari ut triduum hoc expectaret. Cf. 513. pote : on And. 437.

537. qui . . . adiurit : a cl. of characteristic, conveying an accessory notion of opposition ("although," "in spite of the fact that"). Such clauses are called also 'concessive' and 'adversative.' Cf. B., Lat. Gram. 283. 3. adiurit = adiuerit = adiunxit.

542. etiam tu hinc abis, "away with you!" "just you be off!" This interpretation is supported to some extent by Ad. 550 etiam taces? "do be quiet!" and by Heaut. 235 etiam caues . . . ? These examples, it is true, lack the emphatic tu, but this fact makes little difference. tu is peremptory (emotional), as in Hor. Od. 1. 11. 1-2 tu ne quaesieris. . . . Leuconoë, and merely notes Geta's excitement. etiam perhaps has no appreciable force (see Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii, p. 39), yet in Plant. it is often used when a question or command is repeated, and then it = "again I ask," "again I say." Now Geta's quid faciam (540) virtually = abi hinc, "go to," "out with you"; so too his eloce, etc. In 541 and 542 he says words to the like effect, until the repetition of his refusal reaches a climax in the present passage = "again I say, will you be off (with your request)."

543-4. "Is it not a triumph for me that I get into no trouble through your marriage, without your now bidding me still to seek disaster in a scrape on account of Phaedria here?" Cf. And. 647-648. ni : on And. 648. etiam : on 547. crucem : on 368.

547. ni instigemus etiam, "without our goading him still further." etiam is temp., with an additory connotation; see Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii, pp. 28, 29. ut . . . preci, "so that no room may be left for entreaty." See on 140. Cf. And. 601 and n. on 206.

551. certumst persequi, "I am resolved to follow her."

552. quod agas : see on Hec. 197. pedetemptim : sc. agas; "act with caution," "go slowly."

553. quaere, "think."

554. "Lest he should do something or other, that would cause us regret hereafter." quod . . . pigeat : see on 488.

555. uerum . . . malum, "but after all I fear trouble."

557. triginta minae : nearly $600.

559. iam : on And. 704. inuentas reddam, "I'll have them found," "I'll manage to find them." For the constr. cf. And. 864 and 684, Phorm. 856, Ad. 849.

562. solus . . . amicus : a reminiscence of a line of Apollodorus, quoted by Donatus (Wessner, vol. ii. p. 463.), μόνος ἐπίσταται φιλεῖν τοὺς φίλους. solus is of course an exaggeration. He befriends his friends as no one else can do. ocius : on And. 724.

563. num quid est, etc. : on Eun. 191. opera : abl.

564. illam : i. e. Phaulium.

565. quod faciam : on 488 ; cf. n. on 554.

566. qua uia, "how." itere : see footnote. modo te hinc amoue : a repetition of aufer te hinc (559). Cf. And. 707. n.

ACT IV. SCENE 1.

Chremes and Demipho are on their way from the harbour, where the former has recently disembarked on arriving from Lemnos. Chremes is much disturbed at the news concerning Antipho, as he had hoped (with Demipho) that the young man would marry the daughter who was the fruit of his Lemnian marriage.

569. uidet : hist. present.

570-1. "While at the same time the girl's (increasing) years brooked not my negligent delay."

571. ipsam, etc. : we should expect ipsa . . . profecta est, ut aibant.

572. illi, "there" ; see on And. 638.

574. unde asks the source of the disease, qui its character and name.

575. senectus ipsast morbus : cf. Juvenal, X. 218 f. (senem) circumsilit agmine facto morborum omne genus.

578. quod refers to the fact alluded to in 577. consili : locative ; cf. n. on Heaut. 727.

579. condicionem, "match" ; in allusion to the daughter of his Lemnian wife. Chremes' Athenian wife was ignorant of the existence of the establishment in Lemnos, and the old gentleman was desirous that she should remain so. extrario, "an outsider," i. e. some person other than Demipho's son.

580. sit : sc. condicio, a word that readily suggests the girl herself.

582. alienus : on Ad. 672. The reference is to the extrarius (579).

584. opus est : often united with the abl. case of the pf. pass. prtcpl. neut. Thus also usus est. A neut. pronoun in the nom. case frequently accompanies the constr. as subject (usually in the sing. number) ; cf. n. on And. 490.

585. aliqua : sc. uia ; cf. n. on 566. See 746.

586. quod refers to the possibility expressed in 585. me excutiam, "clear myself out," i. e. "take myself off" ; still further explained by egrediar domo. This interpretation is supported by Eun. 358 homo quatiatur . . . foras, and Hor. Od. 3. 9. 19 excutitur Chloe.

587. nam . . . meus, "for of all I have I only am my own." Note the oxymoron. Chremes' property was derived entirely from his wife. Therefore to quarrel with her meant destitution.

ACT IV. SCENE 2.

Geta has seen Phormio and the two have arranged a plan for getting money out of the old men. The scene represents Geta as expressing his admiration of Phormio, who is so ready to do all in his power to assist Phaedria to obtain the money that he needs.

591. hominem . . . neminem : on Eun. 549, Ad. 259.

592. quam Phormionem : on Ileant. 116.

593. fieret : deliberative subj. in an indirect question.

594. intellexerat, "he took it all in at a glance." The plpf. expresses the rapidity with which Phormio grasped the situation. Note the parataxis.

595. quaerebat, "he asked for."

596. tempus, "opportunity," "chance." dari depends on the idea of thinking implied in gratias agebat. Cf. the infin. with gaudeo, doleo and similar verbs expressive of emotion. Cf. also 610. We might expect a causal clause.

597. ubi . . . ostenderet, "where he could show," "of showing"; Elmer's 'potential characterizing clause.' See App.

598. ad forum = apud forum (nearly).

601. belua : cf. Eun. 704. Cf. Fr. bête, bêtise. Transl. "lubber that I was."

603. commodius, "more advantageous." duplici spe utier, "to have two strings to one's bow."

604. petam, "I will try and get it," i. e. the money. hinc, "out of him," i. e. out of Demipho. a primo, "in the first instance," "originally," "at first." Cf. 642 and n. on 340. institi, "I began," i. e. "I planned (to seek it)." See App.

605. hunc hospitem, "this new-comer," i. e. Chremes. Geta's pronouns and pronominal words are made more intelligible to the spectators by his gestures.

ACT IV. SCENE 3.

Geta now proceeds to put into execution his plan for obtaining from Demipho the thirty minae needed by Phaedria for the purchase of the music girl. He pretends that in his interview with Phormio the latter promised to forego all legal proceedings against Demipho and to marry Phanium on the receipt of thirty minae. The amount seems excessive to Demipho and he becomes much enraged. Chremes however steps in and offers to defray the expense out of his wife's property.

610. uolup est, "I'm delighted." uolup, like facul, is an indeclinable noun; see Don., and cf. n. in Dz.-Hauler. It occurs in Ter. only here and in Hec. 857, but in Plaut. it appears in fifteen passages. It is an early form, whence the classical uoluptas. See Ritschl, Opusc. II. 450-452. The form uolupe is probably incorrect. There are those who regard uolup as an adverb. Cf. Brix, Mil. 277. For the infin. with uolup est cf. n. on 596 (dari).

611. compluria: frequent in early Latin instead of complura; see Donatus. Cf. however the discussion in Aul. Gell. 5. 21.

612. audistin: notice that -ne is affixed to the third word in the sentence, and cf. n. on 518.

613. facinus indignum: on And. 145.

614. circumiri, "to be got around," "to be circumvented," "to be cheated." commodum, "just now," ἀπρίως; colloquial. Cf. Eun. 343.

615. nam . . . quoque, "(you did well to do so) for of a truth I too." See on And. 43. Cf. Ad. 190.

617. fit obuiam: on 52. Cf. And. 590.

618. qui istanc, "the man by whom that girl . . ." Understand some such idea as "was thrust upon us." Phormio was supposed to be Phanium's guardian. His name was not yet known to Chremes.

619. uisumst mi ut, etc. = decreui ut, etc., or decreui + infin. Cf. 625.

620-2. "Why do you not see to it that we arrange these matters between us?" sic, "in this way," refers to the plan he is about to suggest.

623. liberalis: on 168. fugitans litium, "shy of law-suits"; the obj. gen. instead of the acc. because fugitans is felt as an adj., like amans, sapiens, etc. Cf. Hor. Od. 1. 8. 4 patiens pulueris atque solis.

624. nam: cf. n. on 615. The idea is: "(otherwise he would have bundled her out of doors) for the rest of his friends advised him to do so."

625. auctores fuere ut: lit. "were advisers to the effect that." Cf. Plaut. Mil. 1094 quid nunc mi's auctor ut faciam; n. on And. 157 (operam do). praecipitem, etc.: cf. n. on And. 683 (inuentum dabo); Ad. 318.

626. hodie: on 377.

626-7. an . . . dices, "you'll say then that he will pay the penalty of the law?"

628. iam id exploratumst, "that point has been already investigated."

629. si . . . homine, "if you try conclusions with that fellow," i. e. if you go to law with him. ea eloquentiast, "he's that eloquent"; probably nom., but possibly abl. of quality.

630. uerum pono, "but I assume (for argument's sake)." uictum: i. e. in the law-suit. at tandem tamen, "yet after all." The emphatic word is tandem.

631. "It is not a case in which his civic rights are at stake, but (only) money." Demipho, if he lost the suit, could pay any fine imposed upon him by the court, and that would end it. Phormio in like circumstances would have no money wherewith to pay, and accordingly would lose his personal freedom and civic standing. He would become Demipho's slave. This, in legal phrase, was to lose one's caput.

634. in manum, "in cash."

635. hinc facessat, "take herself off"; understand se. For this intrans. and colloquial use of facessere, cf. Plaut. Rud. 1061 si quidem sis pudicus, hinc facessas.

636. illi: i. e. Geta. propitii: Antipho means that Geta must be out of his mind — a condition supposed to be due to the ill-will of the gods.

637. "If what you say (i. e., if the sum you mention) shall have the least particle of justice in it."

638-9. commutabitis uerba, "have words," as in a dispute. Cf. Don. (Wessner, vol. ii. p. 466) 'uerba commutare est, quod nos altercari dicimus.' Cf. And. 410.

643. nimum quantum, "a great deal too much." nimum, incredible, mirum and similar words are sometimes connected so closely with a following quantus (a, um), that the two have the effect of a single word. Cf. the Gk. θαυμαστόν ὅσον, πλεῖστον ὅσον, and Hor. Od. 1. 27. 6 immane quantum. In reality such cases involve ellipsis, as e. g. quantum rogat nimum est, "his asking price is too high." Cf. n. on 247. si . . . daret, " (he said that he would be satisfied) if any one should give him."

644. talentum magnum: the Attic silver talent, worth 60 minae, perhaps $1200. Cf. Plaut. Most. 919, Rud. 778, 1344 (with Sonnenschein's n.). See Goodwin in T. A. P. A. 1885. malum, "a licking," "a thrashing."

645-6. adeo, "exactly"; to be taken with quod. quid . . . locaret: sc. in matrimonium; "what (could he do more) if he were portioning out his only daughter?" Cf. 752 where nuptum is added, and 759 where locare stands alone in the same sense.

646-7. "It has been of small benefit to him that he did not rear a daughter, (for) one has been found to claim a dowry." Demipho, it is to be presumed, had not been without a daughter. He had merely taken advantage of the law which allowed the father to 'expose' his infant child, and thus avoid the expense of rearing it. This was done most frequently in the case of female infants. Cf. the plot of the Heaut. Demipho however has not escaped. quae dotem petat is a rel. clause of purpose. See B., App. 371 (370 rev. ed.). On dowries see e. g. Heaut. 838, 940; Plaut. Amph. 950 ff. On the general expense of a daughter cf. e. g. Heaut. 835 ff.

648. ut ad pauca redeam, "to put it in a few words"; cf. Hec. 135. n. Illius mittam ineptias, "to pass over his impertinences."

651. fuerat precedes uolui in point of time.

652. eius incommodum, "the disadvantage to her." We might expect incommodi; cf. note on aduenti, 154.

653. in seruitutem: substituted for in matrimonium in order to draw attention to the subordinate position in the family of a wife without a dowry. This and ad ditem (for diti) lend pathos to the description. The acc. with ad lacks the suggestion of personal interest which the dat. would convey. Cf. Plaut. Trin. 689-691.

655. quae adferret, "who should (would) bring"; see on 488. qui, "whereby."

657. hac: i. e. the amici filiam of vs. 650.

658. istanc: i. e. Phanium.

661. quid si animam debet, "what if he owes his very soul?" i. e. is over head and ears in debt. oppositus pignori, "mortgaged"; properly, "a field is set for (as) a pledge, over against ten minae." The ob ("over against") in 662 repeats the prep. of the verb. Cf. Plaut. Capt. 433 meam uitam esse positam pignori.

662. age age denotes unwilling assent.

663. item sunt: sc. oppositae pignori. alias: sc. minas. oici suggests that a blow of some kind has been struck. Cf. Eun. 716.

667. porro: in support of this reading Dziatzko (Adn. Crit.) cites Heaut. 838. See App.

668. sescentas suggests an indefinitely large number, as in Plaut. Trin. 791 sescentae ad eam rem causae possunt conligi. dicas: on 127, 329, 439.

669. nil do, "not a penny am I giving." Cf. n. on 388. ut . . . inrideat: on Heaut. 784. Cf. 304. etiam: additory, in an interrog. clause expressing anger at the mockery implied in Phormio's (reported) demands; "can it be that that dirty fellow shall mock me besides?" See Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii, p. 39. c. For inpuratus cf. 962.

670. quiesce: on And. 598.

670-1. filium fac ut ducat = fac ut filius ducat. Prolepsis. Cf. 354.

672. occidisti, "you have ruined"; slightly different in Ad. 899.

673. hoc, "this sum of money."

674. quantum potest: on And. 861.

675. illam: i. e. Phanium. hanc: i. e. the amici filiam of 650, to whom he claims to be betrothed (657).

676. illi: i. e. the friends and kinsfolk of the girl referred to in 650 and 657.

677. iam accipiat, "let him have her at once." illis: on 676. repudium renuntiet, "let him give notice to them that the engagement is broken off." repudium signified properly the dissolution of the premarital contract. Cf. 928 f.; Plaut. Aul. 784 Lyc. Is me nunc renuntiare repudium iussit tibi.

678. hanc: i. e. Phanium. illi: i. e. Phormio.

679. adeo, "very."

680. Lemni: locative. Cf. 66. uxoris: i. e. Nausistrata, who had estates in Lemnos. Cf. below, 788 ff.

681. dixero: for the tense cf. n. on 516 (conduplicauerit). After this vs. the old men disappear into Chremes' house, without observing Antipho who had stepped out of his father's house at 606.

ACT IV. SCENE 4.

Antipho is very angry with Geta, for he thinks that the latter has injured his cause by giving Demipho the hope that Phanium may be got rid of. Geta assures him that the trick will work well, that Phanium is not in danger, and that Phormio will easily get out of the difficulty by pretending that the omens are opposed to his marriage with Phanium. Meantime the money will have been secured for Phaedria.

682. emunxi argento senes, "I have cleaned the old fellows out of their money."

683. satin est id, "that's enough, is n't it?" Antipho means that Geta has done more—that he has betrayed him besides. Geta pretends that Antipho is referring to the money, and answers, "I don't know, I'm sure (if it's enough)." iussus sum: sc. facere. Cf. n. on 399.

684. uerbero, "you whip-scurdrel." Cf. 850, Ad. 781 mastigia = μαστιγίας (μάστιξ, 'a scourge'), i. e. "one who is all whips," because he is so often flogged.

685. narras = dicis, as in 368; "what then are you saying?" i. e. "what mean you (by satin est id)?" narrem: for the mood see on 122.

686. Antipho means that nothing now remains for him but to go and hang himself. res redit: cf. Haut. 931, n.

687. ut = utinam.

688. exemplis, "punishment." Cf. n. on Eun. 946.

689. qui . . . auferat: subj. of contingent futurity. Cf. B., App. 360, b. Transl. "for he (qui = is enim) would bear you, etc." tranquillo: on Eun. 1038. For the sentiment cf. Ad. 372. Of course Antipho is bitterly ironical.

690. hoc ulcus: i. e. this painful subject of my marriage.

694. quid fiet: like the English, "what then?" enim: intensive; see on 113. noui: ironical; "oh! I dare say."

695-6. "When they demand back the money, I suppose he'll prefer to go to prison for our sake." This Phormio would have to do for breach of contract (the money having already been spent by Phaedria), unless he should decide to adopt the only other possible course, viz., to marry Phanium, which is what Antipho fears he would do. in neruom: on 325.

699-700. iam si, etc., "the moment he receives the money he is under obligation to marry the girl, as you say — I admit it."

701. tandem, "after all." adparandi: cf. n. on Ilec. 374.

702. uocandi: se. amicos; "for issuing invitations." Cf. And. 453. sacrificandi: cf. Ad. 699. paululum: adj. It is a substantive with following genitive in And. 360, Eun. 281. Notice its emphatic position.

703. amici: viz., of Phaedria.

704. inde, "out of that." iste: i. e. Phormio.

705. "How many things happened afterward to warn me against it!" postilla: on 347. monstra: in the original meaning, as derived from monco; cf. Festus (p. 138 M., 114 Th.).

707. inpluuium: cf. Dz.-Hauler's n. on this passage.

709. ante brumam, "before the winter (solstice)," i. e. before Dec. 21st.

709-10. noui negoti: partitive gen.: "to think of beginning any new business!" Cf. Plaut. Most. 1017. We might understand initium; cf. And. 709. See App.

711. ut modo: on And. 409. me uide: on And. 350.

712. Phaedriae: dat. with dic.

ACT IV. SCENE 5.

Demipho and Chremes appear from the home of the latter, and are busily engaged in discussing the recent arrangement with Phormio. They bring with them the money for Phormio, and Demipho promises Chremes, who is apprehensive of trickery, to clinch the bargain through the production of witnesses to the transaction. Chremes is of opinion that Phanium should be previously informed of the change in store for her, and that it would be well if Nausistrata should be sent to the girl to break the news. Demipho thinks this unnecessary, but gives his reluctant consent to the plan.

713. ne quid uerborum duit, "that he shall not impose upon us." uerba dare = "to cheat," lit. "to give words (and nothing but words)." For duit cf. n. on And. 666.

714. hoc: i. e. the bag containing the money for Phormio. amittam, "let go." quin . . . adhibeam, "without calling in witnesses."

715. commemorabo, "I'll recite," i. e. in the presence of witnesses.

716. opus facto est: on 584 and And. 490. lubido, "caprice," "whim."

717. altera illaec, "that other girl," to whom Phormio is supposed to be engaged. Cf. 657.

718. rem ipsam putasti, "you've hit the nail on the head." Cf. Ad. 796, 208. The idea in putare is that of exact calculation. eum: i. e. Phormio. ubi, etc.: addressed to Demipho.

719. hanc : i. e. Phanium.

720. dicat : sc. Nausistrata. Phormioni : felt with both dare and nuptum : "that we are giving her to Phormio in marriage."

721. qui ipsi sit familiarior, "since he is more closely related to her." Thus also 851, "pretty closely related to me," "one of the family."

722. is : i. e. Phormio.

723. quid malum id tua re fert, "what the mischief has that to do with you?" For malum see on Heaut. 318. magni (gen. of value) expresses the degree of concern, with re fert.

724. te : like the English indef. "you" = "one"; cf. Ad. 30. Chremes has an eye to the appearance of things.

725. ipsius : i. e. Phanium.

726. magis conuenit, "gets on better with."

727. rogabo, "I'll go and ask her." illas : i. e. his Lemnian wife and daughter. Cf. 571 f. Demipho goes to the market-place to settle with Phormio, after which he is to seek Nausistrata and bid her visit Phanium for the purpose already explained. Chremes remains behind on the stage.

ACT V. SCENE 1.

Sophronea, Phanium's nurse, appears from Demipho's house, but does not see Chremes, who is much startled when he recognizes her. His astonishment is increased when he hears from her that her mistress is dead and that his daughter is married to Antipho. At first he imagines that his nephew has two wives; but Sophronea soon convinces him that Phormio's ward and Phanium are the same person, and that his dearest wish is realized.

728. quo = ad quem. consilia haec, "these considerations," e. g. that the marriage with Antipho is in danger of being annulled, and Phanium of being turned out of house and home. See 731 and n. on 733 (infirmus).

732. nam quae = quae nam, "why, who?"; see Roby, 2296. a fratre : on And. 226. exanimata, "breathless," "distracted."

733. quod (acc.) refers to the fact indicated in 730, that she had advised the marriage. quom : adversative; see on Prol. 23. infirmus, "insecure," "shaky"; cf. Hec. 101. The insecurity of Antipho's marriage hinges evidently on the fact that his father's consent to it had not been previously obtained. It is true that divorce was easy, but as there had been no informality in the marriage it is difficult to see how it could be annulled except on the ground that parental authority was supreme.

734. interea : i. e. until Phanium's father should be found.

736. quid ago, "what's my course?" See on Heaut. 343.

737. adeo, maneo, dum, "shall I approach her, (or) remain quiet, while?" For the indie. see on And. 315.

740. respice : Chremes is in the rear, near his own house, while Sophronea has advanced directly to the front of the stage after issuing from the house of Demipho. Hence Chremes tells her to look back at him. Stilpo: for the spelling see on 356. Thus also Dziatzko and Fleckeisen.

741. hinc, "away from here." Sophrona, on hearing Chremes' voice, turned and approached the place where he was standing. This would bring her near to his house, though not so near to it as was Chremes himself. istorsum, "that way," "in your direction," i. e. further toward Demipho's house, and away from that of Chremes. sodes: on And. 85.

742. appellassis: the archaic form of the sigmatic aorist subjunctive (or rather optative) in -sim (-sis, -sit, etc.). In the first and second conjugations -ssim (-ssis, -ssit, etc.) is found. See on 308 (faxo), and Hauler's n. Cf. King and Cookson, pp. 462-463. According to some authorities the form is syncopated from appellaueris. It may be observed that the pf. subj. would be the regular tense and mood in the present construction.

743. st has the prosodical value of a long syllable, in the middle of the vs. and the thesis of the foot. Cf. Plaut. Merc. 749 st ubi.

744. He likens his wife to a wild beast. This is the meaning of conclusam, "caged"; saenam suggests the rest. Menaechnus makes a similar comparison in Plaut. Men. 158 f. concede huc a foribus . . . etiam nunc concede audacter ab leonino cavo, the leo being his wife. Cf. n. on And. 386.

745. perperam, "falsely." Cf. Gk. πέρπερος.

746. effuttiretis, "should let it leak out." Contrast 477 confutavit. porro, "later on." aliqua: on 585.

749. illae: the wife and daughter from Lemnos.

750. ex: cf. And. 268. aegritudine hac, "this trouble," "sorrow," refers to the necessity for her and her daughter to leave Lemnos and go in search of Chremes, who seems to have been indifferent enough to their lot. The noun was not used of bodily ailments before the Augustan period.

751. male factum, "bad job!" "too bad!" Cf. n. on And. 105 (factum bene). quae essem, "since I was."

752. locaui: on 645-6; "I gave the girl in marriage to this youth."

754. duasne uxores: an amusing utterance as coming from bigamous Chremes! See 1040 ff. au: an exclamation peculiar to women; usually of deprecation. Cf. 803. See on And. 751.

755. quid illam alteram, "what about that other girl?" Cf. 480 quid eum?

756. composito, "by arrangement." quo modo (i. e. ut eo modo) introduces a rel. cl. of purpose. Cf. B., App. 371 (370 rev. ed.).

757. sine dote: significant words, for it was to effect the marriage without a dowry that Phormio's scheme became necessary.

759. ut uolebam: i. e. secretly, without scandal; see 578 ff. locatam, "settled," i. e. in marriage. See on 645-6.

760. ambo : i. e. Chremes and Demipho.

761. fecit : sc. Antipho.

762. quid, etc. : on 584.

763. oppido : on 316.

764. hanc : i. e. Phanium.

765. See App. Chremes and Sophrona enter the house of Demipho.

ACT V. SCENE 2.

Demipho returns with Geta from the market-place, where the former has just concluded his bargain with Phormio by paying him the stipulated sum. Geta hints at the possibility that Phormio may refuse to marry the girl after all. Accordingly Demipho decides to hurry matters up and to seek Nausistrata's assistance in accordance with his promise to Chremes. Geta, left alone, sums up the situation, and decides to go home and warn Phanium against attaching too great importance to the remarks of either Phormio or Nausistrata.

766. nostrapte, "our own." Cf. Heaut. 686 meapte. The -pte is used by Plaut. also, and by Cicero, to strengthen the abl. sing. of possessive pronouns. facimus . . . esse, "we make it people's interest to be wicked." malis has slightly better MSS. support than malos and is more idiomatic; cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 1. 19 atqui licet esse beatiss. On the contrary, cf. Heaut. 388 expedit bonis esse uobis.

768. ita fugias ne praeter casam : sc. fugias; "(in seeking to avoid danger) so run that you do not (in your haste) run beyond your place of refuge"; i. e. in trying to get out of one trouble take care not to get into a worse one. The expression is proverbial and is suggestive of Demipho's chagrin at having to part with good money to Phormio; see 769-770. quod aiunt : on And. 805.

769. etiam : see on 360. obiectum : the word used by Vergil (Aen. vi. 421) of throwing the sop to Cerberus.

770. qui, "wherewith." qui uiuat : rel. cl. of purpose. It is often difficult to distinguish such a clause from a clause of characteristic. See on 756.

772. ut . . . gesserimus expresses the general result of circumstances previously alluded to by Demipho; "so that we have acted most foolishly in that matter." But it hangs directly on uerum quidem est (to be got out of uerissimum). uerum est ut is common. For i cf. n. on Ad. 271. illi : locative = in illa re.

773. modo ut introduces a wish. Cf. 711. n. hoc consilio, "by means of this arrangement"; explained by the following ut-cl. (of result). possiet discedi : impersonal; "escape from the difficulty may be possible." Cf. 1047. For the form possiet cf. n. on 313.

774. haud scio . . . an : originally non-committal, as here; "I know not whether or not he will change his mind."

777. ista : i. e. Phanium. loquatur : the subject is uxor eius, i. e. Nausistrata. hanc : i. e. Nausistrata. After this verse Demipho enters Chremes' house to find Nausistrata. The brief soliloquy which follows is hardly to be regarded as a new scene.

778. de iurgio siletur, "there is not a word about the row." The reference is to the scolding which Antipho and Geta very naturally had expected to receive on account of the lawsuit which Phormio had brought against Antipho to compel him to marry Phanium. Demipho has not yet reproached Antipho in person, though he has said many bitter things to others, and Geta has got off thus far with such mild reproof as was expressed in vss. 287-301. siletur : impers. passive; cf. caletur in Plaut. Capt. 80 and Truc. 65.

779. in praesentia : on Hec. Prol. 24. Cf. Ad. 222, Heaut. 962.

780. uorsuram solues, "you'll be paying compound interest," more lit. "you'll be making an exchange in your payment"; uorsura signifies an exchange with regard to a debt, and uorsuram facere = 'to borrow from one man to pay another,' for which uorsurā soluere is a practical equivalent, the text presenting a mixture of the two constructions. But to the second creditor one must of course pay higher interest; there's the point. Geta, in securing the money for the purchase of the music-girl, has incurred far heavier obligations with respect to Phanium; his last state is worse than his first.

781. praesens, "at hand," "imminent." in diem, "just for the day," "for the time being." Cf. Eun. 1020. abiit, "has disappeared."

783. huius : i. e. Nausistrata. See 776. The assumption that eius of the MSS. would refer to Phormio is hardly warranted. The meaning of the pronouns was largely determined for the spectators by the actor's gestures.

ACT V. SCENE 3.

Demipho reappears from Chremes' house in company with Nausistrata, who has consented to inform Phanium of the plan by which the latter is to become the wife of Phormio, with full dower rights. Nausistrata improves the occasion to criticize her husband, whose management of her estates in Lemnos has not been to her liking.

784. dum : on 329. ut soles, "with your customary tact." fac . . . nobis, "make her feel kindly toward us."

786. pariter . . . ac, "just as." re, "your substance," "your money." dudum opitulata es has reference to 681.

787. factum uolo, "you are welcome," more lit. "I wish it (done =) so." factum uelim would mean, "I should like it to be so," "I hope it may be so." factum uellem would mean, "I wish it were so (but it is not)." Cf. 432 and Ad. 165. Cf. 792. ac . . . dignumst, "and, believe me, it is my husband's fault that I am not able to do all that I ought."

788. bene parta, "honest earnings."

789. eis praediis refers to the patris bene parta. bina : i. e. two each year.

790. statim, "regularly." capiebat : i. e. Nausistrata's father received two silver talents yearly from the estates in question, while Chremes (owing of course to the expenses of his Lemnian family) managed apparently to make them yield less than that sum. Yet he brought back enough to render possible the payment of thirty minae ($\frac{1}{2}$ talent) to Phormio. Cf. n. on Eun. 80. uiro is dat. See Eun. 232.

791. "And that too when low prices were much more prevalent (than they are now)." The adversative or concessive idea, as well as the temporal, is present here in the abl. absol. See 1013. hui : of course Demipho's surprise is simulated.

792. quid haec uidentur, "what do you think of that?" scilicet, "most undoubtedly"; spoken as if Nausistrata had said, "is not the difference extraordinary (between my father's management and my husband's)?" natum uellem : on 787.

793. parce : cf. Plant. Pers. 682 tace, parce uoci.

794. ut possis cum illa : sc. loqui or conloqui, or some infin. signifying to talk earnestly. Demipho naturally supposed that Phanium would object, and that violently.

795. abs te : on And. 226. exire : the classical use here would be exeruntem.

ACT V. SCENE 3 (continued).

As Chremes comes out of Demipho's house, where he has had an interview with his daughter, he does not at first see Nausistrata, who is standing somewhat in the background. He is in a state of considerable excitement, and the discovery of his wife's presence quite unnerves him. His desire to put a stop to any further proceedings, combined with his anxiety to keep the secret of Phanium's parentage from his wife, causes him to talk incoherently. Nausistrata becomes suspicious and Demipho impatient. Subsequently Nausistrata retires into her house, and Chremes is free to impart the news to his brother.

796. illi : i. e. Phormio. nollem datum = uellem non datum ; cf. n. on 787, Heaut. 82.

797. paene . . . erat, "I had almost said too much." Cf. n. on Heaut.

198. For sut cf. Ad. 834. Understand diri.

798. iam recte, "that's all right." Chremes is at a loss, but feels obliged to say something. quid tu, "what are you up to?" More emphatic than quid, or quid ais. The tu shows that Demipho takes note of Chremes' peculiar manner. istac . . . hanc: it is often desirable to render pronouns by the names of the persons to whom they refer, as, e. g. "have you spoken at all with Phanium about the reason why we are bringing Nausistrata to her?"

799. qui, "how?" i. e. what am I to understand by your saying that she cannot.

800. est cordi, "is dear to"; predicative dat. Cf. 588. nostra: sc. refert; cf. n. on 723. magni: on 723. praeterhac bears the same relation to praeterea as hic to is. Cf. n. on 347. In Ad. 847 praeter haec (so all MSS.) is changed by Fleckeisen to praeterhac—with Engelbrecht (Stud. Terent., p. 72).

801. sic erit: on Heaut. 1014. Cf. Ad. 182, Eun. 732.

802. redii mecum in memoriam, "I have recalled the circumstances." Cf. Cic. Cat. Mai. 21 in memorium redeo mortuorum, "I recall the dead to mind." Cf. also Hec. 113, Ad. 71; Plaut. Capt. 1022 f.

803. au: on 754. non est: sc. cognata. ne nega, "don't be too sure."

804. aliud dictum est, "was intentionally changed." hoc tu errasti, "this was it that led to your mistake." hoc is causal abl., like istoc in 747.

805. hodie: on 1009. For numquam see on And. 198. Chremes, who has been nodding and gesticulating in the hope of giving Demipho the cue to the situation, now loses all patience. Cf. the scene in Plaut. Capt. 533-658 in which Aristophontes fails to understand the signs made to him by Tyndarus.

806. nil: i. e. that which amounts to nothing; "nonsense." perdis, "you're killing me." Cf. 856 enicas; Heaut. 582. miror quid siet, "I wonder what it all means."

807-8. ita . . . ut, "according as." illi: i. e. Phanium. homo nemo: paralleled in 591, Eun. 549, Hec. 281, Ad. 259. See App.

809. ad ipsam, "to the girl herself."

810. apud te, "in your esteem." credere, "to take it for granted."

811. uin satis quaesitum mi istuc esse, "do you wish me to cease my questions about that matter?" This and Chremes' previous remark are not audible to Nausistrata. illa filia: abl.; on 137. The reference is to the daughter of Chremes' Lemnian wife, whom Demipho does not yet know to be identical with Phanium.

812. amici nostri refers to Chremes, but in the presence of Nausistrata Demipho is careful to speak enigmatically. recte: cf. 798. n. hanc refers to Nausistrata. mittimus: deliberative; see on 447.

813. illa : Phanium as Demipho thinks of her, viz. as of a person distinct from illa filia (811). In reality the two are the same.

814. sic anticipates manere hanc (815) which is the subject to esse commodius. coeperas : with allusion to the plan of marrying her to Phormio.

815. perliberalis, "a thorough gentlewoman," "very lady-like." Cf. And. 120, Hec. 864. Nausistrata departs.

817. respiciunt : on And. 642.

818. id : see App.

819. intro : i. e. into the house of Demipho. heus, "hark you," "see here."

ACT V. SCENE 4.

Antipho comes from the market-place, where he had gone to inform Phaedria of Geta's success in obtaining the money from the old men. He moralizes on the situation.

820. ut . . . habent, "however I am situated." ut in this sense is usually doubled. fratri : ἀδελφῆ; used in the sense of "cousin," for which the full expression was frater patruelis. Cf. Plaut. Poen. 1069.

821. scitum : pf. ptcl. of scisco, with the force of a mere adj.; "judicious," "sensible."

822. quas : the acc. with medeor is colloquial, but rare. quom, "if ever." paulo, "easily"; strictly a substantive (= "with little"), as in And. 903, Heaut. 498, Ad. 949. possis : subj. as in audias (488). Transl. "how wise it is to encourage in the soul only such longings as one would be able to satisfy, etc."

823. simul = simul ac.

824. euoluere, "disentangle."

825. sin patefit : the indic. in this condition suggests its reality. Antipho believes that his marriage is no longer a secret.

827. ubi . . . possim, "where should I be able?" i. e. if I were to try. See App.

828. See App.

ACT V. SCENE 5.

Phormio makes his appearance from the direction of the market-place. He congratulates himself on the result of his efforts in Phaedria's behalf, and thinks he will rid himself of the old men and take a few days off for pure enjoyment.

829. mulierem : i. e. Phaedria's lady-love.

830. propria, "for his very own"; abl. Phaedriā : nom. For the quantity of the final letter see on 865. poteretur : with the abl. only here in Ter.; with the acc. in 469, Ad. 871, 876. Cf. n. on 413 and Heaut. 580. Plautus writes potior with acc., abl., or gen. The form of the 3rd conj.

is frequent not only in early Latin but also in classical writers. Cf. potitur in Ad. 871, 876 and Per. 12 (with Dz.'s n.). emissa est manu, "she has been emancipated." Phaedria receives her as a freed-woman. Her status thus becomes that of an érailpa.

831. una . . . etiam: the additory sense, which here penetrates etiam without expelling the temporal, is reinforced by una, as in And. 940, Ileaut. 895, Eun. 1084. See Kirk in A. J. P. xviii, p. 69.

832. aliquot hos dies, "the next few days"; cf. n. on 159.

835. partis tuas: see 215-218. See on Eun. 151-152.

836. suas: sc. partis. See 266-268.

837. ire: on And. 379. Sunium: a prosperous town at the southern extremity of Attica. On the heights overlooking the sea was a celebrated temple of Poseidon, several columns of which are still standing.

838. emptum: supine. dudum, "just now"; with dixit. See 665.

840. concrepuit: on And. 682. Cf. n. in Dz.-Hauler.

ACT V. SCENE 6.

Geta, who has been eaves-dropping, suddenly issues in great excitement from the house of Demipho. He has learned the secret of the identity of Phanium with Chremes' Lemnian daughter, and is about to institute a rapid search for Antipho to whom he is anxious to relate the good news.

841. O Fortuna, o Fors Fortuna, "O Fortune! O Lucky Fortune!" There is a reference to two different deities. The Templum Fortunae, which is still conspicuous on the left bank of the Tiber, not far from the Aemilian bridge, was built in honour of the first. It was converted into a church in 872. If antiquarians are correct, this temple was built by Servius Tullius in 557 B.C., and reconstructed after a fire in B.C. 214. See Lanciani (Ruins and Excavations of Ancient Rome, p. 514). Cf. n. on Eun. 134. The second deity had a separate temple, on the right bank of the Tiber.

843. quid nam: on And. 321. Cf. n. on 732. exonerastis: the opposite of onerastis (842). The verbal play is intentional.

844. mihi: ethical dat. pallio: the pallium, a large outer cloak, copied from the Greek ἰμάτιον, was worn even by slaves. To draw it up and toss it over the shoulder was to prepare for active exercise, and was done when there was need of haste. Cf. Eun. 769. Cf. also Plaut. Capt. 778 f. nunc certa res est, eodem pacto ut comici serui solent, conicium in collum pallium, primo ex med hanc rem ut audiat. It was from this garment that the comœdia palliata derived its name.

845. hominem: i. e. Antipho.

847. em tibi, "there you are again!" For em see on And. 416; for tibi, on 844. Cf. Ad. 790. n.

848. Cf. Ad. 320-321, where Sostrata's slave, Geta, is called back by his mistress just as he is about to hasten in search of her. The Geta there, like his namesake in the present play, is afraid of trickery and delay, for it was a common practical joke at Athens to detain slaves in the streets on false pretenses, that they might subsequently be punished for loitering. institeris: indefinite 2d person; "when one has started on a run." Hence the subj. For the acc. (cursum) cf. Plaut. Capt. 794 omnes itinera insistant sua.

849. pergit hercle, "gad! he keeps it up." tu, contemptuous. odio tuo, "with your insolence." Cf. Horace's use of odio in Sat. 1. 7. 6.

850. uapula, "go get yourself flogged." resistis: on And. 344. uerbero: on 684.

851. familiariorem: on 721.

852. ipsus: on And. 360. congregere actutum, "up to him at once." Geta addresses himself.

853. quantum est: se. hominum (part. gen.). Cf. Plaut. Capt. 836 quantumst hominum optimorum optime, and Hor. Sat. 1. 6. 1 f. Lydorum quicquid Etruscos incoluit finis. An expression of quantity takes the place of an expression of number. On the Emphatic Neuter, cf. John Greene in Class. Rev. xviii. p. 448.

854. solus: on And. 973.

855. Cf. n. on Hec. 103.

856. si te delibutum gaudio reddo, "if I cause you to be saturated with joy." Cf. n. on 559. enicas: cf. n. on 806 (perdis), and see 384.

857. quin . . . aufer: on And. 45. Cf. 223, 486. cedo: cf. 321, 197; see on And. 150.

859. recta: on And. 600. domum: Demipho did not go home on the occasion referred to here. He went to Chremes' house to see Nausistrata (776). Geta alone went home, to inform Phanium that Nausistrata was coming to see her (777). Hence domum is not quite exact, and Bentley suggests ad Chremem as a substitute. But Bentley is too literal here. The two houses stood side by side on the stage, so that domum correctly gives the general direction which the two men took from the market-place.

862. gynaecēum (gynaeceum, γυναικείον or γυναικωνίτις) was the name given to that part of the Gk. house which was devoted to the use and convenience of the women. It was at the back and was wholly distinct from the apartments of the men. See on Eun. 579. For the ē see on And. 796.

863. pone prendit pallio, "plucks me behind by the cloak." See App. resupinat, "jerks me back."

865. Sophronā: Plaut. and Ter. usually preserve the long quantity of the nom. sing. of Gk. proper names in -a, provided such names consist of more than two syllables. Hence Phaedriū (830), Sostratū (Ad. 343); but Getū (usually).

866. Notice the sudden change to indirect discourse.

867. suspensio gradu "on tiptoe." Thus Phaedrus, of a cat, suspensio pede (2. 4. 18.). astiti : from adsisto.

868. animum . . . attendere, "to listen."

869. hoc modō, "after this fashion," "like this"; accompanied by a gesture. Geta puts his hand to his ear and leans forward.

871. quod nam : on And. 321.

872. Phanio : dat. of reference, dependent on pater (inuentus est). The gen. would be less vivacious. Cf. Plaut. Mil. 1431 Philocomasio amator, and the use of the prep. "to" in the lists of dramatis personae prefixed to the plays of Shakespeare.

874. somnium, "mere fancy," "moonshine." Cf. 494, Ad. 204, Plaut. Amph. 738 somnium narrat tibi. utine . . . ignoraret : cf. 304, 669; see on Ileut. 784.

877. inaudiui, "I have chanced to hear"; found only in the perfect tenses. See Brix on Plaut. Mil. 213. immo etiam dabo : freely, "nay, I will tell you something more." Cf. n. on Ilec. 869. For etiam see A. J. P. xviii. pp. 29 and 40.

882. fecero, "I'll do so at once." Cf. n. on 516 (conduplicaverit).

883. ita . . . ament : on 165. Cf. 954. bene factum, "good job!" "good work!" Phormio is referring to the discovery regarding Phanium's parentage. After this vs. Antipho and Geta enter Demipho's house, leaving Phormio alone on the stage. The soliloquy which follows was first treated as a separate scene by Faërnus.

ACT V. SCENE 7.

Phormio prepares the audience for what is to come. With the information he possesses he sees his way toward relieving Phaedria of all anxiety about the thirty minae. He knows also how he may take vengeance on the old men.

884. datam : sc. esse. See on And. 245.

885. eludendi, "of outwitting."

886. adimere : notice the shift from gerund to infinitive—for variety's sake. We might look for adimendi.

888. "For this same money, even as it has been given (to Phaedria by me), so it shall remain in his possession, whether they will or no (ingratiis). Note the force of datum erit, the finite verb being separated in thought from the participle.

889. hoc . . . repperi : freely, "the course of events has taught me how I can force the situation." hōc is acc.; see on 266. Phormio means that he will use the knowledge he now possesses of Chremes' intrigue to force the old men to do as he shall direct. reāpse : on Ilec. 778.

891. angiportum, "passage," "alley"; see on Eun. 845, Ad. 576.
proximum, "hard by."

893. non eo, "I do not intend to go." Cf. n. on 388.

ACT V. SCENE 8.

Chremes and Demipho appear from the latter's house, intending to look for Phormio in the market-place and inform him that they have altered their minds on the subject of the contract, and desire their money to be returned to them. On encountering them Phormio proceeds at once with his new plan. He pretends readiness to marry Phanium without delay. Demipho interposes some very lame excuses, whereupon Phormio assumes an air of righteous indignation: he has already spent the money in paying his debts, for it was his inasmuch as he had kept the contract by breaking with the other girl. Their indecision has placed him in a false position, and the dowry is his only compensation. Demipho retorts in anger, calling Phormio a rogue and cheat, while he in turn discloses his knowledge of the Lemnian intrigue. Chremes then foregoes his claim, while Phormio continues his taunts. Finally Demipho endeavours to drag the parasite off to the law-court by main force. But Phormio makes his way to a point close to Chremes' house, and calls aloud for Nausistrata. The old men do their best to stop his cries and to get him away from the neighbourhood. During the struggle Nausistrata appears.

894. gratias habeo: the regular construction is gratiam habeo, as in And. 42 and 770; but as ago takes the pl. the latter may be explained here as due to the influence of that verb. The only other instance of the pl. with habeo is Plant. Trin. 659, and the text there has been thought to be incorrect. gratiam habere = "to feel gratitude"; gratias agere = "to express gratitude (thanks)," while "to return (requite) a favour" is expressed by gratiam referre. The last occurs in Hec. 583-584.

896. quantum potest: on And. 864.

897. dilapidat, "demolishes"; a rather flippant expression for consumit. nostras . . . minas is felt with ut auferamus as well as with dilapidat.

901. ridiculum: sc. est; cf. 238 durum, 492 fabulae. Demipho means that it's absurd to ask such a question, as if their purpose in coming to him were not self-evident. Phormio must return the money, which (in their view) he is no longer entitled to keep. See App.

902. recepissem: on Haut. 1056.

903. heus, "look you!" See on And. 635. quanta quanta = quanta-cumque. Cf. Ad. 394.

905. estne . . . liberalis, "is she not lady-like, as I told you?" For the force of -ne see on And. Prol. 17. See App.

906. adeo: on 645; to be taken with id

908. posthabui : cf. Hec. 483. n.

909. animum aduorteram, "I had noticed," "perceived." Cf. n. on And. 156.

910. hic : i. e. Chremes.

912. potuit : sc. dari.

913. See App. Demipho here retorts upon Phormio words similar to those which the latter used in 413-414.

914. coram : adv. = "to my face," as in Ad. 484 coram ipsum cedo, and generally in early Latin. quae . . . me : double acc. after incusaueras; cf. Roby, 1122, 1123.

915. Inluditis me : on And. 758 ; "you're making game of me in a pretty high and mighty way" (Morgan).

917. quo redibo ore : the question is rhetorical, the idea being that he will hardly have the "face" to return to her under the circumstances. quam contempserim, "seeing that I have jilted her."

921. ad forum : the bankers and men of business were generally to be found in the market-place or forum (ἀγορά).

922. Demipho presumably had paid the money to Phormio through a banker. He now seeks to have the money returned to him in a similar manner. Phormio has only to order it to be "transferred again" from his own account to Demipho's (mihi rursum rescribi). A banker was termed tarpeziā (Plaut. Capt. 192), Gk. τραπεζίτης (trapezita). Cf. Curc. 377, Pers. 435, Pseud. 296. The business of a banker or money-changer in ancient times was carried on much as in our own day. Cf. n. on Ad. 277.

923. quodne : on And. 768. Transl. "do you mean the money which, etc.?" quod is relative, not interrogative. discripsi conveys the idea of paying money to different persons.

925. sin est ut uelis, "but if it happens that you wish." est ut conveys the idea of chance, not of possibility. Cf. 270; Hec. 501, 558, 637, 724; Ad. 514.

926. illam : i. e. Phanium. hic, "here," i. e. apud me, "in my possession."

928. repudium : on 677. alterae : for this form of the dat. (archaic) cf. Eun. 1004 mihi solae, and see on And. 608.

928-9. quom . . . remiserim, "seeing that it is out of regard for you that I have broken my engagement with the other lady."

929. dabat, "was to bring." The dowry had not yet been paid to Phormio by the other lady's parent or guardian.

930. in' = isne (from eo). For the pres. tense, where one might expect the fut., cf. n. on 388. See App. istac magnificentia, "your bluster," "your high-toned absurdities."

931. etiam : on And. 282, Heaut. 187.

932. adeo : with ignorariet; "that you or your doings are so little un derstood." inritor, "I am becoming enraged"; different from inritatus sum. Cf. And. 597, Ad. 282.

935. quin . . . cedo: on And. 45 and 150. Cf. Phorm. 223 and 197. tu: emphatic; "nay it is your business to (cease your questions and) let me have the money."

936. in ius ambula, "march straight into court." Cf. 981; Plaut. Cure. 621, 624 ambula in ius. This was the regular formula wherewith a private citizen could summon another into court for the redress of a grievance. He possessed the right even to use force. Cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 9. 77 rapit in ius. It was necessary however that a third person should act as a witness; cf. licet antestari, l. c. 76.

937. enim uero: on And. 91.

938. indotatis, "undowried women." Cf. 120. See on Ad. 345. The context, not the ending, determines the gender. So it is also with dotatis (940) and often with other adj. forms in Ter. Cf. 298 inopem and Ad. 155 f. The reference here is to Phanium.

940. etiam: See A. J. P. vol. xviii. p. 31. 2. and n. on And. 368. dotatis: with allusion to Nausistrata. Cf. n. on 938. quid id nostra ("what is that to us?") shows that Chremes is wholly without suspicion of Phormio's knowledge regarding the Lemnian intrigue. Consequently he is astounded at the disclosure made in 942. See on 800 (nostra).

941. quandam: sc. dotatam, i. e. Nausistrata.

942. aliam hints at the possibility of there being more than two wives; alteram would be more correct. nullus sum: on And. 599. Cf. 179.

943. clam: on 1004. sepultus sum: cf. 1026. See on And. 599.

944. adeo: on 645; to be taken with hacc. illi: i. e. to Nausistrata. denarrabo: de- is intensive, as in decertantem (Hor. Od. 1. 3. 13). Cf. Hor. Sat. 2. 3. 315, and Aul. Gell. 1. 23. 12 rem, sicut fuerat, denarrat.

945. ut ludos facit, "what sport (game) he is making of us!"

946. missum te facimus, "we discharge you," "we let you off." Cf. n. on And. 680.

947. condonamus: cf. n. on Eun. Prol. 17. audio: on 160, And. 552.

948. malum: on Heaut. 318.

949. inepti: cf. n. on Ad. 271. See App.

951. indictum . . . inritum: on Ad. 507.

953. nisi: on 475, And. 664, Heaut. 542.

954. ita . . . ament: on 165; cf. 883. monstri . . . simile, "it's like a miracle," "it's prodigious." Cf. Eun. 334. inieci scrupulum, "I have made him uneasy," "I've put a spoke in his wheel." Cf. 1019. See on And. 940; cf. Ad. 228.

955. For the construction see on And. 263 and Heaut. 784. Cf. 304.

956. emori: e- is intensive.

957. animo . . . praesenti: on Eun. 769.

961. placabilis: on Heaut. 204-205. Cf. 226; Ad. 608. Transl. "is the better way to appease her."

962. inpuratum: cf. 669. n. (on etiam).

963. ulcisci. on And. 624. On the hiatus see on 146. haereo, sc. in luto; cf. 780. Transl. "I'm stuck," or "I'm in a box." Notice the vivid colouring imparted to the picture through the use of the pres. tense. The fut. would be wholly lifeless. For this metaphorical use of haereo cf. Plaut. Capt. 532.

964. "Freely, these fellows are preparing to set upon me, with the purpose of fighting to the death." The gladiator's motto was 'no quarter'. Phormio may be supposed to have overheard the preceding remarks of Demipho. The allusion in gladiatorio animo is purely Roman; such references are unusual in Terence, though common in Plautus.

965. possit: the subject is Nausistrata.

966. For the good understanding between Demipho and Nausistrata see 786 ff.

967. quom: not temporal nor causal, but explicative = "the fact that," "that." See on Ad. Prol. 18. Cf. Dz.-Hauler. The cl. explains hoc (966). e medio excessit, "is out of the way," "has departed this life." Cf. 1019 and n. on Ilec. 620. Cf. also Ad. 479. unde = a (ex) qua, i. e. "from whom (as her mother)." haec: i. e. Phanium. suscepta est, "was acknowledged," and therefore reared.

969. "It is not to the advantage of that gentleman then that you have goaded me on." The reference in the pronoun is to Chremes.

970. ain tu, "and what say you?" The logical object of ain is in 973. tu = Chremes. ubi . . . feceris, "after you have carried on abroad according to your fancy." lubitum fuerit: the subj. is due to the influence of feceris (attraction). feceris: the subj. is used because the adversative idea is expressed with 'special reference to its logical relation to the principal clause' in 973. See B., App. 400. 3; 406. 3; 407.

971. "And have not had respect (enough) for this excellent lady." feminae. genitive, analogous to the gen. with puet (see on 392), and found occasionally with vereor in early Latin.

972. quin, etc. this cl. really depends on the idea of prevention implied in 971; "you did not let respect, etc., hinder you from insulting, etc." nouo, "strange," "unheard of." This is hyperbolic, of course.

973. lautum, "to wash away"; supine.

974. hisce . . . dictis, "with this my story." ita . . . incensam dabo, "I'll render so incensed"; see on And. 683 (inuentum dabo).

975. ut ne on And. 259. Transl. "that you shall not quench her. though you dissolve in tears"

976. See App. malum (see n. on 723), though interjectional, yet serves as an antecedent to quod. Cf. Plaut. Amph. 563 malum quod tibi dī dabunt atque ego hodie dabo. See however n. in Dz.-Hauler. duint, archaic optative; see Dz.-Hauler on 123. Such forms as duim, perduim, etc., are very common, in Plaut. and Ter., in prayers and imprecations — in later writers only in ritualistic formulæ and the like. Cf. Lorenz on Plaut. Most. 655.

977. On And. 245. Cf. 153.

978. publicitus, "at the public cost." scelus, "rascal," "villain"; common in Plaut., who has also scelus uiri, scelus pueri, flagitium, flagitium pueri, and the like. The abstract is very strong and implies that the whole man is the very impersonation of wickedness. Cf. Ad. 768. asportarier: used in 551. The punishment of exile was inflicted by the Greeks upon great criminals. In the time of the Roman Empire the term used of transportation for life, with loss of citizenship, was deportare. This verse suggests Hanno's proposition about Hannibal (Liv., xxi. 10. 12).

980. nesciam prorsum, "I don't know at all."

981. in ius: on 936. huc, "into this place," i. e. into the house of Chremes, where Nausistrata will be found to be the best judge — in Phormio's opinion. quid: acc.

982. dum, "until", frequently followed in this sense by the pres. indic. In Plautus and Terence, and even in Cicero (though in classical Latin the subj. is usual), esp. after such verbs as expecto, operior and the like. The future action is thus represented as certain. Cf. Ad. 196, 785. And. 329, 714. See Gil.-Lodge 571. note 2. Strictly however dum with pres. indic. expresses contemporaneous action and means "while"; in nearly all cases the use of "until" is a concession to colloquial English. Chremes runs to the house of Demipho for the purpose of summoning the slaves to his assistance. Through their aid he hopes to prevent Phormio from entering his (Chremes') house, and to force him to go to the court of law. Cf. n. on 936.

983. enim nequeo, "really I cannot." Cf. n. on And. 91. adcurrere: Demipho calls Chremes back. una iniuria est tecum, "that's one (case of) assault against you." The explanation of Donatus (Wessner, vol. ii. p. 480) is 'actio iniuriarum ex lege.' Phormio threatens first Demipho and then Chremes with an action for assault — δίκη αἰκίας, here represented by iniuria.

984. altera: sc. iniuria.

985. rape: used technically of forcing a person into court by violent means. Cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 9. 77 cited on 936. enim uero: cf. 465. See on And. 91.

986. inpurum: see App.

988. taceam : on 431. Cf. n. on 382 (nossem), and on 1001.

989. oculum : Hauler has well refuted the strange assumption of Dziatzko that Phormio had but one eye, and that such is here the meaning of the singular. See n. in the Dz.-Hauler ed. est ubi : lit. "there's a time (coming) when," i. e. freely, "sometime" ; cf. ἔστιν ὅτε. probe : emphatic.

ACT V. SCENE 9.

Nausistrata hears Phormio's voice and comes out of her house in answer to the summons. Phormio relates to her, though not without interruption, the story of her husband's Lemnian intrigue. Nausistrata is much incensed, and Phormio takes advantage of the situation to put in a word for Phaedria. The young man's interests are thus rendered secure for him through Phormio's friendship and his mother's leniency. Chremes is thoroughly discomfited. His brother's intercession however obtains for him a partial forgiveness, and he comes off better than he expected. Phormio's insolent triumph reaches a climax when Nausistrata, at the parasite's own suggestion, invites him to dinner.

990. qui : on 129.

991. obstipuisti : addressed to Chremes. Cf. And. 256, Ad. 613.

992. hicine ut, etc., "is it possible that, etc.?" See on And. 263.

993. creduas : Plautus has also the forms creduis, creduit ; cf. n. on 976 (duint). These archaic forms are wont to be brought into use at the close of verses or half verses, when they are convenient as aids to the metre.

994. abi : here, as elsewhere in Ter., a simple ejaculation. The meaning varies with the context. It may be contemptuous (as here), or complimentary, or threatening, or expressive of contentment and satisfaction. Cf. n. on 59 and on Ad. 220. friget : i. e. with fright.

998. non, etc., "it is not for nothing, indeed, that you are so frightened." For tam cf. n. on Heaut. 1052, Ad. 278.

1000. sclus : on 978.

1001. tibi narret, "tell it to help you?" Demipho asks Phormio if Chremes is to tell the story in order to assist the parasite in his rascally purpose. narret echoes the previous narra, by way of repudiating the idea. See on 431. Cf. B., App. 363. d. (rev. ed.).

1003. dicto : on 584 ; so also scito. huic : i. e. Nausistrata.

1004. clam : often a prep. with acc. in early Latin. In 943 it is an adv., as always in the classical period.

1005. mi homo, "my good fellow !" addressed to Phormio, and somewhat contemptuous. duint : on 976. More common is di meliora without the verb.

1006. inde = ab (ex) ea ; cf. n. on 967 (unde)

1007. dormis : cf. Heaut. 730, Ad. 693. Transl. "while you are all unconscious of the truth." quid agimus : indie. in delib. question ; see on And. 315. Cf. n. on 447 and 737.

1009. hoc actum est : sarcastic reply to Chremes' quid agimus. There is evidently a play on the word agere, i. e. "the thing is done," "it's all over (with you)." Ordinarily this would require de hoc, etc. hodie adds emphasis but is without temporal sense. Cf. the colloquial use of the English 'now' in such a sentence as 'he never did anything of the kind, now.' This use of hodie is noted by Donatus (Wessner, vol. ii. p. 48) on Ad. 215 as follows, 'hodie non tempus significat, sed iracundum eloquentiam ac stomachum, ut Vergilius' (Aen. II. 670), etc. It is esp. frequent with negatives, and in questions implying a negative, as in the present instance. Cf. 377, 805, etc.; Hor. Sat. 2. 7. 21.

1010. qui refers to an implied in uiros. mi : ethical dat.

1011. hoc ipso : i. e. Chremes. distaedet : dis- is intensive. Cf. Eun. 832 dispuet; Heaut. 404, 970, Ad. 355 disperii, 610 discrucior, 369 disrumpor; Plaut. Trin. 322 discupio, etc.

1012. "This was the meaning of those frequent visits to and prolonged stays at Lemnos?" haec is fem. nom. pl.

1013. Lemni : locative, with mansiones which is nearest to it. With itiones the acc. would be the proper case. haecine : note the repetition (anaphora). fructus, "rents," "income." uilitas, "fall in values (prices)," lit. "cheapness of things." See 791 and n.

1014. meritum esse : sc. eum, i. e. Chremes. See on And. Prol. 14. Cf. 255.

1015. quin sit ignoscenda : sc. (from the preceding vs.) nego eum culpam meritum esse; "but I do deny that he has committed a crime that is unpardonable." Better than this would be to make quin interrog., "why should it not be deserving of pardon?" Cf. n. in Dz.-Hauler. uerba fiunt mortuo, "a speech for the dead is being made." Demipho's words are ironically compared by Phormio to a funeral oration, and in fact Chremes' attitude is quite in keeping with this idea, since he appears as if he were more dead than alive. Cf. 994, 997-998 and 1026. Cf. also the suggestion contained in 943 sepultus sum.

1016. The possessive pronouns in this vs. = pers. pron. in the obj. gen.

1018. haec : i. e. Phanium.

1019. qui : attracted from the fem. into the masc. by scrupulus. scrupulus : on And. 940.

1021. quid, etc. : sc. feram. defungier : used absolutely, as in Eun. Prol. 15. Transl. "I wish . . . to make an end of it now," i. e. to bring my husband's intrigues to a finish. In Ad. 508 the verb is used impersonally, and some editors take it so here. The translation of Bond and Walpole, "I should like to die at once in my misery," seems to be aside of the mark—more so even than Madame Dacier's 'Je veux rompre avec lui pour toujours' which those editors condemn.

1022. qui id sperem, "how can I hope for this?" i. e. for his reform. aetate, "because of his age," "at his time of life."

1023. tum: i. e. when he was engaged in the Lemnian intrigue. uerecundos, "well behaved."

1024. magis expetenda, "more attractive."

1025. quid . . . adfers, "what guarantee do you offer me here?" fore: sc. id; see on And. Prol. 15.

1026. exsequias: acc. of limit of motion. In the time of Terence the classical usage regarding this construction had not become fixed. Cf. n. on Ad. 339. The vs. contains part of the regular formula employed in a summons to a public funeral. Now that the funeral oration (cf. 1015. n.) is at an end Chremes is ready to be buried. Chremeti: on And. 368. For the meaning of the dat. here see on Hec., Didasc. 6 (L. Aemilio Paulo).

1027. sic dabo, "that's how I'll deal with him," or "that's my way." lare = facere is common in the sermo familiaris; also in Lucretius, Vergil, and other poets. See Munro on Lucretius, 4, 41.

1028. faxo: on 308. mactatus, "smitten." hic: on 266. infortunio: cf. Heaut. 668, Ad. 178.

1029. See App. Transl. "well, let him come back into her good graces now: I am satisfied with his punishment." Said aside.

1030. "She has something now which she can din into his ears continually, as long as he lives," i. e. "something about which to nag him." For the subj. in obganniat see on 770; but the volitive idea is hardly paramount here to the potential. Cf. Elmer's n. dum uiuat: subj. by attraction.

1031. at, etc., "but (it happened) I suppose through my own fault." Understand factum (est). This is ironical.

1033. minume gentium, "not the least in the world"; a colloquialism in which the gen. is commonly called partitive. Cf. nusquam gentium, ubinam gentium, ποῦ γῆς: Ad. 342, 540, Heaut. 928.

1034. infectum, "unmade," "undone"; not the pf. prtcl. of inficio.

1036. haec: i. e. Nausistrata.

1040. hem, quid ais: Chremes' virtuous horror (cf. 754) crops out again.

1042. nil pudere: sc. te; for nil see on And. 481–482, Ad. 754. quo ore: cf. 917. n., Heaut. 700.

1047. discedo, "I get off." Cf. n. on 773 (possiet discedi). Chremes' words are said aside.

1048. quid sit: on 354.

1049. amicus summus: on And. 970.

1050. ecastor: on And. 229. quod potero: on Heaut. 416.

1051. -que et: on And. 676. meritum: as in 305 (where see n.).

1052. quod, "on account of which": an acc. that is more common with gaudeo in early than in classical Latin. It is variously designated as an adv. acc., acc. of respect, cognate acc., etc. We should expect the abl. of cause. The use approximates that in Eun. 449 (where see n.). quod ego gaudeam: on 488.

1053. quod . . . doleant: on 1052 and 488. For the proverbial nature of the expression cf. Plant. Most. 891 oculi dolent.

1054. See App.

1055. faxo aderit: on 308. Cantor: on And. 981.

APPENDIX TO NOTES ON THE PHORMIO.

15. Suspected by Guyet, Ritschl, Fleck.; bracketed by Dz. (see his Adn. Crit.).

21. id: the reading of A; retained by Fleck. who omits esse.

49. ubi initiabunt: see crit. n. in the Dz.-Hauler ed. of this play, and Smith's Dict. of Antiq., 3rd ed. (1891), vol. i, p. 722.

156. Dz. follows Schlee in reading consciū's and rejecting sis (see footnote); he retains est, which is needed in view of Antipho's reply, for quid istuc is a mere expression of surprise, whereas quid istuc est is a real question. This has been shown by Schlee (De uersuum in canticis Terentianis consecutione, 1879).

175. Elmer rightly alters the MSS. reading to retinere an amorem amittere, with Goldbacher [Wiener Studien, vii. (1885), p. 162], not only for the sake of the sense, but in order to preserve the parallelism between these infinitives and amittendi nec retinendi in the next vs. Dz. and Tyrrell disregard this point, for the sake of the form mittere which is better suited to the circumstances of the case than amittere.

191. nam here is supposed to preserve a continuation into the clausula, of the metre of the preceding vs.; thus Bentley (followed by Conradt, p. 18). It is omitted by Dz.-Hauler as unnecessary, on the assumption that in the arsis (unaccented syllable) of the first foot a monosyllabic word ending in m might retain that letter before a vowel at the beginning of the following word. Cf. Hauler's n. But Leo (Plant. Forsch., 306 f., the very place to which Hauler refers) regards the few places in Ter. like this as corrupt. He doubts also the cases in Plautus.

199. et: rightly retained by Hauler, as strengthening the expression. Cf. And. 571, Plant. Trin. 111 simul eius matrem suamque uxorem mortuam, where matrem and uxorem are the same person. Cf. also Bocch. 495, Capt. 879, Stich. 372 and 373; Hauler in Wiener Studien, IV. 322 ff. The connection by et or -que has many parallels in English, as is noted by Morris on Trin. l. c.

215. hic quis est : this order, which is that of A, is well defended by Elmer, and is adopted by Hauler ; see the latter's crit. n. But quis hic est is the usual sequence in Plautus and is accepted by Dz. and Fleck.

243. Bracketed also by Dz. on insufficient authority. It is better to retain the vs. and to read (with Hauler following A), ferant, Pericla, damna, exsilia : peregre rediens semper cogitet. That Cicero regarded it as genuine would appear from Tusc. Disp. 3. 14. 30.

245. Many editors have preferred to write this vs. as it is cited by Cicero (Tusc. 3. 14. 30). But apart from the fact that the MSS. of Cicero have suffered alteration, as well as those of Terence, the great orator is well known as an inaccurate transcriber of quoted passages, and is probably less to be relied on than the copyist.

246. deputare : to explain this as depending on oportet (242) is awkward, since cogitet, which is generally regarded as a jussive subj. = "let him think," intervenes as a construction of a different character. This difficulty would be obviated of course by omitting 243. But it is better to retain 243 and take cogitet as a subj. of obligation or propriety, equivalent in force to cogitare oportet. 'Then . . . the idea of oportet will remain sufficiently prominent throughout the passage to render it natural enough to make deputare depend upon it.' Thus Elmer in Gloss. Rev. vol. xii. p. 204. This explanation of Elmer's gives definiteness to the syntax, yet it is somewhat forced, for the difference between it and the ordinary view (cogitet = jussive subj.) is slight at the best ; no one can naturally take cogitet in any way save as jussive. A simpler view is to suppose that in vs. 246 Ter. is a bit confused, owing to the two or three preceding infinitives.

249. Dz. reads molendumst, with Bentley, on slight MSS. authority. est is preferable to esse, though the latter is found in A and other good MSS. usque also has good MSS. support. The reading of the text is accepted by Hauler and Fleck.

284. ibi obstupescit of the MSS. is well defended by Hauler. Dz. has illic obstupescit after Fleck. (1st ed.).

328. Regarded by Dz. as well as by Fleck. as an interpolation, but retained by Hauler, Skutsch and others — rightly.

330. tennitor is due to Donatus. MSS. tenditur. Don. however recognizes the MSS. reading, for he says, legitur et 'tennitor': habet enim N littera cum D communionem. Cf. Plaut. Mil. 1407 dispennite hominem duorsum et distennite. No doubt -nn- is the phonetic spelling, and for that reason more correctly represents the word as it was used in the sermo vulgaris, but it would seem a matter of questionable propriety to set aside the testimony of the MSS. for the opinion of a single grammarian. Yet this is what most editors have done — a fact to which attention has been called by Bond and Walpole in their note on this verse.

337. pote : preferred also by Dz. and Fleck., and supported by Ad. 264 nil pote supra. Hauler and Elmer retain potest, which, though defensible on metrical grounds, might easily be the result of a scribe's correcting hand. The omission of est would be natural in colloquial language, as in Ad. l. c., and often in Plaut. Cf. Engelbrecht, Stud. Ter., p. 29.

368. The assumption that ut of the MSS. is a gloss on atque is purely arbitrary, although atque (= "as") is common enough. Hence it would be well to retain ut and to place the comma at illum. Transl. "just look at yourself and him, as you describe him" (= "just look at yourself and then at your picture of him"): i. e. what a contrast between your description of that excellent man and what you actually are yourself. Geta is here carrying out the threat he made in 359. Phormio has defied him by saying vss. 361-367, which imply that Demipho knew the man and was unkind.

373. tamen, for tandem, is an unnecessary alteration of the MSS. Bentley says, 'tandem' et uersui officit et sententiae. But a spondaic word is not necessarily out of place in the fourth foot of the iambic senarius, and the regular word in this expression (which is a stereotyped use) is tandem, not tamen. Cf. And. 875. n., and 859, Ad. 276. See also Phorm. 231, 413, 527. Hauler reads tandem.

476. in aliis : the occurrence of in before huc is sufficient to make it felt also before aliis, the verb of the dependent clause being the same as that of the principal. It is otherwise in Eun. 119. Cf. Hauler's n. on 171.

501. ueris, the reading of all MSS., is well supported by Hauler and Elmer against uerbis, which is the reading of G by a second hand and accepted by Dz. and Fleck. For ueris = ueris dictis (uerbis) cf. And. 114 multis, 29 paucis, etc.

502. neque : Dz., following Wagner, reads atque. The sense will then be, "(to think) that this blow should have fallen upon me at a time when Antipho is engrossed with another trouble (of his own)," and is therefore unable to help me. Against this however are the tense of occupatus esset, and o fortunatissime of 504.

507. This vs. reads like a gloss on the preceding, and is rejected by Bentley and Dz. But Hauler regards it as genuine and it is retained by Fleck.

515. obtundes : not so good as obtundis. See Hauler's crit. n.

597. The MSS. point to se here for esse, and to esse in 598 for sece. The transposition is due to Lachmann. See his Lucretius, p. 161.

604. institi : Dz. thinks that A points to this form rather than to institui.

667. MSS. his rebus sane pone (or pone sane) inquit decem minas, which Dz. alters nearly as in the text (see footnote), partly on metrical grounds, partly because the vs. takes no account of the previous repetition of the number ten, but is constructed as if the sum of ten minae were mentioned now for the first time. Hauler however does well to adhere to the MSS., esp. as it would be very natural for the speaker to endeavour to make his number appear smaller, by omitting reference to what had gone before. Moreover there is nothing to show that a vs. of Terence may not conclude with two iambs. Cf. Hauler's crit. n.

710. Dz. supposes a lacuna to exist before quae; not so Hauler and Fleck.

765. audiemus, the conjecture of Bentley, is a less fortunate emendation for audies of the MSS. than audietis, the reading of Dz. (following Weise and Wagner) and of Fleck. The 2nd pers. pl. will include Phanium, who is entitled to be informed of what has taken place, and who can be found only within the house. Cf. n. in the Dz.-Hauler ed.

808. homo: retained by Fleck., rightly. See explanatory note.

818. id is retained by Fleck., but may well be rejected, since potuit is quite impersonal; cf. 303, Heaut. 677, Ad. 568, and the common expression quantum potest.

827. Fleck. possum, not rightly. See Hauler's note.

828. Bracketed by both Dz. and Hauler, but see the latter's crit. n.

863. A has reprehendit, which Dz. rejects on metrical grounds, and for the reason that with pone the prefix is unnecessary. Instances of pone repr. and the like are given by Hauler who reads pone reprehendit pallio in his text — rightly. See his notes on this vs. The reading adprendit (adprehendit), adopted by some editors, is supported by the Calliopian recension and by A³, and is 'doubtless due to the fact that, when this recension was made, adprehendere was the verb commonly used in this connection.' See M. Warren in A. J. P. vol. iii. p. 483.

901. an uerebamini: Dz. has an rebamini in deference to C. F. W. Mueller (Plaut. Pros. p. 279) who would read rebaminin (without the an), rejecting uerēbamini of A, on the ground that the second e cannot be shortened in Ter. This leads to the arbitrary substitution of ne . . . facere for ne . . . facerem of the MSS. The weakness of this position, which Dz. has defended in his crit. n. (see Dz.-Hauler ed.), is exposed by Klotz (Metrik, pp. 88–89) whom Hauler and Elmer follow. Hauler has an uerebamini; but an is not in A, and Elmer does well, perhaps, in rejecting it. Fleck. has followed Dz.

905. All the MSS. have this vs. here, but the vs. is clearly out of place. It should come after 895, and to that point Fleck. and Dz. have transferred it. See Dz. (Adn. Crit.).

913. nunc uiduam extrudi: thus Umpf. and Dz., supported by B C D P. But Hauler and Elmer follow A — rightly perhaps, since uiduam may be a gloss upon eam nunc. See footnote.

930. Fleck. (N. Jahrb. CXLVII, 200) follows Bentley. Cf. Eun. 536.

949. Hauler rightly defends sententia, which, since it has puerili and in-epti as modifiers, differs but slightly from inconstantia.

976. Omitted by Fleck., but accepted by Hauler as an intentional reminiscence of Plautus, from whom it is taken verbatim: see Plaut. Most. 655.

986. inpurum: used by Ter. generally with refer. to a person (cf. 83, Ad. 183, 360, etc.); moreover its use as a substantive is not without example (cf. 372). Hence it would be better to place the colon after opprime and make inpurum object of uide — with Hauler; “see the rascal, how strong he is.” For the prolepsis see And. 377. n. and cf. Hauler on Phorm. 354. The punctuation of the text is that of Tyrrell, Dz., Fleck., and Elmer.

1029. Dz. is followed by Fleck., but not by Hauler, in thinking that a vs. has dropped out before this line; the word sane is hardly sufficient to render the lacuna certain.

1054. The words eamus intro hinc are assigned to Demipho in B C F, probably because Phormio does not enter the house with the others, but goes in search of Phaedria (1055). But this departure from the higher authority of A, which should always be respected if possible where the distribution of portions of the dialogue is in question, is quite unnecessary, since Phormio simply changes his mind at the suggestion of Nausistrata whom he is anxious to please.

HECYRA

DIDASCALIA

Cf. notes to the didascaliae of the preceding plays (esp. that of the And.), and Dz. in Rh. M. 20, 577 f. and 21, 72 ff.

1. Hecyra, less correct than Ilecura (Ἐκυρά), since y was not introduced into the Latin alphabet until the time of Cicero, signifies the mother-in-law of the wife — the husband's mother.

2. Sextus Iulius Caesar and Gneius Cornelius Dolabella were Curule Aediles in 165 B. C.

4. Graeca Menandru : on And., Didasc. 5. Dz. and Fleck. read Apollo-doru in place of Menandru — rightly; see Donatus (Praef.) and Dz. (Adn. Crit.). Cf. Intro. § 48. Facta Quinta : on Phorm., Didasc. 6.

4-5. Acta . . . Secundo : thought by Dz. to be spurious; see his Adn. Crit., but Fleck. rejects only Data Secundo.

5-6. Cn. Octavius and T. Manlius were consuls in 165 B. C., the date of the first presentation of the Hecyra.

6. Lucio Aemelio Paulo : dat. ; "held in honour of, etc." His death took place in 160 B. C. Cf. Ad., Didasc. 2, n. For this use of the dat. cf. Phorm. 1026 Chremeti. Aemelio is archaic spelling = Aemilio. So Codex C for the Hec., and Codices A and D for the Ad.

7. funeralibus : cf. Ad., Didasc. 1, n.

8. Quintus Fulvius and Lucius Marcius were Curule Aediles in 160 B. C. This third representation took place probably in September, at the Ludi Romani.

PERIOCHA

6. mater : i. e. of Philumena. ut, "when."

7. ut aegram : here ut = quasi.

9. pater : i. e. of Pamphilus. incusat Bacchidis amorem : i. e. imputes the young man's conduct to his love for Bacchis.

11. uitiatae : cf. Ad., Per. 12, n. adgnoscit : for the form see on And., Per. 11.

PROLOGUS (I)

This prologue seems to have been written for the second representation. On the question whether this and the following prologue were written by Terence see Dziatzko (Adn. Crit.).

2. nouae : sc. fabulae. nouom, "unusual." uitium : used in augury to denote any unfavourable circumstance or omen, and thence transferred to other spheres in the sense of "hindrance," "misfortune," "disaster."

4. studio stupidus, "carried away by their fondness (for such performances)." funambulo : the quique solet rectum descendere funem of Juv. Sat. xiv. 266 ; cf. schoenobates used contemptuously in id. iii. 77.

5. planest pro noua : i. e. the play is virtually a new one, because it has not yet been successfully presented ; but there certainly is a hint that the play has been worked up afresh, and might therefore be sold a second time. This gives point to vss. 6-7.

6. et . . . noluit = neque (tamen) . . . uoluit.

6-7. ob eam rem . . . ut = "merely in order to."

7. In bringing out the play a second time Terence is guided by a sense of what is fitting, rather than by a desire for pecuniary reward. He may have sold the play to the Aediles at the time of its first performance, and since it did not prove a success on that occasion he may be supposed to be staging it a second time at his own cost. However that may be, he disclaims any wish to offer the play a second time for money. It is probable that Ter. explained himself more fully in the verses that filled the lacuna marked in the text : in 7^a he calls the play nouam unreservedly.

8. alias : sc. fabulas ; this would include all but the Adelphoe.

PROLOGUS (Π)

This prologue appears to have been written for the third representation of the play.

Lucius Ambiuus, being a popular manager-actor, comes before the public to speak the prologue, with the purpose of persuading the people to give the play a fair chance. The duty would more ordinarily have been assigned to one of the inferior players. Cf. Heaut. Prol. 1 ff., with introductory n. Ambiuus, in making his plea, reminds his audience that this is not the first time he has appeared before them in the character of a special pleader (orator), in behalf of the poet whose plays they were inclined to treat with disdain.

9. orator : i. e. legatus = "ambassador" (almost). Cf. Heaut. Prol. 11. According to the ius gentium, the person of a legatus was inviolate. Hence the audience would be under constraint to refrain from offering violence of any kind to Ambiuus, and the latter's words would thus receive at least a respectful hearing. ornatu prologi, "in the guise of a prologus" (or speaker of a prologue). ornatu undoubtedly refers to both character and costume. Note the opposition between orator uenio and ornatu prologi, which is strengthened by the alliteration. Note also the quantity of the first ō in prōlogi, despite the derivation from πρόλογος. This is due perhaps to the primitive form (prod) of the preposition. Cf. n. on And. Prol. 5.

10. exorator is one who pleads with success. Note the further play on sound (paronomasia). iure, "privilege."

12. exactas, "which had been driven from the stage." For the prolepsis cf. n. on And. 377. ut inueterascerent, "to grow old," i. e. to become established in public favour.

13. scriptura: abstract for concrete; "writings," "poems," "plays."

14. eis: sc. fabulis. nouas: attracted into the case of the rel. pron.; it properly modifies eis (fabulis). We learn from this vs. that Caecilius did not at first win his way with his Roman audiences, but was assisted thereto by Ambivius. See Introd. § 39. didici, "I played," lit. "I learned," "I committed to memory." The correlative term is docere fabulam.

15. partim preserves here its primitive character as an acc. of pars, constructed as an acc. of limitation. uix steti, "I scarcely stood my ground." Cf. Phorm. Prol. 9. The opposite of stare thus used is cadere; see Hor. Epist. 2. 1. 176 securus cadat an recto stet fabula talo.

17. spe incerta, "with doubtful expectations (of success)." The previous quia-clause tells why his hopes were of a doubtful nature. certum laborem: the toil, however, was of no uncertain character. That he took upon himself, hoping for the best. With incerta certum cf. 274 iniquae aequae mihi sustuli = in me suscepi.

18. eisdem: sc. fabulas, i. e. the rejected plays referred to in 15. ab eodem, "by the same author." discerem: on 14.

19. studiose, "to the best of my ability," goes with agere (18). illum: i. e. Caecilius. studio, "occupation," "profession," i. e. of a playwright. For the expression cf. Phorm. Prol. 18.

21. placitae sunt: cf. 241; n. on And. 645. locum: cf. n. on Phorm. Prol. 32.

22. remotum agrees with poetam, and is to be joined with ab in 23. aduorsarium: gen. case; cf. n. on Heaut. Prol. 24 (amicum).

23. arte musica: on Heaut. Prol. 23, Phorm. Prol. 17.

24. scripturam: on 13. in praesentia, "at the time." For this meaning cf. Heaut. 962, Ad. 222.

25. deterrendo: sc. scriptorem (= poëtam) from 24.

26. otio . . . negotio: cf. incerta certum (17), and n. on 10.

28. aequo animo: on And. Prol. 24.

30. calamitas: cf. Prol. (I) 2.

33. pugilum gloria = pugiles gloriosi, "some well-known boxers," or "the fame of some boxers;" cf. rumor, etc. (39).

34. See App.

35. comitum conuentus, "a gathering of (some one's) retainers."

36. exirem foras : i. e. leave the stage.

37. "I have had recourse to my old custom in the matter of this new play." His old custom (with the plays of Caccilius) was to bring forward again those plays which had proved failures on the first trial.

38. in experiundo ut essem (= ut experirer) is a consecutive cl., explanatory of vetere consuetudine; transl. "to make a fresh trial," "to try again." For esse with in and the abl. cf. n. on 114.

41. The subject of the verbs in this line is indef. and may be represented by the colourless terms, "men," "people" or "they." Cf. n. on And. 813-814 (clamitent).

42. locum : i. e. my place on the stage.

43. nunc : i. e. at the third representation.

45. potestas, "opportunity." condecorandi, "of adorning," i. e. with your presence and attention. ludos scaenicos : games or festivals at which the drama formed one of the attractions. If the latter were discouraged, the ludi would degenerate.

46-7. Cf. Phorm. Prol. 16-17.

47. recidere ad paucos, "to fall into the hands of a (mere) few." auctoritas, "influence."

49-51. Cf. Heaut. 48-50 and notes.

50. in animum induxi : on And. 572 (induxti).

52. qui : the antecedent is cum in 54, which points to Terence.

54. circumuentum, "on all sides beset." iniqui : among them was Luscius Lanuvinus (or Laninius), so often referred to in the other prologues. See on And. Prol. 7.

55. causam, "this plea," "the cause (of the poet)." Cf. n. on Heaut. Prol. 41.

57. pretio emptas meo, "purchased at my own cost," i. e. probably by the actor himself, Ambivius, who was also a stage-manager and might purchase a play from the aediles as a private venture. Colour is given to this explanation by Juvenal, vii. 87 intactam Paridi nisi vendat Agaven. This view does not conflict with vs. 7 of Prol. (1), as this was the third presentation, whereas vs. 7 alludes to the second.

ACT I. SCENE 1.

The scene represents a street in Athens. Three doors open on the stage, representing the houses of Bacchis, Laches and Phidippus. Philotis and Syra appear from the house of Bacchis, with whom they have been in conversation. They are protatic characters (πρωτατικά πρόσωπα), that is, they serve the purpose of unfolding the situation at the beginning of the play (πρότασις), and then disappear and are no more seen. Cf. introductory n. to Act I. of the Andria. The first scene is hardly necessary to the integrity of the piece. The real introduction is contained in Scene 2. In Scene 1 the marriage of Pamphilus and his consequent desertion of his mistress are discussed, and the old woman seizes the opportunity to advise Philotis to treat all men as though they were her enemies.

53. per pol quam: by tmesis for pol perquam. Cf. n. on And. 486. reperias, "you can find"; cf. B., App. 366. a. (365. a. rev. ed.).

60. uel: see n. on Heaut. 806 and cf. Heaut. 540. hic: with a gesture toward the house of Laches, the father of Pamphilus.

61. quam sancte, "how solemnly"; cf. 268, 771. ut = ita ut.

63. em, duxit, "well, he has got married."

64. ne te quouisquam misereat, "that you have pity on none."

65. "But strip, rob, tear to pieces whomsoever you may chance to lay hold of." quemque = quemcumque.

66. utine, etc., "do you mean that, etc.?" See on Heaut. 784; cf. Phorm. 874.

67. nemo quisquam: on Phorm. 80.

68. quin ita paret sese, "without making up his mind." See on And. 909; cf. Phorm. 427, Eun. 240, 249. abs te: with expleat (69).

70. amabo: on Heaut. 404.

72. ulcisci: on And. 624.

73. eadem: sc. uia; abl.

74-5. istaec: i. e. "your." haec: i. e. "my." The dem. pron. of the second pers. and that of the first are here well contrasted. Paul Thomas cites the proverb 'Si jeunesse savait! si vieillesse pouvait!' sententia, "sentiments," "mind."

ACT I. SCENE 2.

As Philotis and Syra are talking Parmeno appears from the house of Laches, his master. He is on his way to the Piraeus to meet Pamphilus, who is expected to return from Imbros, whither he had been sent by his father to look after the property of a dead relative. Philotis induces Parmeno to tell her the truth about the story of Pamphilus' marriage. Pamphilus was obliged by his father to marry Philumena, the daughter of Phidippus, against his inclination, for he was still attached to Bacchis. He began his married life by neglecting his wife, and continued to visit Bacchis. The latter's ill temper however and his wife's sweet and patient disposition wrought a change in the young man's affections, and he became estranged from the one and devotedly fond of the other. On the eve of his departure for Imbros Pamphilus commits Philumena to the care of his mother, Sostrata. The two women live together in harmony at first, but after a time, without apparent reason, Philumena leaves her mother-in-law and takes refuge with her own mother, Myrrina. Sostrata endeavours to persuade her to return, but in vain. She pretends to be ill, and refuses to see visitors. The story goes abroad that Philumena and her mother-in-law have quarrelled, but the whole affair is a mystery. Laches, who believes that Sostrata is to blame, has been to see Phidippus in order to talk over the matter with the girl's father. Parmeno pauses at the door as he comes out, and calls back to Scirtus who is within.

76. senex : i. e. Laches. Cf. 189-190. isse : sc. me.

78. Scirtus : a slave — perhaps the house-porter.

79. tum : emphatic ; "mind you say it only in that case." nullus : on Eun. 216. nullus dixeris : see P. A. P. A. vol. 32, p. lxxxvii.

80. alias : on And. 529. causa, "excuse." integra : i. e. "as though it were (something) new."

81. Philotium : diminutive of Philotis, expressing friendliness. The slave was on very good terms with the meretrix; cf. 91 ff. His friendliness is balanced by her emotional o salve in 82.

87. biennium perpetuom, "for a continuous period of two years," "for two whole years."

88. te : the object, not the subject, of cepisse. Cf. 580 ; Eun. 403-404, 972.

90. consilium, "plan," i. e. of leaving Athens. contempsisse, "rued," "regretted."

91. quam . . . eram : on And. 45 (quid est).

93. libere, "unrestrictedly." agitarem conuiuium, "spend a merry time."

94. illi : on And. 637. prae finito, "in set phrase," lit. "in accordance with that which had been prescribed"; an adv. use of the abl. of the pf. prtepl. pass. Cf. merito, consulto, optato, etc.

95. quae illi placerent, "(and) as he liked." Donatus points out that this phrase and prae finito are to be taken separately, as though connected by et. haud commode, "rudely," "unkindly."

96. finem statuisset, "set a limit." orationi, "speech," i. e. of Philotis.

99. ut, etc. : explanatory of quod (98), i. e. of hoc negoti (97) to which quod refers.

101. firmae : the opposite of infirmas; cf. n. on Phorm. 733. haec : for the form see on And. 328.

102. axint : on And. 753. rem, "interest," "advantage."

103. qui . . . credam, "how I am to believe," etc.; a dependent (not an independent) question. Cf. 869, Phorm. 855. Fleckeisen however makes it independent. See his text.

104. non est opus prolato, "it must not be divulged." See on Phorm. 584, And. 490.

105. fiat palam, "get abroad."

108. tam commode, "so fairly," "so persuasively."

109. tuam in fidem, "to your safe-keeping." If Philotis should break her word and divulge the secret, Parmeno's back would pay the penalty. ah noli, "ah, don't say so," i. e. don't say that you are unwilling to tell me, don't make so many difficulties regarding the matter. Not so Madame Dacier, who translates, "Ila! ne me le dis donc pas," with which cf. Donatus (Wessner, vol. ii. p. 212).

110. malis: we might expect magis uelis (as in 259), since the subject changes after quam in 111. So also And. 332 (where cf. note).

113. ad ingenium, "to yourself," "to your peculiar bent." Cf. Ad. 71. redis: cf. n. on Phorm. 802.

114. istic sum: lit. "I am there (where you are)," i. e. "I am all attention." esse with in and the abl., or with an adverb of place, often signifies "to be occupied in doing a thing," as in Prol. 38.

115. ut quom maxume: on And. 823. tum: correlative of quom in the next verse.

117. haec: anticipatory of the following three instances of acc. + infin.

118. unicum: sc. filium.

120. negare: historical infinitive.

121. animi: locative; cf. n. on Heaut. 727. Cf. Ad. 610.

122. pudorin: i. e. whether he shall be guided by respect for his father or by affection for his lady-love. Cf. And. 262 patris pudor.

123. tundendo: Ter. more often employs the compound, obtundere, in this sense, as in And. 348 (where see note), Eun. 554, Heaut. 879. odio, "by hatefulness," "by importunity." Cf. 134; Phorm. 937 and 849. n.

124. huius: with a gesture toward the house of Phidippus, the father of Philumena. See Per. 1.

125. ne utiquam: on And. 330.

128. ibi: temporal. Bacchidem: governed by the impersonal com-miseresceret.

129. eius: i. e. Pamphilus. ibi, "on the spot"; something like our "there and then."

134. at: on And. 666. faxint: see App. cum: on And. 941.

135. Cf. Phorm. 648.

137. quae consecuta est nox = ea nocte quae consecuta est. eam: i. e. his wife.

138. cubuerit: fut. pf. indic. of the type represented by noris nos in Hor. Sat. 1. 9. 7. The latter has been clearly proved by Prof. Knapp to be an indicative (not a subjunctive); see P. A. P. A. vol. 28, pp. xxvi-xxvii. The meaning then is, "will a young man have lain?" i. e. "will it prove true, on investigation, that a young man has lain (did really and truly lie)?"

If it is a subj., it must belong to the category indicated in n. on Phorm. 431, with which cf. B., App. 363. d. (rev. ed.).

139. plus potus: i. e. plus solito potus. Cf. Heaut. 220 ubi adbibit plus paulo. ut potuerit: consecutive.

145. ut, "how." ab se = quod ad se attineat.

148. quam decrerim, "although I have decided, etc."; quam = cum eam.

150. See App. quin may be rendered here by "but."

152-3. pium, etc.: on 841 (certa . . . attuleris). hoc: see 148.

154. reddi: sc. eum. quoi . . . uiti, "to whom you can impute no fault." dicas: potential; see B., App. 366. a. (rev. ed. 365. a.).

155. superbum, "insulting."

159. maligna, "difficult," "averse to his suit." procax, "exacting." magis goes with both adjectives, and multo with magis. The order is capricious.

160. atque: adversative; "and yet."

163. "Forming his judgment of their (respective) characters in accordance with the conduct displayed by each of them." See App.

164. liberali ingenio: dat. governed by debet to which esse is complementary.

166. ferre et tegere: historical infinitives.

167. animi: locative. See App.

168. deuinctus: cf. And. 561, and note the play on words here. huius: i. e. Bacchis.

169. Bacchidi, "from Bacchis"; dat. with a verb suggesting deprivation. huc = ad hanc, i. e. "to his wife here."

170. par, "sympathetic (with his own)."

172. horunc: i. e. of Laches and Pamphilus. ea hereditas = eius hereditas. redibat lege: cf. And. 799. n.

173. eo: i. e. to Imbros. extrudit: a strong word, "drove," "despatched."

174. hic: Pamphilus. matre: i. e. Sostrata. nam, etc.: i. e. I say cum matre (only), for the old man was away in the country; cf. 175.

176. adhuc, "up to this point," in your story.

177. complusculos: cf. Plant. Rud. 131 iam hos dies complusculos, and see Knapp in 'Driscoll Studies,' p. 156. Transl. "at first, for a good many days together." Note the intensifying prefix followed by a diminutive ending: a rare form.

178. conuenibat: impersonal. See App.

180. neque = et tamen non. postulatio, "complaint."

181. accesserat: sc. Sostrata.

182-5. fugere: sc. Philumena, which is the subject also of nolle, quit, simulat, abit and est, but the subject of iubet in 185 (and 186) is Sostrata.

184. matrem : i. e. Myrrina. ad rem diuinam, "to take part in a sacrifice."

187. nemo remisit : sc. uerbum, or causam. Transl. "no answer." ac-cersunt : the indef. subject refers to the messengers sent by Sostrata to her daughter-in-law to summon her home to her husband's house, as well as to Sostrata herself.

188. simulant : indef. third pl. again, but the reference this time is to Philumena's own people. nostra, "my mistress," i. e. Sostrata.

189. uisere, "to pay her a visit." The infin. instead of the supine here is colloquial. senex : i. e. Laches.

189-90. hoc . . . rescuiuit, "got wind of this."

192. non dum etiam : on And. 201.

193. nisi, "but." Cf. 280 and And. 664. n. curae est : sc. mihi.

194. pergam hoc iter, "I shall proceed with (continue) my journey." iter is inner acc. The acc. with pergere is rare, though an object clause (usually an infin.) is common in Cicero and Livy. quo coepi : i. e. eo quo coepi ire, "whither I set out."

195. constitui : on Eun. 205. Cf. Hec. 437.

197. quod agas, "whatever you may do," i. e. "if you should do anything," may the gods prosper it; subj. of contingent futurity. See B., App. 360 (rev. ed.); A. & G. 519 and 516. Cf. Phorm. 552. Philotium : on 81.

ACT II. SCENE 1.

Laches comes out from his house, in a rage. He is followed by his wife, Sostrata, whom he accuses of having driven Philumena from the house by unkindness and ill temper. Sostrata protests her innocence, and her ignorance of the cause of her daughter-in-law's departure. But Laches will not listen.

198-204. Women are all alike, says Laches; they all hate their daughters-in-law and oppose their husbands, and Sostrata is the worst of them all.

198. quod hoc genus est, "what a set (race) it is," refers to the women themselves. quae haec conluratio est, "what a conspiracy there is among them," refers to their acts, as though it were by mutual consent that they exhibit the tendencies of which they are accused by men.

199. utin : see on Heaut. 784 and And. 263.

200. neque carries on the exclamatory clause introduced by utine (199).

201. See App.

202. studium est : sc. eis, i. e. mulieribus. aeque modifies the verbal idea. For the acc. (aduorsas) instead of the dat. cf. Heaut. 388. similis and aeque logically discharge here the same function.

203. ludo, "school." ad malitiam, "for purposes of mischief."

204. si ullus est, "if it exists," "if there is any (such)." hanc, "my wife here."

207. prohibeant: cf. And. 568, Ad. 275. For the brutality of this speech cf. Plaut. Trin. 51 ff. Jokes of this sort were common on the comic stage.

209. "You undeservedly (accused)? Can anything (in the way of punishment) be called worthy of you, in the light of your evil deeds?"

211. adfinēs: connections by marriage, as opposed to relations by blood (cognati).

212. liberos: a vague use of the pl., where in reality only one child is referred to; thus also in English and other languages. See on And. 891; cf. Heaut. 151. Note the delicacy of the language in this verse. Cf. 169-170, 348 ff.

213. exorere: indic. 2nd sing. not (imv.) of exorior. See on 317. quae, etc.: a rel. cl. of purpose; cf. n. on 298.

214. lapidem: on Heaut. 831. Cf. Ar. 'Clouds,' 1202 λίθου, etc.

216. quisque: on Eun. 678 (quisquam).

217. quam illi: i. e. quam quae illi fiunt. illi: on And. 637.

218. ut, etc., "even as you deport yourselves at home, so shall I be esteemed abroad." See App. mihi: ethic. dat. fama: abl. of specification.

219. audiui: the pf. tense with iam pridem is not uncommon in comedy. It occurs also elsewhere, e. g. in Tacitus.

221. credidi adeo: sc. eum cepisse odium. Cf. 248.

223. aegritudo, "anxiety."

224. concedens, "making way for." rei seruiens, "devoting myself to my property." Cf. n. on And. 288 (rem).

225. pati, "sustain," "support."

226. praeter, etc.: Cf. Heaut. 59-60.

227. te . . . curasse: on And. 245. pro, "in view of," "in return for."

230. curares: on And. 793. ceteris: opposed to hic, and emphatic.

231. puella (said of a young married woman) occurs elsewhere, e. g. several times in Martial. Here it is intended to contrast with anum. Note the juxtaposition. anum: sc. te. Cf. n. on Ad. 617.

233. de te, "where you are concerned," goes with fieri detrimenti nil potest (234).

233-4. Laches says he is glad on his son's account that the fault does not lie with Philumena (for she would have something to lose in thus being convicted of error), but that Sostrata, on the contrary, can suffer no loss if she does wrong (since she cannot be worse than she is).

237. uisentem ad eam, "when you attempted to visit her."

238. enim: on And. 91 and 206; cf. Phorm. 983. eo, "for this reason."

241. placita est: on And. 645. condicio, "match."

242. duxere: sc. gnati. easdem refers to uxores implied in duxere; "when our sons have married their wives at your instigation, under pressure from you they drive them away."

ACT II. SCENE 2.

Phidippus comes out of his house. As he does so he calls back to Philumena, who is within and with whom he has evidently been conversing on the subject of her possible return to the house of her husband. Phidippus is unwilling to insist upon his daughter's returning to her mother-in-law if she is not so inclined, although he is at a loss to know the reason for her apparently unalterable determination to remain where she is. Laches gives him a hint to the effect that he is not sufficiently stern with the women of his family, and asks him for some explanation of Philumena's conduct. Phidippus renders to this an unsatisfactory reply, but makes it clear that his daughter refuses to live with her mother-in-law while Pamphilus is away from home.

243-4. Notice that Phidippus claims patria potestas over a married daughter (but then she is actually in his house at the time).

244-5. faciam ut tibi concedam: for this circumlocution cf. Ileaut. Prol. 28 facite aequi sitis. Cf. also Cicero, passim.

246. eccum: on And. 532. scibo: on And. 38 (seruibas).

247. etsi: see App. meis: sc. familiaribus or amicis. adprime obsequentem, "in the highest degree accommodating."

249. in rem: on And. 546.

250. in illarum potestate: i. e. under petticoat rule. heia uero, "ah, indeed"; ironical. Cf. n. on Ad. 868. Phidippus is not flattered.

251. Cf. 190 f. itidem: correlative of ut, i. e. amisti me itidem incertum, ut incertus ueni (i. e. ut incertus eram quom ueni). Cf. 150.

252. perpetem: cf. footnote. See 636. adfinitatem: on 211 (ad fines).

254. ea: a pl. after a sing. that is more or less indef., as in 240-242. refellendo . . . purgando: cf. Don., 'refellit qui negat, purgat qui quidem fatetur et sic defendit.' uobis: dat., with purgando. Cf. 871, Ad. 608 (ipsi).

255. retinendi: sc. Philumenam.

259. id adeo, "and this moreover."

261. quam . . . credam, "how bitterly I believe he will take it"; pleonastic for quam grauiter laturus sit. Cf. Ad. Prol. 12-13 pernoseite furtumne factum existumetis. Such pleonastic forms of expression are frequent in Plautus.

262. eo: on 238.

264. animum induco: on And. 572 (induxti).

267. nam postquam: for nam here see on And. 43.

263. ui, "authority." sancte : on 61.

269. perdurare, "hold out," "last," "endure life." Cf. Ad. 554 durare ; Hec. 183 puti.

270. allud fortasse aliis uiti est, "some people perhaps have one failing, others another," or "each has his own failing." The harshness of the general statement is tempered by fortasse.

271. meis, "those who are of my own household." em, Sostrata, "there you are, Sostrata," i. e. you see how it is; you alone are at fault.

272. certumne est istuc, "are you determined upon this?" i. e. that Philumena shall remain where she is, if she prefer so to do. num quid uis : on Eun. 191.

273. est quod : on And. 448. oportet : on And. 448 (suscenset).

ACT II. SCENE 3.

Sostrata, left alone on the stage, gives expression to her feelings. Her husband's accusations are unjust, and yet she cannot easily rebut them. She can only hope that her son will come home soon and that he will be the means of clearing her character.

274. "Unjustly, in very truth, are we all equally hated by our husbands on account of a few." Join aeque with inuisae, not with inique.

276. quod, etc. : on And. 395.

277. animum induxerunt : on 264. The subject is indefinite.

278. me : sc. esse iniquam merito dicas.

279. habui : see Ad. 48 habui, amari pro meo. hoc : i. e. the feeling of aversion which her daughter-in-law entertains for her

280. nisi : on 193. multimodis : on And. 939. exspecto : on And. 377.

ACT III. SCENE 1.

Pamphilus has returned from Imbros and learns with grief that his wife has left his mother's house. He bewails his unhappy lot. He was torn from his former love and forced by his father to marry Philumena, and now that he has learned to love his wife he is compelled to part with her also; or else he must take her part against his mother, an act that would bring with it an equal degree of unhappiness. Nor can he form an idea as to the possible cause of the breach between the women. Parmeno seeks to comfort him, but with ill success. Suddenly a disturbance in the house of Phidippus distracts their attention. Parmeno listens at the door, but to little purpose. Finally Pamphilus enters the house to make inquiries. Parmeno is left alone on the stage.

281. nemini . . . homini : on Eun. 549. acerba : used substantively. Cf. 388 aduorsa.

286. nos omnes : see on 257. labos : on Heaut. 82.

287. lucro est : constructed as if nobis omnibus (dat.) had preceded instead of nos omnes, in 286. Anacoluthon : see Hale and Buck, Lat. Gram. 631. 8.

288. sic : i. e. by learning what the trouble is. qui, "how."

289. hae : See App.

290. ambas : i. e. Sostrata and Philumena.

291. iram expedit : i. e. you will adjust their dispute. restitues : sc. cas.

292. in animum induxti : see on And. 572.

294. alibi, "in another quarter" ; the reference is to Bacchis. For the thought cf. And. 829.

295. obtrudit : on And. 250.

296. ut taceam, "even though I should keep silent." quouiis : indefinite.

297. illim : See App. Transl. "from that quarter," i. e. from Bacchis. in ea : i. e. in Bacchide.

298. huc, "to the present situation," i. e. in hanc (to my wife, Philumena). ortast . . . quae, etc. : for the constr. cf. 213. ab hac : i. e. from Philumena. quae refers to res, not to hac, and introduces a relative clause of purpose, as in 213.

299. ex ea re : i. e. "as the result of all this business."

302. obnoxius, "beholden to," olim refers to the period when Pamphilus had not yet fallen in love with his wife. See 165 ff. ingenio suo, "with the (sweet) disposition that was natural to her."

303. quae refers to the subject of pertulit. in ullo loco, "under any circumstances."

304. magnum nescio quid, "something of importance." Pamphilus is convinced that something unusual and unexpected has happened, of which he is not yet informed.

305. unde (= ex quo) refers to nescio quid.

307. See App. The sense is : it is not always the greatest wrongs that produce the biggest quarrels.

308-9. saepe est . . . quom, "it often happens that." For this quom see on Ad. Prol. 18. iratus, "annoyed." de eadem causa : as this refers to quibus in rebus above, the pl. would be more accurate. iracundus, "an irritable man," "one prone to anger." est factus inimicissimus, "becomes deeply offended."

310. iras gerunt, "cherish ill-feeling."

311. eum : sc. animum. infirmum : predicative. The whole expression is equivalent to animus qui eos gubernat est infirmus.

313. fortasse is followed here by an infin. with subject acc., as if it were a verb ; cf. Plaut. Merc. 782 fortasse illum mirari coquam. See App.

315. Cf. 336.

316. em, sensistin, "ah! did you hear that?"

317. loquere: indic. 2nd sing.; see App.

320-1. "They said that your wife, Philumena, was somewhat ill." pauitare is not meant to be definite, though it might refer to the effects of fever and ague.

324. certo: on Phorm. 148 (certum).

325. "In what state of health, pray, my dear Philumena, am I going to find you now?"

326. nam: on And. 43. periculum . . . inest: we should say "if you are in any danger." perisse me: the acc. with infin. in place of quin with subj. is colloquial and familiar. Pamphilus rushes into the house; cf. 365-366.

327. usus . . . est: on Heaut. 80. The poet is careful to keep Parmeno out of reach of the actual facts. See on 359; cf. 409 ff.

332. Sostratae: genitive.

334. capiti . . . illorum, "to the lives of them all," more lit. "to their persons and lives." illorum is masculine because the reference is to the entire family. qui, "whereby."

335. For the thought cf. Heaut. 356, Phorm. 219-220.

ACT III. SCENE 2.

Sostrata has heard the disturbance which took place recently in the house of Phidippus, and is on her way to visit Philumena and inquire whether the young woman's illness has become worse. She is stopped by Parmeno, who advises her not to enter, and informs her that Pamphilus has returned from Imbros and has gone in to see his wife. Sostrata is persuaded to wait until Pamphilus comes out, and to hear the whole truth from his lips. Pamphilus, however, on his return from the house of Phidippus is most uncommunicative. He parries his mother's questions, looks sad and dejected, and finally succeeds in getting rid of both Sostrata and Parmeno, that he may think over his unhappy condition and determine upon his course of conduct.

336. "For some time past have I heard considerable disturbance going on here." audio tumultuari: cf. 315 trepidari sentio.

337. male: intensive; cf. Heaut. 531, 664; Eun. 438, Ad. 523; Plaut. Men. 189 odi male. Philumena: dative.

338. quod: on And. 289. Salus: Ὕλεια, "Health," the daughter of Aesculapius and often invoked with him. See on Ad. 761. ne quid sit huius, "that nothing of this (that I have mentioned) may take place."

340. ehem: on And. 417.

341. non uisam, "ought I not to go to see?" See Elmer in Class. Rev. vol. xii. pp. 199 ff. Cf. n. on And. 392 and 793.

342. " 'Ought you not to go to see her?' You ought not even to send any one to see her."

343. ipsus : on And. 360. ipsust = ipsus est.

345. tum, "moreover." quid agat: not "what she is doing," but "how she fares," or "is."

348. hoc : on And. 386.

349. remittent : intransitive; "shall abate." Philumena: dative. Cf. 337.

351. Each of the two relative clauses has rem (350) for its antecedent, but the second cl. refers to rem as already modified by quae interuenerit. Cf. quod ego, etc., in vs. 98.

354. meliuscula : cf. n. on 177. On the form see Lorenz on Plaut. Pseud. 207-209.

355. recte : said evasively. Cf. Heaut. 228. n.

356. tumulti : cf. 336; n. on And. 365.

358. fiat : Sostrata enters her own house.

359. eis onera adiuta, "assist them in carrying the luggage." Cf. Phorm. 99 adiutaret funus. Care is taken here by the poet (so also in 327 ff. ; cf. 409 ff.) to have Parmeno out of the way, so that he shall not know the facts. This is one of the delicate touches of the play (for another cf. 169-170). The audience, however, must know the facts; hence the soliloquy at 361 ff.

360. cessas : said with impatience at Parmeno's unwillingness to do as he is told.

ACT III. SCENE 3.

Pamphilus now relates the story of his troubles. He had no sooner entered his wife's apartment than he discovered the real cause of her illness, and the true situation became clear to him. Retreating from her room he was followed by his mother-in-law, who explained the circumstances by assuring him that her daughter had been the victim of an assault, and that she had left the home of Laches in order that her condition might be concealed from her husband's family. Myrrina further entreats him to keep the matter a secret, and extorts a promise from him to that end. Nevertheless Pamphilus is unwilling to take his wife home again, although he is strongly attached to her. He bewails his hard lot, but determines to place restraints upon himself, and to disengage himself from his wife, notwithstanding his affection for her. Parmeno too must be kept in ignorance of the situation.

362. unde refers to initium. quae both here and in 363 refers to rerum. Cf. n. on 351.

363. percepi : see App.

364. qua . . . propter : tmesis.

365. See on 326, fin.

366. adfectam: cf. n. on 325. ac, "than." ei mihi: parenthetical. Pamphilus pauses a moment in his excitement, and begins again at postquam. Consequently ut corripui finds no apodosis.

368. id quod, "for the reason that." id (acc.) gives the ground of the emotion. See G. 333, note 1. For quod cf. And. 448. n.

372. eius: i. e. uxoris; for the case see on Heaut. 29. recta: sc. uia.

374. ut celari posset: sc. eius morbus. In 684 spatium dare is constructed with the genitive of the gerund. So also in Phorm. 701-702. But cf. And. 623 spatium ut, etc. tempus, "the circumstances." Cf. And. 624.

375. uoce, "words," "accents," "language." res, "the occasion." ipsa: not in agreement with res, but designating Philumena, and contrasted with tempus in 374.

378. ut . . . exieram: Dz. (Adn. Crit.) compares Ad. 618 in justification of this emendation. Cf. footnote.

380. magni, "proud."

385. orata: to be taken substantively as in 575; "prayers," "entreaties." nequeo quin (or non possum quin) is colloquial and archaic.

386. quaeque = quaecumque. Cf. n. on 65. fors fortuna: on Eun. 134 and Phorm. 841. The return of Pamphilus is an event to rejoice over, in so far as the matter of his safety is concerned, but his sudden appearance at this inopportune moment is a source of embarrassment and particular concern to Myrrina and her daughter. Hence the qualification suggested by quaeque.

387-8. uti . . . sient depends on obsecramus.

388. aduorsa = dolores, "troubles"; see on 281 (acerba).

390. sine labore: closely allied with gratiam, "this favour which will cost you but slight trouble"; or the phrase may be taken with des and mean "without ado," "without reluctance." pro illa (sc. gratiā) refers in a general way to the suggestions contained in 389.

393-4. post must mean "after her marriage," and postquam (= ex quo) ad te venit would signify "from the time when she first came to your embraces." See App.

395. quod refers to the whole statement in 394. potis est: impers.; see on And. 437.

396. clam: with patrem, i. e. Phidippus.

397. omnis: governed by clam (396). id: object of sentiant.

398. abortum: not the acc. of the substantive, abortus, but (with esse) the pf. infin. of aboriri used impersonally. Such is the inference from the use of the word by Varro (apud Nonium, 71. 27). Harper's Lexicon prefers to make it the nec. of abortus. aliter: i. e. otherwise than as we could wish suspectum fore: impersonal.

399. recte: i. e. in accordance with the law determining legitimacy.
cum: sc. puerum; "the child."

400. exponetur: sc. puer. hic, "herein." nil quicquam: on Phorm. 80. Cf. Ilec. 67.

402. certum est, "I am determined." in eo quod dixi: i. e. in guarding the secret; but he has not promised to take back his wife.

403. nam, etc., "(but here the matter ends) for as to taking her back, I think that this would be in no wise creditable." Cf. n. on And. 43 and 91.

404. amor consuetudoque, "affection and (unbroken) intercourse." See 555.

407. prior amor: i. e. for Bacchis. ad hanc rem, "with regard to this matter," i. e. in driving affection from his heart, as he is compelled to do in the present instance.

408. quem refers to amor (400). missum feci: on And. 680. idem: nom. masc.; "too," "also." hunc operam dabo is not the same as id operam do in And. 157, but is elliptical for operam dabo ut hunc missum faciam. With hunc understand amorem. Pamphilus says that he must now give his attention to getting rid of his affection for his wife.

410. soli: sc. ei, i. e. Parmenoni.

412. eius: i. e. Philumena.

414. Pamphilus retires to a spot near the door of his house and waits. Cf. 428.

ACT III. SCENE 4.

Parmeno returns with the slaves (409) who were carrying the luggage from the ship in which Pamphilus had arrived from Imbros. As he comes upon the stage he converses with Sosia in reference to the hardships of a sea voyage. Pamphilus, in conformity with his resolution (413-414), meets Parmeno and sends him on an errand to the Acropolis. Pamphilus pretends to have an appointment with one, Callidemides of Myconos, and charges Parmeno with the duty of informing him that the appointment must be postponed. The stranger's appearance is described, and Parmeno is instructed to wait for him till evening.

415. hoc . . . iter: the voyage to Imbros and return. See 171. Cf. Knapp in Class. Phil. II. p. 292 and n. 2.

416-7. "Mere words cannot express, Parmeno, how unpleasant a sea-voyage is in actual fact." reapse: on 778; cf. n. on Heaut. 266.

418. quid mali praeterieris, "what suffering you have escaped."

421. plus eo: on Heaut. 63. The length of time is probably exaggerated; cf. Knapp in Class. Phil. II. p. 22. n. 1.

424. odiosum, "horrid!" "what a bore!" For the omission of est cf. n. on And. 105, Eun. 403, Phorm. 751. haud clam me est: an instance of understatement, where English would have, "Oh, you can't teach me anything about it," "I know it all from experience," or the like.

425. redeam . . . redeundum: a play upon words. The first is opposed to anfugerim and alludes to the slave's return to his master's house; the second refers to a possible repetition of the voyage to Imbros. eo, "thither," i. e. to Imbros.

429. si quid me uelit, "(to see) whether he wants anything of me."

431. in arcem: i. e. to the Acropolis. transcurso: abl.; cf. n. on 104.

433. Myconium, "of Myconos," one of the Cyclades. uectus est, "sailed."

436. modo, "only."

437. constitui: on Eun. 205.

438. non posse (i. e. me non posse conuenire eum) answers the question, quid uis dicam (436).

440. caesius: on Heaut. 1062.

441. cadauerosa facie, "with a ghastly countenance." Cf. the description in Heaut. 1061-1062, and Plaut. Capt. 647-648. Pamphilus is not careful in his choice of descriptive epithets, but Parmeno is so much astonished at his volubility and irritated manner that he fails to notice the inconsistencies in his master's word-portrait.

445. quod me orauit: sc. ut celarem.

446. nam, "(and yet I feel constrained to do so) for."

447. tamen ut, "yet in such a manner as to." Understand ita. pietatem, "filial duty."

448. Pamphilus says that he will keep the birth of the child a secret, but will refrain from taking his wife home again, lest in so doing he should be wanting in his duty to his mother. Terence would appear to be wool-gathering just at this point. Pamphilus is no longer ignorant of the reason why his wife left her mother-in-law's house. Hence there is no such question in his mind as that which agitated him when he supposed, along with all the rest of the world, that his mother and his wife had quarreled. He is under no obligation now to decide with which of the two women he will take sides; there is, as has been said, no longer any such question. The question whether he will receive his wife again into his home is now a personal matter only.

449. eccum: on And. 532 (2).

450. pergunt: cf. n. on 194. Pamphilus retires to a corner of the stage.

ACT III. SCENE 5.

Pamphilus meets Laches and Philippus, and is much perplexed about what he shall say to them. Laches makes a few preliminary inquiries regarding his son's visit to Imbros, and then turns the conversation to the subject of Philumena and her possible return to her husband's house. Laches pretends that Philumena had gone to her home at her father's bidding. But this pretence fails, since Pamphilus knows the exact situation. Both Laches and Phidippus thereupon urge the young man to take his wife back. Pamphilus, however, having decided in his own mind that this is impossible, and being unwilling to divulge the truth, pretends that his love for his wife must give way before his duty to his mother, and that, as the two women cannot agree, they must remain apart. As the old men are ignorant of the true state of the case, this device proves to be a success. They attempt further argument with Pamphilus, but he makes his escape. Phidippus goes into a rage, and leaves Laches to himself. The latter vows vengeance on his wife.

451. dixtin, "did you not say?" See on And. Prol. 17; cf. Eun. 793. dudum: cf. 269. illam: i. e. Philumena. filium: sc. neum.

452. factum: on Phorm. 524. uenisse aiunt: Laches must have learned this off the stage (say from Sostrata, who got it from Parmeno in 346). The plays do not often allude to events that take place (presumably) off the stage unless these happen at a time not included within the period of the action itself. redeat, "let her come back to our house."

452-3. causam . . . quam ob rem: see on And. 382. nescio: see App.

454. certum est: on 402. offirmare governs me, as in Heaut. 1052 it governs te (cf. n. on Eun. 217), and uiam is governed by persequi. For a different explanation, see the ed. of this play by Paul Thomas. Transl. "I am determined to persist in following the course which I have decided (to pursue)." The verse is an 'aside.'

456-7. On the subject of 'greetings to returned travellers,' see Knapp in Class. Phil. II. p. 301.

457. creditor: generally in the active voice and first person, when used to express acknowledgment of congratulations received, as in And. 939, 947; Eun. 1051; Phorm. 255, 610; Ad. 972.

459. sane hercle: on And. 229.

463. profuit: sc. nobis. The idea is that Phania has left what little he had to his kinsfolk in Athens. immo obfuit, "nay, it has proved a loss." This is said for the sake of appearances.

464. nam . . . uellem: Laches means that the property is no compensation for the loss he has sustained through the death of his friend and kinsman. But the old man is not wholly sincere; note the implication in utrum malis scio (465).

465. et . . . scio: said aside.

466. hic: i. e. Phidippus. dic iussisse te: said aside to Phidippus.

467. noli fodere, "don't nudge me"; said aside.

469. inuidos, "hateful people," who are always ready to gossip about the affairs of their neighbours. haec: i. e. the domestic troubles affecting the family of Laches; more particularly (as Laches imagines) the supposed disagreement of Sostrata and Philumena.

470. contumelia. "reproach." The story told here is quite different from that given by Parmeno in 164 ff., and by Pamphilus himself in 302-303.

471. fieri: sc. mihi (or nobis). Pamphilus means that he has been on his guard against the possibility of Phidippus having ground for complaint regarding the treatment his daughter may have received in the family of Laches.

472. quam . . . fui: on And. 45 (quid est).

473. possum: sc. memorare.

474. ingenio, "disposition," "character." Cf. n. on 302.

475. quom: primarily temporal here; secondarily explicative. in me iniqua: me is acc.; see Heaut. 213. aequa: acc. pl.

476. discidium: cf. And. 697.

477-8. indignam . . . quae concedat, "undeserving of having to yield."

478. eiusque . . . modestia, "and of having to bear with her (my mother's) conduct by (bringing into play) her own (powers of) self-control," i. e. "by herself showing self-control." eius and sua are opposed. See App.

481. matris limits commodum, although it is felt also as an objective gen. after pietas. Cf. 495.

482. inuito: dat. in agreement with mihi.

483. "since I perceive that you have regarded all things as secondary in comparison with your mother." Cf. Ad. 262, Phorm. 908. For the indic. after quom causal, see on Ad. Prol. 18.

484. praeue insistas, "take a wrong stand," "pursue a mistaken course."

485. sim: subj. of quotation (repudiating subj.), because vs. 484 = ne sis iniquos. Cf. n. on Phorm. 431.

486-7. "Who never has been guilty of any act toward me of which I should disapprove, and who I know has often conducted herself with reference to me (exactly) as I should have wished." Understand quam (or better, eam) after et, as subject of meritam (esse). The pronouns quicquam, and id (understood before quod uellem), are adverbial (cognate) accusatives. Cf. n. on And. 139. With nollem and uellem understand factum. nollem factum = uellem non factum; cf. n. on Phorm. 796 (nollem datum).

493. Id is subject of fiat, and refers to the idea expressed in the previous line. tibi in manu est, "rests with you," "is in your hands." Cf. 667.

494. non est consilium, "I don't intend to."

495. matris commodis: cf. 481; Prol. 51. Pamphilus departs.

497. dixin: on 451 (dixit). hanc rem: i. e. the refusal of Philumena to live with her mother-in-law, and her consequent departure to the house of her parents. aegre laturum esse eum: Laches said this in 261-262.

501. si est ut, "if it happens that." See on Phorm. 925. Cf. Hec. 259.

502. huc: i. e. into my hands. The law at Athens allowed a man to divorce his wife with little ceremony, but at the same time compelled him to return the dowry, or pay her interest on it and provide alimony (σῆτρος). See Harper's Dict. of Class. Lit. and Antiq., s. v. diuortium.

504. Phidippus, in his wrath, addresses Pamphilus, as though the latter were present.

505. decedet iam, "will abate presently." Cf. 781.

506. paululum pecuniae: i. e. the inheritance from Phania. See 458 ff.

507. etiam: additory.

509. alii: dat. siet: sc. filia. Transl. "in order that she may belong to another."

510. audi paucis: on And. 29. quid mea: on Eun. 849.

511. postremo, "after all (said and done)." inter . . . lubet, "let them settle it among themselves, according to their fancy."

512. hic: i. e. Phidippus. obtemperant: the pl. is allowed after neque . . . neque when the two (or more) Persons (who are conceived as acting independently) are different, though classical usage requires the singular; see G. 285. 3. Note 1. Cf. Ad. 103.

513. quae . . . pendunt, "attach slight weight (value) to my words." Note the asyndeton.

515. euomam, "I will vent," lit. "spew out": cf. Ad. 312, 510. Laches retires into his own home, and the stage is left empty.

One may note that up to this point there has been much in the play that is good, but practically little real comedy — few chances for a laugh. The play is a fabula stataria, tragic and intense rather than comic. The chivalry is good, but perhaps too subtle for a Roman audience. As one thinks of all this one can see why the play was not at first a success.

ACT IV. SCENE 1.

Phidippus, after leaving Laches, had gone to his own house, and there discovered that his daughter had just given birth to a child. Myrrina now appears on the stage and laments the unhappy situation. Phidippus comes out to look for her and blames her for seeking to conceal from him what has happened; he also puts his veto on Myrrina's plan to get rid of the child by 'exposing' it. Myrrina is left in great perplexity, for she fears that Pamphilus will let out the secret when he hears what Phidippus has done.

517. uisus est: sc. sibi; "he fancied," "he thought."

518. derepente: cf. Heaut. 673 desubito.

519. clam me habuisse : me is subject of habuisse. clam habere = "to keep secret." Cf. 657, where however clam governs me. See on Phorm. 1004.

523. See App.

524. sim : on And. 282, Phorm. 382. Transl. "I your husband?"

525. nam, "(no,) for"; elliptical and corroborative. utrumvis horum, "one or the other of these things"; the neut. in place of the masc., because the reference is rather to the qualities implied in uirum and hominem than to these terms themselves. Cf. Heaut. 521-522 mulier commoda, faceta . . . idem uisast mihi, where idem (of the MSS.) is neuter.

531. recte : cf. 399. n.

533. ex quo . . . scires : a rel. cl. of concession; quo refers to puerum. inter nos : i. e. between our two families.

534. esset cum illo nupta : i. e. continue with him in the marriage relation. Cf. 538-539, 656.

535. etiam : on And. 849. Transl. "again (I say) I for my part supposed that it was to them (the family of Laches) that blame (in this matter) attached, whereas it is with you that it rests." etiam harks back to 229. te . . . penes : for the order cf. n. on Phorm. 523-524 (quam ad).

540. Said aside.

543. aderit . . . quom : on And. 152. quoque etiam, "also"; a pleonasm. See A. J. P. vol. xviii. pp. 36-37.

544. eadem : the more regular correlative of the foregoing ut would be sic or ita. usque adhuc, "up to the present time."

545. ut, etc. : epexegetic of eadem; "having in view the withdrawal of your daughter from him, and the annulment of what I myself had done (in the matter)."

546. id follows iudicium facit (as though the latter were one word = indicat; see on And. 157), and anticipates the coming indirect question. res haec : i. e. the fact that you have concealed from me the birth of the child. factum : sc. esse.

547. quoi : the antecedent is understood with the following ut-clause (sc. erga eam).

548. ex usu nostro, "to our advantage." Cf. Heaut. 210.

550. uidisse : sc. se.

551. exeuntem : sc. ab amica.

553. qui nos oderit, "in consequence of which he will hate us."

555. quacum consuesset : cf. n. on And. 135. The mood is due to attraction, in a condition contrary to fact, the strongest attractive force Latin has.

556. gnatae : dat. ; cf. 746, And. 571.

558. si est ut : on 501.

560. "Assume then (for argument's sake) that he does not want her, and that you have discovered that the fault lies in him."

561. par fuerat : the plpf. tense suggests that the right in the case had existed before the fact, the right being eternal.

563. ne extulisse uelis = ne efferas ; the force of the pf. tense in these archaic periphrases of the infin. after uolo, which occur frequently in the colloquial speech of the comedians, is sometimes scarcely perceptible. Transl. "I forbid you to remove the child anywhere beyond (the walls of) the house," that is, "I forbid you to expose it."

564. stultior : i. e. more of a fool than I have any business to be.

565. ecferri : sc. puerum. Phidippus goes into his own house, leaving Myrrina alone on the stage.

567. ut, "how." Thus also ut near the end of the vs. hic : i.e. Phidippus. hoc (i. e. that Pamphilus is not the father of the child) anticipates rem ipsam. siet : on And. 234.

568. hoc : opposed to hoc in 567, and referring to the state of the case as it exists merely in the mind of Phidippus, who has not yet arrived at the full knowledge possessed by his wife.

570. mi relicuom fuerat, "had been kept in reserve for me." She means that it had been wanting until now and has therefore come upon her unexpectedly, as 'the last straw.' Her cup of misery is now full.

571. si . . . cogit : epexegetic of malum. Cf. Ad. 357. si may be rendered by "that." tollam : on 704. Cf. 576. qui sit : on Phorm. 129.

572. forma : i. e. forma eius qui eam compressit. quita est : this passive (deponent) form is archaic, and is constructed usually with an infin. pass. See Lane's Lat. Gram. (rev. ed.), §§ 1483, 1484. See also A. & G. 206. d. Note.

573. ei, "from him." For this dat. cf. Ad. 318. qui, "whereby."

574. uirgini : cf. n. on 573 (ei). anulum : cf. Ad. 347 for a similar instance of reliance on a ring.

575-6. orata nostra celare : i. e. celare quod eum orauimus ut celaret. Cf. 445. orata is taken substantively here as in 385, though the meaning is slightly different. Cf. n. on 385.

576. Myrrina enters her house.

ACT IV. SCENE 2.

Sostrata, on hearing from her husband that her presence in the house is the obstacle to the return of Philumena, determines to remove thence to the country, and informs Pamphilus of her resolve. The latter however declines to accept this sacrifice from his mother, not only because of his affection for her, but because he would then have no ostensible excuse for insisting on the separation between his wife and himself.

577-8. Sostrata comes out of her house in company with Pamphilus. me esse suspectam . . . abisse, "that I have been an object of suspicion in your eyes, as having caused through my conduct the departure of your wife from our house." The dependence of the second acc. and infin. upon the first is awkward, but the meaning is obvious. Some commentators adopt Bentley's emendation, substituting suspectum for suspectam and omitting me.

578. ea : pl. for sing., as in 688 (quae), and Ad. 751 where eadem haec refers to a single fact.

580. caperet . . . mei : cf. 219. Cf. also 88-89.

581. "And as to the fact that (or 'whereas') formerly I fancied that you loved me, of this thing I now have sure evidence." Cf. n. on And. 395. See A. & G. 572. a ; II. 588. II. 3. Note ; B. 299. 2.

583. contra : adverb, as in 70.

583-4. gratiam referre : on Phorm. 894.

585. hoc is explained by 586-588.

586. certo, "positively."

589. migres : deliberative subj., having purely rhetorical force, and expressing surprise or indignation. See H. & B. 503. a ; A. & G. 444. a : "you leave the city to dwell in the country, etc?"

590-1. sinam ut . . . dicat : on And. 188 (siui).

590. qui, "he who," does not refer here to any one in particular. male dictum (sc. esse) ; impersonal.

591. modestia, "self-control," and so "complaisance," "kindness." Cf. n. on 478.

592. amicas : in a good sense; cf. 790 and 791. festos dies : a reference to religious festivals in general, which were both numerous and brilliant in ancient Athens.

594. aetatis tempus : on And. 188, 443. perfuncta satis sum, "I enjoyed them to the full." satias, "satiety," "loathing," "distaste"; this form is found only in nom. sing., the other cases being taken from satietas. tenet : sc. me.

596. mortemue expectet : i. e. neue quis mortem expectet. Cf. n. on Ad. 109, 874. For quis understood from quoi cf. 486-487 and n.

597. tempus : on Heaut. 169 and App.

598. omnis, etc., "I shall cut off all reasons (for dissatisfaction) from (for) all." Cf. Hor. Epist. 1. 2. 9 Antenor censet belli praecidere causam.

599. illis refers grammatically to omnibus, the latter being a vague term by which Philumena and her parents are really intended. morem gessero : on And. 641. Cf. Ad. 214.

600. hoc, "this charge," i. e. that I excite aversion in my daughter-in-law. vulgus mulierum : on And. 583. male audit : the object is quod, of which the antecedent is hoc. The words will not bear a literal rendering. Transl. "with which the mass of womankind is reproached." More often male audire is used absolutely, in the sense of "to hear ill of one's self," "to be ill spoken of," as in Phorm. 359. Cf. n. on Phorm. Prol. 20. Of course quod here is cognate (inner) acc., and hence the difference between this usage and that of Phorm. 359 is but slight. Cf. n. on 676.

601. ceteris is proleptic. Logically one should look for omnibus. absque una hac foret, "were it not for this one thing." See on Phorm. 188. The "one thing" is Philumena's dishonour, but Sostrata supposes Pamphilus to refer to the dislike which the young woman has conceived for her mother-in-law.

601-2. The first clause of 602 is parallel to the first clause of 601, the second of 602 to the second of 601.

603. incommodam rem: the indefiniteness of this expression makes it as good as a plural; hence ut quaeque est, which should logically follow incommodas res. The reference of course is to the antipathy which Philumena is supposed to have conceived for her mother-in-law. Cf. n. on 601. in animum induces: on And. 572 (induxi).

604. cetera: with a reference to 601.

605. da . . . ueniam, "indulge me in this." redduc: on And. 559.

606. male habet: on And. 436.

ACT IV. SCENE 3.

Laches, who has overheard the dialogue which has just taken place, comes forward and expresses his approval of Sostrata's determination to withdraw to the country. While Pamphilus is giving voice to his doubts as to the propriety of this course the sudden appearance of Phidippus cuts short the conversation.

607. procul hinc, "at a (short) distance from this point."

608. qui . . . possit = si quis possit; cf. Plaut. Asin. 323 em ista ecce uirtus est, quando usust, qui malum fert fortiter. Ter. might have written istuc est sapere, ubi quomque opus sit, animum posse flectere, or iste sapiens est qui, etc. (as in the text). He has fused (confused) the two. Cf. Ad. 386-387.

609. idem hoc: antecedent of quod. fecerit: subj.; the subject is qui (608): asyndeton. See App.

610. fors fuat, "may good luck attend us!" fors = fortuna. fuat is from the old form fuo, and occurs only once in Ter. feres: on Heaut. 692.

612. dixi has the same force as in Phorm. 437 and 439.

613. abire: sc. iubesne.

614. etiam: temporal.

615. equidem, etc.: note the delicate touch; in spite of all he loves his wife.

616. non minuam, "I'll not change." ex usu: on 548.

617. ea gratia : is explained by si redducam.

618. utrum illaec fecerint, "which of the two things they do," i. e. whether they agree or disagree. fecerint more lit. = "have done," i. e. "shall find they have done," and so "shall do." Otherwise the words may be explained as = utrum illaec fecerint (= utrum magis concordēs fuerint) neene. illaec : cf. n. on And. 328 (haec), and see H. & B. 138. 2. c.

619. haec aetas : said δαιτυκῶς; "our time of life," i. e. old age. Cf. n. on 74-75.

620. e medio, "out of the way." In Phorm. 967 the phrase has reference to death. fabula, "a mere by-word," "a mere tale that is told." See App.

621. anus : on Ad. 617.

622. per tempus : on And. 783.

ACT IV. SCENE 4.

Phidippus has discovered his daughter's secret, and blames his wife for the separation of Philumena from Pamphilus, completely absolving Sostrata from all part in the matter. He recommends Pamphilus to acknowledge the child, and Laches concurs in this request. But Pamphilus is only the more set against it. Laches thereupon suspects that Pamphilus has reverted to his former interest in Bacchis. Phidippus unites with Laches in this view. Seeing no way out of the difficulty short of a disclosure of the secret, Pamphilus suddenly makes off, leaving the old men to their own devices, but in the hope that they will not venture to bring up the child without its father's consent. Laches and Phidippus finally have recourse to Bacchis, who is warned by the former to refrain from receiving Pamphilus at her house.

623. Phidippus turns back as he issues from his house and addresses his daughter who is within. quoque : i. e. as well as your mother.

624. factumst turpiter : i. e. in concealing the birth of her son from Phidippus. Cf. 657.

625. causa, "excuse." Cf. 660-661.

626. huic : i. e. Myrrina. nulla : sc. causa.

628. hoc : i. e. the true reason why he declines to receive his wife. This vs. is said aside.

630. minus . . . quo : an inversion, for quo minus, which follows reueratur as though the latter were a verb expressing hindrance or impediment.

631. commeruit : on And. 139. tua : sc. uror.

633. mutatio fit, "a change is taking place," "things are changing." Pamphilus means that there is a shifting of the charge from Sostrata to Myrrina. The words are said aside and bear an ironical colouring. ea, "it is she (who)."

634. Said aside. quam = quantum.

636. adfinitatem: on 252.

637. sin est ut: on Phorm. 925, Hec. 501. The words of the vs. are a euphemism to avoid direct reference to divorce. Cf. Ad. 492. ista sit: See App.

638. accipias puerum: Donatus says, 'liberi patrem sequuntur,' i. e. in cases of divorce. The mood is jussive. sensit, etc.: said aside.

642-3. A fine and delicate touch. Cf. 651-652.

643. quid mulieris, "what sort of a woman?" Cf. n. on And. Prol. 2. The form of the expression suggests contempt.

644. moratam: from mōrātus, adj. Cf. Cic. Cat. Mai. xviii. 63 ut quaeque (ciuitas) morata est.

645. nosne hoc celatos: sc. esse; "that we should have been kept in ignorance of this!" In the active voice celo takes two accusatives, one of the person, one of the thing ('conceal something from some one'). In the passive the acc. of the thing may be retained with celo, if it be a neut. pron.; otherwise the construction is de with the ablative.

648. hoc: i. e. the question of taking back his wife.

648-9. Said aside.

649. alienus, "of another man." Pamphilus realizes that it is the determination of Phidippus, in which Laches joins him, that the child shall not be 'exposed,' but shall be brought up by its mother, in case Pamphilus should be unwilling to receive and educate it. This consideration strengthens him in his resolution not to take her back.

650. consultatio, "room for deliberation." Cf. n. on And. 400 (cautio). 651-2. See on 642-643.

654. The peremptoriness of this command suggests the patria potestas.

657. clam: on 519.

659. conuenturum: on 178.

660. mater . . . sua: i. e. Myrrina.

663. an quia non delincunt uiri, "or is it because men have no failings (that you are thus unfair to your wife)?" An instance of the form of argument known as the reductio ad absurdum. See App.

665. With remissa and reducta understand Philumena. Note the double interrogative -ne . . . -ne where -ne . . . an might be expected. Cf. A. & G. 335. d. opus sit uobis = uobis expediat, or utile sit uobis, or e re uestra sit. Cf. 698.

667. in manu, etc.: on 493.

668. quid . . . puero, "what shall we do with the child?" puero is abl. See on And. 143, Ad. 611.

669. suom: sc. puerum.

670. nostrum: sc. puerum. quem: sc. puerum.

671. The words of Pamphilus are said aside, or to the audience, but Laches catches the last two; hence his question.

674. ut . . . loquar depends on cogis.

675. lacrumarum, "(of the cause) of your tears."

676. quod sollicitere, "on account of which you are disturbed." quod is an adv. acc. Cf. Phorm. 1052, 1053, and notes. Instances are numerous. Perhaps quod is an abl. sing. with original ending -d.

677. causam = πρόφασις, i. e. "pretext."

681. alteram (sc. causam) ; explained by the quia-clause.

683. huc : i. e. ad nuptias, "to the estate of matrimony." animum adlungas : on And. 56. This final cl. expresses, not the purpose of 684, but the speaker's purpose in giving utterance to 684; "(just remember please) how long ago, etc."

684. spatium . . . dedi : on 374.

686. tecum : with egi as well as oravi. 'cum like the Engl. with often describes in a quite general way the relation of two parties, even if it be an antagonistic one. Cf. stomachari cum, "to be angry with," Eun. 323.' Thus Sonnenschein on Plaut. Rud. 709. orare cum is common in Plautus. quaeso cum + abl. occurs in Aulus Gellius and Fronto in imitation of this orare cum; see Schmalz, Latin. Gram. d. § 140, in Mueller's Handbuch, II. p. 450. Cf. nubere cum (Ilec. 534 and 538-539), and Shak., Hamlet, Act ii, Scene 4, line 22, 'marry with.'

688. See App.

690. huic : i. e. your wife, Philumena. See App. on 688.

693. ad, "in the direction of," "for the purpose of"; cf. And. 482.

694. uiuas, "enjoy life"; cf. n. on Eun. 1073-1074. testem hanc, "this witness here," i. e. Philumena.

695. sensit, "has discovered it."

696. plane hic diuinat, "clearly the man is right," more lit. "is a prophet." Phidippus, remembering what Myrrina had told him (536-539), and inclined by nature toward a charitable judgment where his own people are concerned, is only too glad to seize any pretext whereby he may fasten the blame upon Pamphilus.

698. redduce : on And. 680 (face). opus sit : sc. reducta; cf. n. on 665.

700. post . . . uidero, "trust me to attend to your mother afterward." See on And. 456.

702. rebus, "arguments." concludit, "hems in."

703. promoueo : on And. 711.

704. tollet : on And. 219. Here, as in 571 and 576, this verb, through an extension of its meaning, is used to refer to the bringing up of the child by a member of the family other than the father himself.

706. After 705 Pamphilus makes off as fast as he can go.

707. apud sese : on And. 408, Phorm. 204. sine : addressed to Phidippus ; "don't trouble yourself," "never mind," as in Phorm. 238. It might be a sort of apostrophe addressed to the absent Pamphilus, as e. g. "let him alone," "leave him to his own devices."

709. hoc : i. e. the intimacy of Pamphilus with Bacchis.

710. amarae, "ill-natured," "resentful."

711. narravit : cf. 536-540.

712. hoc : i. e. Pamphilus. Cf. 674.

713. illi : i. e. Myrrina. uerum palamst, "it's plainly true."

714. abhorre : cf. And. 829.

718. rem : for the meaning see on Heaut. 55 ; Shak., Hamlet, Act iii, Scene 1, "could beauty, my lord, have better commerce than with honesty ?"

719. eho : on And. 184. puere : on App. to Eun. 624-625.

720. uerbis meis, "in my name." Cf. Plaut. Amph. 967 ; Cic. Att. 16.

11. 8 Atticae meis uerbis suauium des uolo, 'kiss Attica for me.' See Palmer on Amph., l. c.

722. iam dudum dixi : see 635-636.

724. quod refers to the idea expressed in 723.

725. This question shows that Phidippus does not care to be present at the interview between Laches and Bacchis.

ACT V. SCENE 1.

Bacchis appears in reply to Laches' summons, and Laches opens the interview with assurances of his friendly intentions. Bacchis declares her innocence of any intention to entice Pamphilus away from his wife, and explains the situation to the old man's satisfaction. As proof of her sincerity she agrees to enter the house of Phidippus and state the fact in the presence of Myrrina and her daughter, in order that the women of the family may be convinced. Bacchis makes evident her desire not only to clear herself of the charge of continuing her former liaison with Pamphilus, but also to do all in her power to be of service to the young man, who, she declares, has always deserved well of her.

727. de nihilo, "for nothing." conuentam esse (with expeto) is like the pf. pass. infin. with uolo in 546 and 590.

728. nec me multum fallit : impers., multum being adv. ; "nor am I much deceived." The words are about equivalent to nec dubito. quin . . . uelit, "but that his real desire is as I suspect."

729. hinc = ab hac.

730. plus : note the antithesis with minus (729). Transl. "or lest I do anything to excess, which hereafter it would be better that I had not done."

732. nil : adverbial.

733. iussi : for the indic. cf. n. on And. 448 (suscenset).

734. quoque etiam : on 543. Cf. 762.

735. quaesti, "trade," "business," "occupation." For the form of the gen. see on And. 365. mores, "conduct."

737. peccato : an impers. abl. abs. Cf. Livy, 1. 36. 6 auspirato; see Lense's 'Livy,' Introd. § 38. i. It may however be a causal abl. = ob peccatum. Laches says that he has reached an age when he has no right to expect a blunder of his to be overlooked.

738. magis cautius : for this doubling of the comparative for the sake of emphasis, cf. And. 427, Heaut. 928, Ad. 222.

740. inscitum : sc. me. Transl. "that I should ignorantly inflict upon you, etc."

741. "I ought to feel very grateful to you, etc." Cf. Plant. Rud. 516 bonamst quod habeas gratiam merito mihi. For quod cf. n. on 676. See App.

742. qui . . . expurget : a rel. cl. expressing a condition; "he would help me little who should seek to excuse himself (= si quis se expurget) after the wrong had been done." For the sentiment cf. Ad. 162-163.

743. receptas : lit. "receive habitually." Cf. Ad. 799 quor recipis meum, "why do you harbour my boy?"

745. mane shows that Bacchis has interrupted Laches a second time.

747. aetatem : on Heaut. 716, Eun. 734. See App.

748. id refers to 743 meum receptas filium. socrus : i. e. Myrrina.

749. extinguere : the exact word used by Myrrina was exponetur (400).

750. alid = alind. firmare fidem : cf. 581 firmasti fidem, and n.

751. id pollicerer : cf. 751-755 istuc ius iurandum pollicere.

752. The acc. with infin. depends on the affirmation implied in what precedes. ut, "from the very time when." That this statement is not quite consistent with that in 157 is obvious. It may however be regarded as throwing light on 158-159, where it is suggested that Bacchis declined to receive Pamphilus' attentions with that intimacy which had previously characterized her friendship for him. Pamphilum may be the subject of habuisse (sc. se), if me is removed.

754. eas : monosyllabic. Cf. Ad. 598, Phorm. 562 eimus (dissyllabic). For the situation cf. Ad. 598 ff.

755. exple animum eis. "satisfy their minds." Cf. 785, 787, and And. 188.

756. alia ex hoc quaestu, "another of my calling." Cf. n. on 735.

757. ut, etc. : explanatory of quod. Cf. n. on 99.

759. leuiorem, "less exemplary (than he ought)." Understand nolo.

760. quod queam (= quantum queam); "so far as I can." Cf. n. on Heaut. 416. Cf. also Ad. 423, 511, etc. commodem : cf. n. on And. 162.

762. haec (= Myrrina et Philumena) is the subject.

763. quam: the antecedent is eadem (764).

764. utere: fut. indic. For the thought cf. Ad. 250-251.

765. For the aposiopesis cf. And. 164. reprimam me: cf. Heaut. 199. ne aegre, etc. = ne quicquam audias, quod aegre tibi sit. Cf. Eun. 624. For the effect of this vs. cf. 729-730.

766-7. amicus, etc., "what sort of a friend I am, or of what I am capable (as such), rather than (what sort of) a foe (I am) endeavour to discover," lit. "make trial." With inimicus understand qualis sim, or else quid possim; the latter would mean "of what I am capable as a foe." Note the good word-order: amicus first, inimicus last. For periculum cf. And. 565. n.

ACT V. SCENE 2.

Phidippus returns with a nurse whom he has engaged to take care of the baby, and is informed by Laches that Bacchis has declared herself to be innocent of any attempt to entice Pamphilus away from his wife. At first Phidippus is inclined to be sceptical, but Bacchis offers to establish her innocence in any way satisfactory to Phidippus. The latter is reminded by Laches that all efforts to reconcile Pamphilus to his bride have failed, and that it may be well to see what Bacchis can do toward that end. Phidippus is persuaded, and joins Laches in urging Bacchis to make the suggested visit to Philumena and her mother.

767-9. nil . . . facito: these words are said to the nurse, whom Phidippus is bringing with him; see 726.

767-8. nil . . . defieri: cf. n. on Eun. 243.

769. ebria: not necessarily in a bad sense, but rather as in Plaut. Capt. 109 unde saturitate saepe ego exii ebrius. However, for nutrices as tipplers cf. And. 228-232, esp. 232. They were probably elderly (cf. the nurse in Shak., Romeo and Juliet), and in Plaut. elderly women are often multibibae. Cf. n. on Ad., Personae.

770. noster socer, "our good father-in-law."

771. persancte, "very solemnly"; cf. n. on 61.

772. istae: contemptuous; "such creatures," referring to the class to which Bacchis belongs.

773. "I surrender to you my hand-maids; you have my permission to examine them, through whatever torture you please." The Attic law, like the Roman, admitted slaves as witnesses only under torture. Cf. Ad. 482-483.

774. hic: adv. Transl. "the matter at stake here is this."

775. paenitet: cf. n. on Eun. 1013.

776. solam fecisse depends on famae.

778. reāpse = re + eāpse (old form = ipsū); see Lex. hanc: i. e. Bacchis.

porro, "further." experiamur : explained by 786 that goes back to 754-755.

779. See App.

780. See App.

783. adest : sc. Bacchis. quod satis sit : subj. of characteristic ; "she herself will do all that is requisite (for her justification)." Cf. B., App. § 371 (370, rev. ed.).

784. an quia, etc. : lit. "(is it for another reason) or is it because, etc.?" i. e. "is it then because, etc.?"

785. illis (i. e. Philumena and her mother) is sharply opposed to meus.

786. "I pray you, Bacchis, to keep the promise which you yourself made to me."

787. exple, etc. : cf. 755.

788. meum conspectum, "the sight of me." hodie : on Phorm. 1009.

790. haec : i. e. Philumena and Myrrina. amicae : in a good sense ; cf. 791.

793. pudet Philumenaë : on Heaut. 260 (quoius). Phorm. 392, Ad. 683. ambae : i. e. the two ancillae. Cf. 773.

794. huic : i. e. Bacchis. euenire, "happen."

795. ut gratiam ineat, etc., "to become popular, etc.," explains quod. Laches' idea is that he would be happy if, like Bacchis, he had an opportunity to gain favour with and be of service to others without cost to himself ; thus his thought really is, quid est quod mihi malim quam ut gratiam ineam sine meo dispendio et alteri prosim. But the introduction of huic, in 794, led to the form of 795, in which meo might have been used in place of suo, and ineam and prosim instead of ineat and prosit. Cf. Heaut. 302-303, Ad. 914.

797. "She knows that there accrue to her from this both honour and a good name." See App.

798. eius : i. e. Philumena. una opera, "at the same time." Laches goes into his house.

ACT V. SCENE 3.

Parmeno returns from the Acropolis whither Pamphilus had sent him (see 431) on a bootless errand. He meets Bacchis as she comes out of the house of Philippus. Bacchis requests Parmeno to bring Pamphilus to Philumena and to say to him that Myrrina has recognized as her daughter's the ring which Pamphilus once gave to her (Bacchis). Parmeno makes a grim allusion to the labour of walking, of which he has done enough for one day.

799. meam operam, "my trouble," "my labour." Parmeno seeks to give the impression that much time has elapsed since he left the stage at 443 ; cf. 800.

800. desedi, "I have sat idle."

801. in arce: see 431. n. On the value of topographical references see Knapp in Class. Phil. vol. ii. p. 13 ff.

802. ineptus, "like a simpleton." illi, "there"; on And. 637.

807. adfine = "connection by marriage," rather than "neighbour." The reference is to Phidippus. huic: i. e. Bacchis. hic: adv.

811. etiam: i. e. uolo etiam dicas, "I wish you to say still further." etiam is half-temporal, half-additory. See Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii. p. 40. It may be briefly rendered "yet more," or even by a simple "yes."

812. gnatae: genitive.

813. tantumne est, "is that all?"

814. potestas (sc. cessare); i. e. "opportunity" to rest. Parmeno plays on the meaning of cessare.

816. Bacchis, now left alone on the stage, soliloquizes on the train of events, the circumstance which led to her possession of the ring, and the fortunate discovery by Myrrina which must eventually reconcile Pamphilus to his wife, Philumena. The narrative which follows is one of the poet's best efforts. In fact, narrative is Terence's forte. Cf., e. g., And. 48 ff., 282 ff.; Heaut. 96 ff., 275 ff.; Eun. 232 ff., 507 ff., 578 ff., 615 ff.; Phorm. 35 ff., 80 ff., 859 ff.; Hec. 114 ff., 361 ff., 816 ff.; Ad. 26 ff., 617 ff., 859 ff.

818. gnatum: i. e. the infant son of Philumena and Pamphilus, whom Myrrina had intended to 'expose.' ei: i. e. Pamphilus. qui refers to gnatum. harum: i. e. Philumena and her mother. ipsius: Pamphilus had connived at the proposed 'exposure' of Philumena's child, not knowing that the latter was his own son.

819. numquam: with posthac.

820. qua re, etc.: i. e. ea re de qua suspectus . . . fuit, (eum) exsolui. She has freed Pamphilus from the suspicion of unfaithfulness. For the construction cf. 792.

821. hic adeo . . . anulus, "it was this very ring that." fuit initium: with dative. Cf. And. 458 est huic rei caput, and Ad. 568.

822. nocte prima, "in the early part of the night," "in the evening."

823. sine comite: persons of a certain rank and position seldom went out at night unless attended by one or more slaves carrying torches or candles. The fact that Pamphilus was alone on the occasion referred to is therefore worthy of remark.

824. amabo: cf. 70. See on Heaut. 404.

825. obsecro: added to amabo to make the entreaty more pressing.

826. ille . . . simulare, "he pretended to have his mind on other matters," i. e. he pretended not to hear me.

827. nescio quid suspicari, "I began to suspect something." coepi instare, etc., "I began to press him to tell me." Note the coördination of the historical infin. (suspiciari) with the pf. (hist.) indic. (cepi). On And. 203.

829. illi : dat. luctat : archaic (= luctatur).

830. eum : sc. anulum. in . . . habente, "while I had it just now on my finger."

831. cognitio, "discovery," ἀναγνώσις.

832. Philumenam : emphatic; "that it was Philumena who was, etc." The infinitive construction depends on cognitio.

833. propter me, "through my instrumentality." Cf. And. 271.

836. quaesti, "gain"; see on 735. ad malas partis : cf. n. on And. 193 (ad deteriorem partem).

838. "His marriage was a stroke of ill-luck for me." ruptiis : abl. of cause. euenit : impers. factum fateor : sc. id esse; "I admit it."

839. merito : emphatic.

840. quo refers to Pamphilus. eius, "at his hands"; subjective gen.

ACT V. SCENE 4.

Pamphilus returns, accompanied by Parmeno, whose message he can hardly credit. The news is too good to be true. It is confirmed however by Bacchis, who exchanges compliments with Pamphilus and agrees with him to keep the real truth from Laches and Phidippus. This concealment of the main fact of the play from those who did not need to know it is regarded by Madame Dacier as evidence of the poet's genius. It is a touch of true delicacy.

841. etiam, "again." See Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii, p. 28, II. ut (after vide) here introduces a final cl.; "make sure that, etc." certa . . . attuleris : the emphasis lies in the adjectives, as if Ter. had written, vide ut haec certa et clara sint, quae attulisti. Cf. 152 pium ac pudicum, etc. Cf. also And. 466; Eun. 354, 828.

842. conlicias : See App. Transl. "lest you entice me into the enjoyment for a short time (only) of this (possibly) false delight."

843. uisum est : in answer to vide (841). deus sum : cf. n. on And. 961; Heaut. 693 deorum vitam apti sumus.

844. ne aliud credam, etc. : this construction illustrates the manner in which atque (ac) came to express comparison after alius. Ter. might have omitted the second aliud and written nuntias. Cf. the note of Paul Thomas on this passage.

845. dixe : See App.

846. suom : Philumena had worn her mother's ring. ei : i. e. Bacchis.

848. uenustatis, "of good luck"; this in games of chance (of which love was one) was regarded as the special gift of Venus. Cf. n. on And. 245 (inuennstum).

849. te . . . qui donem, "how shall I reward you?" See App.

850. nihilo enim, "with nothing of course." See App. For enim corroborative see on And. 91.

851. Cf. 873.

852. See 875. reducem: see Phorm. 625 (praecipitem), and n. on And. 683.

856. o . . . Bacchis: cf. n. on And. 282 (o Mysis Mysis).

857. bene factum: on And. 105. uolup: on Phorm. 610. factis, "by your deeds." credam: sc. uerbis tuis (i. e. bene . . . est just spoken).

858. uenustatem: in the more usual sense of "charm," "fascination." obtines: on And. 817.

859. uoluptati: predicative dat. (of service). obitus, "a chance meeting." aduentus, "a visit." The difference between obitus and aduentus, according to Donatus, is the difference between accident and intention.

861. There is confusion (fusion) of syntax here; the vs. = ut unus omnium homo tu nuias blandissimus fused with ut omnium te uiuat numquam quisquam blandior. blandior: for the meaning cf. Hor. Od. 1. 12. 11, where Orpheus is described as blandus auritas fidibus canoris ducere quercus. For blandior as predicate cf. 566 miseriorem uiuere.

862. hahahae denotes satisfaction at what has been said. tun mi istuc: sc. facis or dicis; "can it be you who pay me this compliment?"

863-4. nam, etc.: i. e. for, though I never had seen her, etc., she seemed, etc. quod nossem, "so far as I knew," i. e. "so as to know her." Cf. Ad. 641 quod sciam.

864. perliberalis: on And. 123. Cf. also 164; Eun. 473, 682; Phorm. 815. Cf. in English such expressions as "she is very nice," "she is a thorough lady." The fundamental idea with the ancients was that of grace — grace of manner, as well as of mind — which was supposed to distinguish the free-born from the slave. dic uerum = "don't jest." ita, etc. = "I'm telling the truth," "I'm not joking."

865. harum rerum: i. e. of the violation of Philumena.

865-6. neque . . . muttito, "and it need not be even whispered"; another delicate touch in the handling of the plot.

866. placet: sc. mihi.

866-8. See the note introductory to this scene.

867. hic: adv. fuerat par: on 561.

869. "Nay, I will impart to you further something whereby you shall believe that this matter is easily kept secret." etiam is closely connected with dabo, as in Phorm. 877 (see note), and is additory, though the temporal idea is not wholly lost. See A. J. P. vol. xviii. pp. 29 and 40. credas: subj. in rel. cl. of purpose. See B., App. 371 (rev. ed. 370).

870. iure iurando: dative. See App. See also Engelbrecht, Stud. Terent., p. 23.

871. sibi, "in her eyes." purgatum, "acquitted." Cf. 254.

872. ex sententia: on Heaut. 683.

873. hodie: on 788. For the thought cf. 851.

874. est: observe the change of mood. The second dependent question is less closely connected in feeling with scire than the first.

875. quo pacto: aposiopesis. Parmeno was going on to say reducem in lucem feri, but as he is quoting his master's words (see 852), he is easily anticipated by Pamphilus and interrupted before he finishes his sentence. Parmeno repeats his master's words with the object also of eliciting some explanation of their meaning.

877. Parmeno now has recourse to another dodge. He pretends to know the secret, thinking that Pamphilus may be induced in consequence to make some definite reference to it. But Pamphilus plays with him without enlightening him, and he never learns the whole truth. Thus the principle expressed in 866-868 is realized in his case also. inprudens, "without being aware of it."

878. "Would Parmeno carelessly let slip an opportunity to do that which is needful to be done?" See App. For the slave's reference to himself by his own name cf. Ad. 763. usus sit: on Heaut. 80.

879-80. equidem: Parmeno now turns and faces the spectators. Cantor: on And. 981.

APPENDIX TO NOTES ON THE HECYRA

34. This vs., if admitted into the text, must be taken parenthetically. It is rejected by Grautoff (Turpil. com. reliq., Bonn, 1853, thes. 1).

134. faxint: Dz. and Thomas read perdant.

150-1. The inverted order is due to Fleck. (N. Jahr., 1876, p. 535 f.). But the order as given in all the good MSS. seems not to require inversion. The quin-cl. depends grammatically on eam ludibrio haberi, which is treated as a phrase of hindrance; "that she should be held up as a laughing-stock, involving (as this would) my failure to return her in like manner as I had received her, is neither right for me nor good for the girl." Hence the quin-cl. comes in more readily in the MSS. order, after eam . . . haberi, which is virtually a cl. of hindrance.

163. Probably spurious, but accepted by Fleck.

167. It is better to take hic as adv. of time (= "hereupon," "then," as in Eun. 239, Phorm. 869), and animus of the MSS. as subject of elapsus est (169).

178. conuenibat: after Usener (Rh. Mus. 24, 112) and Engelbrecht (Studia Terent., p. 57) for conueniebat of the MSS.

201. The repetition of oderunt, which Fleck. approves (see his text), does not substantially affect the sense; it does assist the metre. The vs. is rejected by Bentley, Dz., Conradt (Met. Comp. d. Ter., p. 49). If the vs. is an interpolation, it is an early one, for Donatus refers to it, or at least to a part of it.

218. Condemned by Dz. as irrelevant, and because of the use of the fut. tense where the pres. would seem more natural. But Umpf. and Fleck. rightly accept the vs. The fut. is sound. Their conduct is always prospective in the old man's fears. His standing thought is, 'as they shall be at home, so shall I be abroad.'

247. etsi: condemned also by Madvig (Adv. II. 19), and Fleck. Thus anacoluthon at sed (248) is avoided.

289. haec: thus MSS., and Fleck. who changes the MSS. order to that given in the text. Dz., after Umpf., Guyet and Bentley, reads haec and thus is able to keep the MSS. order. haec, as fem. pl. in Plaut. and Ter., is rather the rule than the exception. Tyrrell's haec in this vs. is an oversight, due to his use of Dz. See his text and footnote.

297. illim: thus also Dz. and Fleck. See Ritschl, Opusc. II. 459. A has illi with e added by a later hand.

307. The reading of the MSS. is retained by Paul Thomas: non maxumas, quae maxumae sunt interdum irae, iniurias faciunt = "the biggest quarrels do not presuppose the greatest wrongs." Facere = "faire croire à l'existence de . . ." says Thomas, and this accords with Donatus' note = faciunt pro 'ostendunt.' This should render the various emendations of this vs. unnecessary.

313. Dz. suggests ita (see his Adn. Crit.), but reads ere, which was introduced by Bentley to complete the octonarius.

317. loquere: thus also Dz. and Fleck. Cf. Engelbrecht, Studia Terent., p. 84.

363. See Warren in A. J. P. vol. iii. p. 483 (Review of Hauler's 'Quaest., etc.', 1882).

393-4. These vss. may be a mere gloss explaining 392 or 399. See Dz., Adn. Crit.

453. nescio: I have followed the MSS. and Fleck. (not Tyrrell) in giving this word to Pamphilus.

478. The text is that of Bothe's ed. of 1822, which is followed here also by Fleck., Dz., Tyrrell.

523. uideo: I have followed Dz. and Thomas in bracketing this word, for the metre's sake. It is not necessary to the sense; cf. And 957, Eun. 455. Conradt (p. 179) deletes atque and scans as a trochaic octonarius; thus also Fleck.

608-9. Dz. and Paul Thomas reject 609 as generally unsatisfactory. See Dz.'s Adn. Crit. The vs. may well be a gloss on 608. Fleckeisen's comma at flectere, which is the reading of the text, permits awkward asyndeton of the two clauses. A heavier stop would leave flexerit without a definite subject, although the meaning is clear. On the whole it has seemed better to follow Fleck. It is evident that Tyrrell also intended to place a comma at flexere. His full stop there (see his text) is an accidental copy of Dziatzko's pointing. The difficulty would be removed if we were to read flexere et.

620. fabula : see Dz., Adn. Crit. The nom. pl. of the MSS. is not impossible.

637. For ista added by Dz. see the Adn. Crit.

663. an quia : Fleck., Dz., and Tyrrell read an qui against the MSS. and without improvement to either sense or metre.

688. Rejected by Bentley, Fleck., Dz. So also 690.

741. Thus also Bentley, Dz., Fleck. But the reading of the MSS., which is also that of Umpf., is quite intelligible.

747. Dz. (followed by Fleck.) has made of this vs. a trochaic septenarius. The reading of the MSS. is against the metre. See footnote.

779. falso, though not in A, has good authority and helps the meaning of crimini. It is accepted by Fleck., who, with Dz., rejects se uxor on account of the metre. That crimen however does not require falsum to give it the meaning of "false accusation," "calumny," can be proved by examples. It would be better therefore to omit it and retain se uxor, which, though readily understood, appears in all MSS.

780. For Krauss' reading see Rhein. Mus. VIII. 544.

797. First suspected by Ad. Koch (Exercit. crit. in priscos Poet. rom., p. 35. Bonn, 1851). Rejected by Dz., Fleck., and Thomas.

842. conicias : thus also Umpf., Dz., and Fleck. for the difficult conicias of the MSS. But the latter finds support in Heaut. 292 ne me in luctitiam frustra conicias.

845. MSS. dirisse will not scan unless, with Fleck., we make the vs. an iambic octonarius.

849. Dz. following the MSS. has quid donem? quid? quid? But two accusatives (te . . . quid) with donare are unusual. Hence the alteration by Fleck., who is followed by Tyrrell in this vs., though not in 850. Thomas adheres to the MSS., and explains the construction as archaic.

850. qui : altered from quid by Fleck. to correspond with reading of 849. Thus also nihilo, for nil of most MSS.

870. iure iurando : MSS., but Fleck., after Umpf., alters to iuri iurando. Paul Thomas accepts iure iurando, calling it a dat. and citing Buecheler (Declin. lat. §§ 276-278, pp. 172-173). See Engelbrecht (Studia Terent., p. 23).

878. Bentley assigned this vs. to Bacchis. I should prefer to give the vs. to Pamphilus (with A), as though it were a part of the young man's bantering reply to his slave.

ADELPHOE

DIDASCALIA

See notes on the didascalia to the Andria.

1. Adelphoe: the title, which refers to one or both of the two pairs of brothers, Micio and Demea, Aeschinus and Ctesipho, is taken from the Ἀδελφοί of Menander. The termination -oe is archaic, and represents the Gk. nom. pl. in -oi; cf. Cic. in Verr. 4. 3. 5 canephoroë (= κανηφόροι). So Menandru = Μενάνδρου, below. See App.

1-2. acta . . . Paulo, "acted at the funeral games given in honour of Lucius Aemilius Paulus." Aemelio: an older form than Aemilio. It is the reading of the Bembine Codex (actually Amelio), and of the Vaticanus for Hec., Didasc. 6. This Aemilius was the conqueror of Perseus at Pydna, in 168 B. C., and was for that reason surnamed Macedonicus. His death took place in 160 B. C., and this play was performed, probably for the first time, at the funeral. Cf. n. on Hec., Didasc. 6.

2-3. Quintus Fabius Maximus and Publius Cornelius Africanus were curule aediles when the play was brought out. Both were sons of Lucius Aemilius Paulus. The former had entered by adoption into the family of Q. Fabius Maximus Cunctator; the latter into that of Publius Cornelius Scipio Africanus Maior — the great Scipio, who defeated Hannibal at Zama in 202 B. C. He was adopted by the great Scipio's son, and became known in history as Publius Cornelius Scipio Africanus Minor.

5. Sarranis: Sarranus, later also Serranus (a. um), is from Sarra (Hebrew Zor), the old Latin for Tyre, and seems to have been applied to a special kind of tibiæ pares. facta sexta, "produced sixth in order." The Codex Bembinus alone regularly marks the succession of the plays. See Teuffel's History of Roman Literature (Warr's translation), § 109. 5. On the fact that Donatus assigns the second place to the Adelphoe, see John C. Watson in T. A. P. A. vol. xxxvi. p. 146. fin.

5-6. Marcus Cornelius Cethegus and Lucius Anicius Gallus were consuls for the year in which the first performance of the Adelphoe took place — 160 B. C.

PERIOCHA

See introductory n. on the Per. to the Andria.

2. Aeschinum: the elder son, as appears from vss. 47 and 462 of the play.

3. Ctesiphonem : Gk. names in -φών, -φῶνος, were declined by the Latin comic poets like nouns in -o, -onis.

4. duro : Demea is called durus by Micio in vs. 64 of the play. Cf. what Demea says of himself in 866, and what Cicero says of the brothers (De Sen. § 65), quanta in altero diritas in altero comitas!

5-6. famam . . . transferebat : both the asyndeton and the form of expression are copied from vs. 263.

6. amorem : i. e. the discredit of being engaged in an intrigue with the citharistria. Aeschinus was not enamoured of the music-girl, but carried her off on Ctesipho's account, and in this way diverted suspicion from his brother to himself. It is on the misunderstanding arising from this incident that the main interest of the plot hinges.

7. fidicinam : i. e. the same person as the citharistria in 3 and 12, and the psaltria in 388 and 405 of the play.

8. pauperculam : taken from 647.

9. fidem dederat : cf. 306 and 333-334. Cf. also And., Per. 3.

10. iurgare. "expostulated."

11. ueritas : this would be uerum in good Latin. ducit : sc. uxorem ; "marries."

12. uitiatam : used as a substantive, like nuptam in Hec., Per. 5. Cf. Eun., Per. 12; Hec., Per. 11. potitur : for ī see on 871; for the constr. with the acc. see on Phorm. 830; for the fact see 996 f.

PERSONAE

See n. on the Personae of the Andria.

Canthara : the name (from cantharus) suggests the bibulous habits of the anus as she appears in Plaut. and Ter. Cf. Curc. 76-77 anus . . . multibibataque merobibast.

PROLOGUS

In vss. 1-14 a word is said in justification of the practice of contaminatio. See on And. Prol. 16; cf. Heaut. Prol. 17.

1. postquam : on Phorm. Prol. 1. poëta : on And. Prol. 1. scripturam : on Hec. Prol. 13. Phorm. Prol. 5.

2. iniquis . . . et aduersarios : i. e. Terence's enemies, among whom were Luscius Lanuvinus and his party. See n. introductory to the Prol. of the Andria. obseruari. "was being (perpetually) criticized."

3. rapere . . . partem, "depreciate"; cf. Eun. 632. quam : i. e. eam fabulam quam. See App.

4. indicio . . . erit, "he will give evidence regarding himself," as in a court of law. For this pred. dat. cf. Heaut. 384; cf. also Lucr. 4. 1019 in- dicioque sui facti persaepe fuere, where it is followed by the gen., a rare construction; see n. in Merrill's Lucr. l. c. uos eritis iudices: for the idea cf. Heaut. Prol. 12 and 25-26; Eun. Prol. 29.

5. id factum: the practice about to be described, of amalgamating parts of two plays to form one play; see on And. Prol. 16.

6. Synapothnescontes = Συναποθνήσκοντες, "Comrades in death." (The iota in the antepenult of the Greek word is well attested. See Meisterhans, Grammatik der attischen Inschriften, 2nd ed. p. 141; and G. Meyer, Griech. Gram. p. 451). Diphili: a poet of the New Attic Comedy, contemporary with Philemon and Menander.

7. eam: a monosyllable by synizesis; or else two short syllables, according to the law governing an iambic sequence; see Intro. § 91. Commo-rientis: in predicative apposition. Both the Latin play and its original are lost.

8. Graeca: sc. fabula, i. e. the Συναποθνήσκοντες of Diphilos.

9. in prima fabula, "in the beginning of the play," though not necessarily in the first scene. eum: on 7. locum, "scene."

10. integrum, "untouched." Cf. Heaut. Prol. 4. Plautus did not transfer that scene to his play. Scan intēgr(um) ē(um) hīc. hic: i. e. Terence. Cf. 18.

11. uerbum . . . expressum, "translated word for word." The prologue mentions this as creditable to the poet. The expression, however, is not to be too closely pressed. It applies rather to the thought than to the words. Cf. Cic. De Fin. l. 2.4 cum idem fabellas Latinas ad uerbum e Graecis expressas non inuiti legant. extulit, "wrought out"; not quite the same as transtulit, which refers to simple translation, as in And. Prol. 14.

12. eam: sc. fabulam (i. e. Adelphos). Cf. Eun. Prol. 32 in Eunucho suam. nouam: i. e. not before seen on the stage. See n. in Dz.-Kauer. Cf. Heaut. Prol. 7, Phorm. Prol. 24, Hec. Prol. (1) 5.

12-3. pernoscite . . . existumetis: for the pleonasm cf. Hec. 261. See on And. Prol. 25.

13. furtum: cf. the censure in Eun. 23.

14. repreusum, "restored to notice," "retrieved." neclegentia, "by accident": the scene referred to was simply passed over, unheeded, by Plautus in his translation.

15-8. nam: on And. 43. The connection of ideas is: Herewith all objections to the play are disposed of, "for as to what those ill-natured persons say, etc.," this, so far from being a reproach to the poet, is even a credit to him. isti: Lucius Lanuvinus and the rest of the poet's enemies and detractors. See on 2; cf. n. on 43. homines nobilis: according to Donatus, these were Scipio Africanus, C. Laelius Sapiens, Furius Philus; but these persons were mere youths at this time, to whom vs. 20 would hardly be applicable. There is some probability therefore in the suggestion of Santra, the grammarian, that not they but others are meant, viz., Q. Fabius Labeo, M. Popilius, both poets and men of consular rank, and C. Sulpicius Gallus, consul in 166 B. C. and celebrated for his learning — uiri quorum operam et in bello et in otio et in negotio populus est expertus (see Vit. Ter. p. 3). Cf. n. on Heaut. Prol. 24.

16. See App. una: sc. cum eo.

18. eam: for id; it is attracted into the fem. by laudem. hic: on 10. quom illis placet, "that he pleases those persons"; see on And. 622–623, 771; Phorm. 967; Ilec. 308–309, 483. This explicative use of quom corresponds with the substantive quod-cl. of the grammars. In general the indic. after quom (whether = "that," or "since," "because") is common in early Latin, esp. after laudo, gratulo, or any equivalent expression of feeling. It is not usual after the time of Cicero, and is found in Cic. only with laudo, gratulo, etc. Cf. Cic. Fam. 9. 14. 3 gratulo tibi quom tantum uales apud, etc. With the thought cf. Hor. Epist. 1. 20. 23 me primis urbis belli placuisse domique. On quom cf. Hale, "Cum Constr." Part II. p. 80.

19. These men had been raised to posts of honour and responsibility through the votes of the people. uobis uniuersis, "you all," i. e. the spectators. populo: i. e. the public in general. Cf. Donatus, 'uniuersos qui in cauea sunt dicit, populum qui etiam praeter theatrum, id est uniuersam urbem' (Wessner, vol. ii. p. 11).

20–1. "Of whose services in war, in peace, in public business, each one (of you), according to his convenience has availed himself unreservedly," more lit. "without objection (from them)"; sc. eorum. For the meaning here given to sine superbia see Knapp in Class. Rev. vol. xxi. p. 45. The three nouns are undoubtedly intended to be a general compendium of the relations of life.

22. dehinc: monosyllable; see Intro. § 96. argumentum, "plot." With this vs. and the next cf. Plaut. Prol. Trin. 16–17 sed de argumento ne expectetis fabulae: senes, qui huc uenient, i rem uobis aperient. Usually, however, the explanations necessary to enable the spectators to follow intelligently a play of Plautus were given in the prologue. Cf. remarks introductory to Prol. of the Andria, and see And. Prol. 6.

23. senes: Micio and Demea, who in great measure unfold the plot in the first act. ei: see App. aperient: sc. narrando, i. e. by what they say, as opposed to what they do (in agendo, 24) on the stage.

24. ostendent: see App. aequanimitas: sc. nostra; "your goodwill." Cf. And. Prol. 24, Heaut. Prol. 35, Phorm. Prol. 30. See App.

25. augeāt: the final syllables, -āt, -ēt, -īt, of words of three or more syllables, preserve their original long quantity in the comic poets (and sometimes also in the Augustan writers), when they receive the accent. See Introd. § 91 Cf. Ritschl, Proleg. in Trin. 180 f., and C. F. W. Müller, Plant. Pros. p. 60 f.

ACT I. SCENE 1.

The scene represents a public street (uia) in Athens. Two houses, but probably three doors (the traditional number handed on from the Greek tragedy: see the Dz.-Hauler ed. of the Phorm., p. 36) face upon this street. The large door near the middle of the stage and the smaller one to the right (of the spectators) belong to the house of Micio. The door to the left belongs to the house of Sostrata, and corresponds in size to the door on the right. The street leads, on the left to the Piraeus, the harbour of Athens (but see Introd. p. 48. note 1.), on the right to the forum (market-place, ἀγορά). A narrow lane, angiportum, also on the right, leads back from the uia toward the country. There is a lane also on the left. In the middle of the stage is an altar (but cf. Introd. p. 48. note 2.). The scene remains the same throughout the play.

Micio enters the stage from his house, and calls as he comes out for Storax. Storax is a slave who had been sent the evening before to escort Aeschinus home from the house of a friend, where he had been supping. Aeschinus has been adopted by his uncle, Micio, and the latter is much concerned at the young man's prolonged absence from home — for the failure of Storax to appear when summoned is proof that Aeschinus has been out all night. Micio proceeds therefore to moralize on the situation. As he delivers his soliloquy he may be supposed to pace to and fro before the door of his house.

26. Storax, if Donatus (on 27) is correct, belonged to a class of slaves, known as aduorsitores (aduersitores, Wessner). One of the duties of these slaves was to accompany their young masters home after a banquet, if necessary with torches in their hands to light the way. See App.

27. seruolorum: on And. 83. qui aduorsum iuerant, "who had gone to escort him home." Though Don. is our authority for the term aduorsitores, yet the word is nowhere found in use. In the list of dramatis personae prefixed to the Mostellaria of Plautus, the words Phaniscus aduorsitor occur, but aduorsitor is nowhere found in the text of the play itself. For aduorsum ire (uenire) cf. Plaut. Most. 876, 880, 938, 947, and Lorenz on Most. 313.

28. hoc uere dicunt, "this is a true saying." With the sentiment of 28-39, regarding the care of children, cf. Plaut. Mil. 719-722, and Eur. Med. 1090-1111.

29. cesses, "loiter." satius = melius. Cf. 58.

30. te: on Phorm. 724. dicat . . . cogitat: the order suggests that she thinks more than she expresses. in animo cogitat: pleonasm; cf. n. on 500.

31. propitii, "loving"; opposed to irata, and used more often of deities than of human beings. Cf. Phorm. 636. n.

33. animo obsequi, "are indulging yourself." animus denotes the disposition in men to self-indulgence. Cf. Plaut. Mil. 677 es, bibe, animo obsequere mecum atque onera te hilaritudine. See App.

34. sibi . . . male, "while matters go ill with herself," i. e. because she is obliged to remain at home and alone. With the thought cf. Eur. Med. 244-247. See App.

35. egó quíā: a proceleusmatic is not infrequently the first foot of an iambic senarius. Cf. 118, etc.; Introd. § 76.

36. alserit: from algesco; "may have caught cold," in the night air.

37. ceciderit: i. e. through intoxication, or in consequence of the darkness. In Plaut. Mil. 719-722 similar language is employed. Such fears were a stock subject of alarm.

38. aliquid: i. e. "some limb." uah: on And. 589. quemquamne, etc.: on And. 245. in animo: the abl., not the acc., is the reading of the best MSS., and is constructed here as with locare, or the like. Livy (34. 2. 4) has statuere apud animum.

40. atque: adversative; see on And. 225. séd ex: see Introd. § 91.

41. dissimili studio: predicative abl. of quality.

42. clementem: on And. 36.

43. quod: i. e. id quod, with reference to uxorem numquam habui, 44.

isti: i. e. those whose views are opposed to mine.

44. contra: on Phorm. 521.

45-6. Note the change from the hist. infin. to the hist. pf. The infinitives are descriptive, while ducit expresses merely a single act or incident. parce ac duriter: on And. 74.

47. inde = ex eis. hunc: i. e. Aeschíus.

48. eduxi: this verb, in the sense of "to bring up," "educate," is more common in Plaut. and Ter. than educare which Ter. employs only in Phorm. 943. Cf. n. on And. 274, Eun. 117. pro meo: with habui as well as amaui. Cf. Hec. 279.

49. in eo, "therein." eo is neut., like id which follows. See on And. 306. Cf. Donatus, 'in eo quasi in ea re, etc.' (vol. ii. p. 18, Wessner). If eo is masc., then id is neut. because attracted by the predicate, solum carum; cf. n. on Prol. 18 (eam).

50. contra, "in return." See on Phorm. 521. The construction = ille ut me item (carum) contra habeat. facio sedulo, "I do all I can," "I make every effort."

51. do: sc. argentum. Cf. 118. praetermitto: sc. delicta (Don.).

52. pro meo iure, "by my orders"; an allusion to the patria potestas. Cf. Hec. 243. n. agere: sc. eum. clanculum: a diminutive from clam, which in early Latin is constructed with the acc. on the analogy of celare. Cf. Hec. 396, n.; Plaut. Mere. 545 emptast amica clam uxorem et clam filium. Hence in the comic poets clam me, clam te, etc., are properly regarded as presenting the acc., not the abl., of the pron. In classical Latin clam (as prep.) takes the abl. Cf. Lucretius, I. 476; Caes. B. C. ii. 32. 8 clam uobis.

53. fert, "prompts," "suggests." Cf. n. on And. 832.

54. Micio is sadly in error. His son has overreached and deceived him. Cf. 629-630.

55. nam: elliptical and causal; "(and I am right in doing so) for." See on And. 43. insuerit, "has made it his practice."

55-6. aut audebit: sc. fallere. See App. on 56.

57. liberalitate, "through their sense of honour," "by an appeal to their gentlemanly instincts"; not "through liberal treatment" (= bonitate), on the part of the parent, as Donatus understands it. Cf. And. 38, and Ad. 684, 828, 449. liberos: free-born children as opposed to serui. Note the assonance in this vs. and cf. n. on And. 96, 218.

59. conueniunt: cf. Hec. 659, 178. The impers. construction might have been employed here also, but for placent. In prose we might have looked for de his mihi cum fratre non conuenit.

61. nobis: ethical dative.

63. uestitu: dat.; see on Heaut. 357. nimio: in agreement with uestitu.

63-4. nimium . . . nimium, etc.: note the play on this word; "'you are awfully foolish.' (Well) he is awfully hard."

64. durus: see n. on Per. 4. -que et: on And. 676. Ter. is fond of polysyndeton; cf. 301.

66. qui . . . credat, "since he believes," "in assuming."

68. sic: with reference to the following verse.

69. malo, "by punishment." See on And. 143 and 431.

70. id: as Don. says, understand quod fuit. tantisper: with dum; see on Heaut. 106.

71. fore clam, "that it will escape notice." clam here is virtually an adj. = "secret." Cf. 624 ac fieret palum, and n. ad ingenium redit: cf. Hec. 113, n.; Phorm. 802.

72. ex animo, "from the heart," "sincerely."

73. par referre, "to return like for like"; more fully given in Eun. 445.

74. patrium, "becoming to a father." paternum would signify "worthy of (one's descent from) a (certain) father." Cf. n. on 450.

75. alieno metu, "from fear of another." The adj. serves the purpose of an obj. genitive, alterius, aliorum. The thought is similar to that in 58.

76. hoc: abl. of degree of difference. interest, "differ"; see on Eun. 233. nequit: sc. facere.

77. nescire: sc. se. Cf. 125. Each brother is sure he is right. Cf. 124.

The play proves each to be wrong. The theme of the play is, 'how to bring up a son.' The answer is ne quid nimis, μηδὲν ἄγαν. See on And. 61.

78. ipsus : on And. 360. Here, however, it is before an initial consonant. gebam, "I was speaking."

79. nescio quid : on And. 340. tristem : sc. eum. Transl. "out of sorts." credo : on And. 313.

80-1. saluom . . . gaudemus : on Eun. 976. Micio gives the greeting in the name of his whole house. Demea's abode is in the country. See 45.

ACT I. SCENE 2.

Demea, who has learned that Aeschinus has forcibly carried off the music-girl from the house of her master, comes in passionate haste to Micio to inform him of the fact, and to reproach him for his excessive leniency and indifferent example. Micio gets the better of the dispute, but gives expression to his real anxiety after his brother has left him.

81. chem : on And. 417. opportune : sc. ades. See on And. 345. In his displeasure, and contrary to the usual custom on such occasions, Demea follows the greeting of his brother to pass unnoticed. Cf. 720, And. 533, Plaut. Bacch. 245. te ipsum quaerito, "you are the very person I am trying to find." The frequentative has an intensive force. Cf. 321, 363, And. 75, Eun. 523.

82-3. rogas, etc., "do you ask me, seeing that we have an Aeschinus (for son), why I am sad?" See App.

83. dixin hoc fore : on And. 17, Hec. 497. Micio says this aside, or to the audience. Cf. 79-80 credo . . . inrugabit.

84. fecerit : for the subj. cf. 261, 374; n. on 396 and on And. 191, 282. udet : the subject is quicquam. Cf. n. on And. 481.

85. metuit : it is better to supply is as the subject than qui understood from quem, for Latin (and even more so Greek) is loath to use a second relative pronoun in such cases, where the second relative would have a form different from that of the first.

86. nam : elliptical and corroborative; "(and there is renewed evidence of this) for." See on And. 43. antehac : on And. 187.

87. modo quid designault, "what has he just now been guilty of?" Cf. Donatus, 'apud veteres hoc uerbum (designault) duas res significabat : penim prave et recte facta designata dicebantur.' Demea purposely employs ambiguous language in order that when he subsequently states the exact truth he may make a deeper impression. But see App.

89. familliam : on Heaut. 751.

90. mulcavit : l. e. either through his slaves, or with his own hand, probably the former. Cf. n. on 172 (em, serua). usque ad mortem : cf. And.

99, Plaut. Mil. 163 ni usque ad mortem male mulcassitis.

91. omnes : i. e. the citizens.

92. hoc : neut. acc. of the pronoun ; or else archaic for huc (with aduenti). For the latter see Engelbrecht, Stud. Terent., p. 70. 5. quot : see on Phorm. 159, And. 248.

93. in ore est : the subject is either Aeschinus, or hoc understood from what precedes. The former is supported by Heaut. 572, and Cic. Lael. 1. 2 qui tum fere omnibus erat in ore.

94. conferendum : sc. cum eo. This father too is deceived ; cf. n. on 54. fratrem : i. e. Ctesipho, whom Demea believes to be without a flaw in his character, since he is the result, as it were, of a 'system' of training elaborated by Demea himself. Cf. George Meredith's 'Richard Fernal,' who also was the victim of a 'system,' and disappointed his father's expectations.

95. rel : on And. 288, Hec. 224.

96. nullum . . . factum : Ter. is fond of such brief sentences with omission of the verb sum. Cf. And. 126, 138 ; Phorm. 104, 133 ; Ad. 121, 264, 792. hulus : i. e. Ctesipho ; "no like deed attaches to him," "he was never guilty of such a deed." Understand est. But huius may be neut. and governed by simile ; "no deed similar to this (act of Aeschinus was ever committed by Ctesipho)." For the gen. with similis, as more regular than the dat. in Plaut. and Ter., see Ritschl (Opusc. II. 570, 579). illi, "to his discredit." tu . . . sinis explains tibi dico, and has the force of "for you are to blame."

97. tú illum : on And. 191 (quā amant).

98. numquam : on And. 178.

100. quorsum istuc, "what do you mean by that remark ?" See on And. 361.

101. flagitium : a very strong word ; "burning shame," "dreadful crime." Cf. Eun. 1013.

103. fecimus : for the pl. see G. 285. 3. Note 1. ; cf. n. on Hec. 512. For the sentiment cf. Juvenal, viii. 163 f.

104. silt : the pf. sii (from sino) is sustained by the Latin grammarian Diomedes (l. p. 374, Keil), who refers to this passage and to one in Varro.

106. esset . . . faceremus, "if there had been a source, etc., we should have done it." The action may be imagined as continued or repeated in the past. Cf. n. on 178. unde id fieret, "whence this might have become possible" ; a pure potential subj., as in 122, where see note.

107. homo, "a true man," "a man of sense" ; on 579 ; cf. 734, 736, 934.

109. ubi . . . foras, "when, after long waiting, he had tumbled you out of doors (for burial)." Cf. 874, Hec. 596, Plaut. Most. 440-443. The obscurity of the passage is intentional on account of its unpleasant suggestion, viz., the desire of a son for the death of his father. expectatum = "waited for," merely. eiectisset denotes haste and indifference ; cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 8.

8-9. extulisset would have been the correct word for a decent funeral. foras : on And. 580.

110. alieniore, "more unsuitable." Cf. 53. faceret : on And. 798 (uiueret). Cf. A. & G. 535. c.; G. 644. 3. a.; H. 570. 1. tamen : on And. 94.

111. pro : on And. 237. tu homo : with sarcastic reference to 107. See on And. 778; cf. Heaut. 1003. mē ād : note the hiatus and mē shortened, not elided, before a short initial vowel.

112. Demea does not accept the philosophy of 53 and 101 ff.

113. ne me optundas : probably a cl. of purpose, not a prohibition. See on And. 348; cf. Heaut. 879, Phorm. 515.

116. illi, "therein"; on And. 637. It might be a dat. of the pronoun.

117. de meo, "out of my substance," "at my expense." Understand facit. Cf. n. on 940 de te largitor.

118. dūm ērit commodum, "so long as it suits me." Note the hiatus; dum does not suffer elision. Cf. n. on 111.

119. erit: Donatus (Wessner, vol. ii. p. 30) says, non 'argentum' scilicet sed 'commodum dare' subaudiendum est. excludetur : i. e. a muliere. Cf. Eun. 49, 159.

120. discidit uestem : an inference; the fact is not mentioned in 88-91. Cf. n. on 559.

122. est unde haec fiant : this passage is quoted by Prof. W. G. Hale (Cum-Constructions, Part II. p. 107) as an instance of the pure potential, which, he says, has an occasional use in hypotaxis, in qualitative clauses expressing capacity, though in parataxis it has nearly died out. Cf. n. on 106.

123. cedo : on And. 150.

124. ostendam : i. e. in the presence of the arbiter. See on 77.

125. sciunt : i. e. who know how to be fathers. Cf. 77.

126. consillis, "in thought." The pl. pictures the unremitting nature of Micio's thought for Aeschinus.

127. quicquam : sc. agis. si pergis, abiero, "if you are going on like this, I shall be off." See on And. 456 (uidero).

128. sicine agis : on Eun. 99.

129. curae est mihi : the subject is ea res suggested by eadem re (128).

130-1. alterum . . . alterum : cf. n. on Phorm. 332 (in illis).

131-2. curare . . . reposcere : the omission of te (subject acc.) softens the reproach by giving it a general application.

132. ah, Micio = you don't mean that, Micio.

133. mihi, etc. = yes, I do. quid istic, "very well then"; see on And. 572.

134. Said in a petulant tone; "let him squander, waste, be wasted (i. e.

be ruined); it's no concern of mine." pereat is passive to perdat. Note the alliteration, and cf. n. on And. 96. Cf. also Heaut. 465.

135. For the aposiopesis cf. And. 164. rursum, etc. offsets ah, Micio (132): "are you angry again, Demea?" = you don't mean that, Demea: you are only angry.

136. an non credis matches mihī sic videtur (133); "do you not then believe me?" = yes, I do mean that.

137. alienus, "a stranger." obsto. sc. Aeschini factis. em: on And. 416.

139. quom . . . est, "that (because) he (Ctesipho) is." See on 18 (quom, etc.). iste tuos: in allusion to is meus est factus (115). sentiet, "will appreciate."

140. posterius: Demea is about to add words to the effect, 'in how much better case his sober-minded brother is,' when he breaks off.

141. Demea departs, to attend to other matters for which he came to town. Micio may now speak his mind freely. nec nil, etc., "neither wholly without foundation, nor yet altogether true are the things he says." Cf. n. on Eun. 641 (haud nil est).

142. nil: adverbial acc.; "in no wise," "in no respect": sometimes put with verbs, rarely with adjectives, in place of non, for the sake of emphasis. Cf. 273 nil auxiliarier, and n. on 79. haec: the scrapes and tricks of Aeschinus, of which Demea has just been complaining.

143. homo: i. e. Demea. Cf. n. on 407.

144. quom goes with each of the three verbs; "even when (though) I try to appease him, though I withstand him vigorously (as I did just now) and try to frighten him (from his position)." Note the conative force of the present tense. quom is concessive as well as temporal. See Roby 1731. For the indic. see A. & G. 549. Note 3.; G. 580. Note 1.; H. 599. 1.

145. tamen . . . patitur, "yet he hardly bears things (trouble) as a man should"; hence were I to help him along in his rage, there would be trouble indeed. augeam: sc. eius iracundiam.

146. etiam: intensive. See Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii. p. 32. vi.

147. cum illo, "as much as he." etsi, "and yet," here introduces a sentence that is coördinate with the preceding. Thus also tametsi, quamquam, quasi, si, nisi, often in the colloquial speech of the comic poets. Cf. n. on 153 (nisi).

150. omnium: sc. meretricum.

151. See 288 ff.

152. deferuisse, "had cooled down." de in composition often conveys the idea of completion, cessation. Cf. the similar use of ἀπὸ. See on 184 (debacchatus), 519 (defetigarit).

153. de integro : on And. 688 (integrascit). nisi, "yet," "but" See on 147 (etsi). Cf. And. 664. Cf. also Ad. 545, 785, Eun. 548.

154. hominem = eum; often thus in Plaut. and Ter. apud forum : on And. 302. Micio now leaves the stage to go to the forum, the customary meeting-place of the citizens, where he hopes to find Aeschinus and to extract the truth from him in person.

ACT II. SCENE 1.

Aeschinus has forcibly carried off the music-girl from Sannio's house, and brings her now to his own home, where he places her in his brother's hands. He is followed by Sannio, between whom and Aeschinus a dispute ensues, resulting in the entire discomfiture of the slave-dealer.

This is the scene taken from the Συναποθνήσκοντες of Diphilos. Cf. Prol. 6-11. On this question see the Dz.-Kauer ed. of the Adelphoe, pp. 10 ff.

155. Aeschinus is accompanied not only by Bacchis, but by Parmeno and perhaps Storax. Parmeno is evidently one of the scruioli mentioned in vs. 27, who are now returning home with their master. Sannio calls aloud as he enters the stage immediately behind the rest. obsecro, populares, etc. : similar to the appeal of Trachalio in Plaut. Rud. 615 ff. Such appeals to the citizens were made by persons seeking protection from acts of open violence. For populares see on Phorm. 35.

156. nunciam : on And. 171. ilico : on And. 514. hic : i. e. before the door of Micio's house. This vs. and the next are said, by way of encouragement, to the music-girl, who casts fearful glances at the leno, and is generally disturbed by the whole proceeding.

158. istam : sc. langam.

159. non . . . uapulet, "he will not under any circumstances take the chance of a second thrashing." hodie umquam : on Phorm. 1009 (hodie) ; cf. n. on 551. iterum : the first beating took place at Sannio's own house, when Aeschinus abducted the music-girl ; see 89 f.

160. ne . . . dicas : to be taken with leno ego sum, rather than audi ; but the proposition on which the clause logically depends is understood — e. g. 'I wish to inform you,' or the like. Sannio is anticipating the trial of his case in court, where he expects to establish the strict integrity of his "character."

161. leno, "slave-merchant" — a word that for Aeschinus at least includes all that is bad ; hence he interrupts with scio, "no doubt." But Sannio's only point is that, though a slave-dealer, he is an honest one, a fact that would secure him a fair hearing in the courts. at ita, etc., "but yet I am one of as strict integrity as any man has anywhere been (found to be)." fide optima : abl. of quality. fidē : see Introd. § 91. quisquam : used because the sentence is virtually negative ; "no man has anywhere been (found to be) of stricter integrity (than I)."

162. tu quod, etc. : on And. 395.

163. huius : monosyllable, and said $\delta\epsilon\iota\kappa\tau\iota\kappa\omega\varsigma$ (with a gesture). The genitive denotes indef. value = "that much." faciam : fut. indic. ius persequar : i. e. in a court of law. Cf. n. on And. 815.

164. re : on And. 824.

165. nollem factum : sc. esse ; "I would it had not happened." The impf. tense implies that the speaker would mend matters if he could, but that he cannot. So Phorm. 796 nollem datum (see note).

166. quom . . . sim : on Phorm. 23. Transl. "(and this you will do) although I have been treated (meantime) in shameful fashion." For a different explanation of this passage see Knapp in Class. Rev. vol. xxi. p. 45.

167. abi prae : Aeschinus makes no answer to Sannio, but gives orders to one of his seruoli to open the door of the house. prae is adv. and postpositive, with verbs of going, in Plaut. and Ter. Cf. And. 171, Eun. 499, 908. hoc : i. e. Sannio's recent protestations. nili : for the case cf. n. on huius (163).

168. Aeschinus ignores Sannio's question and directs the girl to enter the house. Sannio plants himself before the door for the purpose of blocking the way. This renders it necessary for Aeschinus to resort to extreme measures. enim : on Phorm. 983 and And. 91. illuc : i. e. in the direction of the spot where Sannio is standing.

169. nimum, "too far." istuc, "that way," i. e. in the direction of the place where you now stand. propter hunc, "close by this fellow," i. e. by Sannio. em : on And. 416.

170. quoquam, "in any direction." demouneas : for the subj. see A. & G. 450 and 565. Note 1. ; H. 565. 4. ; G. 271. 2 (first example).

171. Cf. the situation in Plaut. Rud. 731 f.

172. istuc ergo ipsum, "that very thing," which you suggest. ergo lends emphasis. experiri : sc. eum (i. e. Parmeno). em, serua, "there, take that" ; addressed to Sannio at the instant when Parmeno, in obedience to a sign from his master, has given the slave-dealer a stout blow on the cheek.

173. geminabit, "he shall repeat it," i. e. the blow. Parmeno mistakes this for an order and strikes again.

174. in istam partem, "in that direction," in which you have already erred (istam), i. e. in the direction of excess.

175. i nunciam : said to the girl, who, released from the leno's grasp and accompanied, perhaps, by Parmeno, hurries into the house. regnum, "absolute power," "the rights of a monarch." Cf. n. on Phorm. 405 ; Sall. Jug. 31 impune quaelibet facere, id est regem esse. hic : i. e. in Athens, where, as Donatus says, it was a crime to wish to be a king ($\rho\acute{\upsilon}\pi\alpha\nu\nu\varsigma$).

176. ornatus esses, "you would have been decked out" ; ironical. Cf.

n. on 166. Cf. also Heaut. 950 ; Plaut. Capt. 997 incedit huc ornatus haud ex suis uirtutibus.

177. rei, "business."

178. ferres infortunium, "you would (now) come badly off," "you would be smarting (this very moment)." Cf. And. 610 ; n. on Phorm. 1028.

179. qui, "how" ; on And. 53. magis : i. e. quam mihi licet tui quicquam tangere. meam : sc. ancillam ; "my property."

180. conuicium, "abuse," "a row." The reference is to the charge of misconduct implied in 178-179. Aeschinus cannot answer Sannio's questions ; hence he resorts to threats of violence.

181-2. intro abripiere . . . operiere loris, "you shall be carried off into the house and there you shall be covered with thongs till you are half dead." loris liber : only slaves could legally be whipped. sic erit : on Heaut. 1014. Cf. Phorm. 801.

183. o hóminem : on And. 769. inpurum : a very strong word ; "infamous." Cf. 281, 360, Phorm. 83. libertatem : Athenian citizens made boast of their equality before the law.

184. debacchatus : on 152. Transl. "if you have quite raved your fill now," i. e. "have ceased raving." si uis : usually contracted into sís. See on Heaut. 369.

185. autem : an emphatic particle, esp. with pronouns, and often in lively questions. Cf. n. on Heaut. 251. See Ad. 934, 940, 950.

187. aequi modo aliquid : sc. dicas ; "provided you say something fair." uah : on And. 589.

189. periurus : contrast fide optima (161).

190. nam : elliptical and corroborative ; " (not yet) for." See on And. 43. etiam : temporal. illuc . . . coepisti refers to 186. quo is not for unde, but = "whither," "to the place where," as in Ilec. 194 (see note).

191. minis uiginti : about $375. Cf. n. on Phorm. 410. quae . . . male : the opposite of quae res bene uortat. See App.

193. namque : elliptical and causal ; " (I asked you the question) for." See on And. 43.

194. ego . . . manu, "I formally maintain that she is freeborn," more lit. "through an action for freedom I claim her (as free) by (the laying on of) my hand." adserere manu is a legal phrase signifying to assert the freedom of any one by the symbolical imposition of hands. causa liberalis was an action at law to recover liberty, ἀπαρσις εἰς ἐλευθερίαν. If it should be proved in court that the girl was a free-born citizen, the leno would be compelled not only to release her, but to pay a considerable fine besides. It is probable that in the play of Diphilos she turned out to be an Athenian citizen. Otherwise Aeschinus would hardly have dared to treat Sannio so roughly ; see 198-199. But Terence leaves us in the dark on this point.

for he never again alludes to the matter. The discrepancy may be accounted for as due to contaminatio, which would lead to the neglect of many questions of detail. Cf. n. on 198. With manu cf. mancipium and Fay on Plaut. Most. 1091.

195. uide utrum uis, "consider which you prefer." Note the indicative and see on And. 45 (quid est). meditari, "con over," i. e. by way of preparation for pleading in court. Cf. n. on And. 406.

196. dum: on Phorm. 982 (Strictly, etc.). pro: on And. 237.

197. miror qui: i. e. miror eos qui.

198. domo me eripuit: a fact not mentioned before, and (if the words are to be taken literally) quite foreign to Aeschinus' best interests. But the words need not be taken literally. Aeschinus certainly carried off the girl by force, and this was tantamount to carrying off Sannio, who was bound to protect his property. Cf. n. on 194. We see here, however, a minor inconsistency due perhaps to contaminatio. See n. introductory to Act ii. Scene 3.

199. plus . . . infregit, "he has inflicted five hundred blows and more," or "more than five hundred blows."

200. tantidem emptam = tantidem quanti emptam est; "at cost price," i. e. for twenty minae; see 191. tradier: sc. mulierem. See on And. 203 (deludier).

201. promeruit: on And. 139. This entire vs. is ironical.

202. cupio, "I am willing," "I am ready." modo argentum: on 40. sed . . . hariolor, "but I prophesy you this," "but this is truth that I am telling you"; see on Phorm. 492, and Knapp in Class. Rev. vol. xxi. pp. 46-47. hoc is explained by what follows.

203. dare: for the tense see on Phorm. 532 and And. 379.

204. Donatus calls attention to the perplexities of the situation. If Sannio agrees to a fixed price for the slave-girl he will thereby invalidate his suit for damages, for the suit must be based on the fact of her having been wrested from him by violence. In the event of such an agreement, therefore, Aeschinus would produce witnesses to testify to the compact of sale, but would take his time about the payment of the purchase money. somnium: on Phorm. 874. mox; cras redi: the words of Aeschinus, as Sannio anticipates them. Cf. 233 f. Cf. also Plaut. Most. 579 redito huc circiter meridiem, 654 petito cras.

206. res, "the truth," "the fact." quaestum: i. e. of a slave-merchant; cf. n. on And. 79. occeperis: see App.

207. accipiunda et mussitanda est, "must be borne in silence." For the derivation of the second verb cf. n. in the Dz.-Kauer ed. of the Adelphoe.

208. frustra . . . puto, "it is vain for the like of me to make these calculations." For puto cf. 796, Eun. 632; n. on Phorm. 718.

ACT II. SCENE 2.

Aeschinus has informed his slave Syrus of the state of the case, and the latter promises to coax Sannio into giving up the music-girl at cost price. Syrus takes advantage of certain complications in Sannio's affairs, which will not brook delay.

209. As Syrus enters the stage from Micio's house he turns and speaks to Aeschinus within. face: in a tone of assurance; "no need to say more." ipsum: i. e. Sannio. accipiat . . . faxo: the form faxo is constructed with the subj. in Ter., only when the verb precedes it. Cf. 847. See on And. 854 (and 753), Eun. 285, Phorm. 308. bene: with esse actum (210).

210. quod . . . audio, "the fact that I hear"; in apposition with istuc. Cf. 305. See on Phorm. 168.

210-1. te audio nescio quid concertasse cum ero, "I hear that you have had something of a set-to with my master." nescio quid generalizes and therefore weakens. See on And. 340.

212. certationem comparatam: an expression borrowed from the language of the arena. Transl. "I never saw a contest more unfairly matched."

213. usque, "quite."

214. tua culpa: abl., as appears from Eun. 980, Hec. 228. quid facerem: deliberative; "what was I to do?" adulescenti morem gestum oportuit, "you ought to have humoured the young man." See on And. 641, Hec. 599, Eun. 188. Cf. Ad. 218, 431, 708. For the tense of gestum (esse) see on And. 239 (praescisse). For gestum (impers.) see on And. 239 (communicatum oportuit). Cf. Heaut. 200.

215. "How could I have humoured him more, (I) who already have gone to the extent of presenting my face (to his blows)?" qui . . . praebui: virtually causal; for the mood cf. 262-263 qui transtulit, and Eun. 293 qui amisi. hodie: on Phorm. 1009. Syrus now comes to the matter he has in hand.

216. in loco: on Heaut. 537. Cf. 994, n. neclegere, "to deem of slight importance." hui, "pshaw!" Cf. n. on And. 474.

218. adulescenti esses morigeratus, "(if) you had given in to the young man." See on And. 641, Eun. 188.

219. ne . . . faeneraret: sc. se; "that it (istuc) would not bring you substantial profit." faenero more often means 'to lend on interest.' See on Phorm. 493.

220. rem, "your fortune." See on 95. abi: contemptuous; "go to," "be gone." See on Phorm. 994.

221. istuc: i. e. "your opinion," "your way of looking at it." numquam . . . fui, "I never attained to such a pitch of cunning."

222. mallem potius: the doubling of the comparative is for emphasis, as in And. 427, Ilec. 738. in praesentia : on Ilec. Prol. 24. Cf. Heaut. 962, Phorm. 779.

223-4. "Come, I know your mind : as if twenty minae were of any account to you, provided you gratify him (i. e. Aeschinus)! Besides, the rumour is current that you are on the eve of your departure for Cyprus." Vs. 223 = I know you better than you know yourself ; your bark is worse than your bite. But see App. iam usquam (ironical) = in ulla aestimatione. Cf. τοῦτον οὐδαμοῦ λέγω, 'I account him nowhere,' i. e. 'as naught' (Soph. Antig. 183) ; cf. also Eun. 293.

224. proficisci : on 203 (dare). hem here expresses surprise ; "what?" Cf. n. on And. 416 (em, servu).

225. nauem conductam, "that a ship has been engaged." In Plaut. and Ter. the navis conducta or "chartered boat" is not an uncommon means of travel, although more often the traveller goes abroad in his own boat. See Knapp in Class. Phil. vol. ii. pp. 303-304. hoc scio, "so much I know." But hoc may be abl. (= "on this account") and dependent on pendet. scio will then be parenthetical.

226. animus tibi pendet, "your mind hangs in the balance," "is all in a whirl," i. e. you don't see things aright ; you have a wrong view of your dealings with Aeschinus. hoc ages, "you'll attend to this business" ; the fut. indic. has the force of a command.

227. nusquam pedem : sc. feram ; "in no direction will I stir a foot." Cf. And. 808. Having repulsed Syrus with this remark, Sannio steps to one side and talks to himself until vs. 235.

227-8. timet . . . homini is said aside. scrupulum : on And. 940 and Phorm. 954. Cf. Plaut. Most. 570 pilum iniecasti mihi, and Fay's note. homini = ei ; cf. n. on 154. scelera : acc. Cf. 304 ; n. on And. 869.

229. ut, "how." articulo : sc. temporis. Cf. Cic. Pro P. Quinct. 5. 19 ut eum . . . in ipso articulo temporis astringeret. oppressit : sc. me. For the indic. see on 195 and note further that ut . . . oppressit here is an independent exclamation. The exclamation and the question alike can most easily be counted independent in connection with an imperative, and it is just there that most examples of the indicative in so-called dependent questions (exclamations) occur in Plautus and Terence. emptae : sc. sunt.

231. ad mercatum, "for a market," "fair." For other references to fairs see Phorm. 837-838 and Knapp in Class. Rev. vol. ii. p. 23. note 2.

232. hoc : the transaction with Aeschinus. agam : said with thought of hoc ages (226). See on Phorm. 419.

233. refruxerit res, "the matter will have grown cold," i. e. it will be useless to pursue it.

233-4. nunc . . . eras : the words of Aeschinus and his friends, perhaps also of the judges in the law-court, as Sannio anticipates them. Cf. n. on 204 (mor, etc.).

234. quor passus es, "why did you allow it?" i. e. allow the girl to be taken from you, and to remain so long in the young man's possession. ubi eras, "where have you been meanwhile?" perdere, "to bear the loss."

235. persequi : sc. iur ; cf. n. on 163.

236. "Have you now counted up that which you reckon will accrue to you?" i. e. from your voyage to Cyprus. putes : the subjunctive is not that of indirect question; so id quod proves. It must then be a rather subtle use of oratio obliqua ; e. g. "which will accrue to you, as you imagine?"

237. hocine incipere : on And. 245. Cf. Ad. 38.

238. per oppressionem, "by force," "violence." ut . . . postulet : a cl. of result, explanatory of hoc in the second hocine (237).

239. labascit : said aside. Syrus knows this because of the leno's bluster unum, "one proposal."

240. uenias : on 110 (faceret) and And. 798 (uiueret).

241. seruesne . . . totum depends on periculum. diuiduom face, "cut the sum in two." Cf. Plaut. Rud. 1408 diuiduom talentum faciam. For face see on And. 680.

242. Syrus takes advantage of the signs of weakness shown by Sannio in 237-238, and goes so far as to hint that one half of the cost price will be enough for him. He does this that Sannio may be not only willing but glad to part with the girl for twenty minae; cf. 209-210. minas decem : nearly $187.50. See on 191.

243. etiam : intensive, with a prepositional phrase. See Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii. p. 32. vi, and p. 33. vii. 1. sorte, "the principal," i. e. the twenty minae which Sannio himself had paid for the girl. Cf. Shak. Mer. of Ven. Act iv. Scene 1, 'Shall I not barely have my principal?'

244. labefecit, "has loosened."

245. colaphis : on 199. tuber, "one big swelling."

246. etiam insuper, "besides." See A. J. P. vol. xviii. p. 29. Cf. n. on And. 940. defraudat : because Aeschinus has already offered (192) the cost price of twenty minae.

247. num . . . abeam : lit. "do you want anything, on account of which I shall not take my departure (or 'to hinder me from taking, etc.')." See on Eun. 191. Syrus makes a show of taking his leave, in order to obtain Sannio's consent to his proposal by an appearance of indifference. immo . . . quaeso, "yes indeed (I do want something), I have to beg this of you." See on And. 201. hoc anticipates the request made in vs. 249.

248. ut ut, "in whatever manner." potius quam litis sequar, "rather than engage in a law-suit." See on 240. For other instances of appreciation of the uncertainty of the law, cf. And. 811, Phorm. 408.

249. meum mihi reddatur, "that my bare due be paid to me," is explanatory of hoc (247). saltem, "at all events." Sannio now begs for the cost price (tantum reddatur quanti emptus), seeing that Aeschinus is unwilling that he should make a small profit on the transaction. Syrus has now accomplished what he promised Aeschinus to do for him, in 209 f.

250. antehac : on And. 187.

251. dices : i. e. if you intercede for me with your master, "you shall say," etc. sedulo : on 50. We may suppose that Syrus here accepts Sannio's bribe.

252-3. sed . . . amica : Syrus says this aside, and at the same time turns from Sannio toward Ctesipho, whom he sees coming from the forum.

253. quid quod te oro, "what about my request?"

ACT II. SCENE 3.

Ctesipho, having heard that his brother has rescued the music-girl for him, comes to express his joy and gratitude. It is distinctly implied in this scene that Ctesipho had no hand in the abduction of the girl, whereas in 355-356 the contrary is affirmed. The discrepancy may be owing to the contaminatio. Cf. n. on 198.

254. Ctesipho enters from the right, soliloquizing. quiuus (= quouis) is an indefinite pronoun. qui is an old abl. form as in 179, And. Prol. 6 (where see n.).

255. id demum iuuat, "that especially is delightful." quem : rel., and subject of facere. The reference is to persons who, through kinship or the like, stand under special obligation to serve one, as Aeschinus stands to his brother Ctesipho.

256. o : on 260. frater frater : on And. 282 (Mysis Mysis). The repetition indicates that Ctesipho is speaking under the influence of deep feeling (of gratitude).

257. This sentence depends logically, though not syntactically, on scio in 256 (parataxis).

258. rem praecipuam. "special distinction," "special advantage."

259. homini nemini : on Eun. 549 ; cf. Phorm. 591. artium, "qualities." principem is in effect a noun ; "a master of, etc.;" or else principem = potentem. For the gen. of the thing with principem cf. Cic. Verr. 5. 1. 4 flagitiorum omnium uitiorumque princeps. The infin. (with subject acc.) in this vs. is due to arbitror. Vss. 258-259 are about equivalent to hoc itaque modo dicam fratrem homini nemini esse, etc.

260. o with the vocative always expresses good feeling, or affection.

See on And. 267, 318; cf. esp. Ad. 268, 269, 256. Sean Aeschinūs | ubīst ellum. See Intro. § 91 (top of p. 58.). ellum, "there he is"; Syrus points toward the house of Aeschinus. Cf. ellam intus (389). See on And. 855. hem here denotes joy. Cf. n. on 224 and And. 416 fin.

261. sit: on 84, And. 191, 282. caput, "fellow"; on And. 371.

262. qui: for the gender see A. & G. 280. a.; n. on And. 607. post, "of secondary importance"; with esse, not putarit; but cf. Ilec. 483.

263. laborem: on And. 720. peccatum: always of a single act—here the forcible abduction of the music-girl. transtulit: for the indic. cf. n. on 215.

264. nil . . . supra: on 96 (nullum . . . factum). For pote see on And. 437, and App. to Phorm. 337. quid nam: on And. 321. foris: the sing. of the third decl., used esp. in this expression. See on And. 580. crepuit: on And. 682. mane: it was Ctesipho's intention to enter the house, but Syrus detains him with the information that it is his brother who is coming out. foras: on And. 580.

ACT II. SCENE 4.

Aeschinus now returns, as he promised in 196, to settle matters with Sannio, and to see his brother as well (see 266). Aeschinus chides Ctesipho for his lack of courage. Sannio receives assurance that he will be paid for the slave-girl, whom he is now willing to part with at cost price. Ctesipho is desirous of keeping the whole matter a secret from his father, and is encouraged by Syrus to make the best of the situation.

265. me quaerit: Sannio recognizes himself at once as the sacrilegus—a comic touch like that of the leno in Plaut. Pseud. 974. quid, "anything," i. e. any money.

266. opportune: on 81. quid fit, "how goes it?" "how are you?" like quid agitur? in 883, 373, 901, etc.

267. omitte uero, "pray lay aside." tristitiem = tristitiam; the archaic form is preserved only in the Codex Bezae. Thus also nequitiem in 358 and Heaut. 481. Cf. And. 206 segnitiae.

268. qui . . . habeam: on 66. Cf. 368. o: on 260.

269. amplius: on Phorm. 457.

270. id: object of facere. adsentandi, "to flatter you." The genitive of the gerund, expressing purpose, not uncommon in the writers of the Silver Age, is rare in the early Latin, and may be explained in this case as due to direct imitation of the Gk. infin. with τοῦ, which Ter. found, presumably, in his original. Cf. Tac. Ann. 2. 59 Germanicus Aegyptum proficiscitur cognoscendae antiquitatis. Cf. A. & G. 504. a. Note 1. quam quo: see G. 541. Note 2 (and top of p. 341), and Note 1. The vs. = ne id me facere existimes, non quia habeam gratiam sed quod adsentari uolo; cf. 825 non quo . . . sed quo. gratum, "acceptable"; cf. Cic. Tusc. 5. 15. 45 id gratum acceptumque habendum (est), and Eun. 275. facere: sc. me. See on And. Prol. 14.

271. inepte: vocative as in And. 791; Eun. 311, 1007; Phorm. 949. norimus = nouerimus; pf. subj. The i in the ending of the pf. subj. was originally long. See Dz.-Hauler on Phorm. 772 gesserimus; cf. Plaut. Bacch. 1132 nouerimus. nos inter nos: cf. Heaut. 511.

272. hoc dolet: on Phorm. 162. rescisse, "learned of the matter." rem: see App.

272-3. rem . . . redisse ut: cf. Heaut. 359-360.

273. nil: on 142. tibi . . . auxiliarier: this would have proved to be the situation had Ctesipho left the country (see 275), or had Sannio taken the girl to the slave-market at Cyprus and sold her there.

274. pudebat: sc. me; "I was ashamed," i. e. to acknowledge it.

275. e patria: sc. te fugere. Ctesipho had contemplated leaving the country. Cf. Heaut. 117. n. See on 385, and cf. Knapp in Class. Phil. vol. ii. p. 283. Note 1. Donatus says that in Menander's play Ctesipho meditated suicide. turpe dictu: sc. est. See on Phorm. 456.

276. peccauit: i. e. in keeping the matter a secret. quid . . . Sannio: addressed to Syrus. tandem: on 685. iam mitis est, "oh, he is pacified."

277. absoluam: i. e. by the payment of the twenty minae, through a banker, argentarius, whose place of business would be in the forum. Cf. n. on Phorm. 921, 922. tu i intro: see App.

278. insta, "urge the matter on," i. e. press payment of the money. Cf. 247-251. eamus, "let us be off." This, with the reason that follows, is an additional bit of sly knavery, having for its purpose to trick poor Sannio out of his promised compensation. But Sannio heads Syrus off (as in 227), and brings him round to a repetition of the assurance that the money shall be forthcoming. in Cyprum: only the general direction is intended; hence the preposition, which is omitted in 224 and 230. non tam quidem: sc. properat. For tam (= tantum) here cf. Heaut. 1052, Phorm. 998.

279. etiam: temporal with maneo. See Kirk, A. J. P. vol. xviii. p. 27.

280. ut . . . reddat: sc. uide. omne, "the sum in full," i. e. twenty minae. hac: sc. uia; cf. Heaut. 664, 832. sequor: Aeschinus departs (to the right of the spectators), and is closely followed by Sannio; but Syrus is detained by Ctesipho, who makes it evident by his anxiety how little accustomed he is to doings of this sort.

281. heus: on And. 635. inpurissimum: on 183.

282. absoluitote: the pl. includes Aeschinus. siet: on And. 234.

283. aliqua: sc. uia. Cf. Phorm. 585. ad patrem permānet, "should reach (the ears of) my father." perpetuo, "forever," "utterly." The alliteration strengthens. See on Eun. 1043.

285. lectulos (dim. of lectos) ; eating-couches for the intended banquet. See 370, 376 ff. sterni: cf. Heaut. 125. n. cetera, "every thing else," requisite for a feast.

286. transacta re, "when our business in the forum has been put through," i. e. the business of paying off the slave-dealer through a banker. conuortam: Donatus calls particular attention to the 'swagger' in this word. obsonio: those provisions for a banquet which could not, like meal or bread, be kept in the house; particularly fish, and the finer vegetables.

287. Ita quaeso, "yes, I beg of you." hilare: adv. from hilarus. Transl. "let us spend this day in merry-making." Ctesipho enters the house, and Syrus hastens after Aeschinus toward the forum.

ACT III. SCENE 1.

The first and second acts were occupied with the affairs of Ctesipho; the third act now develops the intrigue in which Aeschinus himself is personally involved.

In the present scene, Sostrata expresses to Canthara her anxiety concerning her daughter and her doubts regarding the fidelity of Aeschinus.

Sostrata is a widow and mother of Pamphila. Canthara is an elderly female slave, who had formerly been nurse to Sostrata and is in consequence on terms of great familiarity with her mistress. At the opening of the scene the two women appear from the house of Sostrata.

288. Sostrata is speaking of her daughter's impending accouchement.

289. recte spero: on Heaut. 159. edepol: on And. 229. modo: on And. 173. mea tu, "my dear one"; an apostrophe to Pamphila, whose cries are audible as they come from behind the scene. Cf. Eun. 664. primulum, "for the very first time." Cf. 898. See App.

290. adfueris: sc. parienti.

291. neminem: i. e. no relative in a position to render genuine assistance. Geta: the only male slave in the family. Cf. 479-481. See App.

292. nec: sc. adest; but see App. on 291.

293-4. numquam . . . semper: pleonasm. Transl. "he never lets a single day go by without his coming—always." For quin here cf. n. on Heaut. 1007.

295. e re nata: ἐκ τοῦ νῦν στὴ συνβεβηκότος, i. e. "after what has lately happened," "under the circumstances"; to be distinguished from pro re nata, "according to circumstances." melius . . . factumst, "it could not have happened more advantageously than it has." The subject of potuit is quod . . . attinet (296).

296. oblatumst : sc. uirgini ; see 300. The cl. is subordinate to the following quod-cl. quod : a conjunction. Transl. "the fact that he rather than any one else is concerned."

297. talem : emphatic and general, and explained by the particular characteristics which follow. ingenio : see App. tanta : the family of Aeschinus was one of wealth and standing ; see 502.

ACT III. SCENE 2.

The long-expected Geta now rushes upon the stage from the side of the forum. He has been a witness to the abduction of the slave-girl, and is talking to himself in excited tones about what he presumes to be the faithlessness of Aeschinus. He fails to observe the two women, who with difficulty attract his attention, and elicit from him an account of what has happened.

299. nunc illud est, quom. "now is the time when." See on And. 152. Cf. Plaut. Capt. 516, and Elmer's note there. If quom is taken as explicative here, we may transl. "such is the situation, that." See on Prol. 18. The vs. may be scanned also as a trochaic septenarius. Cf. n. on 309.

301. quod refers to malo. mihique : Geta, as a faithful and confidential slave, includes himself among the unfortunates. For the polysyndeton cf. 64. n. filiae erili : i. e. Pamphila.

302. circumuallant se : lit. "fling themselves as walls around (us)," i. e. "form a circle (about us)." But some editors omit se and supply nos (= me et eram et erilem filiam) ; cf. Caes. B. G. 7.11 id (oppidum) circumuallauit. See App. emergi : intrans. (see Eun. 555) and hence impers. in the pass. But cf. n. on And. 562. potest : the impers. use is frequent in Ter. Cf. n. on And. 861 (quantum potest).

303. solitudo : on And. 290.

304. hocine saeculum, "what an age is this !" See on And. 869. hocine = hoc + ce (strengthening affix) + ne. See on And. 245. o hominem : on And. 769.

305. quid . . . quod, "why, pray, is it that ?" See on 210. nam : on And. 321.

306. illum : pleonastic, but due to an unconscious shift from a relative to a demonstrative form of expression.

308. miseræ : emphatic, because of its position in the relative clause instead of after instabat.

309. Very commonly scanned as an iambic octonarius, and thus Dz. (1881). Cf. n. on 299.

310. compos animi, "master of myself." The vs. is a good example of parataxis.

311. dari mi obuiam, "be thrown in my way."

312. euomam : cf. 510. See on Hec. 515. aegritudo, "vexation," as in Eun. 552. animi may be understood.

313. "I should regard it, for my own part, as sufficient punishment, if only I might wreak vengeance upon them after my own fashion." mihi : ethical dat., as in Phorm. 1029. For the force of dum with subj. here see esp. B. 310. II. Cf. G. 573 ; H. 587 ; A. & G. 528. Note. See App.

314. seni : probably Micio, for Geta would not be literal or exact in his way of speaking. illud scelus : i. e. Aeschinus. produxit, "begat."

315. inpulsorem : a mere guess, and an incorrect one, on Geta's part, yet not out of keeping with what Geta knows of the character of Syrus and the latter's influence with Aeschinus. Cf. Plaut. Most. 899, where Tranio, the slave, says me suasore atque inpulsoe id factum audacter dicito. uah : on And. 589.

316. sublimen : see on And. 861. medium : on And. 133. arriperem, "I'd grab (and lift) him." capite . . . statuerem, "I'd set him head foremost on the ground." in terra : MSS. (except A) have terram. See on 38 (in animo).

318. adulescenti : on Hec. 573. praecipitem darem : sc. eum ; "I'd cast him headlong (into the street)." Cf. And. 606, Phorm. 625. n.

319. ruerem, "I'd hurl to the ground" : originally transitive as here, but the trans. use was subsequently confined, for the most part, to the poets. Cf. Heaut. 369 ; Verg. Georg. 1. 105 cumulosque ruit. Cf. also 550, Eun. 599.

320. reuocemus : Geta : see on Phorm. 848.

321. te ipsam quaerito : see on 81.

322. te exspecto, "it's you I am waiting for." oppido opportune, "most fortunately." oppido is intensive and colloquial, and frequent in Plautus and in Cicero's Letters. te . . . obuiam, "have you met me."

324. prorsus, "utterly."

325. quid sit : see App.

326. quid is ergo : sc. fecit. But the ellipsis was hardly felt ; cf. 325 quid 'iam' Geta? Cf. also n. on 100.

327. qua re : sc. alienus est.

328. neque . . . fert, "nor does he make a secret of it." fert = our idiom "he carries it off." ipsus : on 78.

329. satine : on And. 749.

330. credas : potential subj. ; see B., 'The Latin Language,' 365. a. nostrumne Aeschinum : sc. hoc fecisse ; cf. n. on 304.

332. hac : i. e. Pamphila.

333. puerum, "the child" ; used of an infant not yet born, whose sex therefore was still undetermined. Cf. n. on And. 400. patris : i. e. Micio.

335. quod . . . opus est : the personal use. Cf. n. on And. 740.

336. au expresses disapproval, protest, as well as surprise and irritation. Cf. n. on And. 751, Heaut. 1015. For the hiatus see on And. 769. mi homo: on And. 721. sanun = σαυνον.

337. hoc: chiefly the fact that Aeschinus is the father of Pamphila's child. proferendum, "ought to be made known"; cf. 339. Cf. also Hec. 107. mi . . . non placet: explained by vs. 338-342.

339. proferimus: for the tense see on And. 404. Cf. n. on 435. infittias ibit: acc. of limit (goal) of motion: "he will resort to denial." See on Phorm. 1026 (exsequias); Roby 1114 (b); B. 182. 5. But cf. G. 333. 2. R. (top of p. 211), where this usage is explained as following the analogy of the cognate accusative.

340. tua fama: i. e. Sostrata's good name, which would suffer because Pamphila had not been more carefully watched and guarded. gnatae uita: Pamphila's shame and grief at being disowned would be so great as to threaten her life.

340-1. si maxume fateatur, "if he should make the very fullest confession," i. e. of his intimacy with Pamphila. hanc: on 332.

342. tacito est opus, "it must be kept quiet." See on Phorm. 584, And. 490. Cf. 601. minume gentium: sc. tacito est opus; see on Phorm. 1033. Cf. 540. n.

343. Sostratā: on Phorm. 865.

344. potis est: on And. 437.

345. indotatast, "she has no dowry." Cf. Phorm. 120, 938. The dowry was essential to the proper settlement of a marriage, and could be waived only through explicit renunciation on the part of the bridegroom or his father. Cf. Plant. Aul. 257 f. secunda dos, "as good as a dowry." Cf. Ilor. Od. 3. 24. 21 f.; Plant. Amph. 839 ff.

346. uirginé: on 161 (fidē). hoc: explained by vs. 347.

347. mecum, "in my possession." anulus: cf. Hec. 574. n. amiserat: sc. Aeschinus (luctando cum puella). Cf. Hec. 574, 829.

348. quando: on And. 818.

349. This verse is explanatory of culpam hanc (348). pretium, "money transaction"; Sostrata and her daughter have nothing in common with the class of meretrices. intercessisse, "has taken place."

350. experiar, "I will go to law." Thus Donatus (Wessner, ii. p. 80), 'apud iudices agam.' quid istic: on 133. cēdo, ut melius dicis, "I give in, since your suggestion is better." See App. quantum potes, "as fast as you can," "this very moment."

351. abi atque Hégioni: on 40. Hégio takes the place of the injured maiden's dead father, Simulus. eius: i. e. Pamphila.

352. Simulus = Σιμόλος; perhaps a dim. form of σῆμός = "snub-nosed" (cf. Σῆμος, Sîmus, masc. prop. noun, 'Flat-nose,' Anth. P. 6, 310). See Lidd.

and Scott, 7th ed. summus : sc. amicus. Cf. n. on And. 970. Donatus notes that in Menander it is the brother of Sostrata who plays the part of friend and protector at this crisis.

354. ne in mora, etc.: on And. 166. Sostrata enters the house. Canthara and Geta depart in opposite directions, to carry out their respective orders. Geta's path lay in the direction of the forum.

ACT III. SCENE 3.

Demea, during his stay in the city, has heard that Ctesipho had a hand in the abduction of the music-girl. He comes therefore to Micio's house to find the young man—or at least to learn where he keeps himself—and falls in with the slave, Syrus. The latter gives the old man slight comfort, makes sport of his foibles, and parodies his wise saws and maxims.

355. Demea enters from the direction of the forum, in great agitation. disperii: on Phorm. 1011 (distaedet).

356. This is contrary to what is implied in Act ii, Scene 3. See note introductory to that scene. If the discrepancy is not an accidental result of contaminatio, we must suppose that Demea is intentionally represented here as misinformed.

357-8. si . . . potest . . . adducere: sc. Aeschinus. These words are epexegetic of id. Cf. n. on Ilec. 571. illum: i. e. Ctesipho.

358. qui aliquoi rei est etiam, "who is good for something, still"; the antecedent is illum. Cf. 854, Eun. 608 frugi es; Plaut. Stich. 718 nulli rei erimus postea. eum takes up illum; thus id. in 741 takes up illud. nequitiem: on 267.

359. gāneum: collateral form of gānea.

360. ille inpurus: i. e. Aeschinus. Cf. n. on 183.

361. eccum: on And. 532 (2), 855. ire, "coming"; in later Latin euntem. Cf. And. 580. Syrus is returning from the forum, with the obsonium (286. n.), accompanied by Dromo and Stephanio, two fellow-slaves employed in the kitchen. hinc = ex hoc. scibo, "I shall learn." For the form see on And. 38.

362. atque: on And. 225. grege, "gang."

363. quaeritare: on 81. carnufex: on And. 183.

364. omnem rem: i. e. the particulars concerning the abduction of the music-girl. Syrus addresses his remarks, as far as sententia in 371, to his fellow-slaves or to the audience. He appears not to observe that he is overheard by Demea. seni: i. e. Micio, whom Syrus and Aeschinus had met in the forum (154).

365. haberet: sc. res: commonly se is added, as in Heaut. 702, Phorm. 820. See on Phorm. 429. enarramus: the pl. includes Aeschinus. The form is not a contracted pf., as Dziatzko (1881), following Don., argues, but an hist. pres. See Brix on Plaut. Trin. Prol. 14.

366. nil . . . laetius, "never have I seen any one better pleased." For the emphatic pleonasm, nil quicquam, cf. n. on And. 90. For the neut. (as preferred to the masc.) cf. n. on And. 306.

367. hominis : i. e. Micio.

368. qui . . . dedissem : on 66.

369. disrumpor, "I burst with anger"; frequent in Cic. Cf. n. on Phorm. 1011 (distaedet). adnumeravit : i. e. to Sannio.

370. edit : sc. nobis. in sumptum, "to spend," on the delicacies of the kitchen, as usually in comedy. minae : on Phorm. 410.

371. distributum, "disbursed." ex sententia, "to my liking"; see on Heaut. 683.

372. Cf. Phorm. 689, and footnote there.

373. Syrus now turns toward the house, and in so doing sees Demea, as he pretends, for the first time. ehem : on And. 417. quid agitur : see on 266.

374. agatur : on Aul. 191 (sit). Cf. n. on 84 (fecerit).

375. rationem, "conduct," "doings." ne dicam dolo, "to speak honestly."

376. Syrus, who sees that he is to be detained by Demea, sends Dromo and Stephanio (380) into the house with directions to guard against any omission in the cooking. purga, "clean." Dromo : on And. 860. A similar situation is depicted in Plaut. Aul. 398 f., Dromo, desquama piscis, etc.

377. gongrum (not congrum) : Gk. γόγγρος, "conger cel."

378. tantisper, "for just a little while" : said δεικτικῶς. rediero : i. e. to the house, which, strictly speaking, he has not yet reached. Syrus does not mean that he is going away. exossabitur, "it shall be boned."

379. haecin flagitia : cf. n. on 304. haecin = haccine. See on 304.

380. clamo. "I protest against them." salsamentum was salted fish or meat, of any kind. Stephanio : see App.

381. fac macerentur, "have them soaked." fidem : on And. 237. Cf. Ad. 746. Cf. also 489.

382. "Which is it? Does he (Micio) do it from inclination (i. e. because he likes to do it), or does he think (i. e. does he do it because he thinks) it will be to his credit?" The original meaning of utrum ('which of the two is the case') is here exemplified, since -ne is used to introduce the first, as an the second, of the two interrogative clauses. Cf. Eun. 721. Cf. also Plaut. Capt. 268, Pseud. 688 (with Lorenz's note). Somewhat similar is Ilec. 122.

383. perdiderit : pf. subj. in oratio obliqua; see B. 269. 1. b. and ex. 3.

385. militatum : i. e. to enlist in the army of some foreign chief. Cf. n. on 275, Heaut. 117 ; Plaut. Trin. 598-599.

386-7. istuc (neut. nom. of istic) is explained by the following infinitives. Cf. 465 ; n. on And. 186, Heaut. 110. non . . . uidere, "not (only) to see what is just before one's feet." Note the position of modo. The slave makes a sly hit at Demea's common failing, and is therefore intentionally obscure. Cf. Soph. O. T. 130 τὸ πρὸς ποσὶ σκοπεῖν. Cf. also Ilec. 608.

388. penes uos, "in your possession" ; cf. Plaut. Trin. 733 quom eius rem penes me habeam domi.

389-90. ellam : on 260, And. 855. habiturus : sc. Aeschinus psaltrium. ut est dementia, "such is his madness." Cf. Eun. 525.

390. haecine fieri : see on And. 245.

392. pudet pigetque : 'pudet' quod turpe est, 'piget' quod dolet, says Donatus. Transl. "I am ashamed of my brother and disgusted with him." Cf. Plaut. Capt. 203, Trin. 345, Pseud. 281, for instances of pudet and piget contrasted.

393. pernimum : on And. 265, 486.

394. quantus quantus es, "every inch of you," "through and through." quantus doubled = quantuscumque. See on Phorm. 903.

395. ille : Micio. somnium : opposed to sapientia, and hence = stultitia. Cf. n. on Phorm. 874. num : see App.

396. sinerem : an echo of Syrus' sineres ; cf. n. on Phorm. 382 (nossem). aut, "or rather," sometimes introduces a correction of the previous idea.

396-7. non . . . olfecissem, "should I not have got wind of it, etc.?" coeperet : archaic impf. subj. cited from this place by Priscian. The corresponding infin. coepere is found in Plaut. Pers. 121, the pres. indic. coepio in Men. 960, the pres. subj. coepiat in Truc. 232.

398. siet : sc. Ctesipho.

399. ut quisque . . . itast, "a man's own are what he wishes them to be," i. e. in his own eyes. Said aside. Cf. 'Geese are swans to those who own them,' and 'The wish is father to the thought.'

400. quid eum, "what about him?" The acc. is determined by the following uidisti ; cf. 656 quid ipsae? quid aiunt? But we might understand narras ; cf. 777. Contrast this vs. with 364 non . . . uelle. The professions of Syrus lead Demea to change his mind.

401. abigam hunc rus : said aside. hunc refers to Demea.

402. oh . . . produxi, "oh, 't was I myself who conducted him on his way." Cf. 560 f.

403. atque : on And. 337 (ac). iratum : in agreement with the object (eum) of produxi (402).

404. quid autem, "why (angry) pray?" See on 185. iurgio, "quarrel."

405. ain uero, "do you say it really?" Or simply, "really?" Cf. n. on And. 875. nil reticuit, "he left nothing unsaid."

406. numerabatur: cf. 369.

407. homo, "the fellow," "he," i. e. Ctesipho. Cf. 143.

408-9. "To think of your doing these shameful things! To think of your committing these acts (so) unworthy of our family!" See on And. 245.

411. saluos sit: a common formula of blessing; "heaven spare him!" spero, "that's my hope"; parenthetical, but felt with saluos sit. Cf. n. on And. 313. maiorum: for the case see on 96 (huius). suom: a reminiscence of the earlier form (-om, -um) of the gen. pl. of the 2nd decl. So liberum (793). Cf. n. on Phorm. 393. hui and phy in the next vs. are said aside. Cf. n. on And. 474.

412. istorum: e. g. that mentioned by Syrus in 410.

413. unde = a quo. fit sedulo: sc. a me ut discat. See on 50 (facio sedulo), And. 679.

415-6. Ctesipho is taught by his father to observe accurately the lives of others, and to draw thence examples of upright conduct, on which to model his own behaviour. Cf. the teachings of Horace's father (Sat. 1. 4. 105 ff.). For another instance of borrowing from Ter. (Eun. 46-63) cf. Hor. Sat. 2. 3. 260-271. exemplum: cf. And. 651.

418. istaec res est, "that's the thing."

420. ex sententia: on 371.

421. cautio est: on And. 400.

422. id: sc. non facere; i. e. not to take proper precautions. tam flagitium est quam, "is an outrage as shameful as."

423. uobis: sc. flagitium est. quod queo: restrictive; "so far as I can." Cf. n. on Heaut. 416, Ilec. 760.

425. Syrus must be supposed to parody Demea's manner and gestures as well as his words. lautum, "washed clean." It may be rendered "nice"; cf. 764, Eun. 427.

426. illud recte: sc. fecisti. sic: sc. facere. sedulo: with allusion to fit sedulo (413).

427. pro, "according to"; cf. n. on And. 675. sapientia, "taste." Note the play on the double sense of sapere.

428. Said with ironical reference to Demea's words in 415.

429. quid facto usus sit: on Phorm. 584, And. 490.

431. "But what are you to do? As a man is, so must you humour him." Cf. n. on 218. See on Eun. 188, And. 641. geras: for the subj. (jussive) see B. 275. 2.; G. 263. 2. (a). Syrus, though speaking in generalities, is thinking in particular of his master, Micio. His irony is not perceived by Demea.

432. num quid uis, "is there anything you wish of me?" A hint to Demea that Syrus is about to enter the house. Demea churlishly takes the question, not as a mere form of saying 'farewell,' but literally, in order that he may administer a rebuke. Cf. n. on 247, Eun. 191. mentem . . . dari depends on uolo understood from uis. Demea should have answered, ualeas. uobis: not tibi, for Demea means to include Micio and Aeschinus; "I wish you all better sense."

433. Syrus is most desirous that Demea should return to his farm, and asks the question in order to make sure of the fact before he goes in doors. recta: sc. uia. See on And. 600. nam, "(you do right) for." agas: see B. 277. a.

435. abeo, "I will be off." For the tense cf. n. on Phorm. 388. Cf. 339. n. is quam ob rem = is propter quem. Cf. n. on And. 382; see Eun. 145.

436-7. Cf. 130 and 138. de istoc ipse uiderit, "let him look after that fellow himself." istoc: i. e. Aeschinus. uiderit: probably not the fut. pf. indic., as Dz.-Kauer and Fairclough (on Plaut. Capt. 892) take it, but a pf. subj. with jussive force, the pf. tense denoting the peremptoriness of the command.

439. tribulis noster, "my fellow-tribesman"; Gk. φυλέτης. The Athenians were divided into ten tribes by Clisthenes (Aristotle, Pol. Ath. ch. 21). si satis cerno, "if my sight is true," "if I can believe my eyes." uah here denotes admiration and surprise; cf. n. on And. 589.

441. ne: on And. 324.

442. antiqua . . . fide: abl. of quality, defining illius modi. Demea had all the characteristics of the laudator temporis acti (Hor. A. P. 173). See on And. 817.

443. See Edwin W. Fay in Class. Rev. vol. xii. p. 297. Transl. "'T would be long ere any evil would come to the state from such a man as he (from him).'" haud cito: litotes; lit. "not quickly." See H. 752. 8; A. & G. 641; B. 375. 1. quid: occasionally quis is clearly used at random for aliquis, in exception to the well-known rule of substitution. But see Class. Rev., l. c.

444. etiam here and in 445 is temporal. See on And. 282.

ACT III. SCENE 4.

Hegio, to whom Geta has told his story (cf. 351), is on his way to the house of Sostrata (see 506) where he hopes to find Demea. Demea overhears a part of the conversation in which Hegio and Geta are earnestly engaged, and imagines that it refers to the music-girl. On meeting Hegio he is informed of the truth and urged to do justice to Pamphila.

447. pro: on And. 237.

448-9. ex illan . . . esse ortum: on And. 245.

449. inliberale, "ungentlemanly."
450. "Surely this was not acting in a way worthy of your father," i. e. of Demea. See on 74. For dedisti = fecisti (nearly) cf. Eun. 457, 899.
451. id . . . dolet: on Phorm. 162. illi: i. e. Hegio.
452. pater: Micio, his adoptive father. eius: a monosyllable; see Introd. § 96.
453. hic: adv.; "hereabouts."
454. illos: i. e. Aeschinus and his family. Hegio means that Aeschinus must marry Pamphila. haud sic auferent, "they shall not carry it off thus." Cf. And. 610. n.; Heaut. 918; Plaut. Pers. 276. sic: i. e. without paying a penalty.
456. tū ēs: the long vowel of tū is shortened before the following vowel. Cf. n. on 97.
457. senex: Simulus; cf. 352. For a similar situation see And. 284.
458. caue dixeris, "don't speak of it," i. e. of the possibility of my deserting you. For the pf. subj. see G. 272. 2. Remark.
459. satis pie, "with due regard to the ties of kinship"; see 494 cognatus mihi erat.
- 460-1. saluere . . . lubeo: cf. And. 533. n.
461. oh . . . Demea: the correct order of the two sentences is reversed. Hegio forgets his courtesy for a moment.
462. quid autem: a reply to te quaerebam ipsum. Cf. n. on 404.
464. liberalis, "honourable." Cf. 684; n. on 57, 449. officium: for the case see on Heaut. 580. Cf. Phorm. 282.
465. nostrum, "our," i. e. of Hegio and his particular family and acquaintances. noras = noueras.
466. aequalem, "contemporary," connotes the idea of companionship; cf. Heaut. 417. quid ni: on And. 315. Transl. "of course." Cf. n. on 543 (uerum).
468. etiam amplius: on Heaut. 132.
470. This is also Micio's view, which is in contrast with that of Demea; cf. 53, 687.
471. scit: sc. Aeschinus. Cf. the case of Pamphilus in the Heccyra.
472. ultro, "of his own accord."
473. Cf. 334.
476. bonus: ironical; cf. 556, 722. nobis: on 61. si dis placet: a formula used only of past or present, never of future, events, and employed chiefly when mention is made of matters of an astonishing or unexpected nature. Cf. n. in Dz.-Kauer and in Spengel. See on Eun. 919.
477. quicum = quacum; fem. rel. Cf. n. on 254 and And. 402. uiuat: on Hec. 694.

479. in medio, "at hand." Cf. Phorm. Prol. 16, and (for the opposite) 967. res ipsa: i. e. the impending birth of a child.

480. ut . . . seruorum, "as slaves go"; captus = "capacity," "character."

482. abduce: on And. 680. quaere rem, "examine into the truth." See on Heaut. 994, Hec. 773.

483. immo, "nay more," i. e. take stronger measures still than those denoted by uinci. Cf. 928. See on And. 523. extorque, "wreck it out of me." nisi is illogical — much as in Hor. Od. 1. 14. 15 tu nisi uentis debes ludibrium, caue.

484. negabit: sc. Aeschinus. coram ipsum cedo, "let me have him face to face." See on Phorm. 914.

486. doloribus: on And. 268. The cries of Pamphila, coming from behind the scene (in Sostrata's house), render any further inquiry on Demea's part unnecessary.

487. The same words are uttered by Glycerium in And. 473. Cf. Plaut. Aul. 692, Truc. 476.

488. num nam: on And. 591. Hegio addresses Geta.

490. The marriage of Aeschinus and Pamphila is meant. uis: sc. legum. See Donatus. Cf. Phorm. 214. uoluntate: i. e. "without sacrifice of her good will (toward you)."

491. uobis: the dat. with deceat is archaic. Cf. 928, Hec. 164; Plaut. Amph. 820 nostro generi non deceat. The acc. in early Latin is generally accompanied by an infin. expressed (as in 506, 955), or implied (as in And. 421). This vs. = si haec fient ut uobis deceat satis habeo; hence sin in 492 is natural and right.

492. Cf. Hec. 637. n.

493. summa ui: i. e. by legal proceedings. illum mortuom: see 457. n.

495. educti: on 48.

497. experiar: on 350.

500. hoc . . . cogites, "see that you reflect on this matter"; the same as 808. Cf. 30, 818; Eun. 64, 636. hoc is anticipatory.

501-4. "In proportion as you live in the greatest ease, in proportion as you are very powerful, etc., so especially ought you, etc." See on Heaut. 997-998. Cf. Plaut. Aul. 236, Sall. Jug. 31. 14. agitis = uitam agitis, nearly; but we are not to suppose an ellipsis of the word uitam. potentes: on Eun. 760. noscere: pregnant, like γινώσκειν. See on Heaut. 642.

504. uos: accusative.

505. redito: as Hegio turns to enter Sostrata's house, Demea, who has not yet given him a decided answer (cf. 499), calls him back, and promises to do all that is right.

507. non me indicente, "not without warning from me." Negative in- is compounded with adjectives and the participles of verbs (occasionally with the verbs themselves); in classical Latin seldom with the pres. prtepl. act. Cf. Phorm. 951; And. 603, 782; Liv. 22. 39. 2 etiam me indicente; but Cic. Fin. 2. 3. 10 etiam non dicente.

507-8. utinam . . . defunctum: impers. pass.; "would only an end might be made of it here!" Cf. n. on Phorm. 1021, Eun. Prol. 15. licentia: i. e. on the part of Aeschinus.

509. euadet: cf. And. 127, 176. n.

510. requiram, "seek," "find." That Demea goes toward the forum for this purpose, not into Micio's house, is shown by 540, to which 512 may be added as corroborative evidence. Cf. 499. euomam: cf. 312. n.

ACT III. SCENE 5.

Hegio has promised Sostrata to take her case in hand, and is leaving her house to go in search of Micio. He speaks a few reassuring words to her as he comes out.

511. bono . . . sis, "be sure you keep up your courage." For this subj. (in a substantive cl. of result) see A. & G. 568; G. 553. 1.; H. 566; B. 297. 1. quod potes: cf. n. on 423, Heaut. 416.

511-2. istam . . . fac consolere, "be sure you comfort your daughter."

514. "If it happens that he intends to do his duty"; see on Phorm. 925, Hec. 501.

516. quid agam: i. e. whether or not I shall bring the case into court. Hegio now departs in the direction of the forum.

ACT IV. SCENE I.

Ctesipho, who at the close of the second act had gone into the house of Micio, has been informed by Syrus of the trick played upon Demea to induce him to return to the country. He now steps out from the house in conversation with Syrus. While they are talking Demea appears unexpectedly.

517. abisse rus: on 433. For references to land travel in Ter. cf. Knapp in Class. Phil. vol. ii. pp. 17-18. iam dudum, "some time ago." dic, "tell me about it." sodes: on And. 85.

518. "I believe he is busy at some work or other at this very instant." nunc quom maxume: on And. 823. operis: on Phorm. 363. utinam: sc. faciat, or ita sit.

519. quod . . . fiat: fiat is optative subj. and, as Spengel says, the rel. cl. precedes the idea to which it relates; cf. the formula quod bonum faustum felixque sit (Liv. 1. 17. 10). cum salute eius, "consistently with his safety." Ctesipho is not wishing for his father's death, as is the young man in the fragment of Cn. Nacuius, Deos quaeso ut adimant et patrem et matrem meos (see Otto Ribbeck, Com. Lat. Rel. p. 20. vs. 95). defetigarit : for the force of de- see on 152 and cf. n. on 184.

520. triduo hoc perpetuo, "for these three days straight away"; abl. of time within which, differing but little from the acc. of duration of time, for which cf. n. on Hee. 87. Cf. n. on 972. prorsum, "at all"; to be taken with what follows.

521. istoc : abl. siqui, "if in any way"; qui is old abl. and indef. potis est : impers. ; on And. 437. rectius, "better." Syrus does not hesitate to wish for the old man's death. ita, "just so"; but Ctesipho does not grasp the full significance of the slave's remark.

522. misere nimis, "desperately." perpetuom : cf. n. on 972.

523. rus : Demea's farm or country place. Cf. n. on 517. male : intensive ; see on Hee. 337.

524. See App.

525. oppressisset, "would have caught him." illi, "there." Cf. n. on And. 637.

527. mē ubi : on And. 191 (quā amant). uidi : sc. te.

528. nilne in mentem est, "does nothing occur to you?" "Don't you think of anything?" Cf. n. on Heaut. 986. See App. numquam quicquam, "never a thing"; on And. 178. tanto nequior : sc. es; "so much the worse (are you)." Cf. n. on And. 702 (fortis).

530. opera, "your services," i. e. in a court of law or elsewhere. ut, "so that," i. e. "so that (you can say that)." The cl. depends on nemo est uobis (529), which has been modified by sunt and in itself = nonne . . . uobis?

531. interdius : archaic for interdiū ; "by day (at the most)."

532. uah : on And. 589. quam uellem mos esset, "how I wish it were the custom," or "how I would it were, etc." etiam adds a second idea ('by night') to the first idea ('by day'); it is purely additory. See Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii. p. 31. 2.

533. quin : on Phorm. 486, And. 45. illius sensum, "his disposition," or possibly "his sentiments."

534. feruit, "rages," is a verb of the third conjugation in early Latin ; of the second, for the most part, in the classic period. ouem : for the case see on Heaut. 116 (se ipsum); cf. Phorm. 592. Transl. "as gentle as a lamb."

535. per and lubenter are separated by tmesis. See App. facio te deum, "I praise you to the skies."

536. homini : cf. n. on 143. ilico : temporal, as in And. 514 and 125; lit. "on the spot," i. e. "at once," "immediately." lacrumae : cf. 409.

537. em tibi autem, "see there now, will you!" For em see on And. 416. Cf. And. 842, Eun. 472. tibi is an ethical dat. For autem see on 185. lupus in fabula: an allusion, as the context shows, to some story or proverb in which the wolf appears unexpectedly, while somebody is talking about him. Cicero (ad Att. 13. 33. 4) says, de Varrone loquebamur: lupus in fabula; venit enim ad me. Cf. Plant. Stich. 577.

538. quid agimus, "what shall we do?" For the pres. indic. in deliberative questions see on And. 315. uidero, "I'll look after things"; see on And. 456. Cf. n. on 127, 845.

539. tu me: sc. uidisti. potine = potisne, i. e. potisne est. See on And. 437. Ctesipho rushes into Micio's house and conceals himself (until 553) just within the doorway. From this point of vantage he observes what is going on and carries on a conversation with Syrus in suppressed tones, until Demea arrives in the immediate neighbourhood.

ACT IV. SCENE 2.

Demea, having failed to find Micio (cf. 510) at the forum, returns to see if he is at his own house (549). He meets Syrus, who dupes him into a second effort to find his brother, and sends him off to a shop at the other end of the town.

540. Demea soliloquizes, not seeing Syrus. ne: on And. 324. nusquam gentium, "nowhere in the world." See on Phorm. 1033, Heaut. 928; cf. Gk. οὐδαμοῦ γῆς.

541. a uilla mercennarium: the prep. is used as in English, "a man from the farm." The doubled n of mercennarium (from mercednarius, mercednarius, "a hireling") is supported, says Spengel, by most MSS. and by Codex B for Plant. Poen. 503 tuos sum mercennarius.

543. uerum, "yes"; on Phorm. 524. Cf. n. on 466, And. 315 (quid nī). quin . . . es, "come, cheer up." es is imperative; see 533. n.

544. malum: on Heaut. 318. nequeo satis discernere, "I can't really make it out."

545. nisi credo, "save that I suppose." See on 153. huic rei anticipates ferendis miseriis.

546. Donatus (Wessner, vol. ii. p. 113) calls attention to the ἐπανάφορά, or repetition of the word primus in this and the next vs. primus sentio mala: "ridiculus error Demeae," says Don., i. e., and the same is true of the rest of this vs. and the next.

547. obnuntio, "announce bad news."

549. uiso, "I am going to see"; on And. 404. But the fut. is found in Hec. 339, Eun. 545.

550. "I implore you, mind he does not burst right in here." inruāt: cf. n. on 319. For the quantity of the final syllable see on Prol. 25. etiam taces, "will you be quiet?" οὐ μὴ σιωπήσεις; See on Phorm. 542. Cf. Kirk in A. J. P. vol. xviii. p. 39. This command, however, repeats that expressed in 543 (quin . . . es). It does this in other words, to be sure, but in words having the same sense.

551. numquam hodie, "under no circumstances"; on And. 178 and Phorm. 1009. Cf. Ad. 159, Ilec. 788.

552. Ctesipho now closes the door and withdraws into the inner recesses of the house.

553. age, "well," "all right." eccum: on And. 532, 855. sceleratum: on And. 159.

554. Syrus pretends not to see Demea, but talks in a voice loud enough to be overheard by him—a common device; cf. Phorm. 351–373. hic, "here," i. e. in this family. durare: on Ilec. 269. si sic fit, "if things go on at this rate."

556. quid ille gannit, "what is it he is growling (out)?" quid ais: on And. 184. bone uir, "my good fellow"; on 476, And. 616. Cf. Plaut. Capt. 954.

557. For the thought cf. Plaut. Capt. 955–956. Don't 'dear fellow' me, says Syrus.

558–9. pugnis . . . usque occidit, "has pounded almost to death"; cf. 90 mulcavit usque ad mortem.

559. hem: on 260. discidit (from scindo); not discidit (from caedo). Thus Donatus. But Dziatzko (1881), Dz.-Kauer, and Spengel insist on discidit for metrical reasons, which seem to me, however, to be insufficient, although in my former edition of the Adelphoe (1896) I followed Spengel. discidit occurs in 120.

561. produxe = produxisse; see on And. 151 (praescripti). There is an allusion to 402 qui egomet produxi. aibas = aiebas; cf. n. on Phorm. 480. factum: on Phorm. 524. Cf. n. on 543 (uerum).

562. nil pepercit, "he showed (me) no mercy." non pudeisse: on And. 245. senem: Syrus, seeking to arouse sympathy, calls himself "a poor old man"; cf. seruolum (566). Syrus is not to be thought of as the typical senex with white hair.

563. modo, "quite lately." tantillum, "only so big"; said δεικτικῶς.

564. laudo: on And. 443. patrissas, "you take after your father," i. e. after Demea himself. For the form see my Adelphoe (1896); cf. n. in Dz.-Kauer. abi: here commendatory, as "go 'way," "that will answer." See on Phorm. 994. Cf. n. on 220. te: i. e. Ctesipho.

565. ne: on And. 324.

566. perquam, "oh, very." See on 393; cf. 567 perfortiter. seruolum, "a poor slave"; the diminutive expresses helplessness, which is emphasized by what follows.

568. potuit : impersonal, in the sense of feri potuit. Cf. App. on Phorm. 818 and Dz.-Hauler on Phorm. 303. ego : sc. sentio. rei : for the dat. see on Ilec. 821. caput : i. e. auctorem ; cf. n. on And. 458.

570. hodie numquam : on 551. Syrus pretends to be desirous of preventing a meeting between Demea and Micio, and Demea imagines that Syrus is acting in the interest of Aeschinus. Demea is all the more determined therefore to find his brother, and thus becomes an easy victim to the machinations of the slave. hem : on 224. quid ais : an exclamation of anger at the slave's bold remark ; not as in 556. Cf. n. on And. 137. Transl. " what's that you say ? " ita : on 543 (uerum).

572. illius hominis : i. e. the man at whose house or shop Demea may expect to find Micio. Cf. 261 illius opera.

573. hac deorsum, " down this street " ; hac = hac uia ; cf. n. on And. 600. deorsum is a dissyllable.

574. hac (sc. uia) ; to be taken with the verb, as in 575, not with recta platea. Transl. " pass this way, straight up the street." platea : on And. 796. sursum : the hiatus is rendered permissible by the pause in the sense. Yet it is not impossible that Ter. wrote sursus. Lucretius used both forms (II. 188 and 189). eo, " thither," i. e. to the end of the street, as indicated by sursum.

575. cliuos deorsum uorsum est, " there is a slope right down before you." hac te praecipitato, " fling yourself down that." Note the play on words : (1) ' hasten, etc., ' (2) ' kill yourself ' ; cf. n. on 318 and And. 606. hac : sc. uia.

576. ad hanc manum : accompanied by an appropriate wave of the hand to the right or the left. angiportum : on Eun. 845, Phorm. 891. prop-ter : adv. ; " hard by." With these directions of Syrus cf. those given by Launcelot to old Gobbo in Shak., Mer. of Ven., Act ii. Scene 2, quoted on vs. 574 in my separate edition of the Adelphoe.

577. illi, " there " ; on And. 637. etiam, " also," i. e. the fig-tree in addition to the sacellum.

578. uerum : on Eun. 347. uah here denotes vexation ; see on And. 589.

579. hominem : i. e. a person with the intelligence of a man ; " in my senses." Cf. the same word in 107, 734, 736, 934. Cf. also Ilec. 214.

580. erratio, " chance of losing the way."

581. Cratini : Donatus derives Cratinus ' ἀπὸ τοῦ κράτους, id est a potentia,' and adds ' congrue nomen inuenit diuiti.' See Wessner, vol. ii. p. 120. huius : said with a gesture in the direction of the supposed residence ; " there." Scan as a monosyllable. eas : sc. aedis.

582. hac (sc. uia, as in 574) picks up huius (581). recta platea : sc. ito. See on 574. Dianae : sc. templum. For this common omission cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 9. 35 uentum erat ad Vestae ; the Gk. εἰς διδασκάλου (sc. οἶκον) ; the

Eng. 'to St. John's.' The word omitted gives regularly the characteristic locality or haunt of the person represented by the word in the genitive.

583. lacum, "pool." Reservoirs of water were constructed near the gates of a city for the use of beasts of burden, and as a safeguard against fire. See Donatus (Wessner, vol. ii. p. 120).

584. pistrilla, "a little mill," for crushing corn, and usually attached to a bakery. exaduorsum: on Phorm. 88. fabrica, "workshop." ibist, "it's there he is."

585. lectulos in sole: couches to be used in the open air; "open-air seats." These were set out on a terrace or balcony or flat house-top, called solarium, and were made of more durable material than those which were kept wholly under cover. ilignis, "of holm-oak"; selected for its durability. edit = locavit (conlocavit); "he gave a contract for." The loose connection of the words in this verse suggests the embarrassment of the speaker. Strictly speaking we need utendos or the like with in sole, but two gerundives would be awkward; moreover, as Donatus explains, Syrus adds in sole at hap-hazard, in order to lend the appearance of particularity and therefore of probability to his falsehood about the lectuli; then fearing still that Demea may give him the lie (for Micio must have had plenty of such lectuli) he adds further the words ilignis pedibus, which give an air of still greater verisimilitude to his statement.

586. ubi = in quibus. potetis, "may carouse." bene sane: ironical; see on And. 848. Demea hurries away by the lane on the left.

587. hodie: on Phorm. 1009. silicernium, "dry-bones"; or "funeral feast," i. e. fit only to die and furnish occasion for one.

588. Aeschinūs odiose cessat, "A. is intolerably late." For -ūs cf. n. on 260. prandium corrumpitur, "dinner's spoiling." See on 376. cena and prandium were frequently confused.

589. totus, "from top to toe," "head over ears," "steeped."

590. unum quicquid: for unum quidque, as in Plaut. Trin. 881 si unum quicquid singillatim et placide pereontabere; thus frequently in early Latin and occasionally in Cicero. See Brix, l. c. bellissimum, "sweetest," "most choice," suggests bellaria = "dainties," "dessert."

591. cyathos sorbilans, "sipping my cups." paulatim, "comfortably," "cosily." producam, "I will spin out," as in Hor. Sat. 1. 5. 70 prorsus iucunde cenam producimus illam, and Martial. 2. 89 quod nimio gaudes noctem producere uino, ignosco. Syrus withdraws into Micio's house.

ACT IV. SCENE 3.

Hegio, who had gone to the forum at the close of the third act to look for Micio (512), now returns with him. He has told Micio the whole story about Aeschinus and Pamphila, and secured from him promises of redress.

592. lauder makes clear the general character of the previous conversation.

594. nisi si credidisti, "you must have imagined." For nisi see on And. 249, Ad. 153. si is redundant. nisi si is sometimes strengthened by forte, as in Eun. 524, 662-663. ita anticipates the following infin. with subject acc.

595. ultro, "wantonly." quam : rel. = iniuriam quam. expostules, "complain of." Cf. n. on And. 639.

596. ultro, "besides."

597. esse : see App. Transl. "I have never imagined you to be different from what you are."

598. uirginis : final syllable long because of the ictus of the verse. See Introd. § 91. eas : on Hec. 754.

599. dixi = dirixi ; on 561. mulieri : the same as matrem (598). For the situation cf. Hec. 754 f.

600. This vs. is explanatory of istaec eadem, and is a very brief recapitulation by Hegio of what, it is to be presumed, he has learned in conversation with Micio while walking with the latter from the forum. fratrem : i. e. Ctesipho. eius points to fratrem. psaltriam : the music-girl carried off by Aeschinus to oblige Ctesipho. See App.

601. opus est facto : on 342. bene facis, "thank you" ; on Heaut. 1054. Cf. 604, 970. See App.

602. illi : i. e. Pamphila.

603. officium : on 464.

604. immo ego ibo, "no, I will go in person." See on And. 523.

605-6. quibus, etc. = quanto eis res sunt minus secundae, tanto magis sunt ei . . . suspiciosi.

606. ad contumeliam, "in the light of an affront." accipiunt magis, "they are inclined to regard."

607. inpotentiam, "helplessness."

608. "Wherefore that you should make the explanation to her yourself, in a personal interview, is the better way to appease them." te ipsum is the subject of purgare, the object being understood, e. g. quae facta sint (i. e. the apparent desertion of Pamphila by Aeschinus). ipsi : i. e. Sostrata ; see on Hec. 254 (nobis). coram : on 484. placabilis est : on Heaut. 204-205 (tolerabilis). Cf. n. on Phorm. 961.

609. et recte et uerum : note the combination of adv. and adj. (noun), and cf. Plato, Phaedo 79 D, καλῶς καὶ ἀληθῆ λέγεις. intro : i. e. into the house of Sostrata.

ACT IV. SCENE 4.

Aeschinus now returns from the forum (see 277), and turns over in his mind the critical character of the situation. It is evident that Sostrata and Pamphila have heard about the abduction of the music-girl, and believe him to be false. Yet he cannot explain without disclosing his brother's secret. Finally he decides to go to Sostrata's house and make a clean breast of the matter. He is interrupted in this laudable undertaking by the unexpected appearance of his adoptive father.

610. discrucior : on Phorm. 1011 (distrahet). animi : on Hec. 121. hocine, etc. : on And. 245. obici = obiiri ; hence the first syllable is long. tantum : emphatic ; " this evil, so great as it is."

611. quid me faciam, " what I am to do with myself " ; more freely, " what will become of me." See on And. 143 and 709. Cf. n. on Hec. 668. quid agam : more general in meaning than quid faciam.

612. membra . . . sunt : cf. Verg. Aen. i. 92 Aeneae solvantur frigore membra.

613. obstupuit : cf. And. 256, Phorm. 991. nil consili, " no plan of action."

614. uah here denotes despair ; see on And. 589. turba, " confusion," " embarrassment."

615. de me indicates the source of the suspicion ; cf. n. on And. 359. incidit : sc. eis (dat.), i. e. Sostrata and the rest, who entertain the suspicion ; cf. And. 501 tibi istaec incidit suspicio.

617. hance : see App. anus : Canthara, the nurse. anus is usually an elderly woman of inferior rank or condition, matrona an elderly lady. The latter can be called anus only in a slighting way, as in 939. Cf. Hec. 231, 621. id indicium fecit = id indicavit ; see on And. 157, Hec. 546.

619. Scan Pimphila | quid agit ; see on 598. iam partus adsiet, " whether her delivery is already at hand." To make good the omission of the interrogative particle, Dziatzko conjectures partusne or partum. See n. in Dz.-Kauer.

620. eon = eone ; " whether for that reason." abi : on 220.

621. dedisti uerba, " you have imposed upon us." Cf. n. on And. 211, Eun. Prol. 24. tua . . . fides, " our trust in you has deceived us."

622. ualeas : repellent ; " away with you," or even like our " farewell " as sometimes used. Cf. n. on And. 696 ; Gk. χαλπειν λέγω.

623. id ; i. e. mihi . . . emisse (617).

624. garrulae illi, " to that chatter-box," " tell-tale." ac fieret palam, " and (the secret) should be made public." The sudden change of subject is a colloquialism. palam is virtually an adj. = " evident," " open." Cf. n. on 71.

625-6. quod . . . ecferrī, " a matter that must by no means get abroad anywhere " ; opus est with subject nom. is probably an earlier use than that with the abl. See B., ' The Latin Language, ' 341. 2.

626. ac mitto, "well, I'll let that pass." See on Phorm. 232. fleri . . . exeat, "arrangements can be made to keep the matter from leaking out anywhere." potis est : impersonal; cf. n. on And. 437. ut ne (or ne) always expresses negative purpose, but the universality of this law is not admitted by all grammarians. Cf. Dräger, Hist. Synt. II. 291-292. See however B., 'The Latin Language,' § 385 fin. Thus also Hec. 839, and And. 699 (where Fairclough must be mistaken in explaining ut ne as = ut non).

627. id ipsum : object of credant. Aeschinus fears that he will not be believed by Sostrata and Pamphila if he explains the truth to them regarding the music-girl, so greatly are appearances against him. tot . . . similia : i. e. so many circumstances combine to give colour to the assumption that I carried her off for my own sake, and not for Ctesipho's.

629-30. non me . . . indicasse : on And. 245. hanc rem : i. e. his relations with Pamphila, not the abduction of the music-girl.

630. ut ut erat gesta, "bad as it was," lit. "however it had been done." Cf. n. on Heaut. 200. exorassem, etc., "I'd have got his permission to marry her," if I had asked for it. That is, I was a fool not to tell him, for I could so easily have obtained his consent to my marriage.

631. cessatum . . . est, "procrastinating have I been up to this moment." nunc . . . expergiscere, "from this instant, Aeschinus, rouse yourself!"

633. pultare : on And. 682 (concrepuit). hasce : sc. fores.

634. heus : on And. 635. Aeschinūs : on 588 and 598. aperite aliquis, "open some one." Instances of this combination of aliquis with a plural verb are numerous in Plautus; cf. Pseud. 1272 and Lorenz's note.

635. huc : on Heaut. 174.

ACT IV. SCENE 5.

Micio, who, in company with Hegio, had gone into Sostrata's house (609), says a few words to Sostrata as he comes out. He then falls in with Aeschinus and endeavours to test his loyalty to Pamphila by means of a little bit of strategy. He is pleased to find Aeschinus faithful, and assures him that he shall be married. Aeschinus is overcome with gratitude. This scene begins within the limits of vs. 635; see on 958.

636. facite : Micio may be supposed, in view of subsequent events, to have bidden Sostrata be of good cheer, and make ready for the marriage of her daughter. haec : matters which have been the subject of conversation between Sostrata and Micio.

637. quis . . . pultauit : said aside. Why Micio should be in doubt regarding the identity of the person who knocked, it is difficult to say. We may suppose that Micio, being in conversation with Sostrata, failed to catch the words of Aeschinus when the latter called aloud his name (see 634); or else that Micio is mischievous here, as he is later on, and pretends that he does not know who knocked. In the latter case the words are meant to be overheard by Aeschinus. For pultavit see on And. 682 (concrepuit).

637-8. Aeschinus speaks aside.

638. pepulisti: much the same as pultare. Cf. 788. fores: on And. 580.

639-40. Said aside. melius est, "it is just as well," or "he deserves it."

640. It is the concealment of the fact from his father, rather than the deed itself, that causes Micio annoyance, for it upsets the latter's pet theory of education as set forth in vss. 52-56. Cf. 629-630.

641. respondes: on Eun. 851. istas: sc. pepuli. quod sciam, "so far as I know"; see A. & G. 535. d.

642. ita, "so?" "really?" "yes?"

643. erubuit, "he blushes," lit. "he has become red." Cf. n. on And. 878 (pudoris signum). salua res est, "the situation is saved," "it is all right." Micio's doubts as to his son's honourable intentions are now dispelled. He is moreover assured of the young man's shame at having concealed from him the story of his love affair. Cf. 827-828 in loco uereri. dic sodes, "tell me, I entreat you"; said with considerable earnestness.

646. aduocatum: on Eun. 340.

647. pauperculae, "in poor circumstances"; as in Heaut. 96.

648. ut opinor, etc.: a mixture (fusion) of two constructions (ut opinor, eas non nosti, and opinor eas non nosse te). Cf. n. on Phorm. 480-481 (ut aibat, etc.). et, "or rather."

649. enim: on And. 91.

651. illi: i. e. uirgini.

652. leges: the Attic law, in the case of a maiden who was an orphan and portionless, seems to have favoured her marriage with her nearest male relative (ἀγχιστεὺς: see Diod. Sic. xii. 18. 2. 3), or else to have compelled the latter to endow her according to his means. But the Attic law was not entirely clear — a fact remarked by Aristotle (Ἀθην. πολιτ. 9. 2). A partial recital of it, as it stood in the time of the New Comedy, is given in Phorm. 125-126. Cf. n. on And. 71. The law undoubtedly had particular reference to the ἐπικληροί, i. e. only daughters and heiresses. Cf. The Book of Numbers, xxxvi. 8. See Dz.-Hauler on Phorm. 125. perii: said in a tone of despair.

653. recte, "all right!" Cf. n. on Heaut. 518, 228.

654. Mileti, "at Miletus"; an Ionian colony in Asia Minor. An Athenian citizen might reside in a colony and still be subject to Athenian law.

655. ita: on 287. animo male est, "I am losing my senses"; said aside. animo is dative.

656. ipsae : i. e. mulieres (647). illas : sc. dicere. Cf. And. 853. n. nil enim. "nothing, of course" ; on Ilec. 850. The women agreed to it eventually, though an objection was made at first (657 ff.).

658. neque : adversative ; "but . . . not." Cf. similar use of οὐδέ.

659. priorem esse illum, "that he has the prior right," to the girl. illum points to the alius uir (of 657), who of course is Aeschinus. huic : i. e. the Milesian

660. "Do not these demands seem to you to be just?"

662. quid . . . ni : separated ; cf. n. on Heaut. 529, Ad. 466. For the subj. cf. H. 557 ; A. & G. 443 and 445.

663. etiam : purely additory according to Kirk, who cites this passage in A. J. P. xviii. p. 31, 2), but etiam here seems to be rather intensive than additory. atque etiam = "and even," "and indeed." Cf. Kirk, l. c. p. 32. vi. If, however, Kirk is quite right, etiam here assists atque in adding inliberaliter (664) to duriter inmisericorditerque, and is pleonastic. Cf. n. on 532.

664. inliberaliter, "ungenerously" ; cf. n. on 449.

665-6. quid, etc., "what, pray, do you suppose will be the feelings of that wretched man who was the first to consort with her?" tandem : on

685. animi : partitive gen. with quid, as in Eun. 1015. illa consuevit : the omission of cum is unparalleled. See App.

667. haud scio an, "perhaps" ; on And. 525.

668. quom, etc., modifies quid . . . creditis fore animi. sibi praesens praesenti eripi, "snatched from him in his very presence." See App.

670. qua ratione istuc, "how so?" despondit : sc. eum adulescenti. A formal betrothal was usual then, as is the case now in some countries, e. g. in Germany.

671. quoi quando nupsit : two distinct questions ; "to whom was she wedded, and when?" auctor, "consenting witness" ; such as a parent or guardian, who must give his consent to the marriage to render it legal.

672. alienam, "a stranger," i. e. a person whom his father had not selected for him, and whose family was in no way associated with his own. Cf. Phorm. 582. But aliena may mean 'one who is affianced to another by law,' "another man's bride," and have reference to Pamphila as an orphan and compelled under the law to marry her next of kin. Cf. 652. Note the extravagant language here and in the previous vs. There has been no marriage yet, of any sort. sedere, "sit inactive."

673. tam grandem, "so far advanced (in years)" ; cf. our colloquial (slang) "so grown up." Cf. 930, Phorm. 362, And. 814. dum : with expectantem (674). cognatus : i. e. the Milesian.

675. id is inner acc. ; "that's the position you should have maintained." Cf. G. 333 ; A. & G. 390. c. ; H. 409. 1.

676. ridiculum, "absurd!" see on Phorm. 524. dicerem: see A. & G. 444. a. Cf. n. on 691.

677-8. quid . . . nostra: sc. sunt (with Spengel); "what have we to do with these matters?" Those commentators who, like Dziatzko, make nostra abl. with rĕfert (understood), fail to account for ista as a plural. Yet if ista is sing. and refers to the girl, the construction becomes irregular, since a pronominal subject of interest or rĕfert should be neuter, as in Phorm. 723, or as in 800 and 940 of the same play, where rĕfert is undoubtedly understood. Moreover illis includes both women—a fact that renders it unnecessary that ista should refer to either of them.

679. The change of metre is in keeping with the change in Micio's tone, which now becomes serious and confidential.

680. quo magis, "wherefore the more."

681. ita . . . ames, "so truly would I have you love me for my deserts." For the form of this sentence cf. 749-750 ita . . . ament, ut, etc. promerentem: on And. 139.

682. "(So truly) as I am deeply grieved to have been guilty of this fault." admisisse in me: cf. Phorm. 270; Plaut. Amph. 885 quae neque sunt facta neque ego in me admisi. id takes up the previous cl. for the sake of emphasis, the cl. itself (rather than id) being the true subject of dolet. Cf. n. on Phorm. 162.

683. me tui pudet, "I am ashamed to look you in the face." See Heaut. 260; n. on Phorm. 392. Cf. Hec. 793.

684. liberale: on And. 123. Cf. n. on 464, 57. indiligens, "reckless," "careless"; cf. socordem (695).

685. tandem, "pray"; often in questions to produce emphasis. Cf. 665, 276.

687. magnum: predicative. See App. Cf. n. on 470.

688. cedo, "tell me"; on And. 150.

689-90. "Did you practise any caution, or exercise any foresight of your own as to what should be done, (or) in what way it should be done?" For the syncopated forms of verbs in this sentence see on 561.

690. qua = qua ratione. The two questions depend on prosperti.

691. qua resciscerem: an independent deliberative question; "how was I to find it out?" Cf. A. & G. 444. Note. With qua understand uia or ratione. haec: inner acc.; "while you were thus hesitating." Cf. Hec. 213 perturbes haec.

692. quod . . . fuit: on 423, 511.

693. dormienti, "while you slept"; for the metaphor cf. 631 exper-giscere. Cf. also Heaut. 730; n. on Phorm. 1007. For the spirit of the vs. cf. Heaut. 1038.

695. "I would not have you equally indifferent to the rest of your affairs." For the genitive see Roby 1320 and A. & G. 349. a. and d. ; cf. Tac. II. 3. 31 gregarius miles futuri socors.

697. ludis nunc : Micio is not mocking Aeschinus now. Micio ceased at vs. 680 to play with the young man's feelings. But Aeschinus was quite taken in by his uncle's little 'ruse' (see 639 ff.) and begins to suspect the latter's sincerity only when there is no real need to do so.

697-8. nescio : quia, etc. : i. e. I can give you no definite reason, but because, etc.

698. Aeschinus, though brought up with the greater laxity, is really a better boy than his brother ; cf. 705, etc.

699. abi domum, "be off home." deos conprecare, "supplicate the gods." According to Servius on Aen. iii. 136, a wife could not be married, nor even a field be ploughed, without preliminary sacrifices. Cf. Phorm. 702. accersas : on And. 546 ; cf. Heaut. 948.

700. quantum potes : on 350.

701. quam oculos meos = "than my life" (nearly). Cf. 903, and Catullus, 3. 5 passer . . . quem plus illa oculis suis amabat.

702. quam illam : i. e. than the girl you love ; said jokingly, but with the purpose of checking the young man's extravagant way of speaking. aeque, "just as much." perbenigne : sc. dicis ; ironical, "you are very kind." Cf. Phorm. 1051. The word was also used as a polite form of refusal, like καλῶς or κάλλιστα, or the French 'merci.' Cf. Hor. Epist. 1. 7. 16 and 62.

703. periit : abiit, nauem ascendit, "he has vanished : gone, embarked." The second and third statements explain the first, which is somewhat extravagant. The whole is a playful way of saying that the Milesian was a purely hypothetical personage, who may be summarily dismissed now that he is no longer needed. abi, "go to," denotes satisfaction here ; cf. n. on 564.

705. quo, "in what degree," shows that eo is to be understood with magis. The omission is unusual, even in colloquial Latin. For the general idea of this vs. see Plaut. Rud. 22-30, and cf. the way in which, in Hom. II. iii. 340 ff., Menelaus, who prays, defeats Paris, who does not pray. Cf. also The Epistle of St. James, v. 16, 'The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.'

706. quae opus sunt : i. e. for the wedding. Cf. n. on 335. ut dixi : i. e. in 699. Micio enters his own house.

707. negoti, "situation." Micio's conduct exhibits none of those stern characteristics usually associated with the patria potestas.

708. qui . . . gereret, "how could he have gratified me more ?" Cf. n. on 214, 431.

709. gestandus in sinu est denotes very tender affection. Cf. Cic. Fam.

14. 4. 3 iste uero sit in sinu semper et complexu meo. hem expresses admiration here. It = "I should say so indeed!" or even (the slang) "you bet!"

710. commoditate, "complaisance," "kindness"; cf. n. on Heaut. 521 mulier commodu.

711. ne: on 626 (ut ne). sciens: pregnant; "knowing what I do," "with my present experience"; like Heaut. 1050. The word might be rendered, "carefully."

712. cesso ire? = iam ibo. Hence the following ne, which denotes negative purpose. Aeschinus goes into Micio's house for the purpose indicated in 699. On siem here as against sim see the Dz.-Kauer edition.

ACT IV. SCENE 6.

Demea comes back weary and angry after the fruitless search for his brother, on which Syrus had sent him (569-586). He makes his appearance from that side of the stage which led toward the forum.

713-4. ut . . . Iuppiter, "may mighty Jove confound both you and your instructions"; optative subj. Cf. Eun. 302; n. on Heaut. 810-811. Cf. also G. 261. cum tua monstrazione: cf. Ilec. 134; n. on And. 941. magnus (= μέγας) is suggestive of that might through which the god is enabled 'to destroy the works of the wicked.' Note its juxtaposition with perdat.

715. "I have crawled through the town from end to end." The verb expresses slow and weary movement. Cf. Plaut. Amph. 1011 omnis plateas perreptaui. lacum: on 583.

716. illi, "there"; on And. 637.

716-7. nec . . . homo . . . quisquam: an emphatic pleonasm; see on And. 90. Cf. n. on 366. aibat: on 561. domi: i. e. at Micio's house.

718. obsidere usque, "to stay on and on," more lit. "to make a siege of it."

ACT IV. SCENE 7.

Demea is about to enter the house when Micio comes out. The latter is immediately assailed by his brother with reproaches touching the newly discovered iniquities of Aeschinus, whose intrigue with Pamphila is a more serious matter than the abduction of the music-girl. Micio insists that things are as they should be, and urges Demea to put aside his anger and join in the wedding festivities. Demea is inexorable, and gives vent to his rage in a concluding soliloquy.

719. Said, perhaps to Aeschinus, and while Micio is still partly within the house. illis: i. e. Sostrata and her daughter. in nobis moram: on And. 166.

720. eccum ipsum: on And. 532 and 855.

721. fero, "I come to report."

722. boni: on 476. illius: a dissyllable, or = illius. adulescentis:

i. e. Aeschinus. ecce autem, "just see now!" The expression is one of feigned amazement — very ironical. noua, "unheard of."

723. capitalia, "atrocious," lit. "worthy of capital punishment." Festus (p. 48 Müll.) has capital, facinus quod capitis poena luitur. ohē iam ("oh now!" "stop now!") expresses amused deprecation. Cf. 769; Phorm. 418; Hor. Sat. 2. 5. 96, and 1. 5. 12 ohē iam satis est. qui, "what sort of."

724. ah: see App. somnias, "you fancy."

725. ciuem: in emphatic position; "who is a citizen."

726. oho: a monosyllable, expressing astonishment and indignation.

727. clamas: on 380. insanis: cf. our colloquial "to be mad" = "to be angry." malim quidem, "I should prefer in fact (to alter the situation if I could, but I cannot)"; aposiopesis. Micio was, perhaps, about to add 'mutare si queam: nunc quom non queo, sino,' but he is interrupted by his brother, who is eager to unload his grievances. Cf. 738.

728. di bene uortant, "heaven bless it!" uirgo nil habet: i. e. she is indotata; cf. 729, Phorm. 120, 938. See on Ad. 759.

729. scilicet: on And. 950.

730. enim, "of course"; on 656; cf. n. on And. 91. fert: on 53.

731. illinc huc: i. e. from her house to mine.

732. istocine: i. e. istoc + ce + ne; cf. 304 hocine, and n. oportet: sc. feri; cf. Heaut. 562 itane fieri oportet. quid . . . amplius: Micio humorously misunderstands Demea's previous question. Cf. Simo's pretended obtuseness in And. 954-955.

733. quid facias: for the subj. see on And. 191, 282. ipsa re, "in very fact." istuc dolet: on Phorm. 162.

734. simulare, "to feign (grief)." est hominis, "is the part of a man (of right feeling)." Cf. n. on 107, 579.

736. magis: sc. quam simulare.

737. placet: on Eun. 851.

738. quom: causal; cf. n. on And. 422.

739. ita . . . quasi: on Heaut. 885. quasi (= ut, or quemadmodum) belongs mainly to early Latin. Thus Lorenz on Plaut. Pseud. 194 f. Cf. E. P. Morris, on Pseud. 199. tesseris: dice were of two kinds, tesserae (κύβοι) and tali (ἀστράγαλοι, 'ankle-bones'). The former were, in their shape and marking, like the dice of modern times. The latter were oblong and rounded at the ends, and were marked only on the four sides. See Plaut. Cure. 355 f.; Tyrrell on Mil. 164; Marquardt, Privatl. d. Röm. pp. 847-854. See also note on this vs. in my ed. of the Adelphoe (Macmillan & Co., 1896).

740. illud . . . iactu = "the throw most needed." Cf. n. on And. 490. Here the meaning is completed by the supine. But quod may be an adverbial acc. = "in respect to which," and iactu the abl. of iactus.

741. id takes up illud; cf. 358. n. ut corrigas: sc. fac; "see that you set right," "mend." arte, "skill," "stratagem," as in Hor. Sat. 2. 8. 84 arte emendaturus fortunam.

742. corrector: ironical; "fine mender you!"

743. periere: cf. n. on Eun. 211 (peribit). quantum potest, "without delay"; on And. 861.

744. aliquo, "in some direction," i. e. "to somebody or other." abiciundast, "ought to be cast off," i. e. "ought to be sold." pretio, "at a price"; probably "at cost price." gratiis, "for nothing." The constr. is the same as that of pretio. In later Latin this abl. became a dissyllable, gratis, and a mere adverb.

745. est: sc. abiciunda.

746. facies: sc. eū; cf. Micio's reply. pro, etc.: on And. 237.

747. meretrix: the music-girl, whom Demea still believes to have been purchased for Aeschinus. mater familias: a term applicable to Pamphila after marriage.

749-50. ita . . . ament: on Phorm. 165. ut . . . ineptiam, according to Spengel and Dz.-Kaner, depends on credo (750); "as (when) I contemplate your folly, I believe." Thus also my former ed. of this play; but ut is the natural correlative of ita and may be so taken here. Vs. 750 will then be merely explanatory of ut . . . ineptiam, and ut may be understood before credo from ut in 749; "as I believe, etc." Cf. n. on 681.

750. facturum: sc. te. quicum: on 477. cantites, "practise music," i. e. "sing and (possibly) dance."

751. noua nupta, "bride"; cf. 938 novos maritus = "bridegroom."

752. restim ductans, "trailing the rope." Micio will be the leader, and will hold one end of the cord which passes through the hands of the performers in a chain-dance. Cf. Livy's description of a festival in honour of Juno (27. 37. 14). probe: a corroborative particle; "exactly." Cf. n. on 543, Eun. 768.

754. haec pudent: personal construction. See on And. 481-482; Phorm. 392, 1042.

756. hilarum ac lubentem, "jolly and happy."

757. hos: not has, because Hegio (see 609) and, perhaps, Aeschinus (see 756 quati) are included; or the masc. may be purely conventional, as in dominus (894). conuenio . . . redeo: for the present with future force cf. n. on 549. Micio enters Sostrata's house.

758. hancine uitam: on 732 and 304. hanc dementiam: the anaphora would call for hancin, were not the metre opposed to the longer form.

759. sine dote: this was a serious matter, for it affected the legal status of the wife. See Plaut. Trin. 689-691. Cf. n. on 728.

761-2. Salus: frequently personified in Roman comedy, along with other abstractions, such as Pietas, Voluptas, etc., for which see Lorenz, Introd. to Plaut. Pseud. p. 22. n. 20. Cf. Ilec. 338. n. The expression Salus seruare appears to have been proverbial; cf. Plaut. Capt. 529, Most. 351; Cic. Verr. 3. 57. 131 te nulla Salus seruare potest. For the thought cf. 299-300.

ACT V. SCENE 1.

Syrus comes out of the house, where evidently he has had enough to eat, and more than enough to drink (see 590 f.). He falls in with Demea, whose anger and disgust are increased by the slave's condition and insolence.

763. Syrisce, "Syrus, my boy." The form expresses endearment; cf. Olympisce mi, mi pater, mi patrone (Plaut. Cus. 739). The slave's way of calling himself by name is paralleled by Daos in And. 206, by Libanus in Plaut. Asin. 249, and by Acanthio in Merc. 112. Cf. Ilec. 878, Ad. 631.

764. laute: on 425. munus, "duty," with reference to eating and drinking.

765. abi expresses satisfaction here; "get along with you," i. e. "good," "all right." Cf. 564, 703. See on Phorm. 994. postquam: on Phorm. Prol. 1. intus: i. e. within the house; opposed to huc = outside the house (766). rerum: gen. with adj. of fulness; "crammed with everything."

766. prodeambulare: i. e. pro-de-ambulare, ἀπαξ λεγόμενον. deambulare suggests an easy, comfortable gait; cf. Heaut. 587, 806. Transl. "I've taken a fancy to stroll forth in this direction." illud: the neut. is contemptuous. sis (= si uis) expresses impatience. Demea is speaking aside.

767-8. ecce . . . noster: a part of Syrus' soliloquy. Syrus is feeling well, and so (in imagination) he adopts Demea.

768. quid fit: on 266. scelus: on Phorm. 978.

769. ohé iam: on 723. uerba fundis hic, "you are wasting words here"; similar in sentiment to 434. sapientia: abstract for concrete; "old wiseacre," with allusion to 394.

770 tun = tunē, emphatic; if you were my (slave)." See App. dis = diues. Note the play in dis: (1) "rich," (2) "Pluto," i. e. "a dead one."

771. rem: on 220. Cf. Plaut. Capt. 452 edpol rem meam constabiliui.

773. peccato: i. e. the intrigue of Aeschinus with Pamphila.

774. sedatum, "settled," i. e. through the betrothal of the two young people.

775. nollem huc exitum: sc. esse a me; "would I had not come out hither"; said aside. See on 165. exitum being intrans. is impers. Syrus is irritated at being thus disturbed by Demea, and anxious lest he should enter the house and discover Ctesipho.

ACT V. SCENE 2.

Ctesipho sends a slave to summon Syrus into the house. Demea catches his son's name and becomes suspicious, with the result that he rushes indoors in spite of earnest opposition on the part of Syrus.

776. Dromo calls to Syrus, sotto voce, from the door of Micio's house. abi : said threateningly, but in an undertone. Dromo disappears.

777. carnufex : cf. 363. See on And. 183.

779. est alius quidam, "it is another of the name." parasitaster : a diminutive of contempt; "a sorry hanger-on." paululus : here used of stature. The parasite would therefore be very unlike Ctesipho, who, presumably, was well grown.

780. nostin, "do you know him?" Said with an air of innocence. iam scibo, "I'll soon find out," whether I know him or not. See on 361. mitte me, "hands off!" Cf. Heaut. 947.

781. noli : sc. abire. non manum abstines : a virtual command; "won't you keep your hands off?" See G. 453 and Note 2. mastigia, "scoundrel"; see on Phorm. 684, where uerbero, the genuine Latin equivalent, is used.

782. cerebrum dispergam : cf. 317. Demea threatens Syrus with his stick, which undoubtedly was a part of the regular equipment of the senex in comedy. See in general the illustrated MSS. C P O F (Introd. pp. 61, 63), and the Pompeian frescoes representing play-scenes. In particular see the Miniatures in Codices Ambrosianus (F) and Parisinus (P), as reproduced by Jacob van Wageningen (Groningen, 1907) — more esp. those of the Andria, wherein Simo's staff is conspicuous. In the Miniatures of the Codex Vaticanus (C), as reproduced (for the Phormio) at Cambridge, Mass., in 1894 (see Introd. p. 61. n.), the staff of the old man (Demipho) can be traced, with some difficulty, at verses 231 and 766 (plates vii. and xx.). See also the excellent illustration in Baumeister's 'Denkmäler, etc.,' vol. ii. p. 827. abit : pres. tense; "well, away he goes." Demea disappears indoors.

783. comissatorem, "fellow-reveller"; from Gk. κωμᾶζειν. Cf. Eun. 442. For acc. of exclamation see on And. 869; cf. Ad. 304.

785. nisi : on 153. haec : on And. 328. interca : pleonastic. in angulum : i. e. "into a corner," within the house of Micio; for the meaning of angulum here see Plaut. Pers. 631, Aul. 437, 551. Demea had entered by the principal door, the middle one of the three. Syrus goes in presently by the 'side-door' to the right of this. See n. introductory to Act i. Scene 1. For dum in this vs. see on Phorm. 982.

786. hoc uilli, "this little drop of wine"; for the gen. cf. 870 hoc fructi, Plaut. Amph. 463 hoc operis, and Palmer's n. there sic agam, "that's what I'll do." Syrus disappears within.

ACT V. SCENE 3.

Micio comes out from Sostrata's dwelling, into which he had gone at vs. 757 (cf. 719). At the same instant Demea appears from the house of Micio, much distracted at the discovery that it is Ctesipho, not Aeschinus, who is in love with the music-girl. He pours out his mind to Micio, who finally calms him, and persuades him to remain and take part in the marriage festivities of Aeschinus and Pamphila.

787. Micio turns and speaks to Sostrata who is within. parata a nobis sunt, "we have everything ready."

788. ubi uis, "whenever you wish." The sentence is interrupted by the noise which Demea makes as he comes out. Micio was about to add words to the effect that there was nothing to prevent the immediate transfer of the bride to the home of the bridegroom. a me: on And. 226. Transl. "at my house." pepulit: rarely used of a person coming out of a house, but Demea is so violent in his wrath that Micio may well imagine the sounds he hears to be made by a person eagerly knocking to be admitted. Cf. 638, 633; n. on And. 682.

790. Cf. Eur. Med. 148. Demea does not see Micio until 792. em tibi: on 537, Phorm. 847. Micio is soliloquizing.

791. ilicet = ire licet; "you (we) may go," "all is over," and so like our "all is up," "the fat is in the fire." Cf. Phorm. 208 where it is used more literally as a formula of dismissal.

792. paratae lites, "a row is on," for Ctesipho. Cf. n. on 96 (nullum factum), Phorm. 133. succurrendum est, "I must go to the rescue."

793. liberum: on 411 (suom).

794. ad te redi, "return to your senses"; cf. n. on And. 622.

795. Demea assumes a forced repose of manner. repressi: sc. iracundiam. redii: sc. ad me.

796. rem ipsam putemus, "let us take account of the actual state of the case." Cf. n. on 208, Phorm. 718. dictum . . . fuit, followed by ne, etc. (797), has the sense and construction of cautum . . . fuit.

797. ex . . . ortum, "it was from you in fact that the suggestion came." See 130 f.

799. recipis: see on Hec. 743.

800-1. num qui minus aequom est, "is it in any way unfair?"

801. mihi: sc. tecum.

803. uerbum: on And. 426.

804. This proverb appears in one form or another in Cicero (de Off. 1. 16. 51), Seneca (de Benef. 7. 4. 2), Martial (2. 43. 1 and 16), Aristotle (Eth. Nic. 8. 9. 1) and Plato (Lysis, 207 C). It is referred by Donatus to the Pythagoreans. The Gk. is κοινὰ τὰ τῶν φίλων.

805. facete : ironical. nunc . . . oratio, "now for the first time have you delivered yourself of this sentiment," more freely "it's pretty late in the day for you to talk like this." See 130 f., where Micio urged a division rather than a combination of duties.

806. ausculta paucis : sc. uerbis. See on And. 29.

807. principio, "in the first place." The second reason follows in 821 ff. id : explained by the cl., sumptum filii quem faciunt, as if Ter. had written id . . . quod tantum sumptum faciunt (quod being causal). sumptum : acc. by attraction of the following quem. See Roby, 1067. We might expect quem sumptum, or else sumptus quem.

808. hoc . . . cogites : on 500.

809. illos duo : Aeschinus and Ctesipho. pro re tua, "according to your means." tollebas, "you were bringing up." See on And. 219.

810. fore virtually = "would have to be."

812. eandem . . . obtime, "keep to that same plan of former days"; i. e. a plan in accordance with which Demea's entire property shall go as an inheritance to his two sons. Micio means that he himself will pay for the lads' extravagances.

813-4. "Hoard, scrape, save, be sure that you leave them as much as possible." For the thought cf. 868-869; cf. also Heaut. 139.

814. g'oriam . . . obtime, "maintain your credit for that (plan of action)," "keep up your reputation for that (kind of thing)."

815. mea : acc. pl. Elsewhere in Ter. utor is constructed with the abl. Observe that here the pronoun is neuter and at a distance from its verb. abutor in Ter. always takes the acc.; cf. n. on Phorm. 413. Transl. "my possessions, which unexpectedly (in that I did not get married) have become available (for present purposes), permit them to enjoy." Cf. Phorm. 251. Micio is thinking of vs. 811. Had Micio got married his money would have been held by him in trust for his own children.

816. summa : sc. pecuniae or rei; "capital," "estate"; that of Demea is meant. hinc, "from my funds"; said δεικτικῶς

817. de lucro esse, "to be as (if derived) from the profits." de serves to indicate the source, as in the expression de genere summo. For variation in the construction, however, cf. Phorm. 251; Hor. Od. 1. 9. 14 lucro adpone.

818. in . . . cogitare: cf. n. on 500.

819. dempseris : for the tense see on And. 456 (videro). Cf. n. on 127.

820. rem, "the money." consuetudinem amborum . . . "it is the conduct (character) of the two lads, that . . .", understand curo, or loquor. Cf. n. on 135. See App.

821. istuc ibam, "I was coming to that"; on And. 186 (istuc).

822. signa : i. e. such characteristics as are mentioned in 827-829, and their opposites. ex . . . fit, "from which an inference is easily drawn." Cf. n. on Heaut. 574.

823. duo: sc. homines. ut: consecutive. The meaning is the same as if Ter. had omitted ut possis dicere and written coniectura facile fit hoc licere, etc.

825. sed quo: thus the Codex Bezae; most of the other MSS. have sed quod. But cf. 270 quam quo. is qui facit: sc. dissimilis est, i. e. ei qui faciunt sunt inter se dissimiles.

826. quae: sc. signa. fore: sc. eos.

827. in loco: on Heaut. 537. Cf. 216. n.

828. scires: an extension of the jussive subj.; "you should have known," "you ought to have noticed" (see B., 'The Latin Language,' 362. a); or subj. of obligation (H. & B. 513. 1. a.). But see App. liberum, "free" = "noble"; see on 57, And. 330.

830. redducas (sc. ad officium); jussive subj.; "bring them back (to duty) whenever you will"; see B. 275. 2. metuas, "you may be afraid"; subj. of 'pure possibility' (B., 'The Latin Language,' 360. a). ab re: lit. 'away from their interests,' i. e. "to their own detriment"; the opposite of in rem, for which see on And. 546, Phorm. 449. tamen, "all the same."

831. omissiores, "too careless"; the opposite of adtentiores (834). Hence ab re and ad rem. Cf. Heaut. 962. n. noster: on And. 846.

832. alia: with omnia. The words are used proleptically.

834. adtentiores: on 831. Cf. 954; n. on Heaut. 962. Cf. Phorm. 797.

835. quod, "as to which," "but in this," refers to the whole of the preceding thought. ne modo: neg. of ut modo (And. 409. n.); "if only . . . not," or "only take care lest." Cf. Phorm. 59. nimium: with bonae.

836. bonae, "kindly." istae emphasizes tuae and strengthens the irony of the sentence. iste serves a similar purpose in 837.

837. subuortat agrees in number with the second subject only.

839. exporge, "smooth out," "unruffle"; syncopated form of exporrige. The opposite expression is found in Plaut. Amph. 52 quid contraxistis frontem? scilicet: on And. 950. tempus, "the occasion." fert: on 53. Cf. 730.

841. luci: a locative with temporal meaning, like heri, man, vesperi; and often used as an indeclinable substantive, as here and in Plaut. Merc. 255 cum luci simul. But see Usener in N. Jahrb. 1878, p. 77 f., and Knapp in 'Drisler Studies,' p. 144 fin. and p. 145. de nocte censeo, "to-night, for aught I care." de nocte refers to the latter part of the period of darkness, as in Hor. Epist. 1. 2. 32 surgunt de nocte latrones, i. e. "ere dawn appear." Contrast de die = "ere night appear," and see on 965.

843. pugnaueris, "you will have gained the victory"; on And. 892 (uiceris). Donatus explains, 'magnam rem feceris.'

844. prorsum, "absolutely." illi : i. e. at your country-place.

845. ego istuc uidero, "trust me to look out for that"; cf. n. on 538, And. 456.

846-7. "And there I'll cause her to cook and grind corn until she is covered with cinders, smoke and mill-dust." sit faxo : on 209 (accipiat faxo). For a fuller account of a female slave's occupations cf. Plaut. Mere. 396 f. Severity in the treatment of slaves was not confined to those of the male sex. Witness the terms in which Callicles addresses his ancillae in Plaut. Truc. 775 f., and see Juvenal's sixth satire, vss. 479-485 and 492-494. praeter haec : on Phorm. 800 (praeterhaec).

848. meridie ipso, "at high noon"; the time when her complexion would be exposed to the injurious effects of the sun's rays. stipulam, "straw," "stubble."

849. excoctam, "dried up," lit. "boiled out." For the construction see on And. 683 (inuentum dabo) and 680 (me missum face). placet denotes assent; "you are right." So 910.

851. etiam : intensive, with the si-clause.

853. ego sentio, "I feel (to my sorrow)." For the aposiopesis cf. And. 164.

854. intro : i. e. into the house of Micio, where the wedding ceremonies had already commenced. quoi . . . diem, "let us devote this day to that business to which it is dedicated," more lit. "suited"; see on 358. Micio enters his house, accompanied by Demea.

ACT V. SCENE 4.

Demea makes his appearance from Micio's house. After taking counsel with himself concerning the agreeable results of Micio's easy and indulgent mode of life, and comparing his brother's way with his own, he resolves to imitate Micio and thus make friends for himself. By adopting an extreme course, however, he shows that his brother's behaviour is in excess of true liberality and therefore an error. The upshot of the play thus is that each brother is wrong. Neither of them has adhered to the proverb, ne quid nimis (see on And. 61). Cf. n. on Ad. 77.

855. "Never did anyone make such good reckoning with regard to his life." subducta ratione : predicative abl. of quality. subducere rationem = "to balance an account." Cf. Plaut. Capt. 192, Cure. 371 subduxi rationem.

856. res, "circumstances." aetas, "(lapse of) time." usus, "experience."

857. aliquid moneat, "bring him some warning (lesson)." ut : consecutive upon the whole of the preceding thought. te scisse, "that you have (long) known," i. e. "that you know thoroughly."

858. prima, "of the first importance." ut repeats ut of 857. Cf. And. 830. n.

859. duram: cf. 45, 64; Per. 4. n.

860. prope . . . spatio, "when at last my course is almost run," i. e. now that my life is drawing near its close. id: sc. facio. re ipsa, "in actual fact."

861. facillitate, "affability," "good nature." Cf. Ileaut. 648; Hor. Sat. 1. 1. 22 tam facilem . . . ut praebeat aurem. neque carries on the previous negation, i. e. it virtually = et (clementia) nil esse homini melius. clementia, "forbearance"; cf. n. on And. 36.

862. ex me atque ex fratre, "through a comparison of my brother with myself."

864. nulli laedere os, "offending nobody." Both infinitives in this vs. depend on an attributive idea such as 'willing,' 'accustomed,' suggested by what precedes. They may, however, be taken as historical infinitives. The opposite of alicui laedere os is in os aliquem laudare; see 269. For the idea expressed in this vs. cf. And. 64-65, and esp. 67-68.

866. "I known to all as rustic, stern, sullen, thrifty, forbidding, stingy." ille gives the effect here which is given by dicunt in 865, viz., "called by all agrestis, etc." The original of this vs. is among the fragments of Menander (Meineke, Frag. Com. Graec. iv. p. 72), ἐγὼ δ' ἀγροῖκος, ἐργάτης, σκυθρός, πικρός, φειδωλός. Cf. n. on Per. 4.

867. ibi: i. e. in matrimonio. For the sentiment cf. 28-34; Plaut. Trin. 51-65. Matrimonial infelicity was a stock source of amusement on the Roman as well as the Greek stage.

868. heia autem, "how now, pray." heia expresses irony and surprise, as in Ilec. 250.

869. facerem, "earn." For the thought cf. 813-814.

870. exacta aetate, "at the close of my life." fructi: for the genitive cf. n. on 786, And. 365.

871. patria commoda, "a father's privileges." Cf. n. on 74. potitur: on Phorm. 830. The i is generally short in early Latin. Cf. n. on Per. 12.

872. illum: note the fine repetition of this pronoun and its metrical treatment, in vss. 872-874, lending emphasis to the contrast which Demea draws between Micio's position and his own. credunt: Demea did not know that Aeschinus had concealed his love affair from Micio.

874. illum ut uiuat = ut ille uiuat. We might look for illum uiuum. But uiuum and ut uiuat are equivalents; hence the acc. of the pron. See Spengel's n. expectant, "they are looking forward to"; cf. n. on 109, Ilec. 596.

875. eductos: on 48.

876. paulo sumptu, "at slight expense"; on And. 266. paulo is opposed to maximo (875). potitur gaudia: on Phorm. 830.

877-8. nunciam: on And. 171. ecquid possiem, "whether I am at all able." quid is acc. of extent (inner acc., adverbial acc.), or it may be the direct object of the infinitives in the next vs.; "whether I am able to say anything, etc." For possiem see on Heaut. 675. hoc = huc; see on And. 386. prouocat: sc. Micio; "challenges."

879. magni fieri, "to be made much of."

880. posteriores: sc. partis (acc.); a metaphor from the stage. Cf. n. on Eun. 151. Transl. "I will not be behindhand," more lit. "I will not play second fiddle." For the omission of partis cf. Hor. Sat. 1. 9. 46 ferre secundas.

881. deerit: sc. res or pecunia, suggested by dando, etc. Transl. "the money will give out." This is, in effect, a supposition to which what follows affords the conclusion. id mea minime re fert, "that is of least possible consequence to me," "that interests me less than it does anybody else (in the family)." Cf. n. on 913. mea . . . qui: on And. 97 (meas). natu maxumus, "the oldest," and so shall be the first to die, and for that reason shall least be in need of money. With the thought cf. Plaut. Trin. 319 mihi quidem aetas actast ferme, tua istuc r̄fert marume.

ACT V. SCENE 5.

Syrus appears from the house into which he had gone (785-786) to sleep off the effects of the wine he had taken. Demea on meeting him proceeds at once to practise his newly assumed affability. Syrus is grateful, yet we may imagine that his astonishment is clearly manifested in his attitude and gestures.

882. longius, "very far"; cf. n. on Heaut. 212.

883. quis homo: sc. ist; "who is that?" noster: on And. 846; cf. Ad. 831, 885, Phorm. 609. quid fit: on 266.

884. recte, "well"; understand valde, and cf. n. on And. 804; Plaut. Buch. 188 nampe recte ualit. optume est, "that's capital." iam, etc.: said aside.

885. The word salve (883) also was added praeter naturam, making four in all. Under other circumstances Demea would have met the slave with a simple 'Syre,' or with some term of reproach, as in 768, or else as in 373-374.

886. haud inliberalem suggests that Syrus is deserving of freedom. Cf. And. 37-38, and n. on liberaliter (38).

886-7. tibi . . . faxim, "I should be delighted to do you a favour"; on And. 753 (faxis), Heaut. 763 (lubens). gratiam habeo: in a tone of incredulity, which is met by the adverbial atqui.

888. ipsa re: on 860. propediem: i. e. prope diem: "at an early day,"

"presently." Whether Syrus retires at this point into Micio's house, or remains on the stage, is doubtful, since the MSS. do not give Syrus' name in the titular heading of the next scene. It is probable, however, that he merely withdraws to one side.

ACT V. SCENE 6.

Geta, leaving Sostrata's house with the intention of entering Micio's, is accosted by Demea in the same clumsy style of compliment.

889. As Geta emerges from the house he turns and addresses Sostrata, who is within. ad hos, "to our neighbours." prouiso: on And. 404, Ad. 549.

890. accersant: on And. 546, Ad. 699. eccum: on And. 532 (1).

891. qui = quo nomine; see on 179. Otherwise quis would be expected; cf. And. 702 quis uideor?

893. spectatus satis, "well tried"; on And. 91.

894. dominus: the masc. is merely conventional, the reference being to Sostrata. ita: so Geta proved himself in the matter of Pamphila; cf. 479-484.

895. si quid usus uenerit, "if occasion shall arise at all." Cf. 429. n.

896. meditor esse adfabilis. "I am practising affability"; said aside.

897. procedit, "it succeeds"; on And. 671. quom . . . existumas: quom is causal. Transl. "it is good in you to entertain these opinions," regarding me.

898. plebem includes all whom Demea regards as inferiors. primulum: on 289. meam = mihi fauentem (Donatus). In political slang the vs. = "I'm starting out by getting solid with the Plebs."

ACT V. SCENE 7.

Aeschinus now reappears (see on 712) from Micio's house, and gets his share of his father's new-found complaisancy. Demea assists him to hasten his marriage, and thus secures his affection.

899. This vs. and the next are said aside. occidunt: nearly as in Phorm. 672, where see n. dum, "while," as in And. 822. sanctas, "ceremonious," "formal"; explained in 905, 907. Transl. "they are truly killing me, in their zeal to make my wedding beyond measure splendid."

900. adparando: on And. 594.

901. pater mi: on 902.

902. This vs. takes up the affectionate pater mi ("father mine") of 901, and emphasizes it with a view to Demea's own particular purposes. The separation of tuos and pater is for rhetorical effect. animo, "affection." natura, "blood." See 125-126.

903. oculos: on 791.

904. hoc anticipates tibicina . . . content.

905. tibicina, etc., "a female flute-player and persons to sing the marriage hymn"; on And. 365 (The bustle, etc.). Cf. Plant. Cas. 798; Catull. 61 and 62 passim.

906. uin = uisne; cf. 969. huic seni, "to an old man like me"; on And. 310 (hic). missa haec face, "set aside these things"; on And. 683 (inuentum dabo). For face see on And. 680.

907. turbas, "disturbances," "fuss and feathers," "hubbub." lampades, "torches." Cf. Ov. Her. 12. 137 ff. For the form in -es cf. footnote, and Lex. s. v.

908. maceriam: a fence-wall separating the gardens of Micio and Sostрата. This shows that the two houses were contiguous in the scene setting.

909. quantum potest: on And. 861. hac: sc. uia; i. e. through the breach in the garden wall. Thus publicity would be avoided.

910. traduce: on And. 680. familiam: on Heaut. 751.

911. lepidissime, "most enchanting." Cf. And. 947. euge: εὖγε, "bravo." Cf. n. on Phorm. 398. Demea's words, as far as the end of 915, are said aside.

912. fratri . . . peruiae, "my brother's house will become a thoroughfare"; i. e. through the removal of the garden wall. turbam, etc., "it's a whole multitude he'll bring to his house"; in all, only four persons. But the word may mean "confusion"; cf. 907.

913. sumptu, "through the expense." quid mea: sc. rēfert; "what care I?" Cf. n. on 881 (id., etc.). Cf. also Hec. 510, Phorm. 389, Heaut. 793; n. on Eun. 849

914. Ineo gratiam: cf. Heaut. 302-303; Hec. 795. n.

914-5. "Bid that Nabob (prodigal) count out twenty minae this very instant." For iube with the subj. cf. Heaut. 737, Eun. 691; Plant. Rud. 708 iube modo accedat prope. As ut is usually omitted after the imv. in this constr., the subj. may be due to parataxis. ille: i. e. Micio. The Babylonians were proverbially luxurious. uiginti minas: the price of the music-girl, which Micio had already paid (369). Moreover Demea has knowledge of the payment. The reference to it here therefore is merely to express (to the audience) his approval of the purchase, consequent on his change of view; but the irony of the sentence is most significant.

916. quid ego: sc. faciam; "do what?" dirue: sc. maceriam. Syrus hurries into Micio's house.

917. tu: Geta.

918. quom causal.

918-9. te tam ex animo factum uelle, "that you are so kindly disposed (toward)"; see on 72. factum uelle is idiomatic = "to wish well"; cf. n.

on Phorm. 787. dignos : sc. uos, i. e. yourself and the rest of your family. Geta goes into Sostrata's house.

920. tu : Aeschinus.

921. puerperam, "young mother" (Cowles).

922. enim, "really"; on Phorm. 983.

923. sic soleo, "such is my wont," i. e. to be kind and considerate. The omission of the infin. is common. Cf. n. on Eun. 279; cf. Phorm. 784, Plaut. Cure. 604. eccum: with a nom. and verb; see on And. 532 (2); also on And. 855.

ACT V. SCENE 8.

Micio, having learned from Syrus of Demea's order to pull down the wall, comes out to find his brother, and to ascertain what it all means. He is quite overcome by Demea's enlarged views and airy manner.

924. iubet frater ? ubi is est ? Said to Syrus within, who may be supposed to follow Micio as far as the door. Syrus has already begun the demolition of the wall. tun = tune; note the astonishment implied in this word; "is it you who order this?"

926. unam facere : sc. cum nostra familia. Cf. 909.

927. adiungere, "attach to ourselves."

928. immo : on 483, And. 523. nobis decet : on 491.

929. huius : i. e. Aeschinus. uxoris : i. e. Pamphila.

930. natu grandior, "somewhat advanced in age." Cf. n. on 673.

931. parere . . . non potest : accordingly there could be no fear of children to share the property with Aeschinus.

932. nec . . . est, "nor is there any one to look after her." For this rel. cl. of purpose see B., 'The Latin Language,' 370. In this burlesque scene Hegio appears for the moment to be forgotten by the poet, and that, too, in spite of 352, 456, 951. sola : i. e. without a male protector. Cf. n. on And. 381, Ad. 291. quam . . . agit, "what is he driving at?" Said aside.

933. ducere, "marry" ; on And. 316. The first te refers to Micio, the second to Aeschinus.

934. autem : on 185, Heaut. 251; cf. Ad. 940, 950. ineptis : on Phorm.

420. tu : Aeschinus. homo : on 107, 579. The idea is that Aeschinus should prevail on Micio to marry Sostrata. There is a reference to Aeschinus' affection for Micio and to the former's influence with the latter; cf. 956, 970.

935. hic : Micio. mi pater : Aeschinus proceeds to entreat his adoptive father. asine, "you donkey," "you block-head" ; used as a term of reproach also in Heaut. 877 and Eun. 598. nil agis : i. e. there is no use in your attempting opposition to our request.

937. aufer, "away with you," or "hands off," according as te or manum is understood. For aufer te cf. Plaut. Rud. 1031, Asin. 469. aufer manum is paralleled by 781 non manum abstines, and supported by Donatus, who says, nam rogans manum admouet scilicet dicens 'mi pater.' Reference to Phorm. 223 and 857 suggests the rendering, "away with your entreaties," i. e. your 'mi pater, etc.' da ueniam filio, "grant your son this favour"; cf. Hee. 605; n. on And. 901.

938. nouos maritus: a sardonic reference to the familiar noua nupta; see on 751. Cf. Catull. LXI. 91, 96, 106.

939. idne estis auctores = idne suadetis; see on 617 (id indicium fecit). auctores here suggests the technical sense of the word auctor in connection with marriage, i. e. 'progenitor,' 'father,' 'ancestor'; cf. Hor. Od. 1. 2. 36 and 3. 17. 5 auctore ab illo ducis originem.

940. promisi ego illis: the play nowhere makes mention of such a promise. promisti: for the form see on And. 151. de te largitor, "be liberal of yourself"; de te is more literal and therefore more forcible than de tuo, since Aeschinus might give himself, but not another man, in marriage; cf. n. on 117.

941. quid si quid: the second quid is indefinite.

942. ne grauare, "do not oppose (us)," "do not refuse." Cf. Plaut. Stich. 186 promitte uero: ne grauare, and Donatus, 'ne te difficilem praebeas.' non omittitis, "won't you let me alone?" i. e. "cease your demands?"

943. uis . . . quidem, "this is downright violence"; a form of expression used by the Romans under sudden assault, e. g. by Caesar when, under the blows of his assassins, he said ista quidem uis est (Suet. Iul. 82). Cf. Plaut. Capt. 750. The comic effect here is striking. age, prolix, "come, be obliging." prolix is an adverb (sc. fac, or promitte). Otherwise prolix modifies age; "act generously (liberally)," "do the nice thing." Thus Donatus in part.

945. bene facis: on 601, Eun. 186.

946. merito te amo: on Haut. 360; cf. Eun. 186. hoc quom . . . uolo, "seeing that my wish is accomplished"; see on 918, And. 167. For the distribution of the words among the speakers in this vs. and the next see Dziatzko's crit. n. But Kauer distributes differently; see his crit. n. See also Fabia's edition of this play.

947. quid: sc. est. nunc: with quod restat.

948. adfinis: i. e. through the marriage of Aeschinus and Pamphila. nos . . . decet: on 491.

949. agelli paulum, "a little bit of land"; on Phorm. 822 (paulo). locitas: frequentative; "you are wont to let." foras, "out," i. e. to strangers; cf. Plaut. Stich. 219 foras necessumst, quidquid habeo, uendere, i. e. "to sell off."

950. qui : old abl. = quo. See on And. Prol. 5 (So fruor, etc.). fruat : for the mood see on 932 (uec, etc.). Hegio was to have merely the usufructus of the land ; the ownership would remain with Micio. Cf. Phorm. 364-365, Ad. 956. si = etsi.

951. huic : i. e. Pamphila. noster : i. e. as a friend and connection by marriage.

952. nunc : see App. meum : predicative. uerbum, "saying."

953. dixi : i. e. in 833-834. See on 561 (prodere).

954. nimium : on 169. ad rem, "to money matters," or perhaps "to our own advantage (interests)"; cf. n. on 830 (ab re). senecta : the usual (heteroclit) form of the abl. in early Latin, and generally with the addition of etate, as in Plaut. Aul. 253, Cas. 240. Thus originally it was, in all probability, an adjective. maculam, "defect," "disgrace."

954-5. nos decet ecfugere : see on 491; cf. 948.

955. reapse fieri oportet, "ought to be acted up to," i. e. we ought to avoid the stain, by practising generosity in our old age. For reapse see on Hec. 778.

956. hic : Aeschinus. See App. quandoquidem hic uolt : cf. n. 934.

958. sibi : an ethical dat., frequently used to strengthen suos, as e. g. Plaut. Capt. 81 suo sibi suco uiuunt, "they live on their own particular juice." hunc : i. e. Micio. iugulo, "I am slaying." We say, "I am foiling him with his own weapons," "I turn his weapons against himself," "I hoist him with his own petard."

ACT V. SCENE 9.

Syrus appears again from the house, and Demea makes certain of his good will by prevailing on Micio to give the slave and his wife, Phrygia, their freedom. Micio's discomfiture is complete, and he appeals to Demea for an explanation of his unusual behaviour. Demea tells him that popularity is won, not by righteous conduct, but by indiscriminate compliance with men's desires and fancies. Having pointed the moral of the play he offers to be henceforth a friendly adviser to his sons. His offer is accepted and the play ends.

958. Ter. often begins a new scene within the limits of a single verse; cf. 81, 635, Hec. 767, Phorm. 795, Eun. 1049, Heaut. 954, And. 580. See App. quod iussisti : i. e. Demea's order to demolish the garden wall ; see 916.

959. frugi homo's, "you're a worthy fellow"; on Eun. 608.

961. nam : on 305. noster : on 883.

962. istos ambos : i. e. Aeschinus and Ctesipho. Syrus was their paedagogus (παιδαγωγός). Probably he was originally Demea's slave, and went over to Micio when Aeschinus became his uncle's adopted son.

963. quae potui : restrictive. See on 423. Transl. "I have always given them all the good precepts I could." There is a sly reference perhaps to 412; cf. 434. omnia: inner acc. with praecepti, and emphatic at the end of the verse.

964. haec: regarded by Spengel and others as a nominative, explained by the following infinitives, and repeated in 966, where it is the subject of sunt. It is simpler and better, however, to understand bene praecepisti from 963, and to make haec an accusative. obsonare cum fide, "to cater with fidelity," i. e. without cheating the master of the house. Note the irony of this verse and the two which follow.

965. de die, "in full day," i. e. while part of the working day yet remains. This (the solidus dies of Hor. Od. 1. 1. 20) closed when the hour for dinner (cena) arrived — about 3 p. m. (cf. Mart. 4. 8. 6). To get a banquet ready earlier than this was a mark of dissipation and an offence against good custom; see Hor. Sat. 1. 4. 51–52. See also Ellis on Catullus, 47. 6.

966. lepidum caput: on 911, And. 371. Cf. Ad. 261.

967. adiutor refers to the part played by Syrus in the scene beginning with vs. 209. Moreover Demea has the authority of Syrus himself for the statement here made; see 368.

968. hic curauit, "it was he who managed it." prodesse aequomst: i. e. id Syro prodesse aequomst. meliores: i. e. other slaves will be the better for seeing good service so rewarded. Demea's irony must have been keenly appreciated by the spectators.

969. hic: Aeschinus. Observe the sarcastic reference to 956. uin: on 906.

969–70. si quidem tu uis: addressed to Aeschinus; "seeing that you wish it." liber esto: Syrus here receives manumission according to the less formal method, known as manumissio inter amicos, which was more easily imitated on the stage. The owner struck the slave with his hand, turned him about, and let him go with the words, hunc hominem liberum esse nolo, or more briefly, as here, liber esto. Ordinarily the vindicta or liberating-rod was employed in place of the hand, and the presence of the praetor was required to give proper formality to the performance. Cf. Plant. Men. 1148. See Pauly's Real-Encykl., under manumissio.

971. "Je vous remercie tous en général, et vous en particulier, Monsieur" (Madame Dacier). seorsum: a dissyllable (see Introd. § 96.); lit. "separately," "apart," and then "especially," "in particular."

972. credo: on And. 939. Cf. Ilec. 457. n. perpetuom: i. e. 'nusquam interruptum' (Donatus): hence "complete." Cf. 520, 522; n. on Ilec. 87.

973. Phrygiam: so named because of her nationality, as is the ancilla in Heaut. 731 f. ut . . . uideam: explanatory of perpetuom. uxorem: slaves lived together only in contubernium (not in conubium). Hence in the highest sense there was no marriage for them either in Roman or Athenian law.

974. mulierem takes its case from uorem (973) — by a species of attraction. huius: i. e. Aeschinus.

975. hercle uero serio, "nay then, in good earnest."

976. emitti: sc. manu; see on Phorm. 830.

977. argentum quanti est = tantum argentum quanti empti est. Demca offers to reimburse Micio for the loss he will sustain in making Phrygia free.

978. Note the alliteration and assonance. Cf. 990; And. 96; Plaut. Capt. 355 di tibi omnes omnia optata offerant.

979. processisti hodie pulchre, "you have got on beautifully to-day"; see on 897 and Eun. 728. porro, "furthermore," goes with facies (980).

980. officium: it was the duty of the patronus not to desert the libertus. Cf. Plaut. Cure. 547. huic: i. e. Syrus. aliquid paulum: i. e. some little money. prae manu: i. e. at hand, for immediate use; "in ready money."

981. unde utatur: i. e. 'de quo fructum usumque capiat et cuius tibi sortem reddit' (Don.). Hence, "as a loan." Cf. reddam, 982. istoc uilius, "less than that": sc. quicquam non dabo, and see Don. (Wessner, p. 183). Micio snaps his finger and means that he will give nothing at all.

982. frugi: on 959. post consulam, "I'll think of it later on."

Notice that Micio shows signs of yielding whenever Aeschinus speaks.

983. festiuissime, "dearest." Cf. 261. Syrus leaves the stage.

985. prolubium, "whim," "fancy"; sc. mores mutauit tuos. See App. largitas, "liberality."

986. ut id ostenderem depends on an idea such as tam repente mores mutauit, or tam largiter egi, suggested by Micio's questions. quod . . . putant, "the fact that (because) those boys of yours (your nephews) think you good natured and jovial," is explanatory of the following id (987), which, with its infin. feri and the rest of the predicate, is exegetical of the first id (in 986). Cf. n. on And. 395.

987. uera: on And. 629.

988. "But from a tendency to yield (to their demands), to be indulgent, to be unduly bountiful." On et see n. in the Dz.-Kauer edition.

989. Addressed to Aeschinus, but meant also for Ctesipho, as uobis shows. uita, "manner of life." inuisa, "displeasing."

990. "Because I do not humour you in every particular precisely, whether right or wrong." iusta iniusta: the asyndeton is natural to the proverbial character of the expression. omnia obsequor: sc. vobis. Cf. Plaut. Asin. 76 id . . . obsequi gnato meo. See Phorm. 79. n. For the alliteration see on And. 96.

991. missa facio, "I have done with it all," i. e., I shall not interfere with your evil ways. Cf. n. on 906.

992. id anticipates the infinitives in 994.

993. magis = nimis (nearly), to which it is preferred for the sake of contrast with minus. inpense, "eagerly," "passionately." Cf. Eun. 413.

994. haec: antecedent of quae (992). reprehendere, "hold in check." me: see App. obsecundare in loco, "favour (encourage) at the proper time"; for in loco cf. 216. n. See App.

995. ecce . . . uobis, "here am I at your service." Cf. Plaut. Mil. 663. tibi permittimus, "we surrender (ourselves) to you," i. e. we prefer the second alternative and take advantage of your offer.

996. plus, "better." quod . . . est: on Phorm. 584. de fratre: on And. 143.

997. habeat: sc. psallitum or amicam. in . . . faciat: i. e. let her be the last. Cantor: on And. 981.

APPENDIX TO NOTES ON THE ADELPHOE

DIDASCALIA

Adelphoe: see n. on the Didasc., line 1. Cf. Plaut. Cas. 31 Clerumenos uocatur haec comoedia graece.

PROLOGUS

3. See footnote, and Dz., Adn. Crit.; but cf. Kauer's crit. n. and text.

16. hunc: that the prologues elsewhere use hic, not is, to designate the poet is apparently Ritschl's reason for discarding eum of the MSS. But Ritschl must have overlooked Hec. Prol. I. 8 alias cognostis eius. Moreover there can be no objection to eum on the score of ambiguity or the like, and it is retained by Spengel.

23. ei: Umpf., Dz., Fleck. A D G P have ii, which however was later than the time of Terence. Spengel prefers i and cites Plaut. Trin. 17 i rem uobis aperient (Schoell).

24. ostendent: Dz. understands actores as the subject, not senes. The refer., he says, is to scenes in some of which (e. g. 2. 3 and 3. 1) the old men do not appear. On this point I have followed Dz. in my separate edition of this play (Macmillan and Co., 1893, rev. 1896). But this interpretation seems to me to be forced. Rather should we say that in agendo partem ostendent is merely corrective or explanatory of ei partem aperient, the two verbs having the same subject, senes, and that these make such disclosures through their speaking and acting (certainly within the limits of scenes 1 and 2) as to render it unnecessary for the poet to outline the plot in the prologue. To fill the lacuna which he suspected after this vs. Bentley suggested bonitasque uostra adiutrix nostrae industriae.

ACT I., ETC., AD FIN.

26. Dz. rightly assumes that Storax is an aduorsitor of Aeschinus, and that he does not come when called. The name does not appear in the titular heading prefixed to the scene in the MSS.

33. The vs. is corrupt according to Dz. (see his Adn. Crit.). Kauer, however, reads as in the text, though he favours the substitution of baccharé for amare in 32, with deletion of the aut in that vs.; see his crit. n.

34. Wanting in A and bracketed by Umpf. and Dz., but accepted by Spengel, Fleck., Kauer, Fabia, Psichari, and Stampini; see Kauer's crit. n. Some editors place the comma at esse instead of soli, taking soli with sibi; against this see Engelbrecht, Stud. Terent., p. 37.

56. Most MSS. have aut audebit, and vs. 55 concluding with patrem.

82-3. The reading (given in the text) of the MSS. seems forced, and is probably corrupt, esp. as siet is out of place in Ter. at the commencement of a vs. Ritschl's excellent emendation (Proleg. in Trin. p. 120 n.) has been accepted by Dz., except that, in place of scin iam, Dz. reads sciet, a conjecture of Conradt (Herm. x. 102 f.). Dz. (1881) scies. Kauer stands by the MSS., but places an interrogation point after siet and drops the comma after me. Thus he avoids the necessity of taking ubi as = quando. But his meaning seems to me to be inferior. For siet see his crit. n.

87. On the form dissignauit accepted by Dz. (1884) see explanatory n. in my separate ed. of the Adelphoe. Dz. (1881) gives designauit, the only form known to Don., but Kauer argues at length in favour of dissignauit—rightly.

191-2. Kauer prints a comma and then id (from A) after emisti, omits the colon at the end of the vs., and makes the words in parenthesis refer to id argenti tantum dabitur—rightly. See his crit. n.

206. occeperis: the text of Don. affords a choice bet. occep. and incep.; incipio is intrans. elsewhere in Ter., or is followed only by an acc. of a neut. pron. (Dz.); but occeperis is supported by the parallel passage in And. 79, quaestum occipit, and by Plaut. Cupt. 98 hic occipit quaestum hunc.

223-4. quasi . . . obsequare: for another explanation of these words, see crit. n. in my ed. of the Adelphoe, cited above.

272. rem (Bentley) obviates the necessity of making redisse impers.

277. I have inserted i before intro, as Dz., Fleck., Plessis, and Fabia have done, for the sake of the sense, although against the MSS. and Donatus.

289. Most MSS. (not A) assign modo . . . primum to Sostrata; thus also Dz. (1881), Spengel, Fleck. The asyndeton favours this distribution.

Umpf., Dz. (1884), Stampini, Fabia, Kauer, and Tyrrell follow A and assign the words to the nurse (cf. Kauer's crit. n.) — with less propriety.

291. Spengel happily encloses the words solac . . . adest in a parenthesis.

297. ingenio : thus Umpf., Wagner, Dz., Fleck., on the assumption that Ter. would not have written genere in such close proximity to familia. But Spengel accepts the MSS. reading — rightly.

302. se is the reading of A and L, of Dz., Kauer, Stampini, and Fleck. It is omitted by Umpf. and Spengel.

313. Probably an interpolation. At best the vs. is unsatisfactory in meaning and can only with difficulty be forced into correspondence with what precedes and follows. meo modo : thus Bothe, Fleck. (1857), and Umpf. meo is not in the MSS.; it is not in Tyrrell, Dz., or Kauer, yet it greatly helps both the metre and the meaning of a doubtful verse.

325. quid sit : Dz. finds the subj. here opposed to the common usage of early Latin, and reads quid fit; Fleck. gives quid actumst. But Kauer rightly justifies quid sit on the ground that it takes up and repeats Geta's actumst, after the manner of quid sit in 261; cf. n. on And. 191, 282, etc. See Kauer's crit. n.

350. cēdo = concedo (according to Bentley), and Spengel accepts dicas of the MSS. The meaning may then be, "I allow that your suggestion is better." Cf. Lucr. 2. 658 concedamus ut . . . dictitet.

380. The name Stephanio is omitted from the scene-heading in the MSS., although it has as much right there as that of Dromo (376), whose name is added to those of Demea and Syrus in A.

395. num : Klette (Exerc. Terent. [Bonn, 1855] p. 20 f.).

524. I have followed Fleck. in placing propest at the beginning of vs. 524.

528. in mentem : cf. Heaut. 986 and footnote. In a case thus doubtful it is best to follow what appears to have been the more common archaic usage. Hence the acc. is adopted by most good editors. Cf. Plaut. Amph. 710 (Goetz), Bacch. 161 (Goetz). See Palmer on Amph. 1. 1. 26 and 2. 2. 78 (crit. n.). See also Aul. Gell. 1. 7. 17.

535. MSS. laudarier te audit lubenter. To get rid of this old form of the infin., which properly can stand only at the end of the vs., or before a definite pause within it, Conradt (Hermes, x. p. 104) proposes Audit ludari te lubenter. He suggests also (Met. Comp. d. Ter., p. 112) Laudari te lubenter audit, which Dz. adopts. Spengel's conjecture, which is accepted by Tyrrell, has the merit of keeping close to the MSS., while the tmesis may be supported by many parallels. Cf. n. on 393.

597. esse : Madvig (Advers. Crit. II. 21), Dz., Fleck. Cf. And. 572.

600. Fleck. follows Bentley, as Tyrrell does, but Dz. adopts the reading of the MSS. (except A) and assumes a lacuna after this vs. So also Wagner and Fleck. (1857). Kauer deems this unnecessary (see his crit. n.).

601. Dz., following Umpf. (Anal. Ter. p. 19 f.) regards this vs. as an interpolation, in view of the contents of 603-604 and the repetition of bene facis. Fleck. omits it, and certainly the sense does not seem to require it.

617. hance: see Dz.'s crit. n. on 165 f.

666. illa consuevit: Don. bears witness to the existence of the simple abl. here, but mentions illam as a variant and adds, et dicebant ueteres 'hanc rem consuevi.' Fleck. reads quicum ea; but ea is without authority. I should retain the reading of the MSS. (other than A) and scan quí cum illā cóns. To reject eum on metrical grounds is to attach too much importance to the effect of the doubled l in illa, and ā final may become short under the law governing iambic sequences. See Introd. §§ 91, 95.

668. praesenti of the MSS. is difficult, but is well defended by Dz. (see his crit. n.) against Bentley's praesentem.

687. The second magnum, which is not in the MSS., is accepted metri causa by most editors. But Kauer finds evidence in A (see his crit. n.) of sane having once been written over primum and afterwards erased. Therefore he happily reads primum sane magnum, at, etc.

724. ah: most editors here prefer o (the reading of A). Tyrrell's a is a misprint for ah of the text, which is the reading of B D E F G P.

770. tun: see Minton Warren in A. J. P. ii. 55. Dz. suggests that tun has crept in here from 769 where tu is now accepted almost universally. As tun makes good sense in 769, but not in 770 (unless -ne be regarded, with Warren, as affirmative), Dziatzko's view should carry with it some weight.

820. amborum: thus Dz. and Kauer (see the latter's crit. n.), although ipsorum is more forcible, since it emphasizes the contrast between the property of the young men and their moral training, and for that reason is preferred by Umpf., Dz. (1881), Klotz, Fleck., and others.

828. scires: defended by Lachmann (in Lucr. 5. 533) against scire est (A scire et) of the MSS., which however Spengel and Kauer rightly accept and explain as = ἔστι γινῶναι, i. e. scire possibile est (Schlee, 160). Thus also crederes in Heaut. 192, where see App.

952. nunc: thus also Dz. and Fleck. But non makes fair sense = "I do not make that saying my own," i. e. I do not wish to be included among those to whom it applies. non makes sense also if taken interrogatively = "do I not make that saying my own, etc.?" i. e. am I not justified in appropriating your former criticism and applying it to the present situation?

956-7. For a different solution of the metrical difficulty here see Dz., Adn. Crit.

958. D G L (probably A also; see Umpf.) mark no change of scene at this vs. See n. in Dz.-Kauer and Introd. to the Dz.-Hauler ed. of the Phormio, p. 47.

985. prolubium: supported (against the very early variant proluuium =

"extravagance") by a passage in Caecilius, from which this vs. is believed to be adapted: Quod prolubium, quae uoluptas, quae te lactat largitas? (See 'Com. Lat. Rel.; rec. Otto Ribbeck,' p. 42. vs. 91.).

994. me: omitted by Bentley and Fleck. (who however read quem for me et) and Klotz and others — unnecessarily, for the Iambic Law (Intro. § 91) permits us to scan: me ét obsecundare. It is true that the omission strengthens the climax in ecce me (995), but on the other hand it leaves the infinitives without a subject where one seems to be needed. obsecundare: thus all MSS. and Don. (in lemma); cf. Heaut. 827, Ad. 990 obsequor. Dz. has secundare, given also by Donatus. Kauer (in company with Stampini, Plessis, Boué, and Fabia) retains both me and obsecundare.

INDEX

THE index has been made comprehensive enough, it is believed, to give the student easy access to all matters of importance discussed in the Introduction or the Commentary. References to the Introduction are by the paragraph numbers; references to discussions in the Commentary are by the play and verse, in the note on which the matter in question is considered (the following abbreviations are here employed: A = Andria; Ad = Adelphoe; E = Eunuchus; H = Heauton timorumenos; He = Hecyra; P = Phormio). References which consist of a page number, followed by the abbreviation for a play and a verse-number in parenthesis, are to the appendices to the main body of Notes on the various plays. Other references (chiefly to matters discussed in the Didascalie) are made by the pages of the Commentary.

ā final in (Greek) proper names, nom. sing., A 301, P 830, 865, Ad 619.
ab, 'from the house of,' A 226; ab re vs. in rem, A 546; abs te, A 226, P 795.

abduce, Ad 482.

abhinc + acc., A 69.

abi, ejaculation, Ad 564, 765, P 994;
abin in malum rem, etc., A 317.

ABLATIVE: see CASES, IV; FORMS, I, 3.

aborior, used impers., He 398.

absente nobis, E 649.

absque eo (hac) esset (foret), He 601, P 188.

ABSTRACT for concrete, Ad 769; see scelus.

ABSTRACTIONS, deified, Ad 761.

abutor, sense of, and syntax with, A 5, P 413.

ACCENT, in word groups, 89; in early Latin, 90; coincidence of, with ictus, 88-89; effect of, on neighbouring syllables, 91.

accerso, A 546, Ad 699.

ACCUSATIVE: see CASES, I.

ACTORS, held in disfavour at Rome, 21; slaves or freedmen, 64; number of, in Greek comedy, 64, in Roman, ibid.: rewards and punishments of, 65; costumes of, in Roman comedy, 24, 66; not masked in Terence's time, 67.

ACTS, in Greek comedy and tragedy, 57, 59; in Roman plays, 57, pp. 75-76 (A 171); interval between, filled by music, H 872.

ad, 'to house of,' A 361; ad se (te) redire, 'to recover one's senses,' A 622, Ad 794.

ADELPHOE, form of name, p. 252; contaminatio in, 48.

adeo, intensive, A 162, 532, H 54.

adgnosco, spelling, p. 4 (A Per 11), p. 214 (He Per 11).

adire manum + dat., 'to impose on,' H 818.

ADJECTIVE = objective genitive, Ad 75.

ADJURATIONS, A 229.

adiutare + acc. of thing, P 99.

adligo + gen., E 809.

adposisse, archaic form, A 729, adposisti, A 742.

adserere manu, Ad 194.

adsient, archaic form, P 313.

adsimularier, archaic form, H 716.

aduenti, archaic gen., P 154.

ADVERB = adjective, A 175, Ad 71; made from pf. pass. prtepl., abl.

sing.: optato, A 533, prae finito, He 94; with sum, II 53.

aduocatus, E 340.

aduorsitor, A 83, Ad 27, p. 316 (Ad 26); aduorsum ire, Ad 27.

aecus (aequus), 'friendly,' A 24, 429.

AEDILES, curule, licensers of plays, p. 2; contracted with managers for production of plays, ibid.

Aeschinūs, archaic form of nom., Ad 260, 538, 634.

AFRANIUS, L., 54.

aibas, Ad 561, aibat, Ad 561, 717; see Forms, II, 3.

ain tandem, A 875.

ALLITERATION, A 96, Ad 134, 283, 978, 990, E 1043, He 9, 628, P 138, 334.

ALTAR, on stage, A 726, II 975.

alterco, active, not deponent, A 653.

alterae, archaic dat., A 608, E 1004, H 271, P 928.

alterius vs. alterius, A 628.

amabo, E 130, 537, H 70, 404, 824.

AMBIIVS TURPIO, manager for Terence, 64, p. 2, p. 83, p. 215.

amo, in colloquial phrases, H 360; amo te, P 54; cf. merito te amo, Ad 946, E 186.

ANACOLUTHON, He 287.

ANALYTICAL VERB FORMS in colloquial Latin, A 508, 775.

ANDRIA, based on Menander's Andria and Perinthia, 48, p. 9, A 14; contaminatio in, 48; second ending of, p. 74.

angiportum, 72, Ad 576, E 845, P 891; angiportus, H 174.

animi, locative, He 121, Ad 610, H 727, p. 82 (II Per 3); animum adiungo, A 56, H 683; animum aduerto, A 767, construction with, in sense of 'to punish,' A 156.

anus vs. matrona, Ad 617; anuis, archaic genitive, H 287.

AORIST, sigmatic, A 753.

aperite aliquis, Ad 634.

apiscier, A 203, 275, 332.

APOSTROPHESIS, A 135, E 479, H 913, He 765, P 110.

APPEALS, unknown to Athenian law, P 406, 419, 455-456; allowed at Rome, P 419.

apud, 'at the house of,' A 226; apud me, 'in my senses,' P 204; apud me, accent of, A 36.

ARCHAISMS.

1. Of spelling: adgnoscit, p. 214 (He Per 11), adgnitam, p. 4 (A Per 11); interdius, Ad 531.
2. In nouns: (a) gen. sing., fourth declension, in -uis, and in -ti: see Forms, I, 4, (a), (b); (b) miscellaneous: tristities, Ad 267, nequities, H 481.
3. In pronouns: (a) alterae as dat. sing.: see FORMS, I, 6, (a); (b) qui as abl., sing. and pl., in all genders: see FORMS, I, 6, (c).
4. In verbs: (a) third conjugation for second or fourth: see FORMS, II, 1, (a), (b); (b) pres. pass. infin. in -ier: see FORMS, II, 2; (c) impf. indic. forms: see FORMS, II, 3; (d) deponent forms for active, or vice versa: see FORMS, II, 5; (e) reduplicated forms: see FORMS, II, 8; (f) miscellaneous forms: adsient, P 313; adposisse, A 729, adposisti, A 742; attigas, A 789; coeperet, A 397; creduas, P 993; dice, duce, face, A 680, Ad 482; faro, faxim, A 753; fuat, He 610; duint, A 666, P 519, 976, 1005; perduint, H 811; potesse, E 666; quita est, He 572; quaeso

- = quaero, A 487; siem: see FORMS, II, 8.
5. In quantity: (a) omniū, E 789, H 575, 942, P 248; (b) infinitive ending in long -ē: dicerē, A 23, 437, ducerē, A 613; (c) long vowel in verb forms ending in -t: augeāt, Ad 25, inruāt, Ad 550, facīt, E 365, stetīt, P 9; (d) long vowel in penult of pf. subj.: norīmus, Ad 271, P 772, gesserīmus, A 271, P 772.
6. Of syntax: (a) careo + acc., E 223; (b) clanculum + acc., Ad 52; (c) deceat + dat., Ad 491; (d) dum + pres. indic., 'till (while),' etc., E 206; (e) faxo + fut. indic., A 854, E 285, P 308, 1055; (f) in mentemst, H 986, p. 317 (Ad 528); (g) uolo + pf. infin., He 563.
- aridus, 'stingy,' H 526.
- ARISTOPHANES, 3, 59.
- asportarier, archaic form, P 978.
- ASSONANCE, A 218, Ad 57.
- astu, of Athens proper, vs. Piraeus, E 987.
- asymbolus, P 339.
- ASYNDETON, A 676, Ad 990, H 643.
- at, in curses, A 666, 753.
- ATHENIAN WOMEN, did not appear at banquets, E 626.
- atque, adversative, 'and yet,' A 225, 607, 614, Ad 40, p. 78 (A 525), H 187, 195, He 160; 'than,' A 698, H 264; atque adeo, A 532, 977, P 389.
- ATTIC COMEDY: see COMEDY.
- attigas, archaic form, A 789.
- ATTRACTION: (1) of case, A 3, Ad 974, H 87, 116, 662, 724, He 14; (2) of gender, Ad 18, H 49; of mood, He 555, P 970.
- au, A 751, Ad 336, H 1015, P 754, 803.
- audin? = imv., A 299; audio, ironical, 'of course,' A 552, P 160; audire bene, P 20; audite paucis, E 1067.
- augeāt, archaic form, Ad 25.
- aurum, 'jewels,' E 627, H 288.
- auspicato, adv., A 807.
- autem, in lively questions, H 251.
- auxiliarier, archaic form, Ad 273.
- BACCHIAC TETRAMETER, 82.
- balinēum, P 339.
- BANKERS, P 921-922.
- bene facis, 'thank you,' Ad 601, E 186.
- BENTLEY, editor of Terence, 103, 117.
- belli, locative, H 112.
- BETROTHAL, necessary to legal marriage, A 102.
- bilis, adjectives in, with active force, H 204, P 226, 961.
- bolus, H 673.
- bona uerba, 'gently,' A 204.
- BRACHYLOGY, H 393.
- Byrriā, A 301.
- CAECILIUS STATIUS, 38-39, 44.
- CAESAR, Julius, judgment of, on Terence, 53.
- caesius, H 1062.
- CAESURA, in iambic senarius, 76; in iambic septenarius, 77; in iambic octonarius, 78; in trochaic septenarius, 80; in trochaic octonarius, 81.
- CALLIOPIUS, editor of Terence, 98.
- cantica, 61, 84, p. 165.
- cantor, 84, p. 74, H 1067.
- careo + acc., E 223.
- carnufex, A 183.
- CASES.
- I. Genitive: (1) partitive, dependent on neuter pron., A 2; (2) with pres. prtepl., He 224, P

- 623; (3) with adjectives: similis, Ad 96, 411, sociors, Ad 695; (4) with verbs: with uereor, P 971; with adligo, E 809; with facio, 'value,' H 788; with obsaturo, H 869; with pudeo, to denote the person before whom one is ashamed, Ad 683, H 260, He 793, P 392; (5) with mille in sing., treated as noun, H 601, 606; (6) with uicem, H 749; (7) with uociuos, H 90. For forms of the genitive see FORMS, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 (b).
- II. Dative: (1) with decet, Ad 491; (2) ethical dat., Ad 313, 958; (3) with verb of fear, A 210; (4) with adire manum, 'impose on,' H 818; (5) with facio (quid facias illi), A 143.
- III. Accusative: (1) cognate, A 340, 964; (2) of exclamation, A 589, Ad 783, H 92, 318 (malum); (3) of inner object, Ad 675, 691, 877, 963, H 437; (4) with abhinc, A 69; (5) with verbs of clothing: with indutus, E 1016; (6) with miscellaneous verbs: of thing, with adiuto, P 99; with dare operam, A 307; with inpendeo, P 180; with pergo, He 194; with abutor, fruor, fungor, potior, utor, A 5, Ad 815, P 413, 830; with medeor, P 822; with nil moror, E 184; with nescio, H 396, 1038; with quaero, H 994; with obsequi, P 79; with verbs later intrans., P 180; (7) other uses: with clam, A 287, Ad 52, P 1004; with clanculum, Ad 52; with em, A 604, 675; two accusatives: with celo, He 645; with condono, E 17; with incuso, H 960 (see text).
- IV. Ablative: (1) of time within which = duration, Ad 520; (2) of price, with fero, A 369 (colloquial); (3) with various verbs: with caueo, E 782; with consuesco, p 318 (Ad 666); with abutor, fruor, fungor, potior, utor, A 5, Ad 815, P 413, 830; with facio (quid me faciam, etc.), A 143, 614, H 188 (cf. quid te futurum, H 462); abl. absol. used impers., peccato, He 737 (cf. auspicato).
- V. Locative: (1) animi, Ad 610, p. 82 (H Per 3), H 727; (2) belli, H 112; (3) consili, H 727, P 578; (4) luci, Ad 841.
- cauē*, 91, A 403; caueo + abl., E 782. cautio est, Ad 421. cedo, A 150. celere, adv., P 179. celo, with two accusatives, He 645. circum itio, A 202.
- CIRCUMLOCUTION (faciam ut, etc.), He 244-245.
- cistella*, E 753.
- CHARACTERS in Ter. and Plaut., typical, 56; portrayal of, by Plaut. and Ter., 56.
- CHILD, NEW-BORN, recognized by father (see tollo), A 219.
- CHORIAMBIC TETRAMETER, 82.
- CHORUS, place of, in Greek tragedy and comedy, 12, in Roman plays, 70-71.
- Chremes, declension of, A 247, 368, 472, 533, 538.
- clam* + acc., A 287, Ad 52, P 1004. clanculum + acc., Ad 52.
- claudier*, archaic form, A 573, H 164.
- CLAUSULAE, metrical, 79, 82.
- CODICES of Terence, 98-114.
- coeperet*, archaic form, Ad 397.
- COGNATE ACC.: see CASES, III.

COLLOQUIALISMS

1. In forms: alterae = alteri, A 608, E 1004, H 271, P 928; analytical verb forms: sīs sciens vs. scias, A 508, P 394-395.
 2. In uses of words: commodum, P 614; do = facio, P 1027; facesso (sc. a reflexive pron.), 'go,' P 635; hodie without temporal sense, P 1009, Ad 159, 570; oppido, P 317; sic=talīs, A 919.
 3. In use of phrases: hoe age, P 350; merito te amo, amo te, H 360; si me amas, H 360; mirum nī+indic., A 598; mulier meretrix, A 756; quo . . . (eo), Ad 705.
 4. Of syntax: acc.+infin. with haud dubiumst, He 326; cum+abl. in indignant phrases, E 153; asyndeton, H 643; medcor+acc., P 822; infin. of purpose, He 189; nequeo quin+subj., He 385; pres. with force of fut., E 1058; sudden change of subject, Ad 624.
- COMEDY, origin of, 2; Greek, history of, 1-12; Doric, 1-2: relation of Plaut. to, 2; at Athens, performed in honour of Dionysus, 1; Attic, 1-3: stages of, 4; Old Attic, 3-4: writers of, 3-4; New Attic, 5-9: influence of Euripides on, 9; morality of life depicted in, 11: plots of, 8-9: characters of, 6-7: make-up of actors in, 7: technique and language of, 11: model of comic writers of Rome, 11: writers of, 11: difference of, from earlier Greek comedy, 12: Roman, sources of, 25, ad fin.: freedom of speech denied to, 27: history of, 13-67: native forms of, 13-14: metre in those forms, 20; the satura, 14, 16, 17: the mimi, 14, 18; uersus Fescennini, 14-16; fabulae Atellanae, 14, 19; influence of native Roman comedy on the imported comedy, 21; a sort of comic opera, 85; number of actors in (see ACTORS). See THEATRE.

commodus, H 521.

comocodia togata, 54.

COMPARATIVE, double, Ad 222, He 738.

complacita est, A 645, H 773.

complusculus, He 177.

con-, compounds with, A 109, with intensive force, A 645.

CONATIVE PRESENT: see TENSES.

concrepuit (ostium), A 682, P 840.

CONDITION contrary to fact, in pres. subj., A 310, 914, 918.

condono+two accusatives, E 17.

confore, A 157.

confuto, H 949, P 477.

conor obuiam, P 52.

consili, locative, H 727, P 378.

CONSTRUCTIO AD SENSUM, A 607, 844-845, Ad 261, 262.

CONSTRUCTION, change of, H 298.

consuesco+abl., p. 318 (Ad 666).

contaminare, meaning of, A 16, E 552.

contaminatio, 48-49, A 16, Ad 5, 194, 356, H 17.

contra as prep., P 521.

conueniat, He 178.

COOKERY in New Attic Comedy, A 31.

coram, adv., P 911.

cordi (est), A 328, P 800.

COSTUMES of actors: see ACTORS.

cothurnus, H 124.

creduas, P 993.

crepe, of opening door, H 173.

crepundia, E 753.

CRETIC TETRAMETER, 82.

cum + abl., uses of, Ad 713-714, E 153, A 941. curriculo, abl. of manner, H 733.

DACTYLIC TETRAMETER, 82.

dare operam + neuter acc., A 307.

DATIVE: see CASES, II.

de, 'on account of,' E 475; de nocte, Ad 841.

de-, expresses completeness, Ad 152, 519; expresses intensity, P 944.

deceat + dat., Ad 491.

decesse=decessisse, H 32.

defungier, P 1021; in impers. pass., Ad 508.

dehinc, scanned as monosyllable, Ad 2.

deinde, scansion of, p. 78 (A 483).

DELIBERATIVE QUESTIONS, in indic., A 315, 497, 878, Ad 538, H 343, P 447, 813, 1007; in subj. (impf.), Ad 214, 671, P 117.

DELICACY OF LANGUAGE in Hecyra, He 212, 327, 359, 615, 642-643.

deludier, A 203.

demensum, P 43.

demunerarier, H 300.

DEPENDENT QUESTIONS, how written, A 45.

DEPONENT FORMS instead of active: see FORMS, II, 5.

despondeo, of promising daughter in marriage, A 102.

DIAERESIS, in iambic octonarius, 78, in trochaic septenarius, 80, in trochaic octonarius, 81; at end of half-verse, A 957.

DIALOGUE, written mostly in iambic senarius, 76.

dicerē, A 23, 437; dico ut, 'I bid,' etc., H 340; dictum (ac) factum, A 381, H 904; dictum factum reddidi, H 760.

DIDASCALIAE, 85-86, p. 1.

DIMINUTIVE, expresses pathos, P 36-39; expresses friendliness, He 81; expresses helplessness, Ad 566; expresses contempt, Ad 779.

DIONYSIA, H 162.

DIONYSUS, relation of Greek drama to, 1-2.

DIPHILUS, 5, Ad 6.

dis-, intensive, P 1011.

dissigno, Ad 87; p. 316 (Ad 87).

DIVERBIA, 61, 84.

DIVORCE at Athens, He 502.

di uostram fidem, A 716, 744, H 502.

dixti, Ad 561, 599, 953, He 451.

do = facio, Ad 450, P 1027.

dolet, with clause or neut. pron. as subject, P 162.

dominus gregis, 73.

domna = domina, H 628.

DONATUS, Aelius, 98, 116.

DOORS, ancient, A 682; noise made by opening, see crepo, concrepuit.

DORIC COMEDY: see COMEDY.

dos: see DOWRY.

DOUBLE COMPARATIVE, Ad 222, He 738.

DOWRY, essential to proper marriage, A 396, 951, Ad 345, 759, P 646-647, 757, P 938; amount of, A 101.

drachuma, A 451, H 601.

DRAMATIC PERFORMANCES at Rome, times of, 73-74.

ducerē, A 613; 'to marry,' A 316.

dudum, A 582, 591.

duint, A 666, P 519, 976, 1005.

dum, conjunction, 'till (while)' + pres. indic., E 206, P 982; + impf. indic., A 303; dum crit, scansion of, Ad 118.

dum, enclitic particle, with inv., A 29, H 429, 550, P 329.

DZIATZKO, 118.

ē final, ducerē, A 613; dicerē, A 23, 437.

e short in penult of pf. indic. third pl., emērunt, E 20.

e-, intensive, P 956.

eādem (opera), H 368.

eam, eas, as monosyllables, Ad 6, He 754.

ebrius, said of elderly women, He 769.

ecastor, said by women, A 229.

ecce, A 532; ecceum, A 532, 580, Ad 361; ecceum ipsum, Ad 720; ecceum, E 79; ecce autem, Ad 722; eccere, P 319; ecceum+nom. and verb, Ad 923.

edepol, A 305.

educere, 'educate,' Ad 48.

egens, vs. pauper, P 363.

ehem, Ad 81, 373.

eho dum, A 184.

elegans, 'nice,' 'fastidious,' H 1063.

ELLIPSIS, A 803-804: of pronominal subject with exclamatory infin., A 870; Dianae (templum, etc.), Ad 582.

ellum, A 855, Ad 260; ellam, Ad 389.

eludo, 'mock,' E 55.

em vs. hem, A 416, 457, 556, 604, P 52; em tibi, P 847; em tibi autem, Ad 537; em+acc., A 604, 785.

emērunt, E 20.

emergo, trans., A 562; in impers. pass., Ad 302.

EMPHATIC NEUTER: see NEUTER.

enim, A 91; corroborative, A 503, P 983, H 188; 'of course,' A 91, Ad 656, 730.

ENNIUS, 37.

enumquam, P 329.

EPENTHETIC VOWEL (in drachuma, mina, etc.), A 451, H 471.

ephebi, A 51, E 824; ἐφηβος, A 51, E 290.

EPICHRMUS, 2; relation of, to Plautus, 32.

e re nata, Ad 295.

erumpo, trans., E 550.

est, 'it is possible,' p. 121 (H 192), p. 318 (Ad 828); in mentem est, H 986, p. 317 (Ad 528).

etiam, temporal, 'still,' A 116, 282, 673, Ad 190, 444, E 668, H 175, 187, 188, 895, He 614, P 174, etiam dum, E 570, neque etiam dum, H 229; additory, A 300, 368, Ad 532, E 645, 860, 1011, 1014, H 235, 865, 999, He 507, 543, P 360: in a question, P 669: etiam amplius, Ad 468, E 143; etiam insuper, Ad 246; temporal-additory, A 655, 940, Ad 279, He 811, 869, P 547, 831; intensive, Ad 146, 243, 663, 851 (etiam si), H 132, 435, 980; of repetition, 'again,' He 535, 841; with inv., A 849; with a question which equals a command, Ad 550, P 542, eu, P 398.

EUGRAPHIUS, 116.

EUNUCHUS, contaminatio in, 48.

EURIPIDES, precursor of New Attic Comedy, 9, p. 5; gave prominence to prologue, p. 5.

ex, 'in accordance with,' H 683.

exaduorsum, construction with, P 88.

excessis, archaic form, A 753, 760.

EXCLAMATION, infin. of: see MOODS; acc. of: see CASES, III, (2).

exorare, syntax with, P 535-536.

EXPOSURE of new-born child, A 219.

extrema linea, 'at a distance,' E 640.

ζ in Greek represented by -ss in Latin, H 457.

fabulae, 'nonsense,' A 224, 553.

FABULAE ATELLANAE, 14, 54; fabulae palliatae, 24, 26; fabulae praetextae, 23; fabulae togatae, 24; fabulae tabernariae, 24.

FABULA MOTORIA, H 36, 37-40; fabula mixta, H 36; fabula stataria, H 36.

face, A 680.

facesso (minus reflexive pronoun and so) intrans., P 635.

facio + genitive of value, H 788; with abl. (quid me faciam, etc.), A 614, H 188, He 668, Ad 611 (cf. quid me fiet? A 709); with dat. (quid facias illi?), A 143; facit, E 265; fazo, facim: see FORMS, II, 6.(d).

faenero, Ad 219.

FAERNUS, editor of Terence, 117.

familia, 'property,' H 909.

fauete (linguis), A 24.

fazo + fut. indic.: see ARCHAISSMS, 6; +subj., Ad 209, 847.

feruit, third conjugation form, Ad 534.

FINAL CONSONANT, disregard of, 92-93.

FINAL SYLLABLE LONG: (1) in nom. sing. of declension 1, in (Greek) proper names, A 301, P 830, 865, Ad 619; (2) in gen. sing., declension 3: uirginis, Ad 598; (3) in abl. sing., declension 3: uirginē, Ad 346; (4) in verb forms: augeāt, Ad 25, inruāt, Ad 550, facit, E 265, stetit, P 9; in pres. infin. act.: dicerē, A 23, 437, ducerē, A 613.

FLECKEISEN, 118.

foras vs. foris, A 580.

foris, 'door,' Ad 264.

FORMS, Inflectional.

I. Of Declension.

1. Declension 1: nom. sing. of, in -ā, in (Greek) proper names, A 301, Ad 619, P 830, 865.

2. Declension 2: (a) gen. sing.

of, in -i, from nouns in -ius or -ium, A 44; (b) gen. pl. of, in -um (not orum), H 27, P 393.

3. Declension 3: (a) gen. sing. of, in -is, Ad 598; (b) abl. sing. of, in -ē, uirginē, Ad 346, munerē, E 1023; (c) iure iurando, dat. (?), p. 281 (He 270).

4. Declension 4: (a) gen. sing. of, in -uis, A 365, H 287; (b) gen. sing. of, in -i (from nouns in -tus), A 365, E 237, 542, He 735, P 154; (c) dat. sing. of, in -u, Ad 63, H 357.

5. Declension 5: dat. sing. of, in -e, 91, A 296, E 886, Ad 161.

6. Pronouns: (a) alterae = alteri, A 608, E 1004, H 271, P 928; (b) nulli = nullius, A 608; (c) qui = abl. of all genders and both numbers: see qui.

7. Greek Proper Names: (a) see FORMS, I, 1; (b) declension of Chremes, A 247, 368, 472, 533; (c) Adelphoe, p. 252; (d) Aeschinūs, Ad 260, 588, 634; (e) Menandru, p. 252.

II. Of Conjugation.

1. Transfers of conjugation: (a) from second to third, feruit, Ad 534, subolēre, H 899; (b) from fourth to third: forms of potior, Ad Per 12, P 380, coeperet, Ad 397.

2. Archaic pres. infin. pass.: adsimularier, H 716; apis-cier, A 203, 275, 332; aspor-tarier, P 978; auxiliarier, Ad 273; claudier, A 573, H

- 164; defungier, P 1021; de-ludier, A 203; demunerarier, H 300; laudarier, p. 317 (Ad 535); mirarier, P 92; utier, P 603. For position of such forms see p. 317 (Ad 535).
3. Archaic impf. forms in -ibat, -ibant, -ibo, in conjugation 4: conuenibat, He 178; aibat, aibant, A 561, 717; scibum, scibo, E 1004, A 38, 780, Ad. 361.
4. Perfect indic. third pl., in -ērunt, emerunt, E 20.
5. Deponent forms for active or vice versa, altereo, A 653, placitae sunt, A 21, He 241, complacita(m) est (esse), A 645, H 773, quita est, He 572.
6. Forms of uncertain origin, perhaps aorists: (a) dīrti, Ad 561, 599, 953, He 451, intellerti, A 201, praescripsi, A 151; (b) excessis, A 753, appellassis, P 742; (c) decesse, H 32, insse, H 1001, prodere, Ad 561; (d) faro, A 753, 854, Ad 209, 847, P 308, 1055, fuxim, A 753.
7. Old imperatives: dice, duce, face, A 680, Ad 482.
8. Miscellaneous forms.
(a) with archaic quantity: dicerē, A 437, ducerē, A 613; augeāt, Ad 25, inruūt, Ad 550; facīt, E 265, stetit, P 9, gesserimus, Ad 270, P 772, norimus, A 271, P 772; (b) fuat, He 610; (c) siem, etc., A 234, Ad 282; adsient, P 313, possiem, etc., Ad 877, P 313, 773; (d) confore, A 157; (e) potesse, E 666; (f) attigas, A 789; (g) creduas, P 993; (h) duint, A 666, P 919, 976, 1005; (i) perduint, H 811; (j) quaeso = quaero, A 487; (k) adgnosco, p. 4 (A Per 11), p. 214 (He Per 11); (l) adposisse, A 729, adposisti, A 742, supposiuit, E 912, p. 155 (E 912); (m) tennitur, p. 210 (P 330).
9. Reduplicated forms, archaic: tetuli, etc., A 808, 832.
- Fors, A 957, H 715; Fors Fortuna, E 134, He 386, P 841.
- fortasse + infin. with subject acc., He 313.
- fortis, 'excellent,' A 445; 'fine,' in ironical sense, A 702.
- fortis Fortuna adiunat, P 203.
- FRAGMENTUM VINDOBONENSE, 106.
- FREEDMEN, actors or domini gregum, 64.
- fruo, construction with, A 5.
- fuat: see FORMS, 8, (b).
- fungor, construction with, A 5, P 413.
- furcifer, A 618.
- FUSION OF SYNTAX, Ad 648, H 76, He 861.
- FUT. INDIC. = imv., p. 76 (204-205), H 833.
- FUT. PF., force of, A 381, 456, 640, 892, H 108, He 138, P 681.
- GENITIVE: see CASES, I.
- genius, A 289, P 44.
- gerere morem, H 947.
- GERUND, gen. of, expresses purpose, Ad 270; in gen. with dependent objective gen., H 29.
- GLYCERUM, character of, A 123, 134, 274.
- Gods, greeted by returned traveller, P 311.

- GRAMMARIANS, ancient, and Terence, 116.
- gratias (gratiam) habeo, agere, re-ferre, P 894.
- gratiis, Ad 744.
- GREEK COMEDY: see COMEDY.
- GREEK FORMS, of declension and conjugation: see FORMS, I, 1, 7; see also Ad Per 3.
- GREEK MODELS, relation of Plautus to, 32, 33, 35, 36, of Terence to, 47-50, of post-Plautine comedy to, 49.
- GREEK vs. Roman Theatre, 70-71.
- GREETINGS to returned traveller, He 456-457.
- grex, troupe of actors, II 345, P 10, 32.
- GUYET, 117.
- gynacæum, P 862.
- habet, gladiator's term, A 83.
- haec, nom. pl. fem., A 328, II 838.
- haereo, 'I'm caught,' P 963.
- HANGING, in imprecations, A 317.
- hariosor, Ad 202, P 492.
- (L.) HATILIUS PRAENESTINUS, p. 2.
- haud dubiumst + acc. and infin., He 326.
- HEAUTON TIMORUMENOS, p. 82.
- HECYRA, various presentations of, 47, 52, p. 156, p. 214, p. 215.
- heia autem, Ad 868.
- hem vs. em, A 416, 420.
- HENDIADYS, E 217.
- herele, hereule, A 229.
- heus, A 635, P 903.
- HIATUS, 97, Ad 336, 574, P 963; after o, A 769; at change of speakers, P 146, p. 121 (H 379); in periochae, p. 156.
- hic, P 266; hiscæ, nom. pl., E 249.
- hic uiciniae, P 95.
- hinc illae lacrumae, A 126.
- HISTORICAL INFINITIVE, A 62.
- hōc, P 266, 889; = huc, A 386, Ad 92, 877, E 394; anticipates a clause, A 516; hoc age, E 130, P 350.
- hoc illud est, A 125.
- hodie, without temporal force, colloquial, He 189; hodie numquam, Ad 570; hodie unquam, Ad 159.
- homo = is, Ad 154, P 252.
- HORACE, influenced by Terence, 55.
- HOUSES, contiguous in stage setting, Ad 908.
- huc uiciniam, p. 75.
- hui, A 474, II 223.
- huius, monosyllabic, Ad 163.
- IAMBIC LAW, 91, A 15, 888, p. 319 (Ad 994); iambic octonarius, 78, 83; iambic quaternarius, 79; iambic senarius, 76, 83; iambic septenarius, 77, 83.
- iam conclamatumst, E 248.
- iam dudum + pf., He 722.
- iam pridem + pf., He 219.
- ibi, temporal, A 106, 379, He 128; ibi tum, A 106, 131, 223.
- ICARIA, and worship of Dionysus, 2.
- ictus, 87-89.
- id anticipates a clause, A 180, 548, 556; 'on this account,' He 368, P 259.
- IDEAL CONDITION transferred to past, A 138.
- ilicet, formula of dismissal, H 974, Ad 791.
- ilico, of time, A 514, Ad 536, of place, A 514.
- ille, scansion of, 95.
- illi, adv., A 637, P 91.
- illim, He 297.
- illo, adv., A 362.
- immo, 'nay,' A 523, 629; scansion of, 95; immo etiam, A 708, p. 79 (A 708).

- impero + infin., A 842.
 IMPERSONAL constructions, aborior,
 He 398; siletur, P 778; statur, E 271; see potis, potuit.
 in-, negative, compounded with adj.
 and prtepl., Ad 507.
 inaudio, P 877.
 incredibile quantum + indic., P 247 incuso + double acc., II 960 (see text).
 INDICATIVE: see MOODS, I. indignus, 'cruel,' 'dreadful,' E 946.
 indutus + acc., E 1016.
 inducti, A 572, 883.
 INFINITIVE: see MOODS, III; position of, in -ier, p. 317 (Ad 535).
 infitias ire, Ad 339.
 ingratiis, E 220, II 446.
 in ius ambula, P 936.
 inludere, syntax with, A 758.
 in mentemst, II 986, Ad 528, p. 317
 (Ad 528).
 inmutarier, archaic form, P 206.
 INNER OBJECT, acc. of, p. 148.
 in pedes (conicio, do), E 844.
 inpendeo + acc., P 180.
 inpendio, E 587.
 inpurus, p. 213 (P 986).
 in rem vs. ab re, A 546.
 inruāt, Ad 550.
 integer, of a play, 'unadapted,' Ad
 10, II 4.
 intellexi, A 500.
 intellextin, A 201.
 interdus, Ad 531.
 interea loci, II 126, 257.
 interest, used personally, Ad 76, E 233.
 INTERROGATIVE = imv., A 337.
 iocularius, A 782.
 ipsus vs. ipse, p. 78 (A 527); 'the master,' A 360.
 is (eo), referring back to a pl., II 63,
 He 421.
 istacc, nom. pl. fem., P 77.
 ITERATIVE SUBJUNCTIVE: see MOODS, II, 7.
 iube + subj., Ad 914-915; iubē II 737.
 IUNO LUCINA, A 473.
 iure iurando, as dat., p. 251 (He 870).
 iusse = iussisse, II 1001.
 iūuero, A 456, II 86.
 JESSIVE SUBJUNCTIVE: see MOODS,
 II, 2.
 laterem lauere, P 186.
 laudarier, archaic form, p. 317 (Ad 535).
 LAW governing marriage of orphan maid at Athens, Ad 652, A 71, P 125-126.
 lectus, of money, P 53.
 leno, Ad 161.
 liber, 'gentlemanly,' A 38, 330.
 liberalis, 'honourable,' Ad 464;
 'ladylike,' P 905.
 liberalitas, 'gentlemanliness,' Ad 57.
 liberi, in pl., of one child, He 212.
 licet + subj., P 317.
 LIVIUS ANDRONICUS, 21, 22, 25.
 LOCATIVE: see CASES, V.
 LONG FINAL SYLLABLES: see FINAL SYLLABLE LONG.
 LONG SYLLABLE, shortening of: see IAMBIC LAW; see SEMI-HIATUS; emerunt, E 20.
 longule, II 239.
 luci, locative, with temporal force,
 Ad 841.
 LUDI (Apollinares, Megalenses, Romani, etc.), 74; dramatic performances at, 74.
 ludiones, from Etruria, 16.
 LUSCIUS LANUVINUS, 5, Ad 2, E 8, 10, 21, 43, II 30, 32, 33, 34, 54, P 6-8, 19.
 male, intensive, He 337; male audire,
 'hear ill said of one's self,' He 600.

mallem potius, Ad 222.

malum, exclamatory acc., as interjection, H 318, 716, P 976.

MANAGERS OF PLAYS, often freedmen, 64; assumed financial risk of plays, 65; rewards of, 65; rôle played by, in presentation of plays, 65.

manè, H 736.

MANUMISSION, informal, Ad 969-970.

MANUSCRIPTS of Terence, 98-114; in minuscules, 98; classification of, 98; illustrations in, 100-101, 103, p. 61; relative values of, 112-113.

MARRIAGE of orphan maid, law concerning, at Athens, Ad 652, P 125-126.

MASCULINE, used in pl. of women, A 477.

MASKS, not worn in Terence's time, 67, P 210.

matrona vs. anus, Ad 617.

mē ad, Ad 111; mē ubi, Ad 527.

medeor+acc., P 822.

meditari, 'con over,' A 406, Ad 195.

meliusculus, He 354.

MENANDER, 5, 10; Terence's relation to, 10; Plautus' relation to, 10.

mercatus, 'fair,' Ad 231.

mercennarius, Ad 541.

merito te amo, Ad 946, E 186.

meritum as substantive, P 305, H 92.

METRES, 75-86; express varying moods, 83; change of, expresses change of mood, A 178, 196-198.

metuis, gen. sing., P 482.

MIDDLE (ATTIC) COMEDY: see COMEDY.

MIDDLE VOICE, P 206.

mille, in sing. as substantive, + gen., H 601, 606.

mimus, 2, 54.

mina, form of the word, P 410; value of, ibid.

MINIATURES in manuscripts of Terence, 100-101, Ad 782.

mirarier, P 92.

mirum nī, A 598, E 344, H 663.

missum (missa) facere, A 680, E 90, Ad 906, 991, He 408, P 946.

modo, 'lately,' A 173; of future, 'soon,' ibid.; modo ut, with a wish, A 409, P 59, 773.

MOOD, change of, He 874; see also P 787.

MOODS.

I. Indicative.

1. In deliberative questions, A 315, 497, 879, Ad 538, P 343, 447, 737, 812, 1007.
2. In (real or apparent) dependent questions or exclamations, Ad 229.
3. With quom concessive, Ad 144.
4. In relative clause in oratio obliqua, P 17.
5. Fut., with faro, A 854, E 285, P 508, 1055.

II. Subjunctive.

1. In wishes; (a) with modo ut, A 409, P 59, 773; (b) in rel. cl., Ad 519.
2. Jussive, Ad 431, (in pf.) A 437, Ad 828, 830; = protasis, A 640.
3. Paratactic, after verb of command: with iube, Ad 914-915; with licet, P 347; with sino, A 188; with faro, Ad 209, 847, P 347.
4. In expressions of obligation or propriety, A 392-393, 793, P 140, 297, 299, E 77-78, 523, 1080, H 202, 273, 976, He 341.
5. In deliberative questions, in second sing., He 589.

6. In clauses involving indefinite second person, P 280, 344, 848.
 7. Of contingent futurity, A 66, 95, 270, P 689.
 8. Iterative, II 1058.
 9. In questions that repeat a preceding remark (repudiating questions): (a) introduced by interrog. pronoun, He 485, A 499, P 122; (b) introduced by -ne . . . ut, A 263, H 784, P 304; (c) without introductory particle or pronoun, A 282.
 10. Potential: (a) in general, A 957, Ad 122, H 192, 345, P 104; factum uellem, nollem datum, etc., H 82, P 787, 792, 796.
 11. By attraction, P 970.
 12. In prohibitions: ne + subj. 2d sing., A 384, P 514.
 13. 'Stipulative,' with ut, A 148.
 14. Side by side with indicative, A 536, 272-273, 649-650, 967-968.
 15. Omitted, P 46.
- III. Infinitive.
1. Of exclamation, A 245, 869; with neque, P 232-233, 502-503.
 2. Historical, A 62.
 3. Of purpose, E 528, He 189, P 102.
 4. Used where in later Latin a pres. prtepl. is employed, A 361.
 5. With verbs of emotion, P 596.
 6. With scilicet, H 856, 892-893.

7. With haud dubium est, He 326.
 8. With impero, A 842.
 9. With remitto, A 827.
 10. Infin. pres. after verb of promising, P 352.
 11. Subject of, when pronoun, omitted, A 14.
 12. See also FORMS, II, 2.
- IV. Imperative.
1. In prohibitions with ne, A 384.
 2. With quia, A 45, P 350, 486, 857, 935.
- morem gerere, A 641, Ad 214, E 188, He 599.
- morigerare, A 641.
- motoria (fabula), II 36, 37-40.
- multimodis, 90, A 939, P 465.
- munerē, E 1023.
- MUSIC, attitude of Romans toward, p. 2; in plays of Terence, 85.
- MUSICIANS, generally slaves, 85.
- NAEVIUS, 27-29.
- narro = dico, P 685.
- nē, asseverative, A 324, 772, 939, H 217.
- ne + inv., in prohibitions, A 384; + subj., with ellipsis (not prohibition), A 704, 706, H 292.
- ne, with infin. of exclamation, A 869; added to third word in sentence, P 612, to sixth word, P 518; with rel. pron., in condensed question, A 768, P 923; -ne . . . -ne, He 665.
- nebulo, E 269, 785.
- nec = non, in compound verbs, A 180; + subj. (prohibition?), A 392-393.
- necessus, A 372, E 998, H 360.
- nedum + subj., H 454.
- NEGATIVE, DOUBLE, A 205.

nemo homo, He 281, E 549.
 neque+infin. of exclamation, P 232-233, P 502-503; neque . . . et, E 965.
 nequeo quin, He 385.
 nequities vs. nequitia, H 481.
 nescio quis, A 340; nescio is dissyllabic in this phrase, A 350.
 NEUTER, EMPHATIC, A 219, 306, 464, 745, Ad 142, P 583.
 ne utiquam, A 330, H 357, He 125.
 NEW ATTIC COMEDY: see COMEDY.
 ni = non or ne, A 315.
 nil, emphatic, A 306, Ad 142.
 nil moror+acc., E 184.
 nil quicquam, A 90-91, P 80.
 ni mirum, E 508.
 nimium quantum, P 643.
 nisi, 'except that,' 'but' (after nescio), A 664, Ad 545, E 74, He 193, P 475.
 nisi si, Ad 594, A 249.
 nodum in scirpo quaeris, A 941.
 nollem factum, Ad 165; nollem huc exitum, Ad 775: nollem (factum), He 486-487.
 non in questions, P 384: non dum etiam, A 201, 807, He 192; non quo, 'not that,' E 28.
 NONIUS, writer of fabulae Atellanæ, 19.
 norimus, Ad 271.
 noster, A 846, Ad 883; nostrapte, P 766, nostrarum = nostrum, H 386.
 nullus = strong neg., A 370, E 216; = adv., He 79; nulli = nullius, A 608; nullus sum, A 599, P 940.
 num nam, A 591, H 517.
 numquam = strong neg., A 178; numquam etiam, E 360, 1030, 1092; numquam hodie, Ad 551. num quid nis (aliud)? E 191.
 nunciam, A 171, 424, Ad 156. nunc illud est, Ad 299; nunc quam mazume, A 823, Ad 518, P 204.

nuper, as quasi-adj., H 53.
 o+voc. emotional, A 267, 282, 318, Ad 256, 260; hiatus after, A 769, 817, Ad 183. obligation, subj. of: see MOODS, II, 4. obdo, 'close' (a door), E 603.
 obici, scansion of first syllable of, Ad 610.
 obsaturo+gen., H 869.
 obsequi+acc., P 79.
 obsonium, A 360, Ad 286.
 obtundo (sc. me, or auris meas), A 348, H 879.
 obuiam conari (uolui), P 52, 196.
 occipio, p. 316 (Ad 306).
 ocius in commands, A 724, 731.
 ohe iam, Ad 723, 767.
 OMISSION of verb, A 61, 82, 120, 634.
 omniā, 91, E 789, H 575, 942, P 248.
 operam do+neuter acc., A 157.
 oportuit+pf. infin., A 239, H 200, Ad 214.
 OPTATIVE SUBJ. IN REL. CL., Ad 519.
 opus, 'field work,' P 363.
 opus est+facto, etc., A 490, 523, Ad 601, He 104, P 584; with supine, A 490; with subject nom., Ad 625-626; quæ opus sunt, Ad 706; quod opus est, A 740, Ad 335.
 ORATIO OBLIQUA, indic. in rel. cl. in, P 17.
 ORCHESTRA: see THEATRE.
 ornati, E 237.
 oro cum, He 686.
 ORPHAN MAID, law concerning marriage of, at Athens, Ad 652.
 OXYMORON, H 323, P 587.
 paenitet, used personally, A 481-482.
 pallium, E 769, P 484.
 Pamphilā, Ad 619.

PAMPHILUS, character of, A 262, 882.

papae, E 279.

παρὰ προσδοκίαν joke, II 981.

PARATAXIS, A 45, 167, 673, P 594; see MOODS, II, 3.

parati, gen. sing., fourth declension, E 542.

partes, (theatrical) 'rôle,' E 151-152, II 1.

PARTICIPLE, perfect passive, used (a) as secondary predicate after reddam, dabo, etc.: A 683, 703, 864, E 212, H 760, 950, P 559, 974, Ad 849; (b) in abl. sing. neuter, with opus est, A 490, Ad 342, 429 (quid facto usus est), II 80; (c) in abl. sing. neut., used as adv.: optato, A 533, prae finito, He 94; (d) in impers. abl. absol.: peccato, H 737.

paucis, A 29.

paululum, A 360; for paululus as adj. see P 702.

paulus, as adj., A 266.

pauper vs. egens, P 363.

pax, II 291, 717.

peccato, impers. abl. absol., He 737.

PENULT, shortened, in certain words derived from Greek, A 796, P 339, 862.

per-, with adj., adv., verb, common in Terence, A 265.

perbenigne facis (dicis), in polite refusal, Ad 702.

perduint, II 811, P 123.

pereo, pass. of perdo, Ad. 134.

PERFECT, reduplicated, tetuli, A 808.

pergo + acc., He 194.

periculum, A 565, 'trial,' P 326.

PERINTHIA, play of Menander, used by Terence, p. 9, A 14.

PERIOCHA, 116, p. 3.

perliberalis, 'ladylike,' He 864.

persona, p. 4, p. 156.

Phaedriā, P 830, 865.

PHILEMON, 5, 10.

placabilis, with active force, Ad. 608.

PLAGIARISM charged against Terence, 50.

platēa, A 796.

PLAUTUS, life of, 30; extant plays of, 31; sources of, 32; relation to Greek models, 32-33; quality of plays of, 34; influenced by native Italian drama, 21, 32, by Epicharmus, 32; plays largely Roman or Italian in character, 32; relation of, to Menander, 10, to Philemon and Diphilos, 35; handled originals freely, A 19; strength of, 32, 36; imitations of, by modern writers, 35; contrasted with Terence, 49, 51, 56, 75, 87; characters in plays of, typical, 56; plays of, represented after his death, 54.

PLAYS AT ROME, given at ludi, 74; religious significance of, among Greeks, 74, among Romans, 74; division of, into acts, 57; by whom presented, 65; bought by actor-manager, He 57; no changes of scenery in, 60; acted through continuously, 57. See ACTORS; ACTS; AEDILES.

PLEONASM: nīl . . . quicquam, A 90-91, 306, He 261; ibi tum, A 106; nisi si, A 249; mulier meretrix, A 756; numquam . . . semper, Ad 293-294; nemo homo, E 549; anue, E 556; augescit magis, H 423; quoque etiam, He 543; nec . . . homo . . . quicquam, Ad 716-717.

plerique omnes, A 55, P 172.

POET, PAY OF, for play, 65.

pol. used by men and women, 65.

POLYXYNETON, Ad 64.

POMPONIUS, writer of fabulae Atellanae, 19.

popularis, 'fellow countryman (citizen),' P 35.

portitores, P 150.

POSITION, neglect of, 91-93.

possiem, Ad 877, possiet, P 313, 773.

postilla, P 347.

postquam, with causal force, P 1.

POTENTIAL SUBJUNCTIVE: see MOODS, II, 10.

potesse, E 666.

potior, of third conjugation, P 830, Ad Per 12; construction with, A 5, P 830.

potis, of all genders, impers., A 437; potis est, impers., Ad 626, E 263.

potuit, impers., Ad 568.

prae, causal, A 825.

praescripti, A 151.

PREPOSITION, monosyllabic, post-positive, P 523-524.

PRESENT TENSE, uses of: see TENSES.

PRISCIANUS, 116.

pro, in appeals, A 237; pro deum fidem, A 237.

PROCELEUSMATICUS in first foot, 76, Ad 35.

producere moram, A 615.

produx = produxisse, He 561.

PROHIBITIONS, forms for; ne + imv., A 384; ne + pf. subj., P 514.

PROLEPSIS, grammatical, A 377, 977, He 12, p. 213 (P 986).

PROLOGUE, made prominent by Euripides, p. 5; purpose of, in New Attic Comedy, 12, p. 4; in Terence, pp. 4, 5; in Plautus, p. 5; substitute for, in Terence, p. 9; commonly spoken by younger actor, pp. 5, 82, 83; of Terence, spoken by Ambivius Turpio, pp. 5, 82-83.

prólogos, A 5, He 9, P 14.

propino, E 1087.

PROSODY, 87-97. See FINAL SYLLA-

BLE LONG; FORMS, II, 8; SEMIHIATUS; PENULT.

πρόσωπον προτατικόν in Terence, p. 9, p. 159.

PROVERBS: A 427 omnis sibi malle melius esse quam alteri; Ad 537 lupus in fabula; Ad 761 Salus servare non potest; Ad 804 communis esse amicorum inter se omnia; E 426 lepus tute es, pulpamentum quaeris; E 381 istaec in me ceditur faba; P 78 aduorsum stimulum calces; P 79 uti foro; P 186 laterem lauem; P 203 fortis fortuna adiuvat; P 265 unum quom noris omnis noris; P 419 actum ne agas; P 454 quot homines tot sententiae; P 506 auribus teneo lupum; P 768 ita fugias ne praeter casam; P 1053 oculi dolent; omission of verb in, A 61.

provincia, 'task,' H 516, P 72.

-pte, strengthening suffix, P 766.

pudeo, used personally, A 481, 637, Ad 754; with gen. of person before whom one is ashamed, Ad 683, H 260, He 793, P 392.

pulchre, 'quite,' E 728.

pulto, 'knock,' at door, A 682.

PUNS, 218.

PURPOSE, expressed by gen. of gerund, Ad 270.

QUADRISYLLABIC WORDS, accent of, 90.

quaero + acc. (rem), Ad 482, H 994.

quaeso = quaero, A 487.

quaestus, 'gain-seeking occupation,' A 79, He 735; gen. sing. of, in form quaesti, He 735, 836.

quam facillume . . . tam maxume, Ad 501-503; quam maxume . . . tam facillume, H 997-998.

quantum potest (potes), A 861.

-que . . . et, A 676, Ad 64, E 876, P 1051.

QUESTION = a command, Ad 781; dependent, in indic., A 45.

qui, as abl., A 6, 302; in atqui, quippe qui, etc., A 148; = quo, Ad 950, H 778; = qua, A 402; = quibus, A 512; 'how,' A 501, Ad 179; 'why,' A 934; = quo in purpose cl., A 334; in wish or curse, P 123; quicum = quacum, Ad 477; quīs = quibus, A 630.

quia enim, P 332.

quid = quantum, H 458.

quid ais, A 137, 184, 301, 517, 575, 588, Ad 570; quid tu ais, A 137, E 474.

quid facias illi? A 143; quid illo facias? H 317.

quid istic? formula of surrender, A 572, E 171.

quid ni, A 315, H 907, Ad 466, 662, H 529 (separated here).

quidquid huius (part. gen.), E 202.

quiesco, in impersonal pass., A 691.

quin + second sing. pres. indic., in impatient questions, A 399, p. 80 (A 849); + imv., A 45, P 350, 486, 857, 935.

quin etiam insuper, E 645.

QUINTILIAN's judgment of Terence, 53.

(T.) QUINTIUS ATTA, 54.

quippe, scansion of, 95; quippe qui, H 538.

quis = aliquis, Ad 443.

quis = quibus: see qui.

quisquam, fem., E 678; in neg. sentences, Ad 161.

quita est, deponent form of queo, H 572.

quo . . . (eo), Ad 705.

quoad = ad quod tempus, P 148.

quod, 'as to the fact that,' A 395, Ad

986, E 1064, H 16, H 581, P 168; 'but,' 'wherefore,' A 289.

quod queo, 'so far as,' etc., Ad 423 (cf. H 416, H 760); quod queam, in like sense, H 760; quod sciam, 'so far as I know,' Ad 641.

quod, 'on account of which,' A 448, 738, H 676, P 1052.

quoniam, as adj., A 763, H 996.

quom, A 1; + indic. in early Latin, P 9; causal, + indic., A 422, H 483; concessive, + indic., A 144, + indic. or subj., P 23; explicative, 'that,' Ad 18, P 967, A 771, 623.

re vs. uerbis, A 824.

reapse, Ad 955, H 778.

RECITATIVE PASSAGES in Latin plays, 80, 84.

recta (uia), A 600, Ad 433, H 706, P 859.

redduc vs. redduce, A 559, 680, H 605, 698.

redduco, A 559.

REDUPLICATED PERFECT, tetuli, A 808.

RELATIVE CLAUSES, optative subj. in, Ad 519.

RELATIVE PRONOUN, not repeated in changed case form, Ad 85; attracted to case of antecedent, H 87.

relicuos, quadrisyllabic, A 25, P 37.

relinco, 'broach' (wine cask), H 460.

remitto + infin., A 827.

REPUTATING QUESTIONS: see MOODS, II, 9.

repudium, P 677.

resto = resisto, H 1009.

rex, 'patron,' P 70.

RHINTON, relation of Plautus to, 2.

ROMAN COMEDY: see COMEDY.

ROMAN THEATRE: see THEATRE.

ruo, transitive, Ad 319.

- s final, does not make position, 93.
 saepe est. . . quom, He 308-309, Ad 18.
 Salus, Ad 761.
 satine salue? E 978.
 satura, etymology and meaning of, 16.
 SATURNIAN VERSE, 20, 75; influence of, on Plautus and Terence, 87.
 scelus, 'rascal,' P 978.
 SCENERY: see THEATRE.
 SCENES, division into, recognized by Plautus and Terence, 62; noted in manuscripts, 62; begin within a verse, Ad 958.
 SCHOLIA ON TERENCE, 115.
 scibam, E 1004; scibo, A 38, Ad 361.
 scilicet, E 1040, H 358; + infin., H 856, 892-893. scribere dicam, P 127.
 scrupulum (inicare), A 940, Ad 228, P 954, 1019.
 sed et, Ad 40.
 segnitia, A 206, 207.
 SEMI-HIATUS, quī amant, A 191; mē ad, Ad 111; mē ubi, Ad 527.
 senecta, Ad 954.
 senex, carries stick (cane), Ad 782.
 sentio, 'feel to one's sorrow,' H 455.
 seorsum, dissyllabic, Ad 971.
 sermones cadere, H 242.
 SERVIUS, 116.
 SHIP, chartered by traveller, Ad 225.
 si. omitted, E 252.
 sicine, A 689, H 166.
 si dis placet, Ad 476.
 siet, A 234, Ad 282.
 siit (from sino), Ad 104.
 SILENCE, appeal to audience for, E 44.
 siletur, impers. pass., P 778.
 similis + gen., Ad 96, 411.
 SIMPLE VERB for compound, A 95, p. 317 (Ad 350), A 594, H 693, He 123.
 sin est ut, He 637, 501, P 925.
 sine omni, A 391.
 sino + paratactic subj., A 188.
 sis, E 311, H 212; + inv., H 369.
 si qui, Ad 521.
 si uis (not sīs), Ad 184.
 SLAVES, escort master home from banquet, etc., A 83, Ad 26, 27; flogging of, E 1021, P 220; actors commonly, 64; slave-actors wore red wigs, P 51, and soccus, H 124.
 socors + gen., Ad 695.
 sodes, A 85, P 103, 741. somnium, 'moonshine,' 'nonsense,' P 874.
 SOPHRON, writer of Greek mimes, 2.
 Sophronā, P 865.
 Sostratā, Ad 343.
 STAGE: see THEATRE.
 stare, 'succeed' (of author or play), He 15; stetūt, P 9; stat sententia, E 224.
 stataria (fabula), H 36.
 STATIUS: see CAECILIUS.
 statur, impers. pass., E 271.
 STICK carried by senex, Ad 782.
 SUBJECT OF INFIN. omitted, A 394, 401.
 sublimen, A 861, p. 80 (A 861), Ad 316.
 subolēre vs. subolōre, H 899.
 SULPICIUS APOLLINARIS, 116, p. 3.
 sum + adv., H 53.
 sumo = consumo, 'spend,' H 693.
 SUPINE in -u with opus est, A 490, H 941.
 supposuit, E 912, p. 155 (E 912).
 SUSARION, 2.
 suscipio = tollo, A 401.
 suspenso gradu, P 867.
 suspicari, H 268.
 SYLLABA ANCEPS at diaeresis, A 957.
 symbola, A 88, E 540.
 SYNALOEPHA, p. 59 (Introd.), n. 2.
 SYNZESIS, 96.

SYNTAX, fusion of, He 608; irregular, Ad 648, P 480-481.

talentum (magnum), P 644.

tali vs. tesserae, Ad 739.

te . . . amo, E 186, 882.

techina vs. τέχνη, H 471.

tennitur, p. 210 (P 330).

TENSES.

I. Present.

1. General notes on: A 379, 411, 594, 613.

2. Conative: Ad 144.

3. =future: A 186, Ad 435, 757, E 393, 485, 1058, H 502, 872, P 930; distinguished from future, A 322.

4. Pres. infin. after memini, P 74, after verbs of promising, etc., A 379.

II. Future.

1. =imv., p. 76 (A 204-205), H 833.

III. Perfect.

1. With iam dudum, iam pridem, He 219.

2. Pf. infin. with oportuit, Ad 214.

IV. Future Perfect, A 381, 456, 640, 892, H 108, He 138, P 681.

TERENCE, authorities for life of, 41; Suetonius on life of, 41; birthplace of, 42; a slave, 42, but not a prisoner of war, 42; nota Carthaginian, 42; meaning of his cognomen Afer, 42; date of birth of, 41; journey to Greece, 46; death of, 46; physical appearance of, 43; never mentions himself by name, A 1; moved in refined circles, 40; friends of, 43-45, H 24-25, Ad 15; enemies of, 45, 49 (see also LUSCIUS); charged with producing plays not his own, 45, with plagiarism, 59; relation of, to Greek models, 49, 40, Ad 11; adds matter of his own, H 6; created new characters not in Greek originals, p. 32; indifferent to general public, 44; Caesar's judgment of, 53; admired by Cicero, 53; Quintilian's judgment of, 53; rating of, by Volcatius Sedigitus, 26, 53; style of, admired in Augustan Age, 52; influence of, on Horace, 55; influence of, on literature and life, 55; modern imitations of, 55; plays of, 46-47, laid in Athens, 56; purpose of, in his plays, 49; some plays of, presented more than once in his lifetime, 47; plays of, successful in his life-time, but more popular after his death, 52; order of plays of, 47, p. 156; titles of Greek originals of plays of, 48; practised contaminatio, 48; characteristics of plays of, 51, 53; elegance and purity of language in plays of, 45, 52, 120; plots of, excellent, 51; good in narrative, He 816; lacks vis comica, 53; little variety in metres of, 75; editors of, 117-119; contrasted with Plautus: see PLAUTUS.

TETRAMETER, forms of, 82.

tesserae vs. tali, Ad 739.

tetuli, tetulit, A 808, 832.

THEATRE, Greek and Roman distinguished, 70-71; Roman, 68-73; attitude of Roman state toward, 68; stage, lacking in Greek theatre (?), 70, present in Roman, 70; side-entrance and exits of, 72; stage-setting in, 72, p. 256; stage left empty for a moment, H 170; orchestra of, 70; character of audience in, 73. See ACTORS; ALTAR. tibiae, 85-86, p. 2, p. 82, p. 252.

- tibicen, 85, H 872.
timeo + dat., A 210.
TIPS, H 300.
TMESIS, A 486, He 58.
tollo, of 'recognizing' child, A 219;
'bring up,' He 704.
tonstrina, lounging place, P 89.
tradier, Ad 200.
TRAGEDY, Greek, origin of, 1; Roman, 22-23.
transdo, P 2.
TRAVEL BY LAND, Ad 517.
tristities vs. tristitia, Ad 267.
TROCHAIC rhythms, 80-82.
tu homo, mi homo, A 778.
tu illum, Ad 97, A 191.
tum, illative, E 883.
(S.) TURPILIUS, 54.
TURPIO: see AMBIVTIUS.
uah, A 589, 688.
ualeas, in virtual curse, Ad 622; cf. ualeant qui, A 696.
uel, intensive, 'if you choose,' A 680; 'for example', A 489, E 397, H 806.
(quam) uellem mos esset, Ad 532; uellem furtum, H 815; rogasse uellem, H 978.
VERB, omission of, A 82.
uerba dare, 'impose on,' A 211, Ad 505, 621, E 24, H 735.
VERBAL NOUN in -io, A 400, He 650; construed with case, A 44, 400.
uerbero, P 684.
uereor + gen., P 971.
VERSE-END, forms preferred at, A 10; monosyllabic conjunctions and prepositions rare at, p. 76 (A 226).
VERSES spoken from upper window, E 810. uerum, 'yes,' Ad 543.
uestitu, dat., Ad 63, He 357.
uicem = inuicem, H 749; as quasi-preposition + gen., ibid.
uidua, H 952.
uir, 'husband,' A 295.
uirginē, Ad 346, uirginis (gen. sing.), Ad 958.
uiso vs. uideo, A 404, Ad 549.
uitium, P 215.
UMPFENBACH, 103, 118.
UNACCENTED SYLLABLE liable to shortening, 92.
nociuos (uociuus) vs. uacuos (uacuuus), A 706; + gen., H 90.
VOLCATIUS SEDIGITUS, 26; attitude of, toward Terence, 26, 53.
uolo + pf. infin., He 563; uolo obuiam (ire, uenire), P 196.
uolup, He 857, P 610.
uorsuram soluere, P 780.
uorto vs. uerto, p. 75.
uostrarum = nostrum, H 386.
usus est + pf. pass. prtepl., etc.: see PARTICIPLE, 1. (b). ut, with optative subjunctive, Ad 713-714; + subj., after uide, etc. omitted, H 617, 572; ut + subj. in repudiating questions: see MOODS, II, 9; with 'stipulative' subj., A 148; = utinam, H 810; uti ne in purpose clauses, A 259, 327, 699, Ad 626, P 245; ut ut, 'however,' Ad 248, 630, H 200 (but ut alone in this sense, P 820); (ut) aiunt, used to indicate the use of a proverb, A 805.
utier, P 603.
utor, construction with, Ad 815.
utrum . . . ne . . . an, Ad 382.
WORD-GROUPS, accent of, 89.

PA
6755

A2

1908a

Terentius Afer, Publius
Comedies 2d ed.

PLEASE DO NOT REMOVE CARDS OR SLIPS FROM THIS POCKET

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO LIBRARY

